

THE TRUTH-SEEKER, GEORGIANS MOVE AGAINST EDITOR

Congressmen Howard, Bartlett and Othrs Resent an Attack Made Upon Them in The Truth-Seeker.

EDITOR TO BE INDICTED FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL

Effort to Substitute Democrats for Republicans as Job Holders in House Caused Attack on Congressmen.

Washington, September 20.—(Special.)—An indictment for criminal libel will be sworn out on Monday by Representative Howard and Bartlett of Georgia, and Clark of Florida and Thomas of Kentucky, against James F. Morton Jr. because of a defamatory editorial published today in a weekly newspaper of New York.

Southern Members Annihilated

"The Truth-Seeker," in which the article appeared is designated by its publishers as a "free thought and agnostic newspaper." In the editorial the southern members of congress were bitterly assailed for their course in the democratic house caucus in seeking to substitute democrats for republicans as job holders in the house.

Called Congressmen Crooks

The low sense of political morality prevailing in extreme political circles was made clear by the recent caucus of the democratic members of the national house of representatives, so far as newspapers are concerned, no one stood for honesty.

UNKNOWN WOMAN INJURED BY AUTO

E. L. Robertson, Driver of the Car, Says Accident Was Unavoidable—Victim in a Critical Condition.

Struck by an automobile while crossing Marietta street, near North avenue, about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, an unidentified white woman is lying unconscious in Grady hospital, and attending physicians stated at an early hour this morning that she has little, if any, chance to recover.

Go to Police Station

Immediately upon seeing that she was properly cared for Robertson hurried to the police station and gave himself up to the officers stating: "I guess you would want me, so I am saving you the trouble of looking for me."

Struck by the Pender

"I tried to swerve the car in time to miss her, but it was too late. Only the fender struck her, and she was thrown heavily to the pavement. Seeing that my machine was out of commission I hailed a passing cab, and took her with all speed to Grady hospital. I think that the accident was clearly unavoidable, and am convinced that the testimony of witnesses will bear me out in this statement."

MEXICO CONGRESS HURLS DEFIANCE AT GEN. HUERTA

Liberal Deputies Are Fighting Appointment of Catholic Party Leader to a Position in the Cabinet.

RUMORED THAT HUERTA MAY DISSOLVE CONGRESS

Odds Seem to Be Overwhelming Against Huerta—Catholic Party May Support Gamboa for the Presidency.

Mexico City, September 20.—Political affairs in Mexico have undergone a marked change in the last few days. The liberal party's defiance of President Huerta in the chamber of deputies yesterday, growing out of opposition to the appointment of Eduardo Tamariz, one of the leaders of the Catholic party, as minister of public instruction, appears to have opened the fight squarely on the issue of the Catholic party's influence in governmental affairs with the liberals and affiliated elements in congress lined up against it.

He May Dissolve Congress

Rumors regarding the action of President Huerta is likely to take, went so far today as to deal with the possibility of his dissolving congress to rid himself of opposition from that source and backing Federico Gamboa, the former minister, as his choice for the presidency in the coming elections.

Other Rumors were that General Huerta would bring about a postponement of the elections pending the pacification of the country, and would either resign in the presidency, or retire in favor of Minister Gamboa.

No rumor appears to have better foundation than another. President Huerta declared himself on the subject of the possible dissolution of congress, saying he has no intention of going to that extremity. While it was authoritatively stated a few days ago that General Huerta had determined to recall General Felix Diaz, constant to a settled plan of action, it is now said that he has abandoned that course. So far as can be ascertained he has not yet recalled Diaz.

Odde Against Huerta

In the face of overwhelming odds against him in the chamber of deputies, General Huerta may consider the withdrawal of the appointment of Tamariz, or might possibly shift him to some other ministry where there would be less antagonism. Great interest attaches to the probable action of the Catholic party will take tomorrow in convention, in view of recent developments. The name of Federico Gamboa is the only one figuring tonight in the gossip of the probable choice of the party, although it was said that a compromise candidate might be selected. Because of Senor Gamboa's very recent appearance as a political factor, he is not widely known among the delegates.

FARM PRODUCTS AND SPECULATION

Cotton "Futures" Tax Brings Subject to Front—Alleged That Abolition of Exchanges Would Restrict the Market.

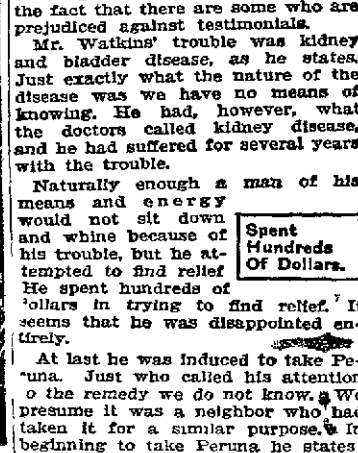

By John Corrigan, Jr. Washington September 20.—(Special)—Discussion of the cotton futures tax provided for in the Clarke amendment to the tariff bill has brought prominently before the public the whole subject of speculation in agricultural products. Those who defend the exchange as a market place argue with much force from the sound economic theory that wider markets mean better prices. To abolish the exchanges would restrict markets they say and prices would inevitably fall.

ing an honest contract to be offered by the exchange. If a contract is made for the present or future delivery of cotton, it should be in fact what it purports to be. It should be enforceable in law to the extent of requiring a deliverable cotton to be delivered in settlement of the contract or its cash equivalent. Such a contract may provide that the staple be delivered at any designated spot cotton market, and not necessarily in the city where the exchange is located. The element of transportation, insurance and storage charges of course enters into every such transaction. In buying a hedge the buyer may not contemplate actual delivery.

But the speculator should be compelled to deliver storable cotton where delivery is desired and the odds in favor of the speculator should be clearly known to the buying public. That is not possible at present. Under such conditions there would be a legitimate place for the speculator in the cotton trade one who would assume the speculative risks and protect the trader from serious losses brought about by violent fluctuations.

"Among all the greatly advertised medicines for kidney and bladder trouble there is nothing which equals Peruna. I suffered for several years with this trouble, spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicine and all to no purpose, until I took Peruna."

"One bottle did me more good than all the others put together, as they only poisoned my system. Peruna cured me. I used it for four months before a complete cure was accomplished, but am truly grateful to you. The least I can do in return is to acknowledge the merits of Peruna."

DENY WRIGHT MADE ATTACK UPON ROSS

Prohibition Advocates Say Solicitor and Lecturer Have Been Leaders in "Dry" Fight.

Prohibition leaders in Atlanta who attended the meeting Friday night at which Seaborn Wright of Rome, well-known prohibition speaker before the session of the Southern Christian Citizenship congress declared Saturday that the speaker did not, as reported in an afternoon paper, make an attack upon Solicitor General Ross, of Macon, in dealing with remarks upon men who would not enforce the laws upon the statute books of Georgia.

It was pointed out that Solicitor Ross and Mr. Wright have been side by side as leaders in the prohibition fight in Georgia and that nothing could be more distant from the truth than the statement that the Rome leader had started an attack upon his Macon co-partner.

ROSS ANSWERS WRIGHT

Macon, Ga., September 20.—(Special)—Hon. Seaborn Wright's report denunciation of Solicitor General John P. Ross of the Macon circuit in his address on anarchists in High Places at the session of the Southern Christian Citizenship congress Friday night today drew the following statement from Solicitor Ross: "The best excuse a man may have for prejudiced misjudgment and injustice towards a fellowman is to keep himself ignorant of the facts concerning the words and conduct of the man he wishes to criticize."

Mr. Wright did not mention anyone by name in his address and I am quite sure that he meant nothing personal in his remarks when he said what he did of the solicitor general. The speech was a wonderful arraignment of the criminal politicians. In fact it was masterly. I wish we could have heard more of it but the time was limited.

A truth loving justice-loving public official should know the facts before he denounces," added Mr. Ross. He was under the impression at that time that the Rome leader had really attacked him.

Mr. Wright did not mention anyone by name in his address and I am quite sure that he meant nothing personal in his remarks when he said what he did of the solicitor general. The speech was a wonderful arraignment of the criminal politicians. In fact it was masterly. I wish we could have heard more of it but the time was limited.

LIFE TIME FURNITURE

For the Library, Living Room, Dining Room or Den

there is no Furniture made which so aptly fits in as Life Time Furniture. While Life Time Furniture can be had in all standard finishes, the Nut-Brown Velvet Fumed Oak is most in demand, as this shade harmonizes best with other colors, and lends a particular beauty to the general furnishing scheme.

Life Time Furniture is made of Solid Quartered White Oak, not a foot of veneer being used. Every joint receiving the least strain is fitted with a mortise and tenon—a pinned construction, which has stood from the medieval period to the present day as the acme of joint construction.

Each Chair, Settee and Rocker is fitted with a removable spring cushion seat. Only the best crucible steel springs being used. Every seat and back cushion is covered with a special grade of Genuine Leather selected for its soft, pliable quality.

When you see Life Time Furniture you will agree with us that better Furniture cannot be made. May we show you Monday? We Are Sole Atlanta Agents

PIMPLES ON HANDS LIKE BLISTERS

Spread Half Way to Elbow. Itched and Burned Till Could Not Sleep. Couldn't Do Work. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

604 Greenville Ave. Staunton Va. I got my hand poisoned some way and it kept getting worse until my whole hand was in a raw sore. Every time I would put it in water it would break out with new pimples like blisters and would spread about an inch until it was half way to my elbow. It itched so I had to keep a cloth on it to keep from scratching.

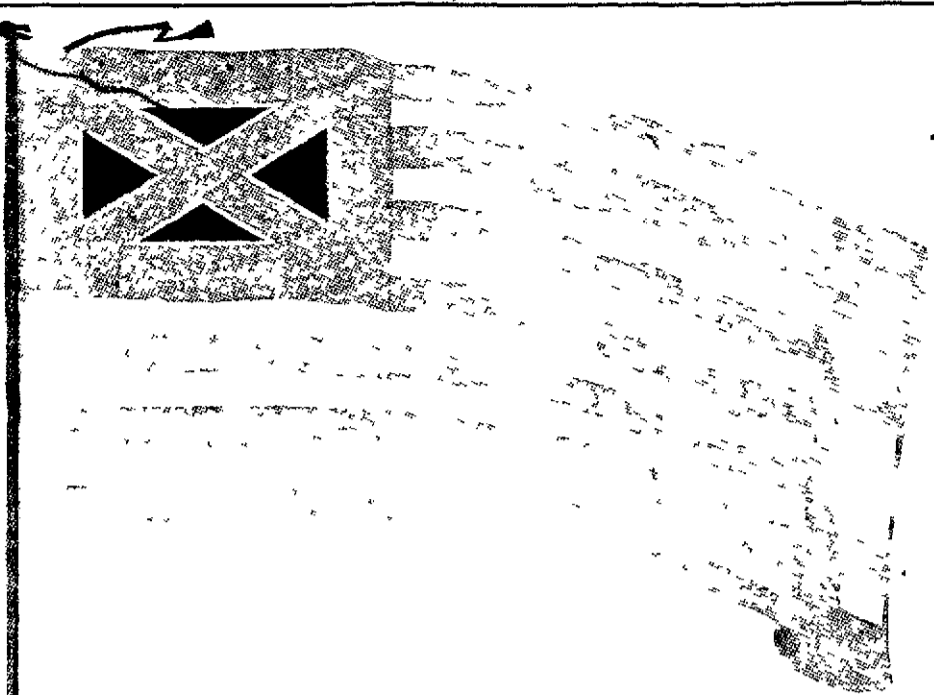

It itched and burned me till I could not sleep. It had been all summer that I could do my work. They said it was eczema. I saw the advertisement about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got both. I did not use half of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment till my hand and arm was cured.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent dry thin and falling hair. Itchy itching and irritation and promote the growth and beauty of the hair.

BOY GOLFER Francis Ouimet With Fine 72 Wins Title Outplays Vardon and Ray

YOUNG AMATEUR GOLFER DEFEATS ENGLISH CRACKS

Francis Ouimet, Still in Teens, Wins Eighteen Holes Play-Off From Vardon and Ray by Wonderful Steadiness.

YOUNGSTER TURNS IN SPLENDID CARD OF 72

Vardon Five Strokes Behind, and Ray Still Another—All Turned for Home With Cards of 38 on First Nine.

Brookline, Mass., September 20.—Another name was added to America's list of victors in international sport today when Francis Ouimet, the youthful local amateur, won the nineteenth open championship tournament of the United States Golf Association.

The winning of this national title was lifted to an international plane, due to the exceptional circumstances of the play and the caliber of the entrants whom Ouimet defeated during his four days march to victory.

Brookline, Mass., September 20.—Another name was added to America's list of victors in international sport today when Francis Ouimet, the youthful local amateur, won the nineteenth open championship tournament of the United States Golf Association.

It was not the actual defeat of this famous pair of golfers so much as the manner of that defeat that entitles Ouimet's name to rank with that of Maurice E. McLoughlin, champion in tennis and Harry Payne Whitney, leader in polo.

When Ouimet hoisted his final stroke, the pride in the young American's victory was all the more justified because he had won without fluke or aid in his play.

On the other hand, his veteran opponents, tried players of many a hard-fought match, were broken down, leaving Ouimet to finish as easily as he had started.

The very fact that Vardon and Ray could not hold up under the stress of the struggle shows the titanic form and strain of the final round.

Before the tournament began Ray and Vardon were 2 to 1 favorites.

Three Certainties in Yellow Jackets' Backfield

These three players are certainties in the Tech back field. At least, those who have followed Tech's chances since the start of practice believe that these three men will be on the varsity eleven all season.

On the left is Homer Cook, captain and left halfback. In the center is Jim Peas, the Riverside Military academy star, who is an all-around athlete in addition to being a great football player.

On the right is Talley Johnston, the star of the Chattahoochee High school team last year. Johnston is not only an excellent back, but is said to be just as good an end.

SAVANNAH WILL DROP GRAND PRIX

Savannah, Ga., September 20.—At a meeting of the hotel men of Savannah held today to consider offering financial assistance to the Savannah Automobile Association in staging the grand prize Vanderbilt cup races Thanksgiving day, Arthur W. Solomon, secretary of the association, stated that it was quite probable that the races would be called off. A lack of entries is given as the cause. The hotel men decided not to take any steps at this time.

AERIAL DERBY WON BY GUSTAVE HAMEL

London, September 20.—The "Aerial Derby," an aeroplane race of 85 miles, the course forming a complete circuit of London, was flown today. There were eleven entries. The race started from the Aerodrome at Hendon, the first flying machine leaving at 4 o'clock and the others at intervals of one minute.

INTRODUCING PLAYERS FOR WORLD'S SERIES

3. CHRISTOPHER MATHEWSON. Christopher Mathewson, one of the star pitchers of the New York National club, is one of the most famous players in the land, thanks to the phenomenal work he has done for the New York club since 1901. Mathewson is a native of Factoryville, Pa., where he was born in 1878, and it is said that he first attracted attention as a pitcher when playing on the village club. After he had gained some reputation while in the box for the Keystone, Pa. academy nine, he entered Bucknell university, where he "made the team" in his first year.

WESTGARD HAS COVERED 10,000 MILES OF TRIP

Before His Tour Is Over National Highways Booster Will Visit Georgia

With 10,000 miles of his 17,000-mile automobile journey behind him, A. L. Westgard, vice president of the National Highways association, and director of trans-continental highways, left Denver last week for Albuquerque, N. M., via Colorado Springs, Trinidad, Las Vegas and Santa Fe.

From Albuquerque he goes westward to Los Angeles, arriving there early in October and examining some of the roads of southern California before turning his face eastward on the return journey across the continent. On the way to New York his route will take him through parts of Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Since passing company with the Indiana tourists at San Francisco at the end of the Indiana-to-the-coast tour, six weeks ago, Mr. Westgard has travelled more than 3,000 miles in the northwestern states. He reached Denver by way of Boise, Idaho, Ogden, Utah, Salt Lake City, Richfield, Rifle, Glenwood Springs, Leadville, Tennessee Pass and Colorado Springs, Colo. Governor Spry of Utah, rode with Mr. Westgard from Salt Lake City to the Colorado line. At Meeker the National Highways association's pathfinder was met by Governor Ammons, of Colorado, for the ride to Denver.

Throughout his long journey Mr. Westgard has kept the closest of cordiality and hospitality. Boards of trade, chambers of commerce, good roads organizations, automobile clubs and many other groups have shown their enthusiasm for his mission in the work that he is doing—the collecting of first-hand information about road conditions in the plan of the National Highways association. This advocates as supplementary to the present systems of township, county, and state roads a system of 10,000 miles of national highways to be built and maintained by the national government in order to foster the development of good roads everywhere.

QUESTION OF WEIGHT WORRYING DESIGNERS

Velle Engineers Paying Special Attention to Consideration of Economical Operation.

"The consideration of weight as a factor in the economical operation of a motor car is growing every day," says F. B. Ludwig, who sells Velle cars in the local territory.

The engineering force at the Velle factory are putting particular stress on this important point at the present time. Without realizing the fact that buying public are making it harder every year for the manufacturers to put out a car that will be economical in operation. This is due, in a large part to the demand for various heavy accessories which has become so great that these accessories are essential to the properly built car as the motor and other working parts.

The biggest advances have been made along the lines of using high-grade materials, essentially placed in the car to give the necessary strength without the usual weight. In a way the process of lightening the car helps in getting superior strength since the various parts of the car are subjected to a lesser load due to the light weight.

How far Velle engineers have progressed in this direction is well shown in the new Velle six which has already become known as the (1000 pounds lighter) car. This car weighs, when ready for the road and loaded with full passenger capacity less than the average six cylinder car weighs empty.

On the long-test run just completed the value of this lessened weight made itself felt in the remarkable freedom from tire trouble. In fact there was practically no attention required in the way of taking care of the tires.

New Use for Starter
Velle engineers have also discovered a new use for the electric motor starter. That in as a disaster saver in cases where, through manipulation of the throttle, the motor becomes stalled in traffic or in other places where there is an element of danger.

"Often one reads of a bad accident occasioned by the motor going dead on a railroad crossing or in a crowded street. With the properly built electric starter such accidents can be avoided simply by pressing down on the starter pedal, and if the motor does not respond immediately, the gears may be thrown in such and the car moved by the starter.

"While it is not good practice to abuse this property of the electric starter, it is a good thing for the driver to know that he has power ready for use in case of a bad emergency.

"The electric starter used on Velle cars is one of exceptional power, and the storage battery, which supplies the current, is of big capacity, so the owner of a Velle is well equipped to get himself out of any tight place in which he may get.

"A rather high gasoline economy record was also scored on the run, considering the fact that for over 2,000 miles the route was over the worst mountain roads that it was possible to find. The average distance covered per gallon of gasoline was 10 miles, and here no attempt was made to run the car with low gas consumption.

Hiding Comfort

"Another factor which is of supreme importance and which is materially aided by light weight is the securing of riding comfort. The light-weight car suspended on properly built springs, seems to override road shocks in a surprising manner, and the occupants feel practically no jolting or jerking." Mr. Ludwig also stated that the new "six" Velle probably would not reach Atlanta before the latter part of October or the first of November, but will be here in time for the big show November 8 to 15. However, the first shipment of Velle '14 new 1914 model have already been received and are now on display at the company's show room. Mr. Ludwig is very enthusiastic over this car, and states that it will prove to be the most efficient and sturdy of any of the '14' cars that will appear this season.

News Wise and Otherwise Of Boys Who Put 'Em Over

The Premier Motor Manufacturing company, of Indianapolis, received a wire the other day from the Lord Auto company, of Lincoln, Neb., which caused much consternation among the employees.

