

INTEREST CENTERS IN ATTACKS MADE ON FRANK JURORS

Many Sealed Depositions Are Filed With Deputy Clerk Assailing A. H. Henslee and Marcus Johanning.

SPARTA CITIZENS SAY HENSLEE PREJUDICED

Members of Jury Deny in Indignant Terms That Any of Their Number Was Biased in Any Way.

That one of the Sparta, Ga., citizens whose affidavits are now sealed and lying in the safe of the clerk of the superior court, did make the statement that A. H. Henslee had declared that he believed Frank guilty and would like to see him hang, was the statement made last night by another citizen of the Hancock county seat.

The exact contents of the affidavits which were made before J. W. Lewis of Sparta, by three of the most prominent men in the town are not known. It is claimed by the defense that Mr. Henslee while traveling for his buggy concern and before he or anyone else had been drawn on the venire for the Leo M. Frank jury to several persons, real estate and buggies, by S. M. Johnson, cashier of the firm and by Shi Gray said to have been in the office when Mr. Henslee made the alleged statement.

What is in the depositions will not be known until Deputy Clerk John H. Jones opens them. Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey will make an effort to have the affidavits made public today in order that he may know their contents and be in a position to refute them, if possible.

Mr. Henslee, who is a traveling man, could not be located for a statement. He would be sure to give in reply to the charge, but others of the jury, among them Marcus Johanning, also charged with bias before he was sworn on the jury, utterly denied that any of the twelve men had been induced to convict Frank of the Mary Phagan murder by anything but the evidence submitted in open court.

The hearing of the motion for a new trial is due to come up at 10 o'clock today before Judge S. R. Roth. That Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey will ask a postponement in order that he may have time to make answer to the 115 reasons cited as cause for a new trial is known from an authentic source. It is believed that this postponement will be granted and that the case will be reset for a time within a week or two weeks, to be agreed upon by both the defense and the state.

Since he was served Thursday with the motion for a new trial, the solicitor has been working on the answer and has been aided by Attorney Frank A. Hooper, who made such a brilliant fight with him for the conviction of Frank.

DR. KARL IMHOFF TO INSPECT PLANT

Noted German Engineer in Atlanta Expressly for Purpose of Seeing the Disposal Plan in Operation.

Dr. Karl Imhoff, of Essen, Germany, patentee of the Imhoff Sewage Disposal tanks, German official and noted engineer, is in Atlanta today, inspecting the largest of his plants yet placed in America, and recently installed here by the city.

Dr. Imhoff who has 130 disposal plants in active operation in Germany besides 45 in this country comes to Atlanta expressly for the purpose of looking over the plant here. He will stay until this afternoon when he turns to Boston to sail later in the week for Hamburg.

Has Solved Many Problems. Speaking of his work, Dr. Imhoff said last night: "I have been interested in sewage disposal ever since my university days. I have actively been engaged in solving the sewage disposal problem for over 12 years. In Germany, I am an official of the government having charge of the Kaiser-River district, an area in the western part of Germany inhabited by over two million people. The sewage disposal problem there presented a serious problem when it was first faced. It has now been solved by the introduction of my tanks. We faced a much more serious condition there than anywhere else that can be imagined. The sewage disposal proposition embraced the proper disposal of sewage from thousands and thousands of homes. My district embraces the coal mines and the congested residence sections around the world known Krupp steel factories."

"I will not have time to much more than look over the local plant. No I shall not try to give the local operatives at the plant any instructions as I believe they are already efficient so far as I have learned."

In Operation Seven Years. So far as the success of my patent is concerned it is sufficient to say that one in Essen, Germany has been in operation for seven years, and has proven entirely satisfactory. In fact there are none of my tanks in use which have not been satisfactory. They have the stamp of approval of the German government and that in itself is a recommendation not to be despised."

Dr. Imhoff will be piloted on his tour of inspection today by Captain Robert M. Clayton, superintendent of construction.

GRIFFIN FIRE CHIEF TAKES HIS OWN LIFE; DESPONDENCY CAUSE

Griffin, Ga., October 3.—(Special).—M. F. Morris, who for many years has been at the head of the fire department of this city, committed suicide here late this afternoon by shooting himself in the temple. His body was found in a barn on the premises immediately after the shooting was heard, death resulting in about twenty minutes. Although he did not regain consciousness, his self-destruction is supposed to have been caused by despondency under which he has been laboring for some weeks. His mental condition had been noticed by his friends and wife, who was constantly watching him.

Morris was 57 years of age, leaves a wife and daughter, Miss Annie Lena Morris, and a brother, M. C. Morris, of Bullins, Mont. For over fifteen years he had been fire chief and city sexton of Griffin. Some few days ago he resigned the former position but was this week reinstated. He was formerly a member of council and served as sheriff of this county for a term of six years.

The city hall will be draped in mourning for him. The funeral will occur from the First Baptist church, of which he was a member, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The cemetery, the Masonic fraternity will conclude the services and accord Masonic honors. The coroner's inquest returned a verdict of "self-destruction" by shooting.

High School Girls Decide Against Woman Suffrage

Miss Louise Youngblood and Miss Marion Morgan Champion Cause of "Stay-in-Home Woman."

Equal suffrage has received a quietus in the Girls' High school. The pretty misses who attend that higher institution of learning have put their collective feet down on the subject, so to speak. At least the debate, "Shall Women Have Equal Suffrage With Men," argued Friday before a debating jury composed of fellow students, was lost to the affirmative amidst the cheers of an enthusiastic audience. It seems from the argument advanced by the debaters against equal suffrage that the consensus of opinion, at least among the high school girls, is that the home and the fireside—to say nothing of a husband dear—have the call over the right to ballot. Four members of the school, inaugurating the Girls' High School Debating club sessions, faced the student jury Friday afternoon. Those appearing in favor of equal suffrage were Misses Lily Hansen and Bersecolo Ball, while Misses Louise Youngblood and Marion Morgan argued against the much-mooted point. Quoting at lib from the constitution of the United States, Noah and Daniel Webster, word-builder and orator, the advocates of the votes for women struggled valiantly against the rose-quartz pictures of the cozy home, prattling babes and fond husbands. The decision of the jury was arrived

TRAFFIC REFORMS PLANNED FOR CITY BUSINESS SECTION

Startling Condition Revealed at Conference of North Pryor Street Owners and City Officials.

VACANT STORES CAUSED BY TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Committee of Citizens and Councilmen Will Consider Drafting Law to Remedy Present Situation.

At a meeting of North Pryor street property owners and city officials in the chamber of commerce hall in the Empire building yesterday afternoon, a startling condition of affairs due to congested traffic on North Pryor street was revealed with the result that a movement for traffic regulation reforms which will include the entire business district of the city was set on foot.

Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, presided over the meeting and in stating its object made the astounding disclosure that in the four blocks which comprise North Pryor street, in the very heart of the business district of the city, there are no less than seven stores vacant on account of the congested conditions of traffic on that thoroughfare.

The result was a motion from Mayor James G. Woodward which carried for the appointment of a committee of three from city council to confer with a committee of like number to be appointed from the chamber of commerce for the purpose of studying the laws of other cities in regard to traffic regulation. The council committee is then to confer with the city attorney for the drafting of an adequate law to control the traffic of Atlanta.

These committees will be appointed within the next few days. Mr. Moore said: "There are seven stores at present on North Pryor street that are vacant. This is, no doubt, due to the fact that traffic conditions on this street are in a very bad fix, the street being practically blocked in so far as through traffic is concerned. Unless something is done to relieve the congestion caused by drays and vans standing in front of stores, this street will in a short time become practically unusable by thorough traffic."

Street Too Narrow. Mr. Moore submitted figures prepared by Captain R. M. Clayton, chief of the city construction department, showing that in several places North Pryor street is only 2 feet wide.

In the discussion of ways of relieving traffic congestion Chief Cummings, of the city fire department, suggested that the plan that is used in many cities of restricting the uses of certain downtown streets to traffic moving in one direction only. He stated that this plan had furnished great relief in other cities and suggested that it be tried in Atlanta. An ordinance providing this regulation he explained, would not apply to the travel of the fire apparatus, hospital ambulances, police patrol wagons, and vehicles whose mission might be of an urgency similar to that of those named.

Present at Conference. The following gentlemen were present and participated in the discussion: Wilmer L. Moore, James G. Woodward, mayor of Atlanta, James L. Beavers, chief of police, W. B. Cummings, chief of fire department, J. H. Porter, Oscar Davis, W. P. Walthall, W. H. Kiser, J. H. Porter, Ronald Ransom, John E. Murphy, Albert E. Thornton, Sam T. Weyman.

