SENATE IS STIRRED BY HOT DEBATE OVER MEXICAN SITUATION

Senator Fall, of New Mexico, Demands Passage of His Resolution to Give Full Protection to Americans

BACON URGES SENATE NOT TO ACT HASTILY

Fall Criticises Administration, Stone Favors Armed Invasion to Protect Americans and Their Rights

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Senator Fall, of New Mexico, today called up his resolution for the protection of American citizens in foreign countries. It refers to conditions in Mexico. Chairman Bacon, of the foreign relations committee, demanded that it be sent to that committee, so that its terms might be carefully weighed.

Senator Fall asked that it be passed at once, asserting that it was thoroughly understood by every senator.

"BACON CONSERVATIVE

Senator Bacon insisted that the people of the United States are in a grave position of responsibility "at this time, and any enunciation of principle such as this should be thoroughly considered."

Senator Bacon asked if the resolution did not mean that the United States should send an armed force into Mexico to protect American citizens.

Senator Stone, reviewing certain conditions in Mexico, declared he would favor sending an armed force.

Senator Williams maintained that a citizen of the United States has no constitutional rights in foreign countries. Amended, he thought, such a resolution ought to be passed "to strengthen the arm of the secretary of state."

Resolution in House Asks for Intervention

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Representative WILLIAM H. MURRAY, of Oklahoma, well known as "Alfalfa Bill," introduced an elaborate set of resolutions today, in which he invites the senate to concur, directing intervention in Mexico if orders and peace are not restored within thirty days after President Wilson sends a proclamation to that effect.

Murray charges that Mexican National President Huerta as a "usurping murderer, a black-hearted murderer, and his regime as founded upon treachery, duplicity and murder."

CABINET MEETING DELAYED.

The regular cabinet meeting slated for today did not take place because at the last moment it was discovered that most of the secretaries were out of town. President Wilson denied himself to callers and remained in his study, taking up state department reports and papers on the Mexican situation and considering the proposed Nicaraguan treaty.

Changes in the plans of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, now hurrying north from Mexico City, so that he will continue from Havana to New York by sea, instead of landing at Key West and proceeding by rail to Washington, are expected to make a day's difference in the time of the ambassador's arrival.

The conference at which Mr. Wilson is to lay before the president and Secretary Bryan a first-hand report of the situation in Mexico, upon which some important development may be based, probably will not take place before Saturday.

Meanwhile the situation, so far as the United States is concerned, seems to be unchanged.

Roosevelt Nominated For Mexic Ambassador

(By Associated Press.)

DENISON, Tex., July 22.—A telegram to President Wilson, recommending the appointment of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as ambassador to Mexico, protection to American citizens in Mexico, and steps by the United States "to aid by the assistance of our sister republic," was sent from here last night by a special trainload of Americans who have just made a trip through parts of the Rio Grande valley.

Its signers numbered fifty-four. They did not give their home addresses, but claimed to come from Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri and other states. They had been investigating land views-meets along the Texas-Mexican border.

No Demonstration Wanted by Japan

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Japan, through the Chinese diplomatic corps, has suggested to the Huerta government that it will not sanction any demonstration upon the part of the Japanese minister which might partake of a warlike character. The charge d'affaires said at the same time, however, that his government was pleased at the attitude of Mexican friendship.

Wire communication in a roundabout way has been established between the capital and Laredo. The first telegram to come through from Laredo was received late last night, being sent by the citizens there congratulating President Huerta on the progress of his administration.

The disappearance of the rebels from the railroads to the east and west of San Luis Potosi has enabled the authorities to reopen the lines to Arcuas Calientes and Tampico. The rebels on the main line of the National railway have moved farther south, however, and were reported last night at Tlaxcala, the first station north of San Luis.

WAS MARY PHAGAN KILLED WITH BLUDGEON?

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES

BLOODY STICK NOW IN POSSESSION OF FRANK'S ATTORNEYS

Was Found on May 10 by Two Pinkerton Detectives on the First Floor of the Pencil Factory

DEFENSE TO CLAIM NEGRO WIELDED THE INSTRUMENT

It Was Sent to Chemist Outside of State for Examination—Subpenas Issued for State's Witnesses

In the possession of the defense of Leo M. Frank is a bloody bludgeon with which it will the claimed at the trial, in all probability, that James Conley, the negro sweeper, struck Mary Phagan over the head while she battled on the first floor of the National Pencil factory for her life.