"Just sold the baby to a banker at Omaha, Neb., in twenty-five minutes—quickest sale on record," the wire read.

The telephone operator at the factory was so upset that she had the Western Union repeat to be sure that the wording of the wire was correct.

Investigation proved that Mr. Lord meant that he had just sold a 6-40 Premier touring car, which is the baby car of the Premier line.

One of the most important exhibits at the convention of Fire Chiefs in New York was the display of the American-LaFrance Engine company, of Elmira, N. Y. This company showed three of their finest pieces of apparatus, which have been purchased by the city of Buffalo for the Buffalo fire department.

The American-LaFrance apparatus was equipped with Goodrich wireless tires for motor fire apparatus, and the display was given great attention by all the visitors.

"This really is a double indorsement of Goodrich wireless tires for motor fire apparatus," said A. H. Leavitt, factory representative of the B. F. Goodrich company at the convention. "In a sense it may be said that the American-LaFrance Engine company and the city of Buffalo both thus express their approval of our tires. The reason Goodrich wireless tires are so successful and popular for fire departments lies in the Goodrich method of construction and the rubber used by the Goodrich company. Our tires have no wire fastening to heat on the run and damage the tires. They are built on a steel base which is inseparably attached to the steel rim of the wheel. That's one reason why they do not come loose or get thrown while on the way to the fire. The firemen know they can hit up the speed to the necessary pace, and at the same time feel perfectly safe and sure. On top of all that, comes their long and satisfactory service. We guarantee them for three years and we put all the wear and more in them in the making."

"One-half the enjoyment of touring is immunity from tire troubles," says L. C. Rockhill, manager automobile tire department, the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio. "The average owner-driver can enjoy this immunity by exercising care in making his preparations. Blowouts, punctures and other tire troubles are hold-ups that he looks forward to with no degree of enjoyment, whereas a little preparation in the way of accessories for temporary repairs obviates unnecessary delay.

"In the first place he should be sure that his castings and tubes are in good condition and that he has an extra supply of both. Then, with a good air pump, a tire gauge to test the air pressure in his tires and a supply of tire repair devices, he can go on his way confident that he has taken every precaution to sidestep tire troubles. He will find that thus prepared, the tour will be more enjoyable both for himself and his party."

year of its execution under an optional agreement, exercisable on August 15 of the following year. Such player shall, however, be subject to draft in the year of his release regardless of the approved optional agreement."

The commission also construed the rule relating to the number of players the club will not be required to include in its list the name of any player who is so incapacitated by injury or illness that he is unable to render service and the chances of the recovery of whose athletic ability are questionable. Such player shall be reserved as "disabled," but shall not count in his team's limit.

It's a conquering price—for a great car! At the new cost to consumers, Ford cars will be still more in evidence on every highway. Stop! Look! Listen! Watch the Fords go by—you can scarcely hear them.

NO CHANGE MADE IN GEORGIA GAME LAWS

Birds and Deer Increasing Rapidly—Impression Out That Season Opens Earlier.

An erroneous impression has been circulated in some of the weekly papers of the state to the effect that the game season has been changed so that the open season for birds commences on September 20 instead of November 20 in order to correct this idea Game Commissioner Jesse Mercer yesterday gave out the following statement:

"The papers of the state, many of them have very recently printed several errors as to the dates of the open hunting season, particularly as to quail and deer. The dates have not been changed since last season—deer, October 1 to December 1 quail November 20 to March 1—just as last year.

Game particularly quail, turkey and deer have increased very rapidly, and the hunting in Georgia will be good in the coming season, better than it has been probably for twenty years but the public should be correctly informed as to the dates of the open season.

Bearing out what he said as to the abundance of game Commissioner Mercer offered a letter which he had just received from the game warden of Chatham county G. R. Rossignol, Jr., one of the most expert ornithologists and most whole-hearted bird-lovers in the state. Among other things Mr. Rossignol said:

"I have been in the woods nearly every day since you reappointed me. I never saw the like of partridges, and, the pretty pair of it not a gun is to be heard. Now and then somebody comes with a story that the law has been violated, but nothing can be done with such evidence as they only hear what somebody else tells them, and that is about all there is to it."

Which of Atlanta's Pennant Winners Would Win in a Series of Contests?

If a series of games were staged between the three Atlanta pennant winners of 1913...

This is a question that has been interesting Atlanta fans for some time and to aid them in settling this dispute the sporting editor has secured from the record the batting and fielding averages of the individuals of these three teams...

By Dick Jensen

There is very little margin in fielding. What there is in favor of the 1909 aggregation who fielded for a 963 clip. The 1907 team fielded 950 and the 1913 team 859.

BRITONS WILL QUIT OLYMPIC SPORTS

London September 20—If the wishes of a majority of British sportsmen are followed, Great Britain's last appearance in the Olympic games will be at Berlin in 1916.

The policy advocated by the most influential men in the English world of sport is to send a representative well trained delegation to Berlin and then withdraw gracefully.

Theodore Cook the most influential member of the British Olympic council in discussing the matter said today: "Personally I am of the opinion that as soon as we have decided that a team can be sent to Berlin we should also decide to withdraw from the games in the future at a date previous to the choice of the city at which the games will be held in 1920."

FREAK PLAYS I HAVE SEEN

By Dick Jensen

It has been said that in every game played on a play comes up that has never happened previously or is likely to happen again...

In my own connection with The Constitution as sports editor during the past five years I have seen many such plays. Below are a few of them.

In a game during the last Memphis series Arler was on second base and Long on first. Welhonce swung vigorously at the ball. His bat hit the top and it bounced in front of the plate.

While the opposing twirler who was a pitcher, stood in a attitude for the ball to descend Welhonce reached for it. As he did the two men added in a moment a ball that did not exist. It was a freak and it was a hit.

In the July series with the New Orleans Pelicans Welhonce was on first base with Smith at the bat. Walcott hit a home run for the pitcher's box and close to second base. Mc Dowell was off with the crack of the bat.

Realizing that he could not make the play he dove for the ball. He missed it with his hands but it struck his waist. Carromer hit a home run while the pitcher's shortstop was standing landing in his hand for a force out.

There's a freak for you. A clean hit turned into a force out.

Ball Hits Back

In the first game of the Memphis series Walcott hit a home run. The ball struck the pitcher's box and bounced into Abstein's hands for a put out. Tough luck Walcott.

In the second game of the deciding Memphis series with the Crackers Walcott was on first base in the third inning with Welhonce lined one back at Hogg. The ball struck him on the shoulder and he fell. The pitcher's hands were going to second to over. He was standing on second when he caught the ball and the first completing an unusual double play.

In a game with Birmingham in the third in the Welhonce hit a line drive to center field between Kniesel and Mendenhall. The former was out with the stick of the bat and it looked like he would grab the liner. But it passed him.

One Ball Used

In the season of 1902 Tom Liske pitched against Nashville where the ball that started the game never left the field of play. Two of the three batters that the umpire got to the grip at the start of the game being returned unused.

off his mask and cap he hunted for the ball while his teammates yelled. When Kerr's hat had fallen from his head it covered the ball and he failed to find it until the runner reached second.

An assist on a line drive very seldom occurs in the game. Moran had the function in the season of 1909. Ray's success of the Pelicans lined one over shortstop Moran and Dick Bayless went after the ball.

I've got it said Roy. All right take it answered Dick. But he backed his bat up just the same and it's a good thing he did. The force of the drive broke Moran's hands apart but Bayless who was right behind him nabbed the drive before it hit the ground.

You don't believe it? We should believe it. These are but a few of the many freak plays that I have seen at Fox or at Long. They happen on all ball fields every game that is played.

TRACK AND FIELD EVENTS AT GOTHAM

New York September 20—At Travers Island today the Metropolitan senior track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union were decided in a deluge of rain which made the track and infield so slow and soggy that record performances were impossible.

The 18 events provided an opportunity for a duel between the Irish American and New York Athletic clubs and the former won the point trophy with a total of 22 to 18 points.

Several Olympic winners participated and Platt Adams of the New York Athletic Club distinguished himself by scoring the first in the running broad jump the hop step and jump and throwing the javelin. Alvah Meyer Irish American won the 100 and 200 yard dashes and J. I. Wendell New York A. C. finished first in the 100 and 200 yard hurdles.

Koehlmeyer running in the colors of the Irish American A. C. was an easy winner of the 5 mile race. His time 22:42 was very good considering the condition of the track.

The Irish American Athletic Club men excelled in the weight events. Martin Sheridan helped his club win by taking second place in the discus throw which was won by his club mate E. Miller with 127 feet and his brother Andrew Sheridan was third so the whole nine points went to his club.

Pat M. Donald world's champion put the 16 pound shot 48 feet 7 1/2 in his first try and made a new world record with the 16 pound shot. HDWDWD with the 16 pound hammer three weeks ago was another double winner by throwing the hammer 157 feet 3 1/2 inches and the 8 pound weight 50 feet 2 inches. In both of these events all the points went to the Irish American club.

Melvin W. Sheppard who won the half mile run in 1:27 qualified for the final in the 440 yard run but he burst a small artery in his nose a few minutes before the start and was unable to compete. The heat was won by V. Wilkes of the New York A. C. in 50 seconds flat.

Overland Orders for 1914 Are Pouring In!

Twenty thousand people ordering Overlands in 1913 were disappointed, although 40,000 cars were built and sold before July 1st.

Fifty Thousand Overlands will be built for 1914, but they will not supply the demand.

This is BIG NEWS to automobile owners and buyers.

If you have determined to buy an Overland you ought to be sure of your car. The only way you CAN BE SURE is to order early. COME IN and talk it over.

Overland Model 79 Is the Crowning Achievement Of Automobile Engineering

When a manufacturer builds a car so well that forty thousand are sold in one year without satisfying the demand, you will admit that QUALITY and VALUE uphold the success.

FIVE HUNDRED Overlands are owned IN ATLANTA today. Every Atlanta man or woman who owns an Overland is an enthusiastic Overland booster. In an Overland your family is SAFE and DISTINGUISHED.

Safety and style are the REQUIREMENTS for a car in a city of homes like Atlanta. Given the SAFETY, EXCLUSIVENESS and STABILITY of the beautiful Overland, in addition to its ECONOMY of operation and DURABILITY under the hardest stress, you can realize the wonderful popularity of this first, foremost and finest automobile.

MOVING PICTURE MEN AFTER HARRY K. THAW

Operators Driven Away by Ex-Gov Stone, Who Wants No Circus Element in Case

Concord N H September 20—A mass of information bearing upon extradition precedents in New Hampshire lay before counsel for Harry K. Thaw tonight ready for presentation before Governor Feltner Tuesday in an effort to defeat the attempt to have the slayer of Stanford White returned to Matteawan asylum. The order of the procedure of the defense will be decided Monday. It had been hoped to submit an outline of the plans to Thaw's mother and sister Mrs. George Lander Carnegie today but no members of the family except Harry are here.

There was considerable uncertainty tonight as to whether Mrs. Thaw would be able to make the trip here before the extradition hearing Tuesday. She is in charge of a physician and a trained nurse and it is believed the excitement would attend the proceedings next week may make it inadvisable to bring her to Concord.

Wooner Ohio September 20—Frank Greenwald proprietor of a garage here was killed and A. H. Lilienberger and A. K. Crumley were injured when Greenwald's automobile overturned in a collision with a heavy motor vehicle on the introduction of what he calls a circus element into the case.

Big Class at State Institution for Girls Being Taught How to Raise Chickens

POULTRY FARM AT GEORGIA NORMAL AND INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE, MILLSDALE VILLE

By F. A. Ligner. Millsdale Ga September 19—Special—Raising chickens and poultry culture in general is a most natural thing to teach Georgia girls who soon will grow into womanhood and assume the duties and work of the surroundings that most Georgia women have. One can turn up in a moment's thought the things that the great majority of our girls do when they are doing their daily work and then it is only by their own will that they are prevented from doing it.

More Interest Displayed. The fall of 1911 this branch of study assumed the proportions of a most important department. Miss Lamer, principal of the department, introduced the department of poultry culture. It has grown rapidly and proven a most interesting line of study under the direction of Professor Scott, principal of the department of agriculture.

Care Feeding and Breeding. The class studies many problems of care and feeding of brooding and setting and is continually arising in a successful plant. Last year between one and two thousand chickens were raised by the class.

and active around the chicken yards will be seen around the tennis courts, basketball grounds and the flower gardens and cold frames. Visit From Uncle Dudley. The lamented Uncle Dudley, the Constitution's poultry expert, visited this department of the college last year and delivered several lectures on the work. He expressed great delight that a great state college like the G. N. & I. had turned some of its attention towards the development of this important industry.

Have Doctors Retarded While Laymen Advanced Medicine? In the drug store shelves can be found many instances where their ancestry into antiquity when powders and liquids from the same vegetable parage as those we see in the glass stoppered bottles are used for the same purpose as are their descendants of today.

Origin of 'Patent' Medicines. The history of this development can be traced through just another step before it amalgamates with the package of patent medicine business of today. It is not hard to imagine that when in the dark ages the people went to their favorite drug stores and bought a quantity of some medicine man's favorite prescription and it is not hard to imagine that other medicine men who had no favorite prescriptions on sale in the drug stores of the time felt aggrieved that erstwhile patients had taken to doctoring themselves with ready-made medicines.

Weak, Nervous and Diseased Men Permanently Cured. Dr. Hughes is an expert specialist on all cases of Gonorrhea, Syphilis, Blood Poison, Skin Diseases, Nervous Debility, etc. He has a special method of treatment that is guaranteed to cure all cases of these diseases.

Hooping Cough or Croup. The celebrated Eucalypti Remedy. This is the most effective remedy for Hooping Cough, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all other respiratory ailments.

Roche's Herbal Embrocation. This is a powerful liniment for the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and other painful conditions. It is made from the finest herbs and is guaranteed to give relief.

As a matter of fact much of the cloak of mystery that has surrounded medicine since the dark ages is being dispelled and medicine is getting on a more rational basis and will continue to become more and more rational as it becomes more and more impressed upon the medical mind that the function of medicine is to serve and not to gratify the ego of the practitioner. Medicine has gone and will never come back any more than the dark ages will return.

Isolation and Sanitation. Records of vaccination are said to date back to ancient times—it was first practiced in modern times. It is said by an English farmer who in isolated his maid servants with cow pox and they escaped an epidemic of smallpox. That mosquitoes carry malaria and that they are responsible for the spread of disease were facts known to the ancients contrary to general belief.

Such men have no time to stand idle on the curb while INDUSTRY swirls around them. Study the job you hold. Study the results of your day's labor. Have you bettered yourself and your firm today? Have you added to the quality of the output?

If you are an employer, you do not have to advertise for the kind of men that loaf all day on the curb. You can pick them up as you drive along, and the first hard task will drive them out of your place.

patents had been issued by English monarchs for the manufacture of medicine, and many of these medicines, manufactured under the patent of George IV or his predecessors were brought to the colonies by the immigrants. The present United States pharmacopoeia contains a number of such patent preparations which are recognized under official titles. We find in the current United States pharmacopoeia that Isterine has been adopted under the name of antiseptic solution that antiseptic time has been taken in under the name cataplasma kaolin and that others have likewise been adopted and given new names which in some instances make somewhat of 'hog latin' it is just as well to know that when a physician prescribes antiseptic solution U S P or cataplasma kaolin U S P he means Isterine or anti-pyogenic or substituting for them.

The Diamond Owner Has Something Worth While

Some writer has said that we need the beautiful in our every day lives in order that our minds may develop properly.

What that we can carry about us from day to day is more beautiful than the diamond? Then why not spend a little less for things that are so soon out of date and worthless, and invest in a gem that will last you a life time and can then be handed down for generations to loved ones?

In time of need there is no article that can be disposed of to such advantage as the diamond, and for this reason also it pays to spend less for the things swiftly passing away and put more in something that is ever new and of world wide value.

Specializing in diamonds, we are prepared to give the very lowest prices obtainable anywhere in the world, and being weighed and graded by an expert you can make no mistake as to weight and quality of diamonds secured from us.

Where it is not convenient to pay all cash we have devised our partial payment plan, whereby one-fifth can be paid down and the remainder arranged in monthly notes bearing annual interest at an average of 4 1/2 per cent.

We give the very best attention to our mail order customers, and as we send goods on approval, paying the express charges both ways, no risk is run in ordering from a distance.

Our book No. 7 gives full information as to our plan of grading and selling. We will be glad to mail you a copy.

WHITE HOUSE HALLS BLOCKED BY DEBRIS

Washington, September 20.—Step-ladders, paint pots, painters and a mass of debris blocked the corridors of the executive office today and those few callers who threaded their way through roundabout passageways to get to the president's office, found the place deserted.

Rudolph Forster acting secretary to the president for last week asked to change the situation and in his many years under Roosevelt and Taft administrations he recalled few days when the white house looked so deserted.

SENATORS REPLY TO PAGE'S LETTER

Hoke Smith and Ben Tillman Differ on the Clarke Anti-Hedging Cotton Tax Amendment.

Charles G. Page, a well known business man of Atlanta, and president of the Durand Realty company, which is developing the town of Durand, in Meriwether county has been very much interested in discussion of the amendment of Senator Clarke to the tariff bill by which it is sought to close up the cotton exchanges by taxing them out of existence.

Some time ago Mr. Page wrote to Senator Tillman and to Senator Hoke Smith, expressing his views on the subject. It seems to me says Mr. Page that the best way to get at anything of this kind would be to have an amendment to the Clarke amendment imposing a similar tax on all grains and provisions for I think it just as right to have them taxed as cotton and if that were done it would surely insure such a howl that the whole thing would be defeated.

Senator Smith's Reply
Senator Smith writes Mr. Page under date of August 7, in which he said: "I am writing to you a knowledge of the recent vote taken in the Senate on the Clarke amendment to the tariff bill. I was not only demagogic in my criticism of the amendment, but I was also in error in my statement that the New York Times, which held the Clarke amendment, had been able to satisfy himself that the whole thing would be defeated."

Senator Tillman's Reply
Senator Tillman writes Mr. Page under date of August 9, in which he said: "It is only worth your while to waste my time on that other Senator's amendment to the Clarke amendment to the tariff bill. I believe that matter is fixed so far as any law is concerned. I think the Democrats in the Senate agreed to the Clarke amendment, and I think the Senators who wanted to buy futures in cotton were not to be taken into account by any law. The resolution every Senator with whom I have talked feels that he must vote for it. I think you will find hereafter when the law is tried that you are entirely mistaken in your statement that the whole thing will come to the southern cotton planters as a result of it."

DISGUSTED, ASHLEY IS READY TO QUIT

Councilman Declares That New Crematory Is a Flat Failure. Many Breakdowns.

Declaring that it is his belief that Atlanta's new $275,000 crematory is a failure and that it will be at least a year before the New York Destructor company agrees to make a test of the plant, Councilman Claude L. Ashley, chairman of the sanitary committee of council, announced yesterday that he is ready to resign as a member of the committee.

Upon his return from the crematory plant Saturday morning Councilman Ashley sought a conference with Mayor Woodward. He told the mayor that he had made a visit to the plant in the morning and had discovered that one of the hoists broke down Friday night. He told the mayor that he was disgusted with the plant and intimated that it is his intention to give no more of his time to the inspections.

The crematory has thus far been one breakdown after the other. Councilman Ashley said Friday afternoon one of the hoists broke down, and the plant was not running in full capacity Saturday morning the hoist was repaired and the plant was once more in operation. Ashley said that the work is a matter that I am unable to explain.