Sinking Passenger Steamer Sends Wireless "S. O. S."; Ships Rushing to Rescue

Portland Ore. October 3.—Wireless stations here and at Coquille have picked up messages reporting that the steamer Spokane, of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, has been wrecked off Cape Lazo, British Columbia. The steamer Dolphin is rushing to the Spokane's assistance in answer to "S. O. S." calls. "Sinking fast. Much help. The steamer LaTouche is taking off passengers. The Spokane is a passenger vessel plying between Portland north coast points. The steamer LaTouche, of the Alaska Steamship company, was one of the first vessels to answer the distress call, and at 10:30 tonight was standing by. Fifteen minutes later she began taking off the passengers of the Spokane. "Taking water fast, send all assistance possible," was one of the flashes received at the wireless station almost immediately after the first distress call, which read: "Steamer Spokane, 15 miles north of Cape Lazo, wants assistance." The steamer Dolphin and the steamer Minnesota answered the message.

On Marriage Brink, Harrison Jones Warns From Shoals of Matrimony

"Don't sink the ship if its with-in your power to save it!" Earnestness quivered in the voice of Harrison Jones, barrister and bachelor, as he spoke these words of advice yesterday afternoon to an aspiring band of embryo lawyers at the Atlanta Law school. "There are 72,000 divorces granted in the United States every year," he said, as if putting the problem squarely up to his hearers for solution. "Many of these divorces were obtained by manufactured evidence prepared by unscrupulous lawyers. If you, as a lawyer, destroy a home by procuring for your client a divorce when you could possibly act as a go-between and save the ship—then the tragedy of that blighted home will rest upon your head." A ripple of expectancy was in the air, and many turned and smiled at their neighbors as Mr. Jones went deeper into the subject of matrimony. In the establishment of a national roads system and the construction by states, counties and towns of the lateral and connecting market highways, request the congress of the United States to appoint a commission from civil life to make a thorough and exhaustive report on and to recommend a system of federal aid and favor, wherever practicable, the use of convicts in road construction and maintenance. The resolutions also commend the Lincoln Highway association "for its efforts in seeking the establishment by popular subscription of a trans-continental highway as an enduring and useful memorial to Abraham Lincoln" and praise the work of the National Old Trails association in rebuilding the Cumberland road and the Santa Fe trail.

STOLE BODY, BURNED IT TO COLLECT INSURANCE

Hughes' Wife Then Pretended He Was Dead and Wedded Another, It Is Charged

New York, October 3.—Charged with conspiracy and the robbery of a grave, Arthur S. Hughes, a ranch owner of Forsyth, Mont., was arrested here this afternoon at the request of Sheriff Mason, of Rosebud county, Montana. Hughes is charged with having entered into a conspiracy with his wife and a man named Gilbert, both of whom the police assert are under arrest in Montana to collect $8,000 insurance on his life. According to the complaint a man named Craig was killed in Forsyth about two and one-half months ago by a train. Hughes is alleged, too, to have taken the body from the grave, carted it to his home and then set the house on fire. The body burned to a crisp and unrecognizable was found in the embers, and Mrs. Hughes went into mourning for her husband. Hughes, the complaint continues, disappeared a few days later Mrs. Hughes married Elliott and put in a claim for the $8,000 insurance on Hughes' life. Sheriff Mason believed the body found in the ruins was that of Hughes, and soon afterwards arrested them both while he investigated the supposed death of Hughes. Money and insurance officials learned that Hughes had come to New York and was in communication with his supposed widow. They notified the New York police and detectives were sent out to find him. After searching for weeks they traced him to cheap lodging houses on the east side and found that he was working as a longshoreman. Today they arrested him at the entrance of the Brooklyn bridge. The Montana authorities investigating the death of the supposed Hughes, according to advices received at police headquarters here, caused the body found in the ruins to be exhumed and measured. They discovered the robbery of Craig's grave and by the measurements of the body learned that it was Craig's and not that of Hughes. The police assert that Hughes admitted his identity when arrested and also admitted having written his wife to come to New York to clear his wife of any charges made against her in connection with his supposed death. "My troubles have been all domestic," was the only other statement that Hughes made before he was taken to examination tomorrow.

Those who had been the most active in its construction and in the fight to preserve it from the various contending interests who sought its defeat and impairment, affixed a sigh of relief when they beheld the last official act which completed their labors. Signed With Two Pens. A happy group of legislators, members of the cabinet and friends encircled the president, as he smilingly set down slowly affixed his signature with two gold pens. He presented to Representative Underwood the pen that had written the word "Underwood" and the one which had completed his name to Senator Simmons, both of whom bowed their appreciation.

In impressive silence the president rose and delivered in easy natural tones an extemporaneous speech that brought prolonged applause. The president declared that the journey of this legislative accomplishment had only been partly completed, that a great service had been done for the rank and file of the country, but that the second step in the emancipation of business was currency reform. He earnestly called upon his colleagues to go "the rest of the journey" with fresh impulse.

"BUNNY" LETTER AUTHOR MARRIES HIS AFFINITY

Allison McFarland Released From Federal Prison on Parole Last May.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., October 3.—It was learned today that Allison McFarland, recently acquitted of wife murder in New Jersey, and Florence Bromley, who figured prominently in his so-called "bunny" letters, were married here Wednesday by a justice of the peace. McFarland gave his age as 27, residence New York. Miss Bromley's age was given as 27. McFarland, after being acquitted of the charge of murder, was convicted of counterfeiting and sentenced to serve 18 months in prison. Warden Meyer, of the United States prison, at Atlanta, said last night that Allison McFarland was released from the prison on parole last May, and that since that time the federal authorities had been entirely without jurisdiction over his matrimonial ventures, nor had they further interest in them than to wish McFarland and his bride God-speed and good luck.

WANT GOOD ROADS MAN IN PRESIDENT'S CABINET

Creation of National Department of Public Works Favored by Road Congress.

Detroit, October 3.—Declaring the loss by reason of bad roads, which everywhere lessen the profits of industry, increase the cost of living and burden business enterprises, amounts to millions of dollars annually, the American Road congress, now in session in Detroit, late today adopted resolutions favoring the creation of a national department of public works, directed by a secretary who shall be a member of the president's cabinet.

Other resolutions adopted favor state highway commissions and state aid for the construction and maintenance of the main roads of the several states, the establishment of a national roads system and the construction by states, counties and towns of the lateral and connecting market highways, request the congress of the United States to appoint a commission from civil life to make a thorough and exhaustive report on and to recommend a system of federal aid and favor, wherever practicable, the use of convicts in road construction and maintenance.

The resolutions also commend the Lincoln Highway association "for its efforts in seeking the establishment by popular subscription of a trans-continental highway as an enduring and useful memorial to Abraham Lincoln" and praise the work of the National Old Trails association in rebuilding the Cumberland road and the Santa Fe trail.

STORK HAD TO GO SOME TO OVERTAKE AN AUTO

Tirton, Ind., October 3.—Pauline Matilda, with blue eyes and weighing 8 pounds, was born today in the automobile of Dr. M. V. Newcomer. The mother, Mrs. Paul Matilda, aged 18, was on her way from Noblesville, Ind., to Monticello, and was taken ill on the train and got off here. Women in the station saw the young woman's condition and called Dr. Newcomer, who was hurrying out to a hospital when the child was born.

ON TOP THE PYRAMID.

Georgia is at the top of the pyramid of southern prosperity this year!

The September cotton condition report of the United States department of agriculture emphatically verifies the reiterated predictions of The Constitution to that effect.

Our statement was based originally upon the slump in condition in the western half of the cotton belt being sufficient to hold prices high and stable; upon the condition in the eastern half being near enough to normal to insure unwonted prosperity to that entire range; upon the fact that Georgia's condition led the condition of the eastern half, the volume of her crop being larger. From this unusual combination it was easy to forecast unprecedented prosperity for Georgia, and for Atlanta, the commercial capital of the normal eastern zone.

The September government report confirms this reasoning.

The 10-year average of cotton for the cotton belt is 72.

Georgia's condition in the September report is 72, and it is the only state in the entire cotton belt that is a factor in the situation which is not below the 10-year average.

The condition average for the entire belt in the September report is 64.1, as against Georgia's 72.

These cumulative facts spell for Georgia, and Atlanta, a bumper crop of prosperity. The main thing for capitalists, merchants and farmers now to do is to prepare for it.

THE TARIFF PLEDGE KEPT.

With the completion of tariff revision the democratic party has redeemed the first and one of the most important of its pledges to the country. The task, monumental in scope and intricate in detail, has been accomplished with a dispatch and a sincerity not matched by similar legislation since the civil war. The master craftsmanship of President Wilson, Chairman Underwood and Chairman Simmons has collaborated to the end that the nation is given a new tariff law for the first time in many decades free of jokers and subterfuges, hewing straight to the line of honesty and enacted in the interests of the whole people rather than any section or class.

In these respects the new tariff law will be found notable. So far as is now visible to the unbiased vision, the makers of the tariff have played no favorites. They have rejected the old and disreputable trading game of the republicans. They have indulged in no wild vagaries and no revolutionary devices, but they have given the nation what it demanded in the reduction of schedules and in the freer play for competition and the ultimate lowering of the high cost of living. Additionally, they have included in the law a federal income tax framed upon equitable principles and adapted to restore to the treasury whatever deficit may be created by the lower revenue-producing power of the schedules.

