TRAPPED FEDERALS ARE SLAUGHTERED BY FIRE OF REBELS

Huddled in Small Space at Ojinaga, Huerta's Soldiers Are Victims of Bullets, Shells and Shrapnel.

FEDERALS MUST FLEE OR BE EXTERMINATED

No Quarter Order of Rebels Has Caused Terror, and Federals Are Expected to Flee to United States.

Presidio, Texas, December 31.—After withstanding bullets, shells and shrapnel poured on them from the rebels, the Mexican federal army at Ojinaga, Mexico, tonight still was entrenched within the village, but in the opinion of military experts with small hope of beating back the attacking force.

General Ortega's army of 6,000, scattered over the surrounding hills, after driving the 4,000 federals from all their outposts and into the shelter of the adobe buildings and inner trenches, at sundown were beginning to advance their artillery with a view of demolishing the horse corral and other loophole buildings where the bulk of the federals were housed.

Huerta Generals Reported Killed. Many federal officers, including General Marcello Charaveo, commander of volunteers, were reported killed or wounded. Much of the rebel cavalry fire was of no effect, but when General Ortega put his pieces into action the outlying adobe houses crumbled into heaps of dried mud, leaving a clearer range into the heart of the settlement.

The number of dead and wounded is not known, but losses were not believed to be heavy, as most of the buta had been abandoned by the federals for safer positions.

The federals had the advantage in position, because from the village they were able to sweep the valley commanding the approach. Despite the belief that they were running short of ammunition, they showed a revived determination to make a plucky stand. A federal shell burst on an opposite hill where a body of rebels had ascended to command a range on the federals. The explosion caused a scurrying of rebels and left a number on the ground. The sixty hours of fighting, so far as was observable, has been inconclusive, except that the rebels steadily are gaining ground, while the operation of the federals is becoming more limited.

To frighten the federals into a retreat across the border into Texas and thus end the battle without a prolonged siege or without the fatal results of a close encounter was the obvious purpose of rebel commanders, who repeated their promises not to cross their fire into United States territory.

Several Hundred Dead at One Spot. Three or four federals who had waded through the muddy river said they had seen as many as several hundred dead lying near one place. They said the rank of the federal army was fighting without enthusiasm and that all the wounded were left uncared for. Many wished to desert across the border, but were prevented by fear that they would be shot by their own officers, they said.

The events of the day caused little uneasiness among the United States border patrol. More supplies for Red Cross field service were brought to Presidio and a hospital tent is to be erected on this side. Nurses and physicians who are to come from El Paso are not to be permitted on the Mexican side until hostilities have ceased. The wounded that cross the river are to be cared for on this side. Fear of summary execution should they be captured by rebels was said to have prompted six of the "slayer" federal generals in Ojinaga to arrange for crossing the river at a point remote from Presidio.

It was reported to the American troops that three generals, including Pascual Orozco and Vnez Salazar, already had been across the border. Salazar and Orozco were mentioned by Villa as two of the federal commanders who would suffer the severest penalty.

All Want to Fly. "They've all got their eyes fixed on the American side," said one soldier who was eating. "I don't know what you find 'business' las year?" and particularly during the holiday season, he was asked. "Very fine," he replied promptly. "I fact business was better this year than ever before, and I expect that next year's business will be greater. We had only one bad month—November—but the holiday business was great enough to offset that."

Last year was a money-making year, and that is what counts in business," he was asked. "I. S. Johnson, of the Chamberlain Johnson-DuBoe company, declared that the store did the largest holiday business in its history. He said that the business for the entire year was more than satisfactory, and he remarked that he looked to a bigger year in 1914.

HIS WEDDING MARCH SOUNDED 700 MILES FOR AUGUSTA GIRL

New York, December 31.—An unusual division of a wedding ceremony took place here tonight. While Miss Mary Virginia Saxon was being married to John D. Hahagen, at the home of her parents in Augusta, Ga., Dr. William G. Carl, organist of the old First Presbyterian church, on Fifth avenue, played the wedding music in New York, 700 miles away. A sister and friend of the bride were his audience.

Miss Saxon had asked Dr. Carl, who had been her music teacher, to go to Augusta to play at her wedding. As the organist had to play for the special New Year's service at his church, this could not be done. The partition of the ceremony was the result.

Another notable homicide was the death of Jerry Appelbaum, who was slain in his apartments in the Dakota hotel on February 25. His wife, Mrs. Ceille Scott Appelbaum, was arrested on the morning of the crime and held for trial. She was later acquitted and is still residing in Atlanta.

The following is a brief history of each homicide recorded in police statistics for 1913:—William A. Robbins, colored, was struck in the abdomen with a brickbat thrown by a negro youth, Roy Spear, at the corner of East Cain and Port streets. Spear escaped.

January 5.—Habo Charlie, a negro with police record, was shot and killed in a gambling game at 22 Johnson street by an unknown negro who escaped.

January 21.—Arthur Glover, colored, was shot by Harvey Moxley at 60 1/2 Decatur street. Moxley admitted the crime and was freed after a self-defensive plea made before Recorder Broyles.

January 26.—Lugene Huff, colored, alias Lugene Maens, a police character, was shot and killed by Will Daniels at 227 Washington alley. Daniels was arrested and fined.

February 2.—Addie Harrison, a negro woman, was shot and killed by her husband, Jim Harrison, who, after firing the bullet, hacked the body into an unrecognizable condition. Inter-capturing.

February 2.—H. D. Newsum, a white youth aged 2 years, was stabbed and killed by an unknown negro at Whitehall and Alabama street, during the rush hour of the afternoon. The negro escaped at the time, being pursued by 2 headquarters detectives. Although the police records do not show the fact, a negro man has been convicted for this crime.

February 25.—Jerry A. Appelbaum, white, a traveling salesman, was shot and killed in the bathroom of his apartments in the Dakota hotel. His wife, Mrs. Ceille Scott Appelbaum, was arrested on the morning of the crime and held for trial. She was later acquitted and is still residing in Atlanta.

THE PASSING OF 1913 ALL HAIL TO 1914

- Years write their records and on they go.
- 1913 has bid adieu to the world.
- Those who have used it well, it in turn has used well.
- Its record for us stands the very best in the many bright chapters of our commercial history.
- We necessarily feel that elation that comes to one who in going forward experiences the rise essential to the next step; and we enter 1914 all aglow with the enthusiasm of greater purpose.
- In this connection, we desire to take the opportunity of thanking our friends for their fine co-operation and hearty support; and wishing for each and all, abundant success and happiness for the good New Year.

Boyish Financier Dares Death To Snare Turkey on Viaduct Top

Cartledge Cosby and his turkey.

Some day Cartledge Cosby, tow-headed, 14 aggressive and a newsboy, is going to be a steppin' jack, but he'll get more than 10 cents a day for his perilous labors.

Cartledge sells The Constitution along Broad street in vicinity of the viaduct, where the steel framework towers as high as the roofs of neighboring buildings. During Tuesday an ambitious turkey—having escaped the Christmas slaughter for which he was slated—broke prison from his coop in the Pink Cherry market and flew to the topmost span of the viaduct.

Butchers, bakers, deliverymen, and various attaches rushed in wild pursuit. Brother Turkey, however, attaining the safety of the viaduct's height, gobbled defiance. He purloined while they stood, daunted, on the bridge.

Then along came Cartledge. Constabulations under his arm Cartledge looked up at the turkey, and the bird regarded him with a scornful eye. "A dime," yelled back the butcher. "Come on down wid im!" "Now, not for a dime," retorted Cartledge. "Make it two bits." "Not on yer life," called back the butcher.

December 26—Lizzie Hutchens, colored, was shot and killed by her husband, Ha. Ross, who escaped.

