WOODROW WILSON BACKED BY SENATE REGARDING MEXICO

Republicans Fight All Day and All Night to Embarrass the President But They Fail When Vote Is Taken.

REPUBLICANS WANTED DECLARATION OF WAR

But by a Vote of 72 to 13 the Policy of the President Is Sustained and He Will Have a Free Hand in Mexico—The Debate in the Senate Was Very Heated.

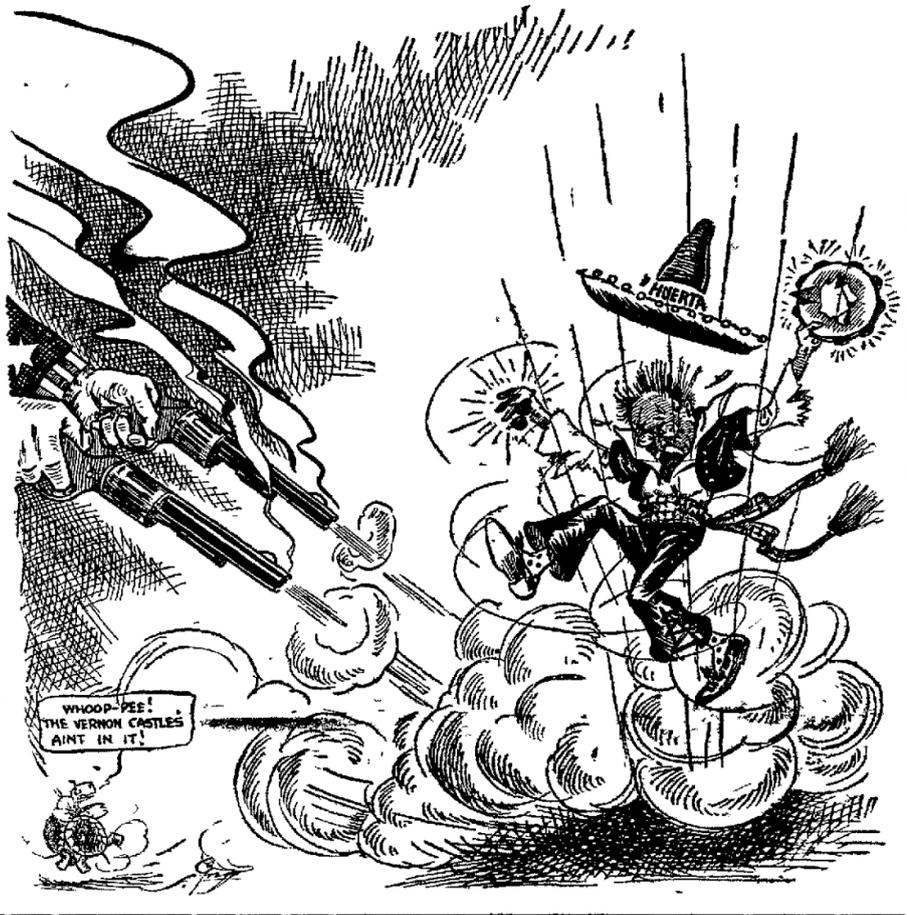

CARRANZA AND VILLA WANT HUERTA.
Washington, April 21—Reports reaching official circles late tonight that General Carranza and General Villa were about to join with the Huerta government to make common cause against the United States, caused Juan F. Urduli, secretary in charge of the Mexican constitutionalist agency here, to issue this statement:
"Sensational reports that General Carranza and certain of his subordinates had assumed an attitude hostile to the policy of President Wilson are absolutely without foundation."

Washington, April 22—The senate at 8:21 o'clock this morning by a vote of 72 to 13 passed the administration resolution by declaring that the president is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce his demands for unequivocal amends for the affronts and indignities committed against the United States in Mexico.
The senate at 2:40 a. m. by a vote of 47 to 35 rejected the substitute Mexican resolution proposed by Senator Lodge. It would have based the "justification" of the use of force in Mexico on the general conditions there instead of upon the Tampico incident.

NOT FIGHTING MEXICAN PEOPLE.
The resolution, which goes to the house when that body reconvenes at 10 o'clock this morning specifically disclaims on the part of the United States any hostilities toward the Mexican people, of any intention to make war against them.
The final vote came at the close of a stirring all-night session, marked by bitter debate.
Several republicans fought to the last to broaden the resolution so as to direct it against all indignities offered the United States by Mexico, while others opposed it. All of the thirteen negative votes were cast by republicans.

As adopted the massive is a substitute reported by the senate foreign relations committee for the resolution adopted by the house Monday. It eliminated the name of Victoriano Huerta. Administration leaders are confident that the house will accept the substitute virtually without debate.
AMENDMENTS VOTED DOWN.
An amendment proposed by Senator Gallinger, "justifying the president in the use of force to protect American citizens in Mexico," as well as to demand reparation for the Tampico incident, was defeated, 42 to 40.
Senator Poindexter proposed an amendment which would declare "that

Citizens to Supervise Bond Money

Council has passed a resolution creating a commission of six citizens to aid council and the trustees of Grady Hospital in supervising the expenditure of proceeds of the bond issue for that institution.

The mayor is to appoint the commission. Its members will be drawn from every walk of life, the little taxpayer and the rich man.

Its function will be to be "from Missouri" as to every dollar spent in enlarging Grady.

It will give its services gratis. Its members will be men wholly above reproach from the civic and political standpoint, men whose names are synonyms for integrity and shrewd business sense.

They will insure that every dollar authorized for Greater Grady shall be expended as authorized.

Council welcomes their co-operation. The trustees welcome their co-operation.

In this big job affecting life and death in Atlanta there must be no hobble, no suspicion, no uncertainty.

The citizens' commission, in combination with council and the trustees, assures safety, certainty, expedition.

FOREIGNERS URGED TO LEAVE MEXICO

Washington, April 22.—Charges O'Shaughnessy, at the direction of the state department, has advised the foreign diplomatic body in Mexico City to have their nationals leave Mexico.

Secretary Bryan said just before entering the cabinet meeting that there was a general exodus of Americans from Mexico City to Vera Cruz, and that many Americans at the latter place were getting aboard the Ward liner Esperanza.

Americans Are Leaving.
Chihuahua, Mex., April 20.—(Via El Paso, Texas, April 21.)—General Letcher, in notifying Americans in this city and other towns of the state of Chihuahua to leave the country as a precaution against possible unfortunate eventualities growing out of the decision of the Washington government to seize Tampico and Vera Cruz.

They will be sent out in small bodies if time permits, as a general exodus, it is feared, might precipitate trouble.

Six American women left tonight. Refugees Reach El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, April 21.—Six Americans, eight Germans and nine Frenchmen and women arrived here today from Chihuahua. The Americans confirmed the statement that they were instructed to leave by American Consul Letcher. They said Mexicans in Chihuahua believed the rebels would be unable to remain out of the Huerta-Washington complication, and added that rebel leaders feel compelled to accept the view that the blockading of Tampico and Vera Cruz would be a national matter affecting the honor of every Mexican, regardless of political avowals.

Letcher, they say, was endeavoring to get the Americans out without attracting the attention, and his efforts in this direction were being assisted by General Carranza.

Most of the latter's conference with General Villa yesterday, they asserted, was devoted to consideration of the Tampico incident and its developments as affecting the rebels.

Gravest View Taken.
The gravest view was taken, according to report.

In the cafes, clubs and other gathering places Mexican citizens, practically all of whom are rebel sympathizers, were seen to be talking over the course was an affront to the Mexican nation, and that a common enemy must be met by a united country.

Meanwhile there was no definite announcement of policy by Carranza, the Americans reported, adding that it seemed to be his purpose by silence to imply the truth of reports that he would continue with the revolution, regardless of foreign complications. This, they said, in view of the excited state in the cafes and elsewhere, deceived nobody.
In El Paso prominent rebel sympathizers were unanimous so far as they could be questioned in the view that not Huerta alone, but the national honor, was at stake.

U. S. Marines Landed Without Opposition But After They Seized the Customs House Huerta's Commander Decided to Fight

The Bluejackets, However, Poured in Such a Fire That Mexicans Were Soon in Disorder—The Prairie Trained Her Guns on the Mexican Positions With Telling Effect—The Mexicans Then Resorted to Housetop Fighting—All Important Positions in Vera Cruz Are Flying. Flag Huerta Refused to Salute.

Vera Cruz, April 21.—Vera Cruz tonight is in the hands of forces from the United States warships, but the occupation of the port was not accomplished without loss of American lives.

Four Americans, bluejackets and marines, were killed by the fire of the Mexican soldiers, and twenty fell wounded. The Mexican loss is not known, but it is believed to have been heavy.

The water front, the customs house and all important piers, including those under the terminal work from which extend the railroads to the capital, have been occupied. All the territory around the American consulate is strongly patrolled, and detachments hold other sections of the city.

The Mexican commander, General Gustavo Maas, offered a stubborn resistance to the American advance and for many hours there was fighting in the streets. Toward nightfall it was reported that the main body of the federal garrison was in retreat to the westward.

Over 200 Mexicans Killed

Galveston, Texas, April 21.—More than 200 Mexicans were killed at Vera Cruz today in the fighting that followed the landing of United States sailors and marines, according to information received at the cable office here.

Four United States marines were killed and twenty wounded.

WILSON ORDERED THE FLEET TO SEIZE THE MEXICAN PORT

President Saw That Senate's Delay Was Aiding Huerta and He Ordered the Fleet to Seize Vera Cruz—Not Likely to Be More Fighting at Present Unless Huerta Takes Offensive. Tampico Will Be Seized Today.

Washington, April 21.—Marines and bluejackets of the American navy today took the customs house and a large section of Vera Cruz with a loss of four killed and twenty wounded. The loss of the Mexican garrison was not officially known here tonight, but was estimated at 200 killed. This was the first step in the program of reprisal by the United States against the Huerta government for the arrest of American bluejackets at Tampico and other offenses "against the rights and dignity of the United States."

It was the first clash between forces of the United States and Mexico since revolution broke out in the southern republic in 1910, and gave the Washington government a Mexican problem.

Though fighting had not ceased at a late hour tonight, Rear Admiral Fletcher had warned the federal commander that he would use the big guns of the American fleet if his men did not stop firing. The American forces had orders to fire only to defend themselves.

HUERTA SEEKS HELP FROM REBEL LEADERS

Laredo, Texas, April 21.—It was authoritatively reported here today that two federal officers from the Nuevo Laredo garrison, bearing a flag of truce, went down the river yesterday to parley with rebel officers. Consolidation of rebels and federalists against the United States was said to be their object.
All Mexicans to Be Called.
Mexico City, April 21.—General Aureliano Blanquet, the Mexican minister of war, asked today whether the reserves would be called to the colors, replied, in due time. If it should become necessary, they will be so called, as will every citizen in Mexico.

MORE DEMANDS ON HUERTA.

The United States intends to take no offensive steps for the present. The salute to the flag which Huerta refused will not be satisfactory reparation. It is understood a declaration of apology as well as a salute and a guarantee that the rights and dignity of the United States would be respected can alone cause a withdrawal of the American forces.
While American marines and bluejackets were fighting, the senate debated the whole Mexican situation before crowded galleries. The joint

LANDING NOT OPPOSED.

Less than half an hour after leaving the side of the United States transport Prairie, the marines had landed and the absence of resistance at the water front and failure of the Mexicans to contest the taking of a position somewhat in from the water front caused the curious spectators in the street to laugh, and when one Mexican peon ran for cover, having had the temerity, to shout at the top of his voice, "Viva Mexico!" loud guffaws came from the onlookers.

But the lull was not indicative of complacency. A few shots came within a few minutes, and later a brief exchange. After another brief interval fighting in earnest began, and hour after hour the Mexicans continued to oppose the Americans fiercely in some quarters, although the main body apparently seemed ready to quit.

FIGHTING BY OUTPOSTS.

Most of the firing was done by outpost parties from roofs at various points of vantage.

The guns of the Prairie assisted the landing party. Towards evening the fighting continued, but it was more of a house-top character than a determined, organized resistance.

Finally, the Mexican soldiers, who had not been captured, killed or wounded, retreated westward.

G. F. von HERRMANN, Section Director.

The United States warships, prefaced his occupation of the port by a demand, through the American consul, W. W. Canada, for its surrender. General Maas promptly declined to accede to this demand and shortly afterwards ten whaleboats were sent off from the side of the transport Prairie loaded with marines.

These boats effected a landing in the neighborhood of the customs house before noon and a few minutes later Captain William R. Rush, of the battleship Florida, who was in command of the operations ashore, brought his flag in.

Captain Rush's men already had taken up their positions. They numbered 150 bluejackets from the Florida, 300 marines from the Prairie and 65 marines from the Florida. Later these were augmented by a detachment from the Utah.

MEXICANS WATCHED MARINES LAND.

The coming of the American forces was not heralded by any great excitement, but small crowds gathered to watch the landing. Soon the bluejackets and marines marched through the streets leading from the water front and along the railroad yards. Others proceeded to the American con-sulate, while still others were deployed along the approaches to Central Plaza, in which General Maas had concentrated his men.

