CONFERENCE IS HELD IN OFFICE OF MAYOR

Insurgents Want Changes of $38,600 in Sheet, Proposing to Take $15,000 From Anticipated Tax Gain.

Following a conference between Aldermen John S. Owens, James R. Nutting, Albert Thomson and James W. Maddox, Friday morning a message was sent to councilman W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the finance committee, inviting him and members of the finance committee to confer with the "insurgent" aldermen.

Compromise Offered. For the first time since the sheet has been held up the finance committee was offered a proposition for compromise. The insurgents demanded changes to the extent of $38,600 in the sheet.

Counter Proposition. Chairman Humphrey was authorized by the finance committee to make a counter proposition to the insurgents. The committee agrees in its proposition to reduce $2,400 to the sheet of the other project offered by the insurgents, but not on the same scale as proposed by the insurgents.

Amicable Agreement Reached. A conference was held late Friday afternoon between leaders of council and the aldermanic board who are opposing the sheet, but no definite agreement was reached.

RACE FOR SENATOR WAXES WARM WITH FELDER'S ENTRANCE

Both He and Congressman Hardwick Have Announced, Each as South Georgia's Candidate.

RELATIONS HERETOFORE WERE EXTREMELY CLOSE

Much Interest in Senator Smith's Position, Both Believing His Supporters—Washington Thinks West Will Run.

By John Corzican, Jr. Washington, February 27.—(Special.) The Georgia senatorial situation waxed warm—at least among the Georgia contingent in and around Washington. While nobody here was surprised at the announcement that Congressman Hardwick would be in the race as the late Senator Bacon's successor, general surprise was created at the apparent conflict between him and Attorney General T. S. Felder, who also announced for the place—both as South Georgia candidates.

Attorney General Felder has been here for several days on business and it was from Washington that he wired to friends in Macon announcing his candidacy for the senate to succeed the late Senator Bacon.

There is considerable gossip here among the Georgia members, who are commenting upon the coincidence of the two announcements going out the same date. While, of course, nobody knows, the general impression here is that each thought that the other was to be a candidate and each started to see which could get to the tank first.

As to West, The fact that both Hardwick and Felder are to announce for the South Georgia place leads practically every member of the Georgia delegation to the belief that West will be a candidate to succeed himself for Senator Bacon's unexpired term.

It is regarded as certain here that if Senator Hoke Smith has opposition it will come direct from Governor Slaton. As to whether or not the governor will enter the race the members of the Georgia delegation are not prepared to say.

pared to even prophesy. Undoubtedly some of them will urge him to do so while others will take the position that it will be best for him to succeed himself as governor, which it is universally conceded he can do without opposition. The thing that is uppermost in mind of every Georgian is the announcement of the dual candidacy of Hardwick and Felder, and speculation is rife as to what it may mean.

Mr. Hardwick called on Senator Smith today and had a half hour's conference. Asked later if he expected to have the active support of Senator Smith in his fight, Mr. Hardwick made this surprising statement:

"That matter was not discussed. I called in reference to the regional reserve bank for Atlanta, and a visit that several members of the Georgia delegation expected to pay Secretary McAdoo. The latter is also ill, however, and our visit was postponed."

It is probable that my campaign will be projected on lines that will not appeal to all the friends and supporters of Senator Smith.

I will take the stump in April.

Candidates From Macon.

Macon, Ga., February 27.—(Special.) The local afternoon paper came out this afternoon with the statement that it was authorized to announce the candidacy of Attorney General Thomas B. Felder for the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. O. Bacon.

The indications are that Macon may have a third candidate in the race, the friends of John T. Bofticell being active in his behalf.

They say it is possible that Mr. Bofticell may decide to enter.

John R. Cooper, of Macon, announced some time ago.

ATTEMPT TO LIMIT PARCEL POST FAILS

Senate Defeats Amendment to Curb Postmaster General's Power to Change Weights, Rates or Zones.