December 30—Charlie Page, colored, was shot and killed at his home, 420 West North avenue, by a negro, Henry

Sharp who according to record, escaped.

December 28—Horace Reed, colored, was shot and killed on Vine street by a negro named S. G. complete and was taken from the delective lookout book on December 28. The crime is believed to have occurred at an earlier date.

EAST MACON SALOONS WILL BE ELIMINATED

Macon, Ga., December 31.—(Special.) Council has decided to eliminate near saloons from East Macon entirely, two applications for licenses on the east side of the river having been turned down last night. Some time ago a petition signed by 250 residents of East Macon was presented to council protesting against locating saloons in that section of the city and when attention was called to the wishes of the majority, though the saloons have been operating there for two or three years.

ROME HOTEL LESSEE SKIPS TOWN LEAVING ONLY HIS BLESSINGS

Rome, Ga., December 31.—(Special.) For the third time within as many months a lessee of a Rome hotel has skipped leaving the hotel to the tender mercies of the servants. The latest instance of this kind is that of W. A. Albright, lessee of the Porter hotel, who failed to appear to serve breakfast to the guests of the hotel this morning. Albright is said to have left town leaving unpaid rent account and other debts due in town. He left a note to C. R. Porter, owner of the hotel, stating that he found it impossible to make a success of the business and wishing God's richest blessings during 1914 to his creditor. A few weeks ago the lessee of the Cherokee hotel made a similar getaway, and a few weeks prior to that another lessee of the same hotel started the fashion by leaving between stars. The Porter hotel is being operated direct by the owner for the present.

MUNICIPAL COURT WILL OPEN TODAY

Formal Exercises to Be Held—Will Take the Place of Justice of the Peace System.

The municipal court of Atlanta, the latest addition to Fulton county's several tribunals, and which succeeds the justice of the peace courts, becomes a fixed feature in Atlanta today.

Before the assembled Atlanta Bar association, Governor John M. Slaton will, at 10 o'clock New Year's day, sign the bill creating the municipal court and deliver the authority necessary to operate the tribunal to Chief Justice Eugene Thomas.

Edgar Watkins, president of the Atlanta Bar association will preside at the exercises. Following the creation, by gubernatorial act of the new court, Judge John T. Pendleton, as dean of the judges of the Fulton county superior court, will deliver a short address, and in turn will be followed by Chief Justice Thomas, who will speak in behalf of himself and his four associates on the bench of the new court.

As soon as the exercises are over, the new court officials will proceed with the real business of the court.

Two Justices to Fight.

All of Wednesday drags unloaded numbers of books and other paraphernalia sent to the offices of the new court from the offices of the justices of the peace all over this territory, who were automatically wiped from office when the new court became a legal reality.

All save two of Fulton county's justices turned over their papers. Justices Jordan and Seelye declared that they would contest the legality of the new court on constitutional grounds and stated through their lawyers that they would not attempt to cease active work until they were stopped by injunction or some other legal means.

A complete force of clerks was on duty at the new court all of Wednesday sorting over their ledgers and arranging supplies for the beginning of their work today.

T. C. Miller, as chief clerk of the new court, instructed his deputies, J. C. Lyne, H. E. Cobb, James Girardson, H. C. Stevens, D. C. Jones, J. R. McClelland, Hewitt Chambers, O. F. Simpson and his two clerks, George A. Patterson and G. A. Carter, in their new duties.

The typists of the new court, Misses Vera Cooper and Eva Baker, were also on hand a portion of the day.

O. H. Puckett, chief clerk of the municipal court marshal, was at his desk until dark getting his department in working order.

Some important announcements relating to the court's business were made during Wednesday.

Take Up Cases Saturday.

Chief Justice Thomas declared that, on Saturday, all the cases left by the justices of the peace would be called for trial. He urged that attorneys or persons interested in their cases be sure to attend the session of the court.

It was also stated that on the third Monday in January the first sale of the court's seized goods would be held. All goods left in the care of retiring justices of the peace will be disposed of at that time.

The new court's storehouse has been located at 115 Mitchell street and is already full of goods seized on writs of attachment.

During the next several weeks the judges of the court will have over 1,500 cases to handle, and that number were left over by the retiring justices.

The judges will rotate in the various divisions of the new court. Judge Luther Hayes will preside over the first term of the criminal branch of the court, holding sessions in the quarters recently vacated by Judge E. H. Orr in the courthouse building, Pryor and Hunter streets.

The business of the court judges will sit in various courtrooms temporarily located for them in the Temple Court building.

Several of the advantages of the new court were pointed out Wednesday by the judges.

Change in Garbment Law.

One was the statement that the matter of wage garnishments would probably be moved to a matter of an event $4 to bring a suit for garnishment in the new court. It is stated that a person bringing the suit must make a worthy bond in each case. This will put a stop to the practice of the courts as collection agencies and worse the star of a bailiff.

Another of the advantages of the new court will be the matter of taking great quantities of work from the shoulders of the judges of the superior court, whose burdens are already more than they can bear. The procedure in the new court is that the attaches of the court used in the superior court and will facilitate the work of the higher courts.

One of the strange coincidences in the establishment of the new court is that very few of the attaches of the retiring justice of the peace courts are employed by the officers of the new court. In fact, only a few of the four men with the new court who have ever had actual experience in a tribunal of law, outside of their practice as attorneys.

SLOAN FASSETT TALKS ABOUT REPUBLICANS

New York Leader Thinks Republican Outlook Depends Largely on Developments.

J. Sloat Fassett, of New York, father of Mrs. F. G. Hodgson, of Atlanta, is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Hodgson. He talks interestingly of the national political situation from the standpoint of an old-line republican.

Mr. Fassett has been district attorney, state senator, collector of the port of New York, his party's nominee for governor in a sweeping democratic year, and for six years was congressman from the Eleventh district. All that time he has been a steadfast republican, and today is aligned with the "stalwart" or standpat element of the party against the "progressive" aggregation of Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Fassett, in discussing Wednesday the future of the republican party, asserted that it was decidedly in the "ifs" state at present. However, he was full of interesting ideas as to how the "ifs" might work out, outlining his views as to the future.

The tendency today is toward a centralization of the administrative or executive power, and the legislative and judicial powers, said Mr. Fassett, "and toward placing it in the hands of the mob. The initiative, referendum and recall are nothing but the spirit of the men who made the constitution."

"When the constitution was made our forefathers started out on new lines," continued Mr. Fassett. "They sought to keep separate the three

RAIN WILL USHER IN FIRST DAY OF 1914, SAYS WEATHER MAN

Atlanta's 1914 New Year's day will likely be wet. The official weather forecast for the next twelve hours so states. That rain will fall before night is almost a certainty.

No general storm is evident in the east just at present, but the whole of the seaboard is covered by lowering clouds which descended upon Atlanta in their slow flight to the gulf on Wednesday with such density that the city resembled that "dear of Lunden," city remembered for the day by anxious reasoners who wanted to know the reason for the dense pall of fog that hung over the community. The rain-gutters were told "not to worry," as the clouds had just pushed down a bank of smoke over the city and any wind came by nightfall the fog would be blown away.

"Blue Sky Law" Loads Secretary Phil Cook With Extra Duties

Secretary of State Phil Cook is being overwhelmed with work in connection with the operation of the new "blue sky law." He declared yesterday that he had received applications from hundreds of parties who wanted to sell securities in the state.

Some of these show a willingness to answer the questions propounded. The secretary said that those who were unwilling to answer were throwing doubt on the good faith of their own concerns. The questions which are asked must be sworn to and are, in general, merely to elicit such information as the people ought to know.