These maneuvers were effected without opposition, but suddenly General Maas challenged the advance with the first shots—a volley fired from a point three blocks from the main plaza and directed south by the main plaza. The marines replied immediately, but the action ceased in a moment. There was a lull for ten minutes and then another burst of fire from the three-inch guns of Montezinos street, where a federal outpost was stationed.

At 12:30 o'clock the firing became general and at 1 o'clock the guns of the transport Prairie went into action.

Prior to this, a detachment of bluejackets from the Utah, holding the ground between the consulate and the water front, opened with two of their three-inch guns. The first shots from these pieces were directed against the ancient Benito Juarez tower, which once served as a lighthouse. This was occupied by Mexican sharpshooters. Commander Buchanan, of the Florida, ordered that it be destroyed. Five shots brought the old tower down.

Two women of the American colony in Vera Cruz had been placed aboard the chartered steamers Esperanza and Mexico, but the foreign colony, especially the women, were not in the least alarmed. Some of them remained ashore, but many were taken aboard the steamers. So far as was learned, the refugees were injured.

FIRST BUILDINGS OCCUPIED.

The postoffice, government telegraph office and the cable office were the first buildings occupied after the town house. A detachment of marines was in charge of the cable office. The telegraph wires were found intact, and enough Mexican operators were retained to man the lines to Mexico.

After General Maas had been driven from his position in Central Plaza, the Americans found themselves the object of fusillades from the tops of houses. It was learned that somewhere in the sand hills back of the interior, where it is reported from Mexican sources, they are expecting to be joined by reinforcements sent down from the capital.

GUNS OF PRAIRIE ROUTED MEXICANS.

This withdrawal, however, was not entirely unopposed. Those watching on the ships observed through their glasses a large force of Mexicans moving in the hills in the western outskirts of the city, apparently with the intention of flanking a battalion of marines in the railway yards and along continuing fighting which raged east and west not far from the American consulate.

Instantly the five-inch guns of the Prairie belched forth breaking the Mexican formation and causing a heavy retreat. This ended the flanking movement.

Only a few minutes before the three-inch guns of the Prairie were used effectively near shore a small detachment of Mexicans had gained positions near the customs house and their concealed marksmen were causing some trouble. A few shots from the Prairie guns silenced them. From time to time the same guns played their shells along the line of the shore, keeping the territory comparatively free of sharpshooters.

In the action about the customs house, two bluejackets in a launch that carried a rapid-firer were wounded.

MAAS IS ASKED TO SURRENDER.

With all the eastern side of the city occupied and also the tracks of the railway as far west as the roundhouse, near the western edge of the main plaza, and with the Mexicans unable to do more than keep up an annoying fire from housetops, Captain Rush at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon sent, under a flag of truce a native messenger to General Maas or whoever happened to be in command to ask if he would surrender. It was learned that unless the Mexicans yielded Captain Rush had his choice of continuing fighting under the tactics he was using or of charging all positions, or of calling on the warships for a bombardment.

Captain Rush was loath to resort to a bombardment and did not desire to lose any more men by charges. He recognized that the tactics of the Mexicans might leave the housetop fighters in their position indefinitely and that it was not impossible that those who were sniping from the roofs might be reinforced during the night.

The messenger was told to remind General Maas that while there were ashore at that time only a few more than 1,000 men, there would be available for the American forces by morning some 10,000. It was left to General Maas to draw his own inference from this message.

There was no cannon firing from the Mexican side and it is supposed their artillery pieces were taken from the city early in the day.

Bravely were they everywhere among the Americans. The youngsters wearing the bluejackets of their vessels behaved as well under fire as the marines, who all along the line commanded themselves. In the earlier part of the engagements small detachments of marines and the central part of the city stood without flinching while bullets sang about their ears.

SURRENDER WAS DEMANDED.

The demand for the surrender of Vera Cruz was made by Rear Admiral Fletcher through Consul Canada at 9 o'clock in the morning. The consul called General Gustavo Maas, commander of Vera Cruz, by telephone and presented the demands, saying that the United States forces were about to occupy and hold the town and to urge upon him to surrender in the name of humanity and assist the Americans in restoring order.

General Maas replied that compliance was impossible and asked the consul for a personal parley.

The consul informed General Maas that he had no instructions to grant a parley, and ended the conversation. He then advised the consul that the customs collector by telephone and informed them of the prospective landing and asked for their co-operation in the maintenance of peace.

The consul inquired if requested time, in order to attend to certain duties, and neither could promise assistance.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, aboard the battleship Florida, by this time was in communication with Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the fleet, who was heading toward this port with five warships. Admiral Fletcher decided to take action, and early in the morning the side of the transport Prairie shortly before 6 o'clock they entered ten whaleboats and effected a landing within half an hour at the customs house and No. 2 pier, which extends almost from the center of the shore line into the port and terminal works.

MUNITIONS BARRED TO GENERAL HUERTA.

Information that President Huerta was counting on receiving from the steamer Virago of the Hamble-American line, due to arrive today, a big consignment of ammunition, rifles and machine guns, has led to the occupation of the customs house somewhat earlier than might otherwise have been expected. The ship is outside the harbor. She has on board, among other supplies, 10,000 rounds of ammunition, machine guns and other munitions.

President Huerta has been making every effort to safeguard this consignment and has had the munitions unloaded immediately, placed on a special train drawn by two locomotives and rushed the capital.

SOME AMERICAN WOMEN IN THE FIRING LINES

Washington, April 21.—Consul Canada, at Vera Cruz, reported to the state department tonight that several American women, including some women who had refused to go aboard refugee ships, are now in hotels within the firing line.

Consul Canada's report follows: "At 11:30 o'clock this morning the Americans taking possession of cable office, telegraph office and customs house, also secured terminals and yard with rolling stock. Notwithstanding the firing, the Americans were masters of the situation so far without use of heavy guns. Our men were simply defeated. Some resistance from naval vessels soon silenced by guns on Prairie.

"The report of our four of our men killed and twenty wounded, American newspaper men and several American civilians, including some women, who refused to go aboard refugee ships, are now in hotels within the firing line. Trains from Mexico City did not arrive."

WILSON ORDERED VERA CRUZ SEIZED

resolution that passed the house supporting the president's proposal to use the army and navy to obtain reparation was being debated in the senate at midnight with prospect of an all-night session. Many republican senators wanted the resolution broadened to authorize steps to obtain reparation for all offenses committed against Americans in Mexico.

The administration senators fought this as tantamount to a declaration of war, saying the United States had no quarrel with the Mexican people, but with the Huerta government controlling a small portion of it.

The administration senators fought this as tantamount to a declaration of war, saying the United States had no quarrel with the Mexican people, but with the Huerta government controlling a small portion of it.

WILSON ACTED ON PRECEDENT

The president went ahead on the authority of the executive, in accord with precedent, because he believed an emergency existed. He gave Rear Admiral Fletcher authority to seize the Vera Cruz customs house to prevent the landing there today by a German merchant vessel of a big consignment of arms and ammunition for the Huerta government. Secretary Bryan conferred with the German ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, and it is believed the influence of the German government was hoped to avert the consignment from landing elsewhere in Mexico and complicating the situation. The ship carries fifteen million rounds of ammunition and thousands of rifles.

The president conferred with the secretaries of war, state and navy early tonight. No army orders were issued. Rear Admiral Badger was ordered to Tampico, where another customs house may be seized. The president intends to act slowly to force Huerta to give up the arms and munitions. With the taking of the railroad for a few miles inland from Vera Cruz and the two custom houses, it is believed no other aggressive steps will be taken.

ARMY AND NAVY IN READINESS.

Many officials admit that offensive action by Huerta may draw the American forces into a conflict tantamount to war. All preparation possible has been made by the army and navy. No orders have gone out to state militias, nor has the naval militia been called upon.

Joint plans of the army and navy were made over the departments during the night and the wireless, cable and the telegraph carried scores of government orders over land and sea, making preparations for all eventualities.

The national capital was thrilled with excitement. Crowds thronged the streets to listen to the debate. Newspaper bulletins were eagerly read by thousands, as were the frequent extra editions. In executive quarters clerks and officers were busy at their desks after midnight and the whole executive machinery of the government was adjusted to the Mexican crisis.

Rear Admiral Fletcher's dispatch came by cable and reached here at 6 p. m. A hurried conference was called at the white house. President Wilson, Secretary Daniels, Secretary Garrison and Daniels. They were in conference for an hour, emerging serious-faced.

"First blood has been spilled," said the white house official.

FLETCHER TELLS OF THE FIGHT.

Secretary Daniels made public the following dispatch, received from Admiral Fletcher at 6 p. m.:

"Tuesday, in face of approaching northern, landed marines and sailors from the battleships Utah, Florida and transport Prairie and seized customs house.

"Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifles and artillery after our seizure of customs house Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their positions. Desultory firing from housetops and streets.

"Held customs house and section of city to which were sent arms and supplies. Casualties: Four dead and twenty wounded."

"When this statement had been issued, Secretaries Daniels and Garrison left the white house.

"I hope it is all over," said Mr. Garrison. "I think they tried to save their faces in retreat. I don't expect any more."

A dispatch from Admiral Fletcher, under date of 4 p. m. today, received at 7:29 p. m., announced that desultory firing was still in progress. He said he was holding part of Vera Cruz in the vicinity of railroad yard, the customs house and consulate. All rolling stock of the railroad, he said, was safe.

NO U. S. REFUGEES WERE INJURED.

Vera Cruz, April 21.—Rear Admiral Fletcher had landed marines at Vera Cruz from the American warships. There was fighting, and Consul Canada called upon General Maas and Antonio Villavenencia, the Jefe politico, to assist the American landing and maintaining order. General Maas refused.

No American refugees were injured. Most of the American civilians had gone on board the steamers, though many remained ashore.

NAMES OF KILLED AT VERA CRUZ.

Galveston, Texas, April 21.—Information received at the cable office here confirms the Washington report that the battleship Utah, Connecticut, the cable office and customs house in Vera Cruz and that four marines were killed and twenty wounded.

Those killed were Coxswain Snowball, Corporal Haggerty and Sergeant Foussett, all of the battleship Florida. The name of the fourth man could not be learned.

The wounded includes C. L. Leahy, U. S. Marine, C. D. Cameron, J. F. Fless, seaman of the Florida; Electrician Geismann, of the Florida; and D. D. McMillan, private, Second marine regiment from the transport Prairie.

The navy department announced that the United States forces in Vera Cruz and vicinity consisted of the battleships Utah, Florida, Connecticut, Minnesota and the cruisers San Francisco and Chester; gunboat Dolphin, transports Prairie and Hancock, hospital ship Solace and collier Cyclops, and the chartered steamers, Esperanza and Mexico.

The concentration of forces, totaling about 7,000 sailors and nearly 2,000 marines, is made up of Rear Admiral Fletcher's fleet, which has been ordered from Tampico late yesterday, and the ships which Rear Admiral Fletcher has had at Vera Cruz for many weeks.

ADMIRAL BADGER REACHES VERA CRUZ.

Rear Admiral Badger, with the first ships of the Atlantic fleet, reached Vera Cruz tonight, having been diverted from Tampico, where only the cruiser Des Moines remains.

The air had been filled with all sorts of sensational rumors during the day. Officials were nervously expectant. State department advices late in the day made no mention of fighting, but spoke of an evacuation by the federal government.

Rear Admiral Fletcher's report came in quick time from Vera Cruz, however, describing briefly what had taken place. Cabinet secretaries, who received the report, immediately with President Wilson for nearly an hour, showed, by their demeanor, that the loss of life and bloodshed had affected them.

Information, which came from sources close to the cabinet council, indicated that the president exercised self-restraint and calmly determined that with the seizure of Vera Cruz and the prevention of shipments of arms from reaching Huerta, further steps would not be taken by the American government for the present. The future depends upon action by the Huerta authorities. Secretary Garrison announced emphatically that no troop movements had been ordered.

READY FOR RUSH TO MEXICO CITY.

Critics did not believe Huerta would place the offensive against Mexico City at about 3,000 or 4,000 men, and army and navy officers believe the American forces, if necessary, would be able to reach the Mexican capital without serious difficulty.

The bulk of General Huerta's army is in the north fighting the constitutionalists.

Just what was the purpose of diverting Rear Admiral Badger from Tampico to Vera Cruz has not been made known, but as it leaves Tampico with one American ship, it is believed that the American navalists are making ready to take the port.

Rear Admiral Badger, on being ordered to proceed direct to Vera Cruz, ordered also diverted the fourteen torpedo destroyers to Vera Cruz. These will be of much use in approaching close to the town and in blockade duty.

The navy department announced that the battleship Utah, the transport Prairie and the ship Arkansas has been ordered from Vera Cruz to Tampico. The ships which arrived with him—the Louisiana, the Hampshire, Vermont, New Jersey, South Carolina and Michigan—were divided, according to his discretion.

AMBASSADORS CALLED BY BRYAN.

