Mt. Lassen, in California, Finally Erupts With Fire. One Man Is Dead and Others Are Missing.

RED-HOT ROCKS HURLED 2,000 FEET INTO THE AIR

One of These Rocks Fell on Graham and Cut Him in Two—Man Driven Insane. Flames Seen for Miles.

Redding Cal June 14.—Mount Lassen finally erupted with volcanic fire today and one man is reported killed and two driven temporarily insane as a result of the terrific outburst from the crater which had been latent for many years.

The man killed was Lansing Graham a lumber man of Volta Cal who with a party of friends ventured near the crater just before the sixth eruption this forenoon and were overwhelmed by a sudden explosion that sent a mass of rocks ashes and thick smoke 2,000 feet into the air.

A jagged rock sawed Graham nearly in two cutting off his arm and exposing his heart. He was taken to Volta a few miles distant where he died.

Hugh Addington and Hiram Blodgett are missing and a Mr. Stipple was seriously bruised and cut by rocks. Six of the party saved themselves by burying their faces in the snow and avoiding the poisonous gases which leaked from the volcano. They found Graham and Stipple after the gases had lifted.

Two new craters in addition to one blown open May 30 burst from the mountainside tonight. Fire from them was seen from roofs in various towns at considerable distances.

Tonight's eruption the seventh of the series starting May 30 was not so bad as the one today. The two new craters as nearly as could be determined are about a mile apart. They were torn in the mountainside simultaneously with the first appearance of fire.

Eruption Very Violent

Today's eruption was more violent than any since the volcanic nature of the peak became evident recently after a rest of many years and was remarkable for the quantity of smoke and mineral substance which burst from the mountain. The heavy cloud was blown northward for several miles. The entire snow capped peak has been blanketed with ashes.

I viewed the entire eruption from a point 15 miles distant, said W. J. Hinchman United States forest supervisor who is in charge of federal observations at Lassen.

The column of smoke was thrown about 2,000 feet high the height being determined by geological data. The eruption lasted half an hour.

No heavy material was thrown out so far as I could determine and there was no big noise or vibration.

There was no steam rising just before the explosion indicating that the caving sides of the crater plugged up and confined the steam which blew off the plug when sufficient pressure was generated.

No flames were omitted that were visible. At the time of the eruption there were no persons near the crater so far as is known here and the only danger for the present is in going close to the crater.

ATLANTA IS COOLED BY SUDDEN SHOWER

People Sweltered All Day Long, But Early at Night Rain Gave Relief.

A hard shower refreshed the parched and arid city about 7 o'clock last night and made life bearable after a sweltering day that sent the mercury up to 96. From 7:30 until 8 o'clock it poured in a steady torrent that drenched hurrying Palm Beach suits and drove huddling pedestrians indoors.

It also exorcised the weather man even though it was a bit off schedule. He had predicted twenty-four hours ahead that there would be rain during the afternoon. The afternoon however was sorely devoid of moisture and was one of the hottest Sundays the city has spent this season.

All hopes had practically been deserted at nightfall and the folk were forcing themselves to be content with another hot and restless night when suddenly an accommodating thunder cloud gathered overhead unleashed several streaks of lightning as advance notices and then came the rain shortly before midnight another slight drizzle came. It was nothing in comparison to the preceding downfall although it did much to prolong the refreshing temperature that prevailed throughout the night.

EVERETTE FOUND DEAD ON TRAIN AT GRIFFIN

Empty Bottle Beside Consulting Railroad Engineer From Hernando, Miss.

Griffin Ga June 14.—(Special)—Samuel Adrian Everette a consulting railroad engineer of Hernando Miss was found dead on the Central of Georgia train which reached here this afternoon at 5:25 o'clock. A three-ounce bottle which had contained a liquid smelling like chloroform was found practically empty beside him.

The conductor discovered the unconscious man as the train was approaching Griffin. The body was taken into the baggage room at the station where a physician pronounced that the man had been dead about ten minutes.

