

CHARLES W. MORSE DEMANDS A PROBE OF HIS CONVICTION

POWERFUL SUPPORT ACCORDED TO MORSE

Former "Ice King" Alleges He Was "Railroaded" to Prison—Attacks Office of Comptroller of Currency.

Washington, January 7.—Charles W. Morse, the former "ice king," one of the most spectacular figures in modern American finance, and the principal actor in a drama that lasted for a half dozen years and carried him from the banking regions of New York to the Atlanta penitentiary, is about to write another chapter to his story.

After months of investigation and labor, Morse is trying to launch an investigation by a congressional committee of all the circumstances leading up to his conviction six years ago of violation of the national banking laws. Although his plans have not been announced, it became known today that he also contemplates suit for damages against prominent New York bankers and others connected with his trial and conviction.

To Force an Investigation. Morse had a talk with Senator Borah, of Idaho, here yesterday and suggested to him the need for an investigation of his case by a senate committee. Although the Idaho senator refused to press the matter, the ex-banker is understood to have left Washington still determined to force an investigation.

Morse was sent to the Atlanta penitentiary to serve a fifteen-year sentence. After a persistent fight led by Mrs. Morse and backed by many prominent persons, his sentence was commuted by former President Taft. Mr. Taft acted on the statements of army surgeons who declared that Morse could not live longer than six months. The prisoner was released from Atlanta within five days two years ago. Shortly afterwards he sailed for Europe, took a "cure" and then returned to the United States.

Some of Morse's Charges. Since his return from Europe Morse has been making preparations to reopen in the court of public opinion, at least, the case against him. He is said to hold that the principal charge on which he was convicted, the making of false entries in the books of the National Bank of North America, was a flimsy charge and that he did nothing more than was done by scores of bankers in New York. Testimony showed Morse made dummy loans and was a purchaser of the stock of the American Ice Securities company and of the stock of the bank of which he was vice president.

He now is understood to charge that the office of the comptroller of the currency here refused at his trial to allow the jury to see the report of the national bank set aside, the investigation of the Bank of North America, and indicates that this report clearly would have established the fact that he had done nothing unlawful. Testimony in content that the trial was based in part on the fact that other New York bankers were making the same sort of loans and that the production of the examiner's report in the prosecution resulted necessarily in the prosecution of many other persons.

Alleged Juries Were Drunk. Morse first was convicted in the federal courts in 1903 and subsequently charged that juries were under the influence of liquor and that the entire jury was in charge of improper guardians, six of whom were former naval service men from Washington. He was convicted on three counts and sentenced to five years' imprisonment on each; and although two of the three convictions later were set aside, the sentence of fifteen years was allowed to stand.

In his long fight to regain liberty Morse succeeded in getting the interest and friendship of prominent men here, and it was not until tonight that his effort to bring the matter into the limelight again would have powerful support.

RIGHT OF PREACHER TO BE LEGISLATOR UP IN MARYLAND

Annapolis, Md., January 7.—The right of a clergyman to hold a state senatorship was questioned in the upper branch of the general assembly today. Frank E. Williams was not allowed a quality sending the result of an inquiry into his right to the office because of the constitutional provision, "that no minister or preacher of the gospel shall be eligible as senator."

Mr. Williams said that he was no longer a minister, having resigned and his resignation having been accepted.

NO MARRYING DONE BY WISCONSIN FOLK UNDER EUGENIC LAW

Milwaukee, Wis., January 7.—Marriages almost have ceased under the first week of Wisconsin's new eugenic marriage law. In the seven days the law has been effective most county clerks have reported that no requests for licenses have been made.

Publicity given statements by attorneys that the Wisconsin supreme court has recognized as a legal marriage any agreement between the contracting parties, resulted in an announcement by Julius G. Kroken, registrar of deeds of Dane county, that he would record common law marriage contracts for 10 cents each.

Glass Diet Solves High Cost of Living For Negro in Jail

Emmett Dickson, of nocturnal hue and abnormal appetite, has solved the high-cost-of-living, but few people will profit by his discovery. Emmett is a negro prisoner in the Tower, held there on the charge of attempting to pick a pocket which wasn't as pickable as it looked. His particular method of combatting with the serial cost of existing is the eating of glass—plain, ordinary ground glass.

The reporter who interviewed him is, at present writing, a complete wreck. He has tried three different meals since viewing Emmett's glass-assimilating performance, and, with every bite the reporter has taken, he has entertained the fear that powdered whisky bottles and window panes might be mixed with his food.

Imagination's Breakfast. Every plateglass window he passes downtown appears as though it needs a big hunk bitten out of one corner and crumpled with the teeth into swallowable bits. Every piece of cut glass in the window panes is reminder of Emmett's appetizers. And, the reporter has been forced to partake of his meager libations from a leather canister, for fear of obesity, they refused to permit his unique diet any longer.

That's the fault of an imagination. Emmett is now 30 years old. At the age of 2 he bit off the back of a candy bottle and ate it. Since then powdered glass has been a luxury, broken bits a necessity, and his cell is filled with scribbled bottles of all sizes.

He says glass-eating allays hunger. If you are inclined to doubt it, try it yourself. He has been known to nibble on whisky and leather cans that crumbled bottles and glass panes. They tried him once in the jail, and he went seven days with nothing but glass. He grew fat, the jailers say, and, for fear of obesity, they refused to permit his unique diet any longer.

Wednesday afternoon a reporter watched him in the jail. Several cans of whisky and leather pop bottles were produced. Emmett sat upon the floor and ground four bottles in all into fine bits. Then he rolled a handful into a piece of paper and ate the pill in a leather glass of water, and presto! His appetite had vanished.

A sandwich, consisting of two slices of corn bread and a layer of beans were brought. Over the beans he spread a thick layer of the powdered glass—probably a half-inch in thickness—and ate the sandwich in less than four bits. After which he picked up a double handful from the pile on the floor and ate it avidly.

Then He Asked for More. He smacked his lips and asked for more. "Bring me some good glass this time, boss?" he asked. They brought him a window pane. He crumbled it and ate it by the handful. Finished, they asked if he wanted more.

"No, thanks," he answered. "And you needn't bring me any supper to-night. You have enough." When out of the cell Emmett has a choice menu. It is whisky bottles for breakfast, plate glass for dinner, and cut glass for supper—that is, whenever the cut and plate glass are available. Otherwise, it is whisky bottles for breakfast, supper and dinner.

At the trial of the state chemist department, who is associated with Dr. Roy Harris, is responsible for the author of the diet. He actually alleviated hunger with glass. It is the same principle of the shipwrecked man eating clothing and leather to stave off starvation. An object on the stomach excites the appetite, he says, and this accounts for the negro's strange diet. Emmett's constitution is another matter. How he does it and gets away with it without more abdominal perforations than a pious plaster, is something that even the state chemistry department can't be expected to explain.

For hours after he had collapsed in a street Mr. Hawtrey was 57 years old. He had been seen here in many roles since his debut in 1906. He was the son of Peter John Hawtrey, late master of Eton school, England.

MANLY GUES COME TO ATLANTA'S AID

Bankers Urge Regional Reserve Bank in Gate City. Financiers of State Gather Here January 19.

The great impetus that has been given to Atlanta's campaign for appointment as regional reserve banking center for the southeastern territory by the support of Macon and Columbus was further augmented Wednesday by the indorsement of the Griffin and Spalding County Chamber of Commerce. In a strong letter to the regional bank committee of Atlanta the Griffin organization placed itself in the fight to make Atlanta the central reserve point in this territory.

