

officials of the government was to await the developments of the next forty-eight hours before making any move. President Wilson had some doubt about going to Mobile, Ala., to make an address on Monday before the Southern Commercial congress, but he told friends tonight that he probably would go. He leaves early tomorrow for Philadelphia to address the congress hall celebration, but should there be extraordinary developments he may not make a southern trip.

Secretary Bryan was in frequent conference with the president during the day. Mr. Bryan called attention to General Huerta's promise to the diplomatic corps that even if his friends voted for him next Sunday he would except the presidency on the ground that it would be unconstitutional to succeed himself. Inasmuch as President Wilson, in a note recently announced, that the United States regarded the assumption of dictatorship by Huerta as a violation of the promise for a constitutional election, the result of this election is not calculated to have any considerable effect on the Mexican policy.

The predicament of General Felix Diaz, one of the candidates for the presidency who remains isolated at Vera Cruz, apprehensive of danger if he tries to make a political campaign, excited the attention of officials here who are determined to give him asylum if necessary. The position of the administration with respect to all candidates is that they should not be molested in any way.

MEXIC COURT PLANS TO UPHOLD HUERTA

Mexico, October 24.—President Huerta is to be upheld for all the acts of his administration in his case or two other members of the supreme bench. The opinion, it is said, will deal chiefly with the question of the constitutionality of the act which is being prepared by the judges of the supreme court.

Supporters of General Felix Diaz have been busy for days searching the records for precedents and applying them to the case. They are determined to prevent that the opinion will be rendered by Judge Demetrio Rodi and probably by the other two members of the supreme bench. ject was "Great Britain and the United States." The ambassador's "important business" is believed here to have been connected with the Mexican situation.

The British press is now completely alive to the gravity of the Mexican situation. The Daily Graphic, which finds it significant that one of the secretaries of the Foreign Office, Sir William G. Tyrrell, is being sent to Washington, again in an editorial today, states that the British government is not prepared to award recognition to his government.

The Graphic, however, is almost alone in the view that Great Britain is in a position to recognize the new government. The tendency of the editorial opinion generally is to regard it as impossible that the two English-speaking peoples should quarrel over the affairs of a South American country.

At the same time The Daily Telegraph recognizes the serious danger of Huerta attempting to marshal the people of the United States and the less interested nations of the old world into opposing camps, and says it is by no means certain that the British government and sagacity and restraint by his discreditable in the British government looking after the other nations protect their commercial interests in a similar manner. Huerta's new office ought not to prevent political friendship.

Comment by Maxim.

Sir Hiram Maxim, writing in The Morning Post, says the enormous growth of the Anglo-Saxon population in North America makes the gradual absorption of Mexico inevitable. Therefore, he adds, Great Britain ought to support the new government, and he says that the British government should support the American people in their efforts to bring about a settlement of the Mexican situation.

The maintenance of American friendship is the keystone of British policy in Mexico, and the British government should support the American people in their efforts to bring about a settlement of the Mexican situation.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE URGED BY JONES

Man Who Gives Up Seat in Car Yet Refuses Woman a Vote Is Guilty of False Chivalry.

Branding as false the chivalry of the southern gentleman who gave up his seat in a street car yet denied the right of the ballot to the women of the state and paralleling his example by using as an illustration the man who would remove his hat in an elevator but refused to give a woman the right of suffrage, Jerome Jones, editor of The Journal of Labor, astonished his auditors at last night's meeting of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association held at the Ansley hotel.

Mr. Jones spoke before an audience of over 100 members of the association, using as his topic, "Suffrage and Labor."

Away back in 1887, long before there was such a thing as the progressive, the labor party incorporated in their national platform a plank standing for the equal rights of women," said Mr. Jones. "From that day to this, the Federation of American Labor has been for this cause."

"There is no sentiment back of this stand of labor. It is simply a matter of right and justice. It is right that every citizen should have the right to vote, and it is right that every citizen should have the right to be elected."

"Small Respect for This Brand." "I have small respect for this brand of chivalry," Mr. Jones declared in this city and in fact all over this state—the brand of false politeness to the women that will cause a man to give up his seat in a street car, yet deny the same woman the right of intelligence."

"The industrial women of the country, of whom there are over a million and a quarter, need the ballot. They need it to enact legislation that would protect their own welfare—better sanitary conditions, better wage laws, better hours of labor, and so on."

"Suffrage to the Women." "Suffrage to the women," Mr. Jones declared, "is a matter of right and justice. It is a matter of right and justice that every citizen should have the right to vote, and it is a matter of right and justice that every citizen should have the right to be elected."

"In an interesting review of the recent Hall Caine book, 'The Women Thou Lovest,' Rev. J. W. Wade Conklin, quoted at length from the author's text in pointing out Caine's lesson to the world—that 'woman is coming into her own.'"

"This masterpiece of Caine's is the most advanced," was Rev. Mr. Conklin's epitome of the matter.

"The women of the Golden state have been given the ballot the law books of that state have undergone a complete revision, and the women of the state now have the right to vote."

verses that the distinguished jurist wrote into the decision:

"The bride and groom each come within the circle of each other's kin; But kin and kin are still no more Related than they were before."

Claim Murder Was Not Proved.

Attorney Dean Newman, of Macon, who, with his brother, Robert Newman, and Judge J. C. Barron, of Clinton, is associated with the defense, opened the arguments.

The defense, by not introducing evidence had gained the privilege of opening and closing the case. The state had failed to establish that a murder had been committed, and the opening of his speech, he also attacked the testimony of the state's witnesses.

"I expect that Colonel Cooper will skin Detective Moore alive," he said in concluding a defense of the defense.

Attorney J. B. Jackson, of Gray, deputed the state, followed his colleague, H. H. Jones, who had been in school with Wilburn, but that if the man did not kill King, then the case was the greatest mystery in Georgia.

He also went into the attempt of the defense to show suicide, and recited the state's evidence, which, if believed by the jury, would make the suicide or accidental death theories impossible.

Death Penalty Demanded.

Solicitor Pottle asked the death penalty for Wilburn, and stated that justice demanded nothing short of that. He referred to him as "the worst man I ever saw," and stated that his alleged confession came later when he was already in the state's prison.

"I have sympathy for this man," he declared, "but I am here to do my duty. I am here to do my duty, and I am here to do my duty."

UNDERWOOD IS GIVEN WARM WELCOME HOME

Candidate for U. S. Senate Met at Station by Parade and Tendered Big Banquet.

Birmingham, Ala., October 24.—Congressman Oscar W. Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee and a candidate for the United States senate from Alabama, was given a big reception today at the terminal station when he arrived here over the Southern railway at 12:30 o'clock.

Five thousand citizens were at the station with a big brass band. A procession was formed and a march through the city followed with various fraternal and civic organizations participating. Men of every political faith participated in the reception today. A big banquet was given tonight.

The jury, and the Houston county family of that name, one of whom married Miss Sallie King, sister of the dead man, G. W. Cooper, a confessed villain, made the motion for a verdict.

