

3 More "Disappear" in Juarez; People on Border, Aroused, Condemn Stand-Pat Policy

Friends Fear That Two Englishmen Who Went to Search for Benton Have Also Been Shot—Gustav Bauch Missing.

EL PASO MASS MEETING CHARGES WASHINGTON IS CONCEALING FACTS

Resolutions Declare Mexicans Have Killed Americans Because They Were Americans—Say Government Winks at Desperado Leaders.

El Paso, Texas, February 20.—Two more Englishmen are reported as having "disappeared" in Juarez. The report came tonight from Samuel Stewart, who says the men, John Lawrence and a companion named Curtis, went to Juarez Wednesday to search for William S. Benton.

Stewart tonight expressed the fear that they, like Benton, had been shot. Gustav Bauch, who was on trial for being a spy, also disappeared in Juarez today. Thomas D. Edwards, American consul at Juarez, said that when friends of Bauch went to visit him with bedding and food he was not in the cell where he had been held incommunicado since last Sunday, while his trial was being held.

A storm of indignation broke out today along the border when it became known that William S. Benton, a British subject and wealthy landholder in Mexico, had been executed by rebels in Juarez, after he had made a protest to General Francisco Villa that alleged deprivations of the constitutionalists.

A mass meeting was held tonight and resolutions were adopted censuring the state department at Washington for its alleged suppression of the consular report of the Benton case and calling on congress to demand from the department of state a full record of alleged crimes and outrages against foreigners in Mexico.

The meeting came as the climax of a day of excitement caused by news of the death of Benton. The meeting was first called for Cleveland Square, but Mayor Kelly, in a letter to George Curry, former governor of New Mexico, asked him to rent a hall, as he regarded an open meeting as dangerous. The mayor said he would suppress any attempt to hold the meeting in the open. A crowd was sent and messengers turned the crowd from Cleveland square to the building.

Resolutions adopted tonight read: Whereas, Mr. William S. Benton, a highly respected and honored citizen of the state of Chihuahua and a subject of the United Kingdom, was kidnapped and assassinated at Ciudad Juarez, Mex., by Francisco Villa, the citizen of Mexico, and the citizens of northern Mexico, in an indignation meeting held in El Paso February 20, 1914, wishing to be known as the secretary of the American people the following brief statement:

The cold-blooded and heartless assassination of Mr. William S. Benton, the fact that he went to Juarez to protect against the confiscation of his property, and the fact that he had already been committed against all foreigners living in Mexico who have been kidnapped and their property destroyed, in many cases women have been outraged and foreigners murdered solely on account of their nationality.

It is believed that the state department at Washington has persistently suppressed facts concerning the true conditions in Mexico and endeavored through inspired newspapers and by other means to mislead the American people and form a public opinion for political purposes in support of a policy that is ruinous to all foreign people themselves. In support of this statement we would call attention to the fact that while a great many Americans had lost their lives in Mexico, not one had been murdered solely on account of his nationality.

This statement we know to be absolutely false, and we believe there are reports on file in the state department from our own consuls to the effect that the state department has suppressed such cases as the assassination of Mr. Burton at Santa Rosalia, Mr. Hayes in northern Chihuahua, and in every one of these cases they were murdered by the state department.

CAPITAL SHOCKED BY VILLA'S DEED

Diplomatic Circles Stirred. Many Foresee Interesting Developments as Result of Execution of Britisher.

Washington, February 20.—A slumbering Mexican situation was brought quickly to a point of intense international interest today by the death of a message saying William S. Benton, a British subject, had been killed in Juarez by order of General Francisco Villa, the constitutionalist commander.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador, conferred with Secretary Bryan about it; President Wilson and his cabinet discussed it briefly, and the state department ordered a thorough investigation by consular representatives on the border.

In this case, for the first time since the present revolution began a year ago, the present government of the United States government to Mexican factions to protect foreigners, went unheeded, though there is every evidence to show that both the British ambassador and the state department were advised too late of Benton's impending fate to intercede specifically for him.

The news shocked officials generally, and it is believed that General Villa fully realized the position of the American government in regard to the protection of foreigners in Mexico, particularly in the north of that country.

Discussion of the case between the ambassador and the secretary of state developed clearly the absolute responsibility on the part of the United States for the killing of British subjects, even though the investigation of the case has not been unjustifiable. The United States, it is asserted, had acted as a friend and exerted every effort to save the man's life, and the fact that through its consular offices the American government might have virtually recognized the de facto control of Villa over a certain portion of northern Mexico, it is held in nowise increased its liability.

The British government, through the embassy, was informed that the state department was waiting here in a report upon the tragedy from American Consul Edwards.

Though the report referred to is not likely to reach here for a few days, details of the incident began to filter through the capital here as having any connection with the death of Benton. The information which reached the state department is that Villa had several days.

Defying the guard to shoot, a negro convict named Willie Ward made a successful escape from the chain gang attached to Roslyn camp, but working near Hapeville, Friday afternoon.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND MAY OMIT WORD "OBEY"

London, February 20.—Omission of the word "obey" from the marriage service of the Church of England appeared to find considerable support today among the bishops at a meeting of convocation of the province of Canterbury, now in session in London.

VICTORY AT HAND IN TREATY FIGHT

Washington, February 20.—By defeating amendments to general arbitration treaties pending before congress, the senate today took the first decisive step in the policy of the administration to lift the United States from what officials have characterized as its "isolated position" in foreign relations.

The supreme test of strength in the treaty controversy came on an amendment to the Spanish treaty, urged by Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, which would withhold from arbitration international issues, such as immigration, the question of admitting aliens to domestic schools, affairs involving the Monroe doctrine and Panama toll exemption. This amendment was rejected by a vote of 13 to 40, more than two-thirds majority.

This result was regarded by administration leaders tonight as marking the end of the controversy over the government's foreign policy and assuring the ratification of treaties which expired more than a year ago, with Great Britain, Japan, Italy, Spain, Norway, Sweden, Portugal and Switzerland.

No Further Amendments. After the vote had been taken it was agreed that none of the treaties should be put upon their ratification today, but that amendments should be discussed as applied to all disposition of the treaties to be defeated tonight that no further amendments would be pressed.

That the big fight was over was conceded even by opposition leaders among them Senators Chamberlain and O'Gorman, who conducted the attack on the treaties from within the democratic breastworks. When the Chamberlain amendment had been rejected, the British treaty was called up. The amendment of Senator Chamberlain again was offered and rejected without a roll call. Other amendments then were proposed, one of them referring only to the question of Panama tolls, which was rejected after prolonged debate.

Champions of arbitration as an international principle and leaders in the democratic ranks expressed gratification at the result and many of them said in an indication that the desire of the president for repeal of the Panama tolls provision would pass without difficulty. That this will be the next important foreign issue to occupy the attention of congress there is no doubt.

POLICEMAN KILLS MAN HE DISCOVERED IN ROOM WITH WIFE

Knoxville, Tenn., February 20.—W. T. Farmer, a member of the Knoxville police force, shot and killed D. D. Booser in the former's home tonight.

Farmer claims that when he opened the door of a room in which he found his wife and Booser, that the latter jumped for a pistol hanging in a holster near him. Farmer says he then shot and wounded Booser, ran a distance of nearly a block before he fell dead.

A little 3-year-old son of the Farmer, lying asleep on the floor of the room, was not awakened by the noise. Farmer surrendered.

THREE ARE KILLED BY TRAIN BANDITS

Bellingham, Wash., February 20.—Three passengers on a Great Northern passenger train, bound for Vancouver, British Columbia, resisted three bandits tonight and were shot dead.

Thomas B. Wadsworth, a Canadian Pacific conductor, of Vancouver, British Columbia; R. L. Lee, of Bremerton, Wash., and M. B. McElhose, a traveling salesman, of Vancouver, British Columbia, were the men killed.

The bandits boarded the train at Burlington, a few miles south of the place where they attacked the passengers in the day coaches. They rode in the smoking car until they were ready to act. They then went into the vestibule between the smoking car and the day coach, and tied handkerchiefs about their faces and entered the day coach with drawn revolvers.

CROWD BESIEGES GOVERNOR SLATON

Governor John M. Slaton was just about as busy as a bee in a tar bucket all day Friday.