Repairs Very Expensive.
Councilman Ashley said that gauging the plant from its accomplishments since August 1, he has reasons to be dissatisfied. It will cost the city about $30,000 to keep it in repair. "My figures are conservative," he said. "The breakdowns that have occurred within less than two months have been costly to the city. I do not expect now if their experts cannot operate the plant without a big repair expense what is the city to expect when it takes over the plant and turns it over to inexperienced engineers to operate? I think $60,000 a year in repairs alone will be cheap."

Plighted Or He Would Resign.
I promised Mayor Woodward that I would make it my business to see that the city gets a square deal on the crematory contract and for that reason I feel constrained to remain as chairman of the sanitary committee. Councilman Ashley continued: "Had it not been for my promise I would resign at once and wash my hands of the crematory."

Cotton in Cordele
Cordele, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—The wave of prosperity that has come over this entire section as a result of the good prices for cotton has been greatly emphasized by the passing of the last week during which time more than 1,000 bales were brought into the local market. The warehouse receipts now are 6,500 bales and perhaps 1,000 bales have been shipped to the local commission presses from its over-crop counties that are not counted in these receipts.

Blew Out Gas; All Dead.
Rochester, N. Y., September 20.—Three fishermen blew out the gas in a hotel here last night. This morning they were found dead.

YOSEMITE PARK IS NOW OPEN TO ALL MOTORISTS

While a number of motorists are taking advantage of the re-opening of the valley to automobiles, the order came so late in the season that traffic into the Yosemite will not be very great this season. The Yosemite valley is at its best in the early summer when the weather is cooler and the streams are high, thereby enhancing the beauty of the falls many fold. Next season a great rush of auto traffic into the valley is predicted.

The first car to enter the Yosemite under the new orders, which were placed in effect September 1, was a Premier driven by H. Leach, of 1529 Boulevard Avenue, Los Angeles. His daughter, Miss Juanita Leach, carried with her a souvenir, the sign which had hung for seven years at the park line saying that autos were prohibited in the Yosemite National park.

The Yosemite National park was re-declared to the United States government in 1904 by the state of California after the state had held it forty years. California having acquired the park from the government in 1864 it became evident that the wonders of this great valley would be better preserved if the park were again placed under federal control. H. R. McNoble, of Stockton, as a grant officer of the Native Sons of the Golden West led the fight to have the park re-established as a national park and it was during the term as grand president that legislation was enacted turning the Yosemite back to Uncle Sam.

Given $1,250 Damages
Thomasville, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—C. J. Kennedy, a prominent farmer of this county, was awarded $1,250 damages in the city court of Thomasville as the result of a suit against the Atlanta Birmingham and Atlantic railroad. Kennedy claimed that when passing Coolidge some months ago the porter cited "Next stop Coolidge." He got off when the stop was made and stepped into a trestle and thence to the ground 15 feet down sustaining what he claims to be injuries which prevented his doing any further work on the farm.

he will not be able to finish with the McNaughton case until the latter part of the week.
There was a conference yesterday in the governor's office between Judge Frank H. Saffold, representing the defense, and A. S. Bradley, for the state, at the governor's request, to see if they could agree on the evidence not previously in the record which should go in. They found the governor's recollection as to the evidence so accurate that it was not necessary to prepare and submit an agreed-upon brief of it to the chief executive. They decided to leave the matter entirely to the governor's memory.

BUILDING ON OUR OWN PROPERTY WE WILL ERECT you a beautiful brick residence of 9 rooms, 2 baths, sun parlor, sleeping porch, hardwood floors, birch doors, at Piedmont and Cheshire roads, in Rock Springs, for $6,750. The lots are 60 by 200 feet, and front an 80-foot street. Can you beat it for a high-class section? We will only build two houses at this price, but we have fifty or more lots to sell you.

OUR OWN PROPERTY WE WILL BUILD you a handsome brick residence on Peachtree road, on lot 81 by 325 feet, 120 feet wide in rear, for $11,500. Car line, city water and cherted road. Our own property.

VIRGINIA AVENUE BEAUTIFUL LOTS on Virginia avenue, 2 blocks of Piedmont park. We are prepared to build you a handsome brick residence at cost. We make nothing on the house, but we sell the lots and build up the section.

ATLANTA AVENUE WE WILL ERECT FIVE beautiful bungalows on Atlanta avenue, beginning the coming week. We have lots to sell next to these bungalows for $800; $75 cash, $15 per month.

40-ACRE LOT ON THE WILLIAMS MILL ROAD, a gentleman's country home site. The finest around Atlanta; away above everybody else. Price $250 per acre. It will bring $1,000 per acre in 3 to 5 years.

BEAUTIFUL BUNGALOW IN INMAN PARK, on Hurt street, we offer a beautiful bungalow for $4,500, on easy terms.

28 ACRES WE OFFER 28 ACRES of wooded land on Howell Mill road at $200 per acre, on terms. A fine subdivision here. There is real money here.

CENTRAL PEACHTREE PROPERTY YES, IT'S RIGHT UP IN TOWN, at $1,150 per front foot. Near the Imperial hotel. Cheapest close-in lot on Peachtree. Easy terms.

ATLANTA AVENUE WE ALL KNOW that lots on Atlanta avenue are cheap at $800. Water, sewer and tile walks. $75 cash, $15 per month.

VIRGINIA AVENUE I COULD TELL YOU something good about Virginia avenue, and if you will come in I will give you a gentle hint that will cause you to get busy and get one of these fine lots.

BUILDING ON OUR OWN PROPERTY WE ARE PREPARED TO BUILD for you on our own property, at actual cost. Call and see us, or phone Main 3312, Atlanta 3312. W. E. WORLEY FORREST & GEO. ADAIR

REAL ESTATE—For Sale. ADAIR'S LIST BUILDING LOTS $150 TO $12,000.

BELOW we offer a number of lots from each good residence section of the city These lots are of fair example of each section and have been selected with a view of giving the purchaser, whether he be a home builder or an investor the best to be had in location and in value The price—$150 to $12,000—the terms which can be made correspondingly easy give each man an opportunity to secure a lot in his own section and at a price that will suit his pocket book. $150 TO $400.

ON WYLLIE STREET between the Georgia Railroad roundhouse and Moreland avenue we have a tract of land that has been cut up into building lots These lots are just a few blocks from car line and DeKalb avenue in a section where improvements are being made every day An opportunity is offered here to get a lot suitable for building purposes at the lowest possible price. Each lot is 40x120 feet and range in price from $150 to $400 $900 TO $1,500.

BETWEEN STEWART AVENUE and West End on Brookline Elbert and Catfish streets we have a few splendid lots 50x200 feet in size These lots have plenty of shade trees and all possible conveniences with just enough building restrictions to protect the home In this residential park is a new city school this park is and convenient to two car lines being only 15 minutes ride from town The terms on this property can be made to suit the purchaser

ON LAWTON STREET one of West End's most desirable streets just about 150 feet from Gordon street, we have two lots, 60x150 feet Considering the street, the conveniences to car line, Brookline Park and the desirability of West End as a residence section these lots are very reasonable at $1,750 each. Easy terms $1,750 TO $1,800.

ON SOUTH GORDON STREET we offer two lots one 50x150 feet, the other 50x165 feet both having an alley in the rear These lots are just half a block from the car line and are practically the only two vacant lots left in this desirable block Price $1,750 Easy terms

ON THIRTEENTH STREET between Peachtree street and Pleasant avenue we offer a lot 40x140 feet to a 12 foot alley The scarcity of close in building lots on the north side anywhere near Peachtree street should easily sell at our price—$1,800 Terms $3,750.

ON PEACHTREE CIRCLE just off Peachtree street and Pleasant avenue we offer a lot 100x200 feet to an alley This lot is one block from Peachtree street, and since it is in Atlanta's most desirable section and being the only vacant corner for blocks around it, it is especially desirable for a handsome home or an apartment house Price $12,000 Terms $6,000 TO $12,000.

ON THE CORNER OF SEVENTEENTH and Peachtree Circle we offer a lot 100x200 feet to an alley This lot is one block from Peachtree street, and since it is in Atlanta's most desirable section and being the only vacant corner for blocks around it, it is especially desirable for a handsome home or an apartment house Price $12,000 Terms $6,000 TO $12,000.

BETWEEN Twelfth Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets on PIEDMONT avenue we offer a number of lots 67x200 feet each ranging in price from $115 to $150 per foot. These lots are the only available ones in this section suitable for building purposes This property has plenty of shade trees facing east and beautiful view of Park Atlanta's most valuable park This park gives a permanent outlook and should make this property doubly valuable for homes This fact will be appreciated when you take a look at the average crowded residence street. There is no property anywhere in Atlanta that is quite as valuable for apartment houses as this The price on these lots will range from about $7,500 to $10,000

ON PEACHTREE ROAD this side of Buckhead in what is known as Peachtree Heights we offer a nicely shaded lot 100x200 feet This lot faces east and is one of the prettiest on Peachtree road Since everybody is familiar with this section of Peachtree, it can readily be seen that this is a bargain at $3,000 Terms

JUST beyond Buckhead we offer a lot fronting 200 feet on Hunter's Bridge road, running through the block 600 feet with a frontage of 250 feet on Rockwell road. A piece of property with two road frontages, in a section that this is in and with a depth of 600 feet, offers all sorts of opportunities Price $6,000 Terms

Possibilities of Every Child

In assuming the responsibility of the heading above it may seem that we are presupposing superhuman ability but viewing the human race in its present state of evolution it might be compared to the little boy who entered an eastern school where birth certificates were required from all children.

Need of Child Welfare Exhibit Is Arousing Much Interest

The need of a child welfare exhibit in Atlanta aroused much interest last spring among the city officials the board of education the city fathers and members of different organizations working for child welfare.

Just in time for autumn school wear. We are ready on 2nd floor with 100 dozen assorted Gingham and Percale dresses, in the latest models. The beauty of this display is in its large assortment--having at least twelve models for your inspection.

A vogue of velvets

Fashion has decreed that this shall be the most brilliant dress season for a century. The keynote of DRESS is to be "luxuriousness."

History--Poetry--Romance All accord her the place of honor and proclaim her the "Queen of fabrics"

'Tis the cloth of kings; the fabric of queens; the pride of the luxurious; the coveted of good dressers. For coat or wrap, for dress or gown, you'll be right if you select velvets

- Quite naturally you'll come HERE for VELVETS, for we have them specialized. A VELVET showing Monday, including New velour de nord, for street dresses, all colors. Chiffon velours, all colors, $4.50 to $7.50 yard. Velvets brocaded on chiffon, $9.00 to $12.00 yard.

A collection of more than 250 dresses from which to choose Monday at $2.49 ea. Second floor

The Fall displays of sumptuous silks show cleverness

Ladies' and misses' Sweaters

Soft woolly sweaters are especially welcomed at the opening of the autumn season. They give protection, snugness, and just the sense of warmth that is needed for right now.

- Women devoted to golfing, walking and all forms of outdoor exercise, will welcome the showing ready here tomorrow. Sweaters in the new mannish effects, knitted in a plain, heavy stitch, rolling Byron collar; many of these are in the belted styles. Colors white, gray, cardinal, brown, green and black. Ranging in price from $2.50 to $5.00

A collection of sumptuous silks

Fashion's first requirement is, that, for this season--

Silks shall be supple in weave--extravagant in coloring

Women are preparing for a brilliant autumn, and are enthusiastically choosing from the dazzling collection of silks and satins shown here--

Description halts at the marvelous array to be seen in our silk section. The dominant features are-- Clinging suppleness, softness of texture, richness of coloring

- All of these requirements are met and featured here. The charm of weave, the softness of finish, the rich shimmer of their novel colorings, all combine to make them adaptable to present modes. First showing tomorrow: Crepe de Chines, all colors, 40 in. wide $1.50 to $3.00 yard. Canton crepes, all colors, 40 in. wide 1.50 to 3.00 yard.

CO-ORDINATION OR CHAOS?

In the census it is now taking of the county commissioners and road building authorities of Georgia the state commission gives definite hope of substituting coordination for the chaos by which Georgia's highway construction methods are now characterized.

WHEN LOVE IS DONE

Plunging out from the sordid and bustling news of the day comes the cabled report of what reads like a medieval tragedy romance from old Heidelberg, Germany.

GUESS-WORK STATISTICS

Elsewhere Martin V. Calvin contributes an extremely statistical study of the negro in Georgia and incidentally an excoriation of Georgia's guess-work system of gathering statistics of every nature.

county, as well as land along the highway, shows a relative advancement, not to count the social, educational and religious advantages.

The Constitution views the opportunity as too large a one to be ignored. We are building now, upon no definite plan, but helter-skelter. No one expects that the whole state shall at once be grided with good roads.

NATURE'S ETERNAL SECRET.

Sir Oliver Lodge, president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, thinks we may be on the verge of discovering the secret of controlling the sex of children.

Would not the ability to precisely determine sex reduce the race in short order to chaos? Common sense teaches that it would. There is no blinking the fact that if parents controlled the sex of their children boys would predominate overwhelmingly in the birth rate in the world over.

REQUIRE HEALTHY NURSES.

The state board of health has issued timely warning to the mothers of Georgia against the unhealthy nurse. In a bulletin recently issued it is insisted that mothers should require good health strength good character cleanliness and decent appearance in nurses.

state. Unless you have a family Bible you may have difficulty in establishing your descent, your right to property or even your legitimacy.

It is about time for Georgia to get out of the "also ran" class among American commonwealths in this respect, and secure definite knowledge about herself—her size, her growth, her needs, her diseases, the people within her midst.

ACID TEST DISCLOSES THE STATES' STATISTICAL POVERTY

By Martin V. Calvin.
Editor Constitution: We of the south have suffered and are still suffering because we have refused to recognize the value of accurate statistics.

Especially the following figures included in the above figures made under oath by the negro taxpayers of the state.

During the same period they increased their holdings in household goods from $1,453,619 to $2,080,444—an increase of $626,825 or 43.1 per cent.

Here is a striking fact: The old negroes uneducated but disciplined knew how to work and save and did work and save.

It will of course be understood that the

THE WATERMELON

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Slawh"

The watermelon is the Prized financier of agriculture. Ninety five per cent of it is water.

It grows and swells through the summer and becomes exceedingly great. Then it is plucked and lo only a shell remains.

Melons are served by all restaurants which are not too haughty but eating a melon with a knife or fork or straw is as tame as dining off a cistern.

Melons are immune to chinch bugs or boll weevils but suffer very severely from parasites one of which will frequently devour half a dozen of the largest specimens.

Raising melons is an anxious job as the farmer has to spend most of the month of August out in the hot field shooting at parasites with a gun loaded with rock salt.

Two melons one inside and one out, have missed much of the excitement of this life.

The easiest way to locate a melon patch is to follow a darter on a country road. Conversely the easiest way to take a colored census in any given vicinity is to install a melon patch in an exposed position and begin counting.

(From The London Chronicle)
The rector of Asfordon says he has laid a troublesome ghost by the pump and ceremony of solemn exorcism.

Staying at a country house with traditions of a family ghost he was put up for the night in the haunted chamber.

Oh yes he replied, about 12 o'clock I heard a knock at the door. I said, Come in, come in.

And did he come?
Yes that old sorrow looking man.

I got out of bed and asked if he belonged to the house. He nodded assent. I asked if he were a parishioner. He nodded assent.

He disappeared and I saw no more of him!

The Trigger and the Knife Never Grew Rusty in "Little Hell" in the Olden Days. Bloody Scenes Frequent in This Little Swamp Town.

By Nelson M. Shipp.
Down on "the outer trail" of the Okefenokee—the swamp without a country—where the moonshine flows as free as the dark waters of the nearby Satilla and the shadows themselves are bad, a mill, six shanty stores and a score of cabins mark the spot that for a hundred miles around is known as Hell's Half-Acre, and more popularly called Little Hell. The map of Georgia calls it Millwood—but maps have a standard of politeness.

Little Hell is just opening its eyes to the outside world. For fifty years she thought the dark swamp at her back was unending, the world before her was a big freak—a many-armed, meddlesome thing that it hated a few years ago the sun was always gleaming on some man's knife, and only the grass could safely follow the road. Men were shot down like criminals, and burying grounds were more in demand than potato patches. It was worse than before the dusky struck the western trail, the tomahawk wasn't in it with the Little Hell knife, the razor of the "turpentine negro" wasn't a circumstance. Feudalism was custom and fighting the popular game.

The trigger never grew rusty in those days at Little Hell, and men didn't fight in twos and threes, but in eights and tens.

This spot marks perhaps the bloodiest square mile in the southeast outside of the battlegrounds. Almost every square yard of it marks a tragedy, every doorplace has its story; here is a haunted town if ever there was one—a town of "draw often and draw quick." It's heart warned only to the song of the pistol and the gleam of the blade. And where in the swamps today is a man of the old regime without his scar?

Day in and Day Out
The Guns Cracked.
There is no going back through the smoke of the .44s to tell just who and how many fell in the feuds that were fought out in Badman's Lane, but may that unrecorded history never repeat itself. Every fortnight men lined up on either side of the lane and then the scent of wild flowers was tinged with that of burnt powder, and the grass took on a reddish hue. Chimney smoke wasn't the only pebble on the beach then. Day in and day out the little gun cracked, and every cabin had its knothole.

JOHN BRANCH

train at Waveross and told the conductor he wanted to go to Hell. The conductor collected 50 cents fare and put him off at the Half-Acre. However, the name of Little Hell traced this clearing in The Swamps for fifty years prior to this, and it had nothing to do with the naming, as many suppose.

Bloody Record Of "Moonshine Dive."

One of the first shanty stores that had its being in this vine-tangled jungle was Moonshine Dive, which now bears the distinction of posing as the barber shop, pressing club, grocery store and ice cream parlor of Little Hell. There it was that a few years back Joe Arnold killed "Pat" Ward, and, soon afterwards, the famous Murray-Fisher duel was enacted. In the latter, Ab Murray, who now resides in Waveross, shot Fisher three times in the breast at close range with a .33, and, before he fell, Fisher beat up Murray with the gun that had shot him. Fisher afterwards died in Florida from the shooting.

Upon the heels of this, another killing that found long discussion around the cabin door was enacted when Cullen Cowart ended difficulty by laying a shotgun across a dry goods box behind the Walden place—the next shanty store that came into being on The Half-Acre—and sent "Mac" Herrin across the final river. Herrin was standing where the mule stands in picture 3, when killed. Cowart was sent up for a number of years, and was afterwards killed trying to escape by a negro guard.

The Mystery of the Painted Cabin.

Then the mystery of the painted cabin came about. One night as Dave Murray was seated at the supper table, the nose of a shotgun eased through the crack of the door and Murray departed this life before he could express his opinions. And until this day the mystery of the little painted cabin on the edge of The Swamp is as great as ever.

The next dark episode chronicled in the minds of the natives is a triple tragedy. Jack Ward killed his wife, his 3-week-old baby and himself in a room of the old Ward house, which is situated in front of Moonshine Dive.

An affair similar to this is the double killing which took place last October not far east of Badman's Lane when Joe Hargraves killed his wife and himself after a week's premeditation. Mrs. Hargraves sent after her

Violent Death Came To This "Bad Man."

It was a little while before the Hargraves affair that famous Tom Smith died with three notches in his gun butt and trying to make a fourth. He admitted on his death-bed the killing of the three men and said if he only lived he would get one more. The other was a certain Solomon whom Smith had been so intent upon killing that he had for a long time often disguised in women's apparel, and with his gun in a secret apron pocket gone on the search for him. The Smiths lived a few miles west of The Half-Acre and the old lady kept a moonshine still under the wash shelter. She was found one morning prior to her son's death with her throat cut. It is presumed that she kept her money buried behind the cabin beneath a chicken coop and that the unknown murderer was in quest of that.

