WILL TAKE A HAND IN PANKHURST CASE

President Summons Secretary of Labor Wilson and Immigration Commissioner Caminetti to Conference.

BELIEVED PRESIDENT WILL ADMIT MILITANT

President Is Taking Keen Interest in Case—He Believes the Principle of Free Speech Should Be Maintained.

Washington, October 19-The pres dent of the United States is to take hand in deciding the question whether Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette of England, shall be admitted to this country.

President Wilson tonight called conference for early tomorrow with Secretary Wilson, of the department of labor, and Commissioner General Caminetti, of the immigration bureau. High government officials, who are believed to know the attitude of the president, predicted that Mrs. Pank-hurst would be admitted. Earlier in the day Commissioner Caminetti, after an informal hearing of counsel, had declined to release Mrs land immigration station at New York, where she is being confined pending final action on her appeal from the order of deportation issued in New York yesterday.

Mr. Caminetti informally sought the advice of his superiors on the ques-tions at issue, and applied to the white house for a conference. The president had been taking keen interest in the case, realizing the important interna-tional phases of the question.

The question of whether Mrs. Pankhurst should be admitted or deported was a subject of absorbing interest to many in government circles. It became known tonight that a great many high officials favored admitting her, not because of sympathy for the individual or her cause, but on the ground

They contended that not only Mrs. Pankhurst's personal rights were being invaded by her detention longer than was absolutely necessary, but that important and substantial property rights of the allen and of citizens of this country were being placed in jeopardy.' Commissioner Caminetti promptly nade it clear, however, that he could be rushed into a decision because of the money involved in Mrs. Pank-hurst's engagements. That, he said, was entirely aside from the real issue, i. e., whether the British militant was entitled under the law to enter the United States. He refused for this reason to hear Frank S. O'Neil, as counsel for the management of Madison Square Garden, N. Y., where Mrs. Pankhurst is advertised to speak tonight. Mr. O'Neil then entered an appearance as a representative of Mrs. Pankhurst. Just before the hearing began there came by special delivery mail the of-ficial record of the proceedings before and F. S. ## Witness Is Atlanta Man Who Says He Left City On Account of Threats

I. W. Fisher, Formerly a Railroad Employee Here, Upon His Arrival in Atlanta, Is Rushed to the Office of Luther Rosser in Grant Building and Has Remained There for Many Hours While Detectives and Reporters Wait Outside for Him to Leave.

MAN HE ACCUSES IS STILL IN ATLANTA; HAS WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN IN CITY

Representatives of Pencil Factory Superintendent Are Now Engaged in Probing Story Told by Fisher and in Investigating Record and Actions of Man Who, According to Witness, Is Guilty of the Atrocious Murder of Pretty Little Mary Phagan.

All night long headquarters detectives scouted over the Grant building in an effort to lay hands on I. W. Fisher, now of Birmingham, formerly of Atlanta, who says Leo Frank did not kill Mary Phagan and accuses another Atlanta man of the crime, and who was held securely under lock and key in the offices of Luther Rosser on the seventh floor.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning the detectives had not been successful. Every exit to the building was closely guarded, every possible outlet cared for. Plainclothes men patrolled the entire structure every thirty minutes. Policemen hovered in the vicinity, ready to give aid at a moment's notice. it was a strategic battle between detective and lawyer, with the lawyer running a shade the better at time of going to press.

The detectives want to take the mysterious "witness" quarters where they may investigate him on their own hook and to their heart's content. Attorneys Rosser and Arnold do not want such a thing to happen. Thus far, it hasn't.

Fisher arrived in Atlanta Sunday morning. He was taken immediately to the offices of Messrs. Rosser and Arnold. He hasn't seen outside the place as yet. He is temporarily, though voluntarily, under confinement. Galveston-Nuns in Party Just what the outcome will be, no one seems to know. Even Messrs. Rosser > and Arnold say they dare not speculate. His story exonerates Leo M. Frank, convicted of the Phagan murder, and accuses another Atlanta man whose name is being withheld. Attorneys Rosser and Arnold, they say, are investigating this man of their own accord. They declare they have asked headquarters detectives to assist them in the investigation. The headquarters men told the attorneys that they would use their own discretion in the matter. No investigation along that line has been put forth by the detectives up to date.

> Fisher says-through Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold-that the rumor is false that he witnessed the murder. His story is to the effect that the man he accuses, who is a former acquaintance, came to him on the morning of the crime and told of an engagement he was alleged to have had with Mary Phagan at the pencil factory.

GAVE FISHER MONEY TO LEAVE ATLANTA

Later in the day, Fisher says, the man came to him, saying he "had played hell in general," and after confiding such secrets, gave Fisher an amount of money on which to leave the city, advising Fisher to depart immediately. Fisher says he acted accordingly, going to Tennessee and later to Birmingham.

He also states that the accused man has sent him liberal sums of money at intervals, always with the admonition to keep mum. Fisher's explanation of his confession is that the secret weighed so heavily on his conscience that he could hold it no longer, deciding last Friday night to pour it into the willing ears of Chief of Police Bodeker in Birmingham. Both Mr. Arnold and Mr. Rosser say the man named in Fisher's story is still in Atlanta, that he has lived here all his life and is a man with a wife and two children. He is a man of moderate means, they say, who lives in a respectable neighborhood. They would not reveal his occupation or even the section of the city in which he resides.

Fisher's connection with the famous case has created a clash between Frank's defense and the detective department that is yet to be equaled. Late Sunday night Detectives Waggoner, Coker, Garner and John Starnes, the latter of who is one of the two prosecutors in the Frank trial, frankly told the two attorneys that they intended holding he Birmingham man as a material witness so that they might investigate him thoroughly. That is, if they could lay hands on him.

