

CLARK HOWELL NOT IN SENATE CONTEST, HE TELLS GOVERNOR

Believing the Appointment Should Go to South Georgia, Editor Eliminates Consideration of His Name.

ENVOYS OF CANDIDATES CONFER WITH GOVERNOR

No Decision Has Yet Been Reached, However, in the Matter of a Successor to U. S. Senator Bacon.

Clark Howell returned to Atlanta Monday to find himself, without his knowledge or consent, involved in the senatorial succession situation.

Mr. Howell left the city ten days ago for a recreation trip to Florida, and while absent the death of Senator Bacon occurred.

When Mr. Howell reached his desk Monday morning he found hundreds of letters from all parts of the state, many containing copies of letters which the writers had sent to the governor urging the appointment.

Mr. Howell very promptly reached the conclusion that he should not permit the suggestion of his name to interfere with what he thought to be south Georgia's claim for the place, and during the day he put his views in a communication to Governor Slaton, sending him the following letter:

February 23, 1914. Hon John M. Slaton, Governor, Capitol Building, City.

My Dear Governor: Upon my return to Atlanta this morning after a ten days' absence in Florida, I find many letters and telegrams urging me to allow the consideration of my name for the vacant seat in the senate occasioned by the death of the late United States Senator Bacon.

While I appreciate the partiality of my friends as evidenced by their flattering expressions, I feel that a prompt and positive statement of my position is due you, as well as to myself.

Under the laws and policy of our government the senatorship is not apportioned on a geographical basis, the present vacancy is due to the death of a distinguished son of south Georgia, and I believe that it is not only proper, but essentially just, that his immediate successor should be chosen from that section of the state.

In view of the personal relations existing between us, and for state and party considerations, I am convinced that it is my duty to eliminate myself from the contest in order that you may be free to proceed without thinking of me in connection with the appointment.

You have many loyal friends and the party here is anxious to elect a man from south Georgia, and you should have little difficulty in conferring this honor where it will be worn with credit to the people of Georgia.

I would have written this letter sooner had I been in closer touch with the situation and been aware of the extent to which my name has been used in this connection.

Very truly yours, CLARK HOWELL.

Bury Day for Howell. Governor Slaton returned to the city from his country home Monday and spent another busy day at the capitol—the busiest by far since the funeral of Senator A. O. Bacon.

Politicians from all parts of the state were early arrivals at the executive office, and delegation followed delegation into the governor's private office for conferences after the afternoon it became known that Clark Howell had written a letter to Governor Slaton declining the use of his name.

During the day J. R. Smith addressed a letter to Governor Slaton in which he urged the appointment of former Governor Joseph M. Brown. Mr. Smith spent some time at the capitol Saturday, but did not get an opportunity to talk to the governor personally about the matter.

John Bofaulter's name continued to be mentioned during the day, and many persons seemed to think his chances excellent.

The friends throughout the state of Colonel W. S. West, of Valdosta, are energetically active in his behalf.

Strong mention is being given to Judge Samuel B. Adams, of Savannah, which is likewise true of Colonel Peter W. Meldrim and W. W. Osborn, of Savannah.

W. W. Banks, of Tifton, and Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, are among the distinguished Georgians whose names are frequently heard in connection with the senatorship.

W. C. Vereen, of Moultrie, has established headquarters in the city, and is working hard for the appointment.

Governor Very Busy. Governor Slaton was just about the busiest man in Georgia Monday. It was his job to read the letters and telegrams which poured in on him Sunday and Monday.

ALL NIGHT SEARCH TO FIND M'KNIGHT MEETS NO SUCCESS

Solicitor Wants Him as Witness in Conley Trial, and Detectives Seek to Question Him About Affidavit.

DORSEY SEEKS TO SHOW HAIR THAT OF PHAGAN

Defense Announces That if the Supreme Court Refuses Frank a Rehearing, New Trial Motion Will Be Filed.

Refuting the theory of Leo Frank's counsel that the strands of hair found on the lathe in the pencil factory were not Mary Phagan's, Solicitor Dorsey intends to show the Jim Conley jury this morning that the hair actually came from the scalp of the murdered girl, thereby seeking to destroy one of the strongest contentions in the proposed plea for a new trial.

Dorsey built a foundation for this move Monday afternoon during the Conley trial. William Gheeling, an undertaker, attached to the Bloomfield undertaking establishment, testified on the stand that he had washed the slain girl's hair with pine-tar soap the day the body was brought to the morgue of his shop, and that this application changed the color of it pronouncedly.

Also, that hair continues to grow after death, and that strong, thick hair like that of Mary Phagan usually grows. He stated it was fifty-six hours after he had taken charge of the corpse before it was lowered into the grave of the quiet Marietta cemetery.

Surprises Expected. Solicitor Dorsey's speech is expected to throw some surprising revelations upon this phase of the most recent Frank case developments. This was assured by court officials in the solicitor's confidence. Mr. Dorsey, although remaining non-committal, intimated substantiation of this anticipation.

It is also said to be the hope of the solicitor to explode the latest affidavit of the negro, Albert McKnight, who, after making a sworn statement repudiating his testimony in the Frank case, which statement is now in the hands of Frank's defense, vanished mysteriously. No trace of him has been found by detectives who have scoured the city.

A subpoena has been issued for McKnight to appear before the Conley jury and give testimony. Court was adjourned early Monday afternoon, because of the negro's disappearance. Detectives and investigators from Dorsey's office hunted for him all night, but to no avail.

They stated that he had not come for the purpose of arresting the negro, but merely to question him. Beyond this, the headquarters trio was uncommunicative, leaving after they had become convinced that McKnight was not at home.

Plan Has Been Agitated. This plan but follows out agitation which has been current during the past year for a closer affiliation between the county officers and the work under their control.

The present county commissioners admitted recently at a regular board meeting that the heads of the various departments in the county could not give their best efforts to county work, as they could not spare all of their time looking after county business.

It was recalled today that Representative Lilley, after being elected to congress today by Republican Leader Mann set forth that "the offices of mayor and representative in congress are incompatible and it is impossible for one man to perform the duties of both," and proposed that Mr. Curley's seat be declared vacant.

Whether He Should Be Permitted to Hold Both Offices Put Up to Congress.

Washington, February 23.—Whether James M. Curley, mayor of Boston and on the rolls of congress as a representative from the twelfth Massachusetts district, shall be permitted to hold both offices was put squarely up to congress today by Republican Leader Mann.