With this difference: A bee in a tar bucket eventually dies of his exertions and goes to some happy place where there is plenty of honey and no work. Governor Slaton found no relief.

When night came he had to wade through a long line of petitioners who had been waiting in his reception room for him to emerge. They were the ones he had been unable to see. Many followed him to the mansion, and he was busy up to a late hour last night.

Telegrams and letters poured in on him from every city and town and hamlet and cross roads of the state. All were of one import. Translated into plain terms, they would have read: "The hope and salvation of the state depends on your appointing my friend, Mr. Blank Please, governor, oh! Please, sir, appoint him."

The reception room of the executive office resembled the outer room of a barber shop.

Solicitor Says He Expected Defense to Ask Dr. Harris About Hairs on the Machine

UNION MEN PLAN TO ENTER POLITICS OF CITY AND STATE

Organization to Be Known as "Labor's Legislative League" Perfected at Meeting Executive Committee.

INDORSE CANDIDATES FOR IMPORTANT PLACES

League Intends Eventually to Put Forward Its Own Candidates Rather Than Indorse Men for Offices.

Georgia labor unionists have perfected an organization christened last night in a meeting of an executive committee in the Labor Temple last night "Labor's Legislative League," which will take a hand in the political field of this state at the coming elections.

This league will indorse a United States senator, a state senator and members of the house of representatives, members of the county board of commissioners, members of Atlanta's aldermanic body, as well as members of the city's common council.

Only Card-Bearers Eligible. The organization is now perfected. The executive committee last night adopted a constitution and by-laws. No one but a card-bearing union man can become a member of the organization. The officers will hold office for one year, and are subject to recall. An assessment of 10 cents a month will be made against the membership, which will be composed of unionists from all of the organized trades in the state.

A word battle followed the proposition to include in the list of political movements the board of county commissioners of this county. Speakers said that the body was solely an administrative one. Other speakers declared that the body was the most important organization within the confines of Fulton county, and that the selection of the men to sit on that board should be most carefully made. By a close vote the indorsement of the body was finally left to the constitution.

Should the unionists successfully pass the next campaign, the organization completed last night will prove a formidable body to be recognized at county, state, county and city elections.

Put Forward Own Candidates. It is the purpose of the organization to eventually put forward its own candidates, not simply indorse candidates that have announced themselves. The organization may also be the parent body to a national organization.

The considerable number of labor unionists in Fulton county is already a factor to be reckoned with in a political party election. Now that members have been banded together in a compact organization it is not unlikely that the new Labor's Legislative League will prove an interesting factor in the forthcoming elections.

No officers were named for the organization last night. This matter was put over until the next meeting, which will come next Friday night.

GEORGIA MAY SOON HAVE UNIQUE DISTINCTION

Columbia, S. C., February 20.—The South Carolina house of representatives today passed a bill providing for the registration of births and deaths in this state. In the room in which the bill was passed, it is practically identical with the law on the same subject now in effect in forty-three states.

Not Officers were named for the organization last night. This matter was put over until the next meeting, which will come next Friday night.

"We Were Entirely Open and Above Board," Says Mr. Dorsey, Replying to Stinging Attacks Following Admission by a State Witness That He Did Not Believe Hairs Those of Mary Phagan.

CONCEALING EVIDENCE CHARGED TO SOLICITOR BY COUNSEL FOR FRANK

"Admitted Facts," They Say, "Will Awaken Great Wonder as to What Other Things Were Concealed or Misrepresented in the Same Way"—Believed Extraordinary Motion for a New Trial Will Be Made.

Asserting that they were amazed beyond words at the delayed disclosure by Dr. Roy Harris, state chemist and a star witness in the Frank trial, that the medical expert did not believe the strands of hair found upon the lathing machine in the pencil factory came from the head of Mary Phagan, counsel for Leo Frank's defense, Friday afternoon, issued a stinging statement to the press.

"Unless we are much mistaken in the fairness of the people of Fulton county," the statement concludes, "the admitted facts about this hair will awaken great wonder as to what other things were concealed or misrepresented in the same way."

Following this came a statement from Solicitor Dorsey emphatically declaring that the state had concealed nothing and neither had anything been misrepresented.

"OPEN AND ABOVE BOARD"

"We were entirely open and above board," he declared. "Dr. Harris, prior to the trial, told me that in his opinion the hair found on the machine near the spot where Mary Phagan was killed was not that of the dead girl."

"I expected the attorneys for the defense to ask Dr. Harris while he was on the stand if the hair found on the machine was that of Mary Phagan, but they did not do so. I did not depend on Dr. Harris' testimony, anyway. Other witnesses in the case swore that the hair was that of Mary Phagan, and that sufficed to establish my point."

"I do not wish to wrangle over this case much longer. Further than this statement, I will not talk at the present time, but what I have said is the truth, and the matter—from my standpoint—must rest on that."

Dr. Harris told a Constitution reporter Friday afternoon that he could neither swear that the hair found on the lathing came or did not come from the head of the slain girl. He declared it was difficult to determine the texture and color of single strands.

NOT LIKE PHAGAN'S

"As I recall it," he said, "some one from the solicitor's office brought me several strands of hair and asked me to make an examination of them. I think that Dr. R. T. Dorsey, a brother of the solicitor, was in the office at the time. He stated that the hair was not like that I had cut from the head of Mary Phagan's body at approximately the same place these hairs were supposed to have come from."

"There was a difference in the texture, and I think a little difference in color. There were but several strands of hair and it is very difficult to detect slight shades of color. I could not swear, then, and I cannot swear now that the hair given me was that of Mary Phagan, neither can I swear

STATES TO SUPERVISE NAVIGABLE STREAMS

Administration Contemplates No Surrender of the Federal Government's Power. Washington, February 20.—Conservation—particularly as it affects the building of water power projects in the navigable streams of the country—was added today to the chief administration policies under discussion. Conservationists learned, in a preliminary way, the answer which the federal government has given to the question of whether the federal government of the states shall be supreme in the matter of water rights of navigable streams.

Two Parents Deceased. First, of course, there are the communities which will benefit by the utilization of the navigable streams. Next is the immediate question of the relation of public utility to the navigable streams. It is the immediate question of the relation of public utility to the navigable streams.

Federated Women of Atlanta Ask for Minority Membership On Certain Municipal Boards

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY FEDERATION. Whereas, The administration of the municipal affairs of Atlanta is daily becoming more complex and more burdened by an ever-growing mass of detail; and Whereas, The best possible housekeeping for Atlanta, in every phase of its life, is of vital interest to the women of Atlanta as to its men; and Whereas, Capable women can be found competent to aid in the struggle for a better, cleaner, happier Atlanta; and Whereas, Such aid from competent women would not only bring strength to these departments, but would partially relieve the pressure of municipal duty which is now laid entirely upon men to whom (more frequently than to women) "time means money"; he it Resolved, That the City Federation of Women's Clubs (composed of eighty-six organizations and approximately 7,000 members) at its mid-winter meeting recommends to the general council of Atlanta the expediency of placing upon certain municipal boards a minority of women members.

Dr. Claude Smith, representing the health department, emphasized the value of women's help in the campaign to educate the people at large in the matter of preventing diseases. Of the 2,390 people who died in Atlanta last year, he stated that 1,071 of them died of preventable diseases.

Mr. Wood spoke in hopeful vein of the park and playground movement in Atlanta, which now has thirty-two municipal parks, meaning 840 acres. Norman Angell, English Author and Statesman, Arrives in Atlanta.

Norman Angell, the famous English author and statesman, who is waging a successful "war-on-war" throughout civilized Europe and America by means of his effective work in establishing peace societies, arrived in Atlanta Friday afternoon and will deliver his address on "The Relation of Military Power to National Advantage," at the Carnegie library tonight at 8 o'clock.

"Warlike nations do not inherit the earth, as is popularly supposed; they represent the decaying human element," said Mr. Angell at the Ansley Friday. The nations of Europe and the world that stand at the top commercially, little figure relatively as a military power.

The United States is the weakest military power, proportionately, of any other nation on earth, yet her prosperity outstrips all other nations, regardless of their military power. Americans are too busy to give their attention to military affairs.