The passage of tariff legislation was admittedly the first acid test of the Wilson administration and of the constructive ability of democratic statesmanship. Both have measured up admirably. The schisms and the desertions so confidently predicted by the republicans have failed to materialize. The apostasy anticipated by the non-partisan pessimists has been conspicuous by its absence. The force and the coherence of the president's leadership have been adequately proven. The democratic party has survived the first drastic test in a manner that gives promise of its ability to negotiate whatever hazards lie in the future.

The country as a whole is prepared for the new tariff. Whatever effect it may produce has long ago been discounted. The winners and the croakers are now estimated at their true worth. Optimism has the saddle. Prosperity commands every prospect. The first noteworthy achievement of the rehabilitated democracy will usher in an era of national welfare that may well mark new records in the country's history.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

Atlanta as well as the whole of the southern division of the railway mail service has an interest in the presence here today of the Hon. A. H. Stephens, the new general superintendent of that vitally important branch of the postoffice department. Superintendent Stephens is an appointee of the Wilson administration, chosen because of his long experience in the railway mail service, his expert proficiency and his broad and liberal policies. He is making a tour of the country to familiarize himself at first hand with the faults and needs of the service. His visit here today has to do with that purpose.

This evening Superintendent Stephens will be the honor guest at a smoker of the local chapter of the Railway Mail association. He will tell them what he expects to do for the country generally and the southern division particularly. He has come bringing promise of relief none too soon. The entire nation suffered from the blasting policy of so-called "economy" inaugurated under Hitchcock. But it was upon the southern division that the brutal fell, making it seem at times as though this part of the country had been singled out by Hitchcock as the "goat" for his pinch-penny program. Under the change of administration and the influence of Mr. Stephens, the division has just begun to show symptoms of gradual recovery. Old conditions are too well known to need more than a scant recital. Under Hitchcockism the service was demoralized from the ground up. The old routes, established with a view to efficiency and dispatch, such, for illustration, as the one between Atlanta and New Orleans, were cut up into units, instead of being conducted as through routes. Mail cars were sliced in size. Mail clerks were lessened in number and forced to work overtime in cramped quarters. The inevitable result was the abolition of old transfer points, and the establishment of new ones, the consequence of which was seen in vast stacks of mails left over at transfer points, undistributed, and entailing a loss of time in delivery of anywhere from one to two days. This breakdown occurred with mails coming into and going out of the south. The destruction of the esprit de corps of the clerks under the hammer of browbeating and espionage was a calamity that does not need rehearsal.

Superintendent Stephens already is partially cognizant of these conditions in the southern division as elsewhere. He is learning more each day. Improvement already is visible. More will be forthcoming, gradually, until the service is restored from the chaos bequeathed by Hitchcock. It is not to be expected that even an official of Mr. Stephens' capacity can undo by edict the wreckage of four years. But he is making cheerful progress and expressing clear intention toward that end. He is extremely welcome, therefore, to Atlanta and the south, and his address tonight should bring a message of encouragement to a long-harassed section.

WHILE FORTUNE BECKONS.

Two incidents, one local and the other national, transpired last week to give pertinence to the great opportunity that Georgia overlooks so long as she does not embark wholesale in the beef industry.

The first was the receipt in Atlanta of the first shipment of beef from the Argentine republic. This was part of a lot recently sent to this country from the Argentine and reference to which was then made by The Constitution. Reports run to the effect that the imported beef was better in quality than that raised in our country. Scientific refrigeration has nullified distance, and it is possible that from now on Argentine beef will be a stiff competitor of American beef. The point is that under normal conditions the bringing of South American beef to Georgia ought to be in the nature of bringing coals to Newcastle. Georgia has natural facilities for the production of beef little short of those of the Argentine, saving only the vast open ranges, and this feature is now discounted in the modern beef industry.

The other incident was the report that the government, impressed by the impending famine of beef, had made up its mind to encourage the beef industry among the Indians in this country on their reservations. Advertisements have already been issued for herds of the proper grade of cattle. It is said that the Indians have developed a decided aptitude to cattle-growing. Uncle Sam hopes in time to break the beef famine, or at least the one that is now on the way, by giving his red wards a new occupation.

There is no reason why a pound of beef should be imported into this country from the Argentine, and there is no reason why Georgia should not produce for the eastern states as good a grade of beef as can be produced anywhere. Every cent that Georgia sends to South America for beef is wasted, as is every cent sent to the west. With the selection of beef sires, and their breeding to native cattle, the state will soon develop an industry almost equalling cotton. The corn, the forage crops, the grazing grounds and the climate are here. All that is needed is the endeavor, and such encouragement from bankers as will make beef collateral for credit on at least a partial equality with cotton.

Sulzer, it is said, "will spring a surprise on them." But what can surprise a New York politician?

Citizens of Light.

Now you're on the highway where the world is faring fine,
"Good Times" flag a-flying over regiments in line!And it's "Help to the right,
Citizens of Light!"
And there comes an enemy we'll sweep him from our sight!"
Now for a song to thrill the waiting lands—
The ringing notes of "Dixie" from the bagpipes and the bands!
And it's "Help to the right,
Citizens of Light!"
You're marching now as victors with the banners of the light!"Long was the battle, but bravely was it won!

Notable Obituary.
It's so out of the ordinary—so simple and expressive of life lived faithfully—honestly, that this memorial notice from The Beattyville (Ky.) Enterprise is going the rounds:
"Uncle Chris—we all called him Uncle Chris—was one of our good, quiet, steady citizens; one of the kind that gives good reputation to a country; he was a farmer with a little well-tilled place, a good orchard, a nice home, where he lived at peace with all his neighbors—a thing worthy of notice, perhaps, these days—spending the evening of his life as he had it morning, in doing the best he could the things his hands found to do."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MARION,
The Famous Power Post

REASONING POWERS.

"I've just been reading an article," said the druggist, "in which it is argued that such animals as dogs and horses have reasoning faculties, and exercise them every day. I don't believe it. Such animals have instinct, but they don't reason. I have an old family colt that was born of poor but respectable parents. He is unusually clever, as horses go, but he can't think or figure out anything for himself. I have a little lot by the stable in which I turn old Bobbie when he isn't busy, and he always lies down at night in the middle of the lot, he wouldn't get his foot legs hurt."

"That's interesting and entertaining," remarked the village parson, "but it isn't much of an argument. Many men are as foolish as your horse, and we freely credit them with reasoning faculties. There's Sam McWhiskers, who gets picked at the rum holes about once in three months. He has been doing that for years and years. He surely knows when he makes tracks for the rum hole that it will cost him all his money, and give him a sky-scaper of a headache, and eventually land him before his honor, the book, who will assess him $10 and costs. The reasoning power has not much to do with fool habits."

"I am perfectly willing to admit that dogs and horses and other animals can do excellent things in the reasoning line. It would be foolish to dispute such a proposition, when I know quite well that inanimate objects are capable of thought. Inanimate objects are full of malice, and they'll go out of their way to make life unbearable to human beings."

"As you are aware, I have been going around recently with a game foot. That member has been cruelly swollen, and as sore as a boil, and merely to touch it with a feather made me double up like a boot. Now, you may believe me or not, but that chair had moved at least eight feet from its accustomed place, in order to be where I couldn't help kicking it. When I went to bed the chair was in its usual place, and I got up in the morning, and it seemed to me that I heard the blamed thing giggle as I stood there blowing on my injured foot, and rehearsing all the beautiful adjectives I learned at my mother's knee."

"When the pain had subsided to some extent I reached for the electric light switch and couldn't find it. I know where that switch is as well as I know where my whiskers are. I have put my hand on it in the dark a thousand times. But on this occasion it had moved itself, and I couldn't find it. And all the time, while groping around for it, articles of furniture were deliberately swatting my sore foot. At last I made for the door. I couldn't be fooled about that door, I thought. But I had joined the company against me. When I went to bed it was closed, but it had unlocked itself, and was standing wide open, and I hit both my foot and my nose against its edge. My nose still is swollen, and isn't half as valuable a utensil as my foot. And all the time, while I sat down on the floor and cried, and bumped the back of my head against a rocking chair that had crossed the room in the dark in order to work my undoing. Since that fatal night I have been willing to believe in almost anything."

Swinburne Stopped Country Churchgoers.

(From The Pall Mall Gazette.)
An amusing story of Swinburne is told by Edmund Gosse. At the age of 23 Swinburne was sent to study history under Bishop Stubbs, who was then in charge of a country parish in Essex. He arrived there on a Saturday and was excused attendance at Sunday morning church on the ground that he must be tired with his journey. He had breakfast in bed, and finding it a gloomy morning, he arrayed himself in scarlet slippers and a light crimson dressing gown, sauntered into the garden, and leaned pensively over the gate, with his red hair flaming brilliantly in the sunlight.

The church bells were ringing, and the parishioners were in the parsonage gate to go to church. But none of them dared to pass the flaming apparition, and all came to a halt. The church bells stopped, but at the instance of the vicar, who could not believe that all his parishioners had deserted him, were rung again.

At last the boldest man in the village bolted past the gate, and the rest stampeded after him, Swinburne gazing at them in quiet wonder at their strange method of going to church.