Mr. Arnold and Mr. Rosser replied fully as frankly that the headquarters men had no opportunity to lay hands on Fisher, and that they intended keeping him locked up in order to keep the detectives from making him a real prisoner. Both men intimated that, before they would allow Fisher to fall into the hands of the detectives, they would, of their own accord, issue warrant against him and have him jailed on their responsibility.

At nightfall Sunday, Mr. Rosser called representatives of each Atlanta newspaper into his office for a statement of the situation. It was then that St. Louis, October 19.—The entire the Birmingham man's identity was first made known. Fisher was not perrailroad terminal of East St. Louis, said mitted in the room during the statement. Neither were reporters allowed to see him.

NO ONE IS ALLOWED GLIMPSE OF WITNESS

He was kept closely hidden and even pleas from newspaper men to just get one curious glimpse at his features were turned down. Both attorneys admitted practically that they did not pin much faith to the man, and impressed upon the reporters that they did not stand sponsor for him or his

"We are merely investigating him," were their words. "Beyond that, ve cannot speak our attitude, except to say that we have been afflicted by many, many cranks during the Frank case."

Each stated emphatically that the first they had known of Fisher was when newspaper men telephoned them of his detention in Birmingham at midnight Saturday. The first interest they took in his case, they stated, was Sunday when they were called to their office to interview the man. Neither, they declared, had spoken more than a dozen words to him.

A stenographic statement was taken down from the "witness" by an attache of the office. Then he was put in his skyscraper confinement. Just how long he will stay there depends entirely upon the endurance of the shifts of detectives who are keeping watch downstairs, and the legal procedure which Messrs. Arnold and Rosser might employ.

Fisher is a man about 43 years old, who has a wife and three children living in Atlanta, it is said. He has the appearance of a day laborer and wears no collar. He needed a shave upon arriving in Atlanta, and he seemed nervous and irritable. A reporter who boarded his train at Austell suspected that he was addicted to drugs, and asked his escort if this was so. The that he was addicted to drugs, and asked his escort if this was so. answer was: "No! He's been drinking, that's why he acts and looks that way." His former Atlanta address will not be revealed by the attorneys, because, they explain, he lived near the man whom he accuses. They were old companions, the lawyers say, and to divulge his Atlanta residence would put the newspaper men on a trail entirely too warm. Fisher was found, say the attorneys, through rumors that had come from Birmingham to C. W. Burke, an ex-detective, who is now connected with the Rosser and Arnold firm. The reports had it that Fisher had been telling of his self-acclaimed connection with the Phagan mystery. Burke, of his own accord, it is said, made several visits to Birmingham, finally locating the man. Just how Fisher was impelled to make the statement to Chief Bodeker is not known.

FISHER'S STORY OF CRIME

Dispatches from Birmingham last night give Fisher the name of "Rob-ert W. Fisher," while his name is given out locally as I. W. Fisher. Chief Bodeker has stated to The Con-stitution correspondent in the Alabama city that Fisher told him he vitnessed the murder. Fisher's story, according to Bodeker's statement to The Constitution epresentative, was that he had seen the crime, and was offered a large sum of money to keep the secret and leave Atlanta. He refused, so the story goes, and was threatened, after which he decided it was best to leave. According to the Birmingham story, Fisher kept the crime hidden because he thought Leo Frank would be acquitted Upon hearing of Frank's conviction, he went to the Birmingham chief with his startling narrative. Bodeker, it is said in news dispatches, believes the man's story Fisher is a pipeman with the Louis-ville and Nashville railroad. He has been employed in that work since living in Birmingham. He has been away from Atlanta only three weeks. It is said. Much of his time was spent in Tennessee, mostly Chatta-

The Grant building all day Sunday was one busy little building. Reporters flocked over it like a convention of newspaper men. Headquarters detectives scouted here and there, watching every move in the expectato not finding Fisher so that they might carry him to headquarters.

No one was permitted to see him. Shortly after 6 o'clock, the night-watchman, J. H. Cook, took his stand in the center of the lobby, clapped his ands for order and was immediately surrounded by a crowd of reporters and detectives.

"Gentlemen," he said with official dignity, "we have stopped the elevators, it being stopping time, and we are going to close the building. The man whom you want to see is locked up on the seventh floor and there isn't a chance to get to him. The best thing for everybody to do is to go home.

With which he cut out the lights, leaving the lobby illuminated only by the glow of cigars and cigarettes and the frequent flare of matches. But nobody left. The crowd thinned out later in the night, but still many de-tectives and newspaper men remained to keep the vigil until dawn.

Fisher was furnished with food carried to him by Burke. Whether he slept or not is unknown.

Mr. Arnold and Mr. Rosser left the building shortly after 6 c'clock, leav. ing the office in charge of two young men connected with the firm, who did not even venture forth during the night, according to the report of reporters and detectives who kept their faithful watch on the seventh floor.

When asked why he did not obtain a warrant to arrest Fisher as a ma-terial witness, Detective John Starnes, who was in charge of the headquarters men at the Grant building, stated that he did not wish to be put in the attitude of trying to take a hand in the affairs of Frank's de-

"We will get him, however," he said, whenever he comes out of that office. We are not going to be unpleasant about it, and we do not want to create trouble. But we'll get him some way or other.'

According to Detective Bob Waggoner, of headquarters, who was called into Mr. Rosser's office during the afternoon, the attorney requested Waggoner to investigate the man whom Fisher accuses. The detective says Rosser offered to put in his hands certain information and evidence on which he would work.

"I told him I would use my own discretion about the matter," Was-goner stated, "which resulted in Mr.

named.
Since leaving Atlanta Fisher is said to have been receiving twenty-five dollars each week but his conscience hurt him since Frank's conviction and he sought Chief Bodeker. Family Has Moved.

In a search last night to locate the family of Fisher, which he declares lives in Atlanta, a Constitution reporter developed the fact that the family of an I. W. Fisher once lived at 797 Marietta street. The nouse at that number is now vacant.