The tendencies indicate," said Mr. Angell, "that mainly through the outcome of purely modern conditions (rapidity of communication, interdependence of nations, commercially, industrially, and the interchange of products) the prospect of war between civilized nations has been rendered profoundly and essentially different from the international problems confronting nations 100 years ago. During the next two decades all probability of war among the leading nations of the world will have vanished. Men will have realized that military power is socially and economically futile, and can have no relation to the prosperity of the people exercising it. I will venture to predict, though I am no prophet that the United States will never again go to war."

FRIENDS OF VEREEN OPEN HEADQUARTERS

A large delegation of prominent south Georgians arrived in Atlanta yesterday and established headquarters at the Madison Hotel in the interest of the candidacy of Colonel W. C. Vereen, of Moultrie, for the short term and appointment to the United States senate.

The delegation, which is headed by W. T. Mason, of Moultrie, and Thad Adams, of Moultrie, is composed of leading citizens from Moultrie, Thomasville, Bainbridge, Cairo, Spalding and other towns in that section. Among them are C. B. Allen, editor of the Moultrie Observer; Z. H. Clark, Robert L. Shipe, Mayor George R. Kille, of Moultrie; M. Kendall, A. P. Stewart, R. C. Bell, solicitor general of the Albany circuit, and others.

WANTED THEM ARRESTED BUT WONT GIVE NAMES

A pretty girl who said her name was Edna Jones denied it and declared it was May Wallace—also denied the name of May Wallace and protested it was Lena Wells—stepped from an automobile containing a merry trio of joy riders at 2 o'clock Friday morning near the postoffice and signaled to Police Sergeant Hewell to arrest her companions. Instead the companions drove hastily away leaving her to the care of the sergeant, who sent her to police headquarters for an investigation. She was held by Judge Broyles under $500 bond Friday afternoon while the police are looking into her case seeking to find her companions whose identities she refuses to reveal.

BISHOP CANDLER WILL OPEN PRAYER MEETING

The week of prayer and missionary mass meeting will begin tomorrow (Sunday) at Martha Brown Memorial Methodist church, in East Atlanta. Rev. C. W. Weathers, the pastor, has arranged an interesting program for the week with some of the best help in the city. Bishop W. A. Candler will preach the opening sermon Sunday morning, followed by a sermon on "Family Prayer" by Rev. C. C. Carr Sunday evening 7:30. Each evening through the week at 7:30 o'clock will be taken up by sermons by Rev. H. H. Connally, J. M. Hawkins and Dr. J. L. Levey. The final day, Sunday, March 1 at 11 a. m. the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. H. C. Christian. All invited.

JIM CONLEY CASE TO COME TO TRIAL
WEEK FROM TODAY

Jim Conley, principal witness in the Leo Frank trial and now held in jail as accessory after the fact in the killing of Mary Phagan, comes to trial a week from today before Judge Ben Hill, of the criminal division of the superior court.

Jim has materially changed since he appeared before the jury which convicted Frank. The negro is so dirty and unkempt, according to his attorney, William Smith, that he is at present scarcely recognizable.

Since his last appearance before the public, Jim has been kept all but incommunicado in the Tower. He has comforted but little with the other negro prisoners. Jim's wife, with whom he lived until his arrest, has visited him once during the past two months.

Solicitor General Dorsey in conference with the negro's attorney on Friday declared that the case would be heard a week from today.

WIDOW OF MISSIONARY DIES IN SOOCHOW, CHINA

Mrs. H. C. DuBose, widow of the late Dr. Hiram C. DuBose, the noted Presbyterian missionary, is dead in Soochow, China, according to news received in Atlanta on Friday. Mrs. DuBose had been connected with the missionary work in China, particularly in co-operation with her husband during his lifetime, for more than thirty years. Mrs. DuBose, who was a native of Alabama, had many relatives in Georgia, being a cousin of Dr. H. W. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church of Atlanta, and a double first cousin of T. DuBose, of Atlanta. She was also related to Rev. Samuel DuBose, of Toccoa.

DR. JOHNSON PREACHES

Mrs. Champ Clark

(Wife of the Speaker of the National House of Representatives)

MISSOURI

Mrs. Clark, next oldest congressional hostess in point of service in Washington, was born in Calloway County, Missouri, the daughter of Joel Davis and Mary McClung (McAfee) Bennett, descendants of English and Scotch pioneer settlers in the Colonial South. She was educated in the State University of Missouri and taught several years before she married the young attorney of Pike County, Mo., who was destined to win high honors as a statesman of the Nation. She has been an official hostess practically ever since her marriage, Mr. Clark having advanced from one position to another in the political world until at present he is Speaker of the Lower House of Congress. As wife of the Speaker Mrs. Clark enjoys a privilege shared officially by no other congressional woman, that of receiving on Wednesday the Cabinet day "at home," in Washington. Her receptions are always among the largest held there, although she has never figured in the rôle of a lavish entertainer, and instead of giving bridge parties, entertainments people who do things in the world of art, literature and civic improvement. Her special work has been in the interest of women, both in the religious and political spheres, helping them to be self-reliant without loss of womanliness. She is active in Presbyterian Church and philanthropic work; a member of many organizations, including the D. A. B. and Congressional Club, founder of the Servants' Club, "Godmother" of the Woman's National Democratic League, and promoter of the organization of congressional women by states, each state group to be a clearing house for its own social affairs and especially for the entertainment of women visitors in Washington from that state. Wielding the pen of a ready writer, Mrs. Clark is a constant and frequent contributor to current publications, reminiscences being her specialty. Here are some of her ideas:

In the early days in America, when the cost of living was not the problem it is to-day, materials were both cheap and good, and cookery correspondingly lavish. Some of the old-time recipes were rich, too, and highly seasoned, but the frills and fancy dishes did not appear. This substantial order of things has been partially destroyed by the army of French chefs attacking the citadel of American homes. Curiously enough, it was Mr. Jefferson, the disciple of liberty always on the lookout for new ways of helping the people, who prepared the way for the French cooks coming to this country, thinking no doubt that they would teach Americans the economy in the kitchen of which he heard a great deal during his régime as American Minister to France. Great men disagreed then even as they do now, and of Mr. Jefferson's importation Patrick Henry is reported as saying, "I cannot help being suspicious of a man who goes back on his native victuals."

About the same time he brought French cooks to the United States, Mr. Jefferson introduced rice to the Southern

"THE ADMINISTRATION ECONOMY BOOK is for those who believe in the simple principles of democracy, and especially the simple and natural life. In our country we are getting farther away from nature every year. In buying we are getting farther away from the producer every year. The result is easily ascertained, more of the artificial and less of the natural, greater expense and less nutrition, more fancy cooking and less wholesome cooking. All of these unnatural conditions man is compelled to tolerate. It is fortunate that the human animal, more than any other, can adapt himself to his environment, otherwise it would go hard with us in our selection of foods and their preparation.

The health and happiness of the people depend particularly upon two things, namely, wholesome foods and good cooking. Both are difficult to find at the present time, but under the reign of true economy the food supply will improve and the cooking be rendered more serviceable. To return to nature and to come closer in touch with the producer will increase the wages of the workingman, without adding one cent of cost thereto, improve the health of the family of the man in moderate circumstances, and even enable the rich to live longer and enjoy life more."

THE ADMINISTRATION ECONOMY BOOK is the most wonderful book of its kind ever published in any land at any time. Consider if you will four hundred and fifty of America's leading women stopping their own round of duties and work to help every other American woman with pages taken from their wider experience and greater opportunities. These well-known women come with suggestions received from their mothers, grandmothers and great-grandmothers, tested to the third and fourth generations—traditional in the family and now printed for the first time. In connection with the articles from the ladies, a short biographical sketch is given which renders that personal touch of acquaintance that can be obtained in no other way.

THE CONSTITUTION Established 1865. THE STANDARD SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER. Published Daily, Sunday, Tri-Weekly. CLARK HOWELL, Editor and General Manager. W. L. HALSTEAD, Business Manager. Directors: Clark Howell, Bojy Robinson, Albert Howell, Jr., E. R. Black, H. W. Grady.

A CLEAR INTERPRETATION. President Wilson is quoted as telling congressional leaders that he hopes forthcoming trust legislation will not complicate but clarify the Sherman law. The president has hit the nail a resounding blow on the head.

