Mrs. Pomeroy, who had been out shopping, returned to her home at 44 Kennesaw avenue, shortly after nightfall. She hurried upstairs to throw off her wraps in a front bedroom. As she walked down the hallway, her footsteps silenced by the heavy carpet, she no-ticed a movement of a set of portieres that were suspended over the double doorway entrance to the sitting room. She stopped and saw the form of a man secreted behind the curtains. Another man was crouched in a dark corner of the room. Without the slightest intimation that she had seen either of the intruders or was aware of their presence, Mrs. Pomeroy proceeded to the next room, opened the door slight-ly, then retraced her steps to the stair-

"SOCIETY NIGHT" IS UNBOUNDED SUCCESS

New Fall Styles Worn by the Ladies Vie With New Models of Autos-Today's Concert Programs.

Society placed its stamp of approval on the new 1914 model automobiles or exhibition at Atlanta's million-dolla: automobile show at the Auditorium Armory Thursday evening, which was "society night"

Both Sousa's concerts and the offerings of the automobile men were enthusiastically received.

A more fastidious and discriminat-ing assemblage, perhaps, never at-tended an automobile show anywhere than that which saw the show Thursday night. They were of the mos representative social, business and pro-fessional leaders of Atlanta people who know when an automobile as well as a show and its attractions measure up to "scratch." On all sides were to be heard nothing but compliments for the new models and for the great show which the automobile men of Atlanta have staged.

It was stated—and not merely on the word of an agent in charge of a booth—that a number of sales were made last night to leading society and business people, and in a short time a large number of well-known faces will probably be seen on Peachtree street in the niftlest 1914 models. automobile men made preparations for society at the show Thursday evening. All of them had attractive souverirs to give away, and no fair lady was there but toyed with some frivolous trinket that proclaimed the merits of a new car. All of the booths were spick and span. Beautiful tables and chairs had been placed in them, and there were handsome vases of roses and chrysanthemums to enhance the beauty of each. One or two exhibits gave away several thousand roses to the ladies.

Society icturned the compliment by turning out in flattering numbers, and all dressed in regalla wonderfully and fearfully made. Truly, the 1914-model gowns of the fastidious fair ones were serious tivals of the peauty of the new designs of the automobiles.

In the boxes or loitering from exhibit to exhibit were the most prominent people of the city.

President Had Prepared the Statement, But Withheld It When He Learned That Huerta Was Toppling.

Washington, November 13 .-- United support from the great powers abroad for the American policy toward Mexico shown in a variety of quiet diplomatic activities, gave President Wilson and Secretary Bryan a confident feeling today that the elimination of General Victoriano Huerta as provisional president of Mexico soon would be an accomplished fact.

That the financial blockade instituted by the United States had effectively tied the purse strings of Europe, that diplomatic pressure was being exerted incessantly on all sides at Mexico City, that close friends of Huerta were applying their influence, and persistent reports saying Huerta had gone into mysterious seclusion raised the hopes of the Washington government that at last it was making definite progress to-Engineers, Firemen, Train- ward solving the Mexican problem.

Mexico City, November 13.-Members of President Huerta's official family are working diligently for the reopening of the negotiations and claim to have the consent of General Huerta to make concessions which they believe will be satisfactory to the United States.

The Mexican minister of interior, Manual Garza Aldape, saw Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, late today and appealed to him to do all in his power to induce his government to withhold action until the Mexican officials could communicate with Mr. Lind, now at Vera Cruz. He based his appeal on the allegation that they were unable yesterday to get in touch with General Huerta in order to present to him Mr. Lind's communication.

Among those who escaped with minor injuries was Jefferson D. Clayton, a wealthy Alabamian and brother of United States Representative Henry D. Clayton, of this state.

A broken rail is said to have been the cause of the accident. As the crowded excursion train rounded a curve the three cars at the rear, literally packed with passengers, suddenly left the track, and, breaking away from the others, dashed down the steep embankment. The wrecked coaches were practically demolished. Shrieks and groans of the mjured rose above the rending crash of splintering timbers.

The Work of Rescue.

Occupants of the two coaches which remained on the rails immediately bent their efforts to rescuing the hundreds who were caught in the tangled mass of wreckage. Word of the disaster quickly reached Clayton, Alambering nurses and surgeons, were quickly dispatched from Ozark and Enfant where most of the dead and injured later were taken.

Many of the victims were cared for at Clayton, where the citizens turned their residences into emergency hospitals. Every physician within a radius of many miles hurried to the scene of the wreck and assisted in caring for the wounded. So large was the number of victims, however, that available space at Clayton soon was exhausted, and many had to be placed on cots on porches and in front yards.