Neighbors stated that Mrs. Fisher who used to live at 797 Marietta street had moved to 734 Marietta street had moved to 734 Marietta street had moved to 734 Marietta street with her two children "shortly after Fisher had left for Tennessee to obtain employment"

Inquiry at *734 Marietta street brought to light that a family by the name of Fisher lived at that address but none of the members of the family were in. A boarder declared that the husband was somewhere in Tennessee at the present time

OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH DIPS ARE VERY BUSY; W. G. GOSS LOSES $86

While threading his way through a large crowd at the Union depot yesterday afternoon W G Goss, of 385 Glennwood avenue was roughly jostled Mr Goss did his best to keep the crowd from injuring his little daughter and she for a moment occupied his entire attention. A second later, reaching for his wallet to pay for a ticket, he found it missing Mr Goss at once reported his loss to the police, stating that the wallet contained $86.

This is by far the boldest work of the desperate gang of "dips" who for a month past have been operating in this city. The police have done their best to apprehend the gang at work, but owing to the fact that there are about fifteen of them who travel together it has been difficult to spot the guilty parties.

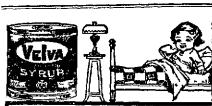

Phin clothes men, under the orders of Chief of Police Beavers, have been stationed at Five Points, the place where most of the pocket-picking has occurred, but so far the efforts of the officers have proved without avail. The police have openly acknowledged that they are well nigh helpless in detecting the 'dips". Chief Beavers has issued a warning to all citizens to beware of pickpockets when traversing the crowded downtown section.

Now Then, Suits at $25.00 Which in Offering We Beg to Remark-

Or rather we beg to discourse for a moment about standards.

Down in Mexico they have a dollar that in United States money is worth not a dollar, but a fraction less than Still it is a dollar, according to the Mexican standard.

Quite a difference between the standards, isn't there?

Now, there is a difference among the standards of stores in regard to women's $25.00 suits. We have heard much of late about women's $25.00 suits. They are all $25.00 suits because the price tickets show they are!

But what about the standard by which they are declared $25,00 suits?

There is where your judgment comes in, since the government has not decided the suit question as it has the dollar question.

Take these suits as you will, see them today.

According to our standard they are $25.00 suits, worth it through and through, but no more; we have better suits at $29.75, $32.50 and up. They are not $29.75 and $32.50 suits at $25.00.

Study the styles.

Examine the fabrics, including, of course, the linings.

Note the tailoring. Note the trimmings.

And, by all means, note their grace, the way they fit.

They are superb suits!

Our buyer waded through thousands before he selected these.

Some stores might call them $29.75 and $32.50 suits—that is a matter of standards. We do not hold your dollars so cheaply.

Are you planning to pay $25.00 for a suit? See these this morning, compare them. We will not say a word here about the variety of styles, materials, the way they are fashioned and trimmed—these points all enter into the worth of a suit—we merely want to invite you to a display of $25.00 suits that measure we to the standard of what a Chamberlin-Johnson-DuRosa $25.00 suit should ure up to the standard of what a Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose $25.00 suit should Fact is such linens as these do not find their way in sales, they have been sold upon their merit and worth and beauty long before sales times come around.

They are newly arrived and they represent most for the money. Yes, we are proud of them—in much the same way that the homekeepers who get them will be—for the very good reason that they are right.

Feel them; they are hefty, full of the weight, of pure flax; look at them, they are rich, beautiful, exquistely patterned; price them, they are unusually low, the price-advantages that we enjoy go to our customers. And now that time of the year is near when the linen chest must expand, it is fine thing that you may turn today to this linen store and find here a broad variety of the most valueful linens we have ever offered. These are but a few of them-

CHINA'S STRONG MAN.

The historian with an eye to perspective will not fail to attach the proper importance to the election of Yuan Shi Kai as the first president of the world's greatest republic, measuring greatness in area and population. Prior to that time Yuan had been acting as provisional president, bolstered by a series of ententes, "gentlemen's agreement," hints of the strong arm and sundry other devices for tiding over a country in the days when it vacillates between mob rule and stable government. By the act of last week Yuan stands before the world as having been elected by the suffrages of the Chinese people, though it is to be doubted if one-half of one per cent of the Chinamen of voting age cast a ballot for the members of parliament who, in their turn, elevated him constitutionally to office.

After all the criticism of Yuan has been duly weighed and discounted, it remains that he is by right of ability and achievement the strongest man in the Chinese nation. He is the sort of man that inevitably rises to the surface in times of ferment and seems framed to bring order out of chaos. Those who have been closest to him and who are unbiased, claim he is a wonderful combination of the famed subtlety of the Orient with the aggressiveness and organization that have to this day made the Occident dominate in the Far Yuan is essentially self-made. His parentage is of the humblest description. Most of his progress has been the result of his own efforts. There is nothing artificial or exotic in his career. A capable soldier and a proved administrator, he is also what the west would call an "insurgent" to his spinal marrow. He was, indeed, several times in disfavor with the old Manchu dynasty, and once or twice banished, until the exigencies of the latest successful revolution forced the princes to call him from retirement as a forlorn hope.

It would have been natural to expect that Yuan's forced association with the Manchus in their dying hours would have earned the lasting distrust of the New China element. There was indeed an effort to unhorse him upon this pretext, but the fact that the man held the reins is the best demonstration of his innate power and persuasiveness. It has been hinted that Yuan has not scrupled at bloody intrigue to retain his hold, but his friends have defended him with the explanation that his actions had no selfish but purely a patriotic origin.

One of the hardest parts of the new president's task remains to be broached. China now represents the striking anomaly of being a republic in form of government, but almost a mobocracy, considering the disjointed and warring provinces and the scheming native politicians. Upon Yuan devolves the undertaking of providing the educational and civilizing machinery for this great inchoate mass. He has proven a superlative soldier and compromiser, so far. His statesmanship now nears its superlative test.