After argument by Solicitor Pottle, Judge Lee ruled that no direct connection had been shown and overruled the motion. Colonel Cooper had been unable to prove a definite relationship with his witnesses. A distant cousinship was all that they swore to. The men called upon to arrest the relationship were: Dr. T. A. White, who had previously been on the stand; Captain G. W. Cooper, a confessed villain; C. C. Middlebrooks, brother of Middlebrooks, Sr.; on the jury; ex-Sergeant R. E. Burdick; J. C. Griffin, John W. Early, who married a Middlebrooks; Thomas Gordon, whose mother was a Middlebrooks, and John A. Childs, who "knew all the Middlebrooks, but who was not sure about the ship."

Cooper Again Overruled.

In his effort to show that Detective C. B. Moore had been employed to secure evidence against Wilburn, Colonel Cooper recalled that he, Wilburn, state's witness, to the stand. He was overruled when he tried to ask Dr. White the question, "Who Moore?" The jury was then sent out and the lawyers argued their point.

With the jury in the box, the defense recalled Jesse Barber, the negro witness for the state. Barber told Colonel Cooper that he was present when Wilburn made the alleged incriminating statement. The state then used the negro to bring out its claim that no coercion had been used.

Colonel Cooper then announced that he had closed his case for the defense and Solicitor Pottle asked to be allowed to reopen and put Detective Moore on the stand to deny the alleged "third degree methods."

Friends to Celebrate Tonight Judge Newman's 70th Birthday

In celebration of his seventieth birthday, Judge William T. Newman, of the United States district court for the northern district of Georgia, will be honored tonight by a banquet given at the Capital City club by 250 of his friends, including distinguished members of the bar from all parts of the south, and Georgians who stand high in every profession.

Judge Newman has served in his position for more than thirty years and recently became entitled, under the federal law, to retire from the bench on full pay. At the urgent request, however, of many of the lawyers practicing in this court, supplemented by similar requests from a great number of citizens residing in this district, he decided to forego this privilege and agreed to continue indefinitely his service as federal judge.

Most elaborate preparations have been made for the banquet, and the program includes toasts by Georgia's best known men. Albert Howell will act as toastmaster, and Governor Slaton will respond to one of the toasts.

"This dinner," said one of the committee last night, "is not to determine who can make the best speech, but is simply intended to show our esteem and high regard for Judge Newman."

With every one standing, the first toast of the evening will be delivered by Albert Howell, the toastmaster, "To the President of the United States."

Other toasts will be the following:

"To Our Honored Guest," by Eugene Black.

"To the State of Georgia," by Governor Slaton.

"To the Judiciary," by Judge J. H. Lumpkin.

"To the United States District Court of the Northern District of Georgia,"

by W. A. Charters, of Gainesville.

"To Comrades of Long Ago," by Colonel R. J. Lowry.

"Yellow Citizens," by Captain J. W. English.

"To the Atlanta Bar," by Reuben Arnold.

FIREMAN IS INJURED IN WRECK ON A. B. & A.

A freight train of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad plunged through a bridge near Manchester yesterday morning, seriously injuring Fireman Levi Holley and telescoping a number of box cars. The damage is estimated at $5,000.

Holley was caught in the wreckage while attempting to cut cars. When the trestle gave way members of the crew jumped without injury. Until this wreckage is cleared trains will be delayed by way of Woodbury.

Peanuts and Pink Lemonade Will Soon Permeate the Air

Albena Hines and the artist model horse at Barnum & Bailey circus.

Peanuts and pink lemonade will soon be ripe and the odor of new-mown sawdust permeate the air. The Barnum and Bailey circus, exhibiting in Columbus today, and leaves there upon its own four special trains immediately after the night show, the first train bearing the stables, commissary department and a portion of the draught stock being scheduled to arrive over the Southern railway at 7 o'clock in the morning. The tents will be pitched at Ponce de Leon park, opposite the ball grounds, and two performances and a street parade given Monday.

The circus comes in an entire new dress and is said to more than ever live up to its time-honored title. Innovations crowd the program, with novelty as the keynote, the best elements of the dear, old-time circus mingling with the newest thing in gorgeous spectacle and ballet. Montony and repetition have been so completely eliminated that old-timers will rub their eyes in astonishment.

Animal acts will be varied, novel and striking. The baseball elephants will tickle every beholder. Kado's ju jitsu champions will give interesting exhibitions of their national mode of defense, as will the landro troops. Among the spangled riders, whose names are generations old in the world of spangles and sawdust, will be seen the Davenports, Bradna and Derrick, the Ducarders, Rose Myers and Charles Seigrist, Italy's Schiavon troupe, Switzerland, the Bernese brothers, Lupeta, Perrea comes heralded as the most remarkable girl aerialist in Spain. Italia Gonzales will represent Cuba's claim to supremacy. England, France Germany and Belgium contribute their champions, while American confusion will be upheld by Bird Millman, and Albena Hines with her artist model horse.

There are over 100 distinct displays on the program and the introductory spectacle, "Cleopatra," has a cast of over a thousand, and a large ballet. It is what is known as a "seven-pole top" and a whopper for size. The parade will be at 10 o'clock Monday morning over a route to be announced tomorrow.

AT THE THEATERS.

"Quo Vadis."

(At the Grand.) Two performances this afternoon, the first one at 2 o'clock, the next at 4 o'clock, and tonight, the first at 7 o'clock, and the last at 9 o'clock. This will be the last opportunity for students at all who desire to witness "Quo Vadis" to do so.

This wonderful eight-reel photo-play was presented at the Grand last summer for two weeks, and to the house was crowded all during those two weeks, there were evidently thousands who were unable to witness the play, being off on summer vacations, and others who desired to see it again.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.) Today's performances, madame and night, marks the termination of this week's popular favorites at the Forsyth theatre. Lynn Owen and company in their clever sketch have made a great impression, and "Scream" Weathers, the funny, fat, screamingly funny fellow, with his two clever partners, who are the greatest funblers seen on a local stage, will ever find a welcome here. The musical lovers have had a rare treat all the week in the offering of the Florentine Singers in grand opera. For next week the headliners will be Harry Bulger and Howard Corbell in a funny but of comedy and song. The company will offer the sketch, "On the Edge of Things." An added feature will be Al Rayno's dogs, and there will also be a "skating bear."

"The Third Degree."

(At the Lyric.) Remarkable in its appealing interest and stirring in its dramatic climax, "The Third Degree" is a splendid play. The "Third Degree" is a play that stands out as one of the most interesting attractions of the season at the Lyric. The play is a story of a woman who is accused of a crime and is tried in a court of law. The play is a masterpiece of drama and is a must for all who love the stage.

"Knobs of Tennessee."

(At the Bijou.) The matinee today and performance tonight will close the ninth week of the Jewell Kelley company's engagement at the Bijou. Hal Reid's sensational melodrama, "Knobs of Tennessee," has made many friends for the company and has been a great success. The play is a story of a man who is accused of a crime and is tried in a court of law. The play is a masterpiece of drama and is a must for all who love the stage.

"Salome" Opera in English.

(At the Atlanta.) This afternoon the Massenet opera, "Salome," will be heard at the Atlanta in English. The opera is a masterpiece of drama and is a must for all who love the stage. The opera is a story of a man who is accused of a crime and is tried in a court of law. The opera is a masterpiece of drama and is a must for all who love the stage.

Annie Russell.