When Thursday's work as outlined at a committee meeting in the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce quarters Wednesday afternoon, has been completed, it is probable that the support of these three cities for Atlanta will be materially reinforced by the support of a number of other cities in the state.

Will Ask Financiers' Aid. At Wednesday's committee meeting each member of the regional reserve bank committee was given a list of prominent financiers and business men in practically every city in the state, with whom he is to communicate on Thursday. The members of the committee, according to this plan, will therefore, on Thursday, get in close touch with nearly every city in Georgia through their leading citizens, communicating with them either by telephone or telegraph.

That this will be productive of material results, the members of the committee are confident. In view of Wednesday's assurances of support and Thursday's program of activities, the movement to secure for Atlanta the appointment as the location for the regional reserve banking center of the southeastern territory takes a very gratifying turn.

On Wednesday the Clearing House association of Columbus, Ga., communicated with the temporary executive committee, now sitting under the provisions of the new currency law, asking that Atlanta be made the regional reserve banking center of the southeastern states. At the same time the Macon Chamber of Commerce and Clearing House association notified the Atlanta regional reserve bank committee that Atlanta had the unanimous support of those organizations in Macon.

This nucleus will be greatly enlarged at a meeting of the National Bank Association of Georgia which Colonel Robert J. Lowry, president, has called to meet in Atlanta at 11 o'clock Monday morning, January 19, in the rooms of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. In the association are twenty-six national banks, but all of the 115 national banks of Georgia will be invited to attend. All the banks which have the required 25 percent surplus capital will be invited to join the association.

Officers Will Be Named. Officers will be elected at this meeting, but the big work before the meeting will be to urge the appointment of Atlanta as the regional reserve center for the southeast, and to consider other features of the new currency bill and the amendments pending thereto.

Columbus Resolution. The resolution of the Columbus bankers, which was adopted at the meeting, is as follows: "We, the bankers of Columbus, Ga., are desirous of having Atlanta appointed as the reserve center for the southeastern territory in order that this territory may be properly, efficiently and quickly served.

It is our belief that the appointment of Atlanta as the regional reserve center for the southeast, and to consider other features of the new currency bill and the amendments pending thereto, will be to the benefit of the southeastern territory and to the advantage of the nation.

Woman in Business in Atlanta Proves Surprise To Englishman Who Sought to Buy Real Estate

Miss Miller's success in selling lots has been wonderful. In June she disposed of $46,000 worth of lots, and during December, which is generally a bad one in the realty field, she sold $25,000. She likes the game and intends to stick to it.

With his hat turned up in front, his cane in hand and trousers with exactly enough room for his rather extremities and a razor-edge crease, A. L. Hart, of Manchester, England, and dear old "Lennon-town," hove into Atlanta.

Far be it from us to speak with disparagement of Mr. Hart's apparel for he is a "regular fellow" and has in Atlanta a host of friends, and, in due course of time, will even overcome these minor details, just as recently he had had a number of his ideas readjusted.

"Exhausted Ideas" is the subject of our discourse. At the Piedmont hotel, Mr. Hart met Miss Eva Marie Miller, saleswoman of Edwin P. Ansley Real Estate agency, and there the readjustment began.

No Romance Here. (Take courage, gentle reader, no romance shall cloy your palate.) When he met Miss Miller, Mr. Hart heard for the first time of such a circumstance as "a woman in business."

"Oh, I say," said Mr. Hart, "I'm sure I should be glad to consider a good proposition, but you know, 'er—hadn't we better leave this matter of mere business to our attorneys?" Business of suppressing a smile on the part of Miss Miller. It was after much explanation that Miss Miller conveyed the intelligence to Mr. Hart that no attorneys, for the present, were necessary, and that she was a saleswoman with a license and could herself make the sale of the property. Whereupon, Mr. Hart: "That is a splendid idea! A fine idea! Have a license and talk business just like my attorney would. Duceyly clever, you know. But I dare say, Miss Miller, you'll tire of such a bore some day as business, you know, before we have closed the deal!"

Business of mopping the brow on the part of Mr. Hart. "You know, you Georgians are wonderful. I think Ty Cobb is the most wonderful man I have met in America. 'Come to think of it, I believe I'm connected in some way with the—aw—what do you call it?—The Manchester Guards—a newspaper, you know, in Manchester. I believe when I get back home I'll go in business myself. On my word, I do!"

Daughter Kidnaped On Her Wedding Eve Says Syrian Woman. A kidnaping in an attempt to thwart a proposed marriage was reported at police headquarters last night when Mrs. M. Peckoury, a Syrian woman, hysterically informed the police through an interpreter of the abduction of her 14-year-old daughter, Myneh, by a band of Syrian terrorists, members of which had stolen the mother years ago in her native country. Plain clothes policemen were put on the case with orders from Night Chief E. L. Jett to work upon it indefinitely until the missing girl had been recovered. She and her mother resided at 261 East Hunter street, a fancy grocery shop. Neither mother nor daughter can speak English to any extent. They have been in America only a short while. The cause of the kidnaping, as explained by the mother through a Syrian interpreter, was a betrothal effected in Syria, and which was to have culminated soon in marriage. A woman is also said to have figured in the abduction, according to the mother's story. It was she, the police

MANCILLA A PRISONER TO AMERICAN TROOPS

Deserting General Accompanied by His Son—Mancilla Known as Fighting General of Huerta's Army.

Wilson Answers Greetings of the Mexican Republic. Mexico City, January 7.—The president of the United States, through Charles O'Shaughnessy, today replied to New Year's greetings of the Mexican republic sent through President Huerta, but did so indirectly, not using Huerta's name. To Senor Mokeno, minister of foreign affairs, the American charge said: "I am instructed by my government to transmit the greetings of the president of the United States to the Mexican people, as well as his earnest good wishes for the prosperity of the Mexican republic."

Presidio, Texas, January 7.—General Jose Mancilla, one of the most prominent commanders of the Mexican federal army, today deserted, crossed over to the American side from Ojinaga, Mex., and was held by the United States border patrol.

Accompanied by his son, a captain, General Mancilla gave a fictitious name to the immigration officials, but later admitted his identity to Major McNamee, commanding United States troops, and asked for asylum in this country. He had discarded his sword on the Mexican side.

General Placed in Custody. Pending orders from Brigadier General Bliss, at San Antonio, the fugitive was placed in custody. Although General Mancilla is the first officer of rank of the Huerta troops to desert his post for foreign territory, three or four hundred of the regular troops previously had crossed the border line.

General Mancilla was known as a fighting general and a strong supporter of Huerta's military regime. He had been in many campaigns against the rebels, and his leaving the army was said by rebels to indicate a gradual crossing to this side of many more federal troops.

General Mancilla's crossing leaves nine generals in the Ojinaga garrison. General Marcellino Cavazos, who was wounded, was permitted to cross several days ago.

Skirmish Fighting Is Resumed. Skirmish fighting between outposts of the federal and the Huerta forces began near Ojinaga today. The fighting was looked on as the preliminary to a conflict to determine whether the rebels are to clear their northern territory of federal forces or whether the Huerta government is to retain a foothold. That the federal intend to resist the return of the rebel army to Ojinaga was indicated late today when General Salazar, commanding 1,000 volunteers, started out to meet the enemy in the direction of La Mala Pass, one of the approaches to Ojinaga.

Rifle shooting and cannonading was heard from the direction of the pass, but the action seemed only a skirmish.

O'SHAUGHNESSY CALLED BY SPECIAL ENVOY LIND. Mexico City, January 7.—The American Charge O'Shaughnessy left for Vera Cruz tonight in response to a request from John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, to call on him there. The charge was accompanied by Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, but their little son was left behind. This was cited by the charge as indicating his early departure.

