CARRANZA'S NOTE AS TO MEDIATION. Chihuahua, Mexico, April 29.—General Carranza, as chief of the revolution, today accepted in principle the tender of the good offices of Argentina and Chile in the settlement of the Mexican problem.

As can be seen by the accompanying map, the rebels are in almost complete occupation of the northern portion of Mexico, the only portion of the country contiguous to the border in the hands of the federalists being a little strip on the eastern border.

"I assume there will be no hostilities during the process of mediation." He was questioned as to whether Carranza had agreed to an armistice and he smilingly answered:

General Carranza's reply went forward today as follows: "I am sincerely for the offer which you have so kindly made me in behalf of your respective governments...

WITHDRAWAL OF SHIPS ATTACKED IN SENATE

Navy Department's Action at Tampico Not Pleasing to the Republicans.

Washington, April 29.—Criticism of the navy department's withdrawal of the warships from Tampico was voiced in the senate today. Senator Fall, of New Mexico, presented telegrams from refugees at Galveston, describing conditions at Tampico.

"Do I understand," asked Senator Brandegee, "that American citizens were forced to take refuge on English and French warships while our vessels were nine miles away?"

U. S. Ships Will Exit. "Yes," replied Senator Fall, "our vessels were riding at anchor nine miles away while British and German ships were protecting our citizens."

JAPANESE GOVERNMENT SCUBBED GEN. HUERTA

Refused to Act for Dictator When Diplomatic Relations Were Broken Off.

Washington April 22.—The Japanese government it has developed was asked and declined to act for the Huerta administration through its diplomatic representatives in Washington and its consuls in the United States prior to Mexico's application to Spain to perform this mission which was accepted.

While the Japanese embassy declines to confirm the report it is known to be well founded and to have given great satisfaction to President Wilson's administration as a significant expression of Japan's friendliness towards this country.

The purpose of Japan's action is understood to have been desire to preserve the strictest neutrality between the United States and Mexico.

Among those informed of General Huerta's first choice of Japan to represent Mexico in the United States the move was construed as an attempt on his part to align one of the great world powers with his administration and thus accomplish a master stroke in diplomacy.

Americans Are Hurrying To Escape From Mexico

Huerta Authorities Are Per- mitting Citizens of United States to Proceed to the Coast Cities.

STORIES OF OUTRAGES RELATED BY REFUGEES

Reports of Americans Being Killed Not Confirmed—All Americans Will Be Out of Mexico in Short While.

Vera Cruz April 22.—Anxiety in Vera Cruz as to friends and relatives in the interior has been greatly relieved by the events of yesterday which show that the Mexican authorities are permitting Americans to come down to the coast. Today the American colony here which is growing steadily, settled down to await news from Puerto Mexico of the arrival of three train-loads of refugees from Mexico City, which the Huerta officials promised Commander Tweede of the British cruiser Essex would be dispatched from the capital last night.

The route from the capital to Puerto Mexico is long and roundabout and it is not expected that the train will reach the coast before next Friday. Rear Admiral Badger will have a vessel at Puerto Mexico to meet the refugees. He probably will not send a warship as this might arouse anti-American feeling in a town which up to the present time has been entirely quiet. The passenger boats available here for the trip to Puerto Mexico have limited wireless equipment, consequently the arrival of the refugee trains together with the names of those on board may not be learned until the steamer returns to Vera Cruz. If the refugee trains are filling to capacity as they probably will be it is estimated that 800 persons will be conveyed to Puerto Mexico. It is impossible in Vera Cruz to determine how many Americans this would leave in the capital.

REFUGEES PRAISE BRITISH OFFICER

The release by General Gustavo Vias the federal commander outside of Vera Cruz of the hundred refugees who were brought in from Soledad yesterday by Commander Tweede clears the territory between Vera Cruz and Mexico City and the direct line of communication of all Americans with the exception of a few scattered families whose whereabouts are not known.

The Soledad refugees are enthusiastic in praise of Commander Tweede whose determined stand they believe alone saved them from probable death or at least prolonged suffering. On being released from the penitentiary at Soledad where they had been confined as a protection against the mob the refugees were handed over to a Mexican major who had no instructions as to what to do with them. A train bound for Mexico City passed, but they were not permitted to board.

After waiting for hours in the blazing sun Commander Tweede's train steamed into sight bound for Vera Cruz. Several refugees approached the British officer and told of their plight. You need not worry, Commander Tweede answered. This train will not leave without you.

Commander Tweede calmly insisted that he be permitted to take the Americans with him to Vera Cruz and he refused to listen to the Mexican officer's protest that he had no authority in the matter. The Mexican officer finally hastened back to the city for instructions, returning an hour with permission for the Americans to depart.

The refugees told also of the gallant conduct of the Mexican military commander at Soledad and of the mayor who made every effort to protect the refugees from the mob in the street.

On the night when the situation was especially serious the mayor made an address to the citizens urging them to be calm. The most effective work however, was done by the commandant who seized several hundred of the most ardent rioters and pressed them into the army and sent them away to Mexico City to fill the ranks of General Huerta's forces. There was no further open display of hostility on the part of the townpeople. The refugees say that only the lower element was involved.

STORIES OF OUTRAGES TOLD BY REFUGEES.

The total number of Americans who had been imprisoned in Cordoba and here were brought down to Vera Cruz. Among them were those who earlier yesterday had been reported dead in Mexico City. Some of the names that one American was killed in front of the Hotel Isabel by a mob a few days ago. His name is not known here.

F. W. Lehmer, a ranch manager from Tuxtepec, whose home is in Omaha and who was on his way to Vera Cruz for a visit, not knowing of the developments here was taken up at Tuxtepec by federal soldiers. He, with ten others was placed in a train and taken to Cordoba.

While being taken through the streets of Cordoba a squad of young strikers was walking toward them and tried to run them down. Lehmer was hit on the head with a flag staff and another man was struck on the head with a rock. His scalp was badly cut. Lehmer said it was due to the conduct of the Mexican colonel that he ever reached the palace. He rushed from the door with a squad of police and soldiers and surrounded us.

Once in the palace we were lodged upstairs in front of the jefe politico's office but all night a mob continued to yell in the streets and several times we thought they would break in and try to get us. This colonel and his men stood by us though with guns ready for business.

Later we were put in the penitentiary, which as in the case of Soledad and for six days we slept on the stone flagging. There were two women in the cells, one with a little baby. We were allowed to send out and buy blankets and managed to get enough to eat such as it was.