While it has been known for weeks that the defense of Frank will try to fix the crime on the negro, the claim that any weapon other than the negro's hands and the cords around his neck, were used, is an absolutely new development to the public, although the bloody stick, about an inch in diameter, has been in the possession of the defense since last May.

It is said that it was found in the factory on that date by two Pinkerton operatives, P. F. Whitfield and J. L. McWorth, who at that time were conducting a systematic search of the factory.

According to the story, which has come to The Journal on excellent authority, on May 9, after city detectives, factory employes, various private sleuths and quite a few curiosity seekers had searched for nearly two weeks without finding any new clues to throw light on the tragedy, Whitfield and McWorth, two of the Pinkerton operatives, who are on the Frank case, not appearing before the public, went to the factory for a new examination of the premises.

Atlanta's most sensational tragedy.

They started on the second floor, where the state maintains that Mary Phagan met her death, and spent the entire day going over that floor.

By the next day, May 10, the detectives had reached the third floor of the building. They went back by the boxes upon which Conley says he was while waiting for instructions from the factory superintendent. Some ten or fifteen feet past the boxes and considerably past the elevator shaft, by a door, and on top of some trash, the Pinkerton men found the bloody bludgeon, right by the spot where the part of a pay envelope with the name Mary Phagan written upon it lay.

EXAMINED BY CHEMIST.

Evidently the defense of Frank considers the end of the two months as important, for the story of the stick has been seriously guarded from the public. In addition, presumably to make certain that the fact of the existence of the stick would not reach the public, it was sent out of the state to a famous chemist, who made an analysis to determine whether or not the blood on the primitive weapon was that of a human or an animal. The examination is said to have shown it to be the former.

That Mary Phagan was knocked in the head as well as choked and her body thrown or carried down the elevator shaft on the fatal Saturday is believed to be the theory of the defense.

SUBPOENAS ISSUED.

An indication that the state thinks the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged by a grand jury indictment with the murder of Mary Phagan on April 26, will soon

Former Congressman Denies "Lobbyist's" Accusations That While in House He Was Retained

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Martin M. Mulhall today retracted his charge against Representative Watson, of Indiana.

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—"When Martin Mulhall, or by whatever name he is known, and I understand he has been known by many names, swears that he or any other man paid me $500 while I was a member of congress to represent the national manufacturers or any other organization, he lies, and I will have him indicted for it if I can accomplish that result," said former Representative James E. Watson, of Indiana, today.

The former representative was today in consultation with one of the ablest Washington lawyers to retain him to prosecute Mulhall. This was the result of the testimony given by Mulhall yesterday that he hired former Congressman Watson by paying him a retainer of $500, while he was still in congress.

The former congressman said today that he was retained in April after his term in congress had expired. He said that a committee of one hundred of the National Association of Manufacturers, created by a national convention in Indianapolis, wired to him asking him to come to Washington, and engaged him to take up the work for them. Mulhall, he declares, had nothing to do with his retention. He claims he has witnesses waiting in Washington who will impeach Mulhall on other vital points in his testimony. He is mad clear through.

The former representative has retained lawyers and friends to proceed against newspapers for libel that attribute to him conduct unworthy or corrupt, as the result of his work, which he claims is above criticism. He named a prominent western publisher who in editorials had referred to him in what he contends is libelous phrase, whom he says he will proceed against, both criminally and civilly without delay.

"It was learned today authoritatively that Mulhall was under investigation following his dismissal from the United States secret service, where he served under the name of "Michael," not Martin Mulhall, in the administration of President Harrison. Three investigations were held and each report was adverse to him and he was refused reinstatement.

The secret service has sent to the senate lobby committee, at the committee's request, the report of these investigations, which the committee has not yet made public. The report shows that Mulhall was twice an enlisted man in the navy. He has had a most remarkable career. Governor Levi P. Morton was once asked to appoint him as factory inspector in New York, but, learning of the record in the treasury department, asked for a certification of the record from the treasury department. Receiving it Governor Morton refused to appoint him.

NO CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Attorneys for the National Association of Manufacturers were not permitted to cross-examine Martin M. Mulhall, the confessed lobbyist, before the senate lobbying committee.

When Attorney Robert McCarter, for the manufacturers, today suggested cross-examination of Mulhall, on his story that former Representative James E. Watson, of Indiana, had been paid a retainer of $500 and a weekly salary of

Attorney General, Answering Governor Slaton's Inquiry, Says State Can Borrow Funds Up to $500,000

As the result of an opinion rendered Governor Slaton by Attorney General T. S. Felder Tuesday morning, the school teachers of the state stand a good chance to obtain a portion of their unpaid 1912 salaries within the next sixty days.