Mr. Cook said that Georgia was the only state which had passed a "blue sky law" without at the same time making an appropriation for the enforcement of the law. Generally speaking from $10,000 to $15,000 were devoted to this purpose. In Georgia, however, not a cent had been appropriated even for an extra stenographer's hire and the result was that the secretary had found himself overwhelmed with correspondence without the necessary clerical force to get through with it.

AS "POOR MAN'S LAND" ALASKA IS DESCRIBED

Washington, December 31.—The prediction that Alaska will be the "poor man's land" of the future is made by Governor Strong, of that territory, in his annual report just made public by Secretary Lane.

"Given reasonable opportunities," says Governor Strong, "Alaska will be a poor man's land, where is not found the millionaire's home on the hill and the thousand acres in the valley, one where the poor man is not a pauper, nor the rich man is not overwhelmed with the fear of pauperism in his heart."

Particular emphasis is laid by Governor Strong on the fact that Alaska's tremendous coal-bearing lands are still withheld from development, depriving the territory of a demand for coal. He declares labor conditions are improving and that Alaska soon will have a fair market for labor.

RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. WILL KEEP OPEN HOUSE TODAY

The Railroad Young Men's Christian association have arrangements completed for a jolly good time at the rooms during the first day of the new year. The party and company will fill the place throughout the day. From 11 o'clock in the forenoon until midnight, but order and civility will be served to all callers. The invitation has been extended, not only to the members but to all railroad men and others who have been helpers during the year.

Three different quartets will sing at different periods during the day. The quartet from the Central Baptist church will be present from 12 to 1 o'clock and the Cottage mixed quartet and the Temple male quartet will sing at night. Professor Basmajian, a musician of many instruments, will be present during the afternoon to entertain with his selections on the piccolo.

The association orchestra will play during the evening. The ice skating in our gymnasium and a warm-hearted cordiality will mark the whole day and visitors will be welcome.

Hyde Reinstated as Lawyer

New York, December 31.—Charles H. Hyde, formerly city chamberlain under the late Mayor Gaynor, today was reinstated to membership in the New York Bar association. Hyde was convicted of bribery in connection with the Carnegie Trust company funds which automatically disbarred him, but an order of the appellate division of the state supreme court today will permit him to practice until the high court rules on his appeal from conviction.

New Depot at Jonesboro

Jonesboro, Ga., December 31.—(Special.) The new passenger depot of the Central of Georgia railroad at this place has been completed and the railroad authorities are entitled to the thanks of the citizens of Jonesboro and the traveling public for the splendid arrangements offered for the convenience as well as the comfort of their passengers.

J. R. SIMS IS INDICTED. Former East Point City Clerk Charged With Embezzlement.

J. R. Sims, until recently city clerk of East Point, is today out on a $2,500 bond, signed by A. R. and A. C. Hemphill, of the same suburb, following his arrest by Deputy Sheriff George Broadnax, on Wednesday morning, upon an indictment issued late Tuesday by the grand jury charging embezzlement of $1,102.50 of the funds of East Point.

Sims, whose father-in-law is said to be seriously ill, was not incarcerated when he was served with the warrant in his case.

Arresting officers say that Sims acknowledged that there were discrepancies in his books but stated so is alleged, that he was surprised that criminal proceedings had been brought. He denies he is guilty of any crime.

The case against Sims was handled before the grand jury by John D. Humphries, city attorney for East Point, who stated, it is reported, that the alleged discrepancies in Sims' books were found some months ago and that since that time he had been making efforts to settle the case with Sims.

Sims is married and has served East Point as city clerk for several terms.

BAKERY MEN ATTEND A SPLENDID BANQUET

The Atlanta members of the American Bakers' corporation have received many compliments from the visiting dignitaries and guests of the corporation for the manner in which they entertained those who attended the first annual meeting of the various branches of the corporation, which covers the southeastern states.

The meeting was closed Tuesday night with a banquet at the University club and the visiting bakery men left Atlanta during the day Wednesday.

Though established only two years ago, the organization has met with complete success in granting reports were received from the plants in each city represented. The plants controlled by the company make bread under a patented process used by 124 bakeries in other American cities.

Those who were in attendance upon the meeting were: W. M. Saicer, William Finch, H. Malchow, E. W. Sturdevant, L. E. Hines, H. Blount, D. J. Wood, from Jacksonville; W. D. Sims, from Chattanooga; J. Ray and H. A. Binford, from Birmingham.

FEDERAL PRISONERS GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

A number of Atlantans have been invited by Warden W. H. Moyer, of the Atlanta federal prison to attend at 7:30 o'clock this afternoon a minstrel show to be given by the inmates of the penitentiary. The performance will be identical with the one given one day for the prisoners themselves and which was much enjoyed by them. On New Year's day the inmates of the prison will repeat it for the benefit of outsiders.

First the prisoners of the inmates of the prison a performance will be given at 11 o'clock in the morning by a number of vaudeville performers in Atlanta who have volunteered to visit the prison and cheer the inmates up for the first day of the year.

J. SLOAT FASSETT.

functions or powers of government, on the theory that whenever the three or four branches of government are separated, that separation has so far worked out pretty well.

Calls Them "Colossal Egocentists."

"Today, a noticeable tendency toward consolidating these functions and placing them in the hands of colossal egocentists, Roosevelt, Charles J. Bryan and Wilson," said Mr. Fassett, "is the danger of the legislative function of government now. It is only to crack the whip and the lawmakers turn his wretchedly an optimist," added Mr. Fassett, "and believe that things will work out to a good end, but I wish I could say that I might see the result of this tendency."

About the national future of the republican party, Mr. Fassett saw many "ifs" in the way. He stated, however, that he believed the old-line element would come into control.

"If the currency bill proves a success, if the tariff works out right, if our present policies are followed by events, it doesn't matter what the republicans do," he declared, "there will be no result. The result will be on the other hand, if the currency bill is a failure, if the tariff law floods the market with foreign goods and closes a number of our factories, if our attitude toward Mexico proves a failure, if the income tax proves objectionable, the republicans will win, for they will be forced together by the loss."

"If the present administration proves only fairly successful, then much depends on the republican party. I see no excuse for a progressive wing in the republican party—none except the personal ambition of Roosevelt."

Stalwarts Reforming.

"The stalwart element is beginning to take on certain reforms or changes that the republicans demand. One thing is the tendency toward bowing to the popular demand for primaries.

"The republicans have helped the country wonderfully in the past by putting the men of the southern vote in the republican convention. Nevertheless, because it's the south's vote, but because it's the vote of a section that gives no vote to the republican party, because the present plan simply allows people who are not stockholders to vote in the management of the concern. Yes, frequently to direct its course."

"Today," added Mr. Fassett, "New York state would go republican by a big majority. The trial and conviction of William Jennings Bryan, the case of Tammany, has disgusted the people. However, you may look at it, Charles Murphy is cordially resented and disliked by a large element in New York."

Governor Glynn is a man of high ideals. He is a fine man, and by the very force of his actions during the remainder of his term he may harmonize the vote of the republican party and of his party."

Mr. Fassett hinted at the necessity of toning down the machine element of his own party, although in this case he would not go into details.

Test the Test.

In brief, Mr. Fassett asserted that the future of the republican party was now being worked out, and that he believed that it would be controlled to a great extent by the standpat wing, but that the old-line men would be controlled very largely by popular demand for changes that found their expression in the progressive platform and in the democratic platform.

He was decidedly conservative in his statements, and expressed the belief that the best test of the future of the republican party would come in the coming year, if the republicans fall.

The binding together and the success of the republicans, he asserted, depended now on many things, the results of the present administrative policies, the personal equation of Roosevelt, and the attitude of the public. There could be no safe prophecy, and the action of leaders in the standpat wing of the republican party.