A shooting that won more or less fame state-wide was the sudden ending of the Bennett-Bennett feud, which had its termination in the killing of Cliff Bennett by his first cousin, Cary Bennett, in May of last year. The

The Little Hell Of Today.

But let us say in all due justice that Little Hell is getting better since the outside world has opened her doors. She is even assuming a peaceful air—that is, by daylight. For when the darkness falls over Okefenokee and the moon floats up over the great, dark swamp then Little Hell longs for the old, for the big noise and the bad smoke. Chickens are pulled through the crack with deviously shaped wires and cooked in the woods; watermelons appear and

Pastor Gunn Explains Purpose Of Proposed Spooning Parlors

New York, September 20—(Special)—The Rev. John R. Gunn, pastor of the North Baptist church in this city, and formerly pastor of the Central Baptist church in Atlanta, whose name has figured quite prominently in the papers since the announcement that he intended to open "spooning parlors," says he has been misapprehended. Dr. Gunn represents the intimation that he offers to become a match-maker, and says that his idea of the so-called "spooning parlors" is a "get acquainted" proposition only.

Sex evil, which are becoming more and more a menace to society, are not altogether due to natural human depravity. These evils must, in a large measure, be laid at the door of ignorance. Ignorance is the greatest enemy of the race. It is the mother of vice. It is a poison in our social system. It is the great destroyer of human life and happiness. Ignorance, however, is not an excuse for vice. We can inform ourselves if we will. Those who have been fortunate enough to be informed are responsible for the enlightenment of the less fortunate. The debt of knowledge or ignorance is an obligation we cannot escape. The most awakening to interest in sex hygiene is most timely. It looks towards pure marriage, and pure marriage is the only basis upon which can be built a pure society.

By Max H. Wilensky.
On a farm that slopes to the shores of the peaceful Piscataqua river of southeastern Maine is a summer camp "where reality is romance and truth is poetry enough"—Lanier camp, named in honor of Georgia's world poet, Sidney Lanier, and conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lanier, Jr., as a modern adaptation of the old productive life of home and farm. Situated on ground still haunted by Indian romance and Puritan heroism, looking down the river towards the historic old town of Portsmouth, we find this lively community developing the dream of Froebel in education.

My interest had been aroused to visit this training school of youth because of rich Georgia associations. Then, too, I had read the favorable comments from distinguished visitors. I recall with genuine pleasure my recent first tramp through New England woods leading to the camp.

MISSISSIPPI ENGAGED IN SEARCH FOR CRAFT

Jackson, Miss., September 20—Soon after taking up headquarters here the committee reports charged with investigating reports of irregularities in state institutions, sent out a general call to people of the state to come forward in person or by mail with any information or even rumor they might have of irregularities. The number of replies received was beyond the expectations of the committee. The reports are being classified their into districts and hope later to take these reports up in batches in the different sections of the state.

ITALIANS CELEBRATE CAPTURE OF ROME

Rome, Italy, September 20.—An imposing demonstration in which 20,000 persons, including many red-shirted garibaldians and veterans, took part was held today in celebration of the anniversary of the capture of Rome by the Italian troops in 1870. A procession marched to the breach in the wall by which the Italians entered. There the marchers were met by the mayor of Rome, Ernest Nathan, who read a message from King Victor Emmanuel, in reply to greetings sent by the municipality. His majesty telegraphed.

TO MAKE THE AZORES WORLD NEUTRAL ZONE

London, September 20.—A proposal to make the Azores Archipelago an international neutral zone is being considered by the American, British and German governments, according to today's Manchester Guardian. The proposal is said to be incidental to the opening of the Panama canal.

DAUGHTER OF PEARY TO WED MACMILLAN

New York, September 21.—There reached here from St. John's New Foundland, tonight the report of the engagement of Miss Marie Peary, daughter of the late Admiral Peary, to Donald MacMillan, who accompanied Peary in his dash to the pole.

Expressive French Cards.

"Ready-made correspondence" cards have been in vogue in France for several years. On each card are printed some four dozen or so commonplace remarks with which holiday makers contrive to fill up half a page of letter paper—"Just arrived," "Weather bad," "This is a bad hotel," "Very dull here," "Jolly people," "Send me some money," and the like. One merely puts a cross against the sentence that expresses his sentiment.

A Woman Before the Bar of Justice in Georgia

What the Trial of Edna Perkins Godbee Shows in the Way of "Equality" Between the Sexes

The shooting, drawn from story told by eye-witnesses

BY BRITT CRAIG.

Modern woman bless her soul, has cried and begged and fought for equality with man for years and years and years. She has done most everything in the effort from making love to bombs.

Now she has it. There was a time when conviction of womankind seemed terribly medieval. It was looked upon as reversion to the days of feminine martyrdom when Antoinette and others went to the guillotine.

That was when the female of the species, as Kipling sarcastically terms them, went quite free and unpunished.

It Is Quite Different Now.

But, it's different now and woman—again bless her soul—has gained a satisfactory amount of equality with man. With it has come proportionate responsibility. Becoming equal to man, she has become equally as responsible.

Consequently, female murder trials are becoming less sentimental and decidedly more judicial.

Nothing more aptly illustrates the fact than the recent trial of Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, who has been sentenced to prison for life for the murder of her husband and his girl bride in Millen postoffice.

Mrs. Godbee stood before the guns like a man, took her medicine like a man and received a man's punishment. Now, she is beginning the fight all anew—like a man, and like a man she intends to battle it out.

She showed the courage of a man. She had a man's dogged determination, and she had the mental like a man, without the aid of smelling salts.

No emotion crept into the proceedings, and they were hopelessly free of all sob-stuff that pertains to the "hand that rocks the cradle" or the stereotyped

"Shes a woman and a woman bore twelve men put the stamp of a criminal upon her and then go home to shamesfully face you: wives and mothers."

Sentiment might have stood at the door and pleaded for admission, but it never got any further than the steps outside.

May Mark New Epoch in Criminal History. The Godbee trial, perhaps marks a new epoch in criminal history. It marks the death of sentiment in behalf of women.

Mrs. Godbee and her counsel realized at the outset that her trial was no occasion for sentiment. The community wouldn't stand for it, and the twelve hard-fisted farmers who held her fate didn't care for it. The defense had to go at things logically, manfully—and they did.

In the first place the defense had its weather eye open to the rumblings of public feeling. The rumbling rumbled widely and incessantly of women being freed purely because they were women and purely because no man could chivalrously and conscientiously convict a woman. And the defense acted accordingly.

They tried to convince justice that the woman—as even a man would have done—had risen from a siege of oppression and mental torture and had killed—as a man would have done—her oppressor and torturer.

desperation—as a man would have done. They didn't say or show anything of a woman in tears, goaded to feminine frenzy by taunts and insults and annoyance.

The line of defense was clear-cut and logical. There wasn't, as lawyers say, one scintilla of "offinism" in it. It was this:

What the Line of Defense Was. Mrs. Godbee had been ruined financially by her victim. He had made her life miserable, he had made her children unhappy. He had been "beating" her character. He had left her practically destitute. He had divorced her and thrown her entirely upon her own limited resources.

She was nearing fifty, he sixty. Her charms were waning, and the pitiless shroud of age was falling about her. He left and returned with a girl for a bride. He was proud of this girl. Proud of his ability at 40 to win a wife of 24. He flaunted her in the face of the woman of 50 and found pleasure in taunts and insults.

He strove to alienate the affection of the daughter. He offered her wealth, position, luxury. He scandalized the mother. The daughter's heart remained where it was cherished most—where it was truest.

Then came threats. Anonymous letters brought prediction of death if the woman did not leave town. They were traced to the man. The woman went armed. Her soul raged with the terror of the past and the fear of the future. She went to the postoffice.

The man of 60 and his wife of 24 came in. She saw them with a tinge of fright. She tried to keep her eyes to the note in her writing. He came near leered and called her an unprintable name.

He Stepped Nearer and She Fired. He stepped nearer, wheeled about, threw his hand to his hip. The woman reached into her handbag, got her gun. She opened fire upon the man, pulled the trigger twice. Everything went black. There were frightful explosions. She swooned, falling almost to the floor. Her senses returned only when she found her finger snapping the hammer of an empty "cocker."

The girl was killed by accident. She was in range of bullets fired by a hand overcome with paroxysmal fear and desperation. The man was killed in self-defense—from sheer fright and frenzy. The slayer felt no pang of remorse, no fear of consequence. She had shot out of her senses, while suffering from fear and despair. She walked steadily to her home, laid down her revolver and awaited the natural outcome of affairs.

All that is what the defense claimed.

"And now, gentlemen," said her attorney, "is it not a thing any man would have done. How many men have shot from fear? How many have killed in desperation? How many have been driven insane by the diabolical conduct of others?"

"You, yourselves, have felt it at times. You have been driven to the verge of homicide by the actions of others. Suppose your wife your mother, your sister were insulted, defamed, annoyed, persecuted as was this woman? You would be on trial very likely, as is Mrs. Godbee for a similar deed."

The defense declared time and time again that Mrs. Godbee was not seeking exoneration merely because she was a woman.

Another Theory Is Explored. And the prosecution took the same attitude. Judge Anderson, in his argument, said:

"One thing can be stated—she was very manlike in her marksmanship. Six bullets out of her six-chambered engine went into six vital spots. It was superb."

Only once was there insertion of sentiment, and, in its proper sense, it might not be called sentiment. That was when Judge Saffold pleaded with the court to restore the mother to the daughter whom there was no one else to bring up.

It was a sensible plea, and there was nothing maudlin about it. It could have been made as effectively in behalf of a father to bring up a son.

Mrs. Godbee has a daughter, a very pretty one, and a girl whom whole Millen loves, Sarah, aged 13.

The daughter had been given a college education. She had been reared in an atmosphere of refinement and culture and its effect had been branded indelibly upon her. There was not a shadow of shame in her career and there had been nothing but resnascence for her future.

The father was dead and the step mother. The mother who was bringing her up to the standard of womanhood of which she was worthy was on trial for her life. There would be no one but herself in the hereafter. She was too young, too sadly unprepared to fight it out alone.

A Simple Plea for the Daughter. It would have been an apt plea for a man in behalf of a son. To tell the truth, it fitted better in Mrs. Godbee's case. It would have fitted in the case of any woman. And in presenting this plea, Saffold didn't shed the customary tears or rock the benches with Demosthenic oratory. He just said plainly:

"Now, here, men. You can see the type of girl she is. Most of you know of her. You know what a gentle lady she is, what a fine child she has been, what a good she has been to the community. If she were 22, I would say nothing, but she's too young."

"We need good girls nowadays. We need more girls of her kind. We need them for wives and mothers. There are too many bad ones. No girl at 13 can fight her own way successfully. A girl is more easily talented than a boy. She needs the constant governing hand of the mother."

"It is not disputed that Mrs. Godbee has brought this girl to a fit and worthy standard. It is not necessary to dwell upon that. One look into the child's face is satisfactory. She is fine and faithful and has even slept with her mother in jail, something few modern girls would ever have done. She needs this mother, men. You who have daughters can realize it better than others. If her father were living or others able to care for her, I would have said nothing. But they are not. Think of the good girl this child has been under her mother's guidance. That's all necessary."

It is true there was some sentiment in this but reduced to a final analysis it was just simple, unadorned facts. No twelve men are necessary to decide that. It would have been wholly applicable in the case of a father.

And, it might be said, it was during this plea that Mrs. Godbee first broke into tears. She quickly dabbed them away.

And the prosecution said that the Godbee trial shut the door in the face of the ever-popular "unwritten law." Just how this was done is nicely illustrated in the speech of G. C. Dinkle, associate counsel for the defense.

Don't Need Any Unwritten Law. "We don't need any 'unwritten law.' We stand on our own bottom. We want no emotionalism. We want just plain facts and will be content to let them stand for themselves."

"We don't want you for an instant to consider the fact that Mrs. Godbee is a woman. Her act would have been justifiable had she been a man. She shot in defense of her own life—her character. She shot in a moment of temporary insanity created by her victim. And the law, gentlemen, says she acted within its bounds."

Mrs. Godbee's features are firm. The lips are taut and there is something of the business woman in her clear blue eyes. This has all come with age for it is obvious that, in her girlhood, she had been beautiful in a rare type of beauty.

She might have come from the Norseland, for her color is the creaminess of the lily. Her complexion is rose-tinted and the hair, except for a sprinkling of gray at the temples, is richly golden. There is, like many other characteristics, a peculiar strain of fairness that courses through the entire family.

She was an interesting study for the jury, composed of eleven backwoods-men and one barber. While lawyers wrangled and orated and filled the building with verb and vitriol, they sat and gazed upon her intently. She met their eyes with a stoniness that had nothing of reproof or appeal.

As though to say: "I am in your hands. Disregard my sex, consider only the evidence. I think it is sufficient."

Evidently District Attorney Robert Lee Moore, prosecutor of Mrs. Godbee, anticipated a move of the defense to inject sentiment into the trial, for his speech was a blistering denunciation of the modern courts in exonerating women for homicides.

Even though he feared wrongly, as he afterward admitted, his speech will go down into court history.

The Law Draws No Distinction. "The undiluted law," he said, "draws no distinction between man and woman. They are the same in its eye. It is your duty to convict her, because

Of Beautiful Unrivaled Architecture of the Old South

By Mrs. Thaddeus Horton.

On the 1st of October you will find that the roads are in public highways leading to Augusta. This house so perfectly preserved with its dimpled white columns and fine air of conservative dignity, so simple yet so suitable as an original built, the first frame house erected in Covington. The first four rooms of this pioneer house two above and two below are still a part of this old dwelling as it now stands. They were added to from time to time until long before the war the domicile achieved its present form, since when it has remained undisturbed.

CAREY WOOD AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

Carey Wood and his descendants were a considerable part of old Covington. His two daughters, Laura and Pauline, married two brothers, Colonel Robert Henderson who was made a general on the battlefield as he was dying and Colonel Jack Henderson both of the Confederate army. Another of his daughters, Mary Jane married Ozborn T. Rogers and provided in that splendid old Georgia mansion illustrated on this page. General Robert Henderson lived subsequently in the old Carey Wood homestead which is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Swann. Two of General Henderson's daughters reared in this old house, Mrs. Led Hill of Atlanta and Mrs. L. V. Hill of Washington, D. C. The latter, a prominent woman well known throughout the state. Robert R. Wood, of Atlanta is a grandson of Carey Wood. Mrs. Louise Green the well known artist of Atlanta is his granddaughter and his daughter, Mrs. Ozborn T. Rogers, of the famous old Rogers house now lives in Decatur. Carey Wood married a Miss Billups of South Carolina and coming to her husband's home in Georgia she brought the nurse of her childhood with her as a body servant. At the time of this old negro's death fifty of her descendants none of whom had ever been sold were owned by Carey Wood and maintained either in his or his children's home. In addition to which he had many other slaves.

TRIP IN OCTOBER MOST PERFECT OF ALL.

I made the trip in early August. The young cotton of June was just high. The crops were at the very noon tide of perfection and it is an inspiring sight to see the Georgia farm lands growing a cotton crop that has through the elements of the season reached the peak of its development. Best of all that, I think the trip in October will be the most perfect of all, then you will see the harvest fields with that great product for which the whole world looks to us. No section ever gets beyond the life of its staple and the most aristocratic social ways will hold the promise of the wealth in the very meshes of its marvellous fibre.

If you are fond of contrast go from Atlanta to Covington and back again the same afternoon. Atlanta, our young and marvellous city of magic air hangs well to the past, our march to the future. Covington, of the ancient regime; far, far older; a fine old lady sitting serenely in her old brocade with a smile of contentment viewing unmoved the passing years.

A clever analyst once said that the architecture of a nation is the key to its history. It cannot be! The splendid old homes of Covington, which have been so perfectly preserved, tell the story of the refined and advanced civilization that once obtained there, making it one of the most aristocratic social and political centers of Georgia. Oxford college is only two miles away and the proximity of this seat of learning naturally gave Covington an atmosphere of culture. Crossing the square and passing out Floyd street you come to the home of Carey Wood, who, in company with three other adventurous pioneers, was the first settler of Covington then backwoods or more correctly a public highway leading to Augusta. No section ever gets beyond the life of its staple and the most aristocratic social ways will hold the promise of the wealth in the very meshes of its marvellous fibre.

If you are fond of contrast go from Atlanta to Covington and back again the same afternoon. Atlanta, our young and marvellous city of magic air hangs well to the past, our march to the future. Covington, of the ancient regime; far, far older; a fine old lady sitting serenely in her old brocade with a smile of contentment viewing unmoved the passing years.

A clever analyst once said that the architecture of a nation is the key to its history. It cannot be! The splendid old homes of Covington, which have been so perfectly preserved, tell the story of the refined and advanced civilization that once obtained there, making it one of the most aristocratic social and political centers of Georgia. Oxford college is only two miles away and the proximity of this seat of learning naturally gave Covington an atmosphere of culture. Crossing the square and passing out Floyd street you come to the home of Carey Wood, who, in company with three other adventurous pioneers, was the first interior decorators. But every now and then I came upon some beautiful old dwelling gray with time, and these were by far the most interesting and romantic of all. One of these was on the corner just above the old Neal residence. A mass of crimson crepe myrtle flaunted itself against a background of antique white clapboards. The gardens to the front and to the side and the rear were mellow with age, and seemed to have been undisturbed for years by a single foot-fall. Moss and hedges and pretty-leaved weeds grew everywhere. It was, I ascertained, the home of Mrs. Virginia Usher Camp the widow of Reprimus Camp, who died a few months after his marriage leaving his bride this beautiful old home where she has continued to reside entirely alone for the last fifty years. No wonder the garden seemed undisturbed with only her light footfall passing through them. Mrs. Camp showed us through her home, and gave us as souvenirs the published scores of some songs of her own composition. Later we had water from her picturesque and moss-grown old well. Although Mrs. Camp has owned this place for fifty years, it has an even more ancient history, having been for a generation earlier than its purchase by Reprimus Camp the home of the well-known Batts family, of Georgia. The daughter of the house, Miss Adelaide Batts, married E. W. Marsh, then one of the merchant princes of Atlanta. Her children, McAllen Batts Marsh and Mrs. Green Adair, still reside here.

WEDDING WAS GREATEST OF ALL OCCASIONS.

Social life in the small inland towns throughout the south, though excessively aristocratic in its ideals, was naturally more simple than that which obtained in the coast cities. The fine old white column houses of our antebellum Georgia towns were furnished with the old mahogany, old ebony, old rosewood, and even old walnuts that collectors are now gathering with such avidity. Slaves being plentiful and well trained, the households were conducted on the most liberal scale and plenty abounded. A wedding in the old south was the greatest of all occasions. Next only in importance was the affair which followed the wedding at the new home of the bride and groom. On such occasion if the season was auspicious, for hunting and all other field sports were enjoyed, with fine horses and dogs as the necessary accompaniment. Some of the old furniture and silver formerly used in the old homes in Covington are scattered throughout the country, but much still remains in the old homes there.

THE POISON BELT.

Merrivale to go to Thibat for a snow-leopard in the spring. But it's hard on you, Mrs. Challenger, when you have just built up this pretty home.

"Where George is there is my home. But oh! what would I not give for one last walk together in the fresh morning air upon those beautiful downs!"

Our hearts are echoed her words. The sun had burst through the gauzy mists which veiled it and the whole broad wealth was washed in golden light sitting in our dark and poisonous atmosphere that glorious clean wind-swept country-side seemed a very dream of beauty. Mrs. Challenger held her hands stretched out to it in her longing. We drew up chairs and sat in a semicircle in the window. The atmosphere was already very close. It seemed to me that the shadows of death were drawing in upon us—the last of our race. It was like an invisible curtain closing down upon every side.