Pioneer of Cheap Literature.

(J. Arthur Hill in Imprint.)
The introduction of the sloping Roman letters which are known to everybody as Aldine, was made by Aldus Manutius of Venice in the latter part of the fifteenth century. He was the most famous printer of Italy and perhaps of the world.

The books he printed, known as Aldine editions, are much sought after by collectors. The first volume in the new type was a Virgil published in 1501 at the price of about two shillings of our money. Aldus, in fact, was the pioneer of cheap literature.

The Aldine mark, is a dolphin twined about an anchor, with the name "Aldus" divided by the other part of the latter. If any reader finds a card of old books with this mark in his attic or lumber room he is duly advised not to use them for lighting the fire. "They would probably buy him a good annuity for the solace of his declining years."

A Black Peril in Africa.

(Sir H. Rider Haggard in The London Times.)
To my mind, the great question of the future in southern Africa is not as so many suppose, that of the political dominance of Englishmen over Boer, but of the inevitable though, let us hope, far-off struggle for practical supremacy between the white blood and the black.

We may wonder what are the thoughts that pass through the mind of some ancient warrior of Chaka or Dingaan's time, as he sits himself crouched on the ground, for example, where once stood the royal kraal, Duguma, and watches men and women of the Zulu blood passing homeward from the cities in the north. He sees some of them with the white man's smuggled liquor, grotesque in the white man's cast-off garments, hiding, perhaps, in their blankets examples of the white man's doubtful photographs—and then he shivers at the thought of the inevitable struggle for supremacy between the white blood and the black.

The World's Mysteries

WHO WAS PYTHAGORAS?

The name of Pythagoras is a synonym for much that is great and exalting in philosophy, and he left such an impression on this science that a philosophical system has been named for him Pythagoreanism, and yet there is no point in Greek philosophy that is more disputed than is the proper interpretation of this "man." Even the name of Pythagoras is looked upon by many writers as traditional. It is not known when he was born, but it is generally supposed that it was some time during the forty-ninth Olympiad, 584-581 B. C.

It is said that Pythagoras founded an exclusive brotherhood among the aristocracy of Crotona, where he went to reside about 530. The original purpose of this brotherhood was probably not political, and yet the society became involved in the fierce struggles between the aristocracy and the democracy that were at this time raging in lower Italy; and when the popular party gained the upper hand, in its wild fury it turned upon the Pythagorean brothers and burned them in their meeting places. Only a few escaped. It is not certain whether Pythagoras himself perished in this outbreak, or whether he had previously died peacefully in Metapontum, whither he is said to have retired when the storm was gathering. Neither do we know the date of this event.

It is said that Pythagoras studied in his own country under various noted scholars of his day, and also to have visited Egypt and many countries of the east for the purpose of acquiring knowledge.

There is a celebrated story of his having discovered the arithmetical relation of the various sounds produced by hammers of different weights striking upon an anvil, and suspended by strings weights equal to those of the different hammers. The retailers of the story, of course, never tell the trouble to verify the experiment, or they would have discovered that different hammers do not produce different sounds from the same anvil, any more than different clappers do from the same well.

Apart from all direct testimony, however, it may safely be affirmed that the very remarkable influence exerted by Pythagoras, and even the fact that he was made the hero of so many marvelous stories, proves him to have been a man both of singular capabilities and of great acquirements.

Many writers believe that Pythagoras perished in the temple with his disciples, while others think that he fled first to Tarentum, and, that, being driven thence, he escaped to Metapontum, and there starved himself to death. His tomb was shown, at least, at Metapontum in the time of Cicero.

According to some accounts Pythagoras married Theano, a lady of Crotona, and other notices seem to imply that he had a daughter grown up when he came to Crotona.

When we come to inquire what were the philosophical or religious opinions held by Pythagoras himself, we are met at the outset by the difficulty that the majority of the records bearing upon the age of Pythagoras himself. If Pythagoras ever wrote anything his writing perished with him, or not long after. The probability is that he wrote nothing. Everything current under his name in antiquity is spurious.

It is almost certain that Philolaus was the first who published the Pythagorean doctrine at any rate in a written form. Still there were so many Pythagorean teachings through the Pythagorean philosophy that there can be little question as to the germs of the system, at any rate, says one writer, of their having been derived from Pythagoras himself.

It seems peculiar, in view of the very few facts known regarding the Greek philosopher, that he should have so dominated the scientific world of his period as to have founded a school of philosophy named for him, when apparently no one seems to know of just what that philosophy consisted.

CONFIDENCE.

By George Matthew Adams

Confidence is Hope—realized. It is honest Trust, put to the test in advance and not found wanting. The man who enters into a task Confident of Success, enters with the Hope and the Trust that he is going to "make good."

Start your work full of Confidence, and half the results hoped for, are already within your reach.

Natural life is a condition of Confidence. Nature's laws uphold and strengthen you in what you do, if you are open minded enough and clear sighted enough to look squarely into the eyes and soul of Nature and believe in her to render back to you your proportionate results. There are always Nature's conditions of some sort or other ready to aid the man who has Confidence in their existence.

Inside Confidence begets Outside Confidence. The world in general instinctively puts Confidence in the man who is laden with Confidence.

If you have Confidence in your Friends or Employees or in all men in just that measure will your personal Confidence in yourself and your abilities be increased and enlarged. Smile and you will get smiles. Be anxious and you will get anxious. Be other ready to aid the man who has Confidence in their existence.

Confidence in your ability to go ahead and do things which make the things possible is a condition of Confidence.

Have Confidence. Keep it calm and exact. Play it in its turn. Accumulate it for Emergencies. Nurture it when it is weak; hold it back and cool it off when it gets too anxious and under no circumstances let it wander from you or get lost.

Hellas.

The world's great age begins anew,
The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
Her winter weeds outworn;
Heaven smiles, and faiths and empires gleam
Like wrecks of a dissolving dream.A brighter Hellas rears its mountains
From waves serene and far;
A new Pelopon rolls his fountains
Against the morning star;
Wire fairer Temples bloom there sleep
Youth on Cyclades on a sunnier deep.A loftier Argos cleaves the main,
Fraught with a later prize;
Another Orpheus sings again,
And loves, and weeps, and dies;
A new Ulysses leaves once more
Calypso for his native shore.O write no more the tale of Troy,
If earth's death's scroll must be—
No more with Leda's blood the joy
Which dawned upon the free,
Although a subtler Sphinx renew
Riddles of death Thebes never knew.Another Athens shall arise,
And to remoter time
Bequeath, like sunset to the skies,
The splendor of its prime;
And leave, if naught so bright may live,
All earth can take or Heaven can give.Saturn and Love their long repose
Shall with a more bright age end
Than all who fell, than one who rose,
Than many unsubdued:
Not gold, not blood, their altar dowers,
But votive tears and symbol flowers.O cease! must hate and death return?
Cease! must men kill and die?
Cease! drain not to its dregs the urn
Of bitter prophecy:
Of old is death the part—
O might it die or rest at last!

Oldest Living Person.

(From The Christian Herald.)
Probably the oldest person now living is Gertrude Alto, whose home is at Old Town, San Diego, Cal. She is of Mexican Aztec Indian blood, and is believed to be in her 124th year of age. She saw the morning dawn, the noonday brightness and the waning twilight and afterward of her own generation, and now stands as its lone surviving representative a full generation after her father's death. She is nearly blind. In her earlier years it was her delight to go 5 miles up the valley on foot to the old San Diego mission for the service at 5.30 in the morning. She attributes her great age and strength to her lifelong regular habits and outdoor life.

Where Guides Are Tagged.

Woman guides and interpreters in Budapest wear a different colored ribbon for each language which they speak. They are to be seen walking about the city, waiting at railway stations and driving in carriages. Some have two or three ribbons, and others have four, five or six. Bright red represents English, a heliotrope or lavender is German, a brilliant yellow means French, a pale blue is Italian, a brown means Danish, Dutch or a Nile green, and so on throughout most nations of the earth.

TURKEY.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Slaves"

Turkey is a large slice of the middle ages in a state of almost perfect preservation. It is located in full retreat at the western end of Europe and also extends over the eastern end of Asia. There are 1,576,000 square miles in Turkey, or were before the Balkan states began carving it. If the outline of Turkey had been half as square as the miles the country would have gotten along better.

Turkey is a very old country and smells like it. It began to get ambitious in 800 B. C., and by the fifteenth century had spread up the Danube like a heavy rash almost to Vienna. Since then the European nations have spent their spare time pushing Turkey back into Asia and have gotten so far along with the task that one more push will finish the job.

Turkey in Asia is composed mostly of sand and is drier than Kansas when the country attorney is making good. Its principal resource is sand and its principal products are dates, figs, wool, moplen priests and smells. Turkey exports olive oil, old hair rugs and midway dancers in enormous quantities. It imports slaves from the Caucasus and missionaries from America. In almost equal numbers. The celebrated Turkish cigarette, however, is made principally in New Jersey.