Mr. Fassett will remain in Atlanta the rest of the week. He has innumerable friends here, and during his frequent visits to the city.

Much of his time here on this visit has been spent on the golf course, next to the keen political game he loves golf, and on the local courses he has found much to delight him.

THE DRINK OR THE JOB, A SERMON WITHOUT SOBS!

This is the first day of the New Year. A good many young, middle aged or old men who sometimes or often "take a little too much" will be industriously, and in blind self faith, "swearing off."

The Constitution isn't given to sobs. Too many temperance appeals have gone on the rocks because of undue emotion.

In that spirit we admonish the numerous takers of the pledge. "You'd better keep the pledge."

The immediate provocation for these words is the following official order issued by Atlanta's new municipal court and signed by each one of its judges.

On and after this date any misconduct or conduct unbecoming an officer of this court, either on or off duty, will be considered a ground of dismissal.

The position taken by the municipal court is reflected throughout the business world of America today. There is nothing emotional, nothing melodramatic, nothing yellow about the onward march of temperance from this source.

What a widely contrasted change from the old days! Only a few years ago public men were not only palliated but encouraged in dissipation.

But today! The lawyer chooses between his bottle and his brief. The doctor decides between his patient and his toddy.

And it is the economic factor that has wrought this remarkable change, and that has hardly begun its work.

You young men, or middle-aged men or old men had best take note of the sign of the times and make up your mind to the fact that in this day and generation it's your drink or your job!

You may compromise with your conscience or laugh at the oracular temperance orator.

But you cannot fool the man with your job in his hand. Nor can you sign truce with the growing ostracism that separates success from the man who habitually crooks his elbow.

THE BLACK MAN'S BURDEN IS THE WHITE MAN'S PERIL.

Dr. Charles Wardell Stiles, of the public health service, speaks in naked and wholesome terms of the mutual health menace the black and the white races hold to each other.

Whatever may be said as to the virtues, per se, of segregation, it can at best be viewed as only a dubious palliative of the health situation, if, indeed, segregation of the negro would not itself vastly increase the danger to the white man.

In fairness to the white mother let us recall that her servants, including her children's nurses, return to these infectious diseases that lurk there.

In other words, what would we accomplish if we succeeded in segregating every negro man, woman and child in a single ward and built around it a wall ten feet high?

We would accomplish less than nothing unless, with that segregation went an enforcement in this isolated district of such rigid sanitary and hygienic laws and ordinances as Atlanta is not now enforcing in one of the scattered negro districts of the city.

Because from that segregated district negro nurses would still emerge from diseased homes to come into our homes and hold our children in their arms.

We are not discussing the merits or demerits of segregation for other racial problems. We do know if it is hoped thus to choke off the stream of disease which one race is pouring into another the hope is vain.

There is even the certainty that segregation unaided would increase the peril of the black man to the white. As it now is the scattered negro districts are hedged in by white communities the very presence of which imposes a measurable restraint and an influence for improvement.

Remove this restraint and influence substituting for it nothing else, and it is not a work of imagination to picture the segregated district becoming a "reservoir of disease beside which present conditions are idyllic.

Here is the core of the business, and it is what the people of Atlanta and every community with a negro population need to learn.

The disease germ knows no color or race line no class distinction and has little respect for distance when it can fasten on a human carrier. To purge the negro of disease is not so much a kindness to the negro himself as it is a matter of sheer self preservation to the white man.

If the people of the south expect to fight a winning war with the death rate they must recognize this as the fundamental principle in the campaign.

Segregated or not segregated, one law of sanitation and hygiene for both races, one law applied rigorously and without exception! Any other doctrine means the dismantling of every health safeguard the white man sets up for his own people.

IN BARBAROUS ATLANTA

There were forty seven homicides in Atlanta in the year 1913.

The count is unofficial, but as accurate as mexcusable lack of official tallies will permit it to be.

That to one side the point is that in the one city of Atlanta assumedly civilized and abundantly supplied with churches and schools, there should be in one year more homicides than, not only in London the world's metropolis but in the entire British Isles, more murders than at several southern cities with a much greater percentage per thousand of negro inhabitants than Atlanta.

The deadly habit of pistol toting must answer for a part of this indictment.

The breakdown in the machinery of detection and arrests is a contributing factor.

The average humble citizen cannot escape his share in the reckoning for public sentiment is simply the aggregate of the average man's opinions expressed in demands upon those he places in authority.

Glory as we will in the other records established by the city in the past year, here is one record for which we well may bow our heads in shame.

All about us the paraphernalia of civilization the symbols of religion—and all about us the gory and brutal symptoms of the days of barbarism.

Efficient Housekeeping

By HENRIETTA B. GRAVEL, Domestic Science Lecturer.

CORN FED FISH. We know all about corn fed poultry and beef, but only our German residents extend this diet to fish.

One hundred ton of hard fed corn grown to prodigious size and wonderfully fat, will come into our market this month.

Only those who have never tasted carp speak slightly of it. Properly prepared, it resembles finest salmon. Like pork, it is rejected by some persons who think it is a scavenger in the fish world.

Carefully raised in a clean inland pond, away from city sewage, a carp will be clean, and, fed on steamed, rolled field corn, as they must be fed to flourish, they are of excellent flavor.

To prepare it properly the largest fish must be skinned as catfish is and the slices of flesh should be marinated in vinegar overnight.

Remove the entire fish in a long fish pan with parsley, basil, oregano, salt and pepper. Half cover it with boiling water or meat stock.

Cook about ten minutes for each pound. Then it will be two thirds done. Remove the fish from the water and cover of cooked kraut over the fish return to oven and continue cooking until the kraut is a little brown.

Breaded carp is made from a fourth or a half of a carp or from slices of the very large ones.

Remove the spinal bones by pulling them loose from the tail towards the head. They come out easily. Cut the fish in slices or pieces flatten with a paddle dip in egg season bread and dip again. Fry in dripping oil in a hot butter and large skillet.

Carp is so rich in its own fat that it is seldom fried in deep fat.

NEW YORK FIRM HAS SOLVED SMOKE NUISANCE

(From The New York Times) After nearly three years of experimentation the New York Edison company has perfected an apparatus which practically eliminates the smoke nuisance at its waterside stations in this city.

The apparatus known as a wet cleaner is simple in construction and operation. The smoke coming from the fires which heat the huge boilers laden with cinders is driven at high speed through a sheet of water.

This process practically all of the material which constituted a nuisance is deposited in the big water tank. The inventors of the apparatus, C. B. Grady, assistant mechanical engineer, and E. B. Ricketts, testing engineer of the Edison plants in describing the new method, said: "Results of a number of tests show an average efficiency of 95 per cent."

A number of the officials of the company including Thomas E. Murray and John W. Linn, vice president, and Edward J. Lawrence, superintendent of the waterside stations, Mr. Williams and the inventors made an inspection of the apparatus yesterday afternoon.

The importance of an invention of this kind is perhaps best illustrated when it is known that 1 per cent of the coal used passes out as solid material in the gases from the boiler fires. At waterside stations Nos. 1 and 2 of the Edison company at the foot of the city, 200,000 tons of coal are burned on what is known as a maximum day and at times when the plant is going full blast three tons of coal a minute are burned.

Thus a great amount of solid material has been thrown out in the past from the fires under the fifty six boilers in the plants. The water cleaning apparatus has been attached to seventy five of the boilers and the work of installing others is in progress.

It has been estimated that the new cleaning equipment reduces the amount of material discharged by the boilers on the streets in that district by 75 per cent. In a few months it is expected that the nuisance practically will be abated.

The expense of the new cost the company more than $500,000 as tests were made with dry cleaning apparatus before the experiments with the water cleaning apparatus were taken up. The invention are protected by patents but the engineers explained yesterday that if other industries adopted the invention the initial cost of installation would be small. The operating expenses are also nominal.