(At the Atlanta.) The engagement of Miss Annie Russell and her very fine company, who have been at the Atlanta since Monday and continue through Wednesday. Seats are now selling for the performance, which have the endorsement of the Drama League and all the lovers of what is best on the stage. Miss Russell is surrounded by the finest company of players outside New York. She will give the Stoops to Conquer, and all performances except Wednesday night, when "The Rivals" will be played. These comedies are the masterpiece of all times and given by such an excellent company as that with Miss Russell they are a treat for all who love the stage.

"Good Ship Nancy Hanks."

(At the Columbia.) Next week's offering at the Columbia burlesque theater will eclipse any previous offering. Fred Kennedy and Lucinda Vincent will be seen in the leading roles in "The Good Ship Nancy Hanks." The play is a story of a man who is accused of a crime and is tried in a court of law. The play is a masterpiece of drama and is a must for all who love the stage.

ATLANTA BOOSTED FOR ROADS MEET

Atlanta's chances for the 1914 convention of the American Road & Builders' Congress were given a big boost by Charles F. Light, field secretary of the American highway commission and secretary to the president of the American Road Congress, at a banquet tendered on his honor last night at the Kimball house by the Atlanta Hotel Men's association. The claims of Atlanta as the logical meeting point for the congress were so clearly set forth that Mr. Light stated in his address that he could see no reason why Atlanta should not be selected as the point of the 1914 congress and pledged himself to do everything in his power to have this city named.

Nearly thirty members of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, representing every leading hotel of the city, were in attendance at the banquet. In addition Mayor Woodward, Shelby Smith, chairman of the hotel county commissioners association, and revenues C. J. Haden, president of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, Low M. Jordan, attorney for the hotel association; W. H. Leahy, secretary of the industrial and statistical bureau of the Atlanta Automobile association, were present to assist in extending the invitation to the American Road congress through Mr. Light, to hold its 1914 convention in Atlanta.

James H. Barnes, of Atlanta, who is president of the hotel association, presided as toastmaster, and after a most excellent dinner, introduced Mr. Light, the guest of honor, and first speaker on the program.

"It has been my great pleasure and good fortune to be shown over your beautiful city by Mr. Houser and other progressive citizens of Atlanta during the day," said Mr. Light, "and I wish to state to you gentlemen that never in my life have I seen a city so well equipped and equipped to handle a convention of the size and importance of the American Road congress."

"We will bring to Atlanta, in the event that this city is selected as the 1914 meeting place of the congress, more than 4,000 delegates. It would be the greatest advertisement that Atlanta could possibly secure. To get down to brass tacks, the American Road Congress will meet in the south next year. There are fifteen cities bidding for the great meeting, but the strongest competitor of Atlanta will be New Orleans. The Louisiana metropolis is holding out to us very strong inducements for their city, but I am confident, after looking over our city and from assurances of accommodations that I have received from your leading citizens, that Atlanta is the logical point for the congress, and although I cannot make any definite promises, I wish to assure you that I will do everything in my power to swing the congress to your city next year."

ACTION NEEDED—NOW!

The board of education is going to 'investigate' the deficiencies of the public school system

That was decided at the recent monthly meeting of the board

A month hence the probing committee will report to the board. The board will then digest the report. The board will then refer the report to council with an urgent request that the situation be given immediate consideration

This means that two months after The Constitution exposed the fact that 92 tots were being "educated" in one grade of a school, 84 in another and 74 in another, and in a second school three grades of children were being taught in close proximity to a basement sewer, council will be "urgently requested" to find a remedy.

The Constitution does not question the good intentions of the board, nor its devotion to its work. The Constitution does urge that the crisis is one for EMERGENCY measures and not for roundabout ceremonial and red tape

Certainly the whole system needs probing and reconstruction. The superintendent, the principals, the patrons the public know that

But the need of the moment is the abatement of the menace hovering over several of the schools. The people look to the BOARD, not to council

Let the board meet every day if necessary, until this is accomplished

Then it may with consistency address itself to the issue of fundamental reforms

THE FAIR AND THE STATE.

Governor John M. Slaton has acted with statesmanlike vision in declaring that the state of Georgia should give financial assistance to the Georgia state fair

He advanced this policy in a speech made during his recent visit to the fair at Macon

In so doing he declared that while the present condition of the state's finances would not justify such expenditures, he hoped that this embarrassment would be obviated at an early date

The early operation of the new tax equalization bill offers hope in that direction

The Macon display is one of the most attractive and instructive held in years. It is well worth a visit from the farmer, the business man, the general worker for development in Georgia

It could have been vastly improved and its scope extended had it received the aid it had a right to expect from the state treasury.

It is needless to say that agriculture is one of the pillars of wealth in Georgia

The future of the state is largely bound up in a utilization of the richness of the soil and the variety of the products it will bring forth.

Ocular demonstration is one of the most effectual arguments in that direction. Statewide fairs afford splendid ocular demonstration

It is not enough to make these institutions an annual event, wealthy in interest to the farmers who participate in them and fascinating to the casual observer

The state fairs should also be an exhibit on a huge scale of the possibilities of Georgia agriculture, brought down to the minute and covering the smallest detail.

The dividends to be expected from a display of this breadth are so essentially of a community nature that the state may well afford to bear its part of the expense.

By the time the next legislature meets the state's finances should be fairly on the way to mending and state aid to the state fair will be well worth serious consideration.

A SPLENDID MEMORIAL.

The Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, in convention at Moultrie, have made an inspiring practical disposition of the $10,000 Francis S. Bartow memorial fund. By a heavy majority it has been decided to invest that sum in land adjacent to the mountain school conducted by Andrew J. Ritchie, at Rabun Gap. The land is to be devoted to the uses of the school and its upkeep will be paid by the institution, but the title will remain with the Daughters

As The Constitution detailed in a recent analysis of the Ritchie school, that institution is engaged in one of the most praiseworthy education enterprises in the south

Mountain boys and girls heretofore deprived of opportunities through the isolation of the Blue Ridge are now being educated not merely for academic pursuits, but for the vocations that lie to their hands in the mountains

They are being trained to live well and profitably and happily and above all to grow, at home. They are being shown how to utilize the enormous possibilities at their elbows, in contradistinction to the torrid hope formerly opened to them of leaving home to build a dubious "career"

The disposition made of the Bartow memorial is a particularly happy one. It is to be put into land which will be used to teach mountain boys cattle raising. The beef industry, especially in the mountain regions, is one of the greatest future assets of the state

Thus, the fund will be most usefully applied to uplifting humanity

THE LEGAL MOB SPIRIT.