Washington, February 27.—All attempts to limit the authority of the postmaster general to change the weight, rates or zones in the parcel post service were defeated today in the senate during the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill.

An amendment to the bill as it passed the house proposed by the senate postoffice committee to prevent the postmaster general from making these changes, was defeated by a vote of 33 to 24. Then Senator Baughman, chairman of the committee sought to force still a proposed increase in the maximum weight of packages to 100 pounds by an amendment providing that postal funds should not be used to transport packages of more than 50 pounds. This was defeated by one vote the roll call standing 33 to 27.

When Senator Baughman asked for a limitation of 50 pounds for packages on star routes, Senator Clark of Wyoming, who had fought for the original committee amendment declared this would be an "unjustifiable discrimination against rural patrons. The amendment was voted down 31 to 13.

Senator Clark attacked a provision of the bill granting $2,000 to the legal representatives of specified employees of the postoffice service killed while on duty and succeeded in having stricken from the bill certain employees not engaged in the railway service. He said if the bill as presented was passed the government would have to insure the lives of employees in every other department of the government.

Final vote on the measure probably will be reached tomorrow.

CONFERENCE HELD ON JOBLESS MAN AND MANLESS JOB

New York, February 27.—The country is not facing an unusual crisis in its numbers of unemployed. This was the consensus of opinion expressed at the National Conference of Unemployed, which began a two days session in New York today.

"There is no problem of unemployment in my state," said W. C. Cheney, delegate from Connecticut. In fact it is the other way around. Not long ago manufacturers were actually unable to procure the labor that they needed.

Delegates gathered in the city hall to find a remedy for irregularity of employment to hit upon a practicable way of bringing together the jobless man and the manless job. It was suggested that the market for labor should be a permanent thinning in the swollen ranks of the unemployed.

Major John Purroy Mitchell opened the conference which is to last today and tomorrow with an address on Public Responsibility.

The delegates brought to the conference special home problems from every large city in the country and from an exposition of these special conditions a general plan is being formulated.

This problem said Dr. John B. Andrews secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation will start down the line of the special conditions to employ a constant staff of men and keep them busy in slack seasons.

Germany has done it and certain manufacturers in this country are doing it by shifting men engaged in construction work from one part of the country to another as the slack season in one given locality leaves a surplus of labor in another.

The definite constructive result of this conference is concluded will be establishment of a great many employment changes which ought to be run by the state.

KILLED WIFE BECAUSE SHE LOVED ANOTHER

Ellis Declares He Doesn't Remember Way in Which He Slew Her.

Chicago, February 27.—With a wealth of detail concerning conversations with his wife in the days just before he killed her in a Chicago hotel last fall but not a word directly touching the matter of her death, William Cheney Ellis today testified in his own defense in his trial for the murder of his wife.

He steadfastly declared that his wife had confessed her love for another man and that he had killed her because she loved another man.

"That night we went to the theater," he said. "When we returned I tried to put my arms around her but she refused me. I asked her—'I implore her to go to home with me to our two children. She said she could not help it and that she could not see how she could treat me that way because I had always been good to her."

"I don't remember anything further," said Ellis. "My home had been broken up simply seemed to give way. The first thing I knew of my wife was that she was lying on the floor. I had my arms around Mrs. Ellis I had on her kimono—and—and—and—"

I got the knife and cut my throat and wrists. Then I called Mrs. Eberole and she came in. I told her some thing terrible had happened. She said she would help me. I told her I had killed my wife. She said she would help me. I told her I had killed my wife. She said she would help me.

COLLEGE PREX FAVORS NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Washington, February 27.—Edmund J. James, president of the University of Illinois today submitted to the house committee on education a lengthy report in favor of the bill of Representative Cress establishing a national university in Washington, D. C., which he emphasizes as the highest influence such an institution would exert.

President James pointed out that such a university to be made effective should be put under the absolute control of the board of trustees appointed by the president of the United States. He said it would be undesirable to have Washington's advice and direct management. He had no doubt he said that Washington's suggestion would be distinctly further along in every branch of its development.