Since the apparatus has been in operation it was explained yesterday, the complaint about the smoke nuisance, that part of the city have been few. It was explained that the treatment does not clean the smoke completely or remove all of its color, but it does remove all materials which would soil the streets or have any harmful effect.

The boilers in the Brooklyn Edison company's plant and those of the United Electric Light and Power company also have been equipped with the apparatus. The engineers give this explanation of the invention: "The first experimental wet cleaning apparatus consisted of a curved battle plate placed just beyond the boiler outlet so as to deflect the gases in a downward direction and a water tank below to catch the cinders.

The next step was to increase the distance traveled by the gases in a downward direction and also materially increase the velocity so that the solid particles would be driven toward the water with a higher velocity and thus trap a larger percentage of cinders.

The next step was to place an inclined battle in the flue and maintain a sheet of water flowing over the upper surface of the battle so that the gases would tend to drive the solid particles against the sheet of water.

The next move was to combine this idea with the former and let a sheet of water flow down along the inclined duct into the water tank below so that the gases in entering the next step was to increase the distance traveled by the cinders into this sheet of water. About seventy five gallons of water a minute for each boiler were circulated.

A Story of the Moment

By W. W. WASON, The Famous Press Port.

THE REASON WHY. It seems a great pity said the required merchant, "that the first class men won't go after the officers and get them, and the best citizens complain of gold brick government. We'll never have any better government until the best citizens are willing to run for office."

Then we'll never have anything but bargain counter government," replied the hotelkeeper. Now and then a hot notch citizen does get excited and run for office having been convinced that it is his duty to his fellowmen and his flag. There's what happens to him? His chances are that he is beaten at the polls by some Jim Crow individual who never earned eighteen honest dollars in his life. You can't imagine how sick the best citizen feels when this happens. There's nothing more humiliating than to set forth with a high purpose to place politics upon a higher plane and get such a jolt in the midriff. The best citizen feels so cheap that he is ashamed to appear in public for six weeks, at a high price, upon his mind never again has anything to do with the disgusting business.

But suppose he is elected dogzone it before he has been in office a week he realizes that he should have stayed home gathering the eggs instead of trying to be a demonstration of patriotism. He finds that his supporters in the campaign all want something from him, and when they don't get it they are sore and begin grinding their teeth. He is particularly fond of the scimitars for his enemies instead of trying to be a doer he makes a new enemy every hour. No normal man wants to make enemies. The average citizen likes to go down to the grave with a little friction as possible and the best citizen is no exception. He is a man who if they were addicted to controversy and undying hatred and good swift kicks they wouldn't be best citizens.

Long ago I was so interested that I counted to run for office and was elected. No man ever had higher motives than I had. I wanted to elevate the bench and see that the steam if just a had no benzene of soda or artificial coloring in it.

Before I had dashed up the first days of justice I had made several enemies. Richard J. Mark on the other side no visible means of support but he convinced me that he was the properly accredited agent for the Duplex Washing Machine so he was acquitted. This stirred up the wrath of the policeman who had arrested him and that brave and capable officer vowed that he would get even. And he did get even dogzone his picture. He was on the police force for years after I ceased to be judge and he was always snooping about my hotel looking for infractions of the law and it beats thunder. I remember about every other day I had to chase myself to the bar of justice and cough up $10 because there were some potato peelings like that. First and foremost I put that washing machine agent must have cost me $100 to say nothing of the wear and tear on my spirit.

The next prisoner was a wife beater and I gave him the limit for I have no patience with that sort of thing. I gave him about six months in jail and a lecture as long as the revised statutes and I remember what a glow of virtue there was in my bosom while I talked. Well, when that idiot was in jail his aunt or grandmother or grandfather or mother or father or some other relative of his emerged from his pestilential prison he bought up the local bus line. He had all the transfer trade between the depot and the city and he had a good business for he induced most of the traveling men to go to the other hotels. Even to this day men have grudges against me because the brand of justice I handed out jarred their consciences and they are trying to put a spoke in my wheel. So you sympathize with the best citizens who refuse to break into politics.

THE YEAR 1913. By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawh."

The year 1913 which closed a reasonably successful engagement last night will go down in history as one of the most hostile years of modern times. With the two revolutions and a suffragette campaign in progress at the same time it kept the world bustling looking on than a small boy is at a circus which has three rings and two platforms.

The late year began depressingly with the thermometer sinking in the bulb for much of the first three months. It then warmed up by easy stages until by July citizens were so used to the sun that they were on the sidewalk and ice boxes were being fitted with steam gauges in all parts of the country in November the year distinguished itself once more meteorologically by blow lines that were so frequent that they were instead of allowing it to withdraw by easy stages. If the crops of 1913 had been half as plentiful as the weather automobile dealers would not now be scratching their heads with a distinctly worried expression.

In England home rule votes for women and the Olympic games fund raged to such an extent that a number of new battleships had to be sworn in to keep the peace at home. In the United States the year was marked by the death of a large number of men and women in the United States and the United States and the United States.

Let those who will the uplands till, And what I see the snowy hills, No more I'll see the cotton trade business conducted on a large scale by great combinations of capital to the law and the authority responsible for its enforcement. It not only gives evidence of a change in the attitude of both the main- and of big business and the representatives of government authority but contains the promise and potency of further adjustment in the law which will be the result of an amicable conflict and hostility but of a mutual desire for co-operation and harmony for the general benefit of the country and its people. It is indicative of less aggressive warfare for wealth and power, and a higher ethical standard both in business and in public life.

The Great Trials of History

THE TRIAL OF OUR SAVIOR

The trial of our Savior has been considered recently by scholars in the science of jurisprudence from the standpoint of the lawyer. Large volumes have been published about it in this aspect and it has proved as it should be a topic of profound interest as treated from the platform by several lecturers.

It is most proper that in beginning a series of articles on celebrated trials the most momentous of all the trials recorded in history should receive the first mention. The jurists in recent years have been preoccupied with the researches of several generations of scholars in Roman and Jewish law. These have been conducted with a view to the procedure the character, the evidence, the condemnation and punishment which completed the tragedy which has transformed the world.

The trial of Jesus was a twofold—ecclesiastical and civil. The ecclesiastical trial took place before the Sanhedrin consisting of seventy or more members. The Roman or civil trial was held before Pontius Pilate the Roman procurator of Judea and afterwards before Herod Antipas. These trials took place within a space of from ten to twenty hours.

The arrest of Jesus took place following the last Supper as he was leaving with his disciples for the garden of Gethsemane. The arrest was made about midnight on the evening of April 6, A. D. 30. He was taken into custody by the band of Temple officers and Roman soldiers. He was taken to the palace of Herod Antipas and afterwards sent to Caaphas the former being the father in law of the latter. A preliminary examination of Jesus was conducted by the Sanhedrin and the church dignitaries. Saint John describes the examination but does not tell us clearly whether it was Annas or Caaphas who conducted it.

The preliminary examination Jesus was arraigned about two o'clock in the morning before the Sanhedrin and was formally tried and condemned to death on the charge of blasphemy against Jehovah. After a temporary adjournment of the first day of the Sanhedrin reassembled at the break of day to retry Jesus and to determine how He should be brought before Pilate.

In the early morning of April 7 Jesus was led before Pontius Pilate and was arraigned before him in the place of Herod on the hill of Zion his customary residence when he came up from Caesarea to Jerusalem to attend the Jewish national festivals. A brief trial of Jesus by Pilate on the charge of high treason against Caesar was had in front of and within the palace of Herod. The result was in a nutshell of the prisoner by the Roman procurator who expressed his verdict in these words: "I find no fault in him."