The foreign ambassadors in Washington were summoned during the day by Secretary Bryan and informed of the developments. The German, French, British, Italian, Japanese and Spanish ambassadors had separate conferences with Mr. Bryan. Later the Chinese minister talked with the secretary. All declined to talk, but it is understood they were given the same information transmitted abroad to American embassies and legations, being especially told that the American government would not attempt to confiscate goods in the customs house at Vera Cruz, but merely would detain shipments, giving the shippers an opportunity to recover their property. There will be no attempt to interfere with foreign vessels, but it is believed the American fleet will keep a close watch on ships which might be carrying arms to Mexican ports, seizing their cargoes after they are landed.

ARMY IS READY FOR MARCH ORDER.

While the army has received no orders to move, should it become apparent there will be resistance to the holding of Vera Cruz, the four army transports at Galveston, carrying four or five thousand troops, will be ordered under way.

Cavalry Colonel J. E. Bailey, of the coast artillery, will command the first detachment from Galveston when sent, and will be followed by Major General Wood in supreme command.

As term as chief of staff expires tonight, the movement of troops would bring into play the plans of the joint army and navy board. Ever since the war between the states there has been controversy over the rank of army and navy officers in joint operations. A scheme has been worked out to prevent friction. Five thousand marines, more than half of the corps, will be assembled on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Mexico and take a prominent part in the American government's plans.

Representative Butler, of Pennsylvania, whose son is an officer of marines at Vera Cruz, was at the navy department seeking information about the killed and wounded. There were tears in his eyes as he left. He said he had heard the marines probably would march on Mexico City.

Secretary Bryan tonight, as a precaution, had extra police sent to guard the Mexican embassy here. There was no sign of disturbances, but it was thought best to take the precaution.

No dispatches were received, so far as known, tonight from Charge, O'Shaughnessy.

The fighting at Vera Cruz had raised much speculation in some quarters as to the possibility of anti-American uprisings in the Mexican capital.

MORE WARSHIPS TO VERA CRUZ.

Washington, April 21.—Secretary Daniels announced late today that Rear Admiral Mayo, with his battleship Connecticut and most of the other vessels under his command at Tampico, had steamed for Vera Cruz. All the ships of Rear Admiral Badger's fleet had been ordered to go directly to Vera Cruz.

PATRIOTIC TIDE RUNS STRONG IN CHICAGO

Chicago, April 21.—News that the house had passed the resolution authorizing President Wilson to use armed forces to compel respect to the Stars and Stripes was met with cheers by throngs in Chicago theaters and cafes last night.

Theater and news from Washington was flashed on a screen as the orchestra began to play "The Star Spangled Banner" and the music was drowned by cheers.

A demonstration lasting fifteen minutes occurred in the city when an actress appeared on the stage carrying a large American flag. "Sing with me," she called to the audience. The orchestra played "America" and every person in the house stood up and sang with her. "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," "Maryland," "The Star Spangled Banner" followed in quick succession, and the audience gave three cheers for President Wilson.

Shortly before midnight a student on the campus at Northwestern University blew the whistle. Inside of five minutes 400 shouting, singing students had piled out of their beds and formed a parade. The students marched in company with the police to the hall of the girls' dormitory, and the codes were aroused by the strains of "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Announcement was made at the University of Chicago that should war be declared, students in the city who enlisted and went to the front would be given credit for a full year's work and would be graduated.

AVIATOR TOWERS GOES FOR SERVICE IN MEXICO

Rome, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—That plans are being made to use the aviation corps of the United States navy in the Mexican campaign was made apparent today by the receipt of a telegram from John H. Towers, aviator. It is a lieutenant in the navy and is at the head of the aviation corps of the United States navy. Lieutenant Towers states that he has been ordered to report to the battleship Utah at Vera Cruz, where he will work at Pensacola, Fla.

AMERICAN TROOPS TAKEN PRISONERS BY MEXIC REBELS

Fifteen Members of Tenth Cavalry Wander Across the Boundary Line and Are at Once Seized.

Douglas, Ariz., April 21.—It is reported that a detachment of fifteen members of the Tenth United States Cavalry has been held prisoners by the constitutionalists.

The troops, who were on border patrol, wandered across the line last night without being aware of the fact. It is reported they were surrounded and taken prisoners by a large rebel detachment. Troop A, Tenth, left Fort Huachuca today to investigate.

The men are said to be held at a point just below the border, between Naco and Hereford, Ariz.

Report Is Denied.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 21.—A denial that any United States soldiers had been captured by Mexican constitutionalists below the border near Naco was issued tonight by Colonel John C. Graham, commander of the American soldiers at Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

MEXICANS ARE ARMING TO RESIST INVASION

Eagle Pass, Texas, April 21.—At a mass meeting of Mexican citizens in Piedras Negras today, five hundred volunteers were organized and armed to resist what they called the expected invasion of the United States. Rederals occupy Piedras Negras.

The rifles that were issued are the same guns that were taken from the federals at Ojinaga by the American troops. They were recently brought to Piedras Negras and returned to the commanding officer.

Consul Buchanan requested all Americans not to cross the river. Several street meetings were held in Eagle Pass, with several troops of speakers were made against the Ameri-

One speaker declared that if the United States intervened in Mexico, every American on Mexican soil would be killed.

A large shipment of ammunition was received by the American troops here today. At present, these include one regiment of infantry, one battery of field artillery and one troop of cavalry in Eagle Pass, with several troops of cavalry patrolling the border within a few miles.

BOYS FORCE MEXICANS TO SALUTE THE FLAG

Topeka, Kan., April 21.—Five hundred schoolboys, who deserted their class rooms to parade through the streets headed by an American flag and a file and drum corps today forced a dozen track laborers, evidently Mexicans, to salute the flag.

Eighty Years of Faithful Service to the American Public

The Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company has the enviable record of eighty years of faithful service to the American public. Bear this fact in mind when you get ready to buy a car, for it operates as insurance of quality.

No thoughtful business man ever buys a commodity or a luxury or a necessity without looking into the character of the men who make it. This rule of trade is more imperative in the purchase of an automobile than almost anything else you can name.

Eighty years of faithful service is an asset of no uncertain value. This company held the respect of the early settlers of the western country because of absolutely honest merchandise in the shape of farm wagons. It established its standing before automobiles were known. When it embarked in the automobile business, it clung to the policy that made its farm wagon business famous. And its automobiles are famous, for the same satisfying reason.

You've got something behind you when you buy. Our standing and prestige constitute a bulwark of safety. Add to this the remarkably fine character of the Mitchell Models and your purchase is as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar. Ask any farmer in America what he thinks of the old Mitchell-Lewis Wagon Company. Ask any one of thirty thousand Mitchell automobile owners what he thinks of the Mitchell-Lewis Motor Company. Their reputation and reliability are precisely the same.

resolution that passed the house supporting the president's proposal to use the army and navy to obtain reparation was being debated in the senate at midnight with prospect of an all-night session. Many republican senators wanted the resolution broadened to authorize steps to obtain reparation for all offenses committed against Americans in Mexico.

The administration senators fought this as tantamount to a declaration of war, saying the United States had no quarrel with the Mexican people, but with the Huerta government controlling a small portion of it.

The administration senators fought this as tantamount to a declaration of war, saying the United States had no quarrel with the Mexican people, but with the Huerta government controlling a small portion of it.

WILSON ACTED ON PRECEDENT

The president went ahead on the authority of the executive, in accord with precedent, because he believed an emergency existed. He gave Rear Admiral Fletcher authority to seize the Vera Cruz customs house to prevent the landing there today by a German merchant vessel of a big consignment of arms and ammunition for the Huerta government. Secretary Bryan conferred with the German ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, and it is believed the influence of the German government was hoped to avert the consignment from landing elsewhere in Mexico and complicating the situation. The ship carries fifteen million rounds of ammunition and thousands of rifles.

The president conferred with the secretaries of war, state and navy early tonight. No army orders were issued. Rear Admiral Badger was ordered to Tampico, where another customs house may be seized. The president intends to act slowly to force Huerta to give up the arms and munitions. With the taking of the railroad for a few miles inland from Vera Cruz and the two custom houses, it is believed no other aggressive steps will be taken.

ARMY AND NAVY IN READINESS.

Many officials admit that offensive action by Huerta may draw the American forces into a conflict tantamount to war. All preparation possible has been made by the army and navy. No orders have gone out to state militias, nor has the naval militia been called upon.

Joint plans of the army and navy were made over the departments during the night and the wireless, cable and the telegraph carried scores of government orders over land and sea, making preparations for all eventualities.

The national capital was thrilled with excitement. Crowds thronged the streets to listen to the debate. Newspaper bulletins were eagerly read by thousands, as were the frequent extra editions. In executive quarters clerks and officers were busy at their desks after midnight and the whole executive machinery of the government was adjusted to the Mexican crisis.

Rear Admiral Fletcher's dispatch came by cable and reached here at 6 p. m. A hurried conference was called at the white house. President Wilson, Secretary Daniels, Secretary Garrison and Daniels. They were in conference for an hour, emerging serious-faced.

"First blood has been spilled," said the white house official.

FLETCHER TELLS OF THE FIGHT.

Secretary Daniels made public the following dispatch, received from Admiral Fletcher at 6 p. m.:

"Tuesday, in face of approaching northern, landed marines and sailors from the battleships Utah, Florida and transport Prairie and seized customs house.

"Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifles and artillery after our seizure of customs house Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their positions. Desultory firing from housetops and streets.

"Held customs house and section of city to which were sent arms and supplies. Casualties: Four dead and twenty wounded."

"When this statement had been issued, Secretaries Daniels and Garrison left the white house.

"I hope it is all over," said Mr. Garrison. "I think they tried to save their faces in retreat. I don't expect any more."

A dispatch from Admiral Fletcher, under date of 4 p. m. today, received at 7:29 p. m., announced that desultory firing was still in progress. He said he was holding part of Vera Cruz in the vicinity of railroad yard, the customs house and consulate. All rolling stock of the railroad, he said, was safe.

NO U. S. REFUGEES WERE INJURED.

Vera Cruz, April 21.—Rear Admiral Fletcher had landed marines at Vera Cruz from the American warships. There was fighting, and Consul Canada called upon General Maas and Antonio Villavenencia, the Jefe politico, to assist the American landing and maintaining order. General Maas refused.

No American refugees were injured. Most of the American civilians had gone on board the steamers, though many remained ashore.

NAMES OF KILLED AT VERA CRUZ.

Galveston, Texas, April 21.—Information received at the cable office here confirms the Washington report that the battleship Utah, Connecticut, the cable office and customs house in Vera Cruz and that four marines were killed and twenty wounded.

Those killed were Coxswain Snowball, Corporal Haggerty and Sergeant Foussett, all of the battleship Florida. The name of the fourth man could not be learned.

The wounded includes C. L. Leahy, U. S. Marine, C. D. Cameron, J. F. Fless, seaman of the Florida; Electrician Geismann, of the Florida; and D. D. McMillan, private, Second marine regiment from the transport Prairie.

The navy department announced that the United States forces in Vera Cruz and vicinity consisted of the battleships Utah, Florida, Connecticut, Minnesota and the cruisers San Francisco and Chester; gunboat Dolphin, transports Prairie and Hancock, hospital ship Solace and collier Cyclops, and the chartered steamers, Esperanza and Mexico.

The concentration of forces, totaling about 7,000 sailors and nearly 2,000 marines, is made up of Rear Admiral Fletcher's fleet, which has been ordered from Tampico late yesterday, and the ships which Rear Admiral Fletcher has had at Vera Cruz for many weeks.

ADMIRAL BADGER REACHES VERA CRUZ.

Rear Admiral Badger, with the first ships of the Atlantic fleet, reached Vera Cruz tonight, having been diverted from Tampico, where only the cruiser Des Moines remains.

The air had been filled with all sorts of sensational rumors during the day. Officials were nervously expectant. State department advices late in the day made no mention of fighting,

RAILROADS ARE CUT TO MEXICAN CAPITAL

Trains Bearing Refugee Americans Are Held Up—Many Americans in Capital.

Vera Cruz, April 21.—The second section of the morning train from Mexico City filled with refugee Americans and a special train of refugees have both been held up somewhere along the road to Vera Cruz, presumably by General Maas.

Telegraphic communication with Mexico City was cut tonight, and it is assumed that the railroads also are cut.

WOODROW WILSON WINS IN THE SENATE

A state of war now exists between the United States and Mexico. The senate on motion of Senator Shively voted to lay on the table the amendment.

CABINET MEN HEARD DEBATE.

As the shuttle of debate was thrown back and forth a full quorum of the house of representatives crowded the rear of the senate hall.

Spring-Rice, of Great Britain, at their head. As the hours dragged along and the news from Vera Cruz spread through Washington, throngs of fashionably gowned women and spectators of every walk of life, packed the galleries and crowded the corridors of the senate wing of the capitol.

REPUBLICANS LED BY ROOT.

The republican side of the senate, led by Senator Root, demanded that the "justification" proposed in the resolution for a movement in force against Mexico be founded not on the Tampico incident, but on the long series of outrages against American citizens and their property, including the outrages in northern Mexico, where constitutionalists are in control.