President James expressed the belief however that if the federal government were even at this late date to finance such a project, it would erect a national university here it would exert today the same kind of uplifting influence that we have exerted at established a century ago.

ADMINISTRATION BILLS WILL BE INTRODUCED IN HOUSE AND SENATE TODAY.

Washington, February 27.—Administration bills to regulate development of the vast resources of government-owned lands in the west will be introduced in the senate and house tomorrow by Senator Meyers of Montana, and Representative Ferris, of Oklahoma, chairman of the congressional public lands committees. These measures drafted after extended conferences between the two chairmen and Secretary Lane, at the interior department are designed to make available for immediate development of public lands under rigid restrictions to guard against monopoly and to insure full development. Resulting royalties would go in the first place in the reclamation fund to be used for development of irrigation projects in the arid and semi arid states. Upon the return of the money to the federal treasury 50 per cent of it would be turned over for immediate reclamation. The bill is located for state school and development uses.

The proposed law to govern oil land leasing would provide that the federal government issue a permit of 250 acres which would give the possessor the exclusive right to explore for oil in this territory for a period of two years during which time a production well aggregating 2,000 feet in depth must be drilled. If oil is discovered the committee would be entitled to one-fourth of the land in fee the remainder of the land to remain with the government and a subject to lease in small tracts upon a royalty basis. It is proposed that the oil rights of the country which are all in great part unleased be sold at prices of 10 to 15 cents per acre. Provision will be made in the bill for leasing the land to hold on to it to exceed 100 acres. It also would provide that for strictly local and domestic needs limited permits may be granted for tracts not to exceed ten acres for a period of ten years.

COLLEGE PREX FAVORS NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Washington, February 27.—Edmund J. James, president of the University of Illinois today submitted to the house committee on education a lengthy report in favor of the bill of Representative Cress establishing a national university in Washington, D. C., which he emphasizes as the highest influence such an institution would exert.

President James pointed out that such a university to be made effective should be put under the absolute control of the board of trustees appointed by the president of the United States. He said it would be undesirable to have Washington's advice and direct management. He had no doubt he said that Washington's suggestion would be distinctly further along in every branch of its development.

President James expressed the belief however that if the federal government were even at this late date to finance such a project, it would erect a national university here it would exert today the same kind of uplifting influence that we have exerted at established a century ago.

YOUNG COLLEGE MAN HELPS DISTRIBUTE JEWELS HE STOLE

New York, February 27.—With $10,000 worth of valuable jewelry and eighty robberies spread out on a table, Montague J. Pike, a dapper young college graduate who confessed that he was a thief, stood in the Morrisania police court today and helped his victims identify their property.

Pike, who says he is a graduate of Wesleyan university and a sometime dramatic critic and playwright, gained his money by peddling stolen goods by posing as a health inspector.

This brooch is yours, young lady, or I will send you to jail. Pike said as he held up a diamond brooch.

Pike will be kept in custody without bail pending trial.

WOMAN FASTS 40 DAYS STARTS EATING AGAIN

Tampa, Fla., February 27.—Ending a forty day fast Mrs. Minnie Bickett of St. Petersburg this morning resumed eating without any bad results. Her fast was self imposed. She had stomach trouble and having cured a similar attack at another time, she fasted for forty days. She said she thought the period did some of her household work and did not complain of extreme weakness. Mrs. Bickett says when she feels hungry she will come eating until her system catches up with the work she has been giving it through her stomach.

STRICTER LABELING OF FOODS DESIRED

New York, February 27.—Delegates to the national food trades conference assembled here today to formulate an amendment to the national food law which will insist upon a stricter labeling of food products and uniformity in food regulations throughout the country.

National state and municipal food officials were asked to participate in the conference in order that food laws may be discussed from the viewpoint of the public, the manufacturers and the distributors.