Instead of releasing Jesus after having found him not guilty Pilate being intimidated by the rabble sent the prisoner away to Herod who was then in attendance upon the Passover feast and was at that moment presiding in the ancient palace of the capital of the Ammonites in the immediate neighborhood of the residence of Pilate. A brief informal hearing was had before Herod and Jesus was mocked by the prisoner and straved him in a gorgeous robe sent him back to the Roman governor.

After the return of Jesus from the court of Herod Pilate assembled the priests and elders and announced to them that Herod had found no fault with the prisoner in their mind reminded them that he himself had acquitted him and offered to scourage and then release him. This offer was rejected by the Jews who were angrily rebuffed by the Hebrews who had demanded the crucifixion of Jesus. Pilate after much vacillation finally yielded to the demands of the mob and ordered the prisoner to be crucified.

With a few brief outlines of the trial of Jesus it will readily be seen that there were two distinct hearings one by the Hebrews and one by the Romans.

Georgia Corn. For many years in doubtful fears I have been waiting for the fates unkind. They dealt me cruel blows Now like a man I've charged my plan For home anew is born It is no less a success By growing Georgia corn.

No more shall talks of cotton bales With prices much depressed Avail to me the more distressed Too oft I've been by shearsmen keen, Of all my profits shorn, But I'll retain the wealth I gain By growing Georgia corn.

Promise of a New Era. (From The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin Ind.)

The spirit displayed upon both sides in the telephone case is most significant and promising of a new era in the conduct of business. Atlanta Ga. December 23 1913

Citizens were saving fuel by firing stinks on the sidewalk.

In the United States a democratic president was installed yesterday in the inaugural ball and a tariff bill was passed in Washington instead of Rhode Island as has been customary. The export business has been unusually satisfactory including both Jack Johnson and the football champion. The latter was returned as damaged goods. The baseball championship series increased the per capita wealth in Philadelphia 100 per cent and Harvard won the football championship. Notre Dame and the Michigan School of Agriculture.

A quarter of a million new automobiles were dumped out among pedestrians last year but large numbers of the latter did survive. Food went up and airplanes came down as usual and owing to the introduction of the Tango in the American home, no one had time to get shocked at the stage last year.

CITY FACES NEW YEAR WITH $625,000 CASH

Fund Not Available, However, as It Must Take Care of Obligations Contracted.

With a balance of $625,000 in round numbers, the city of Atlanta closed the year 1913.

This amount is not available for any purpose whatever, but it is to be carried over into 1914 to take care of obligations which were not paid for last year.

There is also a fund of $45,000 representing the sale of serial bonds by the city. A balance of $13,000 to pay for the city's share of the expense of building the Glenn street underpass is carried over and $1,828 for miscellaneous bills to be paid by the city will be readily seen that after the city pays all current operating expenses there is no money on hand in the treasury.

The city's finances are in better shape than ever before in its history. Mayor Woodward has practically paid the city out of debt by putting an end to the making of moral obligations.

There should be no gold rush following the publication of this story for the reason that locations and dates are not given.

However, the story is vouched for by C. A. Parks, of 23 Auburn avenue, a bookkeeper in the employ of the Union Plumbing company, as authentic and absolutely reliable.

Mr. Parks declares that on last Sunday, "within 10 miles of Atlanta," he came upon an unworked gold deposit that has already netted him 5 pennyweights of real gold.

He states that an analysis of his find has proven it to be flake gold, undoubtedly the washing of a gold lode buried somewhere near the river. He says he made his remarkable discovery.

An evidence that he is not dealing in what might be termed airy verbiage, Mr. Parks shows a small vial of gold which he declares to be worth at least $50 and which he also states is the result of an hour's work on his "claim" last Sunday.

They Dug Lizzards Together In Far Off Wyoming State

Dr. Collier Cobb, of the University of North Carolina (on the left) meeting Dr. J. E. Todd, of the University of Kansas (on the right), whom he had not seen for fourteen years.

It is a long cry from digging dead lizzards 118 feet long out of the fossil fields of Wyoming to sitting in the Piedmont hotel with a fat Havana stuck in one's face, or rather this was what Dr. Collier Cobb, of the University of North Carolina, thought yesterday two minutes before Dr. J. E. Todd, of the University of Kansas, walked into the hotel lobby.

When Dr. Todd walked in Dr. Cobb thought his face looked familiar. Dr. Cobb pretends himself on the fact that he never forgets a face or a name—he lived in Georgia twenty-five years ago and he knows more people here now than three-fourths of the people in Atlanta.

Women Given Less Protection Here Than Elsewhere-- And Here Is My Proof, States Dr. Stiles

The colonel reached for his gun, and madame for her salts bottle, when in Wednesday morning's paper there was read a headline marking the story describing the address of Dr. Charles Wardell Stiles, of Washington, D. C., before the evening session of the convention for the Advancement of Science, the offending headlines being: "Women Given From One-Third to One-Half Less Protection Here Than in Other Sections of Country."

It seemed an affront to chivalry, at first glance, which women would be the first to resent, but reading farther it proved to be a great paternal menace using the protection of the maternal force, for Dr. Stiles reached right to the basic principle of living when he produced vital statistics proving the lack of sanitation and health in the homes and schools of the south, and later made the statement that 622,000 people died in the United States last year from preventable diseases.

"Men are the protectors of the home, and comprise the boards which operate schools," Dr. Stiles maintained. "The school is the center of infection, and the status of the sanitation of the home, and the community in which it centers, is governed by laws men make," he further maintained.

When, therefore, the home is not what it should be and the school is not what it should be, the men are failing in their first and essential duty as protectors of the home.

DR. STILES PRODUCES HIS PROOF. "Can you prove that radical sounding statement that women are given from one-third to one-half less protection in this section that they are given in any other?" was asked Dr. Stiles, who when he was here before told about the inroads of the hookworm

ATLANTA CLEARINGS SHOW A GREAT GAIN

The Increase Over Last Year Is $33,662,937.45--Double Five Years Ago.

Nearly doubling the figures for five years ago and topping last year's figures by $33,662,937.45, the bank clearings in Atlanta for the year of 1913, which as far as the clearing house is concerned came to a close at noon Wednesday.

The clearings for December amounted to $84,974,893.95. For December a year ago the figures were $11,155,499.98, giving December, 1913, an increase of $73,819,393.97 over December, 1912. The biggest month of 1913 was October, when the clearings amounted to $91,549,841.61.

For the past five years the bank clearings show a steady increase. The following figures show the clearings for the past five years:

1909	.....	$486,049,538.55
1910	.....	574,164,916.77
1911	.....	685,130,420.35
1912	.....	841,256.20
1913	.....	725,604,192.63

WADE IS INDORSED BY THE ATHENS BAR

Peaton L. Wade, of Dublin, has been appointed as the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will be appointed by retiring President Wilmer L. Moore to formulate definite plans for a permanent welfare bureau of the city.

Mr. Wade is from Athens and has many friends in this city. He was around Dublin, who would like to see formed that the changes could not be made so near election time.

MONEY VERSUS CHILDREN

"In other words, the health of the child of the community and the teacher and the home from which the child and the teacher proceed could not have the sanitary protection that humanity requires because of certain ideas about economy that prevail, when men run for office and are supposed to be looking after public funds.

The funds of the community were looked after rather than the life of the child—the nation's best asset."

Other statements made by Dr. Stiles in his direct and forceful address go likewise unchallenged.

The message so clearly expressed in the entire address of Dr. Stiles emphasizes the last act in the regime of Hon. Wilmer Moore as president of the chamber of commerce, who, seeing above all the needs of the city in the matter of a better health department, has planned the establishment at once of a public welfare department, which will make for a system of vital statistics and for a more rational and complete department looking to better sanitation and public health.