He explained that, not understanding railway regulations, he had missed several trains. He had previously admitted to G. A. Griffin, paymaster's clerk of the Utah, whom he met at Ventimglia, that he would not be able to arrange matters satisfactorily.

Another influence that is expected to contribute to Huerta's overthrow is the extension of moral support to the constitutionalists. If pressed to the extremity, the American government will lift the embargo on arms to aid the constitutionalists in composing the situation, but there is still a hopefulness among high officials that such a step will prove unnecessary.

LIVELY CONTEST FOR. MARBLE CO. RECEIVER

There will be a lively contest among the creditors of the Fairburn Marble company, with two factions backing rival candidates for trustee, at the first meeting of the creditors, which will be held before Alvin D. Freeman, referee in bankruptcy, in Fairburn this morning. The marble and tool corporations, which were the chief losers when the Fairburn Marble company recently failed for $40,000 with assets of but $15,000, are determined that an experienced granite man shall be selected as trustee, and are predicting the election of R. M. Marshman over Dr. Hopgood, the acting trustee.

Among the Fairburn contingent the election of a local candidate, and in all probability the re-election of Dr. Hopgood, is anticipated. R. M. Marshman, of the Winsborough Granite company, is being urged by nearly all the out-of-town creditors, who are banking on his reputation as an expert granite man, to rehabilitate the defunct granite company.

Memorial to General Conference Will Be Considered at Conference at Elberton.

New York. November 13.—A miniature battle was fought under the shadow of Brooklyn bridge just after midnight this morning, when detectives concealed aboard barges, and policemen in launches, exchanged shots with armed river pirates. Four detectives were injured, but three pirates were captured and three motor boats loaded with stolen coffee were recovered. Watch had been set because the New York Dock company complained that coffee valued at more than $2,500 had been stolen during the last two nights from their barges in the East river Early this morning three large motor boats, with engines muffled, were seen to draw up alongside one of the coffee barges. Three men climbed aboard the barge and began to throw bags of coffee into their motor boats.

The hidden detectives ordered the men to throw up their hands, but in stead each drew a revolver and began to blaze away. The detectives closed in, however, and a hand-to-hand fight ensued, during which one of the detectives was thrown into the river and three others were slightly wounded. One of the pirates succeeded in getting they battery at full speed when two police luunches intercepted him and effected a capture. The other prisoners were taken on boatd the barge. They gave their names as Albert Brecknel Charles McNell and Andrew Johnson, all of Jersey City, and each of the men was over 19 years old. ### BRAVE WOMAN DEFIES STRIKING CHAUFFEURS

New York, November 13 —Mrs Catherine Haverty, who for four years has been conducting a taxicab business, left without a head when her husband died, defied her sixty striking chauffeurs today by sending out her cars with twenty nonunion drivers. She decided even to ride herself on the front seat of the first car out of the garage, notwithstanding that she believed the strikers contemplated violence.

Anticipating trouble, the police arranged to give Mrs. Haverty and her nonunion men ample protection. Mrs. Haverty asserts that her late husband aided with money and advice the operation of the union that is now threatening to ruin her, and which she declares has depreciated her property from $150,000 to $50,000. She was ill, she asserts, at the time her agreement with the union expired on November 1, and few days until she might be able to discuss terms.

The opportunity you're offered now doesn't come often. Seldom do you participate in genuine reductions on high class wearables at this season of the year, and were not conditions just as they are with us, certainly we, too, would not offer them at reduced prices.

Our feeling in the matter would nearer prompt us to apologize rather than gloat over the fact of reducing prices in mid season--it's a little unethical, to say the least--and only extenuating circumstances, you may be sure, make it necessary. The necessity for it, however, is evident and the shrewd and unskeptical are profiting immensely.

AMERICA LOOKS TO GEORGIA.

The entire nation looks to Georgia and the south for their deciding impulses to prosperity. That is the message brought to Atlanta by Frank J. Campbell, president of the Detroit Advertising Agency. Authority attaches to Mr. Campbell's statements. In his business capacity he visits constantly every part of the country. He is intimately in touch with financial and commercial conditions. He is an expert in gauging conditions. It is his business to be accurately informed.

What Mr. Campbell says simply bears out the reiterated contention of The Constitution regarding the supreme financial position occupied by this state and the states surrounding.

Beginning with last August, we pointed out that during the opening fiscal year Georgia would be the center of prosperity for America. The strategic handicap in the matter of this year's cotton crop was the cause. The western zone had suffered depreciation sufficient to keep the total output of the cotton belt well under the dimensions of world demand. The eastern belt had approximated a normal crop. The western slump assured high and uniform prices. The eastern average assured good prices for this section. On top of this was the fact that Georgia, relatively, produced the biggest crop of any southern state. It was, therefore, simply a matter of arithmetic to figure that Georgia was so situated as to skim the cream of an unusual situation.