DEATH'S MINORITY RULE.

We run our governments upon the principle that the majority shall rule. When it comes to protecting life itself and regulating disease, we let an ignorant and prejudiced minority menace the entire establishment. These facts are sharply brought out by conditions in Great Britain with regard to smallpox and vaccination, where 1 out of 3 refuse vaccination. Now, vaccination for smallpox originated in Great Britain. The principle has spread all over civilization and we have it to thank for stamping out a plague that once terrorized the world. There is no doubt regarding its efficacy, save in the minds of the fanatics and misguided. Yet a distinct minority element is I good time to bring on more trouble.

permitted to endanger the health of the entire community.

Some day society will develop the courage and the vision to step in and save itself from situations of this nature. We look for the time when prevention against disease of every nature will be compulsory, ranking with the enforcement of sanitary laws, and in fact taking right-of-way over every other law.

It is true that people are not yet educated up to it, but in the relatively near future laws will be enacted touching typhoid, tuberculosis and any and all diseases, such as are now in force touching yellow fever, diphtheria and others of a communicable nature. Indeed, we hope the process will extend to include venereal diseases which, under the mask of mock modesty, take their hideous toll in a degree not comparable to any of the so-called "respectable" diseases.

Where life and health are concerned, together with thrice-proven methods of preserving the one and safeguarding the other, individual whim and individual ignorance or indifference should not be permitted to interfere with the general welfare. Living in and among society, we are under obligations to do our share in promoting the wellbeing of society, as against any adverse influences, originating from ourselves or other sources.

It would be difficult to estimate the number of lives lost to fanaticism of this nature, and to the timidity of society in protecting itself. Personal rights are, it is true, inviolable. But the right to live of the whole community rises supreme. . .

THE REAL JAP PERIL.

The Japanese peril that should most concern the United States is comprised in Japan's development of a cotton milling industry, and not in the cocky little khakiclad warriors, as the more timid of us have been thinking. The observation is given pertinence through an interview the Associated Press recently carried with Y. Nagashima, manager of an Oriental steamship company. He had just returned from Japan, and declared that that empire was destined to increasingly absorb raw cotton from America. He showed that last year her imports of cotton were 370,000 bales. This year the total promised to exceed 400.000 bales.

Nagashima touched the nubbin of the proposition when he declared that Janan was being rapidly transformed into a vast manufacturing establishment. That is true. The statement is borne out by consular reports and letters from the representiives of American houses abroad. Japan has about reached the limit of her agricultural possibilities. But she has hardly caught her stride in manufacturing and her people are ideally adapted to manufacturing pursuits. Quick of mind, assiduous of application and tireless, there is no reason why the Japs should not make as excellent an army to man factories at home as to man guns before Port Arthur or in the China sea. Those who have come to this country have demonstrated the ability to adapt themselves to any line of American endeavor. and they are especially adept at followings which demand mechanical genius.

There is no doubt whatever that with its strategic location and its teeming population. Japan aspires to dominate the trade of China and to ship into that as yet hardly broached territory the manufactured cotton goods the population will increasingly demand. In this kind of war the United States, being hopelessly hampered by geography, can rely upon but three weapons: superior trans-Pacific rates on finished goods, superior mechanical processes and superior business integrity, in which it is said the Japs are lacking.

The handicap enjoyed by Japan will, of course, hit other nations as well as the United States. In fact, of all nations in the world we will be best able to compete with Japan, since we grow the cotton and since the Panama canal will give us the advantage in distance. A further American advantage is the possession of the Philippine islands. It is not impossible that in time to come the archipelago will be as important from the industrial standpoint as it now is from that of military strategy.

When Beef Was Knighted. (From The Chicago News.)

King James I, is said to have been so well nleased with a loin of beef as to knight it and make it Sir Loin, or sirioin. However, a story of the same kind was also told of Henry VIII., and is to be found in Fuller's "Church History." Dining with the abbot of Reading, Henry-according to this authority —ate so heartly of a loin of beef that the abbot said he would give 1,000 marks for such a stomach. "Done!" said the king, and kept the abbot a prisoner in the tower until he grew ravenously hungry, and won his 1,000 marks and knighted the hard he grew ravenously nungry, and won his 1,000 marks and knighted the beef. But Webster characterizes this etymology as "erroneous," saying that the true spelling should be "surloin"—the "sur" being equal to "super."

THE SMILE MAKERS.

"This would be a pretty dull world if all the humorists were abolished," said the retired merchant. "They do cheer us up a whole lot, though we seldom give them credit for their good work. We have got so used to their merry stunts that we take them as a matter of course."

"I haven't much use for the doggone humorists," replied the hotel keeper. "It often seems to me that the world would be brighter and better if all the humorists were boiled in oil. There at least ought to be some legislation to protect us from the halfbaked humorists who drive us to strong drink by making fun of our misfortunes and are as numerous as the sands on the shore, who think that a bald head is about the funniest thing imaginable. They were on deck away back in scriptural times. You remember that story about the prophet whose head was as bare as a china nest-egg. The smart alecks made so much fun of his dome of thought that he blew himself for a herd of trained bears, and then started for the postoffice with his menagerie behind him. Just when he was in front of the Racket Store the aleeks began hooting at him, asking him if he combed his hair with a towel and all the chestnuts popular at that time as well as this. The prophet just called up his bears and told them to get busy, and the way they cleaned out that gang of humorists was a caution. "There was more personal liberty in those days than we have now. A prophet or hotel keeper or any other law-abiding citizen could take measures for his own protection in case the humorists got too gay, but nowadays we are governed too much and if we are oppressed and persecuted the only thing we can do is to go to court and put a mortgage on our property so we can pay our lawyers.