MONTANA BANKS BARRED FROM FEDERAL SYSTEM

Helena, Mont., February 27.—Certain Montana banks are barred from entering the new federal reserve system according to an opinion given last night by Attorney General Kelly of Montana, at the request of secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

The attorney general holds that state banks of deposit and discount cannot buy stock and become members of the federal reserve system because of the provision of the statutes prohibiting them from buying or owning stock in other banks.

Trust companies he holds may be come members of the federal system.

CONDITION OF ANARCHY EXISTS IN PORTUGAL

Madrid, February 27.—The Spanish government has received information that an important revolutionary movement is in progress in Portugal, according to an announcement made today by Spanish minister secretary of state, Joao Antonio de Aguiar, who said anarchy exists throughout Portugal.

Efforts are being made by the authorities here to obtain full particulars of the occurrences in Portugal but the information has been impossible to learn definitely what is taking place as all communication including even wireless telegraph is interrupted.

RESURRECTING RUSY HATCHETS.

The Constitution's Washington correspondent reports that the political aftermath of the death of Senator Bacon is apt to provoke a long and violent political storm in Georgia...

We need and should have political peace in Georgia. We have had peace now for two years. We have prospered under it.

Let's give prosperity a chance. Let's give peace a chance. Are any man's personal ambitions worth the straining of a whole state to fighting tension?

Let's have a continuation of the era of peace and prosperity in Georgia!

AT LEAST HE STAYS PUT.

Every American may not approve the Mexican policy of President Wilson. But no American can withhold admiration for the persistence and confidence and courage the president has displayed in maintaining that policy.

Mr. Wilson stays put. It is refreshing to have in the white house a man of such backbone and vision, vision clear enough to distinguish between ghosts and the real thing.

A TANGLE NEARLY SOLVED.

Indications now point to a final compromise of the long controversy over the finance sheet, with the probabilities that disputing factions will unite in its passage on Monday.

The Philadelphia Ledger says "it is interesting to learn that M. Hobson is again in Washington." Shaking hands with old acquaintances, probably.

Without a crisis Mexico would be a hopeless back number. Villa has even pushed Huerta off the front page.

actly where they stand with regard to improvements and expenditures. The annual deadlock over the sheet has lasted longer than usual upon this occasion, and there has been little excuse for it.

THRASHING OLD STRAW.

The Constitution cannot see what is to be gained by the present controversy between Admiral Dewey and the German Admiral von Diederichs over the respective attitudes of the two during the Manila bay incident in the Spanish American war.

We all know that but for tact and firmness on part of Dewey, and the unostentatious friendship of England, things might have loomed ugly for this country.

But what is the use of conjuring ghosts? But he is too much enamored of conversation. This same trait came near abating the respect of the people when he first returned to America, and some misguided enthusiast proposed him as a presidential candidate.

It seems to have returned to plague him, and us, in his utterances over ancient history. Fortunately, Germany and America are too friendly today to fear the effect of these woody exchanges.

But what good they accomplish we confess our total inability to see.

WITH A GRAIN OF SALT.

One should take with salt the statement made before a New York legislative committee that fifty children in New York hospitals have been inoculated with serious diseases for experimental purposes.

Of course, anything is possible. But it is among the extreme improbabilities that enough reputable physicians, however obsessed, could be found to thus endanger the lives of patients.

Significantly, the charges come from a contingent of well meaning but zealous folk who dream that medical science is synonymous with vivisection, and that vivisection is inseparable from torture of man and beast, and that medical research is gratuitously cruel.

No person possessing a flicker of humanity wishes to see suffering needlessly visited upon a dumb animal. The thought of inflicting such upon a helpless child or an ignorant adult is intolerable.

But we do not credit these hysterical and "sobby" recitatives of midnight torture, of lives recklessly jeopardized, of physicians chaining up animals only to agonize them and of similar weird "old wives' tales."

When it comes to a choice between the momentarily cracked nerves of a rabbit, a horse or a guinea pig and the death bed of a child—we choose the former.

THE BIGNESS OF TAFT.

It will do every American of every party good to read the article of former President Taft in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post. He writes on the personal aspects of the presidency, and does so with a chatty graceful and intuitive style one would not expect to find in a mind trained in judicial channels.