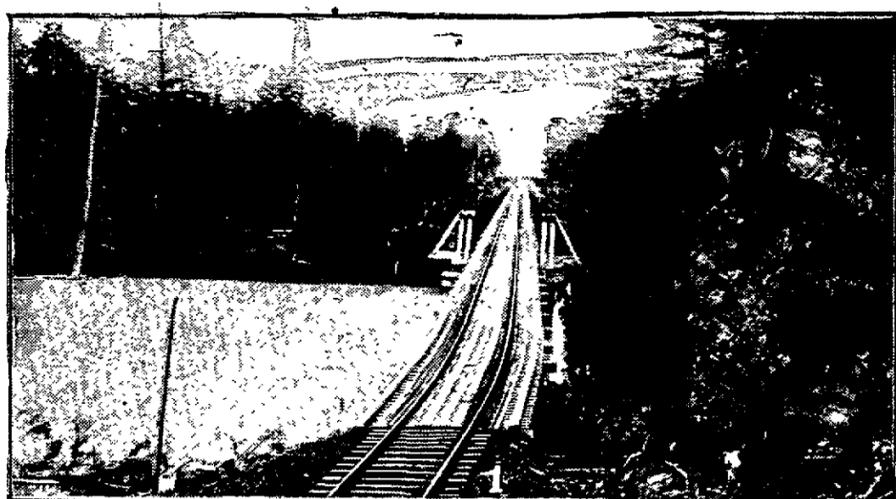

At the suggestion of Democratic Leader Underwood, Representative Mann agreed that the resolution should go to the judiciary committee without debate.

The Curley case has been discussed for weeks about the capitol. Mr. Curley drew his salary as a congressman on February 4—two days after he took the oath of office as mayor of Boston.

It was said that he indicated at the time his intention of holding both offices until the end of the present session of congress to redeem pledges made to the people of his district and to save Boston the expense of a special election to name his successor.

$35,000,000 Federal Railway for Alaska

ences that must be settled in conference. The passage of this measure by congress marks the first big experiment by the United States government in the construction and operation of a railroad. It is expected to open up the vast resources of Alaska and to bring great prosperity to that territory. The bill provides for the construction of a government railway system at a maximum cost of $35,000,000.

The president is authorized to operate the roads under government control or to lease them and to acquire any existing lines by condemnation proceedings. The total mileage to be constructed is limited to 1,000.

COMMISSION PLAN URGED FOR COUNTY

Incoming Legislature Will Be Asked to Place Fulton on This Basis—Waters Favors Idea.

An appeal will be made to the incoming legislature to place Fulton county on a commission government basis.

Chairman Tull C. Waters, of the county board of commissioners, favors such a plan, which has been outlined as follows:

Three commissioners will direct the entire workings of the county business. One will head the finance department, one will have charge of alms and county institutions, and one will have charge of public works.

GOD GIVES CHANCE TO EVERY NATION, SAYS DR. COBERN

Nashville, Tenn., February 23.—"If I thought that God had saved no men before Jesus Christ came, I would not be a preacher of the gospel," declared Dr. Camden M. Cobern, in an address tonight before 3,000 people at the big Bible conference in session here.

"There has never been a nation since the beginning of time that God has not given a chance," he said. "If I thought that there was such a thing as a chosen race, if I thought that the Hebrews or the Christian race were the chosen race, I would no longer be a teacher of the Bible."

Dr. Cobern told of discoveries in Egypt by a party of which he was a member of bodies six thousand years old with their arms folded and of unique art treasures.

SULZER FIGHTING FOR GOVERNORSHIP

He Brings Suit for the Purpose of Reversing the Verdict of Impeachment.

Albany, N. Y., February 23.—William Sulzer today instituted legal proceedings before Justice Alden Chester of the supreme court, with the purpose of regaining the governorship, from which he was removed last October.

An order was issued by the court compelling Comptroller Sohier to appear and show cause why a writ of mandamus, compelling him to pay the former governor his full salary as the occupant of that office, should not be issued.

When Attorney General Carmody notified Justice Chester that he would oppose the granting of the writ, the court and its intended to render a decision on a matter of law, holding that the court of impeachment had passed on the contentions of Mr. Sulzer.

To the Highest Court. An agreement then was made between the attorney general and Colonel Alexander S. Bacon, counsel for Mr. Sulzer, to facilitate the determination of the questions involved by the state courts. The appellate division will be asked to affirm Justice Chester's proposed order denying the granting of the writ and then the case will be carried to the court of appeals, where a similar request will be made.

It was said that he indicated at the time his intention of holding both offices until the end of the present session of congress to redeem pledges made to the people of his district and to save Boston the expense of a special election to name his successor.

FOREIGN RESIDENTS IN WAR-TORN MEXICO MUST BE PROTECTED

Question of Safeguarding Foreigners Has Become a Problem of Increased International Importance.

MARINES TO BE LANDED BY JAPAN AND FRANCE

Washington Is Trying to Get the Facts About Execution of Benton—Senate to Discuss Mexico.

Washington, February 23.—Regardless of whether or not the execution of William S. Benton, a British subject, by General Villa was justified, today's developments emphasized clearly that protection of foreigners in rebellion-torn Mexico had become a commanding problem of increased international importance, appreciated no less by President Wilson than by leaders in congress. Briefly these were the day's developments.

After a conference with President Wilson, Acting Chairman Shively, and the senate foreign relations members of the committee reached an understanding that the Mexican question, as taken up in the senate, should be discussed behind closed doors. Pending resolutions looking to better protection for foreigners soon will be taken up by the senate.

United States Not Responsible. Discussion in the British parliament of the Benton incident was read with much interest by officials, who observed particularly that the United States was not held responsible by Sir Edward Grey for the death of Benton.

The British embassy announced that the British consul at Galveston, Texas has been ordered to El Paso to assist in the inquiry concerning Benton, but in no way to interfere with the American investigation.

Intimations were received through semi-official channels that the matter would be landed by Japan and France to act as legion guards in Mexico City along with those of Great Britain and Germany.

That the Huerta government is not averse to the sending of foreign legion guards to Mexico City is known here officially, but the United States, for the present at least, will not follow the course of other nations.

The whole tenor of the Mexican situation, while revealing no unusual activity, reflected the same anxiety and perplexing tangles which often have characterized it during days of extreme tension.

Probing Death of Benton. Attention was chiefly focused on the investigation as to the manner in which William S. Benton met death at Juarez, but details of the affair still are lacking. The report which has been mailed by American consular representatives had not reached here late today. It is expected tomorrow. Its contents have been anticipated by telegraphic dispatches giving Villa's version of the affair, and additional details are being sought from General Villa at Chihuahua by American Consul Letcher. The attempt to exhumate Benton's body, though unavailing as yet, is expected to bring further evidence.

Just what will be the final judgment of the American officials in the case, no one will predict, but it would not be surprising to many in official circles if Villa's explanation went unchallenged in the absence of satisfactory proof with which to impeach it. That the American government may pass on to Great Britain the facts as found without indicating any judgment at all in the matter, is considered by some diplomats as a likely course. Steps to secure better protection for English subjects then are expected to follow, and it is this feature of the case which is provoking a discussion of a possible assertion of a policy on the part of the United States which might express itself anew on the subject of protection to foreigners.