Replying to a series of questions propounded to him by the governor, Attorney General T. S. Felder rules that since the adoption last year of a constitutional amendment increasing the borrowing power of the state from $200,000 to $500,000 to supply temporary deficits the state "can unquestionably borrow for the purpose of meeting a deficiency arising because the appropriations exceed the revenues, provided, of course, the deficiency is caused by the necessary delay in collecting the taxes of the year, and that the loan made for the purpose of meeting the deficiency is repaid out of the taxes levied for the year in which the loan is made.

"Prior to the adoption of the amendment it was very questionable whether a borrow could be made for the purpose of supplying a deficiency of the character you mention. We know, of course, that it was done, and while this was the executive construction of the constitution, it is extremely doubtful if the judicial department of our government would have followed such construction had the question been presented to it."

After receiving the attorney general's letter Tuesday morning, Governor Slaton said that he would transmit to the general assembly both his own letter to the attorney general and the latter's opinion on the law.

Several resolutions have been introduced at this session designed to authorize the governor to borrow money with which to pay the school teachers and to meet other anticipated deficits. In the event the legislature authorizes a borrow Governor Slaton says he will go into the money market and negotiate a loan provided one can be obtained at a reasonable rate of interest.

Answering another one of the questions put to him by the governor, Attorney General Felder says:

"Under the constitution as amended I think money can be borrowed to meet appropriations which have been made for the institutions of the state, if at the time there is a deficit in the treasury caused from the necessary delay in the collection of the taxes of the particular year in which it is proposed to make the borrow, and that the loan so made can be repaid out of said taxes when collected. In other words, if it would be legal to borrow for a particular appropriation were the funds then actually in the treasury from the collection of the taxes levied for the particular year, then the collection of the taxes may be anticipated and the money borrowed to meet the deficit. Under the constitution as it stood before the amendment the loan could not be made for any purpose except to meet a casual deficiency."

ALL GOVERNMENT CLERKS MUST PAY THEIR DEBTS

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Clerks in the government departments either must pay their debts or resign their jobs. The latest department to emphasize this order is the war department, and an order signed by Secretary Garrison is being handed to all the employes today. The order says that "creditors and collectors will be denied cause to employes" during office hours and that "persistent violators of this order will be dealt with as a matter of discipline."

M'KEE MAY BE REMOVED WITHIN NEXT 30 DAYS

Report of Inspection of Atlanta Postoffice Filed—Early Changes Expected

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—The inspection of the Atlanta postoffice has been completed and the report is now in the hands of First Assistant Postmaster General Daniel G. Roper, awaiting his consideration.

As a result of the inspection it is stated on reliable authority that Postmaster Hugh L. McKee and Assistant Postmaster DeWitt C. Cole will be succeeded within thirty days by officials to be named by the postoffice department.

Senator Hoke Smith will recommend the nomination of Bolling Jones as postmaster, and the assistant probably will be picked from among the clerks on the eligible list, as the place is covered by the civil service regulations.

While First Assistant Postmaster General Roper today declined to discuss the report of the inspectors, who made a careful and painstaking investigation of the Atlanta office, it is understood that the report charges both McKee and Cole with general lack of proficiency in the management of the office, and recommends an immediate change for the good of the service.

Postmaster McKee was in Washington last week in conference with the first assistant postmaster general, and it is reported that he came to defend himself against the charges of the inspector. Mr. Roper stated today, however, that Mr. McKee stopped in Washington en route to New York only to pay his respects to the officials of the department.

"I haven't taken up the report on the Atlanta office," said Mr. Roper. "I cannot say when I will reach it, but I hope to give it consideration at an early date. The same is true of the report on the Savannah postoffice, which also was inspected."

Postmaster McKee's term ordinarily would not expire until next year and the tenure of the assistant postmaster ordinarily is given indefinite periods. Mr. Cole came to Atlanta as assistant postmaster shortly following Mr. McKee's appointment. Prior to that time he had served as postmaster in Marietta, where he now lives.

In the event First Assistant Postmaster General Roper agrees upon the report against Messrs. McKee and Cole it is believed it will do, also, "the trick" will be passed along to Postmaster Burleson. If he follows the usual course he will ask for the resignation of Mr. McKee's resignation as he did in the case of H. S. Edwards, the Macon postmaster.