Big and little business have gone about their affairs in fear and trembling. The statute has been left to the arbitrary enforcement of attorneys general, with capacities for malicious mischief exemplified by the unlamented Wickersham.

It is full time that so supreme a matter as the environment of business be taken out of the realm of individual interpretation and put in the safer region of statutory provision. It is also encouraging that the president has shown a characteristically determined intention to sit down hard on a revival of that ancient demagogy that would bait business to cater to ignorant voters.

We can be tolerably well assured that the guiding and restraining hand of the president will iron out anything like freakish inks or political animosities before any trust legislation gets on the books. If the currency law and the tariff law are to serve as permanent charts for a good many years it is no less important that the same stability shall attach to trust legislation.

The country has shown pretty convincingly that it is tired out with having politicians paw over fundamental problems. Whatever surgery is to be done ought to be done now, the patient dismissed and the doctors turned out to pasture. We will not arrive at this happy state of readjustment if trust legislation that is conflicting, contradictory or obscure is enacted.

There should be left no troublesome "twilight zones." Business, honest and sinister, ought to know what to expect. The politician with a mania for feeding his fences at the expense of prosperity ought to be deprived of ammunition. The agitator ought to be given transportation to Salt river, with no return ticket. All these conditions the president appears to fully appreciate. That is very fortunate.

DISCOVERING THE FARMER. The government of the United States has at last discovered the great American farmer. That fact breathes inspiringly in the agricultural appropriation bill as it now goes to the house of representatives with a total approaching nineteen million dollars.

must treat the farmer as you would any other man or animal out of which or whom you expect to get good work—and that is, treat him well. He wants, also, to discover just how the burden of the farmer's wife may be lifted or lightened, recognizing that the woman of the acres has an even harder time of it than her lord and master.

We have had an amplitude of warnings that more attention must be paid to the man behind the plow if we would conserve the source of the nation's strength. Houston is really the first secretary to apply the principle in works rather than words. Big, dominating, but tolerant, he has revitalized and modernized the department over which he presides.

They are not going to give him enough money for his task. Congress never does. It professes ardent love for the farmer, then fritters millions in unprofitable pork barrels. Under Houston we shall get better results, less hypocrisy. Houston will see that the farmer, once having been really discovered by his country, is not again lost in the maze of sophistry and congressional buncombe.

THE MUSIC OF THE FIDDLE. One thing only is more contagious and democratic than the music from a fiddle, and that is the music from two fiddles, when the rural gentles half close their eyes and pat time with rhythmic feet and "Johnny beats the straws." That is the sort of wizardry which appeals to the "high brow" and the "low brow," the gamine and the child of the rich, and it has been on exhibition at the fiddlers' convention at the Auditorium this week, playing a closing engagement this evening.

Atlanta appreciates and revels in grand opera. That has been proven often and over. But Atlanta is still close enough to the soil to relax in the sometimes wild, sometimes rollicking, sometimes appealing melody which is the product of natural love of music, unhampered by technique and scoring all tricks of "temperament" save those of homespun vigor and wistfulness.

Here's to the country fiddler! He may not be on speaking or spelling terms with Bach or Beethoven or Jan Kubelick. But he can sense and express the spirit that is in all worth while music, music that is like life, somewhat salted with tears, somewhat condoned by gaiety, morbid and high-pitched as joy beckons or sorrow sits inscurtable by our side.

THE TECH NIGHT SCHOOL. One of the most significant educational institutions in Georgia is the night school at the Georgia Tech. This year the school has reached a record enrollment of 210 pupils. The spring term opens the evening of Monday, March 2 and it is expected the attendance will go into even larger proportions.

The night school gives a chance for a technical education to the mature and ambitious man who missed it in his youth, and who wants to shake the shackles of an unprofitable or un congenial employment. The facilities of virtually the entire plant and faculty of the institution are extended to the night students. It is a common spectacle to see keen-eyed youngsters sitting beside gray-haired men studying a way out of the occupation which now earns them their bread, but which does not fit the broadening aspirations of their natures.

NO SEX TEACHING. Dr. Maurice A. Bigelow, professor of biology at Columbia university, announces himself in favor of sex education in the public schools. For the ability and sincerity of Dr. Bigelow The Constitution has the highest regard. With his judgment in this matter at least we are wholly unable to agree. Tuition in sex matters has already been tried in several American schools. It has been incontinently given up as a dangerous and pernicious factor. We believe children should be dealt with more candidly about these matters than in the present or past.

But we are quite sure that the public school room is not the place for instruction and the teacher not the mentor. The parent is the proper source of information. And just here, it may be remarked that the gist of the whole matter is that we shall never settle this vexed problem until parents wake to their responsibilities and overcome their cowardice. It is easy enough to say that the father and the mother dreads the discussion of these topics with sons and daughters. It is harder, in later years, to reconcile this sort of diffidence with the lives and bodies of children blasted through ignorance.

Just from Georgia FRANK STANTON. Of Master Shakespeare. (To the Stratford-Upon-Avon Players, at the Atlanta.) He never saw the printed plays to deathless ages given. As freely as a storm of stars, far scattered over heaven!

He "wrote to order"—if you like, but at the slow that warmed him. For Nature stood at his right hand and wondrously informed him! No proofs from printers labeled Rush!—No author's tribulations. Yet, lo! he not the light that lit his wondrously created? In twilight Stratford silences they must have thronged around him. And kings arose from quickened dust 'of uned thrones and crowned him.

More king than they! How great to tread the Stratford ways that knew him. Through influences sweet that drew the light eternal to him? To see him there, in that far time—spirit of modest sleeping. With the Light's laurels luminous or his immortal dreaming!

Ye Stratford lovers of the Light—players of heart and beauty. Take you the plaudits of a night—the soul thrill of our duty! Liegemen to Genius still you are here ends not your endeavor. You cannot take the Master far whose homes the Heart—forever.

SEEING ATLANTA. THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. FIVE POINTS! The Prosperity Word. Prosperity he says says he. I want you all to whirl with me! I want you all to celebrate. And wear the stars out dancing late.

But when you've danced the dark away. And to the fiddle tossed his pay. And blessed you time and happy station—The favored of the whole creation.

Don't let you joy the prospect dazzle. And wear you to a frenzied frazzle. With idle dreams the time beguiling—Takes toll my lads to keep me smiling.

Get right after Tribulation. If you want to see him run! He can beat the very lightning. Or a swift beam from the sun. If you're fond of weepin' with him. At yer dwellin' he will stay. But he can't abide the feller. Whose life motto is Hoorsy.

Government 'Just Went On. I notice that the old man quit cursin' out the government? Yes after tryin' it for thirty year the government kept a goin' jes like it never heard tell of him—never so much as tel in him to please. Let up an give it a chance to grow up with the country. That made him so mad he was too full fer utterance he was struck speechless.

Uncle Joe Cannon is quoted as saying, "Prayers are not answered. Perhaps Uncle Joe's petitions were too numerous, and, any way, heaven may have decided that it is best for the country that Uncle Joe remain in private life."

The Great Trials of History. TRIAL OF THE TICHBORNE CLAIMANT. One of the most remarkable trials of recent years was that of Arthur Orton, who claimed to be the long lost Roger Tichborne, and heir to the Tichborne title and estate.

This was one of the most interesting cases of all history and lasted over a number of years and involved a great many persons. When Sir Edward Tichborne, the ninth Baron of that name, died he left an estate that netted about $100,000 a year. He had no son and his nephew, James Tichborne, was his heir. James had two sons, Roger and Alfred. Roger naturally being the elder, would have been the heir of James, but when the father died all trace of him had been lost.

He had started for New York by sea, but the fate of his ship was never known. He was said to have been in London, and his Tichborne fortune fell to the younger brother, Alfred. All this happened in 1862. The mother never gave up hope of finding her first born and in 1868 she offered a reward for any information that would be forthcoming regarding her missing son. In response to this offer an Australian detective agency produced a man known as Thomas Castro, whose real name was Orton, and announced he was the missing heir.

Orton left Australia for England where he gathered all the information he could regarding Roger's early life, and then proceeded to Paris where he had a number of living and he was able to convince her that she accepted him as her son. The mother claimed to recognize him and officers of his old regiment were sure it was Roger Tichborne. He was able easily to answer all questions and to give a history of his life which died three years previously—he brought a formal suit for his rights.