May Urge Britons to Leave. That Great Britain may urge her subjects to leave Mexico, as did this government, is considered plausible, though there is some ground for the belief that the American government may express to the Mexican factions a general warning about the treatment of foreigners, the violation of which, it would be pointed out, might lead to grave complications. The American government feels a peculiar sense of obligation in connection with the safety of foreigners in northern Mexico, having assured these nations which had no consular representatives there that the Washington government would exercise a watchful eye in their behalf.

Englishmen Are Missing. The embassy disclaimed any intention of interfering with the American investigation of the Benton episode, declaring that the British consul at London, and in some quarters tonight the ordering of Charles Alexander Spencer and Frederick Alexander Galveston, Texas, to El Paso, was regarded as a move calculated to relieve the American government of some extent of this task in the section around Juarez.

Other members of the diplomatic corps are observing the situation carefully and in some instances have been informed, though no inquiries other than from Great Britain have as yet become known.

The state department makes a practice of keeping the diplomats here informed about the situation in Mexico. Reports from Los Angeles today casting doubt on the Mexican government's assurance that the rights of Americans to protection in Mexico are guaranteed, and calling for a complete report on conditions in Mexico are expected to be called for, but it is admitted that both probably will be referred to the senate foreign relations committee for further consideration.

Future of Rebel Movement. Considerable interest is centered at the capitol in the future of the constitutional movement and the possibility of a state being reached which might call for reversion of their allegiance. Asked about the probabilities of recognizing the constitutionalists, the senate foreign relations committee, said the time had not arrived for a consideration of the matter.

Talk of Intervention. Talk of armed intervention possible speeches in the senate by those who favor a drastic policy and a general agitation is again in the air. Administration officials realize that the situation is fraught with all sorts of possibilities in which the unexpected often plays a vital part.

Discontented elements, they believe, will continue to prevail there until a political and economic readjustment has taken place in that country. "No one outside of Mexico can accommodate her affairs according to the view of the Washington government, and there is nothing in sight to indicate that this point of view will be changed."

The United States since lifting the embargo on arms has awaited the settlement of Mexico's civil strife by her own warring factions without outside interference. Military aid has been refused since then has not encouraged the prospect of a quick settlement. The campaign by the rebels against Terrell has lagged. Suggestion that the rebel propaganda be discontinued by a possible plan to form a new republic out of the northern Mexican states is not a new one here. Some have believed that those advocating such a step in reality looked toward annexation to the United States as northern Mexico. The stand which President Wilson took in his Mobile speech against annexing any more territory is recalled in this connection.

As a matter of fact, annexation never has received the serious consideration of officials here because there has been nothing in official reports to show that the movement for an independent republic had the support either of the rebel chiefs or the Mexican population generally.

CORPSE OF BENTON DEMANDED OF VILLA

El Paso, Texas, February 23.—Interest in the execution of William S. Benton by General Villa last Tuesday morning at Chihuahua, has been revived, but all eyes were on developments at Washington.

Rebel agents are frequently to be met with in public places, and Benton was their favorite story. They are working tirelessly and with some success in the United States. There is said to be a desire that the rights of Americans to protection in Mexico are guaranteed, and calling for a complete report on conditions in Mexico are expected to be called for, but it is admitted that both probably will be referred to the senate foreign relations committee for further consideration.

Anxiety over the fate of Gustav Bauch, the German American official, is reported by Villa. Bauch is being held in Chihuahua for review of his case, wherein he is charged with being a spy. It is reported that Consul Letcher, who has been instructed by the state department to look after the interests of Americans, had been unable to see him.

Legal documents setting forth Bauch's birth by German parents in New Iberia, La., received here by Mrs. Bauch, his sister, will be forwarded to Chihuahua.

There still is no trace of Harry Compston, an Englishman who disappeared in Mexico, nor is there any confirmation as to the fate of the British subject on which Villa has promised to return if the missing Americans are released. It is suggested that the missing Americans might be found.

An American employed on the railroad bridge said today that when Villa departed with fifteen or eighteen prisoners last Friday he noticed a tall man in a golf cap, and a shorter one, who appeared to be an Englishman, and a few miles south of Juarez and then shot all of them, has received some information, but to ascertain could be traced. Rebel officials laughed at it.

for foreign affairs, outlined the attitude of the British government and the nature of the communications which the British minister in Washington had had with the government of the United States.

Francis Dyke, assistant parliamentary secretary for foreign affairs, made an earlier statement in which he said that the British government does not intend to make any attempt of enforcement by force, which would be both futile and dangerous.

The British government is concerned over the reported disappearance of other passengers in Mexico, but pointed out that the government was powerless to take any measures in the disturbed regions.

St. Paul, Minn., February 23.—Invasion of Mexico by the world's chief power, as in the case of China at the time of the Boxer rebellion, is advocated by Dr. Cyrus Northrop, minister to Mexico, in a speech before the Minnesota Peace society.

Atlanta, Ga., February 23.—(Special.) H. J. Martin living at 134 Fowler street, Atlanta, and employed by the Atlanta Utilities works, tracked his wife to Athens and entered the Majestic theater, where she was beginning her career as an actress.

He took her to a hotel, and there coolly gave her her choice of leaving him forever and going in the show business or accompanying him home. He begged her not to think of him but calmly decided between the two lives.

She said she would go back home and be a packer, said her husband, and they will sit up till the daylight express for Atlanta.

It was stated at the Martin home, 134 Fowler street, last night that Martin had left Monday for Athens.

WE'RE LAWLESS PEOPLE, CRIES SENATOR VERNER

South Carolina Solon Says There Is No Regard for the Law. Columbia, S. C., February 23.—"We are a lawless people," cried Senator Verner, of Deconce county, on the floor of the senate tonight in a speech against the bill for compulsory education in this state.

Senator Verner declared that the people of South Carolina had absolute disregard for law. He said that recently a citizen had said that he could commit murder without fear of punishment. The senator said that a compulsory education law could not be enforced. He asked if there was anyone who would take his "little pistol" and go and force parents to send their children to school. Strife, he said, would be stirred up.

CITY ASSESSMENT GAINS $13,624,117

Final Recapitulation Shows $130,335,575.00 for Realty Values—City's Income for Year Increases $56,000.

Complete figures of the 1914 realty assessments, and the collections in 1913 on the city's aggregate tax, were made public Monday for the first time. The total realty assessment for 1914 taxation, just completed, is $130,335,575, an increase of $13,624,117 over the assessments for 1913.

Comptroller Goldsmith's final recapitulation of tax collections from all sources shows that the total tax given in 1913 amounted to $116,711,458, while the tax collector's books show that only $1,023,972.24 was collected during the entire year. The collections were made in installments as follows:

First installment, $398,422.54, second, $82,214.43, third, $1,908,97.04, and third (railroad tax), $215,252.17.

$39,001.24 in Default.

Of the total tax given in for 1913, exactly $30,061.24 is in default, and $22,939.98 is assessed against corporations.