"That cylinder is not lastin' too well," said Lord John, with a long gasp for breath almost. "The amount contained is variable," said Challenger, "depending upon the pressure and care with which it has been bottled. I am inclined to agree with you, Rexton, that this one is defective."

"Sit on the stool at my knee and give me your hand," said Challenger to his wife. "I think my friends, that a further delay in this insufferable atmosphere is hardly advisable. You would not desire it, dear, would you?"

His wife gave a little groan and set her face against his leg.

"I've seen the folk bathin' in the Serpentine in winter," said Lord John. "When the rest are in, you see one or two shivertin' on the bank, envyin' the others that have taken the plunge. It's

Pellagra in England.

(London Dispatch to New York Times.)

Fifty cases of pellagra, whose existence only became known to any considerable section of the British public as a result of the disclosures at the recent international medical congress, have been found in England and Scotland and personally investigated by Professor Sambon, who will shortly go to the United States to study the disease there.

Professor Sambon's doubts as to the maize origin of pellagra appear to be confirmed, according to the British Medical Journal, by the fact that the disease has declared itself in the British Isles, where maize is sparingly consumed.

with its surrounding acres were sold for the meager sum of $3,500.

NEAL HOMESTEAD IS MOST PICTURESQUE.

The most picturesque home in Covington is decidedly the old Neal homestead. It was sold many years ago to David Spence, whose daughter, Mrs. Sheppard, inherited it, and whose family now resides there. This most typical and picturesque old home with its outside chimneys an noble Georgian portico was built by McCormick Neal, the brother of the late T. B. Neal, of Atlanta, the brother, also, of the late Mrs. Pittman, the late Mr. Keely and of Mrs. E. H. Thornton. The beautiful old cedar trees and boxwood hedges were planted by Mrs. Neal herself many years ago. She has many descendants and relatives in Atlanta, among them Mrs. Emma Neal Douglas,

A NECESSITY FOR THE MODERN FARMER

It shows the three big concrete silos which are used to their full capacity. The use of silage feed for cattle and live stock is recognized as an absolute necessity for the farmer who would reap the largest benefits from his soil, and no up-to-date agriculturist would consider the handling of any number of stock without the silo as an adjunct to his farm buildings.

A silo is not an expensive thing to build and full instructions as to the methods to be employed in its construction can be had upon request from any state agricultural department or from the federal department in Washington.

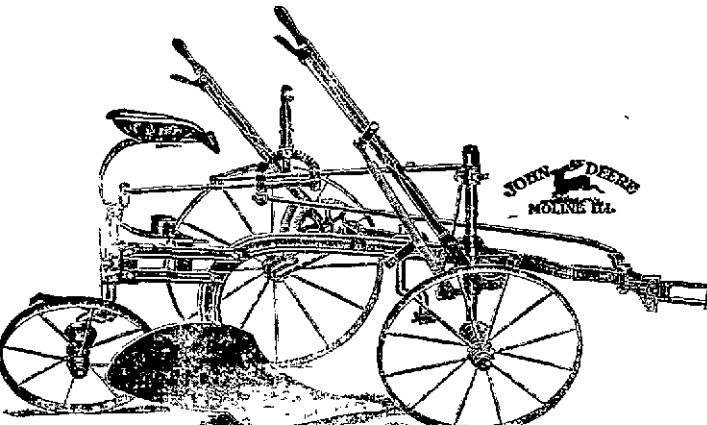

The chief food used in making of ensilage is green corn, but other seeds raised and cheap crops have proven excellent for the purpose, such as clover hay, alfalfa and many others.

REGULAR MEETING OF GIDEONS TODAY

The regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the Atlanta camp of Gideons will be held in their usual meeting place the Assembly hall at the Hotel Ansley, this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

State President H. F. Todd will speak, there will be good singing and other features will surely make it a memorable meeting.

These regular Sunday meetings of the Gideons do an immense amount of good and the members of the Atlanta camp attend them with unfailing regularity. But they are open to all who wish to attend and the people who are not actual members must not allow themselves to feel outsiders, but to come just as often as they can. They will undoubtedly get much good out of them and also will be enabled to do some of that good themselves which is the primary reason for the existence of us all. The Gideons wish to stress the fact that ladies are always welcome and their inspiring help is appreciated at its true value.

A GOOD LINE.

Glendale School and College Theme Brings Business.

The Hirshberg company have put on the market, within the past few months, a new tablet which is known under the name of the "Glendale School and College Theme Tablet." This tablet is endorsed by some of the leading educators in this state and Alabama and, as a consequence, is recognized as the best of its kind in this market.

The tablet is made of the finest quality paper, suitable for pen and ink work, and besides contains a complete list of rules for grammar, punctuation and the formation of correct sentences and paragraphs in any kind of work which the pupil is liable to undertake. The company reports that it has made a big hit with the trade and that not only are their salesmen making it a splendid seller, but that the mail orders are coming in in large numbers on every mail.

NOTES OF THE CITY SALESMEN

The frolicking season for the U. S. boys is now over and everybody is down to serious business again. The meeting Saturday morning was well attended.

Brother Simmons, president was in a good humor, wearing that smile that won't come off.

Brother Johnson, with the Van Camp Packing Co., was present. He has just recently joined the C. S. A. and we welcome him to our ranks.

Brother W. E. Parks, with the Capital City Tobacco Co., was present. He is looking well after a long illness, and we sincerely hope will be able to come regularly now.

Brother F. E. Kibler was on hand. Brother Kibler is one of the C. S. A. orators and receives the undivided attention of his audience when he speaks but he claims he must be wearing his white coat when he does his best talking, and offered the absence of his vest as an excuse for not responding to a generous call for a speech at the meeting.

Brothers Ciyatt, Gaston and Messer, the representatives of Fain & Stamps, are nearly always on hand. We appreciate their regular attendance, and would like for all the members of the C. S. A. to compete with these boys for an attendance record.

One of the foremost retail merchants in the city remarked in a conversation last week that he considered the present body of salesmen now working the city trade as being composed of the finest and ablest men the profession had ever had, and he gave the C. S. A. credit for this condition.

There was a time when competitive salesmen hardly had a speaking acquaintance, but now there is the warmest spirit of friendship existing between all, and these working kindred lines seem to be the closer friends. We feel proud to be spoken of so kindly as above related, and hope we can continue to merit the compliment.

The Retail Grocers' Association is working in fine harmony with the C. S. A. and we want to express our hearty appreciation for their very kind feeling towards us. This condition can only bring about good results to all members of both associations.

News of the U. C. T. Atlanta Council 18

The secretary received notice of an accident from Brother G. W. Cain.

Another recent accident notice was the one from Brother W. A. Kennebrew who makes his home at Rome, Ga.

The members are asked to make a special effort to attend the meeting on Saturday, the 27th, in full force. This is the first meeting since the summer vacations and some important business is to come up.

It is suggested to any members who want to subscribe to the relief fund that now is a good time to send along their checks, as the secretary is at home to receive and appreciate them thoroughly.

Brother M. A. Stern, secretary of the Savannah council, writes Atlanta 18, this week, sending his regards to his many friends who are members of the Atlanta council.

LEAVES FOR NEW YORK.

J. D. Robinson Goes With Reports of Much Optimism.

J. D. Robinson, president of the A. M. Robinson Co., left yesterday for New York on a buying trip for his firm. He will be gone several weeks and will study the conditions in the east and the general trend of the market before returning.

Mr. Robinson stated before leaving that he had a much more optimistic feeling about conditions in Georgia and the south than he had had for several years. Crops were excellent and prices were high and it was his opinion that Georgia was about to reap some big business that would make up considerably for the times during the past year or two when things had not been quite as good as they might be.

CHILE CON CARNE.

There is a story running round Fain & Stamps. It is something like this: "Takes—Cliff Edwards and—aw, have a heart." And that's all.

E. Levy, who is a recent addition to the forces of the Gramling-Spalding company, and who is covering the territory in south Alabama and west Florida, sent in a nice batch of orders from new customers for the firm, last week, which, of course, pleased the house force much.

President Ike Hirshberg, of the Hirshberg company, when asked for news this week said, "Well, the way the mail orders are coming in there doesn't seem to be much use in sending out our traveling men. But the majority of the boys seem to be tired of staying here, or something, and the majority of them are out doing excellent business, and these two (they were Max Samuels and W. C. Tennant), say they are going to leave next week."

Ed S. Harrison, with the S. P. Richards company, came in Saturday from a successful trip. Mr. Harrison is enjoying much better health lately and his friends are predicting some records in sales now that the physical man has resumed his wanted good condition.

H. P. Lovelace, with the Consolidated Paper company, has been working on the Southern road for the week and came in Saturday with many orders.

J. W. O'Donnell, with the Dobbs & Wey company, who has been in Atlanta with his samples for the past three or four weeks, will leave there this week and expects to be in the house by Saturday.

Lester Lee, a leading merchant of Covington, Ga., was in the city last Monday and bought a nice bill of dry goods, etc.

The A. M. Robinson company reports a magnificent business and continued "prosperity" feeling.

CREDIT MEN HOLD SEMI-ANNUAL MEET

Dutch Luncheon Served Last Tuesday Was Attended by Over Hundred Members.

The Atlanta Association of Credit Men held their semi-annual meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms last Tuesday night. A Dutch luncheon was served, and there were over one hundred members present. After the regular business had been satisfactorily disposed of, the report of the committee on a reporting bureau was heard. This committee was appointed at the regular meeting last May in order to look into this matter and present a full report at this meeting.

After hearing of the different investigations which had been done, it was unanimously passed that such a bureau be formed and the same committee was ordered to proceed with the formation of the bureau. The chairman of the committee is Herbert A. Choate, of the J. K. Orr Shoe Co.

The duties of this reporting bureau will be to gather full information about the retailer customers of the members and to furnish the same in proper form upon request. It is a

TWO OPENING BILLS

Sold in House Help Make Good Week for M. C. Kiser Co.

The M. C. Kiser company report an exceedingly good week's business and an addition to their stock of "good feelings" over the prospects in Georgia. Two opening bills which were sold in the house during the past week helped out the week nicely and the steady increase in all branches of the sales department, on the road, in the house and through the mail, indicates a more stable feeling throughout the country than has been felt for the past few seasons.

P. S. Brownlee, secretary of Fulton council, 505, U. C. T., and salesman for the E. L. Adams company, has been kept in town all week on account of the severe illness of his wife, Mrs. Brownlee is happily reported much improved.

John Silvey & company report that the way their men are stacking in the orders surely verifies the statement of "good times in Georgia."

ADAMS STRESSES HOME-GROWN FOODS

President Atlanta Association of Credit Men Emphasizes Necessity of South Raising
More Foodstuffs

President E. L. Adams of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men stressed an interesting point in his speech before the semi-annual meeting of that body last Tuesday night. In view of the report which was published last week as to the cost of living in Atlanta which placed this city second in the list of cities in the United States only Boston Mass. being a more extensive place in which to live and following the statement made by O. J. Camp, president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants and Butchers Association in which Mr. Adams laid the blame for this cost of living on the fact that a large proportion of Atlanta's food supplies have to be brought from a distance, this plea of Mr. Adams for the raising of these foodstuffs at home was especially timely.

Mr. Adams' speech is here given in full as it tells all throughout of the strong feeling of prosperity which is abroad in the state. Georgia is undoubtedly entering one of the most prosperous seasons which she has ever experienced and the words of a man like Mr. Adams with added weight, particularly when they were addressed to a body of business men who know more about actual conditions in the country than any other set of men.

Mr. Adams' speech was as follows: Gentlemen of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men: Our first order of business, according to our by-laws is the address of the president. We have some important matters to attend to this evening and your president will therefore not burden you with an address—admitting for the sake of argument that he might be able to make one.

I assume that the chairman of the different committees in their reports will cover the various activities of the association since our annual meeting in May and to avoid repetitions I will only state that your committees and your financial secretary have been active and alive to the best interests of the association.

I especially desire to commend the special committee on the proposed reporting bureau—and its chairman for the faithful work done in gathering information regarding this most important question and for the report they will submit to you this evening. It is your president's idea that the report of this committee should be unanimously adopted and he hopes that every member of the association will join hands in making the bureau—if established—a distinct success.

It was our good fortune—together with several of our members—to attend the annual meeting of the national association at Cincinnati held in June last and I am sure that attendance upon that meeting gave us all an inspiration that will be of lasting effect.

For some of the delegates this was the first attendance upon the national convention and I am sure a deeper insight into and a more comprehensive view of the workings of the association were had as a result of this visit than could have been had in any other way.

We found that at this meeting we were brought into contact with some of the foremost business men of the country and at least had the opportunity of absorbing some of the ideas and thought of these men of brains and experience. It was indeed a rare treat to be able to listen to the able discussions of the intricate and perplexing problems of the credit man—by these men and we only regret that it was not possible for all our members to have attended.

Improved Outlook.

I desire to felicitate our members upon the greatly improved business outlook that a wise democratic administration and a beneficent Providence presents to us of the southeast at this time. Since our last meeting there has developed what promises to be a bounteous harvest of our staple in every crop—and although somewhat at a expense of some of our sister southern states—whose misfortune we regret—the prospects for good prices are apparent. This together with the fact that congress has practically settled the hitherto ever perplexing tariff question—and has well under way a settlement of the iron and banking question that will undoubtedly be in the interest of all the people rather than Wall street—I am constrained to predict that the present fall season will be the best in a business way that we have seen in several seasons and while the efficient credit man will always be alert, we feel that some of the sources of trouble he has had to contend with during the past two years will be conspicuous for their absence.

Abundant Crops.

Another source of great gratification to us should be the fact that the southeast has this year produced abundant crops of cereals and other food products. This we predict means a safe and satisfactory volume of business for us all for at least another twelve months and happy will be the day for

GET IT WHILE IT'S HOT

H. W. Lyons representing Swift & company for soaps, has been out all week with C. E. Pearson for the E. L. Adams company and reports splendid business.

The genial face of Sam D. Jones was seen around several places of call yesterday. Mr. Jones is selling Alkano for the prevention of potato bugs and reports big success both in the sales of his product and in its effective working.

The "ins" this week with Brown, Perryman & Greene company are J. O. Chambers, C. D. Dickinson, J. F. Tate and Al. N. Greene. Mr. Greene reports that he will try to get out amongst his customer friends by the first of October with his dandy new line of samples but that mail orders are keeping them mighty busy right now.

E. F. James with the Dobbs & Wey company came in Friday night from Alabama. He states that conditions are excellent in that state and predicts big business there for Atlanta firms this coming season.

J. F. Cumble from Fredonia, Ala. was a visitor with the A. M. Robinson company this week and bought a nice bill of goods.

C. J. Williamson of the Ridley Williamson Wyatt company left Friday for New York where he will be busy buying for his firm.

E. M. Roper with John Slivey & Co. returned last week from a three weeks buying trip in New York. Mr. Roper is in charge of the notion department and was buying chiefly in the interests of that department.

The Capital City Tobacco company men report business for 1913 that stands out as almost unique. They have done more business the first six months of this year than they did for the entire twelve months of 1912 and the first half of September alone shows a $10,000 increase over the corresponding fifteen days of last year.

The All Star Manufacturing company report an interesting piece of business from George H. Page who represents them in South Carolina. Mr. Page sent in one batch of orders for Columbia, S. C. alone, which totalled $1,000 in the new-wear line.

P. D. Yates of the Ridley Williamson Wyatt company returned last week from a trip to New York where he had been buying notions novel ties, ready to wear, etc.

E. H. Jordan with the All Star Manufacturing company left for his territory in Florida last Monday and he sent the proof of his safe arrival on Friday in the shape of a big batch of orders.

M. M. O'Shields a new man with the Gramblin Spalding company who covers the South Carolina territory and makes his headquarters in Spartanburg sent in a fine batch of orders this week.

Edward Glaser who represents the Grand Lake company of New York territory in Florida last Monday and he sent the proof of his safe arrival on Friday in the shape of a big batch of orders.

J. E. Almond with the E. L. Adams company will begin to cover a portion of the South Carolina territory covered by R. A. Hawkins this week. Mr. Hawkins has resigned from his position with the firm.

Jack Hawkins with the All Star Manufacturing company is sending in big orders these days from Mississippi. His first batch came from Jackson.

C. S. Harley with the Consolidated Paper company will spend Sunday at Greenville, S. C.

V. C. Almond better known as 'Uncle Burgo' landed over $700 worth of neckwear orders the first two days he was out with his new samples. C. P. Webb who covers the Alabama territory continues to send in nice business from around Birmingham.

The M. C. Kiser company report all their men hard at work and sending in some mighty nice business. Prosperity is aboard, says Secretary C. J. Sullivan.

all when our farms and farmers produce sufficient food stuffs regularly each year to supply their needs and will begin supplying our towns and cities through our channels of trade with beef, pork, food stuffs and other commodities such as have heretofore been drawn from other sections at the extra expense of transportation charges and the profits of a possible so-called extra middle man.

While possibly somewhat outside the recognized activities of the association I feel that no more far reaching results could be accomplished for the ultimate good of our individual business enterprises than might be accomplished if we as individuals, firms and corporations lend our encouragement and help to the fostering of such movements as the boys' corn clubs, girls' canning clubs, state agricultural colleges etc. for after all we as business men are not producers and the all important question for the south as a whole is that it should produce more in value for the markets than it has to buy from other sections. When this is accomplished we will be prosperous and not until then will we be on a safe basis.

It behooves us therefore to take advantage of every opportunity afforded to throw the weight of our influence—and we have a potent influence—if we will but assert it towards the support of every movement looking to this end.

As I stated the opportunity appears to be confronting us for safe and profitable operations at least for the next few months and with the proper conservatism and co-operation on the part of the credit men represented by this association I feel that our losses can be kept at a minimum and a profitable volume of business done.

Get On Board

Old man Prosperity is a wheel in Georgia in a Six-Cylinder, making a mile a minute.

That means folks are going to have some comforts with a taste of luxury—and then some.

You get both in a pair of Red Seal Shoes—made in Atlanta.

That's one way Shoefans are going to celebrate. There's a joy feeling about it words can't express. You just forget your feet.

Then, there's the pride in knowing you are building up the Southland and pointing the way to industrial independence.

That takes no account of the real economy found in wearing Red Seal Shoes. One pair frequently lasts as long as two. They have been worn by three generations.

The wide-awake dealer will make no mistake in being ready for this demand.

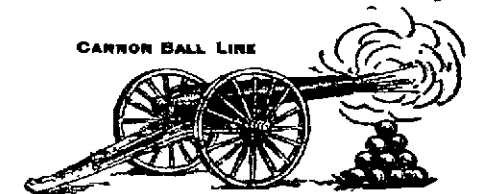

Unless all signs fail, this is going to be a season when a near by factory with quick action will count double in your dividends.

R. T. Jones, Editor,
Constitution Firing Line,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir:

You will no doubt be interested to know whether or not we can show any traceable sales from the advertising we are doing in the Firing Line of the Constitution. It is a pleasure for us to inform you that we feel fully compensated, not only from direct inquiries concerning our line, but attribute some large cash sales through this means of advertising.

The Constitution evidently has a large circulation among the farmers and those interested in agricultural implements, and for this reason we are taking advantage of advertising our labor-saving tools to the trade.

Wishing you continued success, we are,

Yours truly,

JOHN DEERE PLOW COMPANY.

To Kiss or Not to Kiss

What Prominent Atlantans in All Walks Of Life Have to Say on This Absorbing Topic

Above is a cut showing the city hall park as it would look if a suggestion by Alderman VanDyke were adopted. The alderman wants the park set aside for spooners.

BY NED M'INTOSH.
 To kiss, or not to kiss—
 That is the question that is perplexing all Atlanta.