The Tichborne estate defended the case fiercely asserting that the claimant was Orton, the son of a London butcher, and backed this charge with powerful testimony. The claimant, on the other hand, brought forward sailors who swore that they had taken him from the wreck of the ill-fated Bella and Orton called a witness the dozens of old acquaintances who recognized him. He proved he had a wound on the head and a brown mark on the side, both of which Roger had had.

On the legal battle waged a number of months to defray the expenses of litigation were taken up by the dupes of the imposture and an election action against the trustees of the Tichborne estates finally came before Chief Justice Bovill and a special jury at the court of common pleas on the 11th day of May 1871. The case was tried for two days and it was not until Sir John Coleridge, in a speech of unparalleled length laid bare the whole conspiracy from its inception that the result ceased to be doubtful. The evidence of the Tichborne family convinced the jury.

Orton was found guilty of perjury on two counts and was sentenced on the 28th of February 1872 to fourteen years penal servitude. The cost of the two trials was estimated at something not far short of $1,000,000 and of this the Tichborne estate was mulcted of fully $450,000. The claimant's better class of supporters deserted him before the second trial, but the people who had subscribed for his defense were convinced that he was a perse-cuted man. There were parades in London in April 1872 when parliament unanimously rejected a motion by Kennedy for referring the Tichborne case to a royal commission and the military had to be held in readiness. But the agitation subsided and when Orton emerged from jail in 1884 the public took no interest in him. Orton came to America on a lecturing tour and resided for a time in New York city. He finally returned to England where he sank into poverty and oblivion dying in obscure lodgings in Marylebone on the second of April 1888.

Cornelius J. McGillicuddy. By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Swann". Cornelius J. McGillicuddy is not known abroad and will probably never have his rightful place in the American hall of fame. Historians ignore him, statesmen do not take him seriously, and students of political economy try to look him up in the encyclopedia with no success at all. Yet Mr. McGillicuddy stands today one of the most eminent of Americans, a citizen admitted by millions and a man whose opinion on certain subjects will be printed under glaring headlines in the most prominent newspapers.

Three times in the last four years Mr. Mack's celebrated baseball team has met after the season for the purpose of discussing the world's championships with some other great team. The discussions have always been brief to the point of rudeness. Mr. Mack's men have a way of injecting a home run into the conversation at an unexpected place in such a way as to unbalance the opposition and cast a gloom over the entire city of New York lasting upwards of six months.

He owns two baseball clubs—Ludie Collins and the rest of the Philadelphia club. A Story of the Moment. THE GREAT DITCH. "Let me call your attention, madam, said the stranger, to the first authentic work describing the Panama canal which is the greatest achievement of modern times. Every patriotic American will want to know all about the canal when it is opened for business, and this book gives every fact. It is strongly endorsed by the vice president of the United States."

And I suppose it is compounded of barks and buds and healing herbs, said Mrs. Curfew with blighting sarcasm. I don't want your book, mister, and I don't want to stand here with the door open and a cold wind blowing over me. It is that way people catch colds which develop into bronchitis and pneumonia and the first thing they know they are out in the churchyard with big white headstones over their heads and concluding with a foolish epitaph.

No sir, I won't want your book even if it does contain the most wholesome ingredients. If there is one thing in this world that I am not interested in it is the Panama canal. I have no shipping that will be benefited by it and I don't expect to trade with the South Americans. I have a hen sitting on sixteen eggs in the woodshed and that hen means far more to me than the Panama canal. If you had a book calling her nest until the eggs got cold, I might buy a copy, but I don't want you to mention the Panama canal or the vice president in my presence again.

If you look around you will see where the plaster has been knocked from the wall and you will notice that the hanging lamp has been broken from its hook in the ceiling and several panes of glass are broken in the windows. No doubt you wonder what sort of a cataclysm has been loose here and my answer is the Panama canal.

My husband is an excellent man or I wouldn't be living with him, as I have been for more than thirty years, but he has his weaknesses like all other men. He is always taking too much interest in public questions. I hold that poor people should have nothing to do with public questions. The best thing they can do is to save their money. The other day he came home with a black eye and while I was preparing a poultice for it he explained that he got into an argument with Mr. Doodle about the income tax. He said that the government was nothing but a highway robber and that the collector's office was a den of thieves. He said he would stand up to him and he heard the government abused and he hauled off and punched Mr. Curfew in the eye and then went and had himself interviewed by the local paper on the subject of our highway and palladium.

If Mr. Curfew lives a thousand years the income tax isn't going to take any bark off his shins, for the most he ever made was $2 a day and it seems the height of folly for him to go around collecting black eyes when he should be home gathering up the rubbish in the back yard and getting ready for the spring gardening.

The other evening Mr. Turpentine and Mr. Bludgeon came over to spend the evening and they hadn't been here five minutes before they were arguing about the Panama canal. Mr. Turpentine has heard their voices in the next town, which is seven miles due south of here. Mr. Curfew insisted that the canal is nothing but a national extravagance and that when it is opened for business it will be run by a lot of cheap politicians at about the same time the necessary expense as he argued he shook his fist under Mr. Turpentine's nose and accidentally hit that organ and Mr. Turpentine broke a chair over his head and then Mr. Bludgeon took a hand and you see the result.

Mr. Turpentine has been in bed ever since and I was afraid for a time that his skull was cracked when he was hit, but he hit him but he seems to be mending slowly and I just heard from the hospital that Mr. Turpentine will be out in three days and I see Mr. Bludgeon going around on crutches. But after such an experience you can imagine that I don't want any more information about the Panama canal.

LITTLE JOURNEYS THROUGH GEORGIA—TO-DAY AND YESTERDAY. Judge William F. Eve, ex-"Czar". Not long ago the home of Judge William F. Eve of Augusta, was burned with all its contents. He asked the governor's office to supply him with duplicates of the executive commissions which had been issued to him. There were fifteen of them. All excepting the first one were continuous. Virtually every chief executive of the last forty years had signed one of them.

Recently the Augusta papers noted the fact that the judge had passed his thirty-fifth anniversary as head of the local city court. So far as I can find this is the record for holding a judicial office in Georgia. But for three years the judge was solicitor of the same court which gives him a record of thirty-eight years service with one tribunal. Before that he was a justice of the peace for about a year which makes a service of nearly forty years.

The judge was in Atlanta recently looking as well as any man in middle life. He is one of the most interesting of the state's public men. Judge Eve is proud of his record on the bench a record proven by the comparatively few times the supreme court has found his rulings to be wrong. One that is indorsed by his own people who have sustained him through many bitter fights. I am inclined to think however that of all his distinctions the judge is proudest of the fact that he is a comparatively poor man.

Could Have Become Wealthy. For during his nearly half century of political activity which has in the days of reconstruction when he was just out of school he had endless opportunities to acquire wealth. For nearly thirty years in addition to being judge of the city court he was sole commissioner of Richmond county with authority to levy taxes and spend the revenues. Furthermore he was virtually political boss of the county and the city of Augusta. Millions passed over or less directly through his hands but no man has ever drawn a cent that he could not prove struck to them. His incontrovertible proof lies in the fact that he began comparatively poor and remained so and is so yet.

Thus when his home burned as I recall burned to the ground the people of Augusta in an outburst of appreciation contributed funds to re-erect it. He knew nothing of it until it had been done and my recollection is that in list of givers his name never been made known to him. Otherwise his scrupulous regard for the ethics of public office might have led him to decline the voluntary gift. It is an open secret however that one of the largest contributors was Judge Eve while political protagonist Jacob P. Hays.

Mr. Hays is the powerful head of a notable family that has possessed a great wealth and the collector of the state's political fund with 1,000,000 of the most dramatic stories of Georgia politics. The Eve-Philips feud. Many years ago I read in the Georgia Journal on things political around Augusta a dust storm as an episode in one being the dust storm politically in that county and albeit complete for a governor ever thought of ousting him. Philips endeavored to get the law changed so as to separate the places at each election. The result was a legislature for a decade or more. Judge Eve was the issue in the legislative contest and the result regularly was favorable to him.

When the question of the dual character of his office was taken into the courts at the assembly the courts were made to get the law. Big elections came up every year and the law what they called local self government. But on each occasion they were out of the scribbled Judge Eve as the czar of Philadelphia county. He was not far wrong in the political sense.