That reasoning has been faithfully borne out. The state is overflowing with money. The country banks are busied with old and new deposits. Debts are being cancelled, and the money thus turned loose is filtering, with its vitalizing influence, into every trade and economic channel.

No wonder the rest of the nation looks to Georgia, where this process reaches its climax, and to those other southern states fortunate in comparative degree.

The people of Georgia, the farmers and the business men, enjoy a preferential position at the prosperity counter. They have the first privilege to fill their bashets. They are blessed above all America.

THE AMBUSHED GOSSIP.

The late Alfred Wallace, premier English scientist, was wise in his day and generation. He was co-discoverer, with Darwin of the theory of evolution. Toward the end of his life he gave utterance to what the more shallow-thinking persons regarded as a pessimistic statement. He said that he saw little change in humanity since the garden of Eden.

Out in a little Missouri town a woman has killed herself because of gossip. Prying neighbors thought her life was not what it should have been. They pursued her with that deadly weapon, the tongue of slander. And the inducements of life finally became less impelling than its tribulations. The result is written in news dispatches. in the larger aspects the English scientist was wrong. Humanity, or at least its civilization, has progressed. Many of its folbles and less lovable traits remain For instance, gossip. Had this Missouri woman. lived in the stone age they would have driven her from the cave to the jungle, or perhaps have tortured her to death. Living in the twentieth century, they used the subtler weapon of ambushed gossip. Strange that an age which gives birth to such generous works of charity and such colossal schemes for betterment should still tolerate this little sneaking worm of gossip that gnaws in the dark. With all our for well look away.

ward-looking goodness, we need yet to learn finer lessons in tolerance and forbearance. It is popular to indict the small town exclusively with the shortcoming. But' the city social circle is not less free from this relic of unthinking cruelty.

A CHILDISH CONTROVERSY.

The wholly idiotic but dangerous issue of class prejudice was injected into the meeting of the National Good Roads association at St. Louis, as it was in the American Road congress at Detroit. Bickering raged for some time around the childish point as to whether good roads were for the "benefit of joy riders or farmers." Recommendations as to a federal appropriation were, of course, contingent upon the decision.

It is such foolish differences as these that split the advocates of good roads and prevent them getting action from congress. It is just as sensible to argue that the streets of a city are built for pleasure riding alone as it is to advocate a rural road-building policy with the solitary aim in view, and vice versa. The streets in a city are constructed and maintained for no one class. They are for the use of all, whether for the purposes of recreation or for the stern necessities of a city's traffic. And the identical reasoning applies to the roads in the country districts.

It is just about time that the bogie of the joy-rider, fashioned, we suspect, to drag a red herring adross the trail or to revive ignorant prejudices even now dying, were laid for all time. In Georgia, as in every state, where auto riders profit 1 per cent from good trunk highways, farmers on the local links profit 99 per cent. On the road between Atlanta and Macon, for instance, there is fairly brisk auto traffic. But to one pleasure driving automobile using it there are perhaps five hundred farmers, scattered along through the counties connecting the two cities, whose comfort and convenience are distinctly served by the road.

Between Macon and Albany the highway bisects a territory that has come to be known as the banner good roads section of Georgia. And land values in the intervening counties have been tremendously enhanced by good roads. Good roads, the cause; prosperity, the effect. The connection is proven and invariable.

The advocates of systematic and scientific trunk lines from county to county and state to state contend, and logically, that they are building upon a predetermined plan and not one of a scatterbore description. They are building as one builds the streets of a city, first the trunk streets, then the laterals, to feed the trunk streets. Or like a waterworks system, first the water mains. then the laterals to distribute the water. Set in to build the laterals first, from every little isolated farm house, and you will end up with a bankrupting system that gets nowhere. Build the trunk line first from one county seat to another, tap it with laterals. and in a short time the entire country will be gridironed with highways, and the farm in the corner of a county or in the middle can choose its market, whether its own county seat or the county seat adjoining. The good roads enthusiasm that makes the county an isolated unit and ignores all thought of the outside world is expensive, futile and unpromanie.

Federal aid to roadways is, of course, predestined. But it is going to be delayed as long as good roads advocates dissipate centrating them in a common cause. Good roads are for no one class. Like the ran roads, they are for all classes. The sooner that principle is universally recognized the better for the prosperity and development of this country.

A THRILLING EXPERIMENT.

The city of New York has launched a crusade against the genus "masher." Because he winked at a girl, a young man living in the metropolis was recently given a sentence of twenty days. Two other individuals who "just couldn't make their eyes behave" were given treatment to the tune of thirty days each.