The total tax given in by the assessors in 1913 amounted to $2,959,787.31, against $2,283,158.47, an increase for 1913 over 1912 of $222,371.16.

According to the above figures, the city with $2,283,158.47 given in 1912, only $352,161.22 of the amount anticipated to get the deficit will be collected from time to time by the tax collector and the city marshal, and together with the interest and costs against delinquents the total will be "at down considerably."

Chiefs in Comptroller Goldsmith's office are at work making the digest of taxes against corporations, but the work has advanced to the point where it is possible to get the total of aggregate taxes against corporations amounting to $222,009.88, as against $189,570.81 in 1912.

Comptroller's Statement.

Comptroller General Wright filed his assessment statement with the city. It shows the aggregate tax, franchise tax and assessment against personal property of all corporations doing business in the city. The aggregate tax against some of the largest corporations is as follows:

FULTON NATIONAL BANK THREATENED BY BLAZE

While all the officials of the Fulton National bank were taking a holiday yesterday on account of Washington's birthday, a fire broke out about 2 o'clock in the basement of the bank, burning a bunch of old deposit slips and records of practically no value.

J. C. Lawton, one of the bookkeepers of the bank, changed to be working on his books and, smelling the smoke, he took it to the narrow winding staircase that leads to the basement and located the blaze. He immediately telephoned the fire department.

Chief Cummings, of the fire department, was stifled from smoke while fighting the blaze. He was rescued by a fireman who ran a hose down the narrow staircase into the smoke-filled room. The change was too much for him and when he came in contact with the fresh air he immediately fell to the floor. He was quickly carried out of the bank by other firemen and revived shortly after he reached the fire department.

2 PROMINENT WOMEN OF SAVANNAH STOP COCK FIGHT AT PIT

Savannah, Ga., February 23—(Special)—Mrs. L. T. Weatherbee and Mrs. Thomas Judson, two prominent Savannah women, leaders in the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, took the law into their own hands today and stopped a joint bull dog and cock fight that was scheduled to take place at Kelly's farm, near here.

The sport was scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. It lacked twenty minutes of that time when Mrs. Weatherbee and Mrs. Judson got into a high-powered machine and ordered all steam ahead. They arrived at Kelly's farm just as the lovers of the sport were fitting steel traps on a couple of husky roosters. The women jumped from their machine and running to the cockpit, indignantly demanded that the fight be called off.

"We are not going to let them fight, we are going to let them kill themselves," was the reply given at that time. While Mrs. Weatherbee stood guard, Mrs. Judson went to a telephone to call the county police. Seeing the women meant business, the devotees of the sport decided to call the fight off.

University Loses Its Share of the Estate Held by B. A. Denmark

The University of Georgia loses its share of the estate of the late Erasmus A. Denmark, as was decided by the supreme court Monday morning.

According to the terms of the will, Mr. Denmark's estate should go to his wife, Mrs. Anna R. Denmark, and his son, Thomas Newton Denmark, but the greater part of the estate should go to the son if he dies without issue.

The son died some three years ago without having married, and the university, through its trustees, entered suit to recover his part of the estate.

Mrs. Denmark, mother of the young man, related the suit on the ground that her husband had bequeathed to the university more than one third of his estate and that the law did not permit a testator to will more than one third of an estate to a religious, charitable or educational institution, to the exclusion of members of his family. The supreme court upheld the contention of Mrs. Denmark.

MISS MARY LOU COBB DIES ON WEDDING EVE

Miss Mary Lou Cobb, of Birmingham Ala., who was to have been married there today to Lieutenant Ralph Cadot Holliday, U. S. A., died suddenly early Monday morning of heart failure. Instead he will go to the funeral of his niece, which will take place in Opelika, Ala., today.

Miss Cobb was one of the most popular young women in Birmingham, beautiful and talented, and the occasion of her wedding had been anticipated by many parties given to her and Lieutenant Holliday who arrived in Birmingham several days ago. She was taken suddenly ill Sunday night, and died a few hours afterwards.

GRAND JURY PREPARES FINAL PRESENTMENTS

The Fulton county grand jury will hold a spirited session today. While routine matters will come before the body in regular session, the main business to be put through will be the matter of naming a committee which will frame the final presentment to be handed to Judge Ben Hill on Saturday, when the term of the grand jury expires.

The final presentments of the grand jury will undoubtedly remain as a criterion for future grand juries. It is hinted that the jurors will not only again review, in brief the convict situation, but will also paraphrase in their presentments making suggestions in the matter of handling the charitable institutions under the care of the board of county commissioners.

A paragraph will also explain the present grand jury's seeming neglect of the locker club situation, which was put up to the incoming grand jury, which will be sworn in next Monday.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVED IN SCHOOLS

The little red hatchet and samples from the cherry tree were quite prevalent Monday in the schools of Atlanta. It is the custom of the children of the old tradition that the father of our country as a boy was truthful even after transgressing. His father's favorite fruit tree.

Every school celebrated Washington's birthday from 8 o'clock and the means of celebration were varied and interesting. Declarations on Washington's life and character, and reading of extracts generally consisted of the program with paper hatchets and imitation cherries served as decorations and souvenirs.

The banks and governmental institutions in the city observed the day by closing their doors.

WILL PLAN REFORMS FOR CONVICT CAMPS

Reported expert from North will be put in care of the prisoners.

The county commissioners will meet on Wednesday with the state prison commission in an effort to work out some of the reforms suggested by grand jury in Fulton county convict camps.

Should a full attendance of the county commissioners be impossible on Wednesday, Thursday has been named as an alternative date for joint sessions of the state and county boards.

One of the most important actions to come before the meeting will be the naming of a convict warden, a position practically created by action of the grand jury and to be filled, it is believed, by some penal expert not connected in any way with county or state affairs.

It is rumored that a northern expert on sanitation and the care of prisoners will be brought here at a salary which would be paid for a year or more after the moral, mental and physical welfare of convicts in Fulton county camps.

The matter of the elimination of the Donaldson brothers from county affairs will not be broached at the meeting of the state prison commission and the county commissioners. This matter will be held until a later date, when the county commission will act upon it. It is already known that the Donaldsons will be released from the county employ by a vote of three to two. Commissioners Waters and Anderson choosing to retain the brothers in some capacity with the county but remove them from authority over the convicts.

That the county can only install more baths in the various camps a few at a time is the statement made by the county commissioners on Monday. The lack of ready funds is making the application of some of the drastic reforms requested by the grand jury a difficult matter just at present. The statement is also made however, that the work of remodeling the camps along sanitary lines will go forward as rapidly as possible.

TAMPA IS CAPTURED BY GASPARRILLA AND CREW

Tampa, Fla., February 23—King Gasparilla and his pirate crew captured this city today. Amid the booming of cannons, the cracking of muskets and wild and joyous antics his majesty's ship the Jolly Roger flying from her mast, arrived at the foot of the river this afternoon driving before her all water craft from gun to gun.