About 11 o'clock Tuesday morning Tweede's train arrived. The officers were not going to let us board it but Tweede refused to let the train go without us. When we arrived at the break in the tracks hundreds of Mexican soldiers were lying in the bushes and they certainly would have finished us but for Tweede and the protection of the British flag which was carried ahead of us.

ESCAPES REFUSED BY THE DICTATOR

Commander Tweede of the British cruiser Essex who went to Mexico City several days ago to intercede for us but for Tweede and the protection of the British flag which was carried ahead of us.

Rojas assured Commander Tweede they would release all American prisoners and that all Americans desiring to do so might leave via Puerto Mexico but that the train on which they would go would not be provided with escorts.

The train on which Commander Tweede returned to Vera Cruz stopped at Soledad and picked up 100 American refugees who came from the interior. Commander Tweede found it difficult to convince General Huerta that he should allow the British minister and Sir Lionel Carden the British minister to accompany the Foreign Minister Perillo y Rojas.

General Huerta declared there was no reason for placing an escort on the refugee trains and any way he did not care to assume responsibility of the safety of passengers.

It was planned according to Commander Tweede to start three trains from Mexico City last night. It was estimated by General Huerta that the British minister and Sir Lionel Carden would be able to take out all Americans and other foreigners who wished to go. This however is regarded here as doubtful since there has been growing concern that the Americans are not the only ones anxious to escape from the capital.

Keen disappointment was displayed here by the wives of the men yet in the capital, and all other members of broken families who learned of the fact that those arrested had been released. Only slight assistance to those who had been arrested was given. It is regarded as unlikely that General Huerta even if determined to stop all American refugees will be able to get in touch with all the little leaders in the south and hold them off.

ALL AMERICANS GONE FROM TAMPIOCO.

Tampico April 22.—The American exodus from Tampico which began Wednesday April 21 virtually reached its peak today with the departure for Vera Cruz of about sixty American refugees on board the bank steamer Lanfield. The number of refugees sent from here to American ports since the movement began is 4,270.

A score of Americans still are in Tampico. They are being sheltered in the homes of Mexican friends along the Panuco river and are in little danger. No creditable reports have reached here from the interior. The oil tanks and pipe lines in the Tampico and Panuco regions but the iron and steel districts are overflowing. Many thousands of barrels of oil are being burned because no effective way of stopping the flow has been found. Oil experts here think that within a week or two days the remaining reservoirs will overflow. As a result a deluge of oil will be precipitated into the river and should this catch on fire Tampico and the mouth of the river will be deluged with destruction.

There was almost a condition of panic among the Americans last Wednesday when without warning the little squadron of American vessels under Rear Admiral Henry Blake steamed down the Panuco river leaving more than 1,000 Americans defenseless in the city. Some of the time however all those who wanted to leave have been given the opportunity to do so by a train to the interior.

Residents of the city there are a few Americans in the district back of the city who have not yet been told of the departure of the train.

The temper of the Mexican population toward the Americans during the exodus has been exciting. No violence might have been expected. No attempts were made to molest Americans without provocation. In fact, they were met with excitement. They were met with excitement. They were met with excitement.

The only American warships off this port today are the Spanish armored cruisers Des Moines and Des Moines and nine torpedo boat destroyers. The Des Moines and a few merchant vessels are in the river.

As a result of the exodus of foreign vessels the native population business in Tampico is at a standstill.

HUERTA SEEKS SUPPORT OF THE REBEL LEADERS

Mexico City April 22.—Dr. Ignacio Alcocer minister of the interior has sent further messages to all state governors and to the jefe politicos in the territories urging them in the name of the president to rush their efforts to persuade the rebel leaders to unite in defense of national integrity. Complete amnesty is promised the rebels.

The government has been compelled to take action against the retail dealer in foodstuffs. The price of flour is an exorbitant figure and one shop was wrecked yesterday by indignant clients because of the high prices asked.

The government has suspended an official list of the prices of commodities and dealers exceeding these figures will be imprisoned.

CONGRATULATIONS SENT TO VILLA AND CARRANZA

Washington April 22.—After a conference with secretaries of state today Dr. Henry Allen Tupper special peace commissioner of the International Peace Forum made public the text of a telegram sent to Villa and Carranza to General Carranza at the headquarters of the Mexican constitutionals in El Paso. The telegram was received by Tupper signed by himself, and he has been informed that Carranza and Villa will assume the attitude of neutrals in the present situation.

The telegram said: "I congratulate you on your cooperation of the United States in your brave struggle against the usurper and on the constitutionals in their enemies of freedom are hoping that the selfish purposes of the United States will be abandoned and that you will join your loyal followers to push your glorious cause to immediate success."

Dr. Tupper said he would probably see President Wilson late in the day. He explained that his standing in the negotiations with the constitutionalists still is unofficial.

EFFORT TO NEUTRALIZE TAMPIOCO TERRITORY

Washington April 22.—In view of the serious situation at Tampico where the low is endangered by the rapid accumulation of oil here, the state department has appealed to the constitutionalists in that territory to agree to neutralization of the territory including the oil fields and tanks. The British legation in Mexico City on Thursday is making an effort to induce General Huerta to join in this scheme of protection.

GEN. HUERTA DECLARES HE INTENDS TO STICK

Paris April 22.—A dispatch to The Matin from Mexico City dated Thursday said President Huerta says he has no idea of retiring from the presidency and that he will continue his efforts of treating with Rear Admiral Fletcher Zapata with 15,000 adherents offers to join in a fight against the Americans.

ments here today led to the belief that Americans in Frontera, Mexico, were in great danger. When the steamship Livingston left that port a week ago, Consul Leishman gave Captain James Jacobson a code message to be delivered to Clarence Hebert, collector of customs here with the request that it be sent to the state department at Washington at once. Agents of Latin-American companies here have been unable to communicate with points in Mexico and it is believed no direct means of communication was open to the Frontera consul. Officers and crew of the Livingston as usual during trouble in Central America are reticent as to exact conditions in Frontera. The vessel brought thirteen Americans but left them at quarantine 100 miles down the river. It is reported the Americans got aboard the Livingston with some difficulty and those left behind feared serious results if the Americans taking Vera Cruz. There are 758 refugees at quarantine.

ENDING OR MENDING.

