

BONDS NECESSARY FOR CITY RELIEF, SAY COUNCILMEN

Members of Finance Committee Agree With Stand Taken by Chairman W. G. Humphrey as to Improvements.

INCOME NOT SUFFICIENT TO KEEP UP WITH NEEDS

City Cannot Hope to Cope With Present Situation on the Meager Revenue, Says Candler—Position of the Mayor.

Solution of Atlanta's present financial problem lies in the issuance of not less than $5,000,000 in bonds.

Members of the finance committee for 1914 are unanimous in the opinion that the city has reached a point in its natural development where it is obliged to either increase the tax rate or issue bonds.

Demands for new schools and school improvements amounting to $1,622,288.62 gave impetus to the bond issue agitation Wednesday, and after a discussion with Finance Chairman W. G. Humphrey and ex-Chief Clerk John S. Candler, Mayor Woodward said he would consider urging the people to float a bond issue.

Woodward's Position. Mayor Woodward opposes a bond issue solely because he does not believe the last issue of $3,000,000 was judiciously spent. He takes the position that the people share with him that opinion, and he stands reluctant to approve an issue until the general council takes some action which will assure the people that the money will be wisely spent in the event it is voted.

Something has got to be done to restore the confidence of the voters, Mayor Woodward said. "I made the city a proposition in my annual message when I urged the appointment of a commission of business men to make an inquiry into the needs of the city as regards school improvements. I believe that if such a move is made it will help restore the confidence of the people, but doubt whether they will vote for bonds regardless of whether I support an issue or not."

Mayor Woodward is also opposed to bond issues that do not believe it to be good business. But he takes the position, or rather his attitude indicates, that he would rather float bonds than to have the tax rate increased.

Finance Chairman Humphrey says Atlanta must issue at least $6,000,000 in bonds or stand still. He stated Wednesday that the city's current revenue never will be sufficient to provide the new improvements for which there is a need and a demand.

Only Solution of Problem. "The city can do business no longer on its current income," Chairman Humphrey says. "Consequently, Atlanta's city government is confronted with the question of how and how to make the needed improvements that are obliged to be made. The only solution lies in the issuance of bonds or burdening the taxpayers with an increase in the tax rate."

Members of the finance committee are rather inclined to accept Mayor Woodward's suggestion of a committee of business men to investigate the needs of the schools.

Chairman Humphrey is frankly of the opinion that Mayor Woodward should be chairman of the committee. It is understood that Councilman Jesse Wood, of the sixth ward, will offer a resolution in council on Monday that steps be taken looking to that end.

Councilman Wood is a member of the finance committee. He knows just as every other member of the committee that the city cannot hope to make the needed improvements on its meager income of $4,900,000. The finance committee, being the body called upon to provide the funds for making the city improvements, find it necessary for the city to use its full bonding capacity of $5,000,000 or more. It is estimated that the above amount will enable the city to catch up for past neglect, and place Atlanta's facilities on a just and business like basis.

Candler Favors Issue. Alderman John S. Candler, ex-chairman of the finance committee, says that Atlanta needs an issue of not less than $5,000,000. "The city needs $1,250,000 for buildings," Alderman Candler told the finance committee on Wednesday. "The city cannot hope to cope with the situation which confronts it on the meager income."

Columbia, S. C., January 14.—The state senate today killed the so-called "eugenics bill," which was introduced by the South Carolina Medical Association, by a vote of 23 to 17. J. K. ORR ATTENDS NEW BANK HEARING

"All Big Bankers Take It for Granted Atlanta Will Win," He Says After the Washington Meeting.

WANT LIMITS DEFINED.

Columbia, S. C., January 14.—Following a conference here today of bankers from Richmond, Va., Savannah, Ga., Greenville, Spartanburg and Columbia, committees of bankers from Richmond and Columbia left tonight for Washington to ask Secretary Houston and McAdoo, the national organization committee, to define the limits of the proposed southern region. Bankers from both cities agreed to seek information as to the limits of the southern region.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, January 14.—(Special.) "All the big bankers in this section of the country take it for granted that Atlanta will be made headquarters for the federal reserve bank established in the southeast," said J. K. Orr, of Atlanta, after a hearing before the federal reserve board this morning.

Just as J. P. Morgan and other New York bankers expressed the opinion to the federal reserve board in New York, that Atlanta should have a bank, Washington bankers did so today. H. E. McKee, representative of the Clearing House Association of the District, said that the Commercial National bank, said Atlanta should have a bank. They contended that North Carolina and Virginia, however, should be embraced in the Washington bank.

Advantage of having one reserve bank at the national capital under the direct supervision of the federal reserve board, was emphasized by the Washington bankers. They are desiring to be embraced in a Baltimore or Philadelphia bank region, but are willing for Atlanta and New Orleans to have a bank.

Mr. Orr is here representing jointly the Clearing House Association. He is getting pointers on how best to present the advantages of Atlanta to the board when they meet in Atlanta, February 13 and 14. He was convinced after hearing the arguments this morning, that Atlanta's name is one to conjure with.

All other cities in the southeast, Charlotte, Columbia, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, Chattanooga and Birmingham will have to send their delegations to Atlanta to plead for a bank.

Both Georgia senators and every member of the Georgia delegation in the house except Representative Edwards, of the first district, are in favor of a bank being established in Atlanta.

When the currency bill was under debate in the democratic senate caucus Senator Bacon and Senator Smith insisted that a sufficient number of reserve banks be authorized to give Atlanta one. It was felt that authority for establishing from eight to twelve banks would permit this to be done.

Prospectus Reseats.

As the date by the prospects for Atlanta's getting an overwhelming support before the organization committee grow.

The main problem before the committee is to line up the support of other southeastern cities. Many of these cities are at present in the race, but will probably withdraw when further developments show, as it is believed they will, that Atlanta will undoubtedly get the choice of the organization committee.

J. K. Orr, chairman of the Atlanta joint committee, who was in Washington at the Wednesday's sitting of the organization committee, wired the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce that every speaker representing Washington had endorsed Atlanta for the center of a district composed of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

On Wednesday the formal resolutions of the banks of Dallas were received by the joint committee. These resolutions strongly endorsed Atlanta for selection as the regional reserve banking center of the southeast.

Similar endorsements were received from the banks of Smyrna and of Athens. Madison, which had not hitherto expressed herself, on Wednesday passed.

HE KILLS HIS WIFE, WOUNDS CHAUFFEUR AND GOES TO SLEEP

After Release From Confinement for Mental Derangement, Sam Norris Runs Amuck in Augusta.

CHAUFFEUR DENNIS WILL PROBABLY DIE

Only Cause Given for Tragedy Is Probability That Norris Went Insane From Long Drinking Bout.

Augusta, Ga., January 14.—Recently released from confinement for mental derangement, and after drinking heavily for weeks, Sam J. Norris this afternoon shot and killed his wife and probably mortally wounded William Dennis, 17 years old, a chauffeur, who was at the Norris home preparatory to taking Mrs. Norris for a ride. After shooting the two, Norris attempted and would have shot Felix Gunter, the first person to come into the room after the tragedy was enacted. He was covered by a revolver in the hands of Police Surgeon Jennings, who disarmed and arrested him.

At the barracks Norris appeared unconscious that he had committed any crime. He went to sleep as soon as he was locked up.

Chauffeur May Recover. Dennis was hurried from the sidewalk, where he fell, to the City hospital, where an operation was performed shortly after 4 o'clock. After his wound had been treated the statement was made that he had a bare chance to live.

Except young Dennis, there was no eye-witness to the tragedy. Just before going to the operating table, young Dennis made the following statement:

"I was in Mr. Norris' house, where Mrs. Norris was preparatory to taking her out for an automobile ride. We had already arranged for the ride. Mr. Norris had given his consent for his wife to go. All at once he just started to curse, drew his revolver and shot me. He then began firing at Mrs. Norris and she began firing at me. I do not know why Mrs. Norris should seek to kill him."

Fight May Come Over "$30,000 Baby;" Mrs. Jacques Swift Wills Child to Sister

MRS. JACQUES BRADLEY SWIFT.