Another striking and illuminating statement by Dr. Stiles in his address Wednesday is here reproduced: "At present, many property owners seemingly think that almost anything is good enough for a nigger man."

U. S. typhoid deaths: 46.5 per 100,000. Scotland: 11 per 100,000. Germany: 6.7 per 100,000. Switzerland: 4.6 per 100,000.

Now, taking these statistics, and assuming that this death rate from typhoid, traceable to bad sanitation is accurate, are not my statements borne out, pertaining to the lack of protection to American women?

Moore Will Appoint Welfare Committee To Plan for Bureau

A committee of ten to constitute a welfare bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will be appointed by retiring President Wilmer L. Moore to formulate definite plans for a permanent welfare bureau of the city.

The plans were outlined at an enthusiastic meeting held at the Piedmont hotel convention hall Tuesday.

The new bureau, if organized, will be under the charge of a paid secretary, expert in the work and fully able to cope with any situation that might arise.

Mr. Moore said Wednesday night that it would be a day or two before he announced the personnel of the committee.

We are not all of us Samsons, so we had better be careful how we use the jawbone of an ass—January Lippincott's.

The less a man knows the more advice he distributes. The fellow who never tries to get even with anybody is decidedly odd.

New Year's Day

This is a day when the hand of time seems to pause for a moment to give you an opportunity to look backward over the past and forward into the future.

It is a day of retrospect and prospect. It is a fitting time to analyze your achievements during the year just passed and to plan for bigger things in the new year before you.

If you are like the average person, you are doubtless dissatisfied with what you have to show for the money spent in 1913.

We suggest a correctly graded and correctly priced diamond to be purchased upon our attractive deferred payment plan.

You can buy a diamond here by paying only one-fifth cash. The balance, plus 6 per cent, simple interest, can be paid in ten equal monthly payments.

Diamonds of the first quality have advanced at the rate of 17 1/2 per cent per annum for the past eleven years. Indications point to a still greater advance from now on.

Liberal exchange contracts are given. Selections sent prepaid anywhere for inspection.

Net prices are quoted in our catalogue and booklet, "Facts About Diamonds." Call or write for this booklet and start the new year right by investing in a good diamond.

Open House and Dancing At Piedmont Driving Club

"Open house" and dancing at the Piedmont Driving Club today will make that social center more than usually the popular rendezvous for the club members and their guests.

"Open house," beginning at 1 o'clock will last until 10. Dancing will begin at 5 and whatever the day's social program, it will include New Year's greetings and a bit of the day's informal celebration at the club.

At Home for Old Women.

At the Home for Old Women "open house" will be kept from 11 to 5 o'clock and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. The new annex just completed will be open to visitors.

To Scientific Men.

Dr. Bates Block entertained at dinner last night at his home in compliment to a group of distinguished scientists in attendance on the scientific convention.

Teachers' Reception.

An event of broader than the usual social interest will be the annual reception at which the Atlanta Teachers' association will entertain on Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at Hotel Winwood.

Miss Byrd Entertains.

Two pretty dancing parties were given—one last night and one Tuesday night—by Miss Gladys Byrd at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Byrd, and these entertainments proved delightful features of the holiday festivities among the younger set.

Thomas, Elizabeth Anderson, Frances Broyles, Kathie and Messrs. Rice, Janet Hatcher and Messrs. Howard, Thora, D. E. Osborne, Francis Scott, Ralph, Baxter, Caborn, Abner Caborn, Harry Herrington, Harpner Coburn, Robert Hancock, Thomas Hancock.

To Mrs. Dennee.

Mrs. E. C. Cartledge has invited a few friends informally for afternoon tea Friday to meet Mrs. W. A. Edwards' guest, Mrs. Dennee, of South Carolina.

Dance for Miss Parker.

Mrs. William A. Parker entertained at a beautiful ball party last night at Segardis for her daughter, Miss Louise Parker. The lights had red shades and the decorations of holly, holly wreaths and poinsettia blooms suggested the holiday season.

To Miss Robinson.

A beautiful event assembling forty of the college set was the dancing party given last night by Miss Robinson at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stearns, in compliment to the birthday of Miss Robinson.

For Miss Currell.

To A. K. Q. Fraternity.

One of the prettiest of the holiday affairs was the evening at home given to the members of the A. K. Q. Fraternity and their friends by Miss Lucille Mason, at the home of her parents, in College Park.

Mrs. Webb Entertains.

Mrs. LeRoy Webb entertained informally at dinner last evening at her home. The center table was decorated with a pretty arrangement of narcissi and the house had Christmas decorations.

Mrs. Stone's Tea.

Mrs. Spencer R. Stone was hostess at a party tea yesterday afternoon at her home in Ansley Park in compliment to her guests, Mrs. R. D. McKenzie and Miss Louise McCarty, who are the guests of honor at a dance and other entertainments to be given in her honor.

To Convention Visitors.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, president, and the managers of the Atlanta Musical association have extended an invitation to the ladies attending the convention for the Advancement of Science to attend the concert to be given at the club.

Famous Concert Singer Appears At Baptist Tabernacle Tonight

An oasis in the local desert of good music will be the recital tonight at 8:15 o'clock by Genevra Johnstone-Bishop, one of the leading oratorio and concert sopranos of America.

Mme. Genevra Johnstone-Bishop.

With the exception of the Engraved quartet, Mme. Bishop is the only high-class artistic attraction so far brought to Atlanta this season, but the quality of her work may be counted on to make music lovers forget for the time being their poverty of musical enjoyment.

Such a sample of the enthusiasm she excites: "Our own singer, Genevra Johnstone-Bishop, appeared with the Thomas orchestra last night, singing the grand aria from Handel's Sampson. Never before have we heard such a magnificent voice."

Two Spanish dances, "Sarasate," (a) "Macarena," (b) "Habana," (c) "Serenade," (d) "Spring Song," (e) "Popper."

Given tonight by the musical association at the Baptist Tabernacle, tickets were sent to them yesterday through the local committee in charge of the social activities of the convention.

The Atlanta Teachers' association, of which Miss Kate Massey is president, has invited the visiting ladies to a reception at the Hotel Winwood Friday afternoon, January 2.

Mr. Hackett's Lecture.

Mr. Hackett will give the lecture on the "Players' club," Friday afternoon, at 7 o'clock, at the Georgian Terrace hotel. The hour has been changed from 3 o'clock, previously announced.

To Visiting Ladies.

Mrs. Charles J. Haden entertained a group of eight ladies at the Capital Club last evening. The center table was decorated with a table ornate with roses and ferns.

Informal Tea.

The Georgia branch of college women will be at home Thursday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock at an informal tea at the home of Mrs. Warren Boyd, 134 Washington street.

For Miss Parker.

Miss Louise Parker will leave Saturday for a short visit to Misses Mary and Mrs. E. H. Bennett in Piquette, Tenn. Miss Parker will be the guest of honor at a dance and other entertainments to be given in her honor.

Annual Reception.

The annual New Year's reception of the Woman's club, of College Park, will be given at 8 o'clock at the home of the president, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, from 8:30 to 12 o'clock.

Afternoon Bridge Party.

Mrs. Valdemar Gude entertained at several tables of bridge yesterday afternoon at her home at East Lake for Mrs. Thomas Palmer, of Florida, who is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Palmer, and for Miss Bessie Woodward, a bride-elect.

Dancing Party.

Mrs. Frances Powell will give a dancing party Saturday night at the home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. Arthur Powell.

Atlanta Belles in Macon.

Miss Fessie May Outley and Miss Margaret Grant are being delightfully entertained in Macon as the guests of Miss Martine Burke.

To Miss Ellis.