Finally the judge sat down and wrote to the legislature in the form of a letter to the legislature asking that his office be separated and made elective. Since then he has held only the judgeship position he loves and to which he has been re-elected by popular vote with scant opposition. Many of those who led in the old fights on his case support him now to Judge. I all no one ever attacked his efficiency or integrity. The old fights upon his case on principle earned the title in his county. He had good roads in Georgia. Richmond under his direction was the first county to begin the construction of first class roads and for many years led the south. Judge Eve was the first mover in the big state wide road improvement of the last few years.

Wouldn't He Be a Salary Raiser. He also secured his county a system of first class public utilities including what was for many years the best court house in Georgia—a fine building with no bonded indebtedness. And during the many years he ran county affairs and attended to the tedious work of a city court he got a salary of only $4,000 a year. A Grand Jury sent a committee to him once to learn how they might raise his salary. Don't do it he said. I won't accept it if you do.

At that time he was partly dependent on earnings from all managed private property to support his family. After the change he donated to an increase it being so then that it could be passed on direct by the people. And his work he once did for $3,000. He especially during the long war made upon him his every right that was submitted to the utmost scrutiny. He was once found anything upon which to base the slightest suspicion of wrong doing. The surprising feature of his career is that he never sought higher office. He could have gone to congress, been judge of the superior court, or judge of the supreme court—in fact he could have done anything—but he steadily put ambition from him. To employ the phrase so popular with Americans—he is a remarkable man.

ON TRIAL FOR KILLING COUNTESS AND NEPHEW

German Court Scandal Tried Privately in Interest of Public Morals.

Meseritz, Germany, February 20.—Count Matthias Brudzewo-Mielzynski, a Polish nobleman and a member of the German imperial parliament, was placed on trial here today for killing his wife and her nephew, Count Alfred Mielzynski. The two were found dead on December 20, at the country seat of the count at Dakowy Mokry, near Gnetz.

The count is charged only with manslaughter under the German law. He is held in custody at the court house here. The proceedings by order of the judge, were held behind closed doors, except during the pronouncement of the verdict which must be made in public under the law.

The crime attracted widespread attention owing to the special prominence of the parties involved. The count and countess, who had been separated for some time, had just before the date of the murder resumed joint residence at Dakowy Mokry.

Found Nephew and Wife. On the morning of December 20, the servants in the house were aroused at an early hour and found the bodies of the countess and her nephew in the direction from which the reports came and on entering the apartments found the countess and her nephew standing over the bodies of his wife and her nephew with a smoking rifle in his hand.

He said he had been awakened by noises, and he had snatched a loaded rifle from the gun rack in the hall and had fired three shots. He had then fled to the countess's apartments, and on arrival there he turned on the electric light and found the countess and her nephew together.

The countess's personal attendant testified that Count Alfred Mielzynski had returned to bed after passing the evening with his host and hostess. Later on he proceeded to the apartment of the countess and was endeavoring to persuade him to retire when his wife appeared and shot them.

The countess's maiden name was Countess Felicia von Potok-Potocka. She was born in 1875. She was married in 1897.

Had Reason for Suspicion. Counsel for both the prosecution and defense urged the judge, in the interest of public morals, to make the hearing a public one.

The judge declared that the preliminary investigation in regard to the murder was held in private. This, they declared, showed that Count Brudzewo-Mielzynski at an earlier period had had reason to suspect the countess's conduct.

The investigating magistrate's report said that these incidents had been known among the aristocratic circles and had caused some indignation between the count and countess.

A reconciliation had been brought about last year, the report continues, the countess continued her relations with her nephew, and of late the count and his company had been woman attendant.

FEDERAL AID URGED FOR WATERWAY PLAN

Garrison Advises Government Help for Great Lakes to Gulf Project.

Washington, February 20.—Federal aid for improvements on the Illinois and Mississippi rivers to carry out the Great Lakes to the gulf waterway plan was recommended to congress today by Secretary Garrison, of the war department.

Participation by the central government, with the consent of the state of Illinois will make, without cost to the United States and with all federal interests safeguarded, that part of the proposed improvements, from Lockport to Utica, on the upper Illinois. With this stipulation, the federal government proposes to provide a navigable channel eight feet deep in the Illinois and Mississippi rivers from Utica to St. Louis. Most of the cost of this project is estimated at $4,760,000.

It is recommended that care be taken in advance to determine just what extent of the river of the lake waters into the waterway will have on commerce on the lakes.

The state's proposed improvement work contemplates waterpower developments at four sites between Lockport and Utica and a construction of locks to utilize for power purposes water flowing through the Chicago drainage canal.

It also is stipulated that the state of Illinois, by receiving federal aid, shall accept in perpetuity full responsibility for the maintenance of the locks in lake levels and to riparian owners, and that the state shall transfer to the United States the locks and the control of the new waterway so far as needed by navigation.

The secretary's recommendation was submitted in the form of a report from the board of army engineers. The report says the waterway from Lockport to the mouth of the Illinois river is favorable for a channel depth of eight or nine feet may be had. Such a waterway would have a freight capacity exceeding 100,000,000 tons a year.

The special board points out that the construction of the business, Mo. is not necessary for the execution of the projects for the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. It says, however, would not be justified by resulting benefits to commerce and navigation.

PRETTY SCHOOLGIRL WHO VANISHED

(1) THE LAWLOR HOME. (2) FLORENCE W. LAWLOR.

A perplexing "missing girl" mystery stirred the police of Brooklyn of decided activity, and a country-wide search was instituted. Florence Lawlor of New York, an unusually pretty school girl, 16 years old, left her home at Fifteenth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, and not a trace of her was discovered in days. Finally in Chicago a young girl collapsed in a railroad station, and she was identified as the lost school maiden.

"I just went away by myself," she said, "and I want to go home." She was in a bewildered state, and gentle hands carried her to a waiting room, from which she was taken to the comfortable quarters of the Young Women's Christian association.

Atlanta Boys Star in Play Given By University Students. Athens, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—"Dandy Dick," one of Pinero's bright productions, was presented last night at the Colonial theater by the Thalias, the dramatic club of the University of Georgia, which is, by the oldest dramatic organization in the south, Atlanta boys starred in the cast, and took high places in the commendation of the father critical audience.

Goethals Says Canal Will Be Open by July 1. Washington, February 20.—Colonel George W. Goethals said today that barring unforeseen accidents, the Panama canal will be open for merchant ships July 1. He said that he had always been opposed to the exemption of American coastwise shipping from the payment of tolls because that would decrease the revenues of the canal, and, in his opinion, "God's curse" would be laid on consumers, but merely increase profits of the ship owners.

Harry K. Thaw Renews His Fight for Liberty. Concord, N. H., February 20.—Harry K. Thaw's fight for liberty was renewed before Federal Judge Edgar Aldrich today. There were two points at issue—the discharge of the prisoner on a writ of habeas corpus, and the prevention of his extradition to New York state as a fugitive from justice.

Cook Who Threatened President is Nabbed. Newark, N. J., February 20.—George Bernhardt, a cook, was arrested today in West Orange, a suburb of Newark, with a letter addressed to the president Wilson. The postoffice inspectors traced the Bernhardt letters signed "George Bernhardt" to the defendant, who had been in the city for three months past from Newark and neighboring towns.

K. P. Convention. Commerce, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—The twenty-first annual session of the district association, Knights of Pythias of Georgia, convened here yesterday. Public exercises were held at the Florida, when Mayor Anderson delivered the address of welcome. A number of gentlemen responded to the different subjects assigned to them on the program.

MINISTER WHO ELOPED WITH "AFFINITY" JAILED

Husband Takes Runaway Wife Home, Parson Held in Toronto.

Toronto, Ont., February 20.—The Rev. James T. W. Williams, formerly a pastor of the Congregational church in North York, was arrested today after his arrest yesterday in company with Mrs. George Thomas. The woman is accused in the custody of her husband, who followed the pair from Pennsylvania and caused their arrest at the hotel where they were staying. Williams, it was said, has a wife and family living in New Castle, where he says he has been lecturing with Mrs. Thomas. He resigned his pastorate. This Thomas denies.