A significant feature in the long series of attacks upon the gambling features of the New York Cotton exchange is the action taken by the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, calling for the abolition of the institution unless it conforms to its legitimate functions.

Dissatisfaction with the exchange has reached a focus when the most representative body of cotton millmen in the country go on record as favoring its abolition, if its hurtful speculative influences cannot be curbed.

The fight for regulation of the exchange was led by Lewis W. Parker, of South Carolina. Mr. Parker pointed out that only recently cotton had been quoted on the exchange at 2 cents a pound below the real value of the material, and 2 cents below the price the producer was obtaining in the south, where the staple is produced.

Such a condition manifestly is injurious, uneconomic and inexcusable. The practice inevitably has a tendency to derange the market, to delude the producer and to work loss both to him and to the honest seller.

The best test of a cotton exchange contract that is valid is found in the demand of the Vicksburg exchange for "an exchange contract upon a fair and honest basis." That stipulation is broad enough to cover the fluctuations of business and rigid enough to eliminate the manipulative feature, if it is persistently enforced.

The New York concern has recently shown a tendency to reform its ways. Anticipating action by congress, it has revised its classifications and promised to abandon the indefensible custom of using a lot of dirty old cotton stored in New York upon which to base quotations.

But even these compromises have not convinced the millmen, whose interest lies in a fair and square administration of the exchange. They have had sufficient experience with the New York Cotton exchange to justify skepticism as to its reiterated good intentions. They demand proof that is more convincing, and if that is not forthcoming they are for the wiping out of the exchange altogether.

And the millmen are right!

THE WARBUND REBUKED.
 Unless their hides are as thick as their consciences, the men who are plotting to bring on war with Mexico at any cost must have passed an uncomfortable half-hour over the rebuke the president indirectly handed them in connection with the Willacoochee incident.

The father of a dolph Summerlin had been asked to denounce the administration for listening to talk of mediation, after his son had been killed at Vera Cruz. The murderous and sophistical argument was that to avenge blood already shed we should proceed to spend more good American blood and treasure.

This patriotic old Georgian refused the invitation to treason. He answered that his life and the lives of his four surviving sons were at the disposal of his country, but that they stood no bloody scheme aimed at gratifying private greed and private ambition.

President Wilson wrote a personal letter to Mr. Summerlin, thanking him for his expressions and taking occasion to express appreciation of the Summerlin brand of patriotism.

Between the patriotism that stands for love of and loyalty to country and the "patriotism" that would draft lives and public money into its sinister and selfish service, there is an impassable gulf.

WHAT THE SAVAGES THOUGHT.
 As stirring and profound as the adventures of Othello are the adventures of Colonel Roosevelt in the Brazilian jungles. A few weeks ago he tumbled into a series of rapids on a turbulent river, but came up smiling.

Then he was reported as being engaged in exploring the "River of Doubt," a happy description of his own strenuous career.

Now news comes that in the far untrodden wilderness he has unearthed a tribe of savages who have just seen their first white man, and that man the Colonel.

Strange must have been the emotions of the Colonel as he gazed upon this historic tribe, naked as the day they were born.

But—what did the savages think of their first enterprise with the world's paramount race? That would be interesting to know!

The average savage's initial experience with civilization is via two routes: First, the sharp crack of the rifle in the hands of a rubber-hunter or a crude trader; second, a mild and plump missionary, who might be made to garnish a war counsel or a mid-forest barbecue.

And here was a white man, plump without a doubt, belligerent if need be, but smiling and oratorical. A fascinating spectacle, indeed, for the savages.

In due time we shall get the full details, aptly censored by the kindly Dr. Abbott, and bearing the staccato imprimatur of the most distinguished American today in a foreign country.

THE "EXECUTIVE SESSION."

During the past few days the United States senate voted on the question as to whether it would abolish the famous "executive sessions." The vote stood 31 to 30.

The slim margin shows just how little impressed the average senator is with the secrecy assumed to hedge a session behind closed doors. Of course the resolution on which the vote was taken excepted such subjects as foreign affairs and those touching delicate national crises.

The "executive session" has long been one of the polite and humorous fictions of official life in Washington. Several times a week, some pussy-footed senator moves to clear the public and press galleries. The chamber is emptied, save for the senators. Then debate proceeds unconfined, on the assumption that senators can speak their minds without regard to ignorant or biased criticism.

The only drawback is that the next morning the entire proceedings are likely to appear, verbatim in the newspapers.

All of which is just as well. That is a democratic nation. Now and then, of course, some emergency arises that calls for secrecy. But by and large there is nothing that transpires in either the senatorial or house branch that could not freely and without prejudice to the public welfare be given to the newspapers.

NATURE'S TREACHERIES.

A dispatch from Ecceles, W. Va., reporting a mine disaster with heavy loss of life, is reminder that here is one point of menace to human life which science has yet been able only slightly to minimize. The catastrophe rose from the usual gas explosion, which killed several men outright and entombed a great many more.

Law and scientific devices have not been able to do much either to lessen the danger from underground occurrences of this sort, or to give advance warning, so that miners may have a chance for their lives. The occupation remains still one of the most hazardous under the best of conditions.

In every manifestation, whether on the sea, in the vicinity of volcanoes, with earthquakes and hurricanes, nature loses no opportunity to impress that she is yet mistress, a treacherous mistress lording it over an age that boasts it has chained the lightning and all but annihilated distance.

WHEN CHURCH MEETS FARM.

The Constitution publishes a communication from the Rev. T. D. Ellis, presiding officer of the American district of the Methodist Episcopal church, with reference to the farm extension work being done in his jurisdiction.

Mr. Ellis states that talks on agricultural topics are made to farmers on Saturdays and not on Sundays, as The Constitution inadvertently put it.

He says also that the movement is producing definite good and that he believes it will soon spread to other parts of the state and the south.

The Constitution hopes that such will prove to be the case. Churches of every denomination can be of tangible help by using their influence to spread modern farm methods. Instead of interfering with the spiritual side, such adjuncts are apt to put greater practicability into a substantial interpretation of religion.

Villa is for eliminating Huerta by the rope route, and has expressed perfect willingness to spring the trap.

The vengeance of Villa also contemplates the smashing of the jugs with which Huerta fortifies himself.

Eliminated, Huerta need not lose hope; he has cash enough to ape Castro, and become a hero to the European bell boys.

 FRANK L. STANTON

Billville 'at Grand Opera.