The charge requested the publication of Mr. Lind's telegram, which merely said he desired Mr. O'Shaughnessy to come at his convenience, so that Wilson's personal representative could be the recipient of the president's compliments. It is reported here that two Mexicans accompanied Mr. Lind on his recent trip on the coast cruiser Chester to Pass Christian, Miss. These men are said to have been Sebastian Camacho, an old conservative of the Porfirio Diaz regime, and Antonio Sureda, attorney of the Catholic church in the capital. The ...presence of the latter has been taken to indicate the active part played by Archbishop Mora in the settlement of the Mexican difficulty. The archbishop and old church members have been pleading with the president to obtain from the cabinet whatever concession is necessary to bring about a settlement of these affairs. It is known that others, including high military officers, have attempted to persuade the president of the necessity of resigning. The report that Huerta is inclined to accept steps that will leave the present minister of justice, Senor Gorostieta, as successor, has gained impetus.

APER MONEY DECREE BY DICTATOR HUERTA

Mexico City, January 7.—Practically all the paper money existing in Mexico was forced into circulation today by a decree issued by Provisional President Huerta, making the bills of all state banks legal tender and specifying as obligatory their acceptance for all payments. The inability to float bills of state banks outside of the states of issue and the limited volume of bills of the national bank and of the Bank of London and Mexico had brought about a condition almost of financial crisis. The redemption of state bank notes is to be guaranteed by a fund subscribed by a commission. So scarce has silver currency become that commercial houses are transacting business in bills of exchange. Managers of many big concerns are considering closing their doors. A bill of exchange is being accepted at the face value. This is contrary to law, but such is the situation that no question as to legality has been raised. Notwithstanding the continued currency difficulties, the price of exchange decreased today.

FEDERALS ARE BEATEN IN TWO DAYS' BATTLE

El Paso, Texas, January 7.—One hundred and thirty soldiers, of whom eighty-seven were federals, were killed in a battle last Saturday and Sunday between federal and constitutional forces 8 miles northwest of Torreon, according to belated dispatches reaching General Escobedo at Juarez today. Two thousand federals who had sallied forth from the protection of the walls of Torreon to attempt a flank movement around the right wing of the rebels besieging the city were driven back after a struggle that lasted almost two days. Twenty-eight prisoners were reported captured by the federals. The fiercest fighting occurred Sunday afternoon in the open country between Ayles and Salanaca, suburbs of Torreon.

SHY OF FIELD GUNS AND AMMUNITION

Washington, January 7.—Explaining that his judgment was not influenced by the Mexican situation, Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, has advised committees of congress that they should appropriate $3,000,000 for field guns and ammunition for the regular army, and $3,000,000 for the militia. "If you sent our troops into war as they are now, without guns or ammunition, it would be absolute slaughter," the general told the house military committee. "I called into the field suddenly, and we should have to give a small allowance of ammunition, and we should have neither guns nor ammunition enough for our field artillery forces."

General Wood's Views.

General Wood, in a written statement, said: "We neither have guns nor ammunition sufficient to give any general commanding an army in the field any assurance of success if attacked by an equal size which is supplied with its proper quota of field artillery. It is my belief that no modern war between first-class powers will last for one year, and unless private manufacturing are encouraged to manufacture ammunition for our guns, after war is declared, they will not get the war is finished. The war department believes after extended study that in cases of war with a first-class power, an army of 500,000 men will be needed to give us a margin of safety. Success against invasion, and that this force will be needed at once. The general suggested that the United States regular mobile army should be organized into three infantry and two cavalry divisions with an aggregate war strength of about 75,000, requiring 54 batteries, or 215 guns. Organization of Militia. With the co-operation of the state governors, the militia, he said, now could be organized into twelve infantry and two cavalry divisions with an aggregate war strength of 292,000 men, needing 174 batteries, or 696 guns. The aggregate of the two forces thus would be 367,000 men, or approximately two field armies short of the force of 500,000. They will not be in a condition to do so until June 30, next. "Of this ammunition," he added, "we have at present in this country 186,508 rounds and for the 295 mountain gun, 15,108 rounds, or a total of 201,616 rounds. This is all we have at Mukden, in nine days, the 1,294 Russian guns expended 250,000 rounds. Small Output of Ammunition. The present daily output of the Ordnance factories, for three shifts, running night and day, is not above 1,600 rounds. The war department was obliged last year to equip part of the regular army with obsolete 7-inch bowlers because of lack of sufficient material and 5-inch siege gun batteries material because of lack of sufficient ammunition for the modern guns. He said he did not care so much whether congress gave the war department the money for a reserve of hats, clothes and shoes, as they could be gotten at any time, but, he continued, "you cannot make a large quantity of field guns and ammunition without taking months or years to do it. We

ATLANTA THE LOGICAL PLACE.
 Atlanta's strategic supremacy in the financial and business activities of the southeast has never been paid more significant nor more spontaneous tribute than that conveyed in the testimony of experts before the New York sittings of the federal reserve organization committee. Beginning with such financial authorities as J. P. Morgan, head of the great house of that name, and including bankers, business men, commercial organizations and students of economics, witness after witness declared of their own volition and without prompting that Atlanta should be comprehended in any list of American cities essential to the establishment of the regional reserve bank system. This means, if it means anything at all, and if the opinion of these specialists weighs with the commissioners that one of the regional reserve banks will be located in Atlanta.

The value of this evidence lies in its wholly voluntary and judicial character. None of these men or institutions were speaking for themselves or had anything to gain by singling out cities other than New York, whose place is already secure. They addressed themselves solely to the logic of the situation, and the logic pointed inevitably to Atlanta as the site for a regional reserve bank. Under the new currency law a regional reserve bank is valuable only as it affords quick touch with the entire territory it serves. Atlanta affords that access. From Raleigh to New Orleans and north to Louisville—in a word, with the Ohio river as one boundary and the gulf and the Atlantic for the other two—Atlanta can reach any point within that big territory in a night's run. That situation does not obtain even approximately with any other city in the southeast.

It is, therefore, natural and logical that unbiased experts should pick Atlanta as the winner for a regional reserve bank, and natural that the weight of professional opinion should confirm their choice. The strategic supremacy which influenced their opinions has been one of the strongest contributing factors to the phenomenal growth of this city, and will make its effect manifest even more substantially in the future.

JAMES R. WYLLIE, IDEAL CITIZEN.
 With the death of James R. Wyllie, at the age of 83 years, in his home in Atlanta, there passes a man who has been instrumental in most of the phases of the substantial growth of the city, and one whose life offers concrete illustration of the value to the community of a citizen with an ideal. For the past decade or more Mr. Wyllie figured in few public activities, by reason of his advanced years. But prior to that time, and for many years, his career vividly typified the "Atlanta spirit" in a degree that challenges comment.

He was prominently identified with practically all the expositions that have done so much to develop Atlanta. As general manager of the Cotton States and International Exposition, in 1895, his practical vision and his wonderful faculty for executive ability contributed largely to its success. His civic creed was that time spent in the advancement of the public interest was time spent in the advancement of the individual, and he lived up to it religiously. His personal business made large demands upon his time, but he was never too busy to put by private affairs and give time and thought to matters looking to the advancement of his city. At all meetings called to consider vital projects he was a conspicuous figure, prudent and far-seeing in counsel and quick to tender his services when plans had crystallized to action. He typified in this respect the "Atlanta spirit," always ready to sacrifice personal convenience for the general welfare and rich in the gift of communicating his enthusiasms to others.