Now, crusades against mashers, per se, are by no means uncommon. At regular intervals, cities of more or less importance grow tired of the impudence of this gentry, and seek to exterminate it with the big stick of the law. But an attempt to circumscribe the oglers in the metropolis of the hemisphere is a different matter. It is distinctly one of the labors of Hercules. For there, if we are to believe the legends of the funny papers and the dirge of the professional "uplifters," a masher grows to every square foot and are as ruthless as the plague.

The effort of New York to deal with this species of pest will, therefore, create nationwide attention. For it will be universally argued that if Gotham can get rid of this particular visitation the road of other protesting cities will be an easy one.

Carranza is also on the anxious bench.

For Huerta a world-wide screening ordinance is in effect.

That auto show is six-cylindered, selfstarting and electric-lighted.

Mrs. Pankhurst is an eminent success at raiding the box office.

With the close of the auto show will come the poultry show to crow over it. Old Diaz professes to see in Huerta's humiliation a sort of back-handed vindication of himself. Probably the Daughters of the Confederacy want the suffragettes to go off and grow up before they recognize them. Wall street is said to look to Georgia. So far as speculation is concerned it might as

THE CLUB WOMEN.

"The ladies of the Diligent Dozen club are going to meet here this afternoon," announced Mrs. Jamesworthy, "and----"

"And, of course, we ought to have a new rug for the parlor and about $800 worth of furniture for the occasion, but we're not going to buy such things," said Jamesworthy, "If the Diligent Dozen don't like our house furnishings they can go and hold their meeting in the town hall. You now belong to three of these clubs, Mrs. Jamesworthy, and I make no protest whatever. I want to see you have a good time, and improve your mind, if you have any mind to improve, and if joining clubs will do it any good. But while you are going around from one club to another, you should never forget that the husband of your youth is straining the tendons of both legs in the clanging mart, to keep the wolf from the door. While your are reading your uplifting and exhaustive paper on the life and works of Michelangelo, you should send a look or a thought after me. You should endeavor to visualize Elijah Jamesworthy in his great act of trying to make two plastres grow where but one grew before; the one being a counterfelt.

"While I have nothing to say against the comen's clubs, I can't help contrasting the club woman of today with my sainted mother, who never read a paper or indorsed a series of resolutions in her life. She was ousy all her days that a stranger might have mistaken her for a cranberry merchant, and if she had to spend an hour away from home she considered that hour lost. About once month she went to a meeting of church women and helped make a few nightcaps and peekaboo waists for the heathen, but she did this from a sense of duty. The idea of going away for an afternoon just to have a good time; and to read an essay composed of decomposed facts laboriously dug from the encyclopaedia, would have shocked her half to death.

"Oh, you may brandish a sardonic smile in my face, Mrs. Jamesworthy, but it would be a grand thing for society in general if the women of this period were more like women who put up the ice in my mother's time. My father, if living now, would be considered a skinflint of the most pronounced variety, yet he was a spendthrift as compared with my mother. He didn't think anything of spending 5 cents on the Fourth of July or any other special occasion. Mother was the watchdog of the family treasury, and before any member of that family could spend a kopeck her permission was "As a result of this wise policy, my father saved money right along. He had a tin box that he put his money in, and he concealed the tin box behind a loose brick in the cellar wall. In those days banks were regarded with suspicion, and with some reason, for there was a constant procession of eminent bankers and other financiers headed for Canada and other countries where extradition treaties did not obtain. The fact brunced abroad, and one night a couple of mmoral burglars called at our house and insisted upon knowing where the money was concealed. My father tried to argue the matter with them, but they were impatient to the verge of rudeness, and they held his bare feet against the stove until he gave them the desired information, and they carried away the savings of several years.

"My father was so discouraged, as he sat round nursing his charred feet, that he talked of suicide, but mother was undaunted than ever to make up the loss, and so we Until I was a young man and had whiskers of my own raising. I had to ge barefoot, and never knew what undercloth-ing was, except when I read of it in the advertisements." "And how much better were you for all that miserly saving?" inquired Mrs. "I at least learned the value of a big ron dollar," retorted her husband, "and that's something you'd never grasp if you lived a million years."

Nearly 102 Years Old. (From The Gainesville News.). . .