"Just as sure as you have some infirmity, the half-baked humorists select you for their victim. There's old Jake Claverly, with his wooden leg. There's nothing funny about that wooden leg. It must break Jake's heart every time he puts it on, and thinks of the real, unadulterated leg he lost in a sawmill at Antietam. I don't believe any man ever enjoyed skating around on a wooden leg. but the man afflicted that way could bear his cross patiently only for the humorists. They begin to grin and kycodle as soon as they see him coming, and they spring the same old gags that bored the first man who ever wore a willow limb. They ask him if he has growing pains or chilblains or housemaid's knee in his wooden leg, and if catch him asleep they carve their initials in it. Poor old Jake pretends he likes it, because he knows he'd be guyed all the more if he didn't; but his heart is breaking in his bosom. Only the other day he came in here to tell me his troubles, and he wept all over the register, so that I couldn't decipher the names of any of the guests.

"The half-baked humorists think it very funny when a man gets married, and they make life such a burden to the bridegroom, with their charivari business, that he wishes he never had heard of orange blossoms. Every now and then somebody gets hurt or killed at one of these jamborees, but the humorists never learn anything. Out in Nebraska a week or two ago a woman was killed by some joyful idiot who was shooting off a gun, celebrating the wedding of a neighbor.
"I know an estimable woman who has been wanting to get a divorce from her husband for several years, but she has been afraid to go ahead, knowing that the humorists would lampoon her. She is a sensitive woman who hates to be ridiculed, and so, rather than stir up the humorists, she continues to live with a man who wears a red necktie.

The humorist would be all right if he could distinguish a joke from a tragedy; but he can't, and so he is a sad commentary on our boasted civilization."

"The Paris of the Balkans." W. Y. Morgan writes from Bucharest, the Rumanian capital which is ambitious to beome known as "the Paris of the Balkans: "I am not saying anything against the folks here in Bucharest. The men step lively, the women are pretty and divorces are more numerous than in any other country in Europe. Their idea is to show how different they are from Russians and Bulgarians and that they are related to the Italians by descent from forefathers who once went out at night and made Rome howl. It is a great responsibility to be a forefather. I doubt if the people of New England would be so self-admittedly good if they did not feel it necessary on account of the old Puritans. Many a Virginian has bankrupted himself because he was a son of a cavalier and had to cavalier some himself. So it is that the old Romans who came to this section and took soldiers' claims and native wives have left an inheritance of pride and playfulness to the present inhabitants

The World's Mysteries DID MLLE. SOMBREUIL DRINK BLOOD?

Matthew Arnold says: "If history is a Tuileries on August 10, but investigation Mississippi of falsehood, this is peculiarly brought a favorable report. Acquittal folapplicable to the history of the French revolution." No epoch has been the subject of more exaggeration, legend and deliberate lying, and this begun at the very beginning of the revolution, frequently for the purpose of inciting or justifying atrocities.

One of the most awe-inspiring stories that is related of this exciting period was that told of Mile. de Sombreuil, the daughter of the Marquis de Sombreuil, who was the governor of the Hotel des Invalides when the revolution broke out. He rested like so many thousands of others, was tried and was to be executed.

Here is Lamartine's description of how his beautiful daughter saved his life by agreeing to drink a glass of blood proffered her by the gang of murderers. "Sombreuil appears he is condemned; the door opens, the bayonets glitter, his daughter darts forward, clings to the old man's neck, makes herself a ram-part for him, conjures the assassins to spare her father or to strike her with the same blow. Her gestures, her sex, her youth, her disheveled hair, her beauty, heightened by emotion, the sublimity of her devotion, the ardour of her supplications, soften these hired assassins. "A cry of 'Pardon!' rises from the crowd, the pikes are lowered, the daughter is granted her father's life-but at a horrible price. She is required—in sign of adjuration of aristocracy—to dip her lips in a glass filled with the blood of aristocrats. Mile. de Sombreuil seizes the glass with intrepid hand, raises it to her mouth, and drinks to her father's deliverance. This gesture saves her; the people partake her joy; the tears of her assassins mix with her own." This story will hardly bear examination.

Sombreuil had been formally acquitted by the infamous Maillard, who himself wrote against his name "en liberte," and there is no instance of Maillard's decisions having been disputed by his gang of butchers outside the prison. Sombreuil, moreover, had not been acquitted without a hard struggle. He was charged with having beiped to defend the

Her Own Money.

(From The New York Evening Sun.)

The play, "Her Own Money," has been bringing out the stories. This time it is about mother. It happened "up state."

Mother, who had never had any money before in her life, all at once became the amazed possessor of $100, paid to her in the crisp, new $106 bill all her own. What to do with it? The whole family took the matter up collectively and individually.

What could mother possibly want with a hundred dollars? When had mother ever had anything which she was not eager to share with the first one who came along? Here was mother who loved to get up nights to mix mustard plasters, mother who always had a piece of string at hand when anyone needed it, mother who had time to listen to grievances, mother who never was known to talk about what she was going to wear, mother who waited up for you so as to un-bank. And all the while mother maintained a dignified stience as became a person of to demonstrate traits of character no one

Some of these days some worthy writer brought a favorable report. Acquittal followed, and all contemporaries agree that there was much emotion when the daughter threw herself into her father's arms and loaded him with caresses. The emotion was renewed when the white-haired man, supported by his daughter, passed out into the street. But his respite was not for long, as he was guillotined in June, 1794.

Mlie. de Sombreuil remained at Port Royal, and some of his fellow-captives repeated the account she gave them of the scene at La Force, but not a word is said of the glass of blood. In 1795, after her release, she petitioned the convention for succor, and one thousand francs was granted to her, on the report of a committee who expressed admiration for her conduct, but were equally silent on this harrowing episode.

But in 1800 Legouve, in a poem entitled "Le Merike des Femmes," mentioned Mademoiselle de Sombreull, appending a note in which we hear for the first time of her quaffing blood. It is not to be supposed that Legouve intended this; but probably repeated story already current.