Senators Reed and James vigorously defended the committee resolution, declaring the insult of the flag at Tampico justified all that the resolution provided for.

Senators Open Debate.

Opening debate on the resolution, Mr. Lodge declared: "In a situation of high seriousness, such as now confronts congress, it is well to remember the responsibility of the senate. Neither peace nor war can be made without the consent of the senate. The power to declare war rests under the constitution with the congress."

"When the president lays an international controversy before congress he takes the last step that precedes war," continued Senator Lodge. "The president might have taken further steps, but he has come to the body which alone has power to declare war. I think he has done well. With congress in session it was right that he should take no further steps without consulting congress."

Senator Lodge recounted the legislative proceedings which led up to passage of the Spanish war resolution and Senator Williams asked how long it took congress to pass that.

"It took much more than one day," replied Senator La Follette. "The resolution took from April 11 to April 19 to pass the resolution."

After an argument with Senator Williams over the attitude of Democrats in congress as to the Spanish war resolutions, Senator Lodge took up the resolution.

This resolution uses the word "justify" instead of "authorize," he said. "The result will be the same." This resolution does not contemplate the declaration of war. The president in his message disclaimed all hostility toward the Mexican people. But this resolution carries with it armed intervention.

"The consequences of armed intervention are in many respects precisely the same as war. But they present a task less capable of speedy completion; less fertile in specific glory of victories won and may bring a long period of the exercise of what would be police power in a foreign country, involving vast expenditures, great loss of life perhaps, and after months, and possibly years, possibly only the satisfaction of feeling that we had brought back peace and order and liberty to a distracted country."

After reviewing the Tampico incident Senator Lodge declared: "There is no doubt in my mind that that incident at Tampico constituted an insult to the American flag and that such an insult to pass unnoticed, it is its duty to seek proper atonement and reparation in form of such atonement is universally recognized. It is a salute to the flag of the offending nation. But that salute is a governmental act. All party lines disappear in the demand for amends for such an insult, and we all stand behind the president's demand for atonement."

Senator Lodge resented any imputation that the republicans were dealing in proper regard for the honor of the flag.

Senator Shively said the pending resolution was of "paramount importance." Referring to the Lodge preamble, Senator Shively declared: "This proposed preamble would transform this resolution into a declaration of war. If we are to make a declaration of war then let us make it. Let us not attempt the swindling Phariseism of citing facts which justify war and instant war then adopt that resolution in the name of peace and to declare a half-dozen reasons why war should be declared with Mexico and to adding the resolution to declare our purpose not to do so."

"There can be no question as to what the natural effect of this resolution would be if addressed to any great power of the world. All the recitations of this resolution are to blame who are not to blame. It is a declaration of war in the preamble against the entire Mexican people. The resolution is a declaration of war in the preamble against the entire Mexican people. The resolution is a declaration of war in the preamble against the entire Mexican people."

on Huerta until either Huerta salutes that flag or Huerta becomes an American prisoner; or Huerta were to die." "The sergeant-at-arms removed about 10 o'clock."

Average Insult and Get Out.

Senator Williams said that he was willing to enforce respect for the flag, but when that was done he believed the United States should get out of Mexico.

"I don't want 10,000,000 gringos in the American nation," he said, "either as a permanent population or as co-equal citizens."

"If you once get into Mexico, it will be hard to get out of there again," he said. "I am for the committee resolution because of this assassin, this brute, who is now in authority in Mexico, should salute the flag before we go into Mexico, we would not have the resolution under the Lodge resolution we would have to go."

Senator Williams said that he would rather make it narrower. The senator from Massachusetts wants the resolution on such broad grounds that it will be sufficient to make us stay in Mexico. He is not sure that if Huerta dies, if Huerta is assassinated, if Huerta is killed, the flag, we can come on home."

"Does the senator regard an insult to the American flag as an American government, representing American sovereignty, as a trivial offense?" demanded Senator Williams.

"It is not trivial," said Senator Williams. "I do not place the insult to the American flag on a par with many other things. It is a serious thing. It is a thing that we should not take lightly. It is a thing that we should not take lightly."

Senator Williams said that senators who are anxious for war may well wait until the resolution is tried as a means of peace.

"I submit that the reasons are many and solid, why the substitute should not be adopted," Senator Shively continued. "It can do no good. It has a tendency to defeat its very purpose of the resolution. It is never too late to recite all these things if the last dread resort should come. But if we are to try to avoid a general armed conflict I contend it is a bad thing to recite all your grievances," said Senator Shively.

Senator Williams, in support of the committee resolution, said that the United States is not yet fully civilized.

"The time may come," he said, "when the arrest of a boat fly would be laughed at as cause of war. But today, if the United States overlooked an insult to the flag, he would have been condemned from every hill and valley in the United States."

"I want," said Senator Williams, "this resolution to be so worded that the world shall know it shall be war."

capt a dispute about the number of guns." As Senator Root paused he raised his hands heavenward, and turning to the senators about him, said: "How can we justify ourselves if we have belittled?"

Senators Hear Speeches.

"Lying behind that condition of anarchy in Mexico, a condition which makes it impossible to secure protection for American life and property, the back of the president is a condition of things in Mexico which absolutely presents the protection of American lives and property through respect for the American flag, the American uniform, the American government."

"There is our justification. It is a justification lying not in Victorianism, or in the universal conduct of affairs in Mexico, and the real object to be attained by the United States is to be asked to approve is not the gratification of personal pride; it is not the desire to see the American flag flying in the air, it is the desire of the United States to protect its citizens under these conditions."

Tension in the chamber increased as Senator Root, in a voice that sank lower and lower, reached his conclusion and pleaded for greater justification than a mere dispute over the formal ceremony of a salute for the use of force.

"If we omit from this resolution that we are to pass tonight," he said, "the clause which includes in the substitute preamble, we omit the real reasons behind the action. On the facts in the resolution as reported by the committee we would be evaluating wrong. On the facts in the substitute we could rear before the world and before history secure."

Galeries Were Erected. "A Mr. President," he said in a voice that sank almost to a whisper, and the galleries leaned forward breathlessly to the capture of Vera Cruz, the wounds and the suffering of those who lie there tonight, demand something more far more than a formal insult, for justification. The weak in the face of death and suffering in Vera Cruz tonight, the substitute preamble is weak, but it gives formal, adequate grounds, for the great formidable movement of the great naval and military power of the government. It gives the justification that is needed."

Secretary Bryan sat on the floor of the senate and heard most of Senator Root's speech. Secretary McAdoo reached the senate chamber just as Mr. Root ended. He took a seat on the floor. Secretary Lane was in the diplomatic gallery.

Senator Reed began: "I say, with all respect to the senator from New York that it is not a condition over the number of guns; it is over a much graver question. The number of guns fired under certain circumstances is answer to the question of whether a proper apology has been made or not. This is the first notice to my knowledge that the de facto government had insulted our flag."

On Majesty of Government. "The least any nation could do would be to apologize and do the thing that is demanded in such circumstances. We are not standing on punctilio, we are standing on the majesty of this government."

"It may be unhappy that blood has been spilled at Vera Cruz, it may be its ruddy drops will stain every acre of Mexico, but at the other end of this capitol there sits a man who believes that this fire may yet be circumscribed within the territory now controlled by Huerta. But you on the other side who would write into this resolution your preamble, would declare war against all of Mexico and force an invasion of every foot of Mexican soil."

Senator Root asked what would have been done if a similar incident had occurred in an English, French or German port. He said that any such dispute could be settled by peaceful negotiations.

"We are to justify. What is the issue here? The issue is not the number of guns, it is the issue of the great democracy that prides itself before the world that democracy can be faithful and just. Is there no justification that we can lay before the world before the judgment seat of history, ex-

IF WE GO INTO MEXICO.

If the United States must penetrate Mexico to uphold the dignity of the flag and the nation, will we oppose a nation united or a nation divided?

Francisco de la Barra, representative of the old Mexican standpat element, says all Mexico will unite, once American troops or marines enter her territory.

On the other hand, both Villa and Carranza, the constitutionalist generals to the north, declare that Huerta's quarrel is not their quarrel, that if the United States occupies Tampico and Vera Cruz, they will lose no sleep, so long as the stars and stripes do not cross the Rio Grande or interfere with their particular jurisdiction.

The situation is emphatically "on the knees of the gods."

What any one Mexican of any class says in the face of present conditions cannot be considered as conclusive.

It may be that the United States can confine the scope of its operations to the territory dominated by Huerta. If so, the process of pacification will be simplified.

It may be that the constitutionalists will be alarmed at the headway this country makes, at the possible threat to their absolute dominance of the country.

In that event, they might join hands with their hated foes, the federals under Huerta.

Should that crisis arise, the United States would face all of Mexico unbattled, the rebels fighting side by side with the Huertistas.

These contingencies are all uncertainty. The only thing that is certain is that the United States must be prepared to meet all conditions.

In that connection, the swift and complete preparations authorized by Wilson are encouraging.

He is making it manifest that if we are compelled to go into Mexico, it will be with an adequate force, by land and sea, and prepared to push matters to a conclusion as soon as expediency dictates.

Whatever happens, it is assured Huerta will be eliminated.

And to the extent that Huerta has been the evil genius of all Mexico his elimination will clear away one of the obstinate obstacles to permanent pacification.

YOUR GRAND OPERA SEATS.

A percentage of Atlantans and persons living outside of Atlanta who have made single performance reservations to grand opera have not as yet taken up their tickets. The management wisely emphasizes the importance of so doing at once.

Reservations unclaimed will shortly be placed on open sale.

Judging from the low rates granted by the railroads from every part of the south the attendance during the week will be of record proportions.

The persons who have not made provisions for the operas they care to hear, or who have made reservations and not yet validated them, are risking the inconvenience of the eleventh hour scramble, with no guarantee that they will secure good seats.

A little foresight will obviate this danger and simplify the work of the management, arduous enough at best, in scientifically handling the crowds.

BLUNDERING BLEASE.

Cole Blease of South Carolina stars again in his role of blunderer at the expense of the dignity and profit of his state.

The war department had planned to have the state troops of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, hold their annual encampment on the Isle of Palms, off Charleston. All went swimmingly, and the various commands were enthusiastic over the prospect of an encampment that would probably register high water mark on standpoints of pleasure and the opportunity to strengthen their efficiency.

Bleaze spoiled it all. He saw fit to construe some of the stipulations of the war department as a personal reflection, though he more or less deftly says it is the state of South Carolina and not himself that is affronted.

He has on the strength of his wounded feelings written several characteristic letters to the war department.

The war department, finding it impossible to treat with Blease, announces it will hold the encampments in some state other than South Carolina.

The merchants of Charleston lose the profit that would accrue from entertaining several regiments of soldiers.

The state of South Carolina loses the honor of being host for the occasion. In addition, it has to endure the humiliation of being again placarded to the nation as remiss in ordinary courtesy.

Neither the mountebank nor the demagogue are lovely in politics. A combination is appalling. We commiserate South Carolina.

CLEAN UP THESE MONUMENTS.
 The Walker and McPherson monuments in the Grant Park section of the city should be cleaned and made presentable in advance of Grand Opera week and the coming of the Shriners.

The two shafts represent notable figures in the battles around Atlanta.

Both are the objects of interest by visitors from north and south.

Visitors from north, east, south and west will throng Atlanta during Grand Opera week and Shriners' week.

They will want to do homage to the mutual valor of Blue and Gray, as they will want to do homage to Henry Grady, the evangel of reconciliation, whose memory is perpetuated by a statue that adorns the most spacious street in Atlanta.

It will be a sorry commentary upon civic spirit and common patriotism in Atlanta if our visitors find all or any one of these monuments grimy, unkempt, breathing signs of neglect.

Atlanta is not a city that forgets. Atlanta appreciates the services and the heroism of the men who have gone before.

But Atlanta is a city that is busy, that now and then needs reminder as to the smaller amenities of appearances.

Time and again, the municipality has through inadvertence justified the inference that her people did not appreciate gifts commemorating the deeds of great men.

That quasi-stigma should be wiped out. It should be wiped out before either of the two big approaching events.

There is no time to be lost. The few dollars needed for this work will be among the best investments the city of Atlanta could make.

MILD-MANNERED MARS.
 The man in love with practical psychology will find food for interesting reflection in the types of presidents holding office in this country during the more recent of our important wars.

War is associated with belligerency of disposition, thunders and lightnings of temperament.

Regard Woodrow Wilson. A mild-mannered man has rarely occupied the executive chair. His demeanor is invariably that of peace.

Yet here he is, by fate or Providence, placed in menacing juxtaposition with a broil with Mexico.

McKinley was among the sweetest-tempered, most pacific of men. Political experts claimed that much of his success in public life was traceable to his winning disposition and his knack for oiling the troubled waters. Yet McKinley was the guiding influence in our war with poor old Spain.