Robert Quarles, who lives near Belmont, was in Gainesville Saturday. He is, perhaps, the oldest man now living in Hall county. He was born March 20, 1812, at Louisville Ky., where he resided until the breaking out of the civil war, when he enlisted as in the Sixteenth Virginia regiment, in which he served throughout the war. Mr. Quarles has been married three times and is the father of twenty children, most of whom are now dead. Mr. Quarles is now as vigorous as he

A cry against the use of lard in cooking has come with the revolution in various departments of household economics and the question is raised as to what is wholesome and

For many years the public has been told that lard was indigestible; but its use has gone on hot because there was not much truth in the statement but because the substitutes which were tried were too coatly for the common purse or because they proved a fallurè. ## The World's Mysteries WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE WALCHEREN FIASCO?

The Walcheren expedition, which was sent by England to the island belonging to the Netherlands during the Napoleonic wars, was ne of the greatest farces in the annals of havel warfare. Who was responsible? Lord Chatham blamed Sir Richard Strachan. and Sir Richard blamed Chatham and the country blamed them both. Upon the return of this expedition the following epigram was h everybody's mouth all over England: "Lord Chatham, with his sword undrawn, Stood waiting for Sir Richard Strachan; Sir Richard, longing to be at 'em Stood waiting for the Earl of Chatham."

The chief object of the English was to seize Antwerp and command the Scheldt, seize the French ships in the river, and set pessession of their arsenals and dockyards. The fleet that rode in the channel consisted of thirty-nine ships of the line, and thirtysix frigates, and a due proportion of small vessels of war; and 400 transports, carrying 40,000 soldiers.

The naval commander was Sir Richard J. Strachan, whose title to the responsibility no one could perceive, while many who were more experienced were unemployed. The military command was given to Lord Chatham, for no better reason than that he was favorite of the king and queen, who liked his gentle and courtly manners and his easy

The fatal mistake was made of not defining the respective authorities of the two commanders; and both being inexperienced and apathetic, each relied upon the other first, and cast the blame of failure upon him afterwards.

The fleet set sail on the 28th of July and was on the coast of Holland the next day. The first discovery was that there were not boats enough to land the troops and the ordnance. The next was that no plans had been formed about how to pro-The most experienced officers were for pushing on to Antwerp, forty-five miles off, and taking it before it could be prepared for defense. But the commanders thought it best to take Flushing first and set about it so slowly that a fortnight was consumed in preparations.

nothing more but to take two small islands near Flushing.

Not another blow was struck, not another league was traversed by this magnifi-cent expedition. But the most important dis-covery of all now disclosed itself. The army had been brought into the swamps at the beginning of the sickly season. Fever sprung up under their feet, and 3,000 men were in the hospital in a few days, just when it became necessary to reduce the rations, because provisions were falling short.

On the 27th of August, Lord Chatham led a council of war to resolve that "It was not advisable to pursue further operations." But if they could not proceed, they could not remain where they were, for the enemy had more spirit than the English.

Finally the English ships were compelled to retire and Flushing was given up, and in fact, everything else that the English had gained except the Island of Wulcheren, and this was fatal to hold at that season. On the 4th of September most of the shine were at home again, and Lord Chatham appeared on the 14th.

Eleven thousand men were by that time stricken with the fever. Many were brought home by Sir Eyre Coote, who had been left in command and was dismayed to see al in command and was dismayed to see all the rest sinking at the rate of hundreds in a day. The men had been working in the swamps, up to the waist in marsh water, the roofs of their sleeping places having been carried off by bombardment.

At last, at the end of October, a hundred English bricklayers, with tools, bricklayers, and mortar, were sent over to mend the roofs; but they immediately dropped into the roofs; but they immediately dropped into the hospitals. Finally the government desired the chief officers of the army medical board to repair to Walcherer and see what was the precise nature of the fever, and what could be done, but they ratused to take a hand in the unfortunate affair and the whole led to an army reorganization.

When Walcheren was evacuated on the 23d of December, nearly half the force sent out five months before were dead or miss-ing; and of these who returned 35,000 were admitted into the hospitals of Ingland. Twenty millions sterling were spent on this expedition. It was the purchase miney of tens of thousands of deaths and of inefface-able national disgrace. Who was responsitens of thousands of deaths and of ingracethen when Flushing was taken Lord Chatham sat down to think of what should be his next move. It was exactly a week before he came to a determination to go to Antwerp. Then came the next discovery, that, by this time, two intermediate places had been so strengthened that there must be some fighting on the way. So he did

Dooly county is to celebrate Georgia Products day; with the uniquest dinner in the whole state. In many places all-Georgia foodstuffs will be used, in at least one county, Sumter, all one-county menus will be served, but Byromville will not only serve an all-Georgia, one-county dinner, but it will be all produced by one farm. "Can this be beaten anywhere on earth?" is the question asked by President C. J.