The death in Washington Wednesday of Jacques Bradley Swift, who came to Atlanta seven years ago as a chorus girl and married Charles Thomas Swift, son of Mrs. Lena Swift Huntley, one of the wealthiest women in Atlanta, may open the legal battle over the possession of 3-year-old Lena Swift, the baby for whom its mother gave up $30,000. The death of the former chorus girl also ends one of the most dramatic cases that Atlanta ever knew, one which agitated Atlanta society, talk through and through.

Mrs. Huntley replied to a question, "and her death is a great shock to both my son and myself. I cannot say right now whether or not we will take steps to secure Lena. You know she was awarded by the court to her mother."

Before her death, Mrs. Swift made her will. She left the baby to her sister and brother-in-law, of Washington, who are very devoted to the child. Jacques Bradley came to Atlanta as a chorus girl in the Willis Musical Comedy company, which played at the Casino theater at Ponce de Leon park. After the Monday night opening at which she captivated young Swift by singing a popular song to him, she followed in rapid succession until the exclusive circles of Atlanta awoke one morning to read that Swift had followed the girl to Columbus and married her.

LIVES SNATCHED FROM VERY JAWS OF YAWNING SEA

Rescue Ships Reach Wrecked Royal Mail Steamer Cobequid and Take Off the Passengers.

WAVES WERE BREAKING OVER WRECKED VESSEL

Rescue One of Most Notable Ever Accomplished on Atlantic Coast—Cobequid Had Begun to Break Up.

Yarmouth N. S., January 14.—Snatched from what seemed almost certain death, the 103 passengers and crew of the Royal Mail Packet Cobequid are snug tonight in Yarmouth harbor. Wireless appeals for assistance which she had first made thirty-six hours before were answered late today as the doomed steamer was being racked to pieces on Trinity Rock, six miles off Port Maitland. The rescue will go down in shipping annals as one of the most notable ever accomplished on the Atlantic coast.

The Cobequid had begun to break up under the onslaught of the terrific seas that had been merciless from the time the vessel struck early yesterday. Quantities of cargo covered the waters as the lifeboats ranged alongside. The coastal steamers Westport and John L. Cann were first to get their small boats into the water and they were followed soon by boats of the government steamer Lansdowne and the steamer Rappahannock. As the work of rescue progressed the seas subsided and no mishap marred the triumph over the waves.

Found Liner on Ledge.

Captain McKinnon, of the Westport, found the liner on Trinity ledge at 4:25 o'clock this afternoon. At the time there was a high wind and rough sea. He took off in three lifeboats with seventy-two persons, including all passengers, the purser, several deck officers and part of the crew.

The Westport stood by until 6:15 o'clock, when the John L. Cann came up. The latter took off twenty-four men as the Westport was leaving for Yarmouth.

The captain and eleven men of the crew decided to remain on the ship until morning and the government steamer Lansdowne remained by with them. The Westport arrived at Yarmouth at 9 o'clock and the John L. Cann followed her in.

The Cobequid's stern was not broken as first reported, according to the account given by Captain McKinnon. In fact, the after part was highest out of the water. The Cobequid was badly damaged.

The 103 persons on the Cobequid included twelve first cabin passengers and an equal number in the second class. Mrs. W. C. Zoller and her child were the first to go over the side. They followed Miss Marguerite and Dorothy James, daughters of the late R. H. James, mayor of St. Georges, Bermuda, and two sisters of charity.

SAYS HE HAS SEEN ALLEGED DEAD MAN

Witness in Insurance Fight Denies Tale of "C'd Bill" Minor and His Pal That Widencamp Prayed.

Milledgeville, Ga., January 14—(Special)—A case of statewide prominence because of the issue involved and the thrilling nature of the evidence is being tried today in Baldwin county superior court. Mrs. Emma P. Widencamp is suing the Franklin and Prudential insurance companies for $2,000 the amount of policies on W. J. Widencamp's life. Her husband, who she claims was drowned on June 30, 1912, in the Oconee river. The insurance companies claim that his death is insufficiently established and put up a witness, W. J. Mauldin, of Appling county, who testifies that he has seen Widencamp since the alleged death. The evidence in the case is full of thrilling adventure. Widencamp escaped on the night of June 29, 1912, from the prison farm where he was serving a life sentence for murder in Tattnall county. At the same time "Old Bill" Minor and W. M. Wiggins escaped with him. They secured a boat and were making their way down the Oconee river, which was swollen 10 to 12 feet and very swift in places. The fugitives never stopped for night, but on that night they went down the river. On that moonlight June night, about midnight, in a swift place the boat hit a snag and capsized. Bill Minor and Wiggins swam to shore, but they say that they saw Widencamp standing on the boat when they looked for him, after reaching the land and talked with him just as this time the boat swung loose from the snag and floated down the current. Wiggins, after going down opposite to where he was in the river, cut a long canoe and plunged in to rescue him, but just as he was about to reach him, Widencamp lost his footing and fell into the river. Wiggins says he threw out the oar to Widencamp as he came up after sinking the second time, but that he failed to grab it, and sank the third time, never to rise again. Bill Minor and Wiggins got lost in the big swamps, wandering for two whole days and night. Finally, hearing a cow bell, they came out almost famished and exhausted. They were captured the next day at Toombs county. Detectives have been at work on the case and the insurance companies think the story of the two convicts untrue, that the three framed up a film-fam game to get the insurance money. The case is being warmly contested. The verdict will not be known until tomorrow. E. Vinson and Eugene E. Sibley, of Atlanta, represent the defendants; Sibley & Sibley, the plaintiffs.

When pretty Miss Myron Carter, who has just turned sixteen—steps from Southern Limited No. 28 in Westminster, S. C., this morning on a runaway escapade, she will be met by the entire constabulary, and escorted to the leading hotel, where she will be held under guard until Atlanta authorities arrive. Early Tuesday night she left her home, 76 Central place, suit case in hand, and hurried uptown, where, according to members of her family, she met Mrs. Alberta Twyman, a young married woman who lives in West End. She and Mrs. Twyman, the police were told, spent the night in a downtown hotel, leaving the city Wednesday morning. Members of the runaway girl's family came to headquarters last night to consult with Chief Jett. They insisted that instant effort be made to apprehend her. Their belief was that she and her elder companion were bound for New York, where, it was understood, the Carter girl had received a theatrical offer. Consultation of railroad time tables showed that the train on which they were traveling could be reached at Westminster this morning. It is believed, Mrs. Twyman and the girl will stop for a short time. Chief Jett wired the Westminster chief of police to arrest the Carter girl and hold her for Atlanta authorities. Mrs. Twyman will be permitted to continue her trip to meet the Carter girl and hold her for Atlanta authorities. Mrs. Twyman was taken a few hours previous to her departure from home. A meeting of a Constitution photographer, with whom she was acquainted, as he left the Fulton tower Tuesday afternoon she jokingly remarked that she intended running away. "You're kidding," said the photographer. She answered "Honest—I am." "Then, she said, "no chance," laughed the camera man. "Look please, white I snap you. If you really skip out, I'll be needed."

His wife and brother, C. W. Fullwood, of Tifton, and John R. Cooper, of Macon, argued the case at length on behalf of the defendant, laying special stress upon the claim of insanity. The governor also asserted that the defendant had not had a fair trial and that the conviction should not have been for a more serious degree of homicide than manslaughter. A number of prominent Tift county citizens came to Atlanta to appear before the governor on behalf of the condemned man, among them being H. Hendricks, L. P. Bowman, W. W. Banks, R. Postell, J. H. Tift, R. P. Ginn and W. W. Moore. There was no one to appear against the grant of clemency. At the conclusion of the hearing, the governor declared that he would take the case under advisement and announce his decision Thursday.