All history has been but a breaking down of old customs and institutions and a building up of new. Man has taken this natural course of events with a fair degree of complacency. Symbol after symbol has vanished and time-honored customs have fallen by the reformer's hatchet or through decay by disease, and man has raised no great howl.

But when Atlanta was threatened with an eleventh commandment in the form of "Thou shalt not kiss," she immediately said, "This is too much, much too much."

It is passing strange that so slight a thing as a kiss should so arouse a cityful.

What is a kiss, anyway, that it should loom so important? And should this old institution really be abolished?

All Atlanta waits upon the answer to these two all-important questions.

Noah Webster Has His Say.

Webster says a kiss is:
 "To touch or press with the lips (which are compressed on contact and then separated) as a mark of affection, greeting, reverence, forgiveness, etc."

There is probably no more eminent authority than old Noah, but his cold-blooded treatment of the subject somehow seems not to answer the question. One feels as if he had read on the outside of a bottle, "Shake well before using," and is no wiser as to the contents than before he read.

As a family physician Webster is a pretty reliable sort of an old codger, but what we seem to need is a specialist in the particular case at hand.

Chemical Analysis of a Kiss.

From Dr. Roy Harris, secretary of the state board of health, we get the scientific view of kissing.

"Kissing is an inherited disease that I find nearly every healthy young couple more or less afflicted with. While rarely a fatal malady, it frequently causes those afflicted with it to mope and pine and complain that death is near at hand, but usually they recover.

"Contrary to being alarmed when I find a case of kissing, I am rather more alarmed when I find somebody who has never been afflicted with it. I do not believe that it is at all necessary for one to use a disinfected handkerchief on the lips after an attack. In fact, I find that patients progress much better if they allow the effects of the kiss to remain on the lips.

"A chemical analysis of a kiss shows it to be composed of five parts sugar, three parts imagination and two parts appetite for another one. Occasionally I have found slight traces of a little rouge thrown in for good measure.

"A microscopic examination of a kiss reveals its form to be elliptical."

"What sort of form was that, doctor?" asked the reporter.

"A hip-tickle." And he never cracked a smile.

"Is there any cure for the disease?" Dr. Harris was asked.

"Not that I know of. Recent experimenters, I understand, have sought to cure it, but I do not believe they will be able to do it.

"Who wants a cure for it, anyway?"

Pastor McConnell Gives His Views.

Rev. Lincoln McConnell, new pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, says: "A kiss is a puckered-up expression of what one really feels or wants the other party to think he feels. When I say, 'puckered up' I am both literally and figuratively speaking, for I also mean 'concentrated.'

"A kiss is the most concentrated expression of any tender and pure sentiment that one can give to another.

"Abolish it? Not on your life! I am not even in favor of reforming the spelling of it. Who would want to spell 'kiss' with one 's'? No, let's make it as long as possible!"

Must Be Played by the Rules.

Judge Nash R. Broyles handed down his opinion, as follows:
 "Kissing is the greatest game in the world—if you play it by the rules.

"In the recorder's court it is exactly like the old game you've played all your life. You remember how it goes:

"Heavy, heavy hangs o'er your head, they say."
 "Then they ask you, 'Fine or super-fine?'"
 "Well, that's the rule in my court. If the young spooning couples don't play by the rules, heavy, heavy hangs o'er their heads.

"If they have played by the rules, why, it's super-fine."
 "But if they haven't played by the rules and I find it out when they are brought before me, it is mighty apt to be 'fine'—$15.75 each, say!"

"What are the rules, judge?" he was asked.

"Well," he said, "the best rule is to do your spooning at home or where you won't bother anybody else.

"If the young folks will just play by the rules, they'll never find me in favor of spoiling the game!"

Kiss Is the Life of Real Estate.

Let's get the viewpoint of a business man on the question. J. H. Ewing, real estate dealer and booster, speaks thusly:

 "A kiss is the greatest business booster ever invented. Abolish the kiss in Atlanta and her skyscrapers will crumble. The very bottom would drop out of the real estate market and in a little while Peachtree street would look like a trail through the desert of Sahara.

"Why, man alive, the kiss is the foundation rock of the business of the nation! Stop kissing and you stop marrying; stop marrying, and you stop business. There you are!"

"Take it from me, if I can get a man's wife to put her arms around her husband's neck and kiss him a couple good sound smacks while she's asking him to buy a house and lot, I could sell him a skyscraper! And whenever I see a nice young couple quietly spooning, I know right away that some real estate agent is going to sell a bungalow pretty soon, some furniture man is going to get a nice order, and the corner grocery store is going to open a new account!"

"I don't mean a vulgar display, for too much of a good thing spoils the soup."

"But I say, 'Let 'em kiss!' It's the best booster Atlanta can have—besides, I like it myself!"

Mr. Ewing volunteered the information that the sweetest kiss he ever had was once when he kissed his girl good-night over a picket fence.

Mayor James G. Woodward, when the kissing question was propounded to him, laughed and said:

 "Well, I think a kiss is a highly sweetened nitroglycerin bomb with everything left out but the explosion! Anyway, if I've got to be blown up, I would choose that way out.

"Kissing is an innocent pleasure, and is expressive of the best and tenderest sentiments. It is the most natural thing for young people and old to do, and there is something unnatural about any young fellow who wouldn't like to kiss a pretty girl if she was willing.

"Kissing is the birthright of mankind, and I have my opinion of any kind of Jacobs who come along and try to steal it away.

"Speaking of Jacob, there is a verse in the Bible which says that when Jacob kissed Rachael he 'lifted up his voice and wept.' I have never quite figured out why he should have shed tears over the incident unless he may have happened to be sitting on the capitol steps at the time and a couple of plain clothes men came along. In a case like that, of course, there was probably ample reason not only why he should have lifted up his voice, but also why he should have held up his hands as well!"

A WOMAN BEFORE BAR OF JUSTICE IN GEORGIA

she slew Florence Godbee and not your duty to acquit her, because she is a wife and mother. You are sworn to uphold law, and not be guided by feeling.

"Feeling for womankind has prevailed too long and disastrously in Georgia courts. You have seen the effect in a few recent cases. Woman is worthy of no more consideration than man. If the evidence is meritorious, convict. If it isn't, acquit. It's purely a question of evidence and justice. Not sentiment.

"There is only one woman we need in this case. She stands upon the dome of this building, garbed in a robe and blindfolded. In her hand she holds a set of evenly-balanced scales. They call her Justice. Bring her into this court room. Then you will have the only woman necessary to justice. And she will be without sentiment."

It might be truthfully said that the trial of Mrs. Godbee was as devoid of sentiment for sex as the Arctic is of warmth.

Even the look that Mrs. Godbee gave the jury as it studied her so intently seemed to say:
 "My skirts have nothing to do with your verdict."

Now, if the writer were my friend Druffey, who has been following crime and criminal trials ever since—well, never mind—he could not doubt call to mind a string of trials in which women had been freed on sentiment.

That will be left to Bruff, the grand old man of newspaperdom. I know of only a few recent ones—ones so freshly recent that to recite them would only mean to hurt the feelings of many

PERRY FARMER TRIES BIG SILO FOR CATTLE

Perry, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—Dr. W. J. Little, of Macon, has erected on his farm, about three miles from Perry, an immense silo and is now filling it with ensilage for feeding and fattening cattle and other stock kept on his farm. The silo is 32 feet high on a cement foundation and is 20 feet in diameter and is calculated to hold 200 tons of ensilage. He is now filling it with green corn, grass, sorghum and velvet bean vines.

The silo was erected by Harry Bonner, who had experience with silage and silos before coming south from Ohio. This is the only silo in the county and if the food packed away in it proves to be a success, quite a number will be built in the county another season.

CALIFORNIAN VISITS HIS RELATIVES HERE

Colonel Wiley S. Killingsworth, formerly of South Carolina, but for the past 23 years a citizen of Covaville, Cal., is in the city on a visit to his sister, Mrs. Charlie D. Tillman; also his sister-in-law, Mrs. E. L. Dobbs, and niece, Mrs. Slaughter Lathcum.

Colonel Killingsworth is one of the largest fruit growers and shippers of that section and a prominent member of the state legislature and of the governor's staff. As a legislator he was one of the committee sent to Washington in July in connection with the tariff bill and is now on route home, after stopping over in Greenville, S. C., and vicinity, for several weeks, to visit relatives and old friends there.

Before returning home, however, Colonel Killingsworth will visit Mexico, having obtained all necessary consular passports for that purpose while in Washington City.

WALKER COUNTY BANK TO OPEN IN LA FAYETTE

Rome, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—A new state bank is to be organized at LaFayette, to be known as the Walker County Bank of LaFayette. Application has been made for a charter, the incorporators being J. W. Cavender, C. C. Gilbert, J. D. Taylor, W. C. Martin, O. T. Simons, J. W. Holland and J. E. Rosser.

Since the government bank examiner closed the doors of the First National bank there last July, LaFayette has had but one bank. It is now apparent that the First National bank will not be recognized, hence the movement for the new bank, which will start with a capital of $25,000.

FLOYD COUNTY SEEKS TO MAKE GOOD ROADS

Rome, Ga., September 20.—(Special.)—Members of the board of county commissioners have just completed a personal inspection of the public roads throughout the entire county. It is their purpose to pursue an aggressive campaign of road building. With that end in view they have increased the tax levy, and will purchase in addition to the present equipment twenty mules, twenty modern dump wagons, a portable rock crusher, two complete motor-truck outfits and eight cars. In order to determine what roads should be improved first the commissioners went over them all in person.

Fall Fashions Beckon All Atlanta to Allen's

"FASHION," the Chinese say, "is an endless search for the truly beautiful."

Those who design and import for this House of Ready-to-Wear cease not in their watchfulness for the things of fashion, as a matter of business; for the thing of true beauty, as a matter of art; and these combined objects bring as results of constant search—the things you want.

And this appeal is remarkably supplemented by a particular attractiveness of broad varieties and prices that fit the worthiness of the goods brought here for your service.

Late importations are particularly inviting. The Suits and Dresses that Picture a Wealth of Fashion

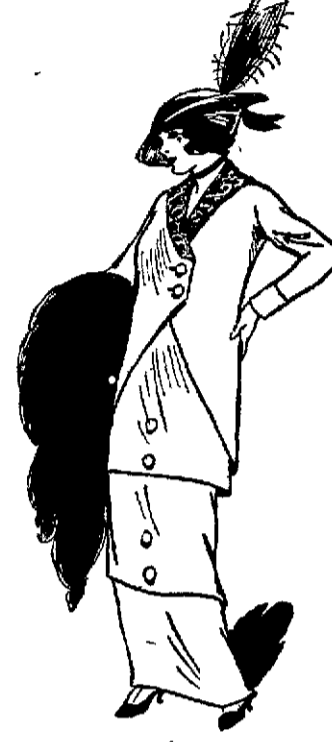

Never before has this city known the magnificence and the cleverness of women's wear as we show today. Our accomplishments in developing worthy modes fully match our good fortune in choosing the brightest ideas of famous designers...

The Season's Hat Modes

The secret of creating charming millinery effects—that is becomingness and individual types—is in knowing how.

Our millinery service is most complete and painstaking. We take a personal interest in every customer who comes to us for the hat she wants.

We have cozy fitting rooms—convenient and comfortable. We have the hats you want. We are showing new Lichtenstein and Hickson models—smarter Knox Burgess & Castle tailored hats—riding hats, polo hats...

High luster velour, fine full napped Beaver Panne velvet crown plush, Paradise, Gouta, Numidi and wonderful quills and fancy feathers are the important millinery features.

The constant demand for something new brings us the very unique Restaurant Bonnets now in vogue—made of velvet of rich color and gold lace.

Choicest furs form the greater part of many hats—stole and muff to match. Impossible to tell you all about them. Won't you come and see them? (Third Floor.)

Allen's Beauty Parlors

We have just put the finishing touch to our new Beauty Parlors just installed on our fourth floor. It is indeed a beautiful place. And here it is that you may find your own personal beauty in the perfect shampoo, the hair dress of latest mode, the manicure, the beautifying the real lady and the youth preserving massage. Miss Theresa Zahn, Manager (Formerly of Clayton & Zahn.)

Typical New York Footwear at Allen's

We carry the self-same models, made on the same lasts, that you find in the smart boot shops and high-grade department stores in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

There is a distinct tendency in Atlanta toward New York ideas in footwear.

We confine our styles almost exclusively to the Eastern ideas, but we do adapt the treatment of a majority of our styles to the ever prevalent Southern requirements of the high-arch effect.

Yet we have footwear just as mannish and sensible as in any store in the East, and we also carry the new medium-weight welt sole, as well as the lighter weight extension edge turned sole and mock welt turned sole.

In evening footwear we carry the dainty leather edge turned sole, and we have only the late styles, patterns and ideas.

Autumn and Winter Footwear

Our winter footwear will be a revelation even to those who are accustomed to Allen's comprehensive stock.

Right now we are showing the new Cuban-French or Spanish heel in Gun Metal and Patent Leather and Satin.

A new shipment will be in Monday morning, early, as they left the factory September 17, by express.

Come and see our line before the size range is broken.

Mountain People Now Swear ONCE THEY BITTERLY OPPOSED IT By Young Harris College

By John C. Reese. "The devil entered this valley for the first time when that bell rang. That saying is ascribed to a famous old mountain preacher some twenty-six years ago when he planted Young Harris down in Brasstown valley, made famous over a big bit of the globe by Mrs. Corra Harris, in her inimitable stories of Pappy Corra—a real personality, if you didn't know it. It is to the everlasting credit of that stern old preacher of the mountains that some years later he publicly repudiated his statements, and paid powerful tribute to that excellent institution and its educational influences. "I seemed hopelessly crippled. Some two years ago the swept the flag, and Young Harris seemed hopelessly crippled. But some folk out in the big world, far from the mountain drenched confines of the valley in the fastnesses of the north Georgia hills, knew what it had done, what it was doing. So some brave souls began the slow, hard work of rehabilitation. These mountain people are not rich by any means. Many wear rags and shreds from the hills and valleys with heart and back-breaking toil. But they said, "You raise $1,000 and we'll raise a like sum. We can't lose Young Harris. It means too much to us and our children. And they are making good their part of it. Not long since a trip to this secluded place was made with some reluctance, it must be confessed. The founder of Young Harris, if he had in mind getting far from the beaten tracks of things, obtained his purpose beyond any question you must leave Atlanta in the afternoon and go to Murphy, N. C. where you arrive at 11 o'clock at night. And by the way, this is as surely a modern little city they have set here and the solemn grandeur of appearing mountain ranges. Electric lights, well-paved streets, as fine school buildings as you will see in Atlanta and a general air of thrift and prosperity. And Murphy boasts only 1,200 population. "Charlie Corn will take you next morning in the crisp coolness of the morning, with the air heavy as wool and the glow of hills everywhere along the beautiful Hiwassee river for 7 miles. Crossing a modern iron bridge you go up hills and down into little valleys, the scene ever shifting and changing as you drink it in.

Next destination now. "Pretty soon Charlie Corn tells you that you are back in Georgia, and that it is only 5 miles now to your destination. Then you slowly climb a steep hill, and as you rise to the summit you look down into Brasstown valley at last, spreading like a basin valley among the encircling hills, and nesting far below is Young Harris. "Charlie Corn will tell you as you go down into the valley that they first started to locate the school 2 miles away, but the inhabitants objected so vigorously that they moved to the valley. "Some of them old chaps said the youngsters would break up the hen nests," Charlie tells you laughingly. "But the people in the mountains now swear by Young Harris, and think it is the greatest school in the world. I guess maybe it is to them, at any rate. "When Judge Young L. G. Harris, of Athens, made possible this institution twenty-six years ago it began with seven pupils and mighty little equipment. Now it has 500, and is limited only because the facilities will not accommodate more. "And the spirit of it? That is the thing that catches hold, thrills you at the outset. A young mountain woman perhaps expressed more powerfully than anyone else ever has the dominant spirit of the school. "Came to Get Education. "How do you like it here?" she was asked. "I didn't come here to be pleased or displeased. I came here to work and study and get an education," she replied. "Incredible are the sacrifices made to get to and through Young Harris. No finer manhood and womanhood is to be found than here. Will see here—study, purposed, determined, self-sacrificing—working with unbelievable ardor and intent to lift the ban of ignorance. As a cure for worldily-tired people, a visit here would work miracles. "One mother came with her eight children. She works in the schools and her children help at various duties. And they are absorbing amazingly. Some day those sturdy boys and girls are going to repay that Spartan mother man full for her sacrifices. "A man 25 years of age came one day and said he wanted an education. He came to make the third grade, but he dropped away, and now he is in the junior year. The world is going to hear something about him some of these days. "They will tell you stories of sacrifice and hardships to tighten the chords in your throat and make the glory of the mountains dim through mist. A lad came there years ago, a tiny lad, an orphan, with a sister living in the north, his only near relative. The head of the school kept the boy and fed him. The sister was supposed to supply the clothing he needed. "Noted Gleam of White. "One day when the frost had hardened the ground—and it gets cold there in the mountains—the president watching the boy trudging along noted the gleam of white. He lifted his feet. "Come here, son," he said. The boy came obediently, and when the president said him to lift his foot, he saw the boy's bare feet, the soles of his shoes white. "Why didn't you tell me, my boy, that you were shoeless? "Oh, sir," said the boy, "you've done so much for me I didn't think it right to let you buy me shoes. Sister has just bought to send me any." "That boy is today one of the rising young lawyers in a Georgia city. You'd know him if his name was called. Such instances could be multiplied, for of such is Young Harris' history made up—some pretty big men in Georgia are proud to claim this school as their alma mater. Herschel White, author of the present educational act; Henry Fullbright, of Burke; Fred Booker, of Wilkes; fully one-fourth of the pulpits in the north Georgia conference; and many in the south Georgia conference are in this number. "No Denominational Lines. Young Harris is a Methodist institution, but it draws no denominational lines. Any boy or girl who comes and has pluck can get in. All who intend following the "hills" or becoming ministers are educated free. "Rev. Joseph A. Sharp, the president, is the right man in the right place. His heart and soul are wrapped up in this work, and he is a really beloved man there among the students and the people. "Without solicitation, perhaps without the knowledge of any connected with the school, this voluntary tribute is made to it. It is playing its great part in educating the future men and women of the mountains and lifting that long-aching inheritance of ignorance standing against us. "More power and greater sinews to it!

Highest Grade, Latest Style Hats At a Saving of 200%

Women May Buy at Wholesale Prices

Women of Atlanta are invited to inspect the largest and most exclusive line of Misses', Women's and Children's Hats in the South. This millinery stock was selected for the best merchants in the best Southern towns. (Silverman's is strictly a wholesale house, you know.) But trade conditions make it advisable to sell to you instead of shipping. Will you take advantage of this opportunity to save 200 per cent (two hundred, think of it) on every hat you buy from us? We sell to you at wholesale prices—the same prices retail dealers have to pay. It is wonderful what a dollar will buy from our immense and stylish display. A dollar goes a long way at Silverman's. Buy your fall hat here and save the retailer's profit—you need it more than he does. More styles and shapes to select from than you will find in any other Atlanta store. You can get three hats here for the same money one would cost in a retail store.

For the benefit of the ladies who cannot spare the time during the day, we will keep open until 9 o'clock every night.