Should the resignation be not forthcoming, the usual procedure would be for the postmaster general to recommend to the president the appointment of a successor, and the confirmation of the man named by the president would be an easy matter against Mr. McKee.

The investigation of the Atlanta postoffice was ordered some weeks ago by the postoffice department, as was indicated in the dispatches. It was predicated immediately upon charges of inefficient service, lack of discipline among the clerks, and general dissatisfaction with the service in Atlanta.

Postmaster McKee was out of town Tuesday, and Assistant Postmaster Cole was out in his office when seen late Tuesday afternoon.

EMPLOYES OF CITY HALL NEED AN "EMERGENCY" FUND

For What? Well, if You Went Up Against the Appeals for Church, Charity and Miscellaneous Contributions for About a Week, You'd Know, According to Walter Taylor

Be it resolved, by all the employes of the city hall, that some influential member of council be requested to introduce a resolution providing an emergency fund on which said employes may draw when "touched" for contributions to church, charity and private penury.

Not that the employes are niggardly or indisposed to give to church and charity, but the requests are so many, that if they gave to all they would exhaust their salaries.

"It's a fact," said City Clerk Walter Taylor, as he flipped a letter across the desk in which a "thank-you-in-advance" South Carolinian besought financial aid in rebuilding his church. "If we responded to every request for donations we would have no money at all at the end of the month. Now that man says his church was struck by lightning, and that if I will help him to rebuild it, the Lord will bless me. What I want to tell him is that if the Lord struck it by lightning, He probably knew what He wanted, and the man had better let things be. But instead, I am sending him a polite answer declaring there are so many churches in Atlanta it takes all my money to help them along.

"Why," he resumed with new impetus, "they come in here trying to sell us tickets to some cream festival tickets in the dead of winter, when the heat's all off, and we are shivering in our shoes. Or some man wants us to buy tickets for repeats, tells us we're sure to enjoy it because his little girl's going to recite.

"One woman proffered tickets the other day, asking me to buy. She said I would find a lot of fun because her little girl was going to recite 'I Am Mad.' I told her that little girl might not be, but that all of us would surely be if we had to sit through it, and the lady left in a huff.

"But the climax of them all was Monday. Just after council adjourned, a wavering-footed man elbowed his way to the front of the crowd, and said a dirty smell and said: 'Is there a man in this crowd who will lend me a dime until tomorrow on this piece of poetry?' It was three stanzas long, but nobody responded and he muttered something on their lack of poetic appreciation. He would be borrower mean."

COUNCIL APPROVES A PUBLIC COMFORT PLACE

Captain Clayton at Work Estimating Cost of Construction of Structure

With the passage of a resolution by city council, Monday afternoon, authorizing the mayor to appoint three council members to act with the chamber of commerce in investigating the project of a public comfort building and reporting to council upon the suggestion—with that action by council, the city government gave its formal recognition to the important movement.

A meeting of that joint committee will be called as soon as Mayor Woodward names the councilmen who are to serve on it. And at that meeting the first steps will be taken to work out an effective plan for financing the matter at once, and a central location for the building itself will be selected or the selection will be taken in hand.

L. C. Green is the chairman of the chamber of commerce committee appointed specially for this movement.

"Captain Clayton, the city engineer, already is at work on estimates of cost of construction, etc.," said Mr. Green, Tuesday. "He will be ready to appear before the committee with definite figures as soon as the committee is ready to hear from him."

Mr. Green has sent out voluntarily a large number of inquiries to Atlanta citizens, submitting the plan for a public comfort building to them for their comment, and has received 1,090 or more responses, all commending the move most highly. These responses have come from professional men, business men, and citizens in every other walk of life.

Mr. Green's fellow members on the committee are J. K. Orr, J. Lee Barnes, Joseph A. McCord and F. C. McDuffie.

Haralson Blackley, the architect, has submitted to the chamber of commerce committee tentative plans for the structure. Every member of the committee is interested actively in the matter, and they and other enthusiastic co-workers are inclined to believe that early success is in sight and that the building may be in process of construction before the end of the year.

MILITANTS BUSY WITH TORCH OVER IN ENGLAND

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 22.—A militant suffragette "arson squad" early today set fire to a large decorated mansion at Perry Bar, near Birmingham. It burned to the ground.

Placards were posted in the vicinity bearing the words, "Arson squad is in the field."