The rather startling fact grew out of a proposition to form the Dooly County Chamber of Commerce, hats proposers thought it well to start the movement on Georgia Products day and began to figure on a menu. It soon became apparent that Dooly could put forward every item needed, but in a little while a member of the Byrom corporation noticed that everything talked of was familiar with him as a product of his farm and proclaimed the fact that Dooly could go all Georgia one better and thus was the one-farm produced dinner brought into prominence. In writing of it to the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Byrom says: All From One Farm.

When we began to consider the under-taking, we first made up a list of the products, from which we could select a menu and after getting it made up, we discovered that we could supply the entire list from one farm in our county, and were so com-pletely surprised at what we could do that we concluded to send the list as originally made, which is as follows:

Two men, George D. Bradford and J.
D. Boyd, operating concessions and attractions at a carnival amusement company showing here all the week, were this morning placed in the county jail at Watkinsville, in Oconee county, to await a preliminary trial on suspicion of being connected with the blowing open of the vault of the Bank of Bogart Tuesday morning.

Both men are said to have been with the carnival company for several years and declare that they can prove an absolute alibi. The warrants were sworn by a young man of Bogart, who said that these two men were seen slipping about town Monday evening, identifying them here on the show grounds for the police to arrest them. They offered no objection to the officers, but declare that their arrest and consequent loss of time, business and money is useless expenses and an outrage.

FINE BULL OFFERED AS CORN CLUB PRIZE BY ATLANTA MAN

As the result of a valuable prize of-fer made by W. H. White, Jr., presi-dent of the White Provision company, encouragement of the live stock industry in Georgia is to be added to the features of the annual Georgia corn features of the annual Georgia corn show.

Mr. White offers a thoroughbred, short-horned bull to the boys corn club making the best showing this year, under rules to be laid down by the corn show committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. Corn and stock raising, in a measure, are kindred industries, and it was Mr. White's purpose both to encourage the boys and to seek to build up cattle growing in Georgia.

Mr. White's letter to Secretary Cooper, of the Chamber of Commerce, is as follows:

Cooper, of the Chamber of Commerce, is as follows:
Realizing that a corn crop is a necessary foundation for the live stock industry of Georgie, and desiring to encourage the splendid work of the Georgia Corn club boys, I beg leave to make the following offer through the Georgia Corn show to be given this year under the auspices of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce:
To the county corn club doing the best work this year I offer a thoroughbred, I-year-old, shrt-horned bull as a prize to he awarded under such rules and regulations as the corn show committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce may designate and by a committee selected by them.
"Georgia is growing more and more cattle every year," Mr. White said, "but the state is still far behind what it should do. Last year we killed 5,000 Georgia beeves, out of a tetal of 10,000, and this is the largest number ever shipped to Atlanta from Georgia points within the same period of time. The farmers are coming more and more to realize the importance of dealing with thoroughbred cattle, and it is this tendency that I desire to encurage through the boys' corn clubs."

The corn show committee will, at an early, date, prepare the rules under which Mr. White's valuable prize will be offered.

Interesting Papers Heard.

The last session of the convention was marked by the reading of several papers prepared by prominent home, paths attending the gathering.

Dr. J. Pettee Cobb, of Chicago, Ill., interested the visiting doctors with a discourse on "Infantile Paralysis."

One of the most interesting papers of the closing day was that or Dr. A. L. Smithers, who addressed the doctors on "Better Babies." Dr. Smithers, who is from Anderson. S. C., said, in part:

"The first step in the securing of better babies is to cure the diseases of the present generation. This, we are told, cannot be done but we can make the attempt. Better to try and fail than not try at all. We should exert our influence for better eugenic laws. For instance, there is pending in the South Carolina legislature a bill called the Patterson law, which makes it obligatory that the man must present a certificate of health from a competent physician to the judge of the probate court when he applies for a marriage license. This is good, but why should the woman be exempt from the same proceedure?

"If we are to rear a strong and vig-orous race we must have strong moth-ers as well as strong fathers.

For National Prohibition. "National Prohibition.

"National prohibition laws would also help the cause of better babies.

"We spend years and years in an effort to eradicate disease and improve our live stock, but man, the noblest of all created beings, does not seem to have been worth consideration along this line.

"True, we cannot look upon this subject in the same way as we do the breeding of cattle, but we can teach our children, at the proper time, the Loundes Court to Meetbreeding of cattle, but we can teach our children, at the proper time, the things that make for mannood and womanhood."

Dr. Spencer R. Stone, the well-known Atlanta physician and Dr. Susan M. Hicks, the only woman nomeopathic physician in this city, both read papers which elicited much discussion among the delegates.

The time and place of the next gathering of the homeopaths was left to a committee of officers of the association.