 While the past few years of his life had been spent in a richly-earned rest and retirement, he wrought with sufficient notability for Atlanta to mark his passing as one who will go to history as one of the great builders of the city. His life embodied all those public spirited and aggressive traits which offer so fine an example to the upcoming generation.

LIBERAL SISTER CITIES.
 The bankers of Macon and Columbus have performed a generous and graceful action in concentrating their influence behind the movement to secure one of the federal reserve banks for Atlanta. It is obvious that the larger the number of cities applying in any given state or section for this honor the smaller the prospect of success for any one of them. Local bickerings and jealousies might easily divide strength and prevent the uniting of effort behind the one city making the strongest and most logical bid for the distinction.

The bankers of our sister cities have very promptly and with their characteristic acumen recognized the situation. Macon realizes that if a regional bank is to come to this section, and that seems fore-ordained, it is infinitely better for Macon that it be located at Atlanta, a scant three hours' ride, than in some other state. In the very nature of things a bank coming to Atlanta would afford Macon, from the point of view of practical usefulness, as much and as direct service as though it were located in Macon. The clearinghouse of Macon was quick to appreciate this situation. In a clear cut and well reasoned set of resolutions its members have gone on record as urging the claims of Atlanta.

And the same argument applies relatively to Columbus. It is such broad minded policy as this that bring cities together in a common bond and make them powerful factors in their mutual advancement, and in the advancement of the state of which they are a part. Both Macon and Columbus have acted in liberal conformity with this spirit, and Atlanta will not forget their action. It will be this city's privilege to evince a similarly wide interpretation of the obligations of mutual citizenship whenever the opportunity offers.

EUROPE PUTS IT UP TO US.
 Washington dispatches represent the European nations as enunciating a new but a perfectly natural policy toward the Mexican situation, as the latter touches European financial interests. As the result of quiet conferences between European ambassadors and ministers the semi-official announcement is made that while Europe will leave America a perfectly free political hand in Mexico, Europe will also expect America to protect the financial interests in Mexico of her citizens and subjects.

The action of the old world is a wholly legitimate and to be expected development. Europe has big investments in Mexico. The European dollar is as much entitled to protection as the American or the Mexican dollar. Yet in pursuance of the traditional policy of the United States we cannot permit Europe to go into Mexico and protect the property of its citizens. Monopolizing that function to ourselves, there is just one course left in honor and common sense—we must assume the obligation of protection for the return right of handling the situation in accordance with our own viewpoint.

The development opens up unpleasant avenues and possibilities freighted with considerable embarrassment. For instance, we know, as President Wilson has frankly stated, that much of the foreign debt saddled on Mexico, as well as on other Central and South American countries is usurious and the product of petty domestic looting rather than of national exigency and sanction. When pay day comes it is going to be a delicate matter to separate the sheep from the goats in the way of these international obligations. Yet Uncle Sam has had forced on him the role of umpire, and the job is one from which he cannot flinch. As a result of the situation in which America now finds herself it is needless to say that Washington will increasingly with the days put strong pressure on our southern neighbors to achieve stable government. If we are to stand between them and Europe upon it will surely devolve the right and duty of so supervising their conduct as to insure that we shall not ourselves have to pay the bill for their crude follies.

THE COUNTY'S GOOD REPORT.
 The annual report of the board of commissioners of Fulton county submitted by Chairman Shelby Smith, is a creditable record of the wealth and progress of Fulton county and of the able administration of the county's affairs.
 In one respect alone, the erection of the new courthouse, the report reflects an achievement that is rare enough in public construction in this country. It is estimated that the building when furnished and equipped will cost a total of $1,300,000. Of this amount $910,503.31 is already in hand from taxes and the sale of the old almshouse property. Contracts on the new building aggregating $1,179,143.18 have already been let. The building has been erected without debt, upon a cash basis, and with an increase of the tax levy so small as scarcely to be appreciable.
 The county of Fulton does not owe one dollar. On the other hand, it is in magnificent financial shape, with assets in the shape of real estate and improvement worth $1,830,477.29.
 The road and street building and resurfacing record of the past year is likewise notable, and the large amount done in the city is worthy of special note.
 The Constitution congratulates the commissioners upon their able administration of the county's affairs, and the county upon the evidences of progress and wealth their report discloses.

 Wind—'t whistled such a tune,

 Listening stars winked at the moon,
 And then they went to dancing!

 Even the old-time witches
 With mischief in their eyes
 Took broomsticks for their partners
 And whirled around the skies!

 Merry as the music,
 We'll dance our troubles down.
 We leave the vale of sighing
 Where ghostly shadows stay,
 The winds the finest fiddler
 And never asks for pay.

 A dancell bring the dimples
 And the roses to your face)

Sure It Was Cold!
 The old-time Georgia Colonel who said it was so cold that his whiskey was frozen, but was just as palatable in the form of cracked ice, couldn't match this tale of Uncle Oracle Oaken, who tells The Kansas City Star of a really cold winter.

I've seen a live coal freeze solid in five minutes. Worse than that, your conversation actually froze before it could be heard. I knew a stuttering man who talked chopped and a fellow who drawled so that his remarks from in his throat and had to be extracted with a corkscrew. You had to heat your watch every now and then or it would tick itself full of particles of ice and stop running.

She came in, but she said afterwards she wouldn't marry a man in a high collar, nohow.

KITCHEN KINKS.

Schools are as necessary in the kitchen as in the sewing room and recognizing this need, manufacturers have placed a variety on the market. These are heavier than the usual scissor and cut parsley shred lettuce and dice celery in a jiffy.
 With scissors at hand there is no longer any danger of cut fingers or scarred kitchen table tops. But besides the little vegetable scissors very practical carving shears are being shown. These have strong big handles so the man of the house can get a firm grasp and with a little muscular force cut through a tough tendon or a small joint.

If you have a pair of shears too old and heavy for use in sewing do not discard them but have the points rounded to make them shorter when the knife sharpener comes by again and send them to the kitchen. The amount of time they will save when removing the roots from spinach taking the white membrane from oranges and strapping fruit or cutting bunches of white grapes into individual portions is surprising.

The Care of Beesoms.
 Since we now pay from thirty five to seventy five cents for a good broom instead of twenty to thirty cents as we used to do we study to make the purchases as far apart as possible. One of the secrets that wetting a broom and shaking it almost dry before sweeping prevents the straws from breaking and makes it wear longer and more evenly. To this hint can add that moist brooms do not get so dirty from run and carpets nor raise a dust as dry stiff brooms do. It is good too to wash brooms occasionally, for the sake of cleanliness. Use a ball of warm water containing a little ammonia and dip the broom up and down in this. Rinse in clean water and hang handle up to dry.

Another contributor sends the following splendid suggestion of us have doubtless heard and forgotten it is. After cooking onions or fish or any highly flavored food in a frying pan or kettle remove the food with soda and water, rinse and dry the heat and rub with a little dry flour or oat meal.
 The same writer tells us that if when slicing bacon we place the rind side down on the meat board, the rind will be easier, the meat cannot then slip. Do not try to cut through the rind but when enough slices are cut slip the knife between them and the bacon and free them.

Ranches Succeed Open Ranges in Argentina.
 (From Reef from South America and Australia by Arthur Wallace Dunn in the American Review of Reviews for January 1914)
 The cattle farms of Argentina are a very large and important part of the country. Generally it is equipped with a ranch house the home of the owner or superintendent in the center of four large tracts of pasture. It is a windmill which pumps water that flows in different directions and supplies the herds in the four pastures. Comparatively little care is given the cattle except in the matter of breeding where particular attention is paid to securing the best stock. The Argentine was in Argentina he attended a fair where a Durham bull was sold for $35,000 gold. The beef raisers of that country have learned that it pays to produce the best. There is trouble with the cattle in Argentina because the country is just as in some parts of the United States but the pasture method affords a better opportunity to care for the stock than if the animals ran wild upon the range.