I.
 We took in that Atlanta town, to hear them singers sing
 To beat the bands an' all the birds at o'p'rys of the spring;
 An' when they trilled the music out their voices went so high
 You couldn't follow with y' eyes—jes' told the world. "Good-by!"

II.
 I've heard home-singers in my time that give good singin' pool
 Whose voices hit the stings—high-risin' from the roof.
 But they couldn't hold a candle to them city singers; My
 I know the high stars caught 'e notes a-ringin' round the sky!

You fell yer soul a-follerin' them voices— all in tune,
 Seemed like they'd took my ticket fer a trim 'round the moon!
 An' on that joyful night to me this wondrous word was given "Them singers have the gift o' God, to sing the world to heaven."

Briefs From Billville.
 "War is—hell," and lots of saints and sinners are ready to go to it.

Soon as they heard the war news the rheumatism of some of our veterans escaped through their wooden legs, and now they're ready to snicker.

We are 'not interested in any Mexican gold mines. All the gold we have is buried under a blazed tree at home, and when we need a dollar we dig for it.

The votes-for-women crowd have taken the town, and the suffrage flag is flying over the city hall, hence it is that many of our best citizens are volunteering for the war to get peace.

The Home-Fight.
 We don't enjoy the Mexicans givin' us war— like sars.
 But we're lookin' the field at home today for a battle with Gin'rul Grass
 We see the corn a-climb—its tender blades dew-bring.
 An' the rounders of the cotton-bolls, makin' the fields snow-white

The fur-of-war-fires burnin'— Burnin' mighty red,
 But there's a fight in the home-fields, in the battle-ranks for bread

Ole Gin'rul Grass is a tough 'un, wherever he makes a stand
 It takes knee-bladed weapons to drive him from the land,
 He never calls a truce at all it's "On-ward"—night an' morn,
 He routs the cotton-legions an' the soldiers of the corn

Oh, we think o' the war-fires burnin'— Burnin' mighty red,
 But ours is the fight of the home-fields, in the battle-ranks for bread

An Old Friend In Georgia.
 "Our old friend, Dr. James W. Lee, now of St. Louis, was in our midst yesterday," says The Billville Patriot. "He has been away three years, but me men out of town who passed our office where we stood talking over old times with this distinguished preacher and author, stopped to shake his hand. For three years he was kept busy returning the greetings of the people who have known him to love him. The doctor presented us with a copy of his famous book, 'The Religion of Science.' It recalls to us the fact that once, when we were seeking light from Science, we came near to losing our religion, but this book has harmonized everything. We are on higher ground since reading it."

The Rhyming Correspondent.
 The Redbone correspondent of The Whitsett Courier sends the news in rhyme.
 "I'm proud to say the fish are bitin' Luke old Harv, at this writin' (That's what the Amnians fellows felt from the noisy river tell us)
 The early candidates and late Are swingin' on the farmer's gate. Some have a hope to win the prize Whilst others run for exercise

"War talk is heard on every hand, An' 'Dixie' rings from the band, Stirring folks across the coast
 Who think the civil war ain't over. Some are for war—to fight an' kill, Whilst others fight the moonshine still An' here's the word of mant an' sinner— "The moonshine still 's always winner!"

A Dreaded Possibility.
 A western editor says that, "considering the fact that the Balkan blouse was a style of dress which grew out of the late continental wars, the Mexican war may bring forth something scant and airy, approaching the style of the Mexican dog."

Heard on the Border.
 If old Huerta would take time To look across the river and think
 He'd know the only way to win And save his unregenerate skin— Too tough to go to glory in— Is by his quick elimination Hitting Them Again.

 George Bailew has this of the old North State patriots
 "Postmaster General Burelson recently announced the appointment of 200 fourth-class postmasters in North Carolina. This means there are 200 Tar Heel patriots who believe that Burelson is a saint immortal and that the millennium has dawned"

COLOMBIA.
 Colombia is widely recognized by most of us as a small body of land up under the shoulder blade of South America which failed to look out for the cars when Roosevelt started to dig the Panama canal and which lost its vermillion appendix as a result.

Colombia is usually colored green on the map and is about as large as a postage stamp. Of course the trained observer knows that it is really larger than that, but most Americans would hardly think of waiting for the next train across it if walking was good.

That is, Americans who have never been in Colorado would not think of waiting for a train in order to cross it. Those who have crossed the high peaks have been surprised by three facts. In the first place, there are no trains to wait for. In the second place, walking is interfered with by a patch of mountains higher and more extensive than the Rockies, and in the third place Colombia has a river 1,000 miles long about 1,500 miles of seacoast and a large flock of mountains 18,000 feet high. It has a waterfall 400 feet high and a third place Colombia makes the Virginia Highways look like a toy and enough scenery to choke a guide book. It owns and operates about 600 miles of the equator. It also has gold and silver mines which produce $200,000 in the nineteenth century. However, most of this money has gone elsewhere and paper money is used in Colombia. For a bushel of $5 Colombian bills, one can buy a very fair cigar.

From the number of its inhabitants it has been collecting them ever since 1850 and now has about 4,000,000. It has been hard for Colombia to produce citizens as fast as revolutions have killed them off, but it is now slowly forging ahead and has had no revolutions since 1901.

Colombia produces rubber, bananas, coffee and Panama hats in great quantities. It has a splendid coastline, but its hidden in the mountains and can be reached by going 600 miles up the Magdalena river in a transplanted Mississippi river steamboat. Colombia had a George Washington in Bonaparte and a George Washington in Bonaparte 100 years ago, but it also had an Alexander Hamilton, a Lincoln, a Roosevelt, a Thomas A. Edison, a Jim Hill and an Andrew Carnegie to get it into good running order.

FINANCIERS.
 A financier is a man who can make two dollars grow for himself where one grew for some one else before.

The financier does not do this by earning the money. That would be too simple. Any one can earn money. He does it by ways which common people and governments are not supposed to be able to understand. If the financier had a dollar and needed two, he would not chase a woman for it and earn another. He would use the dollar as first payment on a ten dollar bill and he would then bond the bill for a twenty dollar bill. He would then change the ten dollars for doing this. Then he would sell an option on the twenty-dollar bill for seven dollars for one dollar to forty-five people and would then dispose of a half interest in the entire transaction for $15.00, $2.00 down and the rest payable in short term notes.