EARNING POWER OF CANAL TO BE A HUGE ASSET

When Philippe Bunau-Varilla asserts that the Isthmian canal is to prove a huge asset to the country, it is not a statement that will offer passage within a few brief months after its opening, but a statement that every man who has any ancient contention in favor of a sea level canal. But every man who may hope he is right, for then indeed would Uncle Sam draw a rich return on his investment. The capacity of the canal in normal years will be eighty million tons—and that is a ton that means a maximum earning capacity of $96,000,000 a year. Then provision has been made where-ever the expenditure of less than $50,000,000 another set of locks and a new storage reservoir above Alloupa can be built, and this would bring the total capacity up to 120,000,000 tons and its total gross earnings up to $144,000,000. DORSEY WILL NOT REPLY TO LATEST FRANK BRIEF

That Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey will not make reply to the latest supplemental brief filed by attorneys for Leo M. Frank before the supreme court was stated on apparently good authority Wednesday. Mr. Dorsey, himself, declined to discuss the matter, but it is believed that he holds that the points made in the additional brief were thoroughly covered by his other briefs. The action of the supreme court is expected to be made known either on February 15 or March 15. The members of the court are now considering the case which was carried before them following Frank's conviction before Judge L. S. Roan for the Mary Phagan murder.

FIRST 14 DAYS OF JANUARY BRING 71 NEW PUPILS TO THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS COLLEGE

As Predicted, More Than 100 New Pupils Will Be Added to the Membership Roll Before the Month Closes.

There is no cessation in the applications for seats at the Southern Shortland and Business University every day bringing new arrivals to this popular Business Training School. Seventy-one new pupils have been enrolled since the first day of January, increasing the present attendance to about 225. It is now quite certain that the 1914 mark will be reached before January closes. Called upon several prominent business men and a majority of them advised me to send to the Southern Business College if I wished to patronize the best school," said a gentleman caller yesterday. A lady who had attended another Atlanta Business School, said to the managers of the Southern yesterday: "I regret that I did not take my course at the Southern, because I am certain that I would have become better qualified to hold a position. I bring to you, however, a relative of mine, whom I have advised to take your complete Shortland course." The relative above referred to entered the Southern, although she could have obtained a lower rate of tuition at the other college. Business colleges are like everything else there are good, fair, inferior, and the Southern employs from two to three times as many teachers as do these schools, that offer lower rates of tuition, but its pupils profit thereby in the saving of time as well as in the securing of a more thorough training. The Southern's equipment far surpasses the equipment of any other Business College in this section. Its reputation for thoroughness, and

BLANKET OF SMOKE KEEPS CITY WARM

Von Herrmann Sends Observations to Washington, Which Explains Atlanta's Higher Temperatures.

Atlanta's blanket of smoke, which has for over a year been the bone of contention pro and con, is now officially recorded as the cause of weather bureau headquarters at Washington. It came about that Washington authorities questioned C. F. von Herrmann, local section director, as to the cause of the higher temperatures here. The department noted more degrees of difference than appeared correct. Mr. von Herrmann replied that Atlanta is enveloped practically all times by a blanket of smoke and that this blanket keeps things warm under it. He took observations at Lost Mountain, which is only a few miles from here, and is practically at same altitude, and where the temperature on winter mornings is nearly always some four or five degrees lower. These reports were sent to headquarters with an explanation about the smoke pall. When the smoke is decidedly unpleasant, and according to specialists, decidedly unhealthy, there may be reason to believe that the temperature a little higher on frosty mornings. Mr. von Herrmann is seriously considering the establishment of a suburban observatory about three miles from the smoke area, so that the real temperatures of this section may be recorded. As an example of the influence of the smoke, he cited that on Wednesday morning the lowest temperature recorded by his instruments was 25 degrees, while from Macon, some hundred miles to the west, observers reported a temperature of 33 degrees. For Thursday the weather folk agree upon a nice, pleasant day for Atlanta and its vicinity. The temperature should not be below 40 in the morning and by noon should be around 60 degrees. The sky is clear and bright. On Wednesday the highest temperature recorded was 52 degrees, shortly after the noon hour.

Stockholders Liable To Bank Depositors, Says Supreme Court

In the case of Lamar, Jr., et al. v. Taylor et al., the supreme court yesterday upheld the right of the receivers of the defunct Exchange bank of Macon to collect from the insolvent stockholders money owing to depositors. It was under the act of 1894, dealing with the statutory liability of stockholders that the suit was brought. This act provides that the stockholders shall be individually liable to depositors to the amount of the capital stock which they have subscribed. The supreme court held that this law is constitutional and that it applied to the case in question. The assets of the Exchange bank had been liquidated and paid out by the receivers in several dividends, it was found that $12,000 of the assets had been paid to the stockholders. It also found that 60 per cent of the stockholders were solvent and accordingly ordered that that suit be brought against these solvent stockholders for the $7,200, which was 60 per cent of the sum due.

Dr. Henry Cope Addresses Sunday School Workers And Outlines Methods

After having declared that the Bible should not be taught in the public schools, Dr. Henry Cope, secretary of the Religious Education association, speaking last night before the Atlanta school of methods for Sunday school workers, urged that religious instruction be given in the Sunday day schools. He outlined methods and ways for teaching in the schools not only in the home, but in the church, bringing out of the great religious truths shown by them. The headquarters of the school of the Wesley Memorial building, where the work is being carried on, was well attended Wednesday night. Sunday school teachers and workers, eager to learn better and more scientific methods of carrying on their work. Following the lecture by Dr. Cope, the gathering divided into groups to make special study of the different departments of the schools. In a previous lecture, Dr. Cope stated that he did not believe that it would be wise to teach public school children the principles of religion, especially in the grammar schools. He declared that this information might be given in the home, in the church, where the two sexes were separated.

He was amazed at the growth of the city, and he is getting along. He is registered at the Hotel Wincoff.

COMB SAGE TEA IN LIFELESS, GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell. Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or looked thin, she cut, washed, and applied this simple mixture with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Natural Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use for about 10 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and to prevent the dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyle's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It is easy to use, too. You simply draw a comb or soft brush and draw through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

TACKS INSCRIPTION ON OLD BATTLE FLAG

Dr. Denson, With Feelings of Lover, Marks Ensign He Bore at Gettysburg.

Dr. E. J. Denson, of Wilkinson county, who was the color bearer of the Forth-eighth Georgia regiment in the civil war and whose flag fell into the hands of the enemy at the battle of Gettysburg, after he himself had been wounded, visited Atlanta yesterday to see his old standard again among the tattered old banners in the capacious attic room of the metal inscription. The words on the metallic plate were: "E. J. Denson, Color Bearer, Gettysburg, July 2, 1863." It was with the unfeigned emotion of a lover that Dr. Denson put his hands on the ragged old mottled banner. When he had stooped under the glass pane after one of the porters had opened the door. "The last time I had this flag in my hands it was bright and new, hoisted as bright as the hopes of the people whose aspirations it represented. After it had fallen on the battlefield, wounded, it was taken up by a young man named McGhee, a color sergeant in Company K, who was shot dead a little later. It was a man from a New York regiment who picked it up after two of those who had borne it had fallen. I met the man who picked it up while on a trip north some years ago. Mr. Denson declared that the state was not taking sufficient precautions to preserve the old Confederate battle flags in the capitol. Many of them are badly mottled and some are almost falling to pieces. "By the use of a little preservative, almost any sunburning fluid would do, these old flags might be preserved indefinitely," said Dr. Denson. "As they are now rotting away, there will soon be nothing left of them but the poles. How can we expect to keep alive in our children the traditions of our past if we let such splendid mementoes as these go to decay?"

JOSEPH F. GRAY HERE FOR TWO WEEKS' STAY

Joseph F. Gray, of Savannah, who is here for two weeks attending the meetings of the railroad commission, of which he is a member, is registered at the Hotel Wincoff. Mr. Gray is a frequent visitor to Atlanta, and he takes a great interest in the city's growth. He has a large circle of friends here, and feels almost as much at home in the capital as he does in his own Savannah.

Watch Carefully the Child's Diet

Start Them Off Right With a Good Laxative and Then Watch Their Food.