The fact that Fayette county has grown this year enough corn and more to last it for the next twelve months without having to go outside its borders for a single bushel, was announced to the corn show committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce by Chairman H. by Chairman H. G. Hastings, who has just returned from a trip to Fayetteville.

"While in Fayetteville I talked with Farm Demonstration Agent Harris for that county." said Mr. Hastings, "and he casually informed me that Fayette had made something more than enough corn to last the county for the next year.

"Mr. Harris is one of the most enthusiastic of the county agents it has been my pleasure to meet, and the results attained in that county have been largely due to his efforts and those of the Boys' Corn clubs."

The announcement of Mr. Hastings naturally led to the query as to whether there are other countles in Georgia which have done the same thing, and how many of them there are. It is possible there may be several counties, especially among those of the northern section of the state, where corn enough for a year is made, because comparatively little cotton is grown there. Better Feeling.

The feeling between the two schools has been showing a marked reduction of late years in intenseness and in order to not only preserve the better feeling but to increase the better flowship between the two schools, it is thought that this condition was prescribed. At the football game last fall the rival student bodies cheered each other and cheered the members of the opposing teams showing that the work of the alumni who prompted such action had been rewailed. This is as it should be and it is hoped that when the game is played hoped that when the game at the feeling for a hard game, will show the same kindly feeling.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Novemoer 13.—(Special)—The Alabama-Tennesses game, scheduled for the gridiron here on Saturday, promises to furnish thrill after thrill for the football fans in this section of the country.

The Knoxville eleven will rule as the favorite by reason of their splendid showing against Vanderbill last Satur-

How to Cut Fuel Bills 66%

Here is another astounding motor car advance offered you in the New 1914 Henderson—the solution of the "high cost of fuel" problem by the keroseneconsuming carburetor, invented by Ray Harroun, the renowned automobile engineer and winner of the famous 500-mile race. This remarkable invention can be fitted to the New Henderson if you desire. It will also burn gasoline.

Across Continent for $26

No carburetor made ever had a more grilling test than this new burner of kerosene. It worked efficiently and constantly for 3,600 miles—from Indianapolis to San Francisco-on a Henderson, averaging 16 miles per gallon. Another make, about the size of the Henderson, averaged 13 miles per gallon, running on gasoline and the gasoline at double the cost of the coal oil.

The Big Thing—the interesting fact to automobile purchasers and dealers—is this:

The kerosene consumed on this long tour cost

There were four passengers in the kerosenedriven Henderson. Divide that into $26. You have a fuel cost of less than $7 a passenger. The figure marks a new upkeep record.

Left-hand drive, center seat control-convenient at the driver's right hand-the dustproof enclosed motor, electric self-starting system, the Stutz rear system, cowl dash, cowl gasoline tank, oversize tires, electric lights and a score of refinement features.

The Hendersons also have a light touring car at $1,585 and the Henderson Six at $2,285.

Mr. C. P. Henderson, President of the Henderson Motor Car Company, is in Atlanta attending the show, also preparing to make the Around-the-State Tour in a Henderson, equipped with this famous carburetor.

It is the absence of reasons like this that so many owners of CARTER-CARS are such great boosters.

"Little Women" gives a very faithful picture of simple life—the life that hundreds of thousands of healthy-minded Americans live or did live fifty years ago. It has no problems, except the simple problems of love and life and death which are common to prince and pauper alike. It seeks to teach no lesson, but it teaches one, neverthe-and pauper alike. It seeks to teach no lesson, but it teaches one, nevertheless—the lesson that happiness comes from being gentle and kind and considerate. Through it all is the most delightful humor.

You who have read "Little Women" no doubt will wonder how it is possible to preserve the atmosphere of the story in a stage version. You will have no misgivings a moment after the curtain goes up. This is the chief charm of the play—its indefinable, elusive atmosphere, You are transported as if by magic to a typical New England home. You seem to live over again the days when you first read Miss Alcoti's books. Before the play has progressed to the end of the first act the years seem to roll back and you are living over other and distant days.

The various characteris in the play are all admirably done—several of them standing out conspicuously. Margery Taylor's characterization of Jo. the level-headed girl of the family with literary leanings, was splendid. Miss Lucy Cotton, who, by the way, is an Atlanta girl, made a beautiful Meg. George M. Clark was convincing as Laurie. His love scene with Jo was a fine bit of acting. Max Juergens, as Professor Baer, has created an inimitable character part. Nothing finer in its way has been seen in Atlanta.

The play is staged with the utmost fidelity to detail. Much of the furniture is said to have once been used in the Alcott home.

Lawyer Who Put Woman in the Case Is Found Guilty and Heavily Fined.