Landing at the Tampa Bay park the king and his company marched to the revolving stands and demanded the keys of the city from the mayor. Immediately upon receiving these he declared high carnival and headed a grand pageant which disbanded along Bay Shore drive tonight, where an outdoor ball was given in his honor.

Beef From Argentina.

New York, February 23—Two million pounds of Argentine beef and a large consignment of Argentine butter arrived here today on the steamship Vandyck.

PLANS TO AID FARMERS DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Railway Officials Consider Methods for Securing Larger Crop Yields.

Members of the farm improvement and the live stock and dairy departments of the Southern railway met at the Piedmont hotel Monday and discussed plans for aiding farmers of the southeast in securing larger yields by the use of improved methods. The meeting was held under the direction of J. C. Williams, of Washington D. C., assistant to President Fairfax Harrison. T. O. Plunkett, manager of the department of farm improvement work, presided over the meeting.

A brilliant address by Dr. Andrew St. Soule, president of the state college of agriculture at Athens in which he made a strong appeal in favor of the disseminating reliable information on scientific agricultural methods among farmers of the south was the feature of the opening session. Addresses also were made by Mayor James G. Woodward, who welcomed the Southern farm experts to Atlanta and congratulated them on what the company is doing to promote better agriculture. J. D. Price, state commissioner of agriculture, Dr. E. Lee Worsham, state entomologist, Phil Campbell, state agent of the United States department of agriculture and Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins of Illinois.

Twenty-seven papers by many representatives of the departments of farm improvement work covering every phase of agricultural production affecting the south, were on the program for the session Monday. The conference will be resumed Tuesday with similar discussions.

This is the semi annual meeting of the farm improvement work of the Southern Railway company in its general work for the development of the southern farm. The farm improvement department stationed in each of the nine southeastern states served by the company are in attendance as well as field representatives of the live stock department headed by F. L. Word, dairy and poultry agents headed by Dr. C. M. Morgan and the four market agents who are stationed in Atlanta, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Washington.

THE ISSUE A MORAL ONE.

It was wholly appropriate that Dr. John E. White, of the Second Baptist church, should have selected a plea for the repeal of the iniquitous Panama canal tolls exemption as the theme for his Sunday night sermon.

As he plainly stated, the issue involved is sheerly one of honor, of morality, with politics not entering remotely into it.

To put a parallel case Assume that the United States had had international rights at Suez.

Assume that it would have been to her advantage to at least partially control a waterway through the isthmus of Suez.

Assume that, by reason of location, she recognized England's prior claim.

Assume that to safeguard her rights and simultaneously observe international comity, she had waived claims at Suez, given England right-of-way, stipulating only that in the canal to be built there should be no discrimination in the matter of tolls.

That is precisely what happened at Panama.

We had the prior right of location and there was the immutable Monroe doctrine. England has, and had, commercial ambitions, laudable and legitimate, in Central and South America.

A canal would facilitate these ambitions. She could have commanded the capital to build it.

But recognizing the comity of the situation she relinquished her rights in the premises, and, in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, gave America a free hand with the understanding there should be no preferential treatment in the matter of tolls.

The United States would have been in arms had England violated a hypothetical agreement of the sort outlined at Suez.

England has cause to be outraged at our repudiation of an honorable promise made governing Panama.

What is less excusable is that we are profiting our shipping nothing.

Already it is protected, in the coast-wise sense, against international competition.

The crutch now conferred on it is a gratuity, a subsidy, pure and simple.

Ministers of the gospel will may protest against violation of the nation's honor.

Statesmen of every party, well may align themselves as a man against a policy that would, as Senator Lodge says, make the United States an "outlaw among nations."

President Wilson has righteously demanded a repeal of the indefensible free tolls provision.

The quicker congress meets his views, the quicker will the nation be extricated from a position which may result in shame and dishonor.

THE BIBLE CONFERENCE.

An annual event in the non-denominational religious life of the south is the Atlanta Bible conference, to be held this year at the Baptist Tabernacle, March 1 to March 8, inclusive. Dr. Len G. Broughton established the conference, and brought here noted students, and speakers from all parts of the world. Several years ago the Atlanta Bible Conference association was founded and chartered, for the purpose of perpetuating the work after Dr. Broughton made his residence in England and in conformity with his wishes.

The association is composed of 200 representatives, ministers and laymen, of all denominations in Atlanta. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, is vice president and chairman of the executive committee and, in the absence this year of Dr. Broughton, will be in charge of the conference.

At the sessions this year will be such distinguished Bible authorities and speakers as Campbell Morgan of London, Dr. William Souper of London, Dr. Camden N. Coburn of Meadville, Pa., a noted archaeologist, who has just returned from the excavations at Babylon; Dr. George R. Stuart, and many others.

A distinctive feature of the conference is that admission is wholly free, contributions being voluntary. Prominent and representative preachers and Bible students from all over the south come to Atlanta to attend the conference. It is likely that as large a crowd is drawn to Atlanta by this event as by grand opera.

The hope of the association, which guarantees the expenses of the conference, is this year to effect such measures as will assure permanency. In this endeavor, they should have the substantial co-operation of all the religious elements in Atlanta. Denomination plays no part in the proceedings of the body. The sessions and their intellectual and spiritual benefits are open to believers in all creeds. Such an institution is one of the best possible assets that could be possessed by the city of Atlanta.

NO CAUSE FOR HYSTERIA.

The Benton incident in Mexico is an exceedingly grave one, but it justifies neither hysteria nor jingoism.

From surface and present indications, it looks as though Villa, leading to his murderous and freebooter impulses, may have ordered the execution of Benton without due cause or provocation.

But we cannot as yet form an accurate judgment until all the facts are in our command and half judgments and impulsive judgments are what make trouble in international affairs.

The United States is committed to protect international interests in Mexico.

That is the price we pay for being allowed to handle the situation without interference and for our essential fidelity to the Monroe doctrine.

A way will be found to bring Villa to justice, if he shall be proven guilty, and to satisfy the natural resentment of Great Britain. The firmness and resourcefulness of President Wilson offer proof in these directions.

But we are not going to have trouble with England, and we are not, unless absolutely compelled, going into Mexico.

So far we have made so many compromises with patience to avoid the welter that would follow intervention, that it would seem an eternal pity to fall at a moment when it appears the impossible Huerta really is tottering and stabler forces seize hold of the crisis.

The thing to do is to have patience and full confidence in Mr. Wilson. He is deliberate and soft spoken, but he has before now given ample evidence of signal ability to take care of crises.

BISHOP C. K. NELSON.

Today Bishop C. K. Nelson, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Atlanta, will celebrate the twenty-second anniversary of his consecration as bishop of the diocese of Georgia, now subdivided.

Bishop Nelson has made a well-poised and sane ecclesiastic. He has measured up to the joint requirements of religious devotion and civic conscientiousness.