MEMPHIS BANK TO PAY FIFTY CENTS ON DOLLAR

Memphis, Tenn., February 20.—Despite an actual shortage of $1,000,000, creditors of the wrecked Mercantile bank will realize about 50 cents on the dollar, it was announced today. J. L. Hutton, state superintendent of banks, made public today. The bank closed its doors on February 9, and the announcement of the defalcation of its president, C. Hunter Raine, who once occupied a cell in the county jail, was made today. The list of deficits, as shown by the statement, includes in cash on hand $140,000, real estate owned by Raine; "due from banks," $596,000; item carried in bills of exchange, $100,000; 225 shares of American bank stock, carried in "bonds and stocks," $33,750.

AMERICAN AMBASSADOR ABOVE LAW OF STATE

New York, February 20.—The appellate division of the supreme court declared today that an American ambassador to a foreign power is above the law of his state at home, and on this ground refused to compel Attorney W. A. Wood to appear in court to return from his post and decide the appeal in a case which came before him. The case was brought by the supreme court. The parties to the litigation argued that the code of civil procedure, which requires that an appeal "must" be settled by the justice before whom it was tried, and an order to that effect was obtained directed to Ambassador Gerard.

WOOTEN'S DYING WORDS CORROBORATED BY WIFE

Charlotte, N. C., February 20.—Offering the only new evidence in the Jettson case, Mrs. W. H. Wooten, wife of the physician who brought Dr. J. M. Jettson to have killed in defense of his home, today testified that on the afternoon before the killing that evening Mrs. Jettson called at her home and invited her and Dr. Wooten to dinner. She said that she was in a new dress, thus corroborating the statement made by the dying man, who was that he had been invited to dinner. In addition to this testimony, Mrs. Wooten testified that her husband would have accompanied her husband. When Mrs. Jettson says that he called on her at her home on the morning of February 7, 1913, said Mrs. Wooten, her husband left home for the barber shop at 7:30, and she went to meet his daughter, a student at Queens college, Charlotte, with her rifle in her hand and escaped, leaving his hand behind. The burglar had posed as a gas inspector to gain admission to the flat.

N. Y. CHURCH WORKER ARRESTED AS BURGLAR

New York, February 20.—Initials in a blue shirt worn by a burglar in a Bronx flat led to the arrest and confession, according to police announcements today, of a 23-year-old man, Arthur A. Acker, 23 years old, professional choir singer, who detectives were leath to accuse because of his high standing in church circles.

$175,000 FOR MISSIONS FROM ANONYMOUS DONOR

New York, February 20.—The board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church was announced today that it had received $175,000 from a donor whose name is withheld. The money, given in the form of a permanent endowment fund for mission work.

JUDGE SPEER'S REPLY MAILED TO WASHINGTON

Time Limit Up Yesterday, But Chairman Webb Grants Extension.

Washington, February 20.—Counsel for Federal Judge Emory Speer, of Georgia, telegraphed the house judiciary committee today that their brief answering charges of official misconduct against the judge had been mailed and should be received in Washington tomorrow. Today was the last day for the filing of the brief, but Representative Webb, of North Carolina, chairman of the subcommittee which investigated the case, said the time would be extended until tomorrow or Monday.

A report from the subcommittee will be ready soon, but the case probably will not be taken on to the senate until the pending anti-trust legislation is out of the way.

John E. Green, Jr., Named. Washington, February 20.—President Wilson today nominated John E. Green, Jr., of Texas, for United States attorney for the southern district of Texas.

Beautiful Luncheon Is Given To Visitors by Mrs. J. K. Orr

Bringing back colonial days, the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. J. K. Orr and Miss Harriet Orr was a picturesque and beautiful occasion, assembling eighty ladies to meet their niece and cousin, Miss Minnie Hall, of Columbia.

The guests were presented in the dressing rooms with Martha Washington fuchsia and caps, which transformed them into a gathering like those of the colonies and depending to the drawing room they found their hostesses and the guest of honor a lovely colonial group in broadsides and old-fashioned caps, their hair done high and powdered.

The house was lighted only by candles, rows of them unshaded filling the rooms with their becoming glow and the air was fresh with spring flowers.

In the dining room a large round table seated a bright company of the debutantes of several seasons, and

BANKRUPTCY CHARGED AGAINST COTTON FIRM

Officers Claim Southern States Cotton Corporation Is on a Sound Financial Basis.

Dallas, Texas, February 20.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal court here today against the Southern States Cotton corporation.

The corporation was organized under the laws of Alabama with $1,000,000 of capital. Its announced purpose was to try to hold cotton for a uniform price of 15 cents per pound.

The corporation is able to pay every cent which it owes on cotton held according to agreements and contracts. We are at present holding about 50,000 bales of cotton.

The corporation's plan was to advance money to farmers for the purchase of this cotton until at least 15 cents could be secured for it, and then to sell the cotton at a profit.

The amount named by McCoy in his petition is $1,400,000. McCoy is a partner in the purchase price of the cotton.

DEAD FEELING ALL THE TIME

Bad Condition of Arkansas Lady Who Finally Overcame Her Trouble.

Board Camp, Ark.—Mrs. Virginia Bain, of this town, gives out the following statement for publication:

"When I was just fifteen years old, I suffered dreadfully with a cramp in my stomach, about once a month, and I had a dead feeling all the time—no life to do anything.

I took two bottles of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I felt like a different person. I had tried all kinds of medicine for over a year, but not a thing helped me, until I took Cardui.

A short time ago, I suffered again. I would ache and hurt, until I couldn't stand on my feet to do my work. My back ached and my head hurt all the time.

I was glad I knew about Cardui! I took three bottles and now I never have any aches or pains, and I am cheerful and happy.

Ladies, let's take one another's advice and not suffer so much. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It's a wonderful medicine.

If you have wondered where you could find a remedy to ease your pain and relieve the torment which goes with so many forms of womanly trouble—here is your answer:

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and be relieved as Mrs. Bain was.

AUBURN FIVE EASY FOR TECH'S QUINTET

Donahue's Lads Only Able to Register One Field Goal. Score 50 to 12.

By a score of 50 to 12 the Auburn basketball team went down in defeat at the hands of the Tech five last night in the Crystal Palace.

The result of the game will in a way appease the Techites for the defeat inflicted on them by the fast flying Auburn football team of last season.

The Auburn boys stood little chance of capturing the victory as they were passing and shooting in grand style.

The game started with a steady stream of field and foul goals.

The Auburn boys were fairly good in team passing but were away off in their goal shooting.

ATHLETIC QUINT CLOSSES SEASON

Columbus Young Men's Christian Association Will Be Their Opponents Tonight.

The Atlanta Athletic club basketball team will close their 1913-14 basketball season tonight with a game with the Columbus Young Men's Christian Association.

Columbus had a good look in at the southern circuit until recently when defeat at the hands of the University of Georgia and the Birmingham Athletic club ruined their chances.

The game tonight will be a return engagement the Columbus boys defeated the locals in Columbus the early part of the season by the score of 53 to 25.

Since then the local team has been coming forward with leaps and bounds and they believe that they have a good chance to reverse the tables on their Columbus opponents tonight.

The game promises to be hard fought from the start and it is expected that the proper finish to a delightful season basketball one of the most entertaining the local club has ever staged.

The game is scheduled to start promptly at 8 o'clock. Only club members and their lady friends will be admitted to the game.

The probable line up will be as follows: Columbus—L. F. Smith, R. G. Carter, L. F. Smith, R. G. Carter, L. F. Smith, R. G. Carter.

Here's the Food for Backbone and Muscle. Haven't you often wondered at the wonderful strength and vitality of the Italian race. Their chief food at home is spaghetti—a food that is rich in gluten—the element that goes to make muscle and flesh.

BLAZING MAN ROLLS IN SNOW; SHOCK KILLS HIM

Starts Fire With Oil, Which Explodes and Sets Him Ablaze.

Cumberland Md., February 20.—James Eagan, 23 years old, died from burns resulting from a fire in his room at the house of his brother in law, James Cunningham, near Upper Ocean in Sevier county.

A living torch, Eagan rolled into the snow and this aggravated his condition.

The young man found only hot ashes in the kitchen stove and to kindle a fire he used kerosene.