Mothers are often unconsciously very careless about the diet of their children, forcing all to eat the same foods. The fact is that all foods do not agree alike with different persons. Hence, avoid what seems to constipate the child or to give it indigestion, and urge it to take more of what is quickly digested. If the child shows a tendency to constipation it should immediately be given a mild laxative to help the bowels. By this is not meant a physic or purgative, for these should never be given to children, nor anything like salts, pills, etc. What the child requires is simply a small dose of the gentler of medicines, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, in the opinion of thousands of watchful mothers, is the ideal remedy for any child showing a tendency to constipation. So many things can happen to a constipated child that are unnecessary. Colds, piles, headaches, sleeplessness, and many other annoyances that children should not have can usually be traced to constipation. Many of America's foremost families are never without Syrup Pepsin, because one can never tell when some member of the family may need it, and all can use it. Thousands endorse it, among them Mrs. M. E. Patten, Valley Junction, Iowa, who is never without it in the house. Mrs. Patten says: "How can we expect to keep alive in our children the traditions of our past if we let such splendid mementoes as these go to decay?"

ed from birth but is now doing fine. Naturally she is enthusiastic about it and wants other mothers to use it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter size being bought by those who already know its value, and it contains proportionately more. Everyone likes Syrup Pepsin as it is very pleasant to the taste, it is also mild and non-grating and free from injurious ingredients. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 413 Washington St., Monticello, N. Y. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

SOUTH AFRICA WARS WITH THE STRIKERS

Martial Law in Force Over Country—Strikers Defying Authorities From Behind Barricades at Johannesburg

Johannesburg, January 14.—The siege of Trades Hall, where Secretary Bain, of the Federation of Trades, and a band of his supporters are defying the police from behind barricades, was the main feature of the strike drama today. After the hall had been attacked by police and detectives this morning without avail, great crowds gathered. When the police made several bayonet charges owing to the aggressive attitude of the people many were slightly injured.

With the final bayonet charge the police cleared the police with fixed bayonets was thrown around the hall.

Safe as in Jail.
Bain came out of the hall this evening and strolled nonchalantly about the cleared space in full view of the police and re-entered the hall without any attempt being made to arrest him.

The Transvaal railway authorities are maintaining a partial service, and are attempting to insure an adequate supply of food and fuel. Bakers will not strike for the present, but they refuse to bake for the police, troops or special constables.

The miners continue to stop work as fast as their regular shifts end. The department of mines announced that it will keep the mines running and has no intention of sending natives home.

Completely Isolated.
Eventually Bain and his followers were completely isolated, being cut off from all supplies. A correspondent who passed the strikers' pickets by aid of a permit, found a remarkable scene inside the hall tonight. The 300 inmates were all fully armed. They expressed determination to resist any attempt to storm their stronghold.

The defenders are subsisting chiefly on fruit, quantities of which are stored in the hall. They also have some stale bread. Many of the men were dressed only in trousers and boots. They stoutly asserted that the hall would not be taken until all their ammunition was exhausted and not a bar of iron or a stick was left to wield. From without could be heard the clang of arms and the less directing citizens away from the danger zone.

A detective named McBrode was caught by the pickets approaching the doorway and had to flee for his life after being badly beaten.

Marital Law in Force.
Cape Town, Union of South Africa, January 14.—Proclamation of martial law throughout the Union of South Africa in response to the declaration of general strike by the Federation of Trades is regarded as making the issue a clear one between the state and the syndicates, who have adopted a system of rapidly organized sympathetic strikes.

The origin of the dispute—the railroad men's protest against the policy of retrenchment introduced by their employers—has been lost sight of in the great sympathetic labor war which has brought the trade and commerce of the colony to a standstill.

Surprise from last evening the use of such epithets as "scab" and "black-chap" was prohibited under penalty of severe punishment, while any attempt to intimidate workers was forbidden.

The police have calculated to promote ill will between the disputants. The police have divided the city into nine areas, each controlled by an officer vested with absolute power as in time of war.

MAY BE LEGAL FIGHT OVER THE $30,000 BABY

lanta and for a time things moved happily. It had been lost sight of that Mrs. Huntley had become reconciled to her daughter-in-law.

Two years later the Wills Musical Comedy company returned to play at the Casino. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Swift occupied a box at the first performance. When the company left a week later it took Mrs. Swift with it.

Some said that the indefinable something that goes with spotlights and applause had called and would not be refused. Jacques Bradley, for she had resumed her maiden name, declared that things had not been happy in her home life.

For a short time young Swift seemed disconsolate and then he followed the company and brought his wife back and things took on a rosy hue again. Later the little girl was born and was named after her paternal grandmother.

Then Comes Separation.
Then came the separation. Mrs. Swift returned to the city and finally went into vaudeville. She has probably played in every large town in Georgia.

Swift for divorce followed the second separation and then the wife sued for $30,000 alimony. Lying presser by ill will of the Mrs. Frank Pearson on East Baker street, a few months ago, she settled the case by taking $10,000 and the baby over whose possession she and her husband, the latter backed by his mother, had been fighting.

The baby was called the "30,000 baby," and another twist was given to the intensely dramatic story. The mother got better, following the settlement and the legal possession of the little girl.

Her death came as a decided shock when it was announced from Washington Wednesday.

Wills Child to Sister.
Washington, January 14.—(Special.) Mrs. Jacques Bradley Swift, the actress and former wife of Tom Swift, of Atlanta, died this morning at Providence hospital here following an operation performed yesterday by Dr. Howard Kelley, of Baltimore, the famous specialist. She never rallied from the shock.

Tonight her body lies at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. Henry Wendell, at 1234 Maryland avenue, Northeast. No funeral arrangements will be made until the arrival of other relatives.

Present at the operation was Mrs. Frank Pearson, of Atlanta, who is in Washington visiting her maternal relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Pearson. She was urged by Mrs. Swift to come to her.

A pronouncement of her approaching end came to this young girl, still in her teens, whose life has been such a trouble to her mother. Mrs. Swift made her will and indicated the clothes in which she wished to be buried.

Just as her greatest regret in death was leaving her baby, her greatest fear seemed to be that her husband would secure possession of "little Jacques." She left the child to her sister and brother-in-law, who voted to let it go to "raise" her as their own, as they have no children.

Mr. Wendell is employed at the government printing office in the attractive home in the northeast section of Washington. He said if there was no other relative, the child would adopt it and rear the child as they had their mother.

CUMMINGS ESCAPES VOTE OF CENSURE

meant disrespect to the board in his statement.

"You all know that several members of council jokingly declared at the first meeting of council that the board was packed," he said.

Councilman Reynolds offered as a substitute for the Lee resolution a motion to the effect that the board did not approve of the chief's attack on the mayor. He said that while he did not like the controversy, still he was opposed to the Lee resolution because it was too drastic.

Councilman Claude L. Ashley also took the view that the chief's attack on the mayor was too harsh and not conducive of good will on the part of the department, but he was opposed to the Lee resolution. Councilman Ashley also took the position that the Lee resolution was in favor of ending the controversy.

Councilman Lee insisted on the adoption of his resolution, but the board voted against it.

The board approved the resolution removing Chief Cummings as a voting member of the board. Councilman Reynolds asked the chief if his resolution deprived the chief of his authority to name his assistant. Several other members of the board asked the same question, and upon being assured that the resolution simply placed the chief in the position as the chiefs of other departments, voted its approval.

Opposed to Petition.
The board opposed the petition of the Criterion Oil company to install two oil tanks for storage of oil on a vacant lot on Rhodes street near Hulsey street. Chief Cummings opposed the petition, declaring that the city had no right to store gasoline in large quantities in any section within the city limits.

The board referred the petition to the same company to install a small tank in the business district to the street corner.

Chief Cummings asked the board for authority to make a claim against the owner of the auto which ran amuck and killed one of the department horses. The board instructed him to place the claim in the hands of the legal department.

WILL DRAW UP REPORT AT MEETING IN APRIL

W. & A. Commission Reaches Many Conclusions, But Will Not Publish Yet.

With most of the things which they were appointed by the legislature to do determined, the members of the Western and Atlantic railroad commission returned from their second inspection trip to Chattanooga last night.

A meeting of the commission will be held here about the middle of April, the date to be fixed by the chair, at which time a rough draft of the commission's report to the legislature will be drawn up. The commission held an executive session on the return trip from Chattanooga, but it was decided not to give out just at this time the results reached at the meeting.

Only two things may be forecast with almost every degree of certainty. One is that the new leases will be required to double-track the road. The other is that the present lease will in all probability, seek a renewal of the lease.