After concluding the article the reader will find himself with a new respect for the difficulties of the office of president, a larger toleration for what ever man occupies it and a recognition of his own personal responsibility in the premises.

A feature of Taft's deliverance of especial interest is the cordial terms in which he refers to Woodrow Wilson, and the candor with which he outlines the obstacles confronting the foes of democracy.

All unbiassed people long have known that in the final analysis Taft is about as broad and catholic an American as ever occupied the chair, however poor his political judgment or warped his political understanding.

These qualities stand out challengingly in Taft's estimate of the man who succeeded him. He says Wilson is courageous and determined, with the guile of the serpent and the harmlessness of the dove and with a driving power which will make him formidable even after the lash of patronage is in ribbons.

Taft does not disguise the task facing the opposition to democracy. Nor can his motives be construed as dislike of Roosevelt, or the urge of personal ambition. He merely analyzes facts with a judicial aloofness and arrives at the conclusion that the democracy stands a mighty good chance to stay entrenched in power if it continues "good."

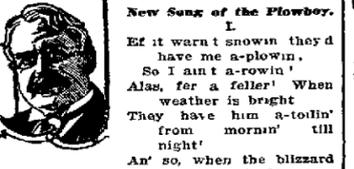

Mr. Taft is an asset of the nation, as valuable in his calm and plodding and deliberate way as the Colonel in the impetuous path he blazes wherever impulse and inscrutable ambition take him.

So many want to jump into the Mexican game with "Your move first!"

The Philadelphia Ledger says "it is interesting to learn that M. Hobson is again in Washington." Shaking hands with old acquaintances, probably.

Without a crisis Mexico would be a hopeless back number. Villa has even pushed Huerta off the front page.

A Story of the Moment

EMPTY HONORS. "Our club is going to hold a great reception next month," said Mrs. Jonesworth.

"And I have been appointed chairman of the committee on decorations." "And how much do you get for it?" inquired Jamesworth.

"Why what a foolish question! Of course I don't get anything for it. It is considered quite an honor to be awarded a chairmanship."

"I suppose it is an honor when I come to think of it. I'm already planning to swell up with pardonable pride over the fact that I am related by marriage to the chairman of the committee on decorations."

"If you got the capsule you'll find my chest measurement has increased by nine inches. Little did I think when I was a poor boy with but few opportunities for advancement that I'd ever rise to such a height. I wish my sainted mother were alive to see her darling boy the best of the chairman of the committee on decorations."

"I'm going to the photographers in the morning and have him make a group picture of myself in my decollete shirt to be printed in the Sunday papers. It may be true that this is only reflected gratuity to Mrs. Jonesworth, but I propose to make the most of it."

"It's a mighty queer thing that people will make all sorts of sacrifices to gain little pleasurable distinctions with a cent amount to anything. Men and women are alike foolish in this matter. No matter how trifling an office may be, scores of men will fall over each other to get it because of a crazy idea that it will do him a good deal of good."

"Half the fourth class passengers in this country are men who are getting eight times as much money as they are getting in some legitimate business. It's the privilege of writing, I think, that has made a fascination to so many of them. The country is full of it. I mean you will see just to find out how many of them are just because it gives them a chance to wear some brass mounted harness and a pair of authority."

"I thought you had lived long enough in the atmosphere of culture and refinement pertaining to this country to know that all these small distinctions are gold bricks. I know what this chairmanship means. Mrs. Jonesworth, I know that all such distinctions are held in the Academy of Music building, an old barn as churches as a matter of fact. You put in your name for the chairmanship, the walls with star spangled banners and the piano lanterns and you'll catch the worst old you ever had in your life and when the reception occurs you'll be in the dark, a cruel and hot lemonade and when the door is shut, think you can pull your thumb out."