The Constitution wishes every legislator and citizen in the state could read the full text of the address delivered recently by Judge George Hillyer to the students of the Atlanta Law school. He intimated strongly that until the present trend of laws in this state was changed, they would operate strongly to encourage contempt of courts and what might be called the legal mob spirit. Such strong utterances coming from an irresponsible source might draw laughter and condemnation. Expressed by Judge Hillyer they must command respect and inspire thought. He is one of the most conservative citizens of Georgia, and held the bench in this state in the days of chaos, when courage was required to rehabilitate law and order and the courts. He is not a radical. His inclination is to ward measured speech and careful accusation

The chief trouble the judge thinks, is that the laws of Georgia, in a greater degree than those of most other American commonwealths, place society at an unfair advantage with the criminal. The Constitution has often emphasized this fault. It is not contended that accused men should not be given every benefit of the doubt and a full opportunity to establish their innocence. According to Judge Hillyer, and by common knowledge procedure in this state goes incomparably in their

There is rarely a strong guarantee that men convicted by a jury will meet the penalty to which they are sentenced. Delays and technicalities abound. There is too, always the ready chance of venue available to the defense but withheld from the state, unless the defense consents an unlikely thing

Judge Hillyer read an editorial written recently by Roosevelt, in which the latter said that a condition of this nature encouraged the mob spirit. And that is true. It encourages also a distrust of and contempt for law and a sense of helplessness on part of the citizen who is really a strong partisan of orderly judicial procedure. It is refreshing to hear Judge Hillyer charge the fault where it belongs, to the laws themselves and not to their administrators. What is needed is a thorough legal and judicial house cleaning the sweeping away of the trash and impediments that have been gathering during the decades. As Judge Hillyer shows the responsibility rests in the last analysis on the legislature. A high place in history awaits the general assembly with nerve and intelligence enough to attack this problem with both hands and settle it in a spirit of enlightened wisdom

Just From Georgia

By FRANK L. STANTON

Love at the Door.

Life time—joy time and Love at the door. Rich you are, my honey, though the world may rate you poor.

Though the heart's best riches, the cynic-folk condemn. Let your tresses out full length—let kiss the gold of them!

Love is the joy time and the wealth untold. Your lips the rarest rubies—your hair heaven's brightest gold. When Love's life lay dying—lost there, in the strife, Your lips to Love's replying kissed him back to life!

Life time—Joy time, and Love at the door, Give to me Love's riches and I shall want no more.

All the storms will vanish—rainbows light the skies, Life forever singing in the morning of Love's eyes!

Georgia Nuggets.

Taking the right road is like locking the door on Trouble, but folks that lock him out lose their judgment celebrating his absence and he's in at the window in no time

You can't blame Misery for wanting company, but entertain him all night, and he'll want you to go a mile with him on the morrow

A little blaze on a hilltop lights a long way but down in the valley you may have to burn the winter's wood before the world locates you

AS LONG AS THE WORLD REVOLVES—

I AM AS GOOD AS EVER

"BAT" NELSON WILL BE FLASHING THIS SIGN.

The Gifts of Golden Days.

Our holidays calve in I in the city of golden days. Well it is the big world blaze. Let the stars cry. Let'er blaze! Veris musically. Will ring from hill and valley. And at the good times rally. Our song of joy well raise. Folks from highest stations. A happy land is view. We tried to feed the nations. Cotton to the city, am too. Till all of Dixie slung. Where joys weed thick are springing, Will send the music ringing. Best times we ever knew!

The "Uplift" Feels Mighty Low.

The editor of The Hartsville Uplift fires this shot. Oh yes! You are all d— good fellows. You all have a live or ten to throw on the hu. But do you ever think of paying up your subscription to The Uplift? That is something that interests us most vitally. Pring us in a check of notes or the front leg of a chicken on that subscription. It all counts. We have four little girls. They all eat meat and spuds

Ungrateful Constituents

There should be more welcome for returning congressmen than is contained in the following. When the last problem's settled, This way to the sure room. Well live to be resigned to it. Wilson will send em home!

Wants "Literary Hands."

I've been told that literary writers were no good. Says a southwest Georgia farmer. But I was told wrong. I worked six of em last summer and they gave full satisfaction. I've got a lot of land to clear up this winter and I want it known that I'm in the market for literary hands. The hungry they come the better. I've plenty of work and plenty of vittles

The Little Blaze.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
The Famous Love Poet.

AS TO ETIQUETTE.

"Permit me to call your attention to a most remarkable book," said the oily tongued stranger. "It gives all the rules of etiquette governing good society, and so is of inestimable value. Every woman wishes to be known as a charming hostess, but unless she knows how to entertain properly she is sure to make herself ridiculous. This book, my dear madam—"

"I'm not your dear madam," interrupted Mrs. Curfew, "and I don't want you to get too familiar with me. I've never seen you before, mister, and here you stand calling me your dear madam just as though we had gone to school together. And I must say that a man who goes around addressing strange ladies in such familiar terms should have pride enough to wear a respectable necktie. I'd never consent to be called pet names by a man who wears such a necktie as yours."

"As for your book of etiquette, you'd better go and sell them to people who need them. Thank goodness, I don't entertain much, but when ladies do come here to spend the afternoon I think I know how to conduct myself without taking lessons from a correspondence school or consulting such a book as you are carrying around. If all the women in this community knew as much about etiquette as I do, there would be some pleasant entertainments here, but as things are, I dread to see them coming to this house, for they pay no attention whatever to social forms and ceremonies, and conduct themselves on the free for all principle."

"On the fifteenth of last month my daughter-in-law, Mrs. Turpentine, was here. When I was a few neighbors to celebrate her tin wedding, as that was the anniversary of her marriage. Most of the women in the neighborhood came, and each one brought a tin utensil of some kind, and I had a large table laid out for them. When Mrs. Turpentine had arrived there was a pile of tinware on that table that was a sight to be seen, and my daughter was perfectly delighted for every good housekeeper likes to have plenty of tinware. It seemed at first that nothing would mar the happy occasion, but I was reckoning without my hostess. As she was visiting me, and we decided to invite a few friends to the evening, I had forgotten that when inviting the guests that Mrs. Geewhilkens and Mrs. Turpentine are ancient enemies. I don't pay much attention to the gossip and scandal of the neighborhood, and such things slip my memory. Even after they had arrived I never thought of their enmity until the spiteful remarks of Mrs. Turpentine attracted my attention. Every time Mrs. Geewhilkens made a remark Mrs. Turpentine would say something in a sneering way. She was hunting for trouble so openly that it couldn't be overlooked. I'll say it to the credit of Mrs. Geewhilkens that she acted like a perfect lady at first, but she ignored Mrs. Turpentine's remarks, as though she hadn't heard them."

"I wonder if your book of etiquette tells what a charming hostess should do under such circumstances. I saw that a storm was brewing, but I was perfectly helpless. I couldn't forbid Mrs. Geewhilkens making remarks, and I couldn't prevent Mrs. Turpentine from replying to them. Finally Mrs. Turpentine made some observation that was simply outrageous and Mrs. Geewhilkens got up and said she would not remain here to be insulted. She picked up an old misshapen maker as Mrs. Turpentine."

"Call me an old mischief maker will you?" shrieked Mrs. Turpentine, and she hit Mrs. Geewhilkens over the head with a big tin dipper, and Mrs. Geewhilkens grabbed a teakettle and hit Mrs. Turpentine. Mrs. Turpentine of her feet with it, and before I realized what was happening the place was full of flying tinware. All the ladies took a hand and Mrs. Kipsaw had her nose split with a colander and a big cake tin blackened one of Mrs. Geewhilkens' eyes, and my daughter-in-law present was all ruined. I suppose you will contend that I should have read a chapter of your book at that trying time but the ladies were in no mood for literature. Neither am I at this writing, so you will please evaporate at once."

The Shade of Stead.