The Constitution congratulates him upon his anniversary. We also congratulate the city and the state on the possession of an ecclesiastic who has served his church and served his state, without confusing the one with the other and without surrendering to the craze for faddism that so often impairs the efficiency of the clergy of our day.

GARDENS FOR CHILDREN.

Miss Celeste Parrish, supervisor of rural schools in Georgia, is the moving spirit in a campaign to have school children create gardens in the backyards of city residences.

The plan is an excellent one. It is well, as Councilman Ashley suggests, to make the backyard as ornamental and well kept as the front yard. Health and beauty lie in that direction.

If the child can be given an intelligent interest in gardening, his life will take on a fresh, an inspiring and a broadening influence.

The idea is valuable, also, as inculcating habits of industry and love for the soil. The little money and time spent in the innovation would return dividends out of all proportion to the negligible investment.

The reporters rushed Goethals, but his work speaks for him, and he let it go at that.

It isn't dignified to run from tax collectors, but maybe Deacon John D. needed the exercise.

Anyway, the Mexican army at Uncle Sam's border hostelry is in fine feeding trim.

By being born, George Washington gave many aspiring orators a fair chance to be heard from.

"Never had any schooling," says Villa; but as things grow hot around him he is anxious to live and learn.

From the way the Colonel's friends are "nominating" him one would think that all he wants on earth is office.

Those Reno people have a rocky road enough, without earthquake assistance.

Just for Georgia

Love's Signs of Spring. "Signs of Spring," my "Honey" I take them from your eyes: They are my sunlight-my starlight-my skies! There I read the meaning of the spring's sweet will.

And even the rain around them but makes them brighter still!

Love sees in them his twilight-his mystery of them. The woodlands of the wild flowers, and where the rose is born;

They tell the time of violets and larks on dewy wing. They are Love's light, that lead him to the star, the starlight of the Spring!

So Don't Worry. These crumbs of comfort from the Town Philosopher.

"Prosperity will be wise and won't prolong the dance until he gets dizzy enough to tumble.

"When the sun's light dies you won't be here to kick against the gas bill.

"The reason congress hasn't acted on your advice may be that it's too busy to take it.

"The waste of time in wanting the earth is not as foolish as your disappointment at not getting it."

In Line. Not in dreams forever, with the past in view. But take the best of old times and blend it with the New.

Getting 'right in' line Where bright the banners shine. Marching to the future, and the ranks a-feelin' fine!

Fair were the old times, but fair the new times seem. The deed is now the blossom of the beauty of the dream!

Ever on, and on! When the night is gone The shining army marches to the music of the dawn.

A Boy Philosopher. Good advice to the daddies of the community, from a boy. In The Baxter Springs News.

"Don't give your boy a calf or colt and then sell them and put the money in your own pocket.

"Don't expect your boy to love farm life when you make him saw wood with a dull buckskin while you toast your shins by a warm stove."

"Don't threaten to half kill your boy when he has made some small mistake, and don't tell him that he is a good-for-nothing, and tell him that he will die in the penitentiary. That will not make his life happy and bright."

"Don't expect your boy to love farm work so well that he will not want to go to a circus or picnic this summer, and don't send him to the circus with barely enough money to purchase the ticket."

A Word From the Furrows. Perhaps 'twould help the farm'n' man— might sorta ease his toils— if the chap that preach about it would "git back to the soil."

Would grab the hard plowhandles an' run the furrow's line. Fill they see the green fields blossom with harvests fair an' fine.

But they sound a far alarm In speeches, meant to charm, But never hit the grit for home an' "git back to the farm!"

I reckon, though, 'is better so—to let 'em talk an' preach While a long-time congress keeps 'em from a hot hoe-handle's reach.

To let 'em, with high politics, forever keep in town. It pleases them to give advice, an' never hurts us much.

Their words their hearers charm An don't do half the harm Them same chap might accomplish as green hands on the farm.

Consid'r Lose Him. "We used up all our persuasive powers" says a Georgia editor, "trying to get the chief fault finder and general grouch of this community to accompany an aeroplane man in a higher flight, but we couldn't budge him. His excuse was—he had noticed that men who went too high in life were apt to forget their raising, and as he might be called at any time to save the state, he couldn't afford to leave it. 'There's nothing,' he said, 'like being on the spot—when you're needed!'"

The Home Prophets. In the storm and sunshine Seeming overwise, When they couldn't run the weather With a first "tip" from the skies!

Prosperity at Last. This news item and personal appeal from The Adams Enterprise.

"All things come to him who waits. The editor of this paper is serving on the jury at $2 per day, but he asks his creditors for the Lord's sake be patient yet a little while, and don't crowd a man when he's up!"

Draw the Line There. This, from the experience of a Georgia rhymist.

Although to chant Springs praises The local poets throng, The spring song they like not Is—"Gee-haw. Git along!"

A Final Text. There's enough joy everywhere to set the world a-dancing, but some folks are too dignified to let joy lead 'em a dance.

A Desert Vision. (Clinton Scollard, in The Smart Set) I rode the desert spaces The billowed waste and wide, And immemorial faces Came down the twilight side.

I crouched the blue vault under, The planet-sown abyss, Held by the haunting wonder Of great Semiramis.

All others failed and faded, But she shone as of old. Her purple hair thick-braided With dull Assyrian gold. Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold.

Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold. Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold.

Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold. Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold.

Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold. Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold.

Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold. Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold.

Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold. Her robes had woven glories With dull Assyrian gold.

Efficient Housekeeping

By HENRIETTA B. GRAUHL, Domestic Science Lecturer.

A February Calendar.

Much of this wintery month we must, perform, spend at home, but there are so many anniversaries in it that it need not be a lonely or gloomy time.

Perhaps the following, copied from an old diary, will suggest some interesting February duty to you.

February 5—Just looked over the remainder of our supply of apples, potatoes and other stored away food.

The turnips are beginning to sprout. This afternoon I remembered this was Washington Irving's birthday so I read about his Dutch housekeeper. He says they kept their parlors sacred to nothing but a weekly ceremony of cleaning.

Weddings, christenings and funerals were permitted to take place in them but for the rest they stood closed but for the weekly visit of broom and duster. So glad I am British!

7th—Dickens' birthday; so made a meat pastry for supper.

8th—Ruskin's birthday. Felt as though I must do something worth while on a day that gave the world such a wonder life, so went out and fixed a box on the clothes line to hold crumbs for the birds.

The cats plague them when I throw out crumbs for them. The box worked finely, only the pigeons wanted the lion's share of the feed.

11th—Made new shades for the electric light bulbs as today is Thomas Edison's birthday. Will have the photograph on tonight.

12th—Lincoln's birthday I put little flags around the fern centerpiece on the dining table today. It pleased the children. And the evening father told them how Lincoln lived in Kentucky, Illinois and finally in Washington. I think they went to bed resolved to be statesmen, except Bonnie, he wants to be an astronomer when he is big so he went to bed early.