This is the difference between a financier and a common mutt who would buy the business.

It is thus readily apparent that a financier is a very great man and should be treated with respect. Financiers have done this world a great deal of good by coaxing money out of stockings and old stoves and setting it to work. So long as the rest of the world keeps on getting up early and laboring all day to produce crops and things, financiers prosperously and play pool for an automobile a point after their day's business is over. But if the rest of the world ever stopped working for a few years, the financier would starve to death unless some one led him out into a field and showed him how to plant carrots.

This, however, does not prevent the financier from being wonderfully scornful of ordinary folk. Nothing makes one of these great men so mad as to be hauled up before a common old supreme court and asked impertinent questions about his business.

When a financier gets hold of a railroad, he does wonderful things with it, buying other railroads right and left and increasing its capital stock and bonded indebtedness beyond all belief. When the railroad fails, he lets out the financier, lets it to government interference. It is too bad that the man who spends $11,000 a year on a $5,000 income and goes broke can't pay it to government interference and continue to be proud and haughty.

More Trouble.

 Cole Blease says he will be elected to the United States senate from South Carolina and a Blease man will succeed him as governor—and the devil of it is, it is probably true.

DAILY GRST STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

NO POLITICS FOR GOVERNOR BROWN UNTIL LABOR UNION ISSUE SETTLED.
 Politics have been tabooed by ex-Governor Joseph M. Brown until he has concluded his fight against the labor unions. He made this positive and unequivocal statement Wednesday to a representative of The Constitution.

The gravest question now facing the people of Georgia is whether union labor shall be permitted to break the laws of the state at will, and until that issue is settled I have made up my mind neither to talk about nor to take any part in politics," declared Governor Brown. "Circumstances have made me the spokesman for the state in the fight against what is practically organized anarchy, and I intend to devote my efforts to it until the people of Georgia have awakened to the gravity of the situation they face."

If there was a man with idea, that man is the former chief executive of Georgia, who is now passing his days quietly at his home in Marietta. His intense earnestness is noticeable in every word as he speaks on what he terms the threat of union labor. It is evident that he is concentrating his attention to this subject, and is, so far as is possible, eliminating himself for the present from active participation in any political contest.

Although seemingly loth to digress from the subject of the issue between himself and the organized labor forces of the state, Governor Brown is not to be taken in. He is aware that his name is being mentioned by the papers of the state in connection with the governorship and the United States senate, but he has no intention to leave politics alone for the present.

Fractions From Political Opponents.
 "I have been in receipt since the publication last Sunday of the first chapter of a sensational pamphlet, 'The Georgia Crisis and the Country,' declared Governor Brown, "of hundreds of letters and newspaper clippings, indorsing the stand I have taken. The most significant feature about these letters and editorials is that many of them are from people who frankly admit that they never supported me in any of my races, and who, without exception, have been kind enough to declare that should I ever again announce for any office I would have their cordial indorsement."

"These expressions have simply served to convince me that the people of Georgia are with me in the fight that has been thrust upon me for the curbing of the open defiance of the laws of the state, which the union labor is willing to undertake at any time. I am confident that should I be elected or a group of men, put their allegiance to the union label above that due to the great seal of Georgia, the situation is one approaching anarchy. The people of the state are simply ignorant of the danger that threatens them, or there would long before this been such a wave of protest from every nook and corner of Georgia that the claws of union labor would long ago have been clipped."

"Some time ago the labor leaders of the state forced me as chief executive to take official notice of their conduct. At their Macon convention they demanded that I put it up to me as a private citizen to draft and issue a warning against them. They have thrown down the gauntlet, and I am, through no initiative of my own, compelled to take up the cudgels against them."

"I have some facts and figures in the second communication which I will give to the press of the state on Sunday on this subject that will amaze the public. It deals with the negro in labor unionism last Sunday, next Sunday I will show that union labor is controlled, by foreigners and is an alien institution."

Proposes Change In Primary Rules.
 In commenting upon the suggestion that the state executive committee might be called upon to make a change in the rules adopted at its meeting a few weeks ago, Governor Brown put himself squarely on record. He expressed his opinion that he declared that even should changes be necessary later on that no good could result from action at this time.

As previously declared, he "change the rules made only three weeks ago, on account of conditions prevailing now, and which may not prevail at the time of the primary, or even a month from this time. If the committee will amend the rules now, the probability is that before the end of a month up would jump somebody else wanting them changed back again on the same plea of emergency."

"The only possible result of calling the committee together again would mean more political agitation and that's just what we don't want. If changes are necessary they can be made ignored until after August 1 as now, and with much better chance of making the rules the ones best calculated to secure the accurate expression of the will of the people at the polls."

NO RACE SUICIDE IN BEN HILL. SAYS GOVERNOR SLATON ON RETURN.

Governor Slaton returned to Atlanta Wednesday from Fitzgerald, Ga., where he went to deliver a speech at an educational rally. "Judging by the number of children in the audience, Ben Hill county is in no danger of race suicide," said Governor Slaton. "I don't think I ever saw so many children before in my life."

Governor Slaton is conducting the official duties of his office just as if he was not engaged in a senatorial campaign. He goes to the polls to hear of the results of the election before he announces for the senate, and this plan he proposes to continue until the primary is over.

The campaign could not be in better shape than it seems to be at the present time. Practically every letter I get is of the most encouraging nature, and I am getting hundreds of them every week," he said.

HUGH M. DORSEY IS URGED TO MAKE SEVERAL RACES.

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey is, just at present, evomung large in the minds of many politicians throughout the state, and he is daily in receipt of letters from every section of Georgia urging him to offer for one of the fat political plums that are now being sought after with preference.

To none of these writers has Mr. Dorsey held out any definite hope that he will enter a race, but friends who claim to be close to him state that it would not surprise them if he made an announcement before many days are over.

He has been urged to run for governor; he has been asked to oppose Hoke Smith for the senate, he has been requested to make the race for the house of representatives, and O. Bacon not only has he received many letters, but he has been worked on by delegations.

In a conversation with a friend Wednesday, Dorsey left the impression that he had by no means put these honors out of his mind, and while he would not commit himself definitely, he did not deny that he has been looking toward them.

Mutual friends of Joseph M. Brown and Mr. Dorsey are known to have had conferences.