The trip to and from Chattanooga was made on a special train which was under the direct supervision of Major J. L. McCollum, superintendent of the road. Several stops were made en route at points which the members of the commission wished specially to investigate.

PLANNING TO RELIEVE CHICAGO UNEMPLOYED

Chicago, January 14.—A chain of retail groceries and coal markets, financed by the city and operated for the benefit of those who are out of work, but who still have some small savings of money, and, therefore, have not been reduced to the necessity of applying to the county agent for relief, will be started in a short time, according to the plans of city and county officials and the leaders of labor unions as told today.

An item of $25,000 to provide capital for the venture has been placed in the city's annual appropriation bill by the council's finance committee.

It is proposed to rent stores in different parts of the city. Food and fuel will be retained at cost to the customers.

A meeting of the commission will be held here about the middle of April, the date to be fixed by the chair, at which time a rough draft of the commission's report to the legislature will be drawn up. The commission held an executive session on the return trip from Chattanooga, but it was decided not to give out just at this time the results reached at the meeting.

FOSTER AND THE GIRL ONCE MORE ARRESTED

Foster Says He Became Interested in Miss Bradley Because She Had Been Betrayed.

Mobile, Ala., January 14.—As Joel M. Foster and Delilah F. Bradley left the government building this afternoon after Foster was examined preliminarily on the charge of violating the Mann act they were arrested by city detectives on charges of adultery.

Both were released on bonds of $500 each. Foster waived examination before United States Commissioner Jones and was placed under a $5,000 bond to await grand jury action. Miss Bradley was held as a material witness under a $1,000 bond. Foster's bond was promptly made by W. P. Mayor, a Chicago land man. Miss Bradley's father went on his daughter's bond.

Tonight Foster issued a signed statement in which he claims that he first interested himself in Miss Bradley when he learned of a betrayal. The sympathy, he said, ripened into love. He says he expects to marry her as soon as he is divorced.

Miss Bradley is on the verge of a breakdown following the sensational developments of the day. She was turned over to her father in federal court, but refused absolutely to go back to New Jersey. From a sanitarium tonight she again sent a flat refusal to "let Joe" she said, "that I'm still loyal and for him not to worry." Bradley is still here.

A BOND ISSUE THE ONE KEY TO THE CRISIS

Chairman Humphrey, of council's finance committee, has put the approval of calm and conservative business experience upon the contention that the one way out of Atlanta's municipal entanglement is a bond issue

In common with every other unbiased student of municipal affairs, The Constitution has for several months emphasized the position that a bond issue offers the only escape from the accumulated inadequacy of facilities that is threatening the health and penalizing the progress of the city

It is no more possible for a city than for a business to make current income meet maintenance and provide simultaneously for permanent improvements. The city that long attempts so radical a violation of economic law does one of two things

(1) Extracts an exorbitant tax levy, (2) runs down at the heel, municipally speaking, depriving its citizens of the rights, the protection and the ordinary public functions assumed to inhere in city government.

Atlanta has reached the latter crisis. With inadequate exceptions we have been trying to make current income sustain the city and cover the demands of growth. That policy has failed grievously. Where has it left us?

Right now from the point of view of schools alone we are nearly one million dollars behind the equipment we should possess and need at this moment. The health of thousands of school children is jeopardized because they are crowded into insufficient room space, or forced to study in ill-ventilated rooms, or in close proximity to sewers. Many are compelled to walk an unreasonable distance from their homes in severe weather to secure accommodations.

A keen analysis of the disease and death rate would show that, even now Atlanta is paying for this shortsighted policy. The same conditions apply to the negro schools. Many imperative street improvement projects are menaced because the city can not find the money with which to materialize them. This means that progress and growth the multiplication of wealth for every element in the community, are held in abeyance. It is certain many of these projects cannot be cared for by current income. It is certain they are all needed. The bond issue is the one way.

The factor of health should take right of way over all others. Atlanta's sanitary equipment, her sewers and her water distribution plant, is insufficient. Both in the huge territory recently annexed, and nearer in, are dwellings cursed with the death dealing earth closets. Especially does this and other sanitary indictments hold true with the negro quarters, prolific breeders of disease, which is carried to the white population of this city.

The truth is, Atlanta has grown so fast that not every citizen's viewpoint has kept pace with the needs of the situation. We are in danger of forgetting that around us has sprung up a metropolis with modern metropolitan needs. Year after year we have been getting a little farther behind, postponing or blinking the inevitable. The crisis is now upon us.

It is estimated that $5,000,000 will be needed to catch up the neglect of years and place Atlanta's facilities upon a just and businesslike basis.

It must be borne in mind that the facilities needing attention are in the nature of permanent investments. Not one of them comes under the head of maintenance. They cover new territory and new exigencies which are in themselves simply growing pains. The money that is put into them will stay there. The rehabilitation of the health and school and street features means benefit not to one class, but to the mass of the people. The man with money can safeguard the health and assure the education of his child very much easier than the man without money, as he must depend upon what he has a right to demand of the municipality.

As to the fiscal side, Atlanta is better situated to issue bonds than any city of her size in America. We have a bonded indebtedness of only six million dollars. Counting the enhancement of property values by the time an issue could be authorized, we have a borrowing margin of approximately six millions more. Atlanta is one of the few American municipalities that do not make facilities keep pace with growth by constantly invoking the bond method. In New York city, for instance, the authorities can issue bonds without a popular referendum. New York's legal limit is 10 per cent of assessed property values. And New York property is assessed much nearer its true value than property in Georgia. Each year New York estimates the extension of the city's bonding limit, then bonds itself to the limit, so that the city shall not run behind in its facilities, and so that posterity shall pay its just portion in permanent investments.

In Georgia cities can bond themselves for only 7 per cent of their assessed values. Values in Georgia are assessed, upon an average, from 60 to 65 per cent of their true value. Under this ironclad safeguard it is impossible for Atlanta to fall into looseness or extravagance.

These are facts which every man with regard for the health and prosperity and future of himself, his wife and his children needs to consider solemnly. We have reached a crisis that can no longer be evaded. The bond way is the only way out of it.

SOUTH CAROLINA'S SHAME.

Past experience and accumulated rebukes have taught Blease, of South Carolina, no hopeful lessons in manners or decency or the dignity that is assumed to characterize statesmanship. His annual message to the legislature reeks with abuse of his enemies that savors of the gutter and vituperation more often issuing from bar rooms than from a state capitol. Some of his expressions toward cabinet officers and men who have been fortunate enough to incur his displeasure nearly graze that degree of obscenity which would ban them from publication.

Our sympathy goes out to the state of South Carolina. The commonwealth that gave to the nation such knightly and effective types as the Calhouns, the Pinckneys and the Hamptons has fallen on evil days when it must be labelled to the world by such a misfit as Blease.

After all, however, the case of Blease bears its moral and its prophecy. Indications multiply that he is among the last of that dwindling tribe of barrelhead demagogues that once counted the ability to inflame ignorant prejudice and to bandy foul epithets as an open sesame to political advancement.

THE PEACHTREE BOTTLE NECK.

One of the most important public projects to be passed upon by the finance committee of council in making up the January apportionment sheet is the item calling for the widening of what is known as the neck of the bottle on Peachtree street just beyond the point where Forsyth and Pryor streets meet, at Peachtree.

No space need be spent in describing the condition of this important key street at the point indicated. At the angle where all the traffic it receives converges to enter the thoroughfare it is so narrow as to be almost impassable at times, thus affecting the traffic of all that part of the city. The result is that traffic is constantly penalized.

The widening plan contemplates ten feet on each side. The Winecoff Hotel has already been set back the ten feet required of buildings on that side of the street. Work upon new buildings upon both sides of the street waits only the necessary authorization which will commit the city to the expense. In the meantime, development in this important strip is virtually at a standstill until the city takes action.

Peachtree is the most used thoroughfare in the community. Every vehicle that uses it suffers by reason of the congestion at the bottle neck into which three streets empty. The small sum required to complete the improvement will prove a source of saving to the whole city, and vastly facilitate development in every part of the region immediately affected.