D. A. R. Day in Knoxville; Big Attendance Promised

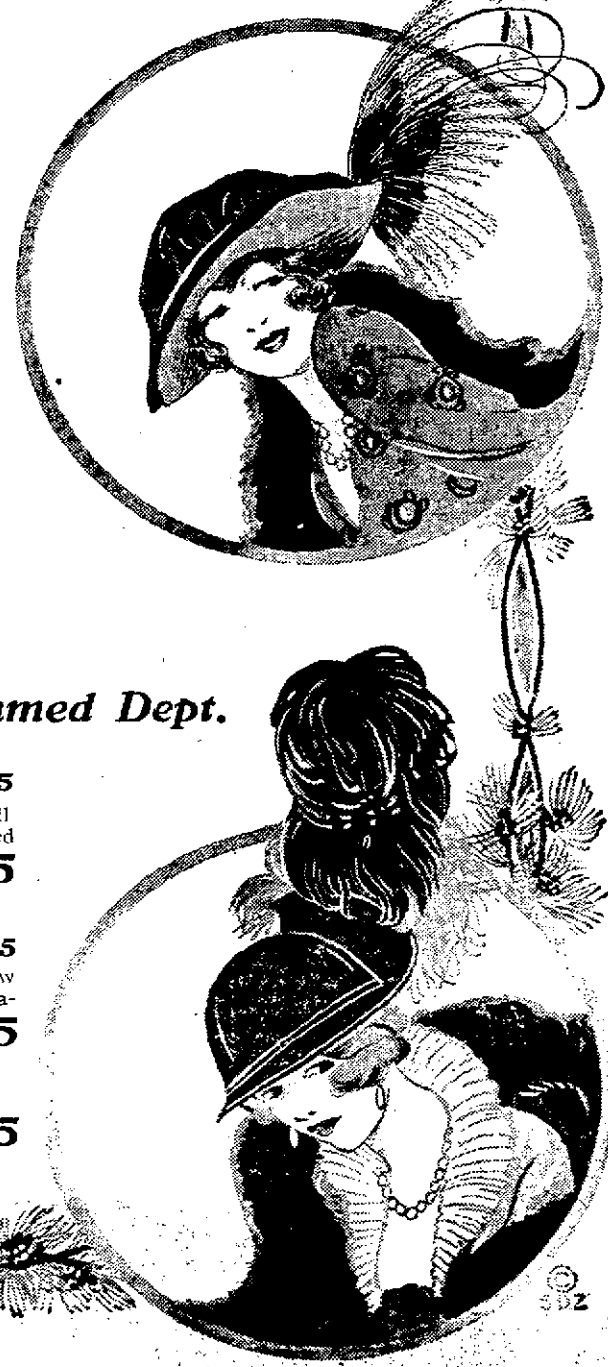

"Daughters of the American Revolution day" at the National Conservation exposition in Knoxville, has been dated for October 2, and the main features of what promises to be a memorable event in patriotic work are stated in the following letter, which has been sent to all national officers, leading state officers and Tennessee chapter officers: "October 3 was designated by the woman's department of the National Conservation exposition as Daughters of the American Revolution day. Mrs. William Cumming Story, the president general, will honor the occasion with her presence, and the president, Mrs. Horace Van Deynter, and board of the exposition are desirous of making this one of the most brilliant and memorable days of the exposition. As state regent, you are specially invited to be present and add to the program with a five-minute talk. You are also urged to use every effort to induce all the D. A. R.'s in your state to visit the exposition on this date, not only as a mark of loyalty to the president general, but also to show an interest in the splendid conservation exposition."

It is signed by Miss Mary Boyce Temple, who is chairman Women's Congresses of the exposition; is also chairman of "D. A. R. Day" and of "Panama and South American day," which follows on the 4th. John Barrett, Dr. Clarence D. Owens and Senator Fletcher, of Florida, president of the Southern Commercial Congress, to Miss Gladys Cantrell has gone to LaGrange to enter college. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. COLEMAN-ROUNTREE. Swainsboro, Ga., September 20. (Special.)—The quiet but romantic marriage of Miss Mabel Coleman and Mr. Joshua Clark Rountree, of Swainsboro, Ga., which took place Thursday last, was as great a surprise as has ever been sprung in social circles here. Miss Coleman is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. J. A. Coleman, of this city, and Mr. Rountree is remembered as the son of Mr. J. R. Rountree here, and a young business man of much experience and travel, and polished to a degree. No one knew of the marriage until the news was a day old. On last Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when every one was busy downtown shopping or attending to business duties, Mr. Rountree quietly stole his bride from her father's magnificent home on the corner of the street to Mr. Dixon's, the Baptist minister. There they were married with very few witnesses. Mr. Rountree then left his bride, strolled on up town, and one observing his demeanor on the street could never have thought what lodged in his breast was his life secret. Saturday night he spent with a friend in the city in order to avoid all trace of suspicion. Sunday morning he took his bride and a party of four others, sent by automobile to Milledgeville, where they caught the noon train for Atlanta, the first point in their scheduled honeymoon. There it was that they sent word back to the folks, announcing that they were married, and when their honeymoon was over they would return home. The couple, who were both exceedingly popular and well-matched, had been going together since some time, but no one thought that their little affair would result in a life-story of love. Their many friends throughout the state will be glad to hear of their elopement, and congratulate both of them. They are expected home some time this week, and, temp rarely at least, will reside at Summit, Ga., where Mr. Rountree is in the cotton business.

FITZGERALD, GA. Mr. Henry Stewart paid a pretty compliment to his aunt, Miss Alice Shepherd of Abbeville, by giving a rook party in her honor at his music studio. Gentlemen's prize was won by Mr. Bernard Watts. The party was chaperoned by Mesdames J. L. Pittman, J. C. Ligeour and T. J. Dickey, and the guests included Misses Alice Shepherd, Fern Peterson, Irene Jones, Martha Wilkinson, Ada Powell of Vienna, Isla Green, Mildred Hanger, Messrs Earl Wooten, Hubert Rousch, Bernard Watts, J. L. Frazer, L. A. Galtner, John W. Yates and S. O. Price. The members of the Matrons' club were entertained at their last meeting by Mrs. T. M. Griffin. The guests were Mesdames J. L. McCarty, A. E. Cook, A. E. Russell, L. Griner, J. E. Turner, T. J. Dickey, J. C. Rush, J. M. McDonald, J. E. Seaton, R. E. Lee, E. J. Dorminy, Wade and Maggie Dean Morris. Mrs. James Marsten, of Birmingham, Ala., is visiting from the city. Mrs. A. F. Cartwell and little daughter, of Columbus, are visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dunn. Miss Vera Hubbard is visiting Miss Mary Putman in Brunswick. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brown, of Manchester, are visiting Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. J. D. Masburn.

SAVANNAH HOTEL BEST IN THE SOUTH

The citizens of Savannah decided that their hotel accommodations were not adequate to the city's growth and progress, so they just subscribed a million dollars and erected one—the Hotel Savannah. In comparison with other southern hotels, it doesn't take second place, either. Its furnishings are unusually attractive and its conveniences are right up to the minute. It is on a par with many of New York's best hotels. It is located on the site of the old Seaven House, right in the heart of the city, which makes it particularly convenient for traveling men. They are patronizing it, too. Aside from its attractiveness and conveniences, and splendid cuisine, it has an atmosphere of absolute comfort that makes it particularly inviting. That's why it appeals especially to the traveling public—their every comfort is assured. Hotel Savannah is proving very popular, and as its rates are less than other hotels of the same class, its patronage will certainly continue to grow. The Newcomb Hotel company (owned by J. A. and S. J. Newcomb) has the management in charge, thereby insuring a maintenance of its high standard. —(adv.)

The Risks of Carrying Out a Social Function

Have you ever been forced by unforeseen circumstances to appoint a near at hand day for an "at home" or wedding invitations and then find out at the last moment that the house who "took your order" for the invitations could not get them from the manufacturer in time?

If you have been through this experience once, you will appreciate the advantages of ordering such work directly from the engraver himself.

PROMPTNESS is one of the principal advantages that the J. P. Stevens Engraving Co., 47 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga., offer to their patrons.

MISS ELMa BERRY. The charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Berry, who having spent the past year with her aunt Mrs. J. J. West has returned to her home in Long Beach, Cal. Mr. Berry is an old Constitution boy, having been connected with the mail department for years before leaving to make his home in the far west.

Gossip of Georgians in the Metropolis

By R. S. Carraway, The Constitution. New York, September 20.—(Special.) Mrs. Jane Ann Dickie of White Plains was so surprised when she heard that her father, George W. Horton, 85 years old, had been secretly married since last September that she has caused Supreme Court Justice Mills to appoint a commission to inquire into his sanity. She alleges that he must be of unsound mind and that he is easily led. Mr. Horton has been a pilot in Hell Gate for sixty years. Mr. Horton who is at present in Ohio with his bride, who was Mrs. Alice Sturkey McCallin of Thomasville Ga. has replied through his attorney that his daughter desires to have him declared incompetent so that she will not have to account for the money he has entrusted to her. He says that her total indebtedness to him is at least $40,000. He states that he left his daughters home where he had lived for many years because he received no attention there. He met Mrs. McCallin at her home in Thomasville eleven years ago and then asked her to marry him. She refused and he said he would wait. He waited until last September when she returned home in November and again in December last but said nothing of his marriage. In her petition Mrs. Dickie states, as tending to prove her contention of her father's mental unsoundness that he was slovenly in his habits and ill-mannered at the dining table. To this Mr. Horton replies that for sixty years he has been a pilot for vessels through Hell Gate and that frequently he stood on the bridges of vessels without sleep for days at a time, never changing his clothes and glad to grab a lump of salt codfish for food. Therefore he never had the need of society manners but he does not believe he disgraced his daughter.

The first night school of theology in the United States will be opened in the North Baptist church in West Eleventh street, on the evening of fortably filled. Summer tourists on the way home are stopping in great numbers for a day or two in the metropolis. Atlanta and other Georgia cities are being amply represented in the influx of visitors to the city. Guests from the Gate City at the principal hotels this week were: Marlborough—T. Chiles; Vanderbilt—J. W. Grant and G. H. Boyd. Imperial—George L. Morton Seville—Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hall Gregorian—E. Westbrooke and Mrs. Hunter Cooper. Ansonia—Rogers Dewar Woodstock—R. L. WASHINGTON, GA. The marriage of Miss Ruth Bynum of Wilkes county and Mr. Crawford Wilson Chitt of Boston Mass took place Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Armstrong, Rev. W. S. Dorsett officiating. The marriage was the culmination of a romance which commenced in Titusville Fla. two years ago where Miss Bynum was visiting friends. Mr. Chitt was then connected with the bank at Titusville but later left for Boston Mass where he now holds the position of assistant cashier of the International Trust and Banking company. The wedding was a very quiet one witnessed by only a small company of relatives and close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Chitt left Tuesday for Savannah to make the trip to New York by water. After a week's visit in the metropolis they will go to their future home in Boston followed by the best wishes of a host of friends in Georgia and Florida, where both are well known and well popular.

Miss Lutie Brown of Atlanta is the guest of Mrs. George E. Lyndon this week. Mrs. Claude A. Fleming and Mrs. Sadie F. Gault of Augusta, are the guests of their mother Mrs. John P. Cozart on Court street. Misses Edith and Antoinette Kirkpatrick of Atlanta, are the attractive guests of Miss Fannett Cozart. They were the guests of Augusta relatives for several days en route to Washington.

TIFTON, GA. An early fall wedding of much interest through the state was that of Miss Margaret Wynona Ford of this city, and Mr. Marzette Hardie Bell of Montgomery, Ala., which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ford, Wednesday, the 17th at 11 o'clock. An improvised altar was made of palms and ferns in the living room. The bride was attended by her three sisters, Miss Hazel Ford, being maid of honor, Misses Pearl and Ploy Ford, bridesmaids. The groom's brother, Mr. N. J. Bell of Montgomery, was best man. The bride's brothers, Messrs. Harry and Irey Ford, were groomsmen. Mr. and Mrs. Bell left for Tifton, Springs, Atlanta and other points of interest, and will be at home in Montgomery, after November 1. Miss Kate Fleming Wilson of this city and Mr. John Finley Gillespie, of Pine Bluff Ark., were married Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wilson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. Durden of the First Baptist church. A pair of new patent leather shoes and jewelry valued at $50 were stolen from the room of Henry Seares, well-known cotton broker of New Orleans, Atlanta and New York at the Knickerbocker hotel. In an adjoining room, which had been assigned to A. M. Smith, was found a pair of old shoes, Dominick Vito, who was arrested while trying to pawn a watch and chain belonging to Mrs. Seares, acknowledged that he was "A. M. Smith." He was wearing Mr. Seares' new boots.

What the Shops Are Showing

The Balkan influence will continue to be noticeable in the Autumn fashions as this smart two piece suit designed by Cheruit denotes. The costume is of a soft material called duvetyne, the narrow skirt is slightly draped, and the coat is cut in the Balkan military style, which is particularly good on youthful figures. The cross belts over the shoulders are especially smart. In the window of the shop two extremely handsome models are shown, the first is a black and white novelty velvet gown with elaborately embroidered vest which is so cut as to give the effect of a sash. The coat is in cutaway effect and the skirt narrow and clinging.

The novel cut of the draped evening wrap illustrated on the other figure in the shop window is its most attractive feature. It is formed of a straight piece of goods, passing up over the shoulders and downward to form the sleeve effect. The material is one of the two-toned velvet brocades.

The Well Dressed Woman

Autumn Vogues for the Young Girl

By Marion Morris

THE other day I chanced upon an uncommonly interesting magazine article, deploring the fact that our girls "grow up" too soon. Her bearing, her manners, her pleasures—her clothes—bring her to womanhood before her years. "Should a woman among men before her hour?" Think of the clothes worn by young girls this summer. The very low necked bodices, the skirts of extreme tightness, the slanted skirts—were they clothes calculated to keep her sweet and modest and girlish? Assuredly not.

"There is something very sweet and appealing about the slim, indefinite figure of a girl, even in the awkward age, with the hint of slowly developing lines," says the writer of the article.

With Paris busy creating fashions new and daring, and with bizarre and awful imitations being flaunted on all sides, there is danger again this Winter for young girls whose mothers do not properly curb their liking for the extreme in fashions.

But there are such charming, youthful garments to be had for those who would have them! Girlish, dainty frocks and wraps and accessories—!

years and figures of their wearers. Velours, soft and warm, in rich dark colorings, plain and striped, are used in making many good looking wraps. Sometimes they have deep rounded collars in back, and sometimes wide belts across the back at the waist line. And the majority fasten close at the throat, buttoning right to the neck.

There is a hint of plaids coming back to favor, and these may be found in the wraps, but should be chosen with discrimination. Chincilla coats, as very useful for the young girl.

Refinement and good taste mark the smart little one woolen piece frocks for school, house and general wear. Serges, rattines, sponges and woolen crepes make most effective dresses for daytime wear and a girl need not stick to these of the different shades for her choice of colors. Most girls wear some shade of brown very well, and the colors this year are particularly pleasing. Soft greens, too, are suitable for her, and the wine reds that suggest wintry days and cold weather. Many of the new dresses show the vest effect in front and still others have plain blouses, fastening at the sides or straight down the front, relieved by a novel touch of silk, fancy buttons (though these last are not so much used as in the Summer) and occasionally, the Russian blouse effect.

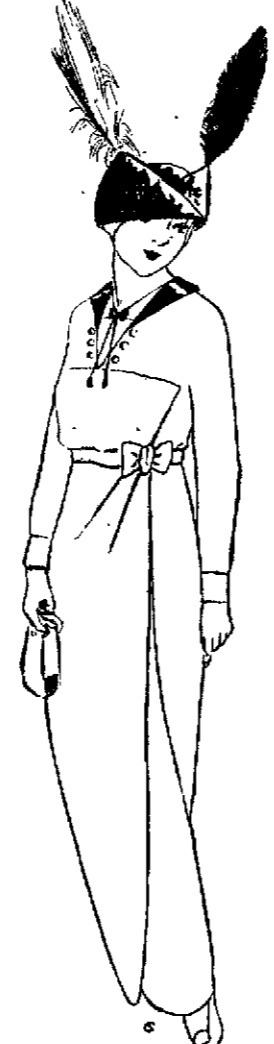

and scarfs, or tailored quilts make very appropriate trimmings.

CORDUROY hats are one of the new things—in dark colors, and in white. One very smart white sailor had a straight brim and crown, was all of white corduroy and had for its adorning a smartly tied bow of black ribbon.

Furry velours make other of the new hats. These come in pretty colorings—unusual but attractive, and very youthful. Rounded crowns have somewhat supplanted last year's lambs-wool shanter but that too is occasionally to be seen. I saw greens and reds and seal browns that would take youthful color to show them at their best.

The veriest school girl needs a party frock or two and what with dancing classes and matinee parties she is sure to want pretty dresses. Charming little dresses of soft shimmering crepe de chine are in such delicate colors as shell pink maize and blue and of course white. French frocks, handmade and with few tucks, and with just enough hand embroidery to make them attractive, are not difficult to find in the good shops and may be had at moderate prices and are above all, eminently suited for the demoiselle.

STRAIGHT skirts, or skirts but slightly draped, are in best taste for young girls. If the effect of length is desired, there are long lines running from shoulder to hem, as in Wistaria sponge trimmed with touches of black satin forms the gown shown in this illustration. It is simply but fashionably cut and would form an excellent model for the costume of a young girl.

TO EMBELLISH THE PLAIN SWEATER

A smart way to embellish a plain white, modish or tan worsted sweater is to knit for it a collar, cuffs, pocket flaps and belt in Roman stripe pattern, using chiefly the dark colors but occasionally breaking them with a very vivid stripe in yellow, green, blue or red.

When the plain-hued sweater is of single-breasted coat shape, the collar, turning over widely from the neck, should roll from the throat in short, broad revers whose points extend half way to the arm-eyes. The points of the deep cuffs at the center and the front-side belt have pointed ends that cross below the front of the waist-line.

UMBRELLA CASES

Because in many boarding schools the girls sharing a room also have to share a closet, it is the wise thing to have a plainly marked umbrella case which can be hung upon a hook behind one or more garments. This case, large enough to hold several umbrellas, is made of heavy dark denim, bound at the top edges, at the short closed end and at the wide mouth with thick worsted marked in white tape with the initials of the owner. Much of the trouble which arises among girls rooming together at boarding schools grows out of misunderstandings with regard to the contents of the student's small belongings, but the student who arrives armed with one of these cases, clearly indicates to her companion that she regards her umbrellas as her own property.

A beautiful gown of cream-colored net is pictured here. It is embroidered in tones of cream and brown and is worn over a slip of lemon yellow. The sash is of lemon yellow silk, finished with a knotted fringe and tied loosely in the back.

Early Autumn Notes from Paris

IN the early Autumn we shall see in tailor costumes a struggle for supremacy between the long Russian-like coat and the short-waisted coat. The former in the new silk velours de laine, which sounds an anomaly, but which is an old friend clothed in silk, and quite a novelty this Winter, makes a practical contrast to the charming little coat of pin-striped cut velvet made by Callot.

The one has an effect of Russian braiding or series of enlarged buttonholes, embroidered by machine stitch in wool. The velvet coats demand an accompaniment of lace cravats and fur edging. The same may be said of the heavy glace ottomans so much seen—in this class of gowns Chinese collars and the square Chinese waist effects are practically good with the inevitable sash.

A smart coat is the tight fitting type in velvet with fur collar, cuffs and edging to the hem. To go with these gowns, soft filmy blouses of chiffon are being made of the tone of the coat and skirt. These waists are quite transparent and often have a little touch of color in an embroidery which recalls the sash when this does not match the material.

In this order, is a gown of pure velvet shot with blue silk—the sash of blue and the waist of pure muslin with trills of ecru tulle and bands over the shoulders of an irregular embroidery of blue and threads of gold.