Although the industry of the Argentine is a very large the never exhaust the supply unless there is a drought. In summer the cattle seem to be standing knee deep in pasture of which they eat until they can eat no more. And they get very fat. The cattle owners say the breeding cows get too fat, and it is often desirable to keep them in less luxuriant pasturage.
 The change in the method of raising cattle in Argentina has been in progress fifteen or eighteen years. The cattle growers are to a large extent English, Scotch and Irish now in the second and third generations. But many natives of the country are cattle-raisers. The foreign element purchased lands from the government and private owners who desired to sell out at the advanced prices for farms. The natives in many cases are the heirs of those Spaniards who long ago obtained large grants from Spain and later from the Republic. For years these lands were the famed pampas level as the sea for miles and miles upon which grazed herds of wild cattle which produced stringy beef. The later generations have applied scientific methods to the raising of beef producing cattle turned the pampas into alfalfa pasturage and made fortunes out of their beef.
 These lands a few years ago sold for $10 per acre. They are now worth from $75 to $100 per acre according to their location. No attempt has been made towards improvements beyond building the necessary houses for the headquartiers which the foreigners call camps. The plains are treeless except where trees have been planted to shelter the sheep for the stock either from the winds of winter or the beating rays of the sun in summer. The pampas are covered with cattle as far as the eye can reach a level plain of moving herds and trailing grazing animals. Full of timber of timber to break the eternal monotony of the scene.

A Story of the Moment
 By WALT MASON
 The Famous Froese Post.
POST MORTEM MERIT.

My cow cashed in last night, announced the assessor in sepulchral tones. Friends and physicians could not save that lovely critter from the grave as she is now so you must be therefore prepared to follow her as the post says. She was the best cow in the town and I don't see how I'm going to keep house without her. She gave real milk and never attempted to palm off something just as good. She never kicked or put her foot in the pail and she had a hundred noble qualities of mind and heart.

All the seed animals are dead, observed the village parson. All the big fish got away and all the excellent people young. The other evening the horses could not move which cut faster than a house fire. When he got so hoarse that he couldn't brazen any more I began telling about a sorrel horse I used to own a century ago and I was talking about that sorrel horse who was so richly and so richly that I told how he could give anything on the road and how I was off red fabulous sums for him to give me. I was who wanted him for him to give me this.

Then I will tell you and as I was pulling off my shoes I prepared to go to bed. I began to wonder why I led so about that sorrel. The truth is that the critter couldn't be covered with leather and his moral character was not first class. I lay awake a long time after I went to bed trying to decide why I told those fairy tales and had to give it up. It was just plain human nature. I am sure.

If a man is a little bit educated and began talking about a talking horse minutes before he was in a coffin he was a matter of about a day, he used to own. He'd talk for an hour about some entirely mythical dog that could do anything from writing short-hand to playing the piano. He'd talk about a black and white dog that he would all know and a dead dog in their graves. Well, I suppose it's a good trait of character in us to be able to swap a story for a matter of minutes when we are sleeping their last sleep. I went to bed and I thought of the other day just to show there was no hard feeling. There was a big crowd in attendance and he said that the passing away of Ezekiel Spoon diff was a blow to this community from which it would not soon recover. He pictured the deceased as a sort of compendium of all the virtues and as he talked several of our kindred business men went into their hats and I felt rather moist around the eyes myself.

Let I know as everybody there knew that he was a big fish. One of the pallbearers was Grimshaw the grocer, and he was so affected that he couldn't see where he was going and fell over his feet several times. You could hear his feet several times as he went. Yet Grimshaw used to be always using I zekiel trying to collect a bill a years old and never got a cent of it. He used to stand out in front of his store counting up his losses and crying for a long time. I expect Ezekiel owed money to every man in that graveyard and nobody mentioned the matter during the last sad rites and it seemed to be the general opinion that the dead man had taken all the sunshine out of the world with him.

Everybody in this town knows that the late cow of our friend the assessor was a cow of our friend the assessor. She hadn't been so affected that he couldn't see where he was going and fell over his feet several times. You could hear his feet several times as he went. Yet Grimshaw used to be always using I zekiel trying to collect a bill a years old and never got a cent of it. He used to stand out in front of his store counting up his losses and crying for a long time. I expect Ezekiel owed money to every man in that graveyard and nobody mentioned the matter during the last sad rites and it seemed to be the general opinion that the dead man had taken all the sunshine out of the world with him.

On the second of August 1793 the widow of Louis XVI was torn from her children and was taken to a common felon's cell. She was removed from the prison of the temple to that of the Conciergerie there to linger until her release from human barbarity on the sixteenth of October. Her cell in the prison was in the worst quarter where the lowest sort of the political prisoners were kept. She was not ever allowed the dignity of solitude but was obliged to be within earshot of the profanities and obscenities of the lowest rabble in the world. The accusations launched against the unhappy queen on her trial were merely advanced because her enemies had still respect enough for justice to mimic its forms in their guilty court. In the indictment she was charged with having squandered the public money and with leaguings in secret with the foreign enemies of France. The clearness of her innocence and the eloquence of her defenders, were of no avail.

On the eleventh of September Marie Antoinette was transferred from the prison room she had occupied since the second of August into the dark and narrow cell of the Conciergerie. The witnesses, over forty in number consisted of all classes. They appear to have been selected as such as possible from among those who were known or thought to be the enemies of the queen.
 The first days trial seems to have been unimportant. On her second examination she was allowed a 3 1/2 hour. The hall was dark and narrow and the poor woman once then queen being for hours brow beaten by four-quarter Invillie.
 Throughout the trial there does not seem to have been any expression of feeling or sympathy for the queen but she frequently called on her to rise so that she should be better seen than when seated and at this demand she rose and the people were tired of my sufferings. At ten minutes past four o'clock on the morning of October 16 when the queen had been in the court room for two hours she was taken to the guillotine and a little after noon of the same day she was executed.

Australia as a Source of Meat Supply.
 (From Reef from South America and Australia by Arthur Wallace Dunn in the American Review of Reviews for January 1914)
 For many years Australia has supplied the United States government with meat and has been a source of supply for the world. That a market in the United States now that the duty has been removed. This of course will reduce the supply for England which must be made up from other sections probably from Canada, Argentina and the United States.
 Different sections of Australia are cattle producing regions while in others sheep predominate. New Zealand is one of the largest sheep countries in the world. The number of sheep is given at 27,700,000. New Zealand sends 2,000,000 sheep and 3,400,000 lambs to Great Britain every year. There are twenty-two freezing plants in the country with a capacity of 83,000 sheep and plants now going to England are diverted to the United States a reduction in prices for a time should follow.
 Australia is as well situated in regard to transportation as Argentina. Not only is the distance to foreign markets greater, but the stock growing districts are much farther from the water. Complaints have been made about the methods of shipping stock by rail and it is feared that the cattle and sheep will differ in the quality of the beef.