Upon the appearance of the noem the heroine is alleged to have written to a Paris newspaper a letter in which she said: "Secng me pale, these men made me drink a glass of their wine, and that wine had drops of blood in it, and from that circumstance no doubt arose the legend with which I have been pestered for so many years."

The letter, however, has not been discovered. It would substantially agree with the version given to Louis Blanc by a lady acquainted with Mile, de Sombreuil, viz.: that she was fainting and received from one of the gang a glass of water into which a drop of blood had fallen from his hand.

According to her son she struggled with the murderers and received three wounds, and blood spurted into the glass from the head of St. Merit, who had just been dispatched. Another theory is that the glass contained water slightly colored with red wine, which in her emotion Mile, de Sombreuil mistook for blood. This mystery will never be unraveled.

MEMORY.

By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Siwanh,"

Memory is a sort of mental glue, by which facts are stuck to the brain. Some facts sticks much more readily than others. Almost everyone remembers the date of Washington's birthday. Yet most men only remember their wives' birthdays with great effort, some weeks after said birthdays have passed on. Memory is very useful, because it relieves a man from the job of learning everything he knows fresh each morning. Some men have such good memories that they can rise, go to work and proceed through the entire day without being obliged to learn a single new fact.

Some men are able to memorize whole chapters of the Bible at a single reading. Others do not even remember who was the author of this great work, but when asked what Zimmerman's batting average was in the year 1907, they reply accurately and without hesitation.

Many a college professor can remember the date of everything important that has happened up to 1800. But in order to make him remember to bring home a pound of butter his wife would have to carve a memorandum on his skull.

The human brain is capable of remembering a vast array of facts at one time. However, a great many people do not use much common sense in selecting these facts. Often a man will have upwards of 11,000 funny stories alphabetically arranged in his memory, but would have to be prompted ten times in order to recite the ten commandments.

Moreover, many a young man who has won the valedictory in college by remembering the contents of a wagen load of text books has been removed from job after job with great vigor afterward, because he could not remember what the boss told him to do

Memory is a fine thing, but when it isn't harnessed it is as useless as an Arabian horse without a bridle. Many men go sadly through ife remembering a vast quantity for which they have no use, and forgetting to call up the bank before cashing a check for a total stranger.

We should strive to so live that our debtors will remember us while we are alive, and our creditors will remember us with deep gratitude after we have passed on.

placed in large shallow pans, and from 15 to 20 pounds of the liquid should be used for each 1,000 cubic feet of space in the corn crib. The pans containing the liquid should be placed on top of the corn. The liquid evaporates very rapidly, and the gas, which is heavy and penetrating, sinks and spreads throughout the corn crib. It is a good plan to cover the top of the corn with old sacks or buriap and leave it covered from twenty-four to forty-eight hours while fumigation is in progress. It may be necessary to repeat fumigation in three or four weeks, as recent experiments made by Dr. W. E. Hinds, of Alabama, have shown that the weevils are not so easily killed as many have supposed.

It is a good practice to shuck the corn as it is being pulled and separate the infested corn from that which is free from the weevil. The infested corn should then be stored to itself and fumigated.

Locally the Georgia-Virginia game will attract the most attention and speculation as to the ultimate outcome is rife. It seems to be the general consensus of opinion that Virginia is going to win handly, though we do not share in this general opinion.

Georgia has a good tesm, as she have been and the team will be even better this coming Saturday at showing against the Virginia Strouger.

Suffragette Kisses Her Visitors.

After the morning meal she attired herself in a gray suit to await the arrival of suffragette friends who had obtained special cards of admission to the station from Commissioner of Immigration Uhl.

At 9 o'clock Mrs. Blatch, Mrs. John Rodgers, Jr., and Miss Alice Perkins were admitted to Mrs. Pankhurst's room. The militant leader was resting upon her bed, propped up with pillows. Each of the visitors was kissed upon the check.

"I am a prisoner, don't forget that," she said by way of introduction.

"I have never submitted to unjust imprisonment in England," said Mrs. Fankhurst, "and I will not submit to it here. If the steamer La Provence carries me from New York next Thursday, as the result of an order issued by the immigration authorities in Washington, the steamer will carry me to my death. I feel that I cannot last long after six ludinger strikes—not much more than twenty-four hours—if I enter upon a seventh.

"As a result of those hunger strikes my stomach is in a weakened condition. On the way over I was seasick. I'm a good sailor, and I have been on ships when the sea was much rougher than it was during the trip over. The vibration of the ship affected me because, I suppose, my stomach was in a weakened condition.

The Haglish woman read to her callers several telegrams she had received since her detention.

"They have theered me," she said, "because when I read them and re-read them, I realize there are people in America who are looking at my case from the standpoint of a sympathizer." After her visitors had left, Mrs. Pankhurst made an inspection of Ellis island, Particular interest was shown in the large dining room, where the immigrants take their meals. Several times she tenderly patted little immigrant children on the head. After the inspection she declared that the question of caring for immigrants had been more scientifically studied here than in England. Tech Must Bolster Defensive Play for November Games

Line Does Not Charge as Low as It Should-Tackling Not Always Sure Except by the Lighter Men.

The Yellow Jackets are going to make all their opponents step at a fast the team shows one glaring weak-

The team shows one glaring weakness and that is the apparent inability of the line to charge low, both on the offensive and the defensive, but especially on the latter.

It is not a weakness that cannot be corrected, as the players have proven themselves low chargers at times. It seems to be just an erratic state of play, occasioned by a bunch of players who have not had enough experience to realize fully that they must charge low at all times and not just now and then.

low at all times and not just then.

But Coach Heisman realizes this and with the willingness of the squad and their ability to be taught, by the next time Atlanta fans see the Jackets in action, which will be against the Sewance Tigors November 1, the line should have rectified this fault.