The attitude of many people toward "Little Joe" seems to be identical with that of the friends of Hugh M. Dorsey. Mr. Brown has been urged to run for governor, for the short term senatorial place and to oppose Senator Hoke Smith for the senate. In the past two weeks has been steadily increasing, but up to the present time he has given no indication of his intentions. Close friends state positively that he can be depended on to make one of the races mentioned, and one they do not state. Perhaps their enthusiasm for him to enter is father of the statement that he will not do this far. He has been urged to run for the house of representatives for the belief that he would cast his hat in the ring. Mr. Brown has a habit of keeping his own counsel and—

But a little later on we shall see what he shall do.

W. H. BURWELL IN THE CITY.

HE IS HELD INDEFINITE.
 Hon W. H. Burwell, of Sparta, speaker of the house of representatives, has been in the city for two days. As yet Mr. Burwell, who has been frequently spoken of as a probable successor to Governor Brown, has not come forward with a definite announcement.

It was hinted that Judge W. E. Thomas and Judge Nat E. Harris were to hold a conference early this week, either in Macon or Marietta. This has been denied by Judge Thomas, who is still in a receptive mood in regard to the gubernatorial race, but has not definitely decided.

It is thought that Mr. Burwell will make up his mind one way or another as soon as the attitude of Judge Thomas is known.

ANEW
 BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Dr. Elliot, former President of Harvard University, recently wrote in a magazine article in which he gave his reasons for a long healthy life. And this was one of the most important of his long life and happiness rules. He said that when he found his plans blocked or defeated, he immediately turned about, and started something else where progress and interest looked bright.

He who starts each day anew—as though no day ever existed before, will rise some wonderful morning to realize that he is one of the great souls of his generation.

In the sparkling and sparkling of Nature that is able to thrill the most matter-of-fact man, his story is that of "Anew" Each unfolding leaf, each budding flower, tells Anew its little tale of wonder and of progress. And just because we expect it to muster its processes every spring over and over again, we hardly notice—so that with each of its comings, we passively feel that it is but the same story retold.

But don't you ever let Nature think that you even suspect that its yearly processes Anew are of the past. Rise within your soul and bow in reverence, for the springtime is for the glory of men.

Each day you will want new thrills and new sensations and new thoughts stimulations and you will be helpless to gain them. So while you may, develop the faculty of trying out new things as a part of your daily experiences. Do not be content to do things and conditions. And when you become weary and discouraged and the old things really bore you—start other things—become Anew.

Lightweight Electric Railway Cars in Paris.
 (From The Electric Railway Journal)
 The progress in car design which has characterized the electric railway industry in this country within the past few years has had a parallel abroad where the same interest is being expressed not only in center-entrance cars but also in light-weight cars.

Most of the tramway companies in Paris work under serious handicaps in securing the best results in car design. They are limited to very narrow widths, usually a feet or less. As the law usually provides that no passengers shall stand in the aisle, it is the practice to arrange for other space for them up to the limit of the number of standing passengers permitted under the law. Hence some of the space which in America would be allowed for seats is taken up by standing passengers, and this increases the weight of the car per seat. However, the weight per seat of a number of the recent French cars have been brought down by the use of light frame construction.

IOWA WOMAN TELLS OTHERS

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Carried Her Safely Through Change of Life.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"At the Change of Life the doctor said I would have to give up my work and take my bed for some time as there was no help for me but to lie still. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and kept up my work and now I am over the Change and that is all I took. It was better for me than all the doctor's medicines I tried. Many people have no faith in patent medicines but I know this is good."—Mrs. E. J. RICKETS, 354 8th Avenue, West, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

ATLANTA'S CENSUS IS 179,292 PEOPLE

Atlanta is now a city of 179,292 people. You can take the above figures as being absolutely accurate, because they are taken from the 1914 report of the United States census bureau, which has just been made public. The 1910 census gave Atlanta a population of 154,935, which, compared with the latest figures, show an actual gain of 24,357, or 15.7 per cent. The gain of 22,146 accredited to New Orleans, Birmingham, Atlanta's most jealous sister, is shown to have a population in 1914 of 166,154, against 134,008 in the last report, or a gain of only 11,815.

Atlanta's gain in population in 1914 is considerably greater than a majority of the southern cities.

The census gives New Orleans a population in 1914 of 381,321, or an increase of only 23,146 over the previous report.

The United States is now a country of 109,000,000 people, according to the census. The population of this country and its possessions was fixed four years ago at 101,748,269, and accordingly there will have been an estimated gain of more than 7,000,000 persons during that time. The estimated population of continental United States is only 184,488,713, which is compared with 174,928 shown in the 1910 census.

The population of New York is estimated by the report to be 23,132,577. This includes all the boroughs of New York city. Compared with the 1910 census, New York claims a gain of 368,554.

Chicago's Population.

The same bulletin shows Chicago's population to be 3,338,325, as compared with the 1910 census of 3,355,282. The population of the state of Illinois increased from 5,986,781 to 6,248,349.

Estimates are required primarily for use in the census bureau in estimating the population of the various states for years other than the census year. The so-called "artificial" method was adopted for computing these estimates. It is the simplest, and it has been shown by experience to come nearer accuracy in the majority of cases than any other formula rests on the assumption that the increase in population for each year since the enumeration is equal to the annual increase from 1910 to 1914.

Other cities which have shown substantial gains between the years 1910 and 1914.

GOVERNMENT WINS IN DYNAMITE CASE

Chicago, April 29.—The United States court here today granted the government's petition of the appeals of Olaf A. Swetmore, Richard H. Houston, William Bernhart, labor leaders, convicted in the dynamite conspiracy case.

The court also directed that argument on the petition for a rehearing be set for May 15 and that counsel for all the defendants in the dynamite case appear in court that day.

Another order denied the petition for a rehearing filed by William Shupe, of Chicago, and Peter J. Smith and George Adamson, of Cleveland.

The order of the court of appeals directing the presence of counsel for the defendants in the dynamite case, was interpreted as indicating that the court will direct that the defendants be taken directly to the Leavenworth penitentiary to finish their terms of imprisonment.

How to Look Years Less Than Your Age

The most aged face will look years younger after ordinary mercolized wax for from ten days to two weeks. This remarkable substance, because it is a natural product of nature, actually removes the thin veil of faded or withered outer cuticle, a little at a time. Gradually the fresher, more youthful skin underneath is revealed. This absorption process being a purely scientific one, a purely natural complexion is acquired—quite different from the artificial complexion which appears by applying greasy, smothering, and often bearing painful evidence of childlessness. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to rejuvenate any complexion. It is put on either in the evening, and removed mornings with warm water.