Dr. and Mrs. Vasser Woolley entertained at dinner yesterday in compliment to Miss Agate Ellis, the occasion a delightful one. Covers were laid for eight.

To Mrs. Powell.

Mrs. Eris Powell, of Washington, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Morrell, will give a party at a matinee party and a tea at the Georgian Terrace given by Miss Margaret Ely.

Officers Elected.

The officers for the Home for the Friendless for 1914 elected at the last meeting were: President, Mrs. D. Woodside; first vice president, Mrs. D. B. Harris; second vice president, Mrs.

week in attendance on the Students' Volunteer convention there.

1914 Overland $950

Overland means thrift. The Overland car is the ideal car for the young business man.

His older associates will mark him for a careful business man conserving his resources if he drives his own car of efficient but inexpensive make.

The young man in business requires a car for many reasons; but he must use great care in not choosing one that all men know is eating up revenue every time the gas ignites.

Drive an Overland. It is racy, aristocratic, inexpensive to buy and less expensive to operate; yet efficient, fast, alive and active.

COTTON MARKET STILL NERVOUS

Early Advance Followed by Sharp Break, But Closing Rallies Made the General Close Steady.

New York, December 31.—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled today. Trading was restricted to a moderate extent by holiday considerations, but was rather more active than in usual preceding days.

The opening was irregular. There seemed to be a few near month sell-off orders, but the ring and first prices were 12 points lower on December 31, 5 points lower on January and 10 points higher on the first of the year.

January was relatively firm on buying by one of the large spot interests which followed an early advance and no special attention was paid an official announcement that a Charleston, S. C., dealer had been unable to meet maturing obligations.

This referred to difficulties which had been reported in the exchange covering a local circuit in connection with a recent heavy selling movement, but the market was not soiling in the following rumors of further unfavorable developments in retail trade.

Galveston—Steady; middling, 12 1/2; net receipts, 14,224; gross receipts, 14,244; sales, 2,002; stock, 260,232; continent, 8,238.

DECIDED ADVANCE IN GRAIN MARKET

Squeezing of Shorts Brought Results—Wheat Advanced Remarkably—Other Grains Also Advanced.

Chicago, December 31.—Squeezing of shorts brought about a decided advance today in the price of wheat and other grains. The market was led by wheat, which advanced several million bushels of corn that arrived too late to be unloaded at the elevator.

December that remarkable advance for corn contracts in the market. The advance amounted to nearly a round million bushels, and was not until the middle of the afternoon that the market had developed excitement among shorts.

LOEB-RICE WEDDING TOOK PLACE ON DAY FIXED MONTHS AGO

The Constitution wishes to correct an erroneous impression which has possibly been gathered from a story carried in the news columns on Wednesday in speaking of the wedding of Mr. Milton Rice and Miss Helen Loeb, which took place on Monday at 11 o'clock at first glance as if the couple had practically eloped. This was far from being the case, as the engagement was announced fully six months ago and the wedding notices sent out well in advance. The ceremony took place before the families and closest friends of both parties at the Standard club. The impression of secrecy grew out of the fact that they stayed at the Wincoor hotel until Tuesday morning, instead of leaving immediately for New York as they had announced. They left for New York Tuesday morning carrying with them the best wishes of hundreds of friends.

DR. PEARCE TO LECTURE. Addresses Society for Philosophy and Psychology.

Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau College-Conservatory at Gainesville, Ga. and one of the most prominent educators in the south, as well as president of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology will deliver an address Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock before the membership of that society on the subject "The Limitation of Knowledge." The address will be delivered in the lecture hall of the chemistry building of the Georgia School of Technology and will be attended not only by the members of the Southern society but also those of the American Association for the Advancement of Science now in session in Atlanta.

NO DECISION REACHED IN NASH-OBEAR SPLIT

Although Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash has announced that he will not recognize Quartermaster General William C. O'Beare as the legitimate governor of Georgia after today Governor Slaton has not yet taken action in the controversy. The governor is giving the matter careful attention but because of the tense situation in Louisville where three negroes who have been confined in the Tower here are to be tried for the murder of Mrs. Seth Fry, the governor has not been able to come to a decision in the Nash-O'Beare controversy. He stated Wednesday that he will probably not announce his decision before next week.

WARRANTS ARE SIGNED FOR TEMPORARY LOAN

Governor Slaton yesterday signed warrants to pay off the extraordinary loan of $140,000 which was borrowed some months ago from the state over a temporary deficiency. The money was furnished by the Atlanta national banks. This with the payment of $240,000 on the state bonded indebtedness principal and in interest will clear up all the necessary debts of the state that fall due at the first of the year.

Good Luck Marked 1913, Giving Knockout Blow to Prophets of Disaster

In the year of 1913 the Old Witch Superstition received a knockout blow from the little champion Good Luck.

One year ago today, when the thirtieth year of the century began, the cry of "Unlucky 13" went abroad in the land. Prophets and sons of prophets and those who were neither turned Cassandra and forecasted bad bad luck for a year with such a number call.

The year in review is a motion picture of good luck. There have been calamity howlers in 1913 as there always have been in years of national administrative changes but the country has gone through the year without calamity and at the dawn of 1914 according to the leading financial men America faces an era of unprecedented prosperity.

FIRE ALARM RAISED WITHIN THE HALL

So Finds Jury That Probed Calumet Horror—Charges by Labor Leaders Rejected by the Jury.

Calumet Mich. December 31—An open verdict including a finding that the Christmas eve panic which cost seventy-two lives in Italian hall was caused by an alarm of fire raised within the hall, was returned tonight by the coroner's jury which for three days has been hearing evidence.

Every allegation that enemies of the Western Federation of Miners were responsible for starting the panic was rejected by the jury.

"By the evidence of the witnesses we find that the cause of death was suffocation the same being caused by a jam on the stairway leading to the entrance of the Italian hall where a Christmas celebration was being held," said the verdict.

The stampede was caused by some person or persons unknown to the jury at this time raising an alarm of fire within the hall.

Only Union Men Admitted.

The jury decided the evidence showed that only those possessing union cards or vouchers for its some member of the union entered the place.

Rejection of charges that deputy sheriffs mine guards and company doctors had held back would-be rescuers was contained in a paragraph commending the work of the men who cleared the stairway of its mass of dead and injured.

Some sixty-five witnesses told their versions of the catastrophe. Of these half a dozen said they saw a button of some kind on a man who first raised the initial alarm but not all were willing to swear the button bore the insignia of the Citizens Alliance.

Witnesses also disagreed as to where the man stood and how he appeared at the time of the stampede.

The practical unanimity of testimony from those near the doorway that no lantern was seen and that the panic started was another of the unimpeachable causes of the jury's findings.

An intangible note of optimism developed in the strike situation today when John B. Dornore, one of the federal department of labor said he had been encouraged by W. J. McDonald who is pressing a resolution for a congressional inquiry, said there was a rift in the ranks of the miners.

Western Federation of Miners thought a way of settling the difficulty might be found soon in company circles also there were more cheerful countenances than in the past.

Seeking a Settlement.

READ THESE FIGURES AND CONSIDER WHAT THEY REPRESENT:

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Deposits, December 31st, 1913: $5,237,099.98. Deposits, December 31st, 1912: 4,622,695.71. Increase in One Year: $ 614,404.27.

By strictly adhering to our accustomed policy of conservative management, we have strengthened the confidence reposed in us by leading business men, firms and corporations. By improved and very exceptional facilities, we have enlarged the scope of our business and attracted many new depositors. By aiding and abetting the promotion and development of worthy enterprises we have gained hundreds of new progressive friends. These facts represent the sound reasons for our continued growth. We thank our friends for their confidence and support, and wish for them, one and all, a very happy and prosperous New Year.