The work should be done at once, and it is to be hoped that the finance committee will report accordingly.

ATLANTA'S NEEDLESS DEATHS.

We publish today from Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, a strong statistical study of the health situation in Atlanta, with a modest request that the appropriation of the health department be increased from forty to fifty thousand dollars a year. The ten thousand dollars additional he asks as a bagatelle to the city of Atlanta. But expended as the health board proposes to spend it that sum is likely to save scores of lives during the current year.

The death rate for white and colored has dropped steadily in Atlanta for the past three years. During 1913 it reached a gratifying new record of 16.08 per thousand of population, white and colored, while the white death rate was only 11.49, comparing favorably with that of any other city in the country. The death rate per thousand of colored population was 24.98, or more than twice as large as the death rate of the whites. Now, when it is said that these estimates are upon a basis of 66 2/3 white population and 33 1/3 colored, the abnormal contribution of the negro to the death rate is seen in its full significance.

Assume that it had been possible to protect the white population from the germs and disease that crossed the race line from the reservoir of negro disease. It is very probable that the white man's 11.49 per cent would have been much less. But it is not possible thus to erect a racial barrier against disease. The negro with tuberculosis, typhoid, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and, to an extent, the more sinister diseases, mingles with the white, in mental, industrial and economic capacities. As he crosses the color line in pursuit of a living, or otherwise, he carries disease and death with him. If these figures do not constitute a sledgehammer demonstration of the selfish intercast of the white man in supervising the health of the negro, we do not know where to find one.

Dr. Kennedy says that during 1913 500 babies died in Atlanta under the age of two years. He believes, and he has the warrant of the best authority back of him, that many, if not most, of these deaths were due to impure milk and ignorant handling. Much of the $10,000 extra he asks would be spent in chopping the death rate by measures that would lessen the slaughter of the innocents.

The entire communication of Dr. Kennedy, and the facts in which he frankly deals, comprise an irresistible argument for more liberality toward the health department. Atlanta now gives far less, proportionately, to health conservation than the average American city. To refuse, through miserly so-called "economy," to do Atlanta's full share in this most fundamental of all city obligations, is to be particeps criminus to a needlessly high death rate.

THE TWELVE WORST BOYS.

Jack London, Upton Sinclair and two of their friends less known to name, are about to establish what may be called a human laboratory near Reno, Nevada. They believe they have located the twelve worst boys in the United States, picked from 9,000 incorrigibles over a range of twelve states, each one averaging 87 per cent bad. These boys are to be placed on a ranch in Nevada, and under scientific supervision given the opportunity to demonstrate whether they cannot be transformed into wholly or partially good citizens. The experiment will cover several years and its sponsors believe if it is successful, the conclusions in points will influence juvenile criminology in this country for an indefinite period.

Their theory may or may not be correct. Human nature is one thing about which no man on earth, however skilled and intuitive, may dogmatize. We can, it is true, apply the law of averages as to unchanging principles and expect to get reasonable results. But the process cannot be carried to its ultimate conclusion in the case of every individual, and even less so with boys. The boy who is a defective, must be treated in the empirical sense, each as a law unto himself. We are fond of saying that the child is father to the man, but the authority who attempted to apply to the plastic and half-responsible nature of the child the rules to which the adult would respond, has a search warrant out for trouble.

If juvenile reformatories, the country over have established anything at all, they have established this fact. They have shown that the tender human plant is unlike the plant of the field. You must approach each one separately, tend each separately by a radically different set of rules, and ever mindful of the fact that the exploration of a child's mind and impulses is almost like sending an expedition into a terra incognita.

And this is why the person familiar with these principles will regard the Nevada experiment with hope rather than assurance. We need to know more about the defects in boys. We need to understand the origin of abnormal impulses. The more knowledge we have in this direction the better equipped we shall be to work intelligently to the end of lowering the crime rate. And whatever lowers the crime rate saves human dollars and human happiness. In its last analysis, the human laboratory about to open on the plateau of Nevada has an economic motive back of it.

Mexico is a military race course where the swiftest generals win the border heat.

Huerta won't pay interest, but he doesn't want the public to lose interest in him.

And now Harry Thaw will have leisure to write his reminiscences of "Lawyers I Have Known."

It is said the Tango produces wrinkles, but the slogan of its advocates is "Let us grow old and die young!"

Is it possible that Huerta is keeping up his end of the war to carry out his contracts with the film men?

Congressmen who look wise won't let it go at that. All want to hear themselves talk.

No such thing as a new crisis in Mexico. Same old fellow warmed over on a brimstone grid.

They will not unsettle the tariff to oblige prospective candidates who are with out an excuse for running for office.

And now two famous aviators threaten to fight a duel. Isn't the practice of their profession a surer way of getting off the earth?

Summed up, Huerta's message to the Mexican millionaires is, "Your money or your lives!"

Poets Sing of War. Told (Mortimer) Lewis prints a long poem from a Texas bard who says he was inspired from above. Here is a sample of the poet's inspiration.

Don't you people of the United States Remember that other night. When our lads were under Washington Red to march at night? God says that we could have been fighting yet.

As far as He was concerned He had no hand in deciding those battles— They were run by another firm.

The Texas singer is in competition with the Tennessee poet who once sent us the following.

My father—if I remember right— Was born in Tennessee. If the war had continued to the present time He'd still been fighting with Lee (Or maybe Stonewall Jackson. As the case might be.)

'Tis best to be contented. Though doubt for justice appears. He cried aloud for justice. And they gave him fifteen years.'

Reason Why. Our representative didn't have any 'explaining' to do," says a Georgia critic, "and for a very good reason. He didn't do anything to explain."

THE CITY HEALTH OFFICER MAKES PLEA FOR CITY AID

Editor Constitution. The total death rate for 1913 in Atlanta white and colored was 15.70 per 1,000 population and in 1912 it dropped to 16.85, and during the past year has dropped to 16.08. These figures show that there has been a gratifying decrease in our death rate, and this is especially noticeable among the whites during the past year, as only 1,362 white people died at all ages in Atlanta which shows an exceedingly low death rate among the white people compared with any other city in the country. While many lives have been saved yet the health department is not satisfied. Many more (probably hundreds) can be saved with a slight increase in the working force of the department.

The infant mortality is our greatest death rate and much of it can be prevented. To reduce the infant mortality it is necessary to educate the people.

Slaughter of Innocents. During 1913 more than 500 babies died in Atlanta under 2 years of age. This represents about one fifth of the total number of deaths. A study of the causes of this infant death rate shows it to be due in a great measure to the lack of knowledge as to the proper method of caring for babies.

The health officer finds the best means of attacking this problem is by the use of visiting nurses who can give the needed instructions as to the care and feeding of infants. In a great many of the cases there is no attending physician, and therefore no one to give proper instructions as to the care and feeding of the child. For this purpose, the health officer has asked for an appropriation to employ two visiting nurses. Money spent where it will save lives is well spent, but money spent where it will save most lives is best spent and we find that this field offers the greatest returns at this time.

Milk Staff Must Be Increased. As milk is the only proper food for infants under one year of age, it is necessary to have a good milk supply especially for poor people. To improve the milk supply the health officer has asked for an additional dairy inspector and an additional milk inspector and a veterinarian in order to complete the tuberculosis testing work which is being done through the cooperation of Dr. Lamson, state veterinarian. The city has two dairy inspectors and one milk inspector. In addition to doing the tuberculosis testing work they are supposed to visit and inspect seven hundred or more dairies. This dairy force has not been increased during the past ten years. It is impossible for this dairy force to supervise a look after the milk situation as we wish it and it is absolutely necessary for this force to be increased.

The check on the milk supply and the contagious diseases is supplied by the work done in the city's laboratory and the force here is entirely inadequate to meet the demands of the growing city. This force remains about the same as when first inaugurated several years ago and an additional force is necessary at the present time to meet the increased demands of the city.

The entire appropriation for the health department of Atlanta was but approximately $40,000 last year—and this for a city of 130,000 population. This is a shame to $10,000 more this year or $1,000 in 1914 and even that will give the city of Atlanta the smallest amount of money for the maintenance of its health department of any city of its size in this country if not in the world.