(From The Indianapolis News.)
Sir Alfred Turpin, Carlyle's biographer, Chelsea embankment, London, has written a book which is now on the eve of publication. So he is talking about it. Sir Alfred is a spiritualist. One of his closest friends was the newspaper man, W. T. Stead, who went down in the Titanic disaster. Sir Alfred appeared to me within a week of the disaster. The first manifestation occurred in this very room (at Carlyle's house). First came a shadow on a glass, then an audible voice, "Can you show?" I at once said to the voice, "No, I cannot," came the reply, "I will now go to my house at Wimbledon. I shall appear there."

So Sir Alfred went to the W. T. Stead home at Wimbledon. Mr. Stead he narrates, "appeared twice at my right shoulder. The appearances were short and transient, not exactly flashes—more than that—but they rapidly faded. The voice was very well heard."

He had no doubt but that it was Stead's voice. I am happy to be with you again, the first word of greeting. When the Titanic sank," said the voice, "there was my own short, sharp struggle to regain breath, and I came to my senses—it seemed in an instant—surrounded by hundreds of beings who, like myself had passed over to a new existence but were utterly unable to realize what had happened."

"They were quite unconscious of the fact," the voice went on, "that they were not still in the flesh. They were groping about in obscurity and uncertainty, and I set myself at once to do missionary work by enlightening the people as to what had happened and where was the new condition."

"In such work," he told us, "I am still engaged. Numerous spirits inhabitants of the next plane devote themselves to the task of enlightening those who have passed over and it is remarkable how many people on passing have no knowledge of the change in their state."

The Bird and the Beacon.

Poor bird that battled with the storm, To gain the beacon light, Then fallst a wounded woful form Into the gulfs of night! A thousand lips that light may bless, To thee 'tis the last bitterness. A light was given to the earth, Wearing a woman's name, A thousand tongues have told her worth, And deathless is her fame. But I was the spent bird that there Salvation sought, and found despair.

—F. W. BOURDILLON.

Gas.

(From The London Chronicle.)
Who first used the word "gas" and why? Merely because of the supposed resemblance of the product of burning carbon to the "chaos" of the Greeks. "This spirit, hitherto unknown," wrote the experimenter, Van Helmont, in 1648. "I call by the new name gas, and I call it so because, being untamable, it is scarcely distinguishable from the chaos of the ancients." A glimpse at modern gas service will show how far removed from untamability is the gas of today.

The World's Mysteries

WAS GALILEO TORTURED?

The world has been made well aware of the opposition which Galileo experienced from the ecclesiastical authorities of his age, but it is remarkable that the first resistance that he met with came from those who were philosophers like himself. The stories that have been told against the treatment of Galileo by the Inquisition are not founded on facts. It is true that his doctrines brought him a certain amount of trouble, but, by a little discreet management, he might have escaped censure. He was, however, of an ardent disposition, and being assailed by a preacher he was tempted to bring out a pamphlet defending his views, and in reality adding to the offense he had already given. This brought him before the Inquisition in 1615 and he was obliged to disavow all his doctrines and solemnly engage never again to teach them.

The story of the torture and ill-treatment of Galileo by the Inquisition has been told so frequently in history and so well embellished, that it is credited by the majority of people. The Villa Medici, where Galileo was detained, was never in any sense a prison, but was and is one of the most sumptuous palaces in Rome.

In the biography of Galileo by Blot is a letter of Galileo's dated 1633, in which he speaks of enjoying the delightful gardens. It was, indeed, his biographer says, the very opposite of a prison, for, being the resident of a Tuscan ambassador, it was exactly the spot where, of all others, a Tuscan was freest. He was allowed to write to and to receive whom he pleased, says his biographer, and was always attended by his own faithful and favorite servants.

In December of this same year he had liberty to reside in the gardens of Florence, and soon after to inhabit any part of his own Florence at will. Here he passed the remainder of his days and died in 1642 at the ripe old age of seventy-eight.

This was one story of Galileo's detention. Another writer denies that the literary and scientific men were jealous of him, and that they were his worst enemies. As to this story he says, "Of this story there is, I believe, no evidence whatever, and although no one believes now that Galileo was actually put to the torture, the order of the Inquisition, he was undoubtedly imprisoned for a short time and compelled, under threats, to abjure the doctrine of the earth's motion."

EDGE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The story is told of a great musician who once stated that if he missed his practice for but a single day, he could notice the difference, and if he missed it two days, his friends could notice it, but if he missed it three days, his pupils would immediately notice it.

Edge always Tells
Those who know that their entire Success depends upon their being kept constantly on Edge, gladly see the benefits in advance, of pushing aside the agencies that seek to steal their Rewards from them. The Athlete knows that he must live a clean, careful life in order to be kept on Edge. Treat your Body with respect and consideration and keep it on Edge at all times and it will in turn magnificently back every effort of your Brain and keep out the clouds from your Nerve centers.

Edge always Tells
The student who daily does not do his best but leaves to a later date the overtaking of his Brain and natural faculties, feels him a loser. The student who keeps his Brain on Edge, feels the effect of such a method later on when he is thrust into the battles of real Life. He is the man who will then be constantly caught "off Edge."

Curious Bits of History.

(From The Chicago News.)
Britain's next great battleship is to be called the Iron Duke after the Duke of Wellington, although that soldier-captain by the nicknames was not a duke. He was never so called until long after Waterloo. An iron steamship a novelty at the time, was built in the Mersey and named the Duke of Wellington, and so the vessel came to be known as the Iron Duke. It was the being easy and obvious. The transition which made the popular name for the Mersey built steamship to fit him like a perfect cap.

Lord Haldane traveled from England much more simply than did Cardinal Wolsey. Haldane was accompanied only by his sister and his private secretary, whereas Wolsey's retinue—consisted of twelve chaplains, fifty gentlemen, 238 servants and 150 horses. The channel crossing was done in the Harry Grace Dine, England's first two-decker, of 72 guns and a tonnage of about 1,000.

In 1622 one of the wonders to be seen at The Hague was a wagon or a ship, or a combination of both. A traveler of that time wrote "This engine had twenty people and with the wind being drawn or moved by nothing else, and will run the wind being good above fifteen miles an hour upon the even, hard sands."

The Penny Supreme.

(From The London Chronicle.)
The penny, whose supremacy is now threatened, has had a good long inning. For over six centuries it was practically the only English coin, for while the florin did not appear until 1343 the penny was introduced by Offa, King of Mercia who took as a model a coin struck by the father of Charlemagne.

This penny of Offa was a silver coin and it was followed in 1357 by one of gold, and it was not until the time of George III. that copper pence were struck. The present bronze not coming into Victoria had been over twenty years on the throne.

Cut the Name in Two.

(From The London Chronicle.)
Even the polyglot Swiss interpreter at the general postoffice admits that there are languages which would stump him. How would he have solved the problem once presented at the Hampstead Green postoffice, and recorded in Baines' "On the Track of the Mail Coach?" Two women wanted to send a money order to a foreign tradesman in Oxford Street. "What Christian name?" inquired the clerk. "He is a Turk and has none," "We must have a Christian name," the clerk insisted. "But you can't. His bill merely says 'Kotomlen'. Oh, very well," decided the clerk. "That will do." His name in two words, "Kotomlen" could not have done better.