Consider Lincoln, even. In some respects the most remarkable figure of the most remarkable civic strife in the world's history, he was proverbially a man of gentle habit, not going out of his way to provoke strife, mourning always the cataclysm the civil war brought the north as well as the south.

Flint and steel reside in the composition of many of these mild-mannered, easy-spoken statesmen. The swaggerer in public life, the maker of loud noises is naturally he to whom we would turn as exemplifying Mars and the practices of Mars.

Yet with the sole exception of our fiasco Mexican war in '46, the wars in which this country has engaged since 1812 have been administered by men notable for peace and concord.

Fate chooses baffling instruments. For instance, Kaiser Wilhelm, who breathes threatenings and slaughter and loves to be called the "war lord," has been Europe's greatest agency for peace since the Franco-Prussian war.

Between the devil and the deep sea, is it any wonder the wild Huerta does the crazy act?

Villa rages at the thought of intervention. He fears it will defeat his sworn purpose to hang Huerta.

Congressmen are further away than ever from an opportunity to leave Washington and renew their acquaintance with the homefolks.

The war-scream of the eagle has frightened the Peace Dove from the firing line.

When John Lind retires he will not accept the presidency of an institute for the deaf and dumb. His peculiar sign-language would not be understood there.

The Arizona Bird.

What dat Peace Dove hull his nes? He fly ter de East, and he fly ter de West, An' he des can't fin' no place ter nes, An' he lonesome—mighty lonesome!

He see de war-smoke, black an' blue, An' he say it's a purty howdy-do Wen de bungshell ax him: "What is you?" An' he lonesome—mighty lonesome!

Wonder if Mercedith Nicholson didn't write this tribute to the word, "sweetheart," in The Indianapolis News.

"What a beautiful word is that fine, old-fashioned word, 'sweetheart.' It comes to us through a long and loving line of grandfathers and grandmothers, whom we see in fancy, the bride with a spreading nosegay in hand—not a bouquet, heaven forbid!—and bride and bridegroom walking churchward beaming with happiness. Sweetheart and nosegay—how fitting that they should go together, breathing the romance of an earlier and simpler time! Today to what a degree has the word 'sweetheart' been betrayed and diverted? How often it is dragged, drabbled and disgraced, through the muck of a police court, in connection with a burglar, a highwayman or a murderer!"

IN LOVE'S GARDEN.
 This is the old-time garden, still fair as fair can be. Where Jenny, of the bright eyes, shook her hair, she shows it now.

The same sweet walks and places, although long years have gone. Since in the starlight at the gate she planned the violets on

Lives, they may sever, Nevermore to meet. But Love lives forever, And Memory is sweet

The twilight bells are ringing even now across the hills. And still I hear the calling of the hidden Whippoorwill.

They're singing now as sweetly as in the Maytime lands. Where once we knew the first sweet joy that comes of holding hands

Lives, they may sever, Nevermore to meet. But Love lives forever, And Memory is sweet

Oh, days that passed in music, you come with light again, And in our hearts the loves dwells while eyes are dimmed with rain.

And memories, like roses still in our path-way throng, And sorrow for a lost dream is tender-sweet with song

Lives, they may sever, Nevermore to meet. But Love lives forever, And Memory is sweet

The village Deacon makes these little notes on the highway: "You have to watch some powder mimes a long while before they explode.

"The money that used to make the mare go now goes for gasoline and new tires.

"We'll get no relief until they put jokes and stories under the Pure Food Law

"What has become of the old-fashioned funny fellow who always said it was cheaper to move than to pay rent?"

"The last man who got rich minding his own business said it was a pretty good system, but he got mighty lonesome at times

"All of us have time to waste on the fellow who will get up alongside of us on our hobby and take a long spin"

A Springtime Citizen.
 While march the soldiers rank on rank An' folks far war air wishin, I'm down here on a river bank Fishin'

Fur off de bells of grazin' herds Acrost green meadows ringin', An' 'll around me mockin'birds Singin'

A life from care an' trouble free, What joy that life is givin' It's a needless burden to be livin'

A Home-Stayer.
 Says a Georgia philosopher: "Come to think of it, I'd rather be in the Georgia legislature than in congress. At home I can save the state, and a congressman is in hard lines to save even his salary"

A "Contrary" Turn.
 "Things do work contrary," said the Billville matron. "Jes' as John had made up his mind to go to congress an' save the country, he got to go over yander an' whip Mexico!"

Engineering Education in West
 (From Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering)

The recent announcement that Harvard university and the Massachusetts Institution of Technology have arranged to combine their forces in support of engineering education, may have a broad bearing on the future of engineering schools in this country.

Universities and colleges are not efficient institutions when regarded from a business point of view. There is too much duplication of plant, staff, frequently accompanied by insufficient resources to make the work effective. This results in a struggle for existence that handicaps the institution and its students.

With this entering wedge already made in the case of Harvard, its effect will gradually be felt in the west and cause a much needed readjustment among western schools. The state largely supports university and college education in the west in one of the commonwealths there has been a deplorable duplication of work, that puts a needless burden on the taxpayer.

Colorado, for example, has a state university, school of mines and agricultural college, each teaching some branch of engineering. Washington has a state university and state college, Utah, a state university and agricultural college, Oregon and Montana each maintain two, or, possibly, more, separate institutions.

In all of these states the legislatures are called upon to appropriate funds for the maintenance and extension of two or more schools, and it seems probable that purely economic considerations, consolidation and concentration of effort will be forced on western schools. At present there is needless duplication in administration, instruction and equipment, and each institution is constantly being handicapped by increasing its demands on the state. The cost of education per student is needlessly high, for attendance is divided and equipment is multiplied.

All Along the Line With George Fitch
THE NEW BATTLESHIP.
 The change in the style of hats and dress is not as serious as the improvements in battleships.

We can throw away a last year's lid without a pang and wear a last year's overcoat with considerable pleasure, unless we belong to that terror-stricken class whose only safety is to keep up with the styles. But throwing away a last year's battleship is a heavy blow to the pocket book.

Straw hats in December are not as out-of-date as a battleship by the time it has been launched. It costs $11,000,000 and is the most powerful thing on earth except, perhaps, a United States district judge. But the nation which has just dug down for it can't take any pleasure in it because the country next door has just completed plans for a ship which will make this one look as foolish as a rowboat with a hoop skirt for a turret.

Battleships are now 700 feet long and displace 30,000 tons. They carry a dozen guns which throw bullets as large as sugar barrels, and they travel faster than local trains on the New York Central. Three hundred blacksmiths armed with cold chisels and blasting powder couldn't make a dent in one of these ships in a week. For every destroyer which owns a few of them is filled with gloom and is preparing for the day when it will have to run them up a creek and hide them behind a willow forest to keep the enemy from seeing them with a couple of boys with rifles treat a tin can on a post.

This is because next year battleships will be 800 feet long and will have guns throwing projectiles as large as steam boilers. The new ships in a week. For every destroyer which owns a few of them is filled with gloom and is preparing for the day when it will have to run them up a creek and hide them behind a willow forest to keep the enemy from seeing them with a couple of boys with rifles treat a tin can on a post.

When Perry licked the British he built a fleet in 100 days, starting with a hand saw and forty acres of timber. Nowadays it takes a year to design the pictures for a battleship and three years to get its keel dam. When the keel is laid the ship is under way. In twenty years for battleships which are now mountains of complicated junk, we feel as mad as the man who has kept up his life insurance for fifty years and has never come within a mile of dying.

HATING PEOPLE.
 Hating people is indulged in as a pastime by some and as a duty by others. It is the process of trying to annihilate the enemies by thinking bitter and corrosive thoughts.

Hating people is a terribly cruel process. When a good hater gets an enemy into his mind he spends the millions spent in the last twenty years for battleships which are now mountains of complicated junk, we feel as mad as the man who has kept up his life insurance for fifty years and has never come within a mile of dying.

DAILY GRIST from the STATES' POLITICAL GRIND
JUDGE HARRIS THINKS HE WILL ENTER THE RACE FOR GOVERNOR
 Macon, Ga., April 21.—(Special)—Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, who has been mentioned as a probable candidate for governor, practically threw his hat in the ring this afternoon when he said:

"Yes, I think I will enter the race. I have been hearing from all over the state, and unless something should occur not now anticipated I will make an announcement at an early date."

"Of course I would like to be governor of Georgia. It's an honor that no man should underestimate. The state is so large that no man can make the race alone. He needs the help of his friends to get his cause before the people."

W. H. BURWELL IN THE CITY: FRIENDS THINK HE WILL RUN
 William H. Burwell, speaker of the house and prospective candidate for governor, spent Tuesday in the city on personal business. He will be in Atlanta today and will, no doubt, return to the city for a day or so next week. Mr. Burwell has not as yet definitely made up his mind to announce his candidacy, but will doubtless come to some decision in a few days. He has been in communication with friends all over the state and the prospect of his candidacy has aroused a good deal of enthusiasm.

FRIENDS OF GORDON LEE URGING HIM TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR
 Rome, Ga., April 21.—(Special)—The possibility that Hon. Gordon Lee may run for governor has caused much discussion among the politicians of the seventh congressional district. A number of Mr. Lee's friends and supporters, including The Dalton Citizen, wish him to remain in congress rather than make the race for governor at this time, but others are urging him to seek the gubernatorial chair.

In case he does so, indications are that a lively race for the congressional toga will take place. Almost every county has some "favorite son" whose claims will be urged. It is considered very probable that Judge Moses Wright, who once ran for congress against Mr. Lee, will again be a candidate. Judge Wright's nephew, a nephew-in-law, Harry Wright, will undoubtedly be in the race. F. W. Copeland, of Rome, is another possibility. Judge A. W. Eate, of Cartersville, states that if Mr. Lee is not a candidate he will certainly be in the race. Herbert Clay, the collector general of the Third Ridge circuit, must be considered in the reckoning, and other possibilities are Wesley Shropshire, of Chattahoochee, E. S. Griffith, of Haralson, and A. L. Bartlett, of Hall.

SUPERIOR COURT CALLED OFF
SO CANDIDATES CAN SEE VOTERS
 Statesboro, Ga., April 21.—(Special)—Judge Rawlings has acted favorably on a petition from the Statesboro bar to set the court this month. Four or five members of the bar are candidates in the coming primary, May 7, and the news that there would be no session of the court is good news to them and their voters. The court has been held during the end and most heated part of the campaign.

There are eight candidates in the field for sheriff, in which most interest centers are W. H. DeLoach, J. T. Jones and E. T. Mallard, and for solicitor of the city court, next in interest to the sheriff's race, there are Francis B. Hunter, Homer C. Eason, H. M. Jones. There is but one other candidate for office, that of county commissioner, with four in the race, W. Y. DeLoach, W. J. Denmark and G. A. Lewis.

BOND ISSUE WOULD PROVE NO BURDEN

Pay Wards Would More Than Care for Interest on Grady Bonds and Taxes Would Not Be Increased.

At the meeting of Atlanta citizens held in the council chamber yesterday afternoon in the interest of the Grady hospital bond issue, presided over by Bishop C. K. Nelson, the following prominent and interesting points were brought out:

First, that the bond issue will not mean one cent of extra taxes to the people of Atlanta, because the pay ward of the new institution will absorb the interest on the bonds and provide a sinking fund for their retirement.

Second, that the new Grady hospital will in no way compete with the private hospitals of Atlanta, as the charges in the pay ward will be the same; and the effect of increasing Atlanta's hospital facilities for pay patients will be to bring more patients to Atlanta.

Third, that the Atlanta Medical college never has and never will exercise any control whatever over Grady hospital, and the only connection between the two is that the college has given the hospital only for bedside teaching for its students.

Public Institution.

Fourth, that the Atlanta Medical college is a public institution, from which none of the Atlanta physicians who teach there draw a single penny of income, and to which they give their services without any charge whatever.

Fifth, that the Atlanta citizens who are interesting themselves in the bond movement, are doing so purely from humanitarian motives, and have no advantage whatever to gain through Atlanta's building a modern and adequate hospital.

Sixth, that ample provision will be made in the new hospital, when built, for the negroes, in fact, that the present capacity of the negro wards will be doubled and more.

Bishop Nelson called the meeting to order and called on Dr. W. E. Sumner, in the course of his statement about the needs of Grady, pointed out that the number of patients in 1913 increased about 800 over 1912, and that this year's increase will be about 1,000 over 1913.

"It has come to be a serious question," he said, "as to how we are going to take care of them."

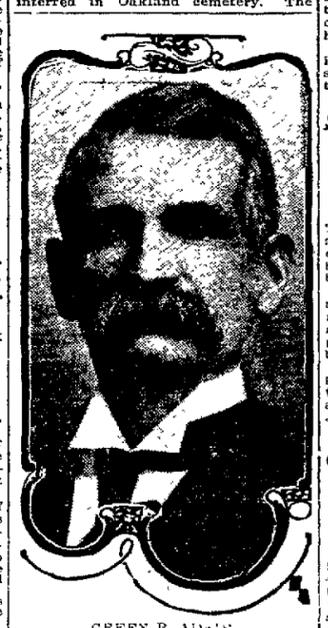

Dr. Sumnerland made a clear statement showing the absurdity of the report which some have circulated as to the Atlanta Medical college exercising control over Grady hospital. He pointed out that the college is a privilege granted to the college by council through which it secures teaching facilities.