Must Tackle Surer.

Should have rectified this fault.

Must Tackle Surer.

The tackling must be a little more certain, especially by the heavier men on the squad. Hayes, Montague, Cushman and Smith, the lighter men on the squad are the surest tacklers. The tackling as a whole is not bad, but it lacks that certainness that the supporters of the team would like to see just previous to the games that count the most in the season.

But we are not attempting to judge the Jackets harshly, by reason of the absence from any of the preliminary games of one or more of the team's stars and regulars. When a settled variety line-up is finally chosen, the marked improvement in play in every department will at once be noticeable. Florida is the Jackets' next opponent. Unless som one is injured during the scrimmage work this week, the Jackets will start this game with a permanent line-up and then one can get a line on what to expect of the team and its strength.

EASTERN ELEVENS strength. Paiten will get in at quarter, Preas will return to end, Nance to tackle, Cushman to end and Loeb will get in his first game at center. This will strengthen the offense and defense and create better team play. Florida a Test.

On their showing in the Florida game, the Jackets will be judged. And their prospects for the November games will be better known, that is, if the regular line-up plays for a long enough time to give and idea of their drive and their defensive powers.

Even in the team's crippled condition it has shown plenty of drive on the attack, individual as well as team drive. With the line hitting a little lower, the drive will be increased. The speed is there on the attack and the power.

barnesville, Ga., October 19.—(Special.)—Prep school football circles will have their eyes focused on this city Monday, in anticipation of the outcome of the football battle that is to be staged here on that date.

The Gordon institute and the Georgia Military college are the opposing elevens, and when these two lock horns there is always something sure to happen.

Judging by comparative scores, one cannot get much of a line on who has the edge in the coming battle, and impartial fans who have seen both clevens in action, state that it is an even money bet as to the ultimate result of the game.

Judical Prep school football circles will have a sprained ankle, necessity the game with a sprained ankle, necessity to the Junior team, was out of the game with a sprained ankle, necessity the game with a sprained ankle, necessity to the Junior action at quarter back to he filled by Porter, which caused a the eastern elevens in points scored up to and including the games played Saturday, October 18, having tallied Saturday, October 18, having the saturday, October 18, having the saturday of the Saturday, October 18, having the saturday of the Saturday ower.
The most noticeable improvement in The most noticeable improvement in the team's offense is the interference. The 1913 eleven is showing better interference than any Tech eleven of recent years.

Summing it all up in a nutshell: If the defense is bolstered, and it can be bolstered without any changes in personnel, but with a few lessons on low charging, the Tech football team of 1913 is going to be a tough customer for Sewanee, Auburn and Georgia to handle.

And the diversity of the team's attack is going to worry the best of the others. It is strictly up to the defense to improve as rapidly in the next two weeks as the offense has in the last two.

The signal drills this week starting today will be long. The serimmages are not going to be as long at first, but they are going to be lengthened out each day as the Sewance game approaches.

And Heisman knows how to drive a squad. They will show the effects of it November 1.

of the board, the record showed Mrs Pankhurst detailed in brief the his-tory of her life, particularly with refwoman suffrage. She admitted having been imprisoned five times for various offenses against British laws, three times for attempting to present peti-tions for woman suffrage to the king or authorities of the British home office The technical reasons for her arrest at these times was, she explained, in-terference with police. The last time she was arrested she was charged with she was arrested she was charged with "conspiracy," for delivering addresses calculated to incite her suffragist followers to acts of violence, to the destruction of property and possibly of life. She was convicted and sentenced to three years' servitude, but was subsequently released when she instituted her "hunger strike." She explained that while she was released on what amounts to parole, she had delivered other speeches since her release, and no obstacle was laid in the way of her departure from Great Britain.

"What was your purpose in coming to the United States?" Mrs. Pankhurst was asked. to the United States?" Mrs. Pankhurst was asked.

"To tell the true story of women's fight in England," she replied. "I came exactly as Parnell and Redmond and other revolutionary leaders have come—to get sympathy."

"Is it your purpose in this country to advocate the tactics that you have in England—violence and the destruction of property in order to accomplish your purposes?"

"I do not come to interfere with the business of American women, for it is their business to get the vote for them-selves."

IS CALLED TO DUBLIN Macon, Ga., October 19.—(Special.)—
Hev. T. W. Callaway, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, of Macon, today received a unanimous call from the First Baptist church, of Dublin, to assume the pastorate of that church. Mr. Callaway was unable to state today whether or not he will accept, but it is believed he will do so, as the pastorate at Dublin will be a considerable advance for him, that church having a membership of 1,900, being one of the leading churches of the city.

Mr. Callaway helped to organize the Tabernacle Baptist church, in this city, and has done splendid work among

"I have never advised the destruction of life. I do not come to advise American women at all. I consider conditions totally different here from what they are in England.

At this point the record showed Mrs. Pankhurst was informed that the board felt it necessary to issue an order of deportation in her case.

"I am exceedingly sorry," she exclaimed "If you deny this to me, you would deny it to any of the great persons who have struggled for freedom. I have always looked to America as the home of freedom and I regret exceedingly the destruction of that ideal. I have been here on previous occasions and I have never abused the hospitality shown me and I did not intend to abuse it this time."

"If the department should decide against Mrs. Pankhurst in her applicaagainst Mrs. Pankhurst in her application for admission under bond, our next step would be to apply to federal Judge Holt of the southern distract of New York for a writ of habeas corpus—proceedings that have been followed in other similar cases, notably that of Expresident Castro."