If we receive this $10,000 extra for this year we will put on at once an extra milk inspector in charge of inspection of milk in the city, and an extra dairy inspector to assist in the inspection of dairies which supply milk to the city. We will also put on a veterinarian to head the driving and slaughterhouse departments, and we believe this to be of the utmost importance in reducing the death rate of the city. In addition to this we will put on a force of visiting nurses to do child welfare work in those parts of the city where it is most needed.

We consider this more important than any thing else and it is our hope that it will come so in the matter of allocation of human life than anything we are now doing.

These things will cost the health department $10,000 a year more than it is receiving now and if we get this $10,000 we will use it in a way that will make it the best investment this city could get out of the expenditure of that sum of money.

J. P. KENNEDY, M. D. City Health Officer.

A Military Highway.

Editor Constitution. Nothing would advertise west Georgia more or add as much to her prestige as the building of the proposed splendid highway.

The plan proposed by Congressman Adamson to build the road with the prisoners confined in the federal prison in Atlanta is very feasible and practically without expense, as the inmates must each receive wages as to pay maintaining the prisoners while in their territory would be a mere bagatelle compared to the vast benefit received.

This section of the state needs advertisement and that does its own good. It is great its climate the heat and its lands are cheap but its possibilities are unknown. Let them be exploited let the world have a view of us and let us have a view of the world and when the intermingling begins development will come by leaps and bounds.

High praise is due Congressman Adamson for the splendid work he has done for his constituents and especially for this effort in behalf of this highway. There is perhaps more far reaching benefit to this section hidden beneath this enterprise than any the congressman has heretofore undertaken.

The prisoners themselves would doubtless be delighted with the change from the four prison walls to this healthful climate where they are free to breathe the fresh air and freedom, for the very air of the section breathes the freedom of pure American people unmixed and untarnished by any foreign element.

Congressman William Schley Howard and Gordon Lee should be equally interested with Congressman Adamson in getting this enterprise to a speedy reality, for there is nothing they could do for their constituents that would be so pleasing and beneficial.

Doubtless the congressman interested are each willing to do all that they can, but sometimes a little encouragement and help from the outside will be of great aid to them. Sometimes they wonder if the people are really interested in their efforts or whether they are aware of what they are doing for their sections, therefore we have heard of trade or other commercial body, and private citizens especially, should without delay take the matter up and write letters and memorials to the congressman letting them know so earnestly desire and need the highway.

BOUNDARIES.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

There is 'Everything in this life for many people' all because they see 'Everything in it.' In advance they appraise the Boundaries of their Possibilities by putting definite form to them.

Frequently Appraise your Boundaries. Start Appraising right now. What is there that you have done that you should not have done had you seen the End instead of the Beginning? Appraise the Complete alongside of the Incomplete. Face your Shortcomings squarely and seriously. That which is worth the effort to finish that which promises nothing—Discard.

Frequently Appraise your Boundaries. Bear in mind that the Boundaries of every one of your Ideals, Purposes and Dreams extend right back in themselves to the starting point of the attempt at working them out into actual accomplishment.

Frequently Appraise your Boundaries. As you enter upon your work try to place a Boundary about every phase of work you attempt. Try to do at the start only so far as you can see and soon you will be able to see bigger things and greater Boundaries.

A Unique Record.

(From the Boston Globe)

That a man who has been a train robber for several years who has served a long term in a penitentiary and who upon his release and restoration to citizenship has studied law, been admitted to the bar and been selected for prosecuting attorney by only a narrow margin now announces his candidacy for the governorship—this is not only a unique record but it shows that America is still the land of opportunity. Incidentally it shows also that the attitude of society is changing toward the man with a criminal record.

This particular man is Mr. A. L. Jennings, of Oklahoma once an outlaw in the state to whose highest office he now aspires. He is entirely frank about his past, which he explains, but does not extenuate. "I made a mistake," he says, "and defied the law. I was caught and punished, kept five years in prison, and then saw how I had been wrong to become an enemy of society. I decided to reclaim my place in the world and set about doing it."

Behind his purpose to reclaim his place in society there must have been a powerful will and great persistency, as well as the sympathetic aid of many friends. His experience ought to be an inspiration to many another unfortunate.

Efficient Housekeeping

When and How to Disinfect. Every board of health issues pamphlets filled with practical suggestions for disinfecting that are most valuable. There is a

Instructions given out by health boards are of health to the best of our knowledge, but do not destroy germs and disinfectants do not necessarily kill germs, but usually they destroy infectious and contagious diseases.

Sulphur is one of the most powerful fumigants. When this is used the fumes will destroy all life so that houses infested with insects, rodents and diseases, should be made clean. Of all fumigants sulphur is the most practical, but rooms or houses where it is to be used must be made air tight. Close every window, fasten stove draughts and open grades and fire places tight, shut and remove your dog, bird for nothing can exist in the deadly air that the burning brimstone throws forth.

Buy sulphur candles at the drugstore and place one or two in every room setting them in a tin dish or pan of water to avoid fire and dripping. Do not light until you are ready to leave the house. If you can not secure the candles moisten a cup of sulphur with alcohol put it in a deep pan and set this pan in a big bowl or tub of water before touching it with a match.

Fumigate early in the day and do not open the house until night. Get a circulation of air started as quickly as possible so the odor of the brimstone will be blown out.

For disinfecting, sewers, soil etc. dissolve a pound of copperas in a gallon of water and apply by flushing. Copper is poison. For washing blood from the hair, wash about contagious illnesses make a solution of two tablespoons of salt four ounces of sulphuric acid and a gallon of water. Do not shake the clothing in the house or out doors as this scatters disease, but put it once in a good tub with the zinc solution, if possible. Let stand an hour or until cool then wash thoroughly and dry in the sunshine.

But more important than fumigating or disinfecting after illnesses is it to be clean at all times.

Begin with the feet of your house—the cellar—if it is dry all other precautions are useless. Better go without a covering on your floor or a curtain to a window and have a well drained cellar lime washed pure and fresh with perfect cleanliness.

Remove old turnip carrot, beet, sprouting potato will germinate disease the evil spores will float into your pretty hall up into your immaculate bed rooms bringing fever and sore throats. All the fumigating and disinfecting in the world will not keep you healthy unless the cellar is well kept.

A basket of lime often renewed as it stacks in the air should be kept in the cellar and the steps shelves windows and every place not white washed or cemented should be scrubbed out every two weeks with boiling water containing salisoda or lye.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF DISTINGUISHED WOMEN

By MRS. DUDLEY FIELD MALONE, Wife of the Collector of the Port of New York.

(Copyright 1914 for The Constitution.)

Favorite recipe is for a dessert which is extremely simple both in makeup and manner of preparation, and which is also delicious. Here is:

Frozen Chocolate Pudding.

5 ounces of chocolate grated, 4 tablespoons of sugar, 1 1/2 pint of water, 1 1/2 pints of whipped cream.

Grate six ounces of chocolate add one-half pint of water and four tablespoons of sugar. Boil these together until thick and smooth and then stand aside until cold. Then mix it with the whipped cream. It may be necessary to add more sugar than is given here.

Put a tin pudding form with this mixture the edge of the cover and bury the form in cracked ice and rock salt and set it away for four hours. The candy will keep.

When ready to serve lift the form from the ice, remove the paper, wipe off the form, do not melt the candy, but serve it on a platter or dish and serve at once.

JOHNSON SIGNS TO FIGHT MORAN

Heavyweight Champion Receives Check for $35,000 for His End in Bout Next June in Paris.

Paris, January 14—"Jack" Johnson, the colored heavyweight pugilist, and Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, today signed articles for a twenty-round boxing bout for the championship of the world, to be fought on or before the Paris grand prize race, during the first or second week of June this year.

Johnson was handed a check for $35,000 by Charles MacCarthy, representing a group of American sportsmen, while Moran was guaranteed $3,000. The fight is to take place in London.

The articles were signed in the Pavilion Dauphine, in the Bois De Boulogne. Johnson arrived there in a flying machine, and was met by a number of reporters, who asked him numerous questions, one of which was his demand to be paid in advance on the amount of the check, which is not payable until the day of the fight.