AS THE BOSS SEES HIM.
 By GEORGE FITZEL
 Author of "At Good Old Swank"

An employee is a man who comes to work in the morning and leaves his troubles in his desk when he goes home in the evening.
 He is paid to work and he does it. If he is not thinking also it would be harder for us bosses to hold our jobs.
 The employee is the luckiest man on earth. All he has to do is to get up in the morning and go to work. He doesn't have to wonder what the rival boss is going to put out next year in new devices or how to keep the cost of production down while wages are going up or how to get the most out of his men. He just goes to work and does his job. He doesn't have to advertise two pints of chicken feed a week or how to explain to the board of directors why it is that the surplus will have to be topped this year to pay dividends.
 The employee takes his hat home with him at night but he doesn't have to stuff the whole business into it. He can spend the evening at the moving picture show leaving his mind at home in his business at home to remain in that state as such a thing as business. When seven short time notes are due and there is a strike in the office the employee can get sick at 2 p. m. and go to the hospital. He can get sick when he is at home. He doesn't have to fire himself. The boss has to do it for him. When a boss has the welfare of a big business grinding him on one side and the family of a punk on the other he is a man who is a little bit like a fly between two millstones.
 The employee leads a happy life saving $16 to a year and raising a family unless he gets ambitious. Then he works over time and gets about the other side of the millstone sneaks under more work, spends his Sundays at the office and his nights over books, until at last he has acquired indignation and jumps out after that he becomes a boss and it serves him right.
 Many a boss would pay an employee a bonus to trade places with him but for one thing. You can't forget everything in the world except how to live on a large salary.

The Great Trials of History
THE TRIAL OF MARIE ANTOINETTE.

The trial and execution of the accursed, plumed and unfortunate Queen Marie Antoinette is one of the most pathic pages of French history. She had married Louis XVI of France when he was Du Pin and her uncommon loveliness fitted her well for the queen of a gallant nation and as such she would have been honored. France had she lived before oppression had roused the people to madness.

Antoinette had married Louis at Versailles on May 16 1770. She devoted herself to the interests of her people with an industry unparalleled in a sovereign of her age yet becoming obnoxious to the court party her character was assailed in every shape and quarter. She was accused of setting on foot conspiracies which never existed and of entertaining views which never entered her mind.

The queen was termed "the Austrian" and it was openly asserted as well as privately insinuated that her heart was estranged from the people and that she had been her mind solely occupied with the interests of her native land. The affair of the diamond necklace created a great sensation in France and militated against Antoinette although she was wholly innocent of the crime. But the long gathering clouds broke in storm in 1793. On the sixth of October the mob broke into the palace, murdered some of the body guards and the political enemies in the most frightful manner.

Marie Antoinette received a letter from a friendly clergyman imploring her to fly as her life would be sacrificed. She resolved to remain and destroyed the warning letter. She was unable however to attract the sympathy of opposition to her and she finally fled with the king to Varennes. They were arrested and brought back to Paris. Marie's courage did not fail in the scene of the legislative assembly where she stood before the tribunal with her husband heard his deposit pronounced and then went into the temple where he was imprisoned.

On the second of August 1793 the widow of Louis XVI was torn from her children and was taken to a common felon's cell. She was removed from the prison of the temple to that of the Conciergerie there to linger until her release from human barbarity on the sixteenth of October. Sound Sense on Corporation Advertising.

The Massachusetts Public Service Commission, in an effort to find out where several hundred thousand dollars of New Haven railroad money went, called C. W. Barron as a witness.

Every experienced dealer in publicity knows that Mr. Barron's policy was sound, for it is only publications with no circulation that can be bought with advertising.

For example, his advertisement printed throughout the country urging those who intended to go to Europe to sail from Boston after having visited the historic spots around that city—Lexington and Concord, Bunker Hill monument, the birthplace and home of the two Adamses, and the like—this advertisement was so effective that it induced the manager of a leading western newspaper to sail from Boston, and it was so persuasive that it made the members of Mr. Barron's own family so enthusiastic about Boston's attractions that he was compelled to take his own advice and sail from his home city when he had intended and preferred to take a steamship from New York.

As part of the policy of aggression he advised Mr. Melien, the president of the New Haven system, to take the public into his confidence and let the people know what its plans were and how they were intended to increase the prosperity of the states served by the railroad. He was convinced that if this policy had been adopted before the concerted attack of "reformers" and politicians was begun, the company would not now be in such uncomfortable financial straits.

The importance of this testimony lies in its acceptance of the theory that it is the duty of big corporations to take the public into their confidence, on the ground that the public is a direct party in interest. It is significant, too, because it shows that an experienced publicity promoter believes that it is much better to set forth the attractions of the wares offered for sale than to abuse the people who are seeking to drive you out of business.

PRESIDENT TENER DEPENDS LEAGUE BELIEVES ORGANIZED BASEBALL WILL HAVE PUBLIC OPINION WITH IT IN FIGHT WITH FEDERALS.

Cincinnati, January 7.—President John K. Tener, of the National league, at a meeting of the directors of his organization here today issued a statement in which he expressed the public opinion would be on the side of organized baseball in case a war were waged by the Federal league. He stated that the Federal league attacks upon organized baseball have been confined to two points, namely, that the league is an illegal and the other that the parties to the national agreement are not interested in the game. He expressed his opinion that neither charge could be considered seriously. He stated that the league today owes its popularity and very existence to organized baseball. He stated that the league is a game to be played by the American people. He stated that the league is a game to be played by the American people. Four More Crackers Sign; Nineteen Still Unsigned

The signed contracts of four more Crackers were received at local baseball headquarters Wednesday, bringing total signed up to eleven, and leaving nineteen documents yet to be received. To have nearly half of the men signed up a week after contracts were mailed out is indeed a record and shows that the Federal league is in a hurry to get the men signed up. The men who have signed are: First Baseman Harry Eble, Catcher Julius Murch, Catcher J. Hammon, Second Baseman Ed. Walsh, and Catcher Harry Welch. The men who have not signed are: First Baseman Harry Eble, Catcher Julius Murch, Catcher J. Hammon, Second Baseman Ed. Walsh, and Catcher Harry Welch.

Thoroughly Organized

Today, however, finds baseball more completely and thoroughly organized than ever and, therefore, better able to stand on its own feet. The Federal league does not base its attacks upon an alleged lack of organization, but upon a lack of good, clean, high-class baseball, or that the players have not been fairly treated. It is endeavoring to induce players to break their contracts and sign with the Federal league. The league is endeavoring to induce players to break their contracts and sign with the Federal league. Lafayette Case a Test

In point of fact, it is well known that the legality of the present form of contract in baseball has been attacked, but its validity in law and equity was sustained by the Supreme court in the Lafayette case. With respect to the alleged agreement existing between, and satisfactory to all leagues, has done more to place our national sports in the world over than any other influence. QUERIES ANSWERED

Under this head, the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports. Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: Why do you always refer to the Columbus basketball team as the Columbus of the Columbus? Because they are and have proven themselves to be by losing only one game in two years. The Columbus are willing at any time to meet any and all teams in the south at any place and on any date and because they are willing to wager a little that they can defeat any team in the south and score about 20 points to start with to boot.

No Work for Mayor Pro Tem. Says "Uncle Jim" Woodward

From times when Atlanta was a speck on such railroad maps as there were, it has been held that the alderman who was selected as mayor pro tem, was highly honored by his colleagues. From time to time the substitute mayor held down the big chair and ruled the city. Then one James G. Woodward was elected mayor, and with his coming much of the glory attached to the job was lost. "Uncle Jim" just stayed on the job so consistently and regularly that the pro tem was a decoration, merely.

Appreciative Audience Hears Papot's Lecture on Donnay

"Maurice Donnay" was the theme of M. Benedic Papot's lecture yesterday, the third in his course on the French drama of today. Donnay was the theme, but also the means to make plain the French viewpoint of his period. And in relating Donnay to the other dramatists in the history of French drama, or in differentiating him from them he provided a broad insight, not merely into the work of the individual playwright, but into his general theme, that of modern French drama as a whole.