Winewell, in his "History of Inductive Science," has devoted considerable attention to Galileo and his imprisonment. He argues that the abjuration was a solemn farce, equally discredit to the enjoiners and the enjoined, to pander to the popular view of the interpretation of Scripture on the earth's supposed immobility. However that may be, there is no doubt Galileo was an unwilling party to the farce, although he had not sufficient spirit of the martyr to run the risk of refusing to make the abjuration. The often repeated story that he exclaimed under his breath, "but the world does move," when he was made to say that it did not, was probably a graphical representation in later times of the sentiment he must have felt at the absurdity.

This same writer further says "Speaking of his own persecution of the early believers in Christ, St. Paul is made to say, in the authorized version 'I compelled them to blaspheme.' The revised more accurately represents the original as 'I strove to make them blaspheme.' Would that the attempt of the Inquisition to make Galileo abjure and curse a doctrine in which he believed had been equally unsuccessful, but it was not so, and the account forms one of the saddest chapters in the history of science."

Sir David Brewster is authority for the statement that, in the event of a world war, that Galileo was created with a marked deference and generosity by the principal members and highest dignitaries of the church.

John Gerard, who in every way had made himself thoroughly familiar with the life of Galileo after the supposed ban had been placed on his teachings, wrote as follows: "It is untrue to speak of him as in any proper sense a 'prisoner.' As his Protestant biographer von Gebler tells us 'One glance at the truest historical source for the famous trial, had convinced any one that Galileo spent altogether twenty days in the building of the Inquisition, and even then not in a prison cell with barred windows, but in the handsome and commodious apartment of an official of the Inquisition.'"

"Of the rest he was allowed to use as his places of his own choice, his friends, always comfortable and usually luxurious. It would therefore appear as wholly untrue that he was—as is constantly stated—either tortured or blinded by his prosecutors. Although in 1637, five years before his death, he became totally blind—or this was supposed to be the case—he was refused burial in consecrated grounds."

DIOGENES

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Sivas"

DioGENES was the George Bernard Shaw of his time. He got his living by cursing humanity and making humanity like it.

DioGENES was born about 400 B. C. in Greece, and during his early life took up counterfeiting for a profession. He was caught and was banished from his state. This curdled his disposition and he became the champion grouch of the period. Like modern malefactors of great intelligence he decided that he was right and that the whole world was to be severely criticised for rebuking him. He accordingly moved to Athens, borrowed a tub and became a philosopher.

He enlivened his philosophy on the street corners like many of our modern advance thinkers and retained workers, and he used the tub for advertising purposes. By means of living in it he became famous, and large numbers of leading citizens came to visit him and to ask him questions, which invariably got rude answers. When Alexander the Great visited him he asked what he might do to gratify him, whereupon DioGENES asked him to step out of the sun, his morning age fit being about come on.

All this won DioGENES great fame, and he did his best to live up to the public expectations. He lived about Athens by daylight with a lantern hunting for an honest man, and passed by the city officials without even hesitating. He produced a large number of sayings to prove that nobody was any better than he, and that it was dishonest to try to be honest and in general acted like a proprietor of a blind pig saloon yawning against a reform wave. He successfully lived for almost ninety years without using his tub for anything except a shelter and died hungry and happy, being famous.

Many modern thinkers have studied the system of DioGENES and have imitated it successfully

THOUSANDS CROWD STATE FAIR GROUNDS

Hundreds of Traveling Men Are Expected to Observe Drummers' Day.

Macon, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—A vast multitude of people, variously estimated at 25,000 to 30,000, yesterday did honor to Georgia's greatest state fair by visiting its exhibits at the Central City park and patronizing its various features of amusement and instruction.

The center of the attraction was the big Barnum & Bailey circus, which put on two performances, matinee and night, in the mile track at the fair grounds, and which was attended by 18,000 persons at the matinee performance. The excellent midway attractions, however, were in full blast throughout the day, and were patronized by thousands of people. At the same hour of the circus the various exhibitions, buildings and special features were packed with spectators.

Hundreds of families came yesterday prepared to spend the day and the night at the fair grounds, and the grounds were dotted here and there with families eating their lunch picnic, and the ideal weather prevailed during the day, excellent street car service was afforded and the fair management has extra men at work on the grounds seeing after the comfort and convenience of the thousands of visitors.

As a holiday had been declared for the school children in many of the cities and counties of the state, thousands of school children yesterday visited and enjoyed the wonders of the big fair, many of them being accompanied by their parents.

The judges began today the work of judging the various exhibits at the fair, and hope to complete them within four days.

Drummers' Day Saturday.

As tomorrow is Travelers' Day, hundreds of drummers from parts of Georgia and other states, who are expected to be in attendance. President Julius H. Otto, of the Fair association, who is president of the Georgia traveling men, knows what the traveling men like, and he has spared no pains in providing it for them.

Dr. Otto, president of the Georgia Traveling Men's Association of Georgia, will be right up among those front row seats, and he will be the first to see the parade of the business streets of Macon. They will meet at 10 o'clock where the line will be formed. They will then march through the several downtown streets before proceeding to the fair grounds. All the friends of the fair, their families and friends are anticipating with delight a fine old-fashioned Georgia barbecue to be served them at 1 o'clock in the half-mile track. W. C. Young, better known as "Bill" Young, and famous throughout the state for his barbecue, has charge of the big feast, and that he guarantees that it will be first-class.

Alfaia club members from many Georgia cities will be on hand to meet with the Alfaia Growers' association, and plans will be made to have alfaia clubs organized in every county in the state. This will be the first general meeting of the alfaia growers in the state, and many new members will be enrolled in the movement to extend the alfaia idea.

FOUR-COUNTY FAIR OPENS AT COMMERCE

Commerce, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—The Four-County fair, comprising the counties of Jackson, Spalding, Franklin and Madison, will open here next Monday.

The stock exhibit will be a special feature, and the agricultural exhibits will be better than ever, for the reason that the crops are fine.

The J. B. Stuart chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and the Civic club of this city are taking active interest in the fair, and their efforts will add much to its success.

Governor J. M. Slaton will attend the fair Monday. This will be the governor's first visit to Commerce, and will also be the first opportunity many of our people have had to see Georgia's chief executive.

DREDGE PASSES THRO' LOCK AT MIRAFLORES

Panama, October 24.—The pipe line suction dredge, No. 1, which has been working at the Pacific entrance of the Panama canal, successfully passed through the locks at Miraflores and Colon today.

The vessel, in tow of the tug Miraflores, and accompanied by auxiliary craft, entered the locks at Miraflores at 9:04 o'clock this morning. It passed through Miraflores lake and the Miraflores locks and entered the Culebra cut at 11:52.

Tomorrow the glider span of the road trestle at Panama will be lifted to permit the dredge to pass through its way to the Culebra slide, where it will begin excavating the passage of the dredge today constitutes the first complete operation of the Pacific locks of the canal.

DUVALL LOSES LIFE ON HUNTING TRIP

Mineral Bluff, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—W. C. Duvall, a prominent young man of 25 years of age, died yesterday by a companion named Raper.

Raper was operating a shuttle block mill on Wilcox, nine miles east of this place. Running out of material, he decided to go out rabbit hunting. His remains were sent to his home at Almond today.

We Exchange Diamonds at Full Price in Part Payment on More Expensive Stones

Solitaire diamonds sold by us bear a perpetual exchange agreement.