"And I too must suffer because of your passion for empty honors. I'll have to cut codfish balls out of a tin can and add my own coffee and make my own bed and take the dog out for a walk. A woman and a chairman of the committee on decorations and give due attention to her. I'll put her duties and at the same time she'll be a husband has had fit for a white man. It would be more in accordance with our marriage vows if you would say that I'll decorate the dining room with my excellent steaks and biscuits. You promise to cherish and protect me when you tell me to me to the altar Mrs. Jonesworth, and this is the way you make good."

"I've known my mother-in-law before she was translated. Her soul is in her curves you'd realize that the least honors a woman can gather are to be invested in her own home. Mother never was chairman of any old committee and she never acted as outside guard at a affair. I wish you'd been a first lieutenant in the army. My home was an inspiration to every fellow in the neighborhood. But the old time home loving woman is dead."

"It would be a mercy if you would let her stay dead and buried," exclaimed Mrs. Jonesworth.

TYRANTS. BY GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Slawh". A tyrant is an odious creature who in great power over other people and uses it in such a manner as to make the subject people long most earnestly for his demise.

History is infested with tyrants who have collected taxes by barking the feet of their subjects and who said "Off With His Head" as carelessly as if they were accepting an invitation to drink Gessler was a tyrant. He walked on the necks of the slaves until a quiet man named Tell exterminated him with an arrow. His funeral was held and George III embarked in the tyrant business in this country many years ago and lost thirteen perfectly good colonies as a result. Now and then some American tyrant president or captain of industry seems to be a tyrant and gets away with it for a short time, treating the common people with great contempt and saying "pooh and pooh" things at congress. But sooner or later they all sell out at a great sacrifice and retire with a few paltry millions which the grand jury has overruled.

About the only successful tyrant business nowadays is conducted by the husband and father who insists on being a czar in his own home. Many a man who has made money by his boss calls him a lumber-headed chump and who when the way is clear, how to get the supervisor becomes a roaring tyrant when he enters his home and if his wishes have not been guessed correctly he proceeds to make himself as popular as smallpox with his loving wife and children.

The trouble with the common or home made tyrant is that he is married to the wrong kind of wife. Some women are made to be tyrannized over and some are made to salute the would be tyrant with a hot flat iron and erect Chinese pagodas over his eyes with a rolling pin. When a man insists on making a weak wife and frightened children look longingly at every funeral which passes by he should be turned over by the court for a few days to some athletic woman with a firm jaw and a good aim. Many tyrants would be killed in this way and the rest would be killed, which would be just about as good.

The "Better Way" in a Century's Test. (From "The Progress of the World in the American Review of Reviews for January.") Perhaps the very best argument of all for the maintenance of peace is to be found in the history of its practical results. Where nations have had differences that threaten war and have found it possible to settle those differences by other means they are almost certain to be able to look back with satisfaction upon such experiences. Herein lies the value to the world of the plans for advertising and celebrating a rounded century of peace between the governments of Great Britain and the United States. It is true that many the day's world has been united together, but there have also been many causes of clash and friction and several points of real danger. And yet these emergencies have been met and peace has become a fixed condition. The war of 1812 with Great Britain was ended in a formal way on Christmas eve 1814 by the signing of a treaty which English and American commissioners had negotiated in Ghent. This treaty was ratified and given effect early in the year 1815. For several years appropriate commemorative movements for marking the centenary of the Ghent treaty not only memorable in its character, but also in the history of its practical results. An important conference was held at Richmond, Va., last month for the purpose of celebrating the centenary of the signing of the state department and of congress has been assured. The celebration will not be confined to the people of the countries directly concerned in the treaty of Ghent, but will serve to call attention also to the good fortune of the United States in its long record of peaceful relations with France, Germany, and other leading powers.

ROMANCE. The death on Wednesday of last week of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson widow of the famous writer at Montevideo Cal calls to mind the beautiful verses written by Stevenson himself and giving a picture of married life as he dreamed it. The verses are entitled:

I will make you brooches and toys for your delight Of bird song at morning and star-shine at night.

I will make a palace fit for you and me Of green days in forests and blue days at sea.