ANTI-TRUST MESSAGE PREPARED BY WILSON

It Will Soon Be Read to Congress—President in Role of Santa Claus. President Christian, Miss. January 7.—President Wilson began work today on the message dealing with anti-trust legislation which he will read to congress shortly after his return to Washington. Like his inaugural address and previous messages to congress, the document was first sketched in shorthand by the president, and then given to a stenographer to transcribe. While the president considers what he is working on now as only a rough draft, if previous experience is repeated, the message that he finally delivers will not be materially changed from this first composition.

Old Negro Shakes With Wilson

While today was a day of work for the president, there were likewise incidents of diverging interest in it. When the chief executive finished his golf game an elderly negro approached the presidential group. He had difficulty in determining which of the men who stood before him was the president, so he called out to the man who he thought was the president. "I'm Ben Williams, Jeff Davis' old body servant," he said, "and I wanted to meet Mr. Wilson."

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR PRAISES METHODISTS

"One of Greatest Bodies on Earth," Says Dr. Robyns Revival Draws Crowd.

In the course of a sermon last night at the North Avenue Presbyterian church on "What It Means to be a Christian," Dr. W. R. Robyns referred to the Methodist church as "one of the greatest bodies on earth, and one which is doing a marvelous world-wide work of Christian service." Dr. Robyns, who is a leading Presbyterian minister, being pastor of a church in Joseph, Mo., is conducting a series of revival services at the North Avenue Presbyterian on Peachtree street and he was greeted by a large audience at the second evening sermon of his series.

Dr. Robyns' warm praise of the Methodists came in connection with his defense of the word "Christian," which he declared had been wrongly reported as having first been used as a term of opprobrium. "The people who carry the name 'Christian' are proud of it now, and were proud of it then, in spite of the insults at times heaped upon the name. It is the same patriots which makes every member of the Methodist church proud of their name and faith. There is one of the greatest bodies on earth and one which is doing a marvelous world-wide work of Christian service." Dr. R. O. Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue church, in commenting on Dr. Robyns' remarks, declared that such breadth of view and un denominational feeling is a rare thing. Dr. Robyns would be an interesting feature of the sermons which will follow in the series. The revival of the next ten days, conducted at the church, will be entirely un denominational in its character. Thursday Dr. Robyns will conduct a 45-minute service, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The revival of the next ten days, conducted at the church, will be entirely un denominational in its character.

An Annual Report of Chairman to Fulton County Commissioners

IMPROVEMENTS DURING THE YEAR WERE $766,340.77

Fulton County Facts From Chairman's Report

Fulton county doesn't owe a dollar outside of current monthly bills. More public improvements were made in 1913 than in any other year of the county's history.

Road paving and grading, sewer and sidewalk work done in 1913 at actual cost prices, aggregates $766,340.77.

Of these improvements $289,963.19 were done inside the city limits of Atlanta; $385,377.58 were done in the county outside the city.

Fulton county's total taxable property for 1913 was $144,293,019, an increase of $13,420,061 over 1912.

Fulton county owns lands and improvements thereon and other property conservatively estimated to be worth $1,830,477.29.

The total disbursements for the county for 1913 were $1,595,438.94. The total estimated cost of the new courthouse completely furnished and equipped is $1,300,000; the amount expended upon it during 1913 was $509,041.19.

The county health department was inaugurated at the beginning of 1913, and has looked after matters of sanitation, co-operating with the city health department.

The creation of the office of purchasing agent, it is conservatively estimated, saved the county last year alone $15,000.

All the county departments and institutions, including the changing under the public works department, the almshouse, the industrial farm and the county police force, are in good condition and have done splendid work during the year.

Chairman Smith recommends the purchase of a second steam shovel, two to four more motor trucks and a fleet of eight or ten automatic dump wheel scrapers. The work done by similar machinery, which the county now has, has been invaluable.

Other recommendations of the chairman include: Employment of an asphalt expert. Installation of a county police telephone system. Keeping detailed record of all punishments administered to convicts. Early completion of shower baths at county barracks.

INDUSTRIAL FARM.

During the year there have been admitted to the industrial farm 47 boys. There have been paroled 50 boys. The number of boys who were captured and there were discharged 7 boys. The average number of boys confined at the industrial farm during the year 1913 was 103.

The buildings at the industrial farm are well maintained and adapted for the purpose for which they were built, and the farm consists of 128 acres of land, which under the able management of the superintendent, has become a model of its kind. The produce from this farm contributes largely to the maintenance of the institution.

The committee on aims and juvenile delinquency, created by the board of trustees, has recently established a women's division of the industrial farm, which has been located on the land purchased by the county upon which it was proposed to establish an industrial farm for negro boys. This division consists of one building ex-

PROPERTY OWNED BY THE COUNTY.

The following is an inventory of the lands and other property owned by the county. The value of the lands is based upon appraisement made about two years ago and shown in report made by predecessor in year ago. I think, however, it would be safe to add an average of twenty-five (25) per cent to the value shown herein, which is in line with the enhanced value of other property in this county. It is estimated that the total value of the land owned by the county is $125,000 to the value of the land owned by the county.

Annual Report of Chairman to Fulton County Commissioners

Temporary quarters have been secured for this court in the Temple Court building, at the corner of Alabama and Pryor streets, and this building has been designated by the board as an annex to the courthouse. Upon the completion of the new courthouse this court will occupy quarters in that building. All the fees accruing in this court will be turned over to the county treasury, and all the expenses of the court will be paid from the county treasury.

COUNTY POLICE.

This department has undergone no change during the year 1911, with the exception that Mr. E. Rowan, former chief of police, has resigned. He has been elected a lieutenant and granted a leave of absence at the pleasure of the board. Mr. George Matheson has been elected chief in his stead. This department has continued to increase in efficiency and it is today possibly the best organized force of the kind in the South. The department has been of vast benefit to the county in the prevention and prosecution of crime. I give you below a complete statement of the work done by this department during the year 1911.

Number of arrests in felony cases, 96
Number of arrests in misdemeanor cases, 831
Number of arrests for other counties, 10
Total number of arrests, 944
Number of cases disposed of, 639
Amount of fines assessed in said cases, $19,500
Number of years sentenced to penitentiary, 146
Number of months sentenced to county, 2,835
Number of cases now pending, 395

SALARY LAW.

Upon the 1st of January, 1912, the act of the legislature placing all the public officers in the county on salary and turning the fees from those officers over to the county, took effect and in accordance with the provisions of that act the county board called upon the county officers affected by said act to furnish the information required by the act. This information was furnished by the sheriff and the clerk of the courts, the solicitor of the criminal court of Atlanta and the solicitor general and the board, under the provisions of that act fixed the amount of money to be expended by the county during the year 1912 for their clerks and assistants. The tax collector, the sheriff and the sheriff's deputies were also called upon to furnish the information required by the act upon the ground that the act was unconstitutional and should not be enforced against them, and further action of the board with reference to these officers was suspended pending action of mandamus which under directions from the board were commenced against these officers by the county attorney to compel them to comply with the provisions of the act. The mandamus was before the trial court, which resulted in a judgment in favor of the county, which upon appeal to the supreme court was affirmed. The supreme court ruled that said act was unconstitutional and that the county was not bound to pay the salaries of the officers appointed by the sheriff for feeding the prisoners at the jail was terminated, and the sheriff's deputies were to be paid by their own appointees. The supreme court ruled that said act was unconstitutional and that the county was not bound to pay the salaries of the officers appointed by the sheriff for feeding the prisoners at the jail was terminated, and the sheriff's deputies were to be paid by their own appointees. The supreme court ruled that said act was unconstitutional and that the county was not bound to pay the salaries of the officers appointed by the sheriff for feeding the prisoners at the jail was terminated, and the sheriff's deputies were to be paid by their own appointees.