Johnson agreed not to fight anybody else before meeting Moran in the ring and if the colored pugilist fails to fight he is understood to receive the sum of $5,000 for his training expenses.

Signatures to the articles were finally signed by Johnson and Moran then shook hands over the matter.

Three moving picture machines were working during the negotiations. Charles MacCarthy intimates that the group he represents which is supplying the money is actuated by the desire to see the colored pugilist champion of the world taken by a white man. The group consists of three American millionaires, including the name of the promoter, William Astor Chanler. The promoters are convinced that Moran will win.

GEORGIA'S COACH FAVORS ONE YEAR ELIGIBILITY RULE

Athens, Ga., January 14—(Special) Coach Cunningham, of the University of Georgia, returned last night from a two months' visit to his babies in Kansas City, and a trip through Oklahoma, and is looking after some property interests.

He is in favor of the one-year rule and purchased a ticket to visit the institutions which will be seriously affected by the new regulation should it be adopted by the National Amateur Athletic Union.

On the coaches the rule falls hardest, for after the season is over they are not yet counted stock in the baseball business for the coming spring, but will call a large hole, whoever else may be available.

"STORIES ABOUT STARS" Humorous and Serious Tales of the Ball Field - Number 3.

By Billy Evers. In his day Nick Altrock was one of the greatest southpaws in the business. Nickers with more put there were many, but few pitchers who could win with the consistency of Altrock. Nick always pitched with his head as well as his arm. He had a heart of oak, and a motion to first base that kept the batter guessing the bag so closely that it was next to impossible to steal on him. To sum up, Nick was a real ball player, and a pitcher with all kinds of stuff often fell, simply because they don't know how to pitch.

To the average fan of today, Altrock means nothing as a player. Nick today is purely some amusement with antics on the coaching line, and his comedy style of playing first base. They regard Altrock purely in the light of a baseball comedian, and the public course cannot be blamed for such an opinion, for it is a comedy roles now that Nick shows to advantage.

Manager Griffith, however, carries Altrock for more than his coaching ability. There is no denying the fact that he aided much in the development of Joe Mauer, the best young outpunch. He has also been of much value in taking the rough edges off the other young pitchers.

Altrock during his entire career has always been a good fellow. He has perhaps been his worst enemy. Always willing to lend aid, always a free spender, always enjoying life, Altrock has never been a miser. There are some players who, if they had made as much money as Nick, wouldn't need worry, but Nick will never give up any of the great capitalists. Perhaps nothing better illustrates this point than a remark I heard Altrock make last summer. Jack Egan was in the crowd at the Pennsylvania avenue in Washington. We bumped into Nick, who joined us. After walking a few blocks we halted in front of a fortune telling place. A fat, greasy woman attired in a dress of a million colors, was reading your palm.

Getter drop in Nick and have her tell you your fortune, suggested Egan.

"Nothing doing Jack," replied Nick. "my future is behind me. That mark made a deep impression on me, recalled the days when Altrock was a pitcher. He was a real ball player, and a pitcher with all kinds of stuff often fell, simply because they don't know how to pitch.

Altrock during his entire career has always been a good fellow. He has perhaps been his worst enemy. Always willing to lend aid, always a free spender, always enjoying life, Altrock has never been a miser. There are some players who, if they had made as much money as Nick, wouldn't need worry, but Nick will never give up any of the great capitalists.

Perhaps nothing better illustrates this point than a remark I heard Altrock make last summer. Jack Egan was in the crowd at the Pennsylvania avenue in Washington. We bumped into Nick, who joined us. After walking a few blocks we halted in front of a fortune telling place. A fat, greasy woman attired in a dress of a million colors, was reading your palm.

Getter drop in Nick and have her tell you your fortune, suggested Egan.

BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL FIVE DOWNS G. M. A. Arthur Scott's Spectacular Goal-Shooting Feature of Victors' Playing - Score Was 43 to 27.

By Carl Taylor. Arthur Scott, aided and abetted by four other members of Boys' high school basketball quintet, succeeded in downing the fast G. M. A. bunch 43 to 27. The game was played Wednesday afternoon on the Wesley Memorial court and a good crowd of enthusiasts were interested spectators.

The G. M. A. five commenced the game by playing B. M. S. off their feet and had rolled 22 points before B. H. came to life. Then the fireworks started and Scott shot five goals in rapid succession before the half. He was followed by the other four, and Johnson the two forwards, each contributed 2 points and the score at the end of the first period was 14 to 12 G. M. A. 12.

After a short rest of ten minutes hostilities again commenced. The high school five, however, this time tried to some great team work by the Purple and White, while G. M. A. seemed only to be fascinated by the brilliant and fast working of high school five. They shot eight field goals in quick order.

The G. M. A. five was going strong until the final whistle blew. Arthur Scott, playing center for Boys' high, was the star of the game. He scored 12 points, and his team nearly half the time of the game. A detailed record of the game follows:

MANDOT AND GRIFFITH IN EIGHT ROUND DRAW Stood Toe to Toe and Battled All Way, But Neither Scored Knockdown.

Windsor, Ont., January 14—Joe Mandot, of New Orleans, and Johnny Griffith, of Akron, fought a fast and fierce eight-round bout here today. The popular verdict was a draw. Griffith, using his left hand with telling effect, held a lead for six rounds, but the New Orleans lightweight rained and overcame the advantage. The standstill toe to toe and battled all the way, but neither scored a knockdown.

LARRY McLEAN GETS BONUS FROM CARDS

New York, January 14—When Larry McLean hurried into the offices of the New York National league club yesterday and signed one of the new contracts for 1914, he exhibited a check for $500 from the St. Louis club, the amount of a bonus promised him early last season if he adhered to a strict training schedule.

When Larry was transferred to the New York club toward the end of last season, the St. Louis club tried to pay the responsibility of McLean's box $5,000. The matter was a question of the National Amateur Athletic Union, and it was decided that the St. Louis club must pay the bonus.

BOB FITZSIMMONS ASKS COURT'S AID TO RE-ENTER RING

New York, January 14—Robert Fitzsimmons, 35 years of age, former heavyweight champion boxer of the world, appeared before Justice Sweeney today in the supreme court to be asked through counsel, to be permitted to reappear in the ring, a privilege denied him by the State Athletic Commission. He then returned to the ring to win, said Fitzsimmons, there will be no more foot races or tangos in the ring. What people want is some genuine boxing.

LARGER CORN SHOW PLANNED FOR ATLANTA Apple Show and Horticultural Exhibit Will Be Added for 1914 Event.

Plans for a larger corn show were laid for 1914 at the first meeting of the committee on the part of the Chamber of Commerce in the chamber quarters, in the Empire building, Wednesday afternoon.

The committee on agriculture, of which H. G. Hastings is chairman, outlined before the directors its plans for adding to the corn show an apple show and a horticultural exhibit. This met with the approval of the directors and efforts will now be made to develop these two important adjuncts of the corn show, so as to make a good showing at this year's exhibit.

Mr. Hastings has called a meeting of the committee and the directors and agriculture for 12 o'clock Friday for the purpose of going into this matter, and the horticultural committee, of which H. B. Way is the chairman, will be requested to meet in joint session in order that they may consider the enlargement of the corn show to include a horticultural exhibit and an apple show.

In this connection it was decided, on motion of V. H. Krieshaber, to extend to the Georgia Horticultural society a pressing invitation to hold its annual meeting in Atlanta, and that invitation will be presented in person by Mr. Hastings, Fred Houser, who has been elected to the position of professor of H. H. McMillan, of the chair of horticulture of the State College of Agriculture, to hold the fall meeting in Atlanta was requested to join Mr. Hastings and press Atlanta's invitation.

Francis D. Kamper, one of the new directors of the chamber, stated that the horticultural committee, appointed last year from the chamber and chamber of commerce, had failed to come to any definite agreement last year, but would continue their investigation during 1914.

H. Krieshaber, chairman of the horticultural committee, reported that the chamber came through the year 1913 without a deficit, and with good prospects for the coming season. The affairs of the Chamber of Commerce Realty company in good condition.