Mr O'Neil urged that as Mrs. Pankhurst was 'in cust My and deprived of her liberty," the case ought to be expedited as nuch as possible "Mrs. Pankhurst," he said, "visited the United States prior to this time She came, too, after she had been arrested in her own country, but nevertheless, she was permitted to land. If she be given the freelom of our shores she will respect our hospital by." "In my judgment Mrs. Pankhurst has committed no come involving any element of meal turplinde," said Mr. Iteeves. She has not and could not be comented in the present case, he said that actions of others based upon a misconstruction of her addresses. She had no intent to do a wrong. In fact, her mission was to do only the right and to uplift womankind."

Referring to the Castro case, Mr. Reeves said this allen finally was admitted although evidence chowed he had taken at least one human life. In the present case, he said, no such criminality could be shown.

He suggested that a report had been circulated to the effect that the government of Great Britain had protested to the United States against the landing of Mrs. Pankhurst, but he assumed that as such a protest was not a part the record of the case, none had been made.

Statistics of Virginia Team Show That It Is Formidable: Arrives In Atlanta Friday

Charlottesville, Va., October 19.—
Charlottesville, Va., October 19.—
Lambeth, the head of Virginia athletics, he eaid: "L'believe Virginia struck her stride too early in the season. The offensive work seems to be not quite so good as it was last week, and whenever a team strikes her stride, too early there is bound to be a slump. But I hope she will get over this slump before any of the big games."

When questioned as to the Georgia-Virginia game, he said he expected a good fight would have to be made by Virginia in order to win.

The officials for the Georgia-Virginia game are Barry of Georgetown, umpire, and Wahoo of Carlisle, referee. The linesman and other minor officials will be chosen later.

The Virginia team will leave for Atlanta on the "Birmingham Special" on the night of Thursday, October 23. The student body, headed by Dibert's drum corps, will march en masse to the station to give the team a final send-off. The headquarters of the team while in Atlanta will be the new Ansley hotel.

Cheering practices have been held the last part of the week; the students have marched to the field and cheered the team on as they go through the drills. They usually march several times around the field headed by Dibert's drum corps and cheer Leader Hurt.

As a whole, the student body seems more enthusiastic over the prospects than ever before, and spirits runs high even though the team is temporarily on a slump.

case, substantially as to principle, is similar to that of Marie Lloyd, the London music ball performer, who was ordered by a special board of inquiry to be deported but subsequently was admitted under bond in order that she might fill theatrical engagements for which she had entered into contracts.

Mrs. Pankhurst Not Immoral.

Mr. Reeves contended that Mrs. Pankhurst could not be fairly accused of being immoral.

"She was charged," he continued, "with inciting her followers to such a state of frenzy that they destroyed Lloyd-George's home, and perhaps committed other criminal acts. Mrs. Pankhurst did not actually participate in these crimes. For some strong statements made in her speeches she stands responsible and she does not retract them.

The rejection of the proposed commission form of government for Athens has prepicipated a fast, short municipal campaign which was held back till the result of this election was known. Hon. W. F. By Ned McIntosh.

Crawfordville, Ga. October 19—(Special.)—With beautiful and impressive ceremonies the Old Guard of the Gate City Guard, of Atlanta, on Sunday afferonon unveiled their marble tablet over the grave of Alexander Hamilton Stephens, at his old, home, "Liberty Hall," in Crawfordville

Under the command of Colonel I F
Burke, whose idea it was to dedicate this tablet to the memory of the great patriot and statesman, the Old Guard, Company L of the Fifth regiment, which is the active company of the Old Guard, and the Red Men's drum and bugge corps, went to Crawfordville by special train Sunday morning

They were met by a large delegation of Crawfordville citizens at the train and escorted to the school building, which is next door to "Liberty Hall" where a fine country dinner was served them by the young ladies of the town.

During the dinner hour many a tale of the kind acts of Alexander Stephens was related—stories of how "Liberty; Hall" was always open to any way-farer, stranger or friend, rich or poor The big dinner bell was alway rung on the front porch and anyone within earshot was welcome to sit at the ta-

Colonel Burke then narrated how Alexander Stephens, when in congress, first became the great friend of the Old Guard It was after the Old Guard It was after the Old Guard had returned from its famous "mission of peace" through the north and east and the soldiers of the north had promised to return the visit. The Old Guard was confronted with the problem of finding quarters for their visitors, and with more than 1,000 hills to be considered in the three remaining days of the congress then in session, Congressman Stephens brought his influence to bear and had a resolution unantimously pissed by both houses extending the Old Guard the use of the United States army tents for the shelf ter of their guests

Commenting upon the figures this paper says.

'A typical journey for all roads in the country is now 34 miles and there are taken on the average 2 275-122 on such journeys in safety to each one which issults fatally. If a man were to ride out these 2,255,12-safe journeys at two per day for each business day in the year, it would take him 3,792 years. To have begun in time to meet his death in 1914, he would have had to start in the year 1778 B C, 458 years before Moses led the children of Israel through the Red sea By 750 B C, when Romulus was 'regulating' Remus by modern methods, the commuter would have riden 21,000,000 miles and have had 56,300 000 yet to go When Phidias, in 460 B C, was carving the Olympian Zeus, our wayfarer would have been but one-third of the way toward his death, and even in the year spoe B C, when Alfred the Great was letting the griddole cakes burn, this traveler would have spent the equivalent of 207 years on the trains running at 30 miles an hour and would have had 87 years more of actual travel to spend before meeting his fatal accident."

THE INCOME TAX LAW

Analysis and History

Anticipating many inquiries regarding the Income Tax Law, we have prepared a handbook on this subject. It contains the full text of the law, an analysis of its practical operation and a resume of the history of income taxation in this country and abroad. The United States Treasury Department has not announced the details of the law's administration and decisions of the Courts will necessarily affect its interpretation and application. The analysis, therefore, has been expressed in general terms and cannot be taken to be a statement of the application of the statute to particular instances or conditions. It is, however, presented to the investing public with the hope that it may prove of interest and help.

A copy of the Handbook (No 30 ! will be sent upon request.