13th—Made mince meat and suet pudding this morning and valentines this afternoon.

14th—Valentine day Mending stockings by the open fire all afternoon. That "it takes two to make a pair" may be said about worn socks as well as lovers.

15th—Turned all the house plants around this morning and picked off the dead leaves. Brought the Easter lilies up from the basement. The green plants were permitted to huddle under the covers after supper.

Dreadfully bad for children, but Washington only has one birthday a year.

27th—Used the last slice of that Virginia ham today, had sweet potatoes with it. This evening we all made little frames for pictures. The children were very busy.

Children brought from school. While we worked father read the poem to us, for this is Longfellow's birthday.

28th—A rainy, blustery day, that is getting ready to usher in March, but never mind. March, rear if you like, there's no place like home and a little wind nor weather cannot mar its cheer.

INTELLECTUAL SHUFFLING

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

One part of the Human Race is made up of Intellectual Hunters. The other part is made up of Intellectual Shufflers.

An Intellectual Shuffler is a man who gets behind a tree, so to speak, when a real idea crawls into his brain, whereas the Intellectual Hunter, seeing the idea "afar off," hurries out to meet and to welcome it.

Intellectual Shufflers make up the Drones of Business and of our Everyday Life.

And the Drones take up our time by compelling us to take care of them in Jails and Poor Houses and to bury them in the Pottery Field.

No honest Worker or sincere Campaigner and yet, not every Intellectual Shuffler is hopeless. Most of us are occasionally attacked by Intellectual Shuffling. We find fault and criticize before we know what we are finding fault about or what we are criticizing.

The way to avoid Intellectual Shuffling is to search for and face the Facts and Truth in things.

When you are told to do a thing or feel a definite task pulling at your elbow, first seek to instantly grasp the meaning of it. If it seems unintelligible enter into the spirit of it and go with it to the end. That is what makes Farmer boys and Office boys great Rulers and Executives, and that is what makes every Character great.

The Tango Not New.

The tango, according to Le Cri de Paris, is no new dance in France. It is derived from the "gogonade" or "gogonade" of Auvergne.

Madame de Sevigne, who saw it danced at Vichy in 1676, declared that she was infatuated with it, and that if it were danced at Versailles, all the court would go crazy over it. It is surmised that the old French dance was taken by the gypsies (who often ran over Auvergne) over the Pyrenees to Spain, from where it went to the Argentine and now returns with the new name of "the tango."

"All the history of the century of France," says Le Cri, "thundered in the eighteenth century against the 'gogonade.' It was forbidden under pain of ex-communication, and interdicted in public assemblies, but the Auvergnais resisted and triumphed. With the tango show the same vitality as its ancestor of Auvergne."

Holland's New Land.

(From The Indianapolis News) Little Holland is about to begin the great work of draining the Zuyder Zee. It is expected that seventeen miles will be required to make the entire area now covered by water fit for habitation and cultivation.

About 24,000 acres of land are already being annually reclaimed, and this reclamation is likely to continue for about ten years. The reclaimed lands of the Zuyder Zee will be sold by the state in small lots and gradually, so as not to depress existing prices. It is estimated that at least forty thousand persons will be required to cultivate this reclaimed sea land, which will be used for the growing of root crops, sugar beets, potatoes, peas and other vegetables.

"It is estimated," says La Gazette de Holland, "that the value of these crops will be nearly $30,000,000. The present Zuyder Zee fisheries employ 3,017 men and produce, herrings, flounders, anchovies, smelts and shrimps to the value of $335,000 a year. The boats in use in the Zuyder Zee will be unsuitable for fishing in the North sea, and new boats will be supplied, by the state to enable the fisheries to work that sea."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON, The Famous Mason Poet.

A World of Woe.

"There seems to be a great deal of domestic infelicity in this town," said the druggist. "I hear that Ebenezer Porcupine has left his family and is staying at a boarding house. It seems to me he must be crazy for his wife and daughters are fine people."

"I suppose you know all about them," remarked the village patriarch. "They come in here once in a while to buy a can of talcum powder or a bottle of peroxide, and they smile pleasantly when you say that it's a fine day, and you infer that they are perfect peaches. Now, it happens that I know all about the Porcupine family, and my heart has been bleeding for Ebenezer for many years. He is a modest, unassuming man and he has been providing comforts and luxuries for his family cheerful and all he asks in return is a little peace and quiet in his own home. It seems to me that this is a reasonable demand. Ebenezer's idea of a good time is to sit in his rocking chair and read a book, or converse with his loved ones about the crop and the weather."

The Great Trials of History

TRIAL OF MCKINLEY'S ASSASSIN.

On September 6, 1901, as President McKinley was holding a reception in the Temple of Music at the Buffalo exposition, he was shot twice by Leon Czolgosz as he was shaking hands with the president. The assassination had evidently been planned with care. Over his right hand the assassin wore a white handkerchief, and with the hand banded beneath this handkerchief he had concealed a short-barreled Derringer revolver.

A little girl was immediately ahead of Czolgosz in the line, and the president, after putting her kindly on the head and with a smile of welcome and extended his hand. The assassin thrust out both his hands, brushed aside the president's right hand with his left hand, lurched forward against the president and, thrusting his right hand close against his breast, he pulled the trigger twice.

Czolgosz was a self-avowed disciple of anarchy, and at the time claimed that he alone was responsible for the crime, having had no assistants. He persisted in this statement to the end, the trial developed no other names connected with the assassination.

The assassin was a Pole and lived in Cleveland up to a very short time before going to Buffalo. At one time he kept a saloon in Cleveland and later worked in an iron mill. He had been born in Alpena, Mich., and was only a little over twenty years of age. His father was born in Posen county, Prussia, coming to America thirty years before the son's crime. He was considered a poor but peaceful citizen, as were the other children of the family.

As soon as the assassin had accomplished the deed he was seized by R. S. Ireland, of the United States secret service, taken into a side room for fear of the angry crowd waiting to see the trial, and was hurried to the station house No. 1 and was thrown into an underground cell. On the following Monday he made a written statement, in which he reiterated his first story that he was alone in the crime.

President McKinley died on Saturday morning, September 14, and his burial took place on September 20 at his home in Canton, Ohio. Czolgosz, the murderer, was arraigned before Judge Edward K. Emery in the county court on September 17 on an indictment for murder in the first degree.

The trial of the assassin began on Monday morning, September 24, before Justice Truman C. White, one of the oldest and most experienced supreme court judges. It first took a short time to secure a jury. The first day was given over to witnesses of the shooting, expert testimony from physicians and surgeons.

The trial was continued throughout the following day up to 3:51 in the afternoon and a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree was returned in just thirty-five minutes. The entire trial of the assassin consumed only eight hours and twenty-six minutes.