The capital of Turkey is Constantinople, which is a city of over 1,000,000 people and 7,000,000 dogs situated at the jumping off place of Europe. Other Turkish cities are Damascus, Smyrna and Bagdad, all of which were great and flourishing cities long before the calendar was reversed and started forward in the year 1 A. D.

The Turkish people consist of two classes—workers and officials. The laboring Turk is honest and every industrious. Because of this he is able to support the official class even at times to support himself. The easiest way to get rich in Turkey is to escape and come to America.

Turkey adheres to the Mohammedan form of religion which allows unlimited wives and does not interfere with politics or business. Turkey gives the American of Hoochee Couches dance the Turkish bath and the Oriental rug, but has kindly retained the harem as an exclusively home feature.

Turkey was an absolute monarchy governed by a Sultan until a few years ago, when the Young Turk army and fired Abdul Hamid with a great bang. It is now a constitutional monarchy. Trying to find the constitution is like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Turkey has long ago been detected by Europe because of its playful habit of slipping up its Christian citizens with a scimitar on holidays and feast days. Because of this Europe has been slaying of Turkey a little at a time, by depriving the scimitar portions. However, no one has yet been found with courage enough to slice off and assimilate Constantinople which will continue to be 100 per cent Turkish until the next fire.

When Mother Reads Aloud.

(From The Denver News.)
When mother reads aloud, the past
Seems real as every day;
I hear the tramp of armies vast,
I see the spears and lances cast,
I join the thrilling fray;
Brave knights and ladies fair and proud
I meet, when mother reads aloud.
When mother reads aloud, far lands
Seem very near and true;
I cross the desert's gleaming sands,
Or hunt the jungle's prowling bands,
Or sail the ocean blue;
Far heights, whose peaks the cold moon shroud,
I scale, when mother reads aloud.
When mother reads aloud, I long
For noble deeds to do—
To help the right, redress the wrong;
It seems so easy to be strong,
So simple to be true,
O, thick and fast the visions crowd
My eyes, when mother reads aloud!

No Snap Now.

Being a congressman in these industrious days is no snap. Just as the members of the house were congratulating themselves on having a little losing time the president passes the word that it would be a good scheme to begin to shape up the legislation "is to be acted on" in the regular session.—Indianapolis News.

L. C. HOPKINS ANSWERS ATTACK ON CHARITIES

L. C. Hopkins, president of the Associated Charities, has issued an answer to the sensational charges brought by Hugh Wallace, of the Associated Charities, "spends $5 giving away $1." Mr. Hopkins advises the preacher to look into the methods employed by the charities in their work before condemning the organization and its officers.

The reply of Mr. Hopkins is, in part, as follows: "Wallace would have us drop our investigations, and accept of what is an enormous waste in the salaries for these workers. If the Associated Charities dropped its investigators, it could spend $500,000 a year in almsgiving and nine-tenths of it would be wasted."

"That salary account? That absurd charge that the charities spends $5 giving away $1. Are there still abroad in the land people who credit that? Are there still those left who so little value the intelligence of the business men who have backed the charities all these years as to think that they would stand for a waste like that?"

"The entire committee considered Mr. Wallace's remarkable attack on the Associated Charities, and our first reply was to let it pass. We came to the opinion that if we let it pass some one would make it a subject for a waste like that."

STATE PUBLICATION WILL BE LIVE ISSUE

Editor of Ontario Books Leading Speaker at Southern Educational Convention.

That the question of publication of school books by the state is to be a live issue in more of the Southern states than one is indicated by the fact that Dr. D. J. Coggin, minister of education of the province of Ontario and editor of the text-books used in that province, has been selected as one of the leading speakers to address the Southern Educational Association at its annual meeting in the field in Nashville, October 20 to November 1.

In this connection State Superintendent M. L. Brittain, who is president of the association, said Friday: "Dr. Coggin has been given special honor of address. He is a man of high character and high ability, and he is well qualified to explain the Ontario system."

FIGHT ON REGRADING OF WHITEHALL FAILS

All Arrangements Complete and Streets Committee Declines to Change Plans.

With W. F. Winecoff acting as spokesman, a delegation representing merchants on Whitehall street who are opposed to starting the regrading on October 15 as intended, appeared before council's street committee yesterday afternoon.

The request made of the committee was that the work be delayed until spring, it being argued that to start on October 15 will mean a great loss to the merchants during the holiday season.

The committee declined to reopen the discussion. Chairman Hall informed the merchants that all the plans for starting the work on October 15 have been completed. The objecting merchants were reminded that President Arkwright had made all the arrangements for directing the street cars through other routes and explained that even though the committee felt inclined to reopen the matter it would be futile for the reason that the council has made all arrangements to start on October 15, and the money which the city has agreed to spend is available this year only and cannot be carried over into the next year.

"However, if the merchants have any new arguments against starting the work the committee will be glad to hear them," Chairman Hall stated.

The only argument offered was that the work will retard trade during the holidays. Councilman R. I. Lynch, of the second ward, whose constituents are largely interested in Whitehall street, informed the opponents of the regrading project that he has been told that the work will not take more than six weeks to perform.

Captain Clayton told the delegation that it is the intention of the county and city to put down a cheap concrete pavement using the old street base temporarily, and the sidewalks will not be interfered with until after the holidays.

MORE BEER DRINKERS SOUGHT BY BREWERS

Atlantic City, October 3.—"The object we are seeking to attain is not to get people to drink more beer, but to get more people to drink beer," declared Jacob Rupprecht, of New York, addressing the convention of the United States Brewers' association here today. The convention will consider a plan to continue the fight against prohibition.

ATLANTA AND SUBURBS HAVE 225,000 PEOPLE

Increase of Nearly 10,000 Shown by Figures Compiled for City Directory.

According to an estimate made Friday by J. W. Hill, director of the census, the new directory of Atlanta, now being compiled, when finished, show a population for the city and suburbs of nearly 225,000. This will mean an increase of approximately 10,000 over the figure of 215,000 shown last year.

Mr. Hill stated that the increase is an unique one, in that the widening of the business section is throwing hundreds upon hundreds into the suburbs, many of which are outside the corporate limits of the city. During the past year, the rapid growth in the number of business houses has compelled families to find new residences, and there was no place to move but to the suburbs.

Another reason for the exodus of families to the outlying districts is said to be the smoke nuisance, which has, however, been somewhat abated since the passage of the smoke ordinance.

"While there is a much larger number of residents than will be shown in the completed directory, most of them live in boarding houses and hotels, and are declared by the proprietors and managers to be transients, and therefore cannot be included in the census," said Mr. Hill.

DAUGHTER GETS $1250 AND HER FATHER $350

J. H. Stephens, whose daughter, Maude Stephens, aged 16, recently recovered $1,250 from the Gate City cotton mills for alleged injuries to her hand, was awarded $350 yesterday in the city court before Judge H. M. Reid for the loss of his daughter's services following the accident.

The plaintiff, who was represented by Attorneys Dorsey, Shelton & Dorsey, contended that the girl, whom he had hired out to the mill people, had been accustomed to working at a machine where she replenished empty bobbins, and that she was shifted to a strange machine and not taught to handle it. The accident then followed, he says, in which the child's hand was caught in a hot rollers and crushed and burned.

The mills, represented by Attorneys Smith, Hammond & Smith, pleaded that the girl had been given instruction in the new machine and that the accident resulted from her carelessness. The date of the accident is given as December 5, 1911.

ONLY FOLLOWED LAW, SAYS JUDGE JORDAN

Justice Inclined to Treat Lightly Sensational Attack on Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Miller, Jr.

Termed a man "with no regard for the law and with an army band of men operating under him, who prey upon the defenseless by a show of firearms, slingshots and handcuffs and terrorize the unfortunate into exorbitant settlements, and generally come under cover of darkness," Justice of the Peace W. T. Jordan, made reply yesterday afternoon that in issuing the attachment referred to, he had only followed the law, as had his constable, D. S. Sutton, upon the property.

The bitter attack upon Justice Jordan and his constable was made in an injunction suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Miller, Jr., through their attorneys, Robert C. Philip H. Alston, before Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court.

$1,500 of Goods Seized. It is claimed in the suit that on August 18 the constable came to their home at 507 West Peachtree street while they were visiting in Commerce, Ga., and took away $1,500 worth of household goods to satisfy a $67 levy made by the sale of the goods.

The levy was made by the constable, who was temporarily halted and Judge Bell appointed Sheriff C. W. Mangum as receiver.

The Millers claim that the property had already been sold to E. Bernard, an attorney, and that they had formed the justice of that before the levy was carried out.

Judge Jordan, through his attorneys, Guber & Jackson, also made the point that the injunction suit was worthless, as there is a law requiring a month's notice from the constable to the owner. He says that for this reason the suit will be thrown out of court.

Seized Too Much Property. The attorneys for the constable, who had been seized more property than was needed to satisfy the smallest debt, and also that one piece of property, a $150 shotgun, had been seized and that the original papers in the case cannot be found. They also declared that the constable had authorized the levy was worthless.

Judge Jordan was inclined to treat the matter rather lightly when seen by the press Friday afternoon. He declared that Scott was a reliable citizen and that the constable had made the attachment, which he understood, was for a grocery bill. He also said that his constable had only done his duty in seizing the property.