Dr. Sumnerland showed clearly that the college is a public institution from which none of the faculty receives one penny of compensation, and he asserted that the college is directly subsidized for $1,000,000 being spent every year in Atlanta, through students and others who come here because of it.

INTEREST IS GROWING IN REVIVAL SERVICE

Dr. Plato Durham, Brilliant Young Pastor, Is Drawing Large Crowds.

The preaching of Dr. Plato Durham, who is described by Bishop John C. Kilgo as one of the greatest young preachers in America, is adding to the crowds which are attending the revival services at St. Paul's Methodist church.

Interest in the revival, instead of decreasing, is growing, and is lamentably apt to do, has been growing greater with each service. A service for children, at which Bishop Kilgo preached yesterday morning, drew a floor of the big church and half filled the balconies.

Bishop Kilgo attributes the success of the revival to straight from the shoulder preaching.

"People are tired of getting their religion with milk and water," he said last night. "That kind of religion isn't anything, but a kind of religion that is inspiring, if the people only go to it as a matter of duty, if the congregation fails to realize that faith in God is a necessity and not simply a pleasurable diversion, you might as well have no churches. The success of this series of revivals proves the unspoken and unneeded of every one for the religion of Christ."

The services for today begin at 10:45 o'clock in the morning with songs, prayer and again at 7:45 o'clock at night. Bishop Kilgo will preach again to children at 10 o'clock at the afternoon.

The arrival of Dr. Charles L. Goodell, New York, pastor of the largest Methodist church in the world, is being awaited with eagerness. Dr. Goodell is to arrive Friday morning, and will preach Friday afternoon at a service for children and will continue preaching on Saturday and Sunday of the revival. At 11 o'clock Saturday he will deliver a sermon for evangelistic ministers.

PILGRIMS' MINSTRELS WILL BE REPEATED

The Pilgrim minstrels, composed of well known and popular young men of the Central Congregational church, gave a performance last night at the church to an appreciative audience that filled the house to the doors. At this performance much interest was manifested in the minstrels that they have been earnestly requested to repeat their performance, and this will be done Friday night of May 8 at the Tech Young Men's Christian association auditorium. Dr. Goodell will be assisted then by the Pilgrim chorus of thirty voices and the Pilgrim quartet and mandolin club, also by the two Pilgrim quartets that gained so much applause last Friday night.

The Pilgrim chorus will give a dinner at the Central Congregational church Thursday evening at 6:20 o'clock and discuss matters relating to the performance at Tech.

WARNOCK IS RELEASED; JUDGE BROYLES TOUCHED

Dr. S. D. Warnock, former councilman of the fourth ward, who was arraigned before Judge Broyles Tuesday morning on the charge of being drunk and driving with a gun late Sunday night, was released from all bonds upon the hearing of his case.

In the courtroom Dr. Warnock spoke of his wife in a reverent and poetic way and in such a way as to touch the heart of Judge Broyles and the court attendants.

"There have been some false things intimated in this case," said Dr. Warnock afterwards. "For some time there have been repeated attempts to rob my residence and Sunday night I heard a noise in the back yard which I supposed was made by a would-be burglar. I secured my gun and waited for him. My wife, who is of a nervous disposition, became frightened and ran over to a neighbor's house. The incident resulted in the most surprising and ridiculous affair I have known since the incident of Jonah and the whale. Only the newspapers in those days were brief and necessarily more to the correct point."

HOMES THREATENED AS VALDOSTA GARAGES BURN

Valdosta, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—The automobile garages of E. G. Turner and J. R. Dasher, the automobile of Mr. Turner and the large barn of A. H. Smith were burned this afternoon in a fire which threatened for a time to destroy a number of the handsomest homes on Patterson street. It is understood that the fire started from a vulcanizer which was left burning in Mr. Turner's garage.

Washington, April 21.—A conference was held today at which plans were presented for the visit of fifty Baltimore representatives men headed by Governor Goldsborough and Mayor Preston to the city against the selection of Richmond, Va., as a federal reserve bank city. The conference was the outgrowth of a mass meeting held in Baltimore Wednesday night when it was resolved to lodge Baltimore's protest with the federal reserve board. Representatives in congress from other states will be asked to join with the Maryland delegation in their contest.

UNIT SYSTEM WILL BE TRIED BY THE FOURTH NATIONAL

The Fourth National Bank will today inaugurate the "unit system" of paying and receiving the money of its depositors. Each teller's window will be a paying and receiving station. Each teller will receive deposits, make change, cash checks and make pay-rolls for the customers alphabetically assigned to them.

Under the old plan a customer who wanted to cash a check and also to make a deposit had to go to two windows for the two transactions. Under the new system he will dispose of both transactions at one window, thereby cutting down the time the customer has had to stand in line heretofore.

The "unit system" has been in use in the women's department and the savings department of the bank since they were established.

CAN COURTS FORCE REPORTERS TO TELL SOURCE OF NEWS?

New York, April 21.—The United States supreme court will decide whether a reporter must, under the law, divulge the source of his news when called upon by the courts to do so. A writ of error signed by Chief Justice Edward D. White, of the United States supreme court, was served on the federal district attorney here directing him to show cause in Washington within thirty days why the decision of Judge Hand should not be reversed and why "speedy justice should not be done in behalf" of Burdick and Curtin.

The Tribune men were made defendants in contempt proceedings after they refused to tell the grand jury the source of information upon which they based stories of the Litzner and Hestmeyer smuggling cases. The federal prosecutor here obtained and offered them in advance a pardon signed by President Wilson. Counsel for the newspaper men contended that the president had no power to grant a pardon where there was no evidence that the person to whom it was addressed had committed any offense.

Knowledge and Integrity are two things that must enter into the optical business. Combining these two with high-grade workmanship, careful attention, honest dealings, and the grinding of the greater portion of prescriptions written for glasses by our better oculists, has fully demonstrated the fact that there is something indescribable about the way in which we conduct our business that few opticians have been able to understand. We know when glasses are suited to your eyes, and if you need the service of an oculist we will so advise, but positively will not accept your money without satisfaction from us. Just ask anybody if this is true.

MATTHEWS AND McNEW GET TEN YEARS APiece

Convicted of Robbing Bank of Lyerly of $4,000 in January.

Rome, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—Frank Matthews and Mark McNew, convicted of having robbed the Bank of Lyerly, Ga., January 29, were today sentenced to ten years each in the state penitentiary. A strong plea for a lighter sentence on account of Matthews' health was made, his attorneys claiming that he is in the last stages of tuberculosis, but Judge Wright gave the same sentence to both men.

The rule for contempt of court against L. P. Whitfield, a Burns detective from the Atlanta office, was set aside without a hearing in Chattooga superior court today. McNew claimed that Whitfield had extorted a false confession from him under threats and promises of $500 should he implicate Matthews.

Four thousand dollars in money and many valuable papers, which have never been recovered, were taken in the bank robbery, and the affair has kept Chattooga county in a turmoil of excitement since its happening, and has been an issue in county politics, resulting in the defeat of Sheriff Wimpee for re-election because Wimpee set aside without a hearing in Chattooga superior court today. McNew claimed that Whitfield had extorted a false confession from him under threats and promises of $500 should he implicate Matthews.

J. M. Suttles, W. B. Roberts,
E. T. Stanley, Drew Liddell,
T. A. Burdette, Foster L. Hunter,
R. B. Deavors, J. P. Wincer.

Atlanta, Ga., 4/20, 1914.

To the Citizens of Fulton County:

As you are no doubt aware, I am a candidate for re-election as Sheriff of Fulton County.

My life as a citizen and official acts as an officer is a matter of record and to your inspection, as is also that of my deputies. To say that that record satisfies our conscience and has met with the approval of those with whom we come in daily contact is a truth which we point to with pride.

Misleading and ridiculous rumors, too numerous to mention, are being circulated by our political enemies, but we rejoice in the fact that their object is known and that they fail to find lodgment in the minds of the great majority of the citizens of Fulton County. We most emphatically deny that we have ever in any way or manner failed to comply with or evade the law. A sheriff's oath, bond and duties are prescribed by law and he has no discretionary power of setting them aside.

Owing to the fact that the courts are in session, the jail to be cared for and the office business to be transacted, it is impossible for myself and deputies to see all the voters, but we assure you that we appreciate the past suffrage of the people and will in the future, as we have in the past, conduct the affairs of the sheriff's office in an efficient, prompt and businesslike manner.

The same deputies who have been with me in the past will be with me in the future, and we will appreciate your vote and influence on May 5th, 1914.

Very respectfully yours,

C. W. MANGUM

OSCAR UNDERWOOD DECLARED NOMINEE

Montgomery, Ala. April 21—Oscar Underwood was declared the nominee of the democratic party for United States senator from Alabama this afternoon by the state democratic committee. An official canvass of the returns showed that Mr. Underwood received a majority of 247,000 votes over Congressman Richmond P. Hobson, the former's vote being 89,170.

E. B. Conlaster, official printer, Charles Henderson, of governor is 11,790 and the committee provided for a second primary May 11 to nominate a governor, as well as to run off three other races for state offices.

Captain Frank S. White, of Birmingham, was declared the nominee for short-term federal senator to succeed the late Joseph E. Johnston. The committee canvassed the vote for all offices and announced the results.

The majority plan, which was previously adopted for election to membership on the state committee made several run-offs necessary in the next primary election.

"DER ROSENKAVALIER" STIRS MUSIC CRITICS

Some Say It Is Divinely Beautiful, Some Say Divinely Otherwise.

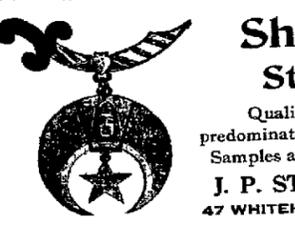

Perhaps none of the operas which are to be presented next week by the Metropolitan Opera company has attracted so much attention as "Der Rosenkavalier." It has been called a musical rendition of cubism and futurism. It has been declared that some of the waltzes could not be sent through the mails. It has been hailed as the forerunner of a new school of music. Some people say it is divinely beautiful and some say it is divinely otherwise.

There is only one thing on which the enthusiasts and skeptics are agreed. That is the high quality of Margaret Ober's Octavian. Besides possessing a mezzo-soprano voice which seems equal to any demand, Mme Ober is considered one of the most beautiful women on the operatic stage. Here incidentally arose another point of discussion among the critics. Here incidentally arose another point of discussion among the critics. Here incidentally arose another point of discussion among the critics.

So far as the musical qualities of the opera are concerned, the bitterest critics admit that Richard Strauss surpassed himself. It contains a waltz theme, for instance, which approaches the dramatic, something that no other composer ever dared to attempt. As to whether it could be sent through the mails, musicians are pretty well agreed that the average French or German waltz, if translated into words, would have to go through a censorship.

ROTARY CLUB TO WORK FOR BONDS

Movement Was Started by the Club, and the Members Will See It Through—Present Condition a Disgrace.

In response to a vigorous appeal from Ivan E. Allen, Dr. W. B. Sumner and other speakers, the Rotary Club of Atlanta yesterday went on record unanimously as a body and as individuals in a promise to go to the polls on May 5 and fight from morning to night for the Grady hospital bond issue.

The meeting was probably the most enthusiastic the Rotary Club of Atlanta has ever had, and was one of the largest. When it was learned that the Grady hospital matter was to be taken up, the regular program for the day was abandoned and all routine business was swept off the floors.

Ivan Allen, in a ringing speech, called attention to the fact that the whole Greater Grady bond movement was started at a Rotary club meeting at the Wincoff several weeks ago, at which Mayor Woodward, Dr. Kennedy and other city health officials, and Dr. Sumner were present. "The Rotary club started this thing and we are going to help finish it," the Grady hospital had only 200 beds, while St. Paul, Louisville and other cities of the same size had over 400.

Bottom of the Ladder.

If caring for the sick was an index of a community's civilization, he said, Atlanta was at the bottom of the ladder. "I am satisfied though," he said, "that all this is simply because people have failed to realize the true situation. When they do understand it, they will not allow it to exist any longer. Your problem, gentlemen, is to make them understand."

Dr. Sumner made mention of an objection that had been raised in one or two quarters of the idea of having a pay department in the new hospital on the ground that it might be entering into competition with private hospitals in Atlanta. He showed that the municipal hospital would not be in competition; that the pay department was a regular feature of nearly all modern municipal hospitals and was not only not considered competition by private hospitals in the same cities, but that it had been raised to increase the income of the private hospitals.

"I Wouldn't Have Position As County Superintendent At All," Says Shelby Smith

County Commissioner Shelby Smith denied yesterday the charge made Monday evening by Commissioner Tull C. Waters that it was planned by the majority board faction to make Mr. Smith county superintendent.

"I am not a candidate for county superintendent," said Mr. Smith. "There has been no movement nor scheme to make me county superintendent. I do not want to be county superintendent, and if the office were tendered me I would not accept it."