The tunic is everywhere evident in both visiting and evening dresses, mostly in velvet with the upper one being round and full with a stand-up effect over the under one clinging to the foundation of silk. For these gowns we see many effective shades of reds and blues in addition to the omnipotent black and white.

For evening wear white is first favorite again and varies with dark dull reds and blues which combine very favorably with more vivid hues. These dull shades in brocades make up well with bright tulle draperies forming sash like ends caught into tassels of beads, or these same draperies of tulle edged with skunk, ermine and dyed fox mask fashionable trimmings.

The waistline in the new fashions is accentuated in length by the new corset, which scarcely exist above the waist, leaving the figure quite free and supple.

There is a tendency in boots to return to all black for the Winter and patent leather is coming to the front again. Buckles of every size, description and richness are being worn on every kind of shoe and the Greek sandal is being continued on the Winter boots.

A novelty to be signalled in passing is the black and white checked stocking brought forward by a few ultra-fashionable women and which has given birth to every variety of black and white in smart hose.

The new sandalled slipper is the latest in shoes, laced with ribbons. The newest stockings have silts up the side and are laced across with fine cord to match the gowns.

Large flat tortoise shell hairpins and comb-handpainted with Japanese designs—are the new ornaments for the coiffure. This is the smartest note of the moment—La Coiffure Japonaise.

Filmy web-like tulle of new designs carried out in threads of gold and silver are the new laces for evening gowns.

At the moment everyone is wearing a sash of some description, Oriental style.

The bead handbags of 1890 have been revived and shown in beautiful soft colors.

AUTUMN STATIONERY.

The stationery just brought out for Autumn use differs considerably from that used during the Summer. The newest thing in "lawns" and "linens" are of a delicate brownish-yellow or dull greenish-grey tone on which the fashionable jet black ink now used for a writing fluid, stands out very distinctly.

Then there are fancy papers in clear tan, blue, pink and lavender, with gilt or plain edges and some lovely "lawns" in soft Deift with black or white initials.

The various correspondence sizes in letter sheets and envelopes come in the same tones and finishes, and also the convenient correspondence cards and the handy note sheets that every sensible woman likes to have on her writing desk.

The Amateur Dress-maker Tells of Simple Schemes for Lengthening the Usefulness of Frocks.

IF Ruth hadn't accidentally overturned a bottle of ink upon my tea-green silk gown and made black spots down the front of its skirt, we might never have learned to appreciate the value of sashes and belts. After vainly endeavoring to eradicate the stains, Mildred said: "That gown's too becoming to you, Mother, dear, to be cut down for either Ethel or Ruth. Besides, we can't afford to do it just yet. We'll simply have to put a sash on it."

"But sashes don't become my figure," I demurred. "They seem to cut it in two and make me look inches shorter."

"The one I have in mind will make you look inches taller," replied Mildred, as she measured off three yards of the wide black velvet ribbon which we buy by the bolt because it's cheaper that way and because it's one of the materials which we're always needing in a hurry. When she had equally divided the strip, she ripped half way up the under arm-eyes of the tea-green bodice, placed the ends of the velvet between them, restitched the seams together and made me get into the entire gown. Then, bringing the two slanted strips of velvet together at the center of the bodice and a trifle below the waist line, she knotted them loosely and finally flattened them into two long ends of even length that fall almost to the ankles, where they are gathered into black tassels. At intervals both ends are so heavily weighted with leads (caught to the satin facing of the ribbon) that they positively can't fly about and disclose the ink stains that are beneath them. The gown has frock's waist-band, brought it all the way round the figure fastened it under the big rose and allowed the end to drop flatly over the skirt. The cluster of rosebuds formed a delicate little corsage that covered the chanced place on the bodice.

No sooner had our pretty neighbor gone home than Louise brought out the skirt of her white cloth tailored suit and pointed to a line of moth holes on its left hip. She had put it away carefully last Spring—it's a broadcloth that she wore all during the Winter to matinee—and was in despair when she discovered its condition. But Mildred wasn't dismayed. She never is. After eyeing it critically for a moment or two, she remarked: "We'll make a ten-inch long petticoat of side-plaited white-satin and attach it to a broad, folded belt. That will cut down Louise's phenomenonally long waist and at the same time radically change the appearance of the skirt—in addition to concealing the moth holes." Since Louise's skirt has been fixed in this manner I've noticed several stylish little frocks in cloth and satin in the shops, at dressmakers' exhibitions and on the streets.

Mildred has put girdles on two of her own last year's waists. One of them, a white shadow lace blouse, was badly frayed near the waist line and so she made a new draped belt of white Canton crepe under which starts a width of the same material which is drawn upward between the bust and the left shoulder where it is run through a big round buckle, then across the shoulder, carried down the back and finally gathered under the rear of the belt. It barely escapes being a jumper or "over-waist." About the rounded neck of the lace blouse, Mildred put a new double frilling of white net and she lengthened the three-quarter sleeves with Canton crepe band cuffs edged with net frills.

The second bodice, chiefly in mousseline, belongs to a taupe cashmere afternoon frock and was in perfect condition but far too tight about the bust line because since it was made, Mildred has changed to a style of corset which makes her waist larger and her hips smaller. By making a broad belt of carelessly-folded taupe satin ribbon, she was able to cover the let-out portion of the under-arm seams, and by joining the ends of the belt under a broad purple bow extended almost across the front of her figure, she could pull up the fronts of the waist and make them blouse slightly. This scheme worked so well that Mildred lengthened the waists of two of Ethel's last Winter's frocks and made them wearable.

RUTH had two thick white linen frocks last Spring but she did not wear them at all during the Summer and so they were as good as new—yet altogether too short even after their hems had been let down to the utmost limit. I was on the verge of giving them away when Mildred conceived the idea of inserting a two-inch strip between the waist-band and the top of the skirt and covering the piecing with a wide-sash of matching linen, finished at the ends with a-four work. It's simply a two yard length that partly covers the hips and at the back ties in a big bow.

Mosaic Fillet Embroidery

The new mosaic fillet is so easily constructed that it is very popular and all kinds of articles are made with this new needlecraft.

The work is very aptly named, for the foundation is a square-meshed lace, the pattern of which is covered with a narrow ribbon-braid in different colors, giving the finished embroidery the appearance of a mosaic.

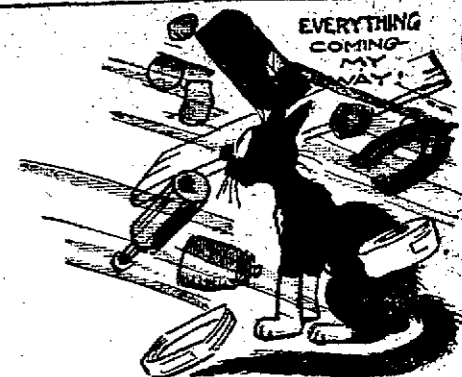

The braid used to cover the lace foundation is an eighth of an inch wide and looks very much like baby ribbon, but is much more pliable and more easily manipulated than ribbon. A blunt-pointed needle, threaded with the braid, is used for the embroidery, which is laid across the fillet pattern in this way. Bring the needle up through the open mesh and lay the ribbon over the solid part of the mesh, carrying the ribbon right against it at the first open mesh, directly opposite to where it was first brought up, bring the needle up again through the first open mesh below the first stitch, and tape another over or satin-stitch. Continue in this way until the design is covered. Fasten the ribbon, when beginning and ending the work, by tacking it on the under side with two or three stitches taken with an ordinary sewing needle and thread.

While this embroidery is very readily accomplished, the ribbon must be kept perfectly flat, or the beauty of the finished work will be entirely spoiled. If the ribbon can be kept in good condition if each skein is opened and the braid then pressed with a hot iron, then wrapped on a spool, so there will not be any creases in the ribbon.

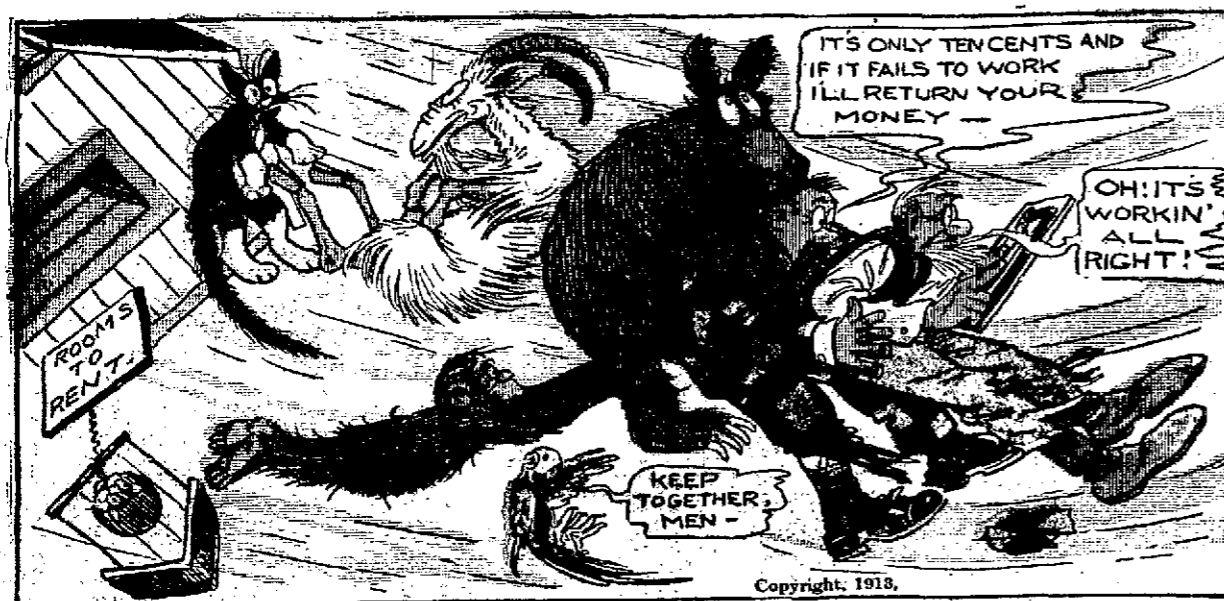

The most effective articles to make with this embroidery are the cases so necessary to keep a woman's personal accessories in good order. Vest and handkerchief cases are very attractive, as well as the larger cases intended for nightgowns and shirtwaists or blouses. These cases are made in envelope shape of some color in silk or satin over a layer of wadding which has been plentifully sprinkled with sachet. Then over this case, the fillet embroidery is laid and the two sides overlapped and folded and the top edge overhanded together, allowing for the flap which folds over, and is fastened by means of a loop of the narrow braid and a silk-covered button.

THE IDEA FOR THIS NOVEL & PRACTICAL DESIGN WAS ORIGINATED BY "WINIFRED WORTH"

Design in Embroidery

for Chemise or Corset Cover

THERE is nothing which bespeaks refinement more forcibly than those little touches we note in woman's dainty underwear. Even the strictly tailored woman does not carry her ideas of simplicity to these sheer garments but most often permits her fancy to revel in the choicest bits. Certainly you'll admire simplicity of this design since it is something you can make dainty at little cost. You will gain time by puncturing the eyelets over a cake of hard white soap. Only one eyelet should be made at a time. Never knot the thread. Do not use a double thread but embroider closely to give a compact form. You also gain time by outlining the long tendrils on the sewing machine using floss on the spool. The machine stitching is often used to outline the buttonholed extreme edge before applying the button hole edge. It insures extra strength to that fragile portion which often tears when a garment has no placket opening. The ribbon eyelets may be enlarged if you desire. Many prefer the three-quarter inch ribbon eyelets since ribbons are a decorative feature and the narrower varieties are not so durable as a better grade of wide ribbons. This pattern can be used on chemise corset cover nightgown and by eliminating the portion for holding the initial it could be used decoratively on the princess slip petticoat and union suits.

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN.
Put some soap in a pint of hot water stir and remove soap. Saturate Design with mixture, then remove excess moisture by partially drying Design. Place material on a hard, flat surface and lay the Design, face down, upon the material. Cover with two folds of newspaper and with a table-spoon rub, pressing hard until the Design is entirely transferred. PATENT PENDING.

Sincerely yours
Winifred Worth

ODDS AND ENDS

PUT a few drops of oil of lavender in bookcases to prevent mildew on the books.

OATMEAL put to soak in water the night before only requires about one-half the time to cook.

IT is best not to have carpets on the bed room floors, use rugs instead. These can easily be cleaned.

CHELERY should be at least half an hour in cold water or upon ice before serving in order to be firm and crisp.

STUFFED olives chopped fine, mixed with cream cheese and made into balls are delicious if served with a plain salad.

CHICKEN salad is delicious if mixed with small pieces of green pepper and mayonnaise. Press the meat into pepper cases.

IF you are baking anything and the oven gets too hot, put in a basin of cold water, instead of leaving the oven door open.

RICE balls are good for luncheon or supper. Boil a cupful of rice in water and add salt. While warm mix in quarter-pound of butter, two eggs well beaten, and table-spoonful of cinnamon. Make this in to small balls and fry in deep fat.

Drain and roll in currant jelly, then powdered sugar. Half of these amounts would do for a family of ordinary size.

STOCKINGS should not be washed in the same water which has been used in washing white clothes as they are apt in that case to become covered with lint.

WHEN starching children's pina-forns add a small piece of sugar to the boiled starch. This will make them iron more easily, and leave a beautiful gloss on them.

IT is not hard to blanch almonds. Shell almonds and cover them with boiling water for two or three minutes, drain, put into cold water and rub off the skins. Dry with a towel.

WHEN using stale bread for puddings always soak it in a cold liquid. Bread that has been soaked in cold milk or water is light and crumbly, whereas that soaked in hot liquids is heavy.

AN alarm clock kept in the kitchen may be set to ring at the time the vegetables should be put over the fire or the hot bread or the cake or pudding is due to be done, and as a guide to time in many other matters.

YOUNG MISSES DRESSES FOR COOL NIGHTS

YOUR BOY'S ROOM

BY MRS. McCUNE.

IF you have two rooms to turn over to the boys, I think they will prefer a den and a bedroom, the latter furnished with twin beds, two dressers or high shaving stands and one big chiffonier. The den should contain a broad couch without back, a large table with the shelving beneath partitioned off for reading matter, two large easy chairs—boys like Morris chairs better than rockers—a bookcase, preferably the sectional style, a splendid reading lamp and if possible an open fireplace.

As to color schemes, on the north walls use either a golden yellow and rich yellow-brown combination—the yellow in the bedroom, brown in the living room—or a red combination. Brown makes a splendid background for college trophies, pennants, banners, etc., and sporting prints, while yellow for the bedroom gives a good reflection for shaving, dressing, etc.

If you use red select a warm geranium pink for the bedroom and for the den a rich, deep red, which will be simply a deepening of the geranium pink. Or dry pinkish terra cotta for the bedroom and a very deep, warm terra cotta for the den. And always have a plain cartridge paper when you can get it in the right shade or a fine satin stripe paper which is in a soft two-tone effect.

If you use a border select for either the brown or terra cotta wall covering of the den a hunting or riding or skating design.

For rugs use as many skins as you can muster or the imitation rag carpet rugs, which clean and shake splendidly. Have plain Marselles or honey-comb counterpanes and no shams. For bureau scarfs have plain hemmed strips of linen. Boys hate lace fur-below and ribbon bows.

I hear some mother of slender purse say that this is all right for the woman who can furnish a suite, but when you have only an attic room for the laddie what then?

And again I say—consult the boy. You'll be surprised at his resourcefulness. Here is what a mother and her boy living in a small New Jersey town have done. She told the laddie of 15 just how much money she could spend on his room when they moved into the new house. The attic was not plastered and the boy bought plain tan-colored building paper to cover ceiling and wall and make the room warmer.

This made a stunning background for his squirrel skins, high school banners, fishing outfit and all other boyish treasures that would "hang."

He built a cozy corner of old boxes and burlap bags which his mother helped him to rip and dye a warm red. He painted his own floor, and he and his mother braided rugs at night. The girls gave him pillows for his cozy corner and after he had repaired and painted a huge porch chair they made more pillows for that.

That room is beloved by every boy on the laddie's list of friends, and a certain club of boys and girls meets there once a week, thus saving maternal narrows.

On his bed he has Great Grandmother Burrell's counterpane, crocheted in red and blue. He repainted the bureau and made a tie rack to hang on one side and a whisk-broom holder on the other, from burnt wood. He has a home made bookcase and he and his chum are now building some real mission furniture "as fast as they can."

Give the boy a chance to stamp his individuality upon his room and you will not have to ask an interior decorator how to furnish it.

DUSTING SET

THEY are charming, coquettish little things, and they sell in the shops for as little as 50 cents.

The set comprises mop cap, sleeve protectors and an apron.

The whole set is made of three men's handkerchiefs, white, with a fancy border in color.

One handkerchief gathered up for the cap, by hitching around it in a large circle which almost touches the sides and leaves the four points, and drawing the thread up until the cap takes shape, and a most bewitching shape it is.

The apron is made of another handkerchief, held diagonally and gathered in at the waist toward the top, the extra point above being used as a bib.

The other handkerchief is used for the cuffs and for a pocket on the apron.

Lavender and white, pink and white and blue and white are the colors to be had, although the set may be made at home, choosing any sort of handkerchief one wishes.

WHEN milk, soup or other liquid boils over on the stove and threatens to fill the place with unpleasant odors, cover the spot quickly with salt.

POLITE CHILDREN

IT is all easy enough when you get children into the regular routine of discipline. The important thing is to begin early and have the lamp of patience forever filled and burning. Where the easy, well-bred deportment of children is concerned, the usual mother-tantrum brings dire results—fear, bashfulness, deceit. A lock is enough to restrain any child in the home which pays strict attention to adult behavior as well. Small fry soon know how to find the notes in our own eyes.

To conclude, if a child is taught the little amenities of social intercourse—taught at home how and how not to eat, how to stand up, how to sit down, how to do a gracious act and receive one—the first step is paved toward his worldly if not business success. But as to that good breeding is necessary, too, and the greatest man in after times may be put to shame for the want of it.

Merely to drink one's soup from the side of the spoon instead of from the point, to "eat" soup instead of "drinking" soup, to know that the napkin of the host's table must be folded instead of flung down any way, as in restaurants, are in themselves a preparation for meeting the great world on its own ground.

All things said and done, we live in a polite age.

Hats in the Paris Wears

By MADAME CULLINANE

PARIS is showing some wonderful creations in millinery, this season—both large and exceedingly small hats being displayed at the openings and materials which vary from tulle and malines to fur and large wooden beads employed in their making.

The large hat in the center of the page is of old blue and silver brocade, it is turned sharply up in front, and edged with a band of squirrel. The round crown is of old blue tulle. Three black Paradise fancies further adorn this hat.

Number two is of the new shade of prune velvet and has a crown of skunk which is quite flat. A rose and bud of ruby velvet are placed under the brim at the back and nestle close to the hair.

The third hat is a small violet ottoman affair, worn close to the forehead in the manner which will be popular this Autumn. It is trimmed with straight bows of green ribbon.

Most barbaric of the new Parisian hats is the one shown in the fourth illustration, it is of toque shape, the deep band above the face embroidered in large wooden beads in green, blue and yellow.

The crown is a transparent affair of blue tulle and a flame colored Paradise fancy and strings of beads worn under the chin, complete the odd and fantastic effect.

A more conservative though somewhat bizarre hat is shown in the fifth illustration. It is of slate gray velvet with deep bandeau of laurel green ribbon, a plaited ruchè of laurel green malines trims the brim of the hat.

Chalk white moire simply trimmed with an upstanding black aigrette and a fringe of ostrich feathers about the crown forms the sixth hat on this page, and is one which will prove becoming to almost any face.