Chicago, Ill., November 13 Attorr-ney Daniel Donahoe, charged with conspiring to defame Charence S. Funk, former general manager of the International Harvester company, found guilty and fined $2,000. Detectives Isaac Stiefel, tried on the same charge of conspiracy, was found not Donahoe and Stiefel were indicted charged with conspiracy to defame, after a suit charging Mr. Funk with having alienated the affections of Mrs. John C. Henning had been dismissed. Henning, in whose name the suit against Mr. Funk was brought, had been a bell boy. He disappeared after the trial, but was arrested in Minne-apolis just before the trial of Dona-hoe and Stiefel began, He and Mrs. Henning were the chief witnesses for hoe and Stiefel began. He and Mrs. Henning were the chief witnesses for the prosecution.

The names of both former Schator William Lorimer and Edward Hines, millionaire lumber merchant, were mentioned in the Donahoe trial by Funk, who related the substance of testimony given before the United States senate. Mr. Funk testiffied that Edward Hines had said "well, we put Lorimer over, but it cost $100,000."

Testimony given by Funk before an Illinois legislative investigating committee resulted in a re-opening of the case against former Senator Lorimer and at the hearing it was found that Mr. Lorimer had not been legally elected to the senate.

Edward Duster, a bellboy who testified for the state and who was listed as a witness in the alienation suit, testified that he was called to Donahoe's office and the attorney had asked if he had read of a suit started by Edward Hines against Funs.

"We're all in the same crowd," the bellboy testified Donahoe said to him. The jury deliberated nearly six hours before returning its verdict tonight. Attorneys for Donahoe appealed from the verdict.

NOVEMBER COTTON LOST FEW POINTS

But Other Months Closed 4 to 7 Points Higher-The South Offering Very Little Cotton-Spot Quiet.

New York, November 13.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today, but ried generally steady on talk of small ginning returns for the period ending tonight and the failure of southern offerings to increase in keeping with ye-terday's rumors of an easier spot situation. There were renewed reports that a considerable amount of ocean freight room had been engaged for shipment from the local stock, but November contracts were again relatively easy and the close was steady at a net decline of 3 points on that position, while other months were from 4 to 7 points net higher. Steadier Liverpool cables than expected proracted considerable covering at the opening here and first prices were 1 to 3 points higher. The had been numerous private in our culation here yesterday, indicating a slack demand and there had probably the considerable selling on the expectation that these reports would be followed by increased hedge selling in Liverpool and the local market this morning. The south, however, seemed to be offering very little cotton, either here or abroad, and prices gradually worked higher on a scattering demand for both accounts. Slight reactions occurred from time to time during ther day, but there was no agreement for the surface of the best.

Frivate pot advices from the south were less bearish today, while there were numerous reports from the easy crn belt that the crop was mearly picked and that gins were running on short time.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, November 13—The cotton market held dull, but steady today. Fluctuations were narrow and the volume of trading was light. The advantage was with the bull side, but there was little disposition in evidence to force prices to higher levels. Buying of good character appeared at times. Shults were disposed to cover.

The feature of the news of the day was the report that some of the most important cotton producing counties of Texus were 95 pet cent picked and ginned. Several points in Texas sent in word that gins were closed for the season. These reports stimulated buying and kept bears from putting out short lines.

The market opened steady, I point up to 2 points down Commission houses had seliging orders to fill and they weighed against short times.

After the call buying increased and the market immediately did better. There was a gradual advance, with several setbacks on profit-taking by seniping longs until early in the afternoon, when the trading months were 8 to 9 points over yesterday's final quotations. The close was steady at a net gain of 5 to 8 points.

New York, November 13—Improved business at Manchester, reports of clean field in different parts of Georgia and the Carolinas, together with a good demand for spot cotton at full prices in those states, brought about a further advance here today owing to light offerings and a more confident feeling on the part of buyers. The wide difference of opinion prevailing as to the size of the crop is unsettling to the trade, but liquidation has been so extensive as a result of this feature that renewed weakness in prices will have to come through southern selling.

State Senator W. D. McNell came to Atlanta Thursday morning and made an appeal to the governor for clemency. He carried the commutation of sentence back to Macon in his pocket with him.

A PRETTY lawn adds a great deal to the looks of a place, and it is very easy to have one if you start right. The most important thing is good seed. We experimented for soveral years with different grasses, but found that our Evergreen Lawn Mixture gave the best results. We mix this seed ourselves and know exactly what is in it, and can sell it to our customers and guarantees it to give splendid results. This mixture sells at 20 cents a pound or $2.50 per bushel (14 pounds).

FOR a fertilizer for lawns use Pulverized Sheep Manure. It acts quickly, but the results are lasting, and it has no weed seed, such as you got in stable manure. $1.50 per bag of 100 pounds.