RODGERS IS ASSISTANT TO PASTOR OF CENTRAL

The departure of R. O. Bell, a chorister of Central Baptist church, has necessitated the engagement of another man who will have charge of the music and who will also be financial secretary of the church and assistant to the pastor.

Professor Walter E. Rodgers, of St. Louis, has been engaged and will reach Atlanta from Memphis on Friday at 10 o'clock. Mr. Rodgers is an old Atlanta boy, and will be very much at home, especially with the pastor of the church, with whom he worked for two years in Beaumont, Texas.

Mr. Rodgers is visiting his mother and sister in Beaumont, Texas, and will leave there in time to meet the chorus at rehearsal Friday evening.

THINK THOMAS IS FREE FROM WEEVIL THIS YEAR

Thomasville, Ga., April 21.—(Special.) That the boll weevil will probably not reach Thomas county, or at least this immediate section of it, this year, was the opinion expressed by State Entomologist M. J. Freeman, who was a visitor to Thomasville yesterday. But he wants to do all in his power to help teach the farmers how to successfully combat its approach and to cope with it when it does arrive.

A. H. Worsham, State Commissioner of Agriculture, J. D. Price were here for the purpose of examining the work of the branch experiment station which has been established here under the charge of Assistant Entomologist Spooner. They are quite enthusiastic in regard to the location chosen for the station, and believe that with proper co-operation splendid results will be obtained from it.

CLEAR WEDNESDAY AND MUCH WARMER, SAYS FORECASTER

Following is the Atlanta weather forecast: Wednesday will be a clear day with light southerly winds. The temperature will be much higher, beginning with about 55 degrees in the early morning and rising to about 75 degrees during the day. No clouds will appear until late in the evening, when the sky will probably show a few high clouds from the west. No very high or summer-like temperatures are indicated again for some time.

CHARLEY GRAHAM CASE GOES TO SUPREME COURT

Douglas, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—The application of Charley Graham for change of venue under the act of 1911, and which was denied by Judge Quincy, has gone to the supreme court.

This case involves a new point never passed on by the supreme court. That is whether the trial court has the discretion to deny the application for change of venue where the state makes a counter showing as to whether the defendant can get a fair trial in the county. In this case Solicitor M. D. Dickerson made a counter showing, and Judge Quincy denied the change of venue. If the supreme court sustains Judge Quincy's ruling, then he will probably call the jury back to try this case as soon as the decision is rendered, but if a change of venue is ordered, then Judge Quincy will select some other county for trial and transfer the case to that county.

Graham, it will be remembered, is the man who on Saturday night, March 28, shot and killed Lawrence Newbern, marshal at Broxton, and also shot his own brother, Lester Graham, who died on Monday night following. Much interest is being felt in the case.

HOPE TO LAND TWO BIG CONVENTIONS

For the purpose of planning a campaign to capture the 1915 convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association and the National Textile association, prominent cotton goods manufacturers of Atlanta will meet at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the executive committee of the convention bureau in the chamber of commerce building.

The American Cotton Manufacturers will hold its convention at the Waldorf Astoria, New York, April 27, and a few days later the National Textile association will gather in Mechanic's hall, Boston. It is the aim of the convention bureau to land both conventions at once and to arrange the programs so that the meetings will be held simultaneously in this city in 1915.

FEDERAL WARRANTS OUT FOR HILTONIA CITIZENS

Members of Mob Recognized and Charged With Obstructing Mails.

Savannah, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—The federal government took a hand in the strike of trainmen on the Savannah and Northwestern railroad today when warrants were issued charging six prominent residents of Hiltonia with obstructing the mails. Deputy marshals will go to Hiltonia tomorrow to serve the warrants, and the accused men will be brought to Savannah for preliminary hearing.

The warrants were issued after District Attorney Akerman had conferred with postoffice inspectors who investigated the case. According to government officials none of the members of the mob of strike sympathizers who dragged the engineer and conductor from a passenger train at Hiltonia Saturday night were masked, and most of them were recognized.

"I am sure we know who the ring-leaders are and they will soon be taken into custody," said Mr. Akerman.

LANFORD DECLINES TO SHOW AFFIDAVITS

William J. Burns Leaves City Without Seeing Documents Charging Perversion.

Detective William J. Burns called for the first time at police station late Tuesday afternoon to see Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford for the purpose of gaining knowledge of the perversion affidavits against Leo M. Frank, said to be in the possession of the chief of detectives, and his request was flatly refused by Chief Lanford.

Burns remained in Chief Lanford's office only a few minutes, and then called upon the chief of police, James L. Beavers. With Chief Beavers Burns did not discuss the Frank case, but stated afterwards that he merely called on his respects to the head of the police department.

Did Not Think It Right.

Chief Lanford stated to The Constitution reporter that he refused Burns' request to see the perversion affidavits which he holds on the grounds that he did not believe that it would be doing justice to himself, to the state, or even to Frank, for any publicity to be given to the perversion affidavits until after today's hearing of the extraordinary motion for a new trial before Judge Ben Hill.

"At the trial of Frank we did not bring up the subject of perversion," said Chief Lanford, "it was brought up by Frank's lawyers."

"I did not wish for Mr. Burns to give these affidavits any publicity until after today, because I do not believe that it would be fair to Frank, or myself, to have the public mind prejudiced either way by the affidavits until after the motion has ruled on the extraordinary motion."

"I told Mr. Burns that I would be glad to have him call upon me after today, and that then I would show him the affidavits."

Burns Is Silent.

When Burns was questioned about his interview with Lanford, he would have nothing to say, but it could be seen by his manner that he was disappointed.

Burns would not say whether he would call upon Chief Lanford again. It is expected that he will leave Atlanta tonight.

After leaving police station, Burns, in company with Dan Lehon, his right-hand man, and Harry Alexander, his attorney, paid a visit to Leo Frank at the county jail. The three were closeted for over an hour in a consultation with the convicted pencil factory superintendent. This visit of Burns to Frank is thought to be his last.

When questioned about the published statement that he had declared that Leo Frank was innocent of the murder of Mary Phagan, Burns positively denied that he had made any such statement with the convicted pencil factory superintendent. This visit of Burns to Frank is thought to be his last.

Burns stated that he refused absolutely to divulge the contents of his reports, but that he did state that his report would show that the murder case is a white man or a negro and will show if Leo Frank is guilty.

"The state is in a peril," declared Burns, "and my report will also show that Leo Frank is not a perversion."

DORSEY AND BURNS HAVE WARM WORDS

Noted Detective Declines to Allow Solicitor to See His Report at This Time.

There were exciting prospects of a clash between Detective William J. Burns and Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey yesterday afternoon at Mr. Dorsey's office when the solicitor requested that the noted sleuth present him with a copy of the report on the Frank case, which, it is stated, Burns has already divulged to Leo Frank's attorneys.

Burns went upon the expedition late in the afternoon of interviewing the leading figures in Leo Frank's defense. Solicitor Dorsey, Bill Smith, Conley's counsel, and Chief Newport A. Lanford, head of the detective department at police headquarters. He visited the solicitor directly after he talked with Lanford, at Lanford's office.

Mr. Dorsey, at the time of Burns' appearance, was submerged in a mass of work on the floor of the police headquarters. Private investigators flocked in swarms around his office, and just as Burns arrived, the solicitor was making a preliminary witness for an affidavit which will be used by the prosecution to combat the re-trial motion of the defense.

Greetings Cordial.

The greetings between Dorsey and Burns were cordial from the start. For a short time, and presently the conversation resolved into remarks upon the Frank case. At which, Dorsey made the bold request that Burns give him a copy of the report of which the detective declares he has informed the attorney for Frank.

"I am sorry," Dorsey said, "but it still was in progress, the solicitor general—with Dan Lehon and Harry Alexander, who had accompanied Burns—arose with Burns and proceeded toward the door. Their words were above the normal note, and could be heard into the hallway, where the group of detectives and investigators were gathered.

As Dorsey and his visitors emerged into the doorway from his office, these words were heard:

"Before I could present you with my report, I will have to consult my empanelled jury."

"But," injected Solicitor Dorsey, "here is Mr. Alexander, who is a member of the solicitor's council. What do you say about it, Mr. Alexander?"

Alexander answered that it would be alright for the detective to give Dorsey a copy of his report.

"Good good," very good," exclaimed Dorsey, "tubbing his hands together. "Now, Mr. Burns—would you do it under those circumstances?"

At this point, some attention arose among the visitors to the solicitor's office, in the midst of which Detective Burns, although he has his report intended, anticipated his report before it was submitted, that he would do so entirely, and that he had never shown any hesitancy in offering to see the detective to corroborate the declaration.

"I am going to hang my mind open until I have heard all sides of the case," Dorsey answered, "and I might say you, Mr. Burns, were going to proceed along similar lines."

"However," Burns said, "I will answer you, 'I'll come back to see you if you can convince me that I am mistaken.'"

Dorsey replied:

"But I understood, Mr. Burns, that you were going to undertake to convince me."

There were a few heated words, at which Dorsey said:

"I don't care, Mr. Burns, whether you are convinced or not."

"Well, we won't discuss it out here," said Burns.

The conference ended here, Burns and his companions leaving the solicitor's office.

To Interview Conley.

Burns appeared at the office of William Smith, counsel for Jim Conley, at 7 o'clock, presumably with the object of arranging an interview with Jim Conley, the convicted accessory.

The meeting was friendly, although a statement to the public from Mr. Smith recently, was a scathing attack upon the noted sleuth. Smith informed Burns that Conley was willing and ready to greet him under fair conditions, and that he had never shown any hesitancy in offering to see the detective.

Burns stated that he wanted to see the negro, but did not state any definite time at which he would go to Conley's cell, and that any time would be agreeable. The interview lasted less than thirty minutes. Burns was accompanied by Dan Lehon.

"The mistake was made, Mr. Burns," Conley's attorney told him, "by your last report, in which you first named me as George Sutton, of Chicago, 400 to 389 in twenty-one innings. Scores: Hoppe 40, average 18-21; high runs 13, 78, 48; Sutton 38, average 19-20, high runs 70, 68, 52.

"The afternoon games were tedious. Demarest defeated Schaefer in forty-four innings. Slosson won from Cline in forty-six innings."

WILLIE HOPPE WINS FROM ORA MORNINGSTAR

New York, April 21.—Willie Hoppe, world's champion at 151 and 162 balt line, demonstrated tonight that he has also mastered the intricacies of 141 balt line. He defeated Ora Morningstar, a Japanese expert, won 66 in the world's championship tournament here, winning in thirteen innings. Scores: Hoppe 40, average 18-21; high runs 13, 78, 48; Sutton 38, average 19-20, high runs 70, 68, 52.

CAPTAIN BERRY GUILTY; HIS LICENSE REVOKED

Washington, April 21.—Captain Osmyn Berry, of the Monroes and Miners' pack, Nantuxet, which rammed and sank the Old Dominion liner, Monroe, with a loss of forty-one lives, in the Virginia capes, in January, has been found guilty of negligence and his license has been revoked.

A board of steamboat inspectors at Philadelphia devalued the responsibility for the collision between the Monroe and the Virginia capes, in January, to Captain Berry. The inspector commanding the Captain Berry's tugboat held guilty.

The decision holds that the Monroe was at fault. The tugboat was only a mile away, that the tugboat should have seen the Monroe's whistle.

The board also held that the tugboat was at fault. Berry may have a collision.

MAXWELL DEALERS ARE GIVEN BANQUET BY MANAGER REDDEN

One of the most interesting conventions of automobile dealers ever held in the south took place on Tuesday at the Hotel Ansley, when General Sales Manager C. F. Redden and District Manager C. H. Booth of the Maxwell Motor Company of Detroit, gave a banquet to the Maxwell dealers of Georgia.

In order to satisfy the Georgia dealers that the factory was doing everything possible to look after their interests and take care of their orders, Redden came to Atlanta with an elaborate series of moving picture films, illustrating the big facilities of the Maxwell company and showing the evolution of the Maxwell from the steel mill to the finished car.

These pictures gave the dealers convincing proof of the advantage of manufacturing in large quantities, and showed how it was possible for an American manufacturer enjoying such facilities to produce a car such as the Maxwell 35, for instance, which is equal to and superior to what the foreign manufacturer, producing in small quantities, could afford to sell for $3,000.

After the banquet Mr. Redden, who is one of the most widely known men in the industry, gave the dealers an interesting and optimistic address, sighting the record-breaking strides made by his company during the past year, and convincingly explained why a tremendous success for the future is already assured.

AT THE THEATERS.

Otis Skinner in "Kismet."