To eradicate such age marks as wrinkles and furrows, make a wash lotion by dissolving 1 oz. powdered mercolized wax in 4 oz. of water. This wonderful astringent and tonic properties. It quickly effaces all kinds of blemishes, such as freckles, and restores the skin firm, smooth and young looking.—(adv.)

A Woman's Ambition

Nearly every woman has two ambitions—the one she makes obvious to the world in her pursuit of knowledge, artistic or social glory, and the one which she is cherishing in silence, for her vanity will not permit her to admit that she is eager to be beautiful.

Not every woman is beautiful of face—this she can not help.

Not every woman has the form of Venus—but the endeavor is worth while if she adopts the right kind of corset.

A "Nemo" or "Smart Set" will mold a woman's figure in the idealized natural lines. These corsets are scientifically designed to protect a woman's health, as well as to give her the figure required for the present modes.

This Is Corset Instruction

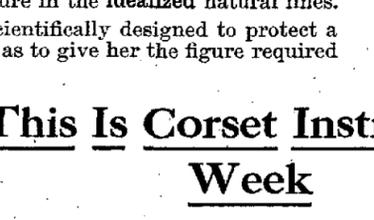

Few women know how to adjust and wear a corset properly. Still fewer know when and why a corset is doing them physical harm.

That explains a majority of corset troubles.

The wise woman of today studies the corset problem, because it means so much to her health and good looks.

Mrs. Richardson, Instructor from the Nemo Hygienic-Fashion Institute, is giving just such instructions here this week, explaining the special features of the newest Nemo and Smart Set Corsets.

Come and learn practical corset-facts that will do you lasting good.

"Rosenkavalier Proves Treat; Comedy of the Opera Is Marked Goritz and Ober Score Big Hit"

By Isaac Dooly.

Why, when it was announced that Alfred Hertz was to direct Strauss' opera, did any one question that "Der Rosenkavalier" would be a brilliant operatic success?

With his masterful understanding of German art, it is not difficult for him to read—and read superbly into the very spirit of Strauss, and make of "Rosenkavalier" as a performance as great a musical joy as one of Strauss' more meritorious compositions might have proven under a less able conductor.

It in no way takes away from the achievement of the galaxy of celebrities who so well sustained the aesthetic ideals of Strauss in the musical whole of his opera last night to declare that Mr. Hertz first and foremost gave the master stroke in the interpretation of the much discussed new opera. The vitality of his leadership met what may be called the vitality of the music, while the quality of the music cannot be questioned.

There are those who would carp at the hackneyed theme: the aged gentleman, with the accompanying flirtatious ambitions; the pretty, vain princess, whose lover seeks to win the beloved of another, the gay Lothario, loving first one and then the other; the masquerading of the same, the old man made grotesque, and finally the fairy tale end with the lovers in fond embrace.

Opera of Music and Comedy.

There was music and comedy in the opera last night which delighted, and won a cordial appreciation from an audience entirely happy.

The Cyranoid nose of the Baron, and his Falstaffian figure and conduct—the noisy old rake that he was, provoked hearty laughter—a wholesome indulgence not always possible at grand opera.

Otto Goritz, as the Baron, sang with all the strength and freedom and ease always distinguishing his great voice, and he sustained his record as an incomparable operatic comedian.

Wrong as it is, the world enjoys the naughty humanness of the "Gay Lothario," when he goes "a-courtin'," here, there and everywhere, but when the role is so skillfully portrayed as it was by Madame Ober last night, the character proves delicious—irresistible.

As the lover of the princess, and with an eye for adventure, Mme. Ober began winning the audience in the marvelously beautiful first act, marking the entrance of the rose cavalier, one of the composer's finest inspirations—called by one critic "a jubilant up-soaring, golden orchestral outburst as stunning almost as the sunrise in 'Zarathustra'."

She completed her conquest in the trio in the last act—a rapturous outburst of music, the very gem of the opera. Her voice, clear, free, flexible, so rounded in its sweetness, gave itself so entirely to the dramatic expression of the part that her interpretation would have been entirely satisfying even without her excellent acting.

Especially did she prove herself the artist-actress in the complex part—first of the woman taking the man's part, and then that of man taking a woman's part, when "Octavian," masquerading as a maid, met the Baron in the inn.

The party and the poetry in Madame Hempel's voice had opportunity admirably embraced in her singing of the soprano role of the princess.

The prophetic song in the first act, telling that tragedy in the life of the beautiful woman apprehending age, was one of the beautiful and artistic features of the opera.

Isido Cristallo is a new tenor in Atlanta, and his portrayal of the tenor role of the singer was charming.

Anna Case, as Sophie, and Rita Fornia, as Marianna, met the appreciation their artistic work deserved.

Rosina Van Dyck, Sophie Estlin and Leonora Sparks, as the "three orphans," completed the balance and harmony of the production, manifesting from beginning to end the best effort and finish of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Large Crowd Hears New Opera; Audience Was Brilliant One

By SIDNEY ORMOND.

Last night's audience must have found himself thinking of another and not so far-distant day, the vast majority were not greatly impressed with the crowd.

Still, the crowd at the Auditorium last night was interesting from many angles. First, there was the beauty of the women. Next there was the gorgeous array of costumes.

We judge from an extensive correspondence during the past forty years, that a host of people trace their rheumatism to a part given to their fathers and grandfathers.

Sheriff C. W. Mangum Makes Strong Address to Fulton County Citizens

Sheriff C. W. Mangum, candidate for re-election as sheriff of Fulton county, is not a man who rushes into the public press on the slightest of pretenses, but when he does have anything to say, he says it in a clear and convincing manner.

"The people of Fulton county and of every county in Georgia know that a county is a place of detention and not one of punishment, and they have not and will not consent to it being made a chamber of horrors. The state guarantees an accused a fair and impartial trial and makes it obligatory upon a sheriff to keep and protect a prisoner even at the risk of his own life. This I and my deputies have done."

NEGRO DEFIES ARREST AND FIRES ON POLICE

Black Barricades Himself in House and Offers Resistance.

A near repetition of the famous Pittsburg riot occurred Wednesday afternoon, when George Glover, a negro, of No. 21 Luster street, barricaded himself in his home and defied arrest by the police for half an hour. Call Officer Barfield had gone to Glover's home on the complaint of his wife, who stated that he had beaten her and run her from the house into the street.