A Farm Finder

"For years we had yearned for a little farm in the country, where the children could get the pure air of the fields, especially our little Mary, who has never been a strong child, but until a few weeks ago we never thought we could afford to buy one.

"One day my wife read a Journal Want Ad telling of a man who had a nice little farm, within three-quarters of an hour's ride of the city, and, on investigation, we discovered it was just the place we had so long wanted. The price was lower than I had ever dared hope for, too. So now we have a home, our new country home and Mary is showing the good effects of the country air already."

Here in healthful, happy surroundings a family is living the kind of life which is ideal for its members, and all the time the farm is growing in value. Eventually it will make city lots.

It pays to read Journal Want Ads every day.

HAYDEN TURNS LOOSE DIGGS-CAMINETTI CASE

Resigns, He Says, Because He Must Be Absent From California Often

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Thomas E. Hayden, of San Francisco, assistant counsel for the government vs. Diggs-Caminetti in the white slave case, against whom vigorous protests recently were made on the ground that he was too inexperienced as a criminal lawyer to participate in the case, today tendered his resignation to Attorney General McReynolds.

Hayden asked to be relieved because, he said, he found he would be absent from California a good part of the trial. The case will be prosecuted by Attorneys Sullivan and Roche, the government's principal counsel.

Colonel Jesus Carranza said today that he believes Americans will find the reports about atrocities at Durango to have been exaggerated. Governor Carranza, he said, has given positive orders to protect lives and property of all foreigners and has punished severely all violations of these orders which his authority could reach.

At Sabinas, near here, there are 1,000 refugees from Monclova, most of them living in box cars on constitutionalist rations. So far as known no Americans are among these. Constitutionalist soldiers here appear well fed and are abundantly supplied with arms and ammunition.

BLOODY STICK NOW IN POSSESSION OF FRANK'S ATTORNEYS

ally come to trial on next Monday is the fact that already the majority of the state's witnesses have been subpoenaed.

While Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey and the attaches of his office, who are serving the subpoenaes, refused to divulge the names of the witnesses or their exact number, it is said that about seventy-five witnesses, many of whom may not be used, will be called to the trial.

It is known that the defense has approximately 100 witnesses, many of whom will testify simply to the good character of the defendant in event the defense decides to put his character in issue. As counsel for the defense refuses to divulge any information relative to its plans for the trial, it is not known whether or not subpoenas on the Frank witnesses have yet been served.

The reason for serving the witnesses a week before the date set for the trial is that after they have once been served they will be in contempt of court in event they fail to appear in the court room when the case is called.

Although there is a strong probability of a postponement of the case, court attaches are going ahead with preparations to hold the trial Monday in the court room on the first floor of the old city hall building.

FANS INSTALLED.

Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor, who will be in charge of the court room during the trial of the case, has already ordered a dozen electric fans, which will be installed in the court room.

Like all trials the hearing of the Frank case will be public, but Deputy Sheriff Minor states that when all of the seats in the court room have been occupied the doors will be quickly closed in order that the comfort of the judge, jury and attorneys will not be jeopardized by an overcrowded room.

Judge L. S. Roan, who will preside at the Frank trial, is holding court this week in Covington, so the drawing of the venire from which the twelve jurors to try Frank will be chosen, will fall to Judge John T. Pendleton, of the superior court.

The venire will be drawn in open court on next Thursday and it will precipitate another pre-trial clash between Solicitor Dorsey and Frank A. Hooper for the state, and Attorneys Luther Z. Rosser and Reuben R. Arnold for the defense.

The defense will ask that the venire men be drawn from the grand jury box, and this move will be bitterly opposed by the solicitor general. The prosecuting official will ask that the venire, which will consist of 150 men, be drawn from the regular petit jury list.

The solicitor general is certain to take a strong stand against any postponement of the trial.

ONE GIRL PUTS UP 4,000 CANS OF FRUIT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 22.—The reports from the Boys' Corn club and the Girls' Canning club show that the school girls in Lowndes county are putting up many thousands of cans of vegetables, fruits, etc., and that all of the girls together will probably put up more canned goods this year than are usually sold in all of the stores of Valdosta during the year.

One little girl in the Ousley district has already put up over 4,000 cans of fruits and vegetables. Two sisters in the Bethany district have put up 1,900 cans each, while all of the girls have put up from several dozens into the hundreds of cans. There are a large number of girls in all of the district domestic canning club work. Their exhibits of canned goods at the county fair next fall is going to be a very fine one. The stockholders are certainly highly pleased at the showing which is being made by the instructors in this department.