I will make my kitchen, and you shall keep your room Where your glow the river and bright blows the broom. And you shall wash your linen and keep your body white.

In rainfall at morning and dewfall at night And this shall be for music when no one else is near, The fine song for singing the rare song to heart!

That only I remember that only you admire, Of the broad road that stretches and the roadside fire.

SICKLE RECALLS OLD TIMES. (From The Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.) Attorney General Hogan has received a sickle over 100 years old from a lady up in the state who heard him happily describe the good old days when the sickle was used in gathering the crops. Now the binder comes and all is changed. It used to be hard work with the sickle, but the general happiness and sweetness of life were quite as great then as now when the binder has brought us so much idleness and loafing. Sometimes it is argued that our labor-saving machinery has changed our civilization from work and sound appetites to indolence and pleasure. There is much truth in the remark. The sickle was never known to bring on a strike or add a wheel to the factory system. When the day's work was done every man to his fresh eggs and pickled pork, to his church meeting and his sparring. Any improvement on these has a dark fringe to it.

COGNAC NOTICES
HAD LITTLE EFFECT
Proved Little or No Pressure Against Market, and March Increased Premium Over May.

New York, February 27.—March notices, estimated at 50,000 bales, were issued at the cotton market today. Their circulation seemed to find very little following long interest, however, and was considered to have had little effect on the market. The market was being stopped by leading trade interests. At any rate, the premium increased its premium over May to about 34 points, although the general list eased off during the afternoon under realizing of liquidation for over the week-end. The market closed steadily in the net and was 2 to 2 1/2 points lower.

The market here opened unchanged to 1/2 point higher on March notices, but in any scattering liquidation of consequence, seemed to steady the price list, which sold about 2 to 2 1/2 points net higher during early trading. Selling of May and July by brokers who held the market for the first few months back, and after the first demand for March had been supplied, trading was confined to a point or two of the lowest. Trade attention seemed to be more monopolized by developments in March.

It was rumored that large spot in-terests had stopped the market on Monday would place them in control of practically all the local business. The market was 1/2 to 1 point higher on March notices, but in any scattering liquidation of consequence, seemed to steady the price list, which sold about 2 to 2 1/2 points net higher during early trading.

Australia and Russia Offering Wheat to America With Larger and Cheaper Offers.
Chicago, February 27.—Australian and Russian competition led to a downturn today in the price of wheat. Corn advanced the same amount to a sixteenth higher, out of a shade to 1-2 and provisions down 7 1/2-2 1/2.

Foreigners appeared to have made almost unanimous switch at least for the time being, in regard to their source of wheat supply. Of late it has taken stiff bids to obtain shipments from Australia or Russia. Both countries have put forward larger and cheaper offers. In consequence, ocean freight was said to have been engaged with extraordinary freedom at Sydney, the amount, according to one authority, being sufficient to take care of the Australian surplus in full. Mill weather in the United States winter crop region added to bearish sentiment and prevented any important reaction.

There was some talk of export business here under cover, but only the purchase of a few straggling loads was reported. Bull buyers came to the support of the corn market and forced shorts to retreat. Corn advanced 1/16 to 1 1/2.

STOCKS STRONGER IN THE LAST HOUR. The Important Issues Sold Higher Than the Previous Close—Some of the Gains Noted.

New York, February 27.—After an indifferent start, with little appearance of speculative interest on either side of the market, stocks today gradually gathered strength. In the last hour important stocks were sold a point or more above yesterday's close.

Speculative conditions were better. The cables reported that financial difficulties in Paris had been adjusted and the foreign markets were more active. The market was overbid in spots.

New Haven was weakened by Washington reports of a hitch in the negotiations for dissolution of the system. Northern Pacific, influenced by reports of a temporary suspension of a temporary reaction, but later the advance was resumed.

The adjournment of business accounts in anticipation of the deliveries has caused more irregularity, but March closed over and it is reported that the notices stopped by leading spot interests, contracts against which orders, mated at about 50,000 bales, were issued today.