The attachment, said the Millers, was absurd, and concealing themselves, resisting legal arrest and were causing their property to be removed beyond the limits of the state.

Didn't Complain to Me. "The charge that Mr. Scott was not solvent and that Christopher Lapis, is all the charge against me. Also the plaintiffs in this petition had not complained to me, and if their attorneys were seeking the right to seize their property it would be better for them to keep to themselves their wonderful theories which they have given out and which doubtless affords them relief, and to familiarize themselves with the law."

"In section 4552 of the code the law says: 'No suit shall be brought against a justice of the peace or constable in the execution of his office until notice shall have been given him or left at his last place of abode one calendar month.'"

"Mr. Sutton is a regularly elected constable, my friend, and as far as I have been able to find out, is an honorable man. This is the first complaint that has ever been brought to my mind against him."

NAVAL STORES STOCK IS BOUGHT BY MYERS

Savannah Men Secure Eastern and Foreign Interests of Defunct Concern.

Savannah, Ga., October 3.—(Special.) Of interest to the naval stores trade all over the world was the announcement made today by Savannah that F. Cooper Myers and associates had bought the eastern and foreign interests of the American Naval Stores company.

Mr. Myers, who was formerly vice president of the defunct American, is one of the organizers of the Standard Naval Stores company, which recently entered the trade here. The sale of the business of the American to the Standard company was an important development in the liquidation policy of the moribund concern.

President M. A. O'Byrne announces that the headquarters of the old company will be retained in Savannah and the task of liquidating the assets will be directed as before. The sale of the business becomes effective October 1.

SHATTERED ROMANCE LEADS TO A LAWSUIT BY SAVANNAH WOMAN

Savannah, Ga., October 3.—(Special.) Alleging that Francis S. Greene, formerly of this city, "sought to make a personal profit of her confidence, that he 'professed great love and affection for her and promised to marry her immediately,' despite the fact that she was 36 years his senior, Mrs. Hamilton B. Whilliam, a wealthy widow, now living at Thunderbolt, has brought suit in the superior court to recover a cottage and lot at Thunderbolt from Greene.

The plaintiff states that since May, 1911, she gave to the defendant $23,403.66 in cash and property, which includes the value of the cottage and lot, which, she states, the defendant obtained from her by fraudulent means.

This suit is the end of a shattered romance which began three years ago. Mrs. Whilliam, widow of William Whilliam, who is now in the United States navy, was evidently infatuated with Francis S. Greene until the crash came on February 15, 1912, in New Orleans.

BIG LOTTERY SWINDLE IN PORTO RICO STOPPED

New York, October 3.—Colonel George R. Colton, governor of Porto Rico, expected to arrive late today on a steamer, is expected to have in his port of the recent suppression of a lottery swindle on the island, according to private messages which have been received here.

It is said that the recent arrest of a merchant, a prominent figure in the alleged head of lottery traffic, has dealt a death blow to the lottery evil which has plagued Porto Rico for years.

For three years the insular police have been trying to run down the Porto Rican manager and agents of a Santo Domingo concern, which has been selling lottery tickets in Porto Rico.

Governor Colton, who retires from the governorship next month, has been taking to Washington a complete report of the raids and the evidence which they furnish.

ROAD SUPERVISORS SAVING OF MONEY

Patterson Says Would Net $15,000 Annually Besides Giving Impetus to Road Building.

The impression seems to have been given currency throughout the state by those who are opposed to the appointment of state road supervisors by the prison commission that a great deal of extra expense would be involved in the change.

The reverse is the case and so far from the supervisors being an additional expense to the state, they would mean the saving of about $15,000 per annum, according to a statement made Friday by Judge T. E. Patterson, a member of the prison commission.

"The proposition is," said Judge Patterson, "to substitute for the five inspectors now employed at salaries of about $350 per month and expenses, four expert civil engineers who shall act as road supervisors at salaries of $150 per month."

"I have here in my desk now a letter from one chairman of a county board who, while he is highly in favor of expert engineers to supervise road building, is opposed to the project because he believes it would involve an expenditure of $10,000 per year to the state. He thinks that this expense should be borne by the counties and that each county should be compelled to pay for the engineer for the time that he is employed."

Will Save Money. "He entirely misconceives the plan. We would substitute for the inspectors expert road supervisors at a cost, which would be about $15,000 per year less than we are now paying."

"Now while the law distinctly provides for the appointment of inspectors, there is no provision, so far as I can find it, for inspectors. That work can be done by the prison commission and I believe it should be so done."

"In place of inspectors to look after the county convicts, we will take over that work ourselves, should my plan be adopted, and we will give to each of the counties, using convicts, free of charge, the expert advice of a road engineer for a certain number of days in each year."

"I believe that by so doing we would carry out the spirit and intent of the law and furnish an impetus to good road building such as has not been known in the state since the convict lease system was abolished and the convicts set to work on the roads."

GREEK BADLY CUT BY ENRAGED NEGRO IN A LOCKED ROOM

Battling with an enraged negro in a locked room, Christopher Lapis, a Greek weaver vender, last night was severely slashed about the throat and head while a helpless crowd of pedestrians gazed at the bloody scene through the windows of a store at 58 North Forsyth street.

The wounded man was carried to the Grady hospital. His assailant, a burly negro, escaped and is being hunted by the police. The fight grew out of an argument over payment for a weaver which the negro had bought from Lapis.

Lapis charged the negro had not paid. As the black walked away, the Greek followed. The negro ran into the store at No. 58, Lapis behind him. As the latter entered the door, the negro slammed it to, locking it with a catch lock.

The negro pulled a wicked knife and advanced upon the white man. Lapis swung a chair, bringing it down heavily on the negro's head. As he did, the negro leaped upon him, inflicting several deep gashes in his head and throat.

A crowd of pedestrians, attracted to the scene by the Greek's incoherent jabbering, gazed on helplessly, unable to get through the door. As Lapis fell to the floor, the negro escaped through a window.

Services at Railroad Y. M. C. A. Services will be resumed on Sunday at the Railroad Young Men's Christian association, when Dr. Caleb A. Ridley, of the Central Baptist church, will speak at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. A male quartet will sing, while the organization's orchestra will render several numbers. The public is invited to the services.

Many Government Jobs.

Secretary Jennings, of the civil service commission for the fifth district, announces an examination on Wednesday, October 22, for a medical intern in his offices in the Atlanta federal building. From the examination a selection will be made for assignment to the government hospital for the insane at Washington, D. C., the day being $300 per annum with maintenance. On Monday, October 27, the secretary will hold an examination for an associate physicist in theoretical and experimental optics, for males only, for assignment to the bureau of standards, department of commerce, at Washington, D. C., with a salary of $2,500. Monday, November 3, an examination will be held by Secretary

Jennings to secure an assistant director for assignment to a position in the office of public roads, department of agriculture, with a salary of $3,500 a year.

Big Calendar in U. S. Court.

The United States district court for the northern district of Georgia, with Judge Newman presiding, will open its regular fall term Monday with one of the largest criminal calendars it has shown in years. But none of the cases booked for trial are of importance, because all are for violations of the internal revenue laws. There will be something like half a hundred of these cases to occupy the attention of the court.

New Furniture In Old Styles

You have gone into homes where even the furniture seemed to bid you welcome and make you at ease at once.

What kind of furniture was it?
Was it overly decorated? No.
Was it garish? No.
Was the table of one style, the chairs of another? No.

Rather, did not the room reflect a harmonious whole, with every piece of the same style? And was not that style one of simple lines, decorated, perhaps, but not in a showy, gaudy fashion?

Solid, strong, warm-hearted—furniture built as the old masters used to build it.

The new stocks that now fill our furniture store are made up of just such furniture.

True styles, sturdily built, graceful, fitting for the best traditions of southern homes—and as inexpensive as furniture that is worthy of the name can be made.

Are you planning to have new furniture this season?

Players who lend their names for monetary consideration to be signed to articles written by others probably will be declared ineligible to take part in such series. Mr. Johnson asserted. He did not favor the suggestion relins and Baker. If Mack wants to play the Giants without Collins or Baker on the infield, he will have that opportunity if they persist in permitting their names to be signed to articles which they do not prepare.

President Johnson will leave Sunday for New York and if possible will take this matter up personally with some of the players.

UMPIRES NAMED FOR PIRATES-NAPS GAMES

League club, was notified today that Umpires Elson and Emslie will officiate at the game between the Pittsburgh Cleveland post season series games.

President Lynch expressed but no umpire for the game and Dreyfus appealed to President Herrmann, of the National commission. He submitted the question to the various club owners and they agreed to have the matter resolved from four such favorable to the appointment of two umpires.

WONDERFUL RACE AT MOTORDROME

Ten-Mile Event the Greatest Race Ever Run on a Motorcycle Track—The New Riders Prove Stars.

Atlanta motorcycle fans who failed to attend the races at the local motordrome last night, missed the best races that have ever been staged on a motorcycle track.