The officer found the door barricaded by means of trunks piled up against it. The negro opened fire on the policeman, who was compelled to retreat until he could secure the reserves. Several policemen rushed to aid him, and, with their aid and a man named Whitaker, they proceeded to enter the house. The negro then surrendered.

TWO HUSBANDS GIVEN DIVORCES WEDNESDAY

Two divorces were granted Wednesday in Fulton superior court. Total divorce was granted to Rollin H. Kimball from Oriana Kimball, who sought the divorce on the ground that his wife jeered at him on the street, to his extreme embarrassment, and threatened to kill him. Total divorce was also granted to H. L. McConnell from Bessie McConnell. McConnell alleged that his wife spent his money foolishly in "ice cream joints," neglected her home and children, and at length, in his absence, took all the household goods except a bed and mattress and went to her mother in South Carolina.

MISSING ATLANTA MAN IS SAFE AT VERA CRUZ

W. B. Wofford, the Atlanta man captured several days ago by the Mexican federalists and thrown into jail at Cordoba, is safe under the protection of the United States soldiers at Vera Cruz, according to a cablegram which he sent on Wednesday to his brother, George T. Wofford, of Birmingham, who telephoned the news to his four sisters living in Atlanta. Mr. Wofford has been the superintendent of the plant of the Mexican Rubber company, at Oaxaca, for about twelve years. He was hastening to Vera Cruz when captured. His message assuring his Atlanta relatives of his safety is as follows: "Safe in Vera Cruz, under protection U. S. army."

The stage has robbed Atlanta of one of her most popular and widely known hotel clerks in the returning of "Ted" Jenkins, lately of the Incecof hotel, to the footlights with his talented wife and Mrs. Jenkins left several days ago for New York city, where they will take roles in a comedy sketch.

JACKSON IS APPOINTED UNION TRUST RECEIVER

Judge Bell, of Fulton superior court, has appointed A. W. Jackson as permanent receiver of the Union Trust company, upon the petition of the Poplar Lodge company, owners of 200 shares of the Union Trust company's stock. The petitioner alleges that the Union Trust company sold approximately $100,000 worth of stock at one-third cash and the rest in notes, and put so much of the money in the pockets of its promoters that the company derived no benefit. It is alleged in the petition that salesmen were allowed 25 per cent commission. The Union Trust company pleaded that it has been unable to collect the notes due it.

SIDEWALKS CONTRACT IS APPROVED BY MAYOR

Satisfied that Alderman John S. Owens has no connection with the corporation, Mayor Woodward yesterday announced that he approved the contract the city entered into with W. L. Bishop and the Cement Stone and Tile company, for laying all the city sidewalks in 1914. The mayor commented that from his investigations he is satisfied with the present status of the company, and remarked that if there is any "is wrong" it will come out later.

The contract with the Cement Stone and Tile company is regarded to be the best the city has ever made for tile sidewalks. W. L. Bishop, president of the corporation, says he estimates that the city will save approximately $10,000 for the property owners under the new contract.

Lower courts held the claim of Alexander Eccles & Co. against the railroad to be not valid and an appeal was taken, which resulted in the decision today.

Bismarck—the "Greatest of the Germans"

BISMARCK, like all Germans, prized Personal Liberty as the breath of life—a NATURAL RIGHT to be guarded and defended at any cost. Among our millions of law-abiding German-American citizens there is not a man who does not consider it insolent tyranny of the most odious kind for any legislation to issue this command: "Thou shalt NOT eat this—thou shalt NOT drink that." Germans know that there is no evil in the light wines and beers of their fathers. EVIL ONLY IS IN THE MAN WHO MISUSES THEM. Fifty-seven years ago ANHEUSER-BUSCH founded their great institution upon the tenets of the Constitution of the United States. During these fifty-seven years they have honestly brewed an honest beer—the kind that has added to the temperance of nations. Their great brand—BUDWEISER—is demanded throughout the world. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles, proving it to be in a class by itself.

had, seven of them he handled unassisted, some of them difficult ones. The game, as a whole, was the best played game of the season at Ponce de Leon.

The Turtles scored their only run in the opening inning. Allison drew the only free bases that Perryman issued, stole second and counted when Holland misjudged Stark's fly and let it fall safely for a hit.

The Crackers tied the game in their half of the third, Jennings led off with a single, stole second and scored on Eibel's out and scored when Stark headed Holland's rap wide to the infield.

The game was won in the fifth. After the first two men had been retired, Johnson walked, McConnell and Eibel scored them both with a triple to deep left, and Holland scored Eibel with a single to center.

In the seventh, Jennings tripled to left and tallied when Eibel singled.

PROBING THE DEALS OF NEW HAVEN SYSTEM

Washington, April 29.—Some of the details of the deal by which the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad acquired the franchises and right-of-way of the New York, Boston and West Chester, and the Port Chester lines were given the interstate commerce commission today by Oakleigh Thorne, former president of the Trust Company of America, of New York, who in conjunction with Maraden J. Perry, of Providence, engineered the transaction.

Money Not Accounted For. Frank S. Fowler, examiner for the commission, carried the stand, stated that examination of the books of the Millbrook company, organized by Thorne to transact financial affairs of the two roads after their acquisition, showed that more than $1,000,000 of the $1,400,000 had not been accounted for in the expenditures.

When Mr. Thorne took the stand he said he took up the matter of the so-called "theft" of the $1,000,000 from the Boston and Maine and West Chester roads and the New Haven, in June or July, 1906. A letter from Thorne to Miller on October 13, 1906, advising secrecy as to details prior to the consummation of the deal was read into the record.

DRASTIC REGULATION FOR CORPORATIONS

Final Draft of Interstate Trade Commission Bill Approved by Subcommittee.

Washington, April 29.—The final draft of a drastic bill to regulate interstate corporations was approved today by a subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Members of the committee tonight said that the bill is radically different from that being framed in the house.

According to members of the subcommittee, the bill proposed in the trade commission an engine designed to be powerful in government affairs.

Protections for violations of the terms of the bill would be instituted by the department of justice in the proper courts.

The committee's draft proposes a stringent guard over capitalization and would provide that stock issues shall be made on actual property values.

Authority also would be given the new body to determine the value of corporations in interstate business as well as in competition.