During the entire trial Czolgosz sat in a chair with his hands clasped on the arms and with his head bent forward and a little to the left. He seemed to pay no attention to what was going on around him. Every now and then he would take a handkerchief from his pocket and mop his brow, although the day was not warm showing the mental excitement under which he was laboring. At one time during the absence of the jury did he raise his eyes or lift his head.

After the verdict had been brought in the prisoner was returned to his cell and the judge called him into the court again on the 26th to receive his sentence, which was execution at Auburn state prison during the week beginning October 28.

Czolgosz was electrocuted at 7:15 o'clock on the morning of October 29, 1700 volts being passed through his body. He slept so soundly the whole night before his execution that when the prison warden called him to prepare for the end, he had to shake him strenuously to awaken him.

Immediately after execution an examination of the prisoner's brain was made and it was found to be normal. A brother and brother-in-law were at Auburn on the day of the execution, but they were refused permission to see the prisoner before his death or the body afterwards. The father remained in Cleveland and was at the local office of the Associated Press, accompanied by his two sons, when word was received that Leon had been executed and buried.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF DISTINGUISHED WOMEN

By MRS. JOSEPH A. ALEXANDER, Wife of Representative Alexander, of Missouri.

I know of no recipe that provides for any more attractive dish than a marshmallow pudding and what is best of all is that it tastes fully as good as it looks.

This is the rule for making it: Marshmallow Pudding: Six eggs, 1-2 tablespoons cold water, 1 scant teaspoon of blanched almonds, 1-2 cups granulated sugar, 1-2 tablespoons gelatine, 1 pound white or pink grapes.

Pour the water over the gelatine and let it stand until it begins to form jelly, when whip into it the whites of the eggs, which have first been beaten to a stiff froth, and then beat again as you add the sugar.

Now divide this into three parts of equal proportions. Color one part pink, the coloring the color of the packaging of gelatine. Into this pink portion put the scant teaspoon of almonds cut fine and the pound of grapes cut in halves, and from which the seeds have been removed.

Put the whole mixture into a mold, putting the coloring in the middle. Chill thoroughly and serve with whipped cream which has been flavored with vanilla.

New Minor Planets.

The discovery of minor planets still goes on apace. During the year ended June 30, 1913, sixty-seven of these bodies were given provisional numbers, though five of these subsequently proved to be old members of the asteroid family.

Of the remainder, nineteen were discovered at Heidelberg, seven at Johannesburg, nine at Neuchâtel, eleven at Himeis, three at Vienna and thirteen at Winchester. All minor planets from No. 1 to No. 747 have now been named.

Washington Party.

An interesting occasion of yesterday was the party given by the Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in celebration of the one hundred and thirty-second birthday of George Washington.

A delightful program, including two piano selections by Miss Mathews, a talk by Dr. Hugh Walker and a reading by Mrs. McConnell, was much enjoyed.

The state regent, Mrs. Sheppard W. Foster, was present and brought greetings from the state D. A. R. conference, which was held in Washington, D. C., last week.

She announced also that with the proceeds of the Revolutionary Reader compiled and published during her administration, she has made liberal contributions to the Martha Berry's school, the Mineral Bluff school and a school in south Georgia.

In the conclusion of the literary program delightful refreshments were served and picturesque decorations were in the national colors.

Dinner to Bridal Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephens Hook entertained at a beautiful dinner party Sunday evening at their home at East Lake for Miss Susan Osborne and Lieutenant Lewis Alexander, Falligant, whose marriage takes place this evening.

The house was decorated with blooming plants and quantities of spring flowers.

The centerpiece of the table in the dining room was a miniature flowering cherry, about which were smaller trees filled with pink blossoms. Crystal candlesticks were tied with pink tulle bows, and American flags

ONLY SIXTEEN, GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 3961 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. REAL ESTATE DEALS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Congressmen Who Own District Realty Say Washington Set the Example.

Washington, February 23.—While the house overlooked the custom of having a dinner read Washington's farewell address from the speaker's rostrum to commemorate the first president's birth, George Washington's participation in real estate deals at the national capital was a feature of debate today on District of Columbia legislation.

Representative Sisson of Mississippi, democrat, was questioning the propriety of property owning in the capital by representatives in congress and others having to do with legislation relating to taxation of Washington real estate, when Republican Leader Mann asked if the Mississippian "meant to cast any reflection on the father of his country," who owned a great deal of land in Washington.

"He does not believe the father of our country," Mr. Sisson began, when Mr. Mann interrupted.

"He did the identical thing that the gentleman condemned was not a member of congress," replied Mr. Sisson. "He was never a member of either branch of congress."

Mr. Mann replied that, nevertheless, George Washington, as president, had to develop power over congressional legislation.

"I do not believe, if what they say about it is true," replied Mr. Sisson "that is to the credit of the father of our country, that he was interested in development of real estate in Washington. It is a very much to his credit," Mr. Mann retorted, "that when the capital was located here he endeavored to develop it instead of opposing it."

Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, interrupted at this point to remind the speaker that the father of our country never the seat of government while George Washington was president.

"S. O. S." SIGNALS SENT FROM GERMAN STEAMER

The Lizard, February 23.—"S. O. S." signals from the German steamer Wildenfels were picked up by her sister ship Trautentfels and communicated by wireless telegraph to the signal station at the Lizard today.

The distressed Wildenfels was half way down the coast of England on her way from Hamburg to Calcutta with passengers and freight when the urgent "S. O. S." signal was caught at noon.

A later wireless dispatch from the British steamer La Correntina, bound for Calcutta, advised that the Wildenfels does not require any help. The message ends with the optimistic phrase, "The living crew are saved."

Shipping men here are unable to understand what the phrase means, unless it is meant that there was an explosion on board.

Soap Dries Your Scalp, Causing Dandruff, Then Hair Falls Out.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, shiny and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

For the good of those who are victims, directly or indirectly, of the drinking habit, I have written and published a very interesting illustrated book which describes how I have completely broken the habit of drinking for several years. I have not had any desire to touch a drop of anything alcoholic since. I have been able to do this by following which thousands of drinkers have admittedly been saved.

George M. McKenzie, owner of the McKenzie building, at Peachtree and James streets, which was gutted by fire Sunday afternoon, will confer with architects today in regard to plans for remodeling the building or tearing it down and placing other improvements on the site.
McKenzie says that it is dependent upon the report of the building inspector upon the condition of the walls of the present building as to whether he will remodel or rebuild. If the present walls are safe he will remodel the building. Should the walls be found unsafe, however, he will tear down the building and place another upon the site.
In the case of rebuilding the building he did not now contemplate covering the lot with a large building.

The market is without any indication of the future course of the values of cotton. With the large quantity of futures and futures in this crop, as compared with the amount of hand-picked cotton, the situation is even more confused than in ordinary seasons. On the face of the movement the cotton market is a view which is held by probably a vast majority of the trade, but the demand for cotton is held by the daily offerings, so that it is evident the consumption is progressing in face of the market.