EDITORS OF GEORGIA GATHER AT LAGRANGE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 22.—A record-breaking attendance of Georgia editors came into LaGrange last night in order to be on hand for the first meeting of the association this morning at 9:30.

About 125 delegates arrived last night and more are arriving on every train this morning, and it is believed that the attendance this year will run around the 150 mark or nearly double any mark ever reached in the history of the association.

The interest in the present meeting and large attendance is attributed largely to the desire of the editors of the state to see LaGrange and get information in regard to the remarkable progress of the town in order to transmit the information to the people of their home towns.

Governor John M. Slaton is expected early tomorrow morning and will be accompanied by Mrs. Slaton.

Among the other prominent visitors who are expected to arrive today, having accepted the invitation of the LaGrange chamber of commerce to be on hand of the banquet Wednesday night, are: W. H. Leahy, general passenger agent, Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad; St. Elmo Massengale, of the Massengale Advertising agency; Ernest Dallis, of the Dallis-Johnson Advertising agency; James R. Gray, editor of The Atlanta Journal; Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution; C. B. Rhodes, general passenger agent, Macon and Birmingham railroad; J. F. Billups, general passenger agent, Atlanta and West Point railroad, together with some fifteen or twenty other visitors.

$250 to work for the passage of a tariff commission bill with a promise of an additional $10,000 if the bill was successful, Senator Reed declared himself against cross-examination, but proposed that questions be submitted to the committee. The point was not finally decided.

Mulhall today swore that he drew $500 from a Baltimore bank to be paid to Watson.

Mulhall swore that Watson had made the office of James A. Emery here his headquarters after he was defeated for governor of Indiana in 1908. Emery, Mulhall swore, was the "chief lobbyist" for the manufacturers. The witness declared today that former Senator Hemenway, of Indiana, occupied rooms next to Emery and that Watson was in our office or the other much of the time.

"WAR LIST" OFFERED.

A "war list" including six congressmen, said to have been marked for defeat by former Speaker Cannon and former Representative James E. Watson, was offered in evidence today by Mulhall.

Augustus P. Gardner, of Massachusetts; Gilbert N. Haugen, of Iowa; Victor Murdock, of Kansas; E. A. Morse, J. M. Nelson and Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, were the marked six. Mulhall on March 17, 1909, wrote Secretary Schwedtman, of the manufacturers, to that effect.

Names of a dozen other congressmen marked for "war" and which have been included in other Mulhall lists, were included.

COLUMBIA PRESIDENT DISCUSSES THE CANAL

Urges Importance of an Understanding With the United States

(By Associated Press.)

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 22.—References to the Panama canal occupied a prominent place in President Carlos E. Restrepo's annual message today to the Colombian congress.

The president said that the approaching completion of the canal, the development of the country at large and the special interests of the coast provinces rendered daily more important an understanding with the United States.

"The Colombian government," he continued, "has refused the propositions made by James T. Du Bois, the United States minister, as not affording that reparation and satisfaction desired by the nation."

The new administration at Washington has inspired the Colombian people with great hopes. After the arrival of the new American minister, Thaddeus Thompson, the president hopes to submit satisfactory terms for a settlement of the Panama affair to this congress.

LINER CROSSES ATLANTIC WITHOUT AID OF SUN

LONDON, July 22.—Skies were so leaden all the way across the Atlantic during the past week that the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which arrived at Plymouth yesterday, made the entire voyage by dead reckoning. The weather was misty and for the entire 3,000 miles from New York not a glimpse could be caught of the sun for nautical observations.

Primitive methods of navigation and wireless reports from other steamers served to keep the big liner from getting lost, however, and she reached port without mishap. Her experience, however, is a rare one.

THE three citizens of Fulton county to whom was referred the petition to change a "public way" into a public road, have reported favorably upon the petition of Mrs. Clark Howell and Mr. Howell, and the road in question is to be made as follows: Beginning at a point south about 2,000 feet in a southeasterly direction from the southeast corner of the house of Mr. Howell and Mr. Wyndham, and to be made as extension of Hemphill avenue and to be fifty feet wide. In my opinion, as to my report, this is the proper way. The petition will be granted at a meeting of the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Fulton county to be held Wednesday, August 6, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m., if no good and sufficient cause to the contrary is shown.

He says he had only a few chapters left in the Bible when he was released. He said his captors ate others but little to eat themselves, but always shared equally with him. He was held for ransom. He was released without paying a cent. Demands by American consular agents failed.