This plan enables you to secure as large a diamond as you wish, taking as long a time as is necessary to pay for it.

For example—at the first purchase buy a diamond worth $25.00; then, say, a month later, apply the first diamond and $25.00 more to a purchase of a $50.00 stone. If you keep up such a plan for a year you can own a magnificent $300.00 stone.

Under this plan you have the privilege of taking ten years or more to secure the larger stone. Our exchange plan is perpetual.

Our diamond booklet explains how you can buy a diamond for your cash or on easy terms. Net prices and full particulars given. Call or write for this booklet and new 160-page catalogue for 1914.

NATIONAL COMMISSION TO CONTROL INDIANS

Urged at Mohonk Conference, and Ultimate Self-Government for Dependent Islanders.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., October 24.—Ultimate self-government of the Philippines and Porto Rico and control of Indian affairs by a permanent non-partisan national commission were recommended in the platform adopted tonight at the closing session of the Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of Indians and Other Dependent Peoples. The conference declined to increase the view of some members that the Philippines were ready for immediate independence, but agreed that the Porto Ricans, while preparing for "self-government under the American flag," should be granted full American citizenship.

Notwithstanding condemnation of the democratic Philippine policy received during the convention, the platform dismissed that question as follows:

"We venture to hope that the action of President Wilson in placing the upper house of the legislature (the Philippine commission) in control of the Philippines will be found by its practical results to have been wise, extra men at work on the grounds seeing after the comfort and convenience of the thousands of visitors."

The conference recommended that no date be set for the withdrawal of our supervision over the Philippines and no decision be made as to the ultimate form of self-government until "through general education and familiarity with the principles of American liberty the people should be fitted to decide wisely for themselves."

The suggestion for a non-partisan Indian commission to hold office during long terms of good behavior is said to have the support of the secretary of the Interior. Such a commission would have charge of property worth nearly a billion dollars.

Legislation was urged to protect the Indians of Oklahoma, many of whom have been made suddenly wealthy by the discovery on their lands of oil and coal. This would be brought about by legislation to the sale of their holdings and forbidding them to lease their lands, a practice which has driven thousands of Indians into beggary.

The conference recommended that Congress be asked to permit the distribution to all competent Indians of their tribal property and to close the door upon the horde of applicants who by claiming Indian blood are seeking a share in this distribution.

Protection was asked for the Navajo, Hopi and Nevada tribes, whose prosperity through sheep raising and blanket making has attracted covetous eyes. Regarding the Indians of New York the conference recommended that as soon as possible be reserved by mistake, the Indians be admitted to full citizenship.

The conference urged a vigorous medical campaign by the government, especially against tuberculosis and trachoma among the Indians.

The conference tonight heard an address on Alaska by John G. Brady, Alaskan governor from 1897 to 1905. He described the work of the Carlisle Indian school by Brigadier General R. H. Pratt, U. S. A., retired, who organized the school.

BRIDE OF 12 HOURS DECLARES HUSBAND CRUEL AND INHUMAN

Rome, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—After twelve hours of married life, Mrs. Viola Evans Edwards, a pretty 17-year-old girl, left her husband, Charles Edwards, a Lingle business man, declaring him to be cruel and inhuman.

In Floyd city court today she successfully resisted habeas corpus proceedings served out by her husband in a vain effort to cause her people to relinquish possession of her.

The pair were married Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock, and Mrs. Evans left her husband early the next morning and refused to return to him. On the witness stand she asserted that she left him of her own free will, realizing that she had made a grave mistake. She declared that her love for the young man had changed to dislike and that she never wanted to see him again.

Judge John H. Rees refused to sanction the writ of habeas corpus and the girl while in with her uncle, George H. Edwards, a relative, asserted that they will seek to have the marriage annulled on the ground that Mrs. Edwards is less than 16 years of age. Her husband declares she is 16, and her age was so given on the marriage license.

The young man denies that he has treated his youthful wife, and attributes her desertion to the influence of relatives. He has sworn out warrants against two of her cousins, Ella Melton and E. C. Melton, charging them with kidnapping.

The girl is handsome, mature for her years and of intelligent appearance. The husband is 25 years of age.

BIG CROWDS ATTEND GORDON COUNTY FAIR

Calhoun, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—Large crowds have been attending the ninth annual Gordon county fair, which is in progress here this week.

Features of the fair include horse racing, a variety of sports, a union field sports for county schools and many other events of interest. Mr. Loring Brown acted as stock and poultry judge, while Judge J. W. Maddox, of Rome, delivered the address to the veterans.

An interesting exhibit in the ladies' department is a handsome oil painting by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, executed over thirty years ago when Mrs. Wilson was Ellen Axson and was teaching art in the old Presbyterian college at Rome.

LOWNDES COUNTY MAN SHOOTSELF IN HEAD

Valdosta, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—Byron Hightower, Jr., a 30-year-old farmer, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head this morning at his home, two miles west of Valdosta.

It is understood that he had been drinking heavily for some time and was in a depressed and nervous condition for the past week. He had threatened to take his life before and stated to members of his family that he would not live through the day. After breakfast he secured a pair of pistols, lay down on a lounge and fired a bullet into his brain. When his son and wife reached his side he was in a dying condition.

Mrs. Hightower was 30 years old and a native of this county.

STEVENS MAY ENTER RACE AGAINST PRICE

Colonel O. B. Stevens, who was commissioner of agriculture for a number of years and a former railroad commissioner, is being urged by his friends to make a race against J. D. Price, the present commissioner of agriculture. Friends of Colonel Stevens state that numerous requests from all parts of the state have come to him to make the race.

Colonel Stevens is one of the best known men in public life in Georgia. He has served in the house in the state senate, as commissioner of agriculture and as railroad commissioner during previous years. No doubt the probability of his candidacy will arouse considerable interest, and a warm fight is predicted in this event in the primary next year.

INSURANCE MEN DISCUSS WAR ON "WHITE PLAGUE"

Reduction of Mortality by Treating Patients in Special Sanatoria Is Recommended.

Berlin, October 24.—Relations between insurance and the campaign against tuberculosis were discussed today by the International Tuberculosis congress. Reduction of mortality by treating patients in special sanatoria, improving of housing conditions and education of people to the danger of infection were topics of talk.

The German speakers included Dr. Kaufmann, Wilhelm Koch, presidents of different sections of the German imperial insurance office. They described amazing results of the establishment of sanatoria for consumptives among the compulsively insured working classes not only in reducing mortality, but in rendering life easier for sufferers and their families and in curing many of those attacked.

Dr. Kaufmann declared that 92 per cent of patients in sanatoria in 1912 showed such improvement that permanent disability was not to be feared. Of the patients successfully treated in these institutions in 1907, 57 per cent were today still self-supporting.

Lee K. Frankel, of New York, and Frederick Ludwig Hoffmann, of Newark, sent papers describing the Swedish, Finnish and Dutch systems of insurance against tuberculosis, which are applicable to the United States. By this system the insurance companies advance to employers the cost of a portion of the face value of their policies to enable them to undergo treatment in sanatoria. In addition to this system is that companies specializing in such policies are likely to get bad cases and risks.