The 10-miles final of the Billy Smith sweepstakes was the greatest race ever staged on anybody's track. Four men, Swartz, Luther, Lewis and Bruggeman entered and for the forty laps, they were so closely bunched that at no stage of the race could any one tell who would win.

Swartz led from the start, but Bruggeman challenged him on every lap, but could not quite pass him. Several times he got abreast, and when Swartz tried to pocket him, Bruggeman showed that he was no novice at the game, by the headwork he exhibited.

Riding at a 30-mile-an-hour clip, when Swartz tried to ride the Denver lad up the track, Bruggeman would extend his elbows and force Swartz back down the boards, with the crowd yelling itself hoarse at the impending fall, which never resulted. Luther rode a great race, beating Bruggeman out on the last lap. The three leaders were scarcely a half a length apart.

Flickenstein the new rider from Denver was the hit of the evening. He took the measure of Tex Richards, the most popular rider at the local track, every time they raced. Flickenstein has the 'bot' and he knows how to ride it. He won every event he entered.

By defeating Richards in the final of the Motordrome purse, Flickenstein kept the latter from winning the handsome silver trophy owned by Ed Stoddard for the rider winning the finals three times. Richards had won it twice previously.

The Motordrome management is to be congratulated for going through with their program and announcing, despite the cool weather and the poor crowd that was out, in the future the meets will probably be held in the afternoon. Continuation of such sport as was furnished last night and the speed fans are sure to be out in force.

JEANNETTE WINNER OVER THE TAR BABY

New York, October 3.—Joe Jeannette, outpointed Sam Langford in a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. The negro heavyweight weighed Jeannette 195 and Langford 192½ pounds.

Jeannette was in superb condition while his opponent did not appear as well trained. Langford's weight began to tell upon him in the second round of the contest. Jeannette outboxed his man in the first three rounds, using a left jab to break down the round. The men fought hard at close range at times and both suffered severe body punishment.

In the fourth Langford showed his best. Heavy rights and lefts to the head knocked Jeannette forward. In the fifth, Jeannette began to forge ahead again in the next round, but strong blows to the body broke the round to an even break when Jeannette was again forced to hold to avoid punishment.

Langford's exactions began to tell on him in the sixth round, and in an effort to bring the contest to a quick close to avoid a loss on points, he tried hard to send his right over to the jaw. Jeannette's clever footwork stood him in good stead, however, and he was able to keep away from Langford's wild swings one of which grazed his jaw.

There were no knock downs in the fight which was the roughest the men had last engagement of the men in this city.

In the first round Jeannette slipped to the floor but was up immediately.

INDIANAPOLIS CLUB SOLD

Denver Moguls Buy American Association Team.

Indianapolis, October 3.—The Indianapolis American Association baseball club was sold here late today by Meyer, owner, to James C. McGill, George A. Nahlgreen and Jack Hendricks of Denver. The purchase price, said to be $125,000, is decided to be the largest ever paid for a minor league organization.

The disposal of the franchise by Mr. Meyer comes after a year of futile effort to build up a winning aggregation. He became owner during the summer of 1912, and that season and the one just ended the team finished in last place in the association race. In 1913, when the local team won the association pennant baseball from an Indianapolis stand point has been disappointing and attendance has been poor.

The negotiations were opened in mid-summer when Mr. McGill stopped here on a trip east. The season just finished was particularly displeasing to the owner.

The Indianapolis players, individually good men could not play together and lost regularly. Mr. McGill for years has been the president of the American Association of the Western League. He and his associates expect to begin work at once toward building up the local team.

ELECTROSCOPE WILL BE RUN AT THE ORPHEUM

Like Wells has arranged a treat for the baseball lovers in securing the Electroscopic to reproduce the world's series games at the Orpheum.

The machinery will be erected on the stage Monday in charge of an expert operator. Direct wires with the playing fields in New York and Philadelphia have been installed. Every ball pitched hit or fielded will be seen in action. The action is thoroughly clear and every action of a player will be reproduced the moment the original was executed.

The Electroscopic was successfully operated in the larger cities last year and some weeks ago Mr. Wells made application for several outfits to put in some of his southern theaters.

The prices of admission will be 25 and 50 cents. The Orpheum will especially to ladies and a treat is in store for all the fans.

ALLEN NOW CHAMPION AT POCKET BILLIARDS

New York, October 3.—Benny Allen of Kansas City won the world's pocket billiard championship tonight, defeating Ed Walker of Chicago, the title holder for several years by a total score in three nights play of 609 to 516.

Allen continued his cool and steady play of the two previous nights. He gave a masterly exhibition of billiard play. The score of the nights play stood 200-204 Allen, 200-200 Walker. The best of the evening was 20 and Allen 18.

The total score of the three nights Allen 609, Walker 516. Total, 1125.

Soccer Practice

A meeting of Soccer football enthusiasts was held Thursday night at Spaulding. Plans were formulated for the formation of a four-team soccer league. A silver trophy cup was of fered to the Spaulding & Bros. for the league champions.

The first practice of the season will be held Saturday afternoon at Piedmont park at which time the Atlanta club, Fox's and Davis' team and Western Union teams will be out and a time will be secured on all prospective candidates.

HE HURLS ROSARY IN FACE OF CROWD

Schmidt, Who Confessed Slay-ing Anna Aumuller, Held by Coroner's Jury and Is Taken to Tombs.

New York, October 2.—Hans Schmidt, the priest who confessed killing Anna Aumuller, became frenzied today at the coroner's inquest into the death of his victim, rose from his seat, snatched from his neck the rosary he had worn ever since his incarceration, tore it into many bits and hurled them at the newspaper reporters sitting half a dozen steps away. The jury found him responsible for the girl's death.

Schmidt's outburst of temper occurred in the presence of a jury of millionaires empanelled to conduct the inquest. The verdict was quickly found. It follows:

"We, the jury, believe that Anna Aumuller came to her death on September 2, 1913, at No. 68 Bradhurst avenue, at the hands of Hans Schmidt. Schmidt was immediately remanded to the Tombs without bail to await the action of the grand jury."

Jury of Millionaires.
Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, was foreman of the jury. His fellow jurors included Vincent Astor, E. J. Greenhut, merchant, Mortimer D. Rosenberg, cigar manufacturer, and E. S. Marston, banker.

During the examination of witnesses not a trace of emotion crossed Schmidt's face, but Coroner Feinberg's charge seemed to stir him. Jumping to his feet Schmidt tore the rosary from his neck and hurled it into many parts and hurled them at the newspaper men.

The torso of the victim was identified by Anna Hirt who roomed with the Aumuller girl at the parish house of St. Boniface's church. The Hirt woman was followed on the stand by detectives the physician who made the autopsy and finally by Inspector Faurot, in charge of the detective bureau here to whom Schmidt confessed. Faurot detailed in a hundred words or less the substance of the confession.

"Do you wish to place your client on the stand?" Coroner Feinberg asked counsel for Schmidt. The answer was negative, and the coroner, apparently expecting that Schmidt would testify, asked if the priest had nothing to say. Nothing whatever replied the lawyer.

All Over in 25 Minutes.
Within fifteen minutes from the time the first witness had taken the stand the jury had returned. Within ten minutes more it had returned with its verdict.

LOCAL FIRE INSURERS BANQUET HUGH WILLET

Honor Guest Tells of Work of Convention of National Association.

The Atlanta members of the Georgia Association of Life Insurers gave a complimentary dinner last night in the pine room of the Hotel Ansley to Hugh M. Willet, recently elected chairman of the executive committee of the National Life Insurers' association.

Mr. Willet reviewed the work of the convention of the national organization, held at Atlantic City, and at which he was elected to the next highest office within the gift of the delegates.

The plan of the publicity committee of the national organization, which embraces the education of the people in the matter of income insurance was also explained by Mr. Willet, who declared that while the plan had not yet received financial support it would undoubtedly go through at the forthcoming meeting of the executive board of the organization, to be held at Pittsburg, Pa., Monday.

During the meeting of the executive board in Pittsburg, which will attend the matter of organizing a legislative bureau to look after the problem of increasing taxation of insurance companies will also be voted upon.

The dinner last night was attended by about thirty of Atlanta's life insurance agents. J. W. Doherty presided and introduced Mr. Willet to the dinner.

HOLDS MARRIAGE VALID.

Supreme Court Will Pass on Unique Law Point

The supreme court will be called upon to decide a unique point of law regarding the validity of marriages when a case decided by Judge W. D. Liles, raising on a charge of bigamy yesterday, goes before the highest court.

In his charge the judge held that when a man marries a woman not legally divorced and does not know of it at the time, but afterwards learns of it when her divorce is made legal that should he continue to live with her as her husband he cannot have the marriage annulled as illegal.

The point came up in the divorce of P. C. Kelley and Mrs. Annie C. Kelley, who were married in 1904. At the time of her marriage to Kelley the woman he is now suing had not received the second verdict from Judge Holder. As a result of the charge the jury returned a verdict for Mrs. Kelley.

The regular divorce mill of the superior court will begin to grind in earnest again Monday, when over 100 unhappy marriages will be taken up before Judge Liles, and once again the mill of Reno will be given to the old courtroom.