Holland was elected to fill the position. The heads of departments make requisition upon their respective chairmen for all supplies, as heretofore, but the purchasing of the same is done by the purchasing agent upon competitive bids, and while I have no detailed report of the exact amount saved by the county under this method, the clerk of our board has made up a partial statement, which shows that the savings in price upon competitive bids for books, stationery and supplies for the officers in the courthouse alone has been $15,000. It is reasonable to assume that this department has saved Fulton county this year not less than $15,000.

PUBLIC WORKS.

There has been an average of 650 male convicts under control of the county during the year 1911, and they have been engaged upon the public works of the county and the city of Atlanta under direction of the committee on public works. In addition to the above number of convicts there has been employed by the county an average number of 246 employees consisting of teamsters, guards, overseers, blacksmiths, engineers, superintendent and assistant superintendents making a total of employees and convicts in the public works department of 896.

This department has done a larger amount of work this year, both in the city and in the county, than in any previous year in the history of this board. The public works department has put into use four motor trucks for hauling purposes, and this has proven to be a great benefit to the county, as each truck does the work of eight teams and drivers. A steam shovel has also been used in the work done by the department, and this has enabled the department to largely increase the amount of work done in the year. The work done by the department is tabulated in the report of the committee on public works of the county, both within the city limits of Atlanta and in the county outside of the city limits. The total estimate of the work done by this department amounts to $765,477, and the work done by the department is tabulated in the report of the committee on public works of the county, both within the city limits of Atlanta and in the county outside of the city limits. The total estimate of the work done by this department amounts to $765,477, and the work done by the department is tabulated in the report of the committee on public works of the county, both within the city limits of Atlanta and in the county outside of the city limits.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

In view of the splendid work obtained this year by reason of the steam shovel and the motor trucks I wish to recommend that the board for 1912 purchase one additional steam shovel and one motor truck, and also an automatic dump wheel scrapers and two to four additional motor trucks. I believe that this additional equipment will be worth far more to the county in extra work done than any other investment that could be made. I also wish to recommend that the county either buy a new traction engine or authorize the superintendent of public works to hire one on a lease owned by the county put in first-class order as this outfit is a means of transporting stone in large quantities, a indispensable, the tractor and the eight cars being equivalent to no less than thirty mule double teams.

I believe the board will be willing to admit that the services during this year of the asphalt expert, E. E. Christliff proved very beneficial and while his service with us only covered the month of the three months, I believe that it justified the action in employing such a man. Therefore in the report of the services of the expert, both in purchasing and in the construction department, I recommend that the public works committee of 1912 employ another man to fill this place.

I wish to further recommend that the board authorize the police committee of 1912 to install a telephone call system in the police department to be used by the patrolmen as well as the public. Such a system has been used in other cities and it would increase the efficiency of the department at least 20 per cent, as well as render to the patrolmen facilities for calling the police office in case of trouble of any kind.

BOY STRUCK BY AUTO AND BADLY INJURED

Run down by an auto at the corner of Kelley and Hunter streets, Addie Yerlow, a boy of 7 years, son of Mrs. William Yerlow, of 93 Martin street, was carried to Grady hospital last night probably mortally injured.

His skull was badly crushed and it is feared he is internally injured. Several bones are also believed to have been broken. The driver of the car, Will Eason, a negro, aged 23 years, who lives at 341 Peters street, was arrested by police Sergeant George A. Maddox, but was released on a copy of charges.

Eye witnesses say the accident was unavoidable. The injured child, the mother told, had dashed into Hunter street from Kelley and, running from behind a passing trolley car, was struck by the auto, which was bound toward uptown.

The machine was a light Ford four-seater car, and according to witnesses, was not being driven at a rapid rate. Eason's trial will pend the condition of his young passenger for several days in a uptown drug store.

MRS. KENDALL TO TOUR GEORGIA FOR HOSPITAL

At the meeting Wednesday afternoon of the Woman's Auxiliary of Wesley Memorial hospital, Mrs. T. R. Kendall of Gainesville, was selected as field secretary for the present tour, and will tour Georgia in the interest of the fund which the Methodist women hope to raise for the hospital.

The meetings are held every afternoon in the private office of Asa G. Candler and Mr. Candler has promised to give $3 for every $1 that the woman's auxiliary raises. The ways and means committee of the auxiliary which has in charge the securing of the fund, hopes to raise $50,000 and is determined to get at least $25,000.

An enthusiastic meeting was held Wednesday and announcement was made that several hundred dollars had been added to the fund. As well as women are being asked to contribute.

Mrs. Kendall's itinerary has not yet been made out. She will start her work on Sunday and according to the present plan, will open on that day in Athens.

ASA G. CANDLER WILL GIVE $3 FOR EACH $1 WESLEY MEMORIAL AUXILIARY RAISES.

E. A. STEPHENS ILL FROM BLOOD POISON

Assistant to Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey is in serious condition.

Late Tuesday Attorney Stephens opened a small boil on the inside of his nose with a small needle. On Wednesday morning he appeared at his office with a swollen lip. The lip began to pain him intensely during the forenoon and at lunch time he consulted a physician.

Dr. S. L. Hardin examined the needle prick in Mr. Stephens' nose and declared the attorney to be suffering from an abscess of blood poisoning. You had better go home and stay in bed until we drive this poison away, said Dr. Hardin, or I wouldn't give ten cents for your life.

Attorney Stephens heeding the doctor's advice went to his bed. It was stated last night that he was seriously but not necessarily fatally ill.

TWO FRIENDS COST FARMER $500 EACH

Indifferently into his inside overcoat pocket.

Then they ate. It was a good meal and afterward they saw the moving picture show in waiting for time for the big theaters to throw open their matinee doors. On Edgewood avenue near Pryor street—right in the heart of the downtown district—they stepped into a door which was open.

It is noted the fact that they crowded against him a bit more than usual, but they were such jolly good fellows and were such good companions in a strange city, that he made no comment.

Presently the younger of the two announced that he wanted a cigar. The other felt that he also needed a smoke. Mr. Morgan suggested that they all three go get smokes—he would buy two, they told him he must buy three. They would stop across the street, get three good cigars and return. They stepped across the street. Maybe, they got the cigars. But, they haven't returned, as yet.

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER PREDICTED FOR TODAY

There will be a repetition today of Wednesday's beautiful weather and by nightfall all of the chill in the air will probably have drifted away into the ether.

The weather bureau announces a fair and warm day for Thursday. Atlanta people will rejoice in the prediction— even if some of the weather bureau's predictions here of late have been a trifle deranged over night.

So, with a warm sun and scarcely no breeze, Thursday, January 8, should be a delightful twenty-four hours full of bustle and business.

Market Was Easier Most of Session—Late in Day Covering Made the Market Steady—Spot Quiet.

New York, January 7.—The cotton market was less active and rather easier today, with the close steady at 12 1/2 cents, a decline of 1/8 to 1/4 points. Yesterday's buying movement was renewed at the opening, but the demand was less active, and it was an assumption that the scattering short interest had already been well covered.

A number of pages of the "reply brief" taken up with the contention that the jury was biased and with the effort to show that the jurors were intimidated by the display of feeling on the part of the public and the "cut" of the courtroom.