JOYNER MURDER CASE JURY IS DISCHARGED

Waycross, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—After a second session, during which the Joyner murder mystery was unfolded as much as possible, Judge H. M. Dixon today discharged the jury with the case as much as he could. "Police deny that Joyner was employed in a crusade against blind tiger operators, thus exploding the theory that Joyner was killed to prevent his giving testimony in the prosecution of whisky cases in recorded court."

Neither city nor county officers have found a single clue to work on, and beyond the certainty that two negroes killed Joyner nothing is further known of the murder.

"OPEN TOWN" ISSUE IN CORDELE

Cordele, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—W. A. Thompson, J. M. Cox and P. S. Barber have been announced by their friends as candidates for aldermen in the approaching municipal election on November 12. They will oppose D. L. Bullock, W. D. Wilson and J. H. Lamb, who class themselves as the "conservative element, the chief issue in the campaign being that of an "open town."

Since the two factions are very distinctively and strongly divided, a hotly waged contest is certain.

SING SING WITNESSES BEATEN UP IN PRISON

Ossining, N. Y., October 24.—Several Sing Sing convicts who testified before a Westchester county grand jury in White Plains today in connection with the fire that destroyed the prison mat shop in July, were attacked and beaten when they returned tonight. One of them was stabbed and all were handled roughly until guards interfered. The jury is investigating the case, and it is first that was followed by a mutiny of prisoners, which contained several days. It was suspected that the flames were of incendiary origin.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ORGANIZED AT ROME

Rome, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—Rome business men have organized a chamber of commerce, and assurances of a membership of at least 100 were made at the organization meeting today. John M. Graham was elected as president; W. L. Daniel as vice president; C. L. Winkerson as treasurer, and A. J. Pitt as secretary.

The organization has leased a building on Broad street and will use it as headquarters and for the purpose of maintaining a permanent exhibit of articles manufactured in Rome.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT MOORE MEMORIAL

Revival services are now in progress at Moore Memorial church and will be continued through the week.

Rev. Frank D. Hunt, the evangelist of Atlanta Presbytery, is assisting the pastor and is preaching every night at 7:30 o'clock.

He will preach Sunday morning and night. Everybody is cordially invited.

Dies While in Taxi.

New York, October 24.—Colonel Lon W. Powell, a mining operator of Los Angeles, died suddenly while in a taxi cab today in a taxi cab while he was riding with his friend, Dr. S. S. Crow, of California.

DR. OGDEN COMPLETES SERMONS AT DAVIDSON

After delivering a series of sermons at Davidson College, North Carolina, during the past week, Dr. Dunbar Ogden returns to Atlanta today and will occupy his pulpit in the Central Presbyterian church Sunday. At the morning service his theme will be, "Reconciled and Saved," while in the evening he will preach on "Man Regaining His Lost Crown." At Davidson Dr. Ogden spoke twice daily, holding evangelistic services at night and in the mornings delivering his series of addresses on "Social Messages of the Bible."

REV. C. O. JONES TO SPEAK TO RAILROAD MEN

Rev. Charles O. Jones, D. D., pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, south, will address the railroad men's meeting at the Railroad Young Men's Christian association rooms, 51-2 W. Alabama street, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Those who attend will hear something worth while, Dr. Jones is easily in the foremost rank of Atlanta's able preachers and it will be a privilege to hear him on this occasion. All men in railroad service are most warmly invited and all their friends will be cordially welcomed.

GOOD ROADS ELECTION FOR GORDON COUNTY

Calhoun, Ga., October 24.—(Special.)—The commissioners of roads and revenues of Gordon county have called a special election for November 15, for the purpose of getting the public to provide for the issuing of $100,000 worth of bonds for road building throughout the county.

This election, if successful, will give Gordon county a part in the Johnson-Sherman highway from Chattanooga to Atlanta for it is specified that part of the bond money will be applied in that direction.

GIRLS FREE WHEN FLAMES THREATEN MARKETS

$10,000 Damage Done to Old Miller Stables Building and Several Other Structures Were in Danger.

Fire, originating on the first floor center of the three-story structure formerly occupied by the Miller stables at Marietta and Barlow streets late yesterday afternoon did $10,000 damage and threatened to destroy adjacent buildings, forcing fifty young girls employed by the Atlanta Envelope company next door to flee to safety. Six hose companies responded to the alarm and it was only the fire which brought the flames under control.

Apparently the fire had been in progress some time when discovered by a passer-by. Before the fire engines could arrive the flames had gained the roof of the building and for a while the buildings in proximity to the Capital City Envelope company seemed doomed.

Smoke from the burning building just previous to the arrival of the fire department had gained the Atlanta Envelope factory. Employees shouted the alarm frantically to their fellow workers, pandemonium reigned for several minutes until the cooler heads started the others toward the street. The girls, however, were not so easily calmed and all reached the ground without mishap.

Chief Cummings declared last night that he, as yet, had been unable to determine the origin of the fire. The structure is owned by the Capital City Envelope and Investment company and carried $10,000 insurance.

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE MODIFIED BY BURELSON

Washington, October 24.—Postmaster General Burelson today ordered a modification of existing regulations governing the training of mail carriers, providing that no train shall be held at a connecting point beyond its stated time of departure longer than is necessary to transfer first-class mail.

"I took this matter up," Mr. Burelson said, "in a conference with Mr. Adams, mail director of the Frisco lines. Investigation disclosed the fact that through trains in all parts of the country frequently were delayed beyond their regular time of departure by the regulations that all of the mail cars be loaded and unloaded at the latter be late, mail be transferred to it. The operation of this regulation often caused serious delay in the departure of trains, to the inconvenience and loss of many persons."

Hereafter if a train is late only the first-class mail will be transferred from it to its connection, so that there will be no unreasonable delay in train departures.

WOULD FIX LIMIT TO SIZE OF NATIONAL HOUSE

Washington, October 24.—Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, author of the income tax provision of the tariff law, today began a vigorous campaign for an amendment to the constitution limiting the membership of the national house of representatives to 450 members. The present membership is 435. With the rapidly increasing number of members the fact that the house is overcrowded with too many members is more apparent. Mr. Hull would limit further increase and by so doing give the states a more equitable opportunity to readjust itself.

ROBBERS GET BIG LOOT FROM OHIO POSTOFFICE

Chicago Junction, Ohio, October 23.—Robbers early today blew open the safe of the postoffice at Attica, Ohio, 10 miles west of here, and escaped with loot estimated at $15,000.

The loot the robbers obtained represented not only the cash on hand and stamps of the office, but large sums of cash belonging to the Seneca County association and other organizations of which Postmaster W. F. Uno was secretary.

It was believed the burglars escaped in this direction, and the sheriff of Seneca county is hunting them in this vicinity.

GOVERNOR LEADS WORK ON KENTUCKY ROADS

Lexington, Ky., October 24.—Thousands of Kentuckians of both sexes turned out between rains today in working clothes to help part in the state's "good roads day." Governor McCreary, 77 years old, led a squad of workers near Frankfort.

Candidates At Tifton.

Tifton, Ga., October 24.—(Special).—Tifton is evidently regarded as a fighting ground by the congressional candidates. Judge Covington spoke to the farmers here ten days ago, and made a return engagement to speak to the business men last night. Senator P. H. McSwain, who has been in the state for some time, and Colonel Luke will address the voters of the county at the superior court tonight.