WINNING THE PENNANT SUBJECT OF SERMONS

Members of the congregation of the Baptist Tabernacle will be taught in a series of sermons by Dr. Lincoln McConnell some lessons in religious life that will be drawn from the wonderful work of the cricketers in landing the Southern League pennant. Dr. McConnell states that he will give the same kind of work in his church that Billy Smith had on his team.

His first sermon has already been preached. It was on "Winning the Pennant." The Men Who Score will be the subject of the lecture-sermon Sunday night. Dr. McConnell intends to keep up this series of lectures for some time, and in them will take up some of the moral conditions of the young manhood of Atlanta and the need for them to have, as the pastor puts it, "The kind of stuff in them that wins pennants."

Former Ambassador Dies.

Rome, October 3.—Baron Saverio Fava, former Italian ambassador to the United States, died here today. He was born in 1822. Baron Fava was retired from the diplomatic corps by royal decree in April, 1901, and sailed for Italy the following June to resume his seat in the senate.

"Watch and Pray"

"Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Honest And Efficient Government" The Outlook

Crocker united the worst elements in New York.
To these he added some good citizens.
Hence his influence.

Without the assistance of those ever complacent, supposedly respectable ones serving as figure-heads, he would have been helpless. The evil are ever in the minority. They have power only when they have with them those "who have a name to live."

With their assistance, Crocker ruled.

His favorite weapon was the police force.

Devery, his Chief of Police, made the New York force a byword for corruption throughout the world.

Today Crocker is gone.

Devery has fallen.

Yet their creature, The Tammany Tiger, still claws and gnaws at the city's heart, and leaves a trail of degradation and suffering in its path.

But this, too, will go.

The misguided good are finding it more and more difficult in the light of day to eat the carrion which the tiger throws them.

The hideous reek of it makes many turn away.

Others track it—but these are no jackals seeking to feed upon his leavings—they are men unwilling that it should live. They seek to kill.

The tiger's end is near.

People are thinking: this means death to the beast.

And other cities have learned a lesson.

When one comes uniting all that is worst in a city's life, if men know it, the man cannot hope to add the support of the few good citizens, as did Crocker when he held the tiger's leash.

For men are waking.

In Atlanta, a few days ago, they gained for you that weapon, the right of the Referendum, Initiative and Recall.

And at the polls, when one man clearly and unequivocally stated publicly his position favoring law and order, men placed him by their votes at the head of the ticket.

This was no victory for a faction, but for the right.

Men are waiting. They are watching.

He who thinks to build or serve a faction has no place in Atlanta or the State.

OURS IS NO DIVIDED CITY.

For you are recognizing the truth.

Long ago men seeking to trap Jesus asked him a question. Answering, He asked for a coin, and bade them answer: "Whose is the image and superscription?"

They replied: "Caesar's."

The Lord answered: "Render, therefore, unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's."

Look at your dollar! Caesar's name is not upon it, but that of God.

No longer is there a Caesar.

You are accountable to God.

Every man a king, must answer to his Maker for the affairs of his kingdom.

A realization of this eternal truth marks the passing of the machine and the boss.

Man is his own master.

Man is thinking for himself.

You are hearing and obeying not man, but your conscience.

Bossism is on the wane.

Let it die.

SHARP DECLINE IN COTTON PRICES

Weather Outlook Better and Freer Southern Offerings Main Factors in Decline. Closed Barely Steady.

New York, October 3.—Better prospects for clearing weather in the south and predictions of a rapidly increasing movement, with freer southern offerings, seemed to be the chief factors responsible for a sharp decline in today's cotton market. Selling was more or less general and continued in houses with foreign and southern connections, as well as from local sources. Offerings were well enough taken by the buying of shorts or bullish trade interests to cause occasional rallies, but after opening firm at an advance of 1/16, the points the general try was downwards and the close was barely steady at 12 1/16, a net loss of 10 to 20 points, with January contracts at 12 1/16, or 20 points under the high records of yesterday morning.

Relatively few Liverpool cables and continued large English spot sales served to offset unfavorable reports concerning the Manchester labor situation, and the price advance here reflected storm damage reports from the southwest.

Private prices carried active months back to nearly the best level of yesterday, but the market met a very lively reaction on the advance and soon turned easier. The detailed weather report for the Houston district, showing general clearing and showers forecast for today probably retarded the middle of the day and helped moderate rallies, but generally fair weather was predicted. For the balance of the day, offering was a tendency to increase on all the bulges.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to continued buying and covering on bad crop reports from the southwest. Many private wires were also received here during the day, claiming that recent severe storms had caused serious damage to open cotton in central and north Texas, but the outlook, however, was favorable, as eastern belt conditions.

The week-end statements seemed to be without effect on the advance, and the full-to-night figures were contrasted with still heavier spinners' takings and it is reported that foreign exchange markets that overvalued cotton bills so far this season have been about 15 per cent in excess of the spot.

Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands, 14.10; middling gulf, 14.35; sales, none.

Real Music and Real Fun Make Charm of Robin Hood

Merriment, tunefulness and gaiety, and all of the wholesome, happy, kind pleasures a big audience last night at the Atlanta when the de Haven Opera company played "Robin Hood" even though the tempo true to the meaning of temperament frowned whenever somebody else was encouraged to sing. The opera was even so, collecting every body called back every time they sang to collect some more. The opera was even so, collecting every body called back every time they sang to collect some more. OWENS AND WOODWARD WILL WORK TOGETHER

Alderman-Elect From Eighth
Tells Mayor He Bears No
Animosity for Opposition

Alderman-elect John S. Owens of the eighth ward called on Mayor Woodward this morning to discuss the city's financial condition. Owens said he had no animosity for the opposition and was willing to work with the mayor for the best interests of the city.

Good Morning Mr Mayor

Good morning Mr Mayor—I—Mayor Woodward grasped the outstretched hand of John S. Owens, Alderman-elect from the eighth ward, as he came to his office this morning. Owens said he had no animosity for the opposition and was willing to work with the mayor for the best interests of the city.

Bar and contents burned. The bar and contents of a small establishment were burned last night. The fire started in the kitchen and spread to the bar area.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Her dress aflame, Miss Beatrice Dockwell, a pretty telephone operator living at 82 Richardson street, dived beneath the slats of a bed in her room yesterday morning about 10 o'clock screaming an alarm that brought other occupants of the hotel.

Members of the North Georgia Meth odist conference which met today gave an opportunity on October 12 to contribute to the support and main- tenance of the Orphan's Home at De- catur.

Saturday October 11 has been officially designated as Decatur Work Day but the actual contributions will not be called in until the following Sunday. It is hoped that the large number of the expenditures of the institution have been greatly increased during the past few years.

Direct Entrance on WHITEHALL ST.

MOST MEN REALIZED that High's prices are low and that they can save money when they buy at High's and find out by experience that it pays. BUT A GREAT MANY men don't like to go into a department store—they are afraid of getting into a crowd of bargain hunters. A man doesn't want to waste his time and he doesn't like crowds, and useless wandering.

THE MEN'S STORE at High's is now a separate proposition by itself with the front entrance on Whitehall street. The busy man can slip in at any time and find everything so convenient, so arranged and so played that selecting and completing the purchase need take only a few moments.

PROMPT SERVICE the excellence and variety of men's every need in Shirts, Neckwear, Underwear, etc. and the convenience of location make High's the best place for thousands of men to buy.

THE GREAT ADVANTAGE at High's is that we always have some special attraction and you can save money here. SATURDAY FOR IV. STANCE High's is selling $1.00 Percalé Shirts for 69c.

ALL MEN WEAR Sox and nearly all men can wear good Sox Sunday at Saturday prices. The famous Inter-woven Lisle mercerized kind with high spliced heels and double feet and any color you may want in all sizes at the pair PUTTING IN A GOOD FRUIT YOU MEN who want to get away from the extravagance in dress this fall had better lose no time in looking at High's New Sox. They are just in from the class maker. The patterns are decidedly effective. A good pair of socks is a very attractive line. $1.00 each. TRY THE WAY, why not drop in today (Saturday) and look at the 69c Shirts mentioned in this announcement?

JUST OPENED—100 Men's Tan Rain Coats, plaid lined, 54 to 56 inches long, turn up collar, good pockets; $5.00 value for $3.50

FLOOD CONDITIONS IN LOUISIANA IMPROVING

Lake Charles La. October 3.—Flood conditions continued to improve this morning. The Calcasieu river and the lake were slowly receding and further damage from their overflow appears to be over. Business in the city however, is still practically suspended and it will be several days before anything like normal conditions prevail. Boats are the only means of transportation in many parts of the city. The heaviest loss from the flood will fall on the rice crop. This has been variously estimated, from one to one and a half million dollars dependent on weather conditions after the water has receded from the fields. The railroads have suffered greatly and both live stock and other crops have been lost.

Improved conditions are reported from all points in the flooded country in this section.

If the house is situated so, so can see all that the neighbors are doing, a woman doesn't care if the cat is damp.