The fire started in the kitchen and spread to the other rooms, but Eagan came in and tried to extinguish it.

REALIZING MADE COTTON EASIER Three Days' Adjournment Brought on Selling-Week-End Figures Also Factor in Decline.

New York, February 20.—After showing considerable steadiness during today's early trading, cotton eased off under realizing for over the three-day adjournment and scattered selling, which appeared to be promoted by somewhat disappointing weekly figures as to growers' takings. The market closed steady at an advance of 1 point on May, but generally unchanged to 3 points lower.

Business was more active during early trading, and there appeared to be a very fair, if a somewhat scattered, demand for Liverpool cables were better than due, and houses with Liverpool connections were buyers of under straddles. There was also covering for over Washington's birthday, and some little demand from local traders who were looking for a bullish week-end statement and an improved spot demand, with the beginning of work on March commitments.

After opening steady at an advance of 4 or 5 points on this buying active crop months sold about 5 points and the new crop 5 or 6 net higher, although there was some selling by May and July contracts. Realizing checked the advance around 12.04 for May contracts, and demand became less active after the close of Liverpool. Prices consequently eased off, and of March and May contracts were bought after publication of the week-end figures. March and the new crop months were relatively easy on the decline, and after having maintained a premium of around 20 points earlier in the day, March closed about 27 points higher on May.

The New York market will remain closed from today until Tuesday. Cables were higher than the movement into night displayed signs of a decided falling off. Mill takings for the week first year were 347,000 this week, against 340,000 the week two years ago, and the selling that resulted was more than the market could absorb.

At the highest of the day, the trading months were 6 to 7 points up. After the posting of the week's takings prices were 5 to 6 points down, compared with yesterday's last quotations. The close was at a net loss of 2 to 4 points.

Spot cotton quiet, middling uplands 13.00; gulf 12.75. No sales.

New Orleans Cotton. Savannah, Ga., February 20.—Cotton was inclined to advance in the early trading today. Cables were higher than the movement into night displayed signs of a decided falling off. Mill takings for the week first year were 347,000 this week, against 340,000 the week two years ago, and the selling that resulted was more than the market could absorb.

John F. Black & Co. New York, February 20.—The market was quiet and steady today. March closed three points higher, but May was one up and July unchanged. New crop months were freely sold by Wall street interests and closed three to five points down. It was a holiday market as the exchange will be closed until next Tuesday.

Coffee continues to show weakness and promises to go very much lower.

Jay, Bond & Co. New York, February 20.—There was more activity in the cotton market today. Strong cables caused an advance in the early trading. Later, liquidation of March contracts affected the entire market adversely; also smaller spinners taking the expected had an adverse effect, but the visible supply showed a substantial decrease for the week.

Cotton continues to show weakness and promises to go very much lower.

WHEAT STRONGER ON EXPORT DEMAND.

The Market Closed Steady With Gain of a Shade. Corn and Oats Prices Advanced. Chicago, February 20.—Revival of export demand had a strengthening influence today on wheat. Except for an occasional slight lapse, the market was high throughout the day and closed steady with a net gain of a shade.

Corn finished 1-2@3-4 to 5-8 up and oats moved irregularly, reflecting no general tendency.

There was a good undertone and the market was not influenced by selling for foreign account. London disposed of about 10,000 shares on balance. With a weak-end session tomorrow and a holiday on Monday, professional traders do not wish to put out new lines. The day's transactions were the smallest of the year.

Rumley shares gave way sharply, the preferred breaking 5 points. Rock Island common at 5 5/8, and the preferred at 3 1/8, reached the lowest points at which these issues ever sold.

Central Leather developed heaviness, following the publication of its annual report, which revealed a decrease of $1,406,000 in total income. J. I. Case preferred made up 5 points of its recent decline. American Ice continued to advance, and the electric stocks made a good showing.

General Motors after its recent spectacular rise, fluctuated, closing with a loss of about 2 points.

Known movements of currency during the week indicated only a small gain in cash. Forecasts of the bank estimate a call for an increase in cash holdings of $1,000,000. The large total of net financing by the railroads during the last few days was increased by the sale by the Southern railway of $10,000,000 of 5 per cent three-year

TRADING IN STOCKS SMALLEST OF YEAR.

Professional Traders Did Not Wish to Extend Business Over Holiday—Bonds Quiet. New York, February 20.—The only semblance of life in the stock market today was derived from the movements of shares with a small speculative following, which ordinarily play an unimportant part in the dealings. These stocks moved irregularly, reflecting no general tendency.

There was a good undertone and the market was not influenced by selling for foreign account. London disposed of about 10,000 shares on balance. THREE MORE DISAPPEAR IN TOWN OF JUAREZ

Continued From Page One. given asylum and protection by our government. "We submit these facts as evidence that our government is, through a weak and vacillating policy, encouragare given the protection that is justly due them. Inquiry Develops Nothing. Former Governor George Curry, of New Mexico, was to be the principal speaker. He was named as a committee of one at an impromptu indignation meeting in the lobby of the Hotel Sheldon, headquarters of foreigners driven out of Mexico, to investigate the killing of Benton, but his inquiries developed nothing not previously published. Mr. Curry first went to the O. Edwards, United States consul at Juarez.

consul's breast and in his records. The inability of Benton's friends to get definite details has been the cause of an arousing excitement. After leaving the consul, Mr. Curry called at the offices of the American consul, Gonzales Garza, the latter was absent. Other officials were enjoying their siestas and could not be disturbed. Just what occurred between Villa and his ill-fated visitor, last Tuesday never will be known. It was learned that Benton wished permission to bring to the United States four hundred head of cattle on his way to Los Remedios, in Western Chihuahua.

Accused Senator, Gore and Wife

SENATOR AND MRS. GORE.

The trial of the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Minnie Bond against United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Lawton, Okla., began in Oklahoma City, Mrs. Bond charged that the blind senator seized her hand, broke her glasses and cut her cheek in attempting to force his attentions upon her in a hotel room in which she had received him for a conference regarding a political appointment she wanted for her husband. Senator Gore denies each allegation, and his attorney has taken depositions which indicate that they were taken by a witness who was not Mrs. Bond. Mrs. Bond charged that the blind senator seized her hand, broke her glasses and cut her cheek in attempting to force his attentions upon her in a hotel room in which she had received him for a conference regarding a political appointment she wanted for her husband.

FEAR OF INTERVENTION IN MEXICO REVIVED

Mexico City, February 20.—The execution of William Benton, a British subject, by the constitutionalists in Juarez, has revived the fear among investors and financiers in Great Britain that some action that easily might be taken by the revolutionaries. Although since revolutionary conditions assumed serious proportions three years ago, there has been a certain number of various parts of the country some 150 Americans, including participants on both sides of the revolution, there are no records of either side of the revolution, including Benton. The three others were killed in districts where the chiefs of neither faction had any authority. Benton's is the first case where it appears that culpability may be placed on the British minister. Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, has received no advice concerning the execution of Benton, and does not expect any, except incidentally. In his opinion, the case does not concern the government to which he is accredited, and he has no authority to bring about the death of Benton were he to be taken at the foreign office where the case has aroused an attitude of expectancy. That the constitutionalists had executed a foreigner did not surprise President Huerta, who always has insisted that General Francisco Villa belonged to the irrepressible type of leader and fighter who later was certain to bring about serious complications with some foreign power. There has been current here for several days that certain of the European powers again were planning to urge the United States to assume a more active policy in restoring peace in Mexico, and many persons today expect that the British minister might be used as a pretext to impress such a view on Washington. Various diplomats today intimated that they were certain of the killing of Benton as the basis of reports to show their helplessness when it comes to protecting their nationals in Mexico.

JAPANESE IN MEXICO SAFE, THINKS ENVOY

Washington, February 20.—Masaneo Hata, who appears under secretary of state, who was sent across the Pacific on the cruiser Idzumi to investigate the attitude of Japanese in Mexico, returned in Washington on his way to San Francisco to sail for home. It is expected he will call on Secretary Bryan tomorrow. There are only about 2,700 Japanese now in Mexico, according to Mr. Hata, and he has no doubt of the safety of their safety, as there is no evidence of feeling against them. Hata's return was timed with Ambassador China regarding the depressed state of business in Mexico and the prospect of only the ending of the present struggle.