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon the only madcap performance of "Kismet" will be given at the Atlanta with Otis Skinner and his company in their various roles. Tomorrow night the engagement will end, and when the company says good-bye to Atlanta who have missed seeing it will have missed the most wonderful and magnificent show of the entire season. "Kismet" has been praised until the critics and public can find no other adjectives and superlatives to add to the good things said. All are united in pronouncing the event the real theatrical treat of the year from every standpoint at which it is looked. The show is attracting big houses and will do much towards making the last week of season a record smasher.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

With a bill that will measure to the highest standard ever established at the Forsyth the busy theater is playing madcap and evening performance this week to the limit of capacity in the seating and standing accommodations. "The Green Electric," an intensely interesting and very dramatic playlet, presented by eight capital players is the headline feature, and the Forsyth has never had a better headliner. The story deals with the adventures of a Chinese villain, who, after working hard on some people, is finally brought to his end by his own weapons. The success of the playlet has won attention everywhere.

Jury Dodgers May Have To Dodge Many Mexican Bullets

Now that Huerta says he positively won't, and the subsequent war extra is shrieking upon the streets of the land, there is the dire probability of some of our most adept little jury dodgers being transported in carload lots across the Rio Grande, where they will be put to dodging Mexican bullets in lieu of the distasteful jury service.

For things look rather like our choice collection of fighting men—the Fifth regiment—will get the spic opportunity of taking a hand in war. And the business men and others who joined that organization purely with the view of evading jury duty, will have to go, too, and will have to do their share of fighting—which might be a whole lot.

It is a custom almost as old as the hills that a citizen obtaining an exemption certificate from the national guard—provided he is a member, which he is—may be immune from such commonwealth afflictions as poll tax, street tax and jury duty in the courts of our nation.

But now, since war looms up on the horizon, these exemption certificates are void. All members of the Fifth must go—see? Must go? There is one thing that can keep a trooper from it. Chorus: "What?"

Reply: "His own funeral!"

"Damaged Goods."

(At the Atlanta.)

Seats are now being sold for the last show of the season at the Atlanta—"Damaged Goods"—which will be given Friday and Saturday nights, with a Saturday matinee. "Damaged Goods" treats of a subject often talked, but one which carries an educational value and an intense interest. No show in recent years has created as much talk as "Damaged Goods," but none has been more worthily praised as well. It is a frank sociological study, but carries a love story that is gripping. The play is clean in every respect, despite its frankness, and no one will have an occasion to blush or turn from the stage from curtain rise to fall.

"Seven Days."

(At the Lyric.)

Last week Lucille LaVerne company hit the bull's-eye of success square in the middle. This week they are firing with a double-barreled shotgun. In the first place they are playing "Seven Days," the biggest laughing hit in many years, secondly, the company is appearing to advantage in its entirety, thirdly, the production actually surpasses the original in which Miss LaVerne appeared for so many performances in New York.

Junior Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

Junior Keith Vaudeville has caught on in great shape at the Grand, and big crowds are the rule at all performances. The three shows today at 2:30, 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock will be good-bye to Miss Pania with her excellent tapstep act. Kelly and Liberty in a dainty dancing number. The O'Neil Sisters in songs, dances and fun, Belzac and Baker, "The Rag Boys on the

TREASON IS PLANNED BY INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

Because of Mexican Trouble They Will Try to Ferment Great Strike in U. S.

Threat to the U. S. Mines.

New York, April 21.—The threat of William D. Haywood, leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, to tie up the coal mines of the country in the event of a war with Mexico, has been received in the opinion of H. Snowden Marshall, United States district attorney. No word has been received from the department of justice at Washington relative to action against Haywood for delivering the alleged seditious remarks in the course of a speech here on Sunday night and none was expected at Snowden Marshall's office.

To prove seditious, Mr. Marshall explained last night that some tangible evidence of conspiracy to tie up the mines would have to be shown, following a reiteration of the seditious language after war had been declared.

Heads of the Central Federated Union and affiliated unions issued statements last night declaring their disapproval of the Industrial Workers of the World threats, and expressing their loyalty to the American flag.

"There goes that Mrs. Gadabout. You know, I've heard that her poor husband is absolutely tied to her apron strings."

CANCER KILLS PEIRCE IN MOUNTAIN RETREAT

New York, April 21.—Word was received here last night of the death of Sunday in his mountain cabin near Millford, Pa., of Charles Sanford Peirce, Peirce, logician, mathematician and philosopher. He was 74 years old and for twenty-seven years had lived in seclusion to pursue his studies. His death was due to cancer.

In his retreat his only companion was his second wife, Mrs. Juliette Froissy, descendant of a noted French family. His first wife, Mrs. Melina Fay Peirce, lives in Chicago.

After his retirement his seclusion was broken only by infrequent visits to Harvard, where he lectured on logic and attended conferences of scholars interested in similar studies.

Mr. Peirce was the author of numerous articles upon logic, history of science, metaphysics, psychology, mathematics, astronomy and chemistry. He edited many of the noted works of his father, the late Professor Benjamin Peirce, of Harvard, a leading mathematician.

Mr. Peirce was a cousin of United States Senator Lodge.

The "Six" That Is Outselling All Others

Outselling them, because it outvalues them. Not merely charging less, but giving more. An inventory of features, inside and out, proves it. A demonstration settles the question beyond dispute. A seven-passenger "Six"—not a five—or a six-passenger. So comfortable that mind and body pronounce it perfect. So light that it skims the road as a swallow skims the air. Weight so well distributed that it sticks to the road-way as though it were a rail-way. So free from friction that vibration is reduced to the vanishing point. So powerful that no condition it meets can daunt it. Nothing left to be desired—size, beauty, roadability. And still—a lower price. Judge it, first, by its own superb steadiness, smoothness and power. Then, by comparison with cars costing more.

Full Floating Rear Axle with pressed steel housing. Studebaker-Wagner separate unit starting and lighting. Full equipment of Timken bearings. Two disappearing auxiliary seats in the tonneau. Gears of our own heat-treating and cutting. Springs of our own make and testing. Our own drop-forged front axle. Our own beautifully designed and finished body. Our own special crowned fenders. CRACKERS OPEN AT CHATTANOOGA

Southpaw Merritt Stops Crackers' Winning Streak

By Herbert Caldwell.

Memphis, Tenn., April 21.—(Special.) Howard Merritt, the kid of the Turtle hurling corps, repeated, and the Crackers' winning streak was broken in the last game of the four-game series.

The juvenile righthander stopped the other Turtle victory in a combat with the Lookouts in the last game of the series. Score 4 to 2.

Both teams opened somewhat of a new makeup. Kircher played center field for the Crackers in the absence of Welchome, who is nursing a weak spot around the shoulder, and Holand replaced Lynch at third to make room for another righthander against Lefty Merritt.

The Crackers' shifted their batting order and Allison, a late arrival in the team, led the procession for the turtle batters, and a fair leader did the make.

It was a real ball game, where runs were made mostly by hitting the ball at the right time and in which the Crackers did most of the right-time hitting.

DESPITE WAR NEWS

Over sold Condition Had Evidently Been Brought About by Steady Selling on Last Week's Decline.

New York, April 21.—Notwithstanding the depressing influence of the Mexican crisis today the stock market advanced. Technical conditions proved to have a stronger influence than the Mexican news. It was apparent that the steady selling on the decline of the past week had brought about an over sold condition which was being broken by the fact that in proportion to the amount of business there was now out of the market...

Over sold Condition Had Evidently Been Brought About by Steady Selling on Last Week's Decline.

Only one shortly after an opening rise—the upward movement halted. Prices were forced back to yesterday's close, but the demand expanded on the recession, and the market quickly sought a higher level. Once again the bears attempted a raid and succeeded in driving down Lehigh Valley to 132 1/4, but the weakness of this stock had no influence elsewhere...

Over sold Condition Had Evidently Been Brought About by Steady Selling on Last Week's Decline.

The government's weekly weather report, which showed a fair and interesting long period of uncertainty and promised, ultimately, more favorable conditions, was not without interest in the southern republic.

Women and Babies Killed By the Colorado Militia

Four Mothers and Thirteen Children Victims in Battle Between the Strikers and Soldiers.

DEATH TOLL OF BATTLE WILL PROBABLY REACH 25

Alleged That the Soldiers Used Machine Guns on the Tent Colony of Strikers. Women and Children Had No Chance to Escape.

Trinidad, Colo., April 21.—With seven identified dead in Trinidad morgues and eighteen missing and reported dead, the toll of yesterday's battle between state troops and strikers at and near Ludlow probably will reach twenty-five. Among those reported missing are four women and thirteen children believed to have been destroyed by the fire that destroyed the strikers' tents at the close of yesterday's fight. The list of known injured consists of three soldiers brought to Trinidad tonight.

Trinidad tonight was horror-stricken by reports of the number of women, children and non-combatants who lost their lives in the fight and in the fire that followed.

"It is horrible," said John McLennon, president of district No. 15, United Mine Workers of America. "They were trapped without a chance of escape."

Major Hamrock tonight denied the report that the Ludlow tents were set on fire by the militia. The blaze started, he said, while the troops were engaged in an attack on the strikers' entrenched in the pump house. He also reiterated the statement that the fighting was precipitated by the firing of Greek strikers under Louis Tikas, who opened fire on military tents at Ludlow.

Soldiers Were Driven. The soldiers were driven out of their camp by bullets, according to the officer. Later, he said, the strikers moved around back of the colony and took a position along the Colorado and Southeastern tracks and attacked the Landerfelt detachment. Major Hamrock then moved up and placed his men in the railroad yards.

Union officials issued no statement. More than two hundred women and children refugees from the burned colony are being cared for tonight in Trinidad.

The hall of the Trinidad Trades Assembly has been turned into a temporary dormitory and hospital. Many are suffering from burns and injuries. A force of armed strikers estimated at six hundred or more, is entrenched in the hills north and east of the ruins of the tents. Two hundred militiamen and Major Hamrock, Captain Carson and Lieutenant Landerfelt, Lawrence and Chase are stationed in and about Ludlow.

Supply of Ammunition. A new supply of ammunition is said to have been received by both militiamen and strikers. The militia's extra sentries have been posted on both sides. The troops, with four machine guns, are said to be preparing to move on the night of the hills.

James Tyler, killed during the fighting late yesterday, has been a prominent union figure. He was a witness for the union during the recent strike investigation here.

Others known to be dead are: A. Martin, private company A. Denver; two foreign-born strikers, a brewery worker of Trinidad and Frank Snyder, aged 12, son of a striker, Ludlow.

Among those missing and reported dead are Charles Costa a striker, Ludlow; Mrs. Charles Costa and two children, Mrs. Francis Podrino and two children, Mrs. Nick Melloavitch and seven children and Mrs. Chevase and two children.

Machine Guns Used. Denver, Colo., April 21.—L. Doyle, secretary of district 15, United Mine Workers of America, today wired President Wilson, Colorado's senators and representatives and members of the House of Representatives which investigated the Colorado strike this message:

"During miners and families shot and burned to death at Ludlow, Colo. Mine guards, with machine guns, fired on strikers who were being driven to tent colony. Four men, three women and seven children were killed. The strikers were protected, but used uniforms and ammunition of the commonwealth to deceive the lives of strikers and families. We shall be compelled to call on something in the name of humanity to defend the lives of strikers and families. If anything is done, tent colony burned to the ground."

Denver, Colo., April 21.—Lieutenant Governor Stephen R. Fitzgerald late today wired Governor E. B. Ammons to convene the legislature to decide on the matter of ordering militia to suppress the strike.

The action of Fitzgerald was taken after General John Chase had declined to remove the militia from Ludlow. The militia is now being moved to Trinidad.

Reports from an agent for the Victor American Fuel company, which is the only source of fuel for the strikers, tonight reported that the militia had been located in a tunnel.

DOOM OF THE ROOSTER SEALED BY UNCLE SAM

He's No Good After Breeding Season Ends, and Spoils the Eggs.

Every well-informed rooster in Kentucky and Tennessee is probably looking forward to May 1 with fear and trembling. On that day merchants in these states will, according to an agreement with the department of agriculture, receive the same price for roosters that is paid for hens. This is the only mark conspicuously to decline in the price of roosters.

The department has advised farmers to dispose of their roosters before the breeding season ends. The price of roosters will be the same as that of hens, but they are the seed of the cold storage and the root of commercial success for farmers.

When the department decided that the price of roosters should be the same as that of hens, it was a blow to the rooster industry. The price of roosters will be the same as that of hens, but they are the seed of the cold storage and the root of commercial success for farmers.

LAST BLOW TO BLEASE BY SECRETARY GARRISON

Washington, April 21.—Secretary Garrison today concluded his correspondence with the Governor of South Carolina over the revocation of orders establishing a number of military camps for state militia and regular troops at the Isle of Palms. Failing to receive a response to his previous demands upon Governor Bleese, Secretary Garrison yesterday announced that the maneuver camp to be established by the militia of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, would be held outside of South Carolina. Later he received a long letter from Governor Bleese to which the following reply was sent today:

"I cannot understand what you complain of why you indulge in such language and insinuations concerning a matter that is entirely free and clear. All communications between the division of militia affairs and the national guards of the several states are held with the utmost propriety and with the custom and strictly in keeping with courtesy and propriety."

"It seems to me to be unfortunate that you felt impelled to object to this matter being treated in the customary way, but since you did, I had no other alternative than to adopt the course that I did."