There was no note to show suicide and relatives of the dead man who have been communicated with state that they know no reasons why he should take his life.

He has a brother H. F. Everette of Doctane Ga and a mother who is living at Hernando. He was about 35 years old and unmarried.

In Everette's pockets were found a number of letters from prominent men. One from 26 Broadway New York was signed by John D. Rockefeller Jr. and another was from William Sulzer former governor of New York. He had another letter from a "Harvard" and a letter to Congressman H. D. Stephens from N. E. Willrow.

Although traveling on the Central road he had in his pocket a ticket from Atlanta to Macon over the Southern.

BOMB IS EXPLODED IN LONDON CHURCH

Outrage Work of Suffragettes—Pews and Stained Windows of St. George's Wrecked by Explosion.

London June 14.—A bomb was exploded in St. George's church square tonight. Evidence tends to show the explosion was the work of suffragettes and coming so close to the bomb damage in Westminster Abbey the destruction of this famous edifice has increased alarm as to how far the militants intend to go. Three pews and three stained windows were damaged by the explosion. The famous painting of "The Last Supper" by Sir James Thornhill which hangs over the altar was not damaged although the window above it was splintered.

Firemen found a square tin box and several pieces of candle in the overturned pew and a member of the congregation said the pew was splintered at the evening service by woman in a checked dress. On an envelope found in the church was written a protest to the torture of women. While judges of the high courts and the lord mayor were attending service in St. Paul's cathedral today suffragettes interrupted with protests against the torturing of women. The service was delayed several minutes while two women chained to seats were removed.

A crowd today overran a platform in Hyde Park where a militant flag was raised before four men who were being a hearing begin their speeches. Police took the men to a station for protection. Two meetings in Hyde Park of non-militant suffragette organizations were broken up and a large number of police force to quell the disturbances.

SMOOT DENIES STEALING MEMORIAL DAY SPEECH

Washington June 14.—Senator Smoot of Utah replying today to a charge made in Chicago that he had been guilty of plagiarism in his Memorial Day speech at Arlington National cemetery explained he had used as quotations a poem and description handed to him by an old soldier and that he had referred to them specifically as having been well said.

My attention was called today the senator said to an Associated Press reporter in which Joseph T. Darling complained in an open letter to myself that I used in my Arlington speech on Memorial day a poem of his and other parts of a speech delivered by him two years ago. I have not received the letter from Mr. Darling as yet. The facts are that an old soldier handed me the poem referred to and also the description of the battle of Gettysburg with certain comments and suggested that I use them at Arlington. I did so and in my speech as printed in the poem of public documents it will be noticed that I put the poem and description in quotation marks and before the description the words well has it been said.

I do not give Mr. Darling credit and did not claim it for myself. I will take great pleasure in answering Mr. Darling's letter as soon as received.

PHYSICIAN REFUSED TO ATTEND TO VICTIM

Trouble Was All Caused by the Doctor's Picking Up Fruit in Milner Store and Eating It.

Milner Ga. June 14.—Dr. Homer Maddox and Harry Barry are dead as a result of a gun battle fought on the street here this morning following a quarrel over one banana. An argument leading up to the tragedy began last night.

Robert Barry a brother of the dead Barry is under arrest at Zebulon accused of the murder of Dr. Maddox. According to eye witnesses of the tragedy Dr. Maddox went to the store of Barry Brothers this morning at 9:15 o'clock and insisted that Harry Barry the older of the Barry Brothers apologize for what he had said the night before.

Hot words were exchanged and it is claimed that the doctor started toward the store. He had taken only a couple of steps when it is said that Dr. Maddox opened fire with a pistol. He fired five times and every one of the bullets took effect. Barry fell dying at the entrance to the store.

Dr. Maddox jumped into his automobile before he could get away. It is said Barry's brother appeared on the scene and insisted that the doctor take care of his wounded brother. The doctor is alleged to have refused and started to drive away. The younger Barry then opened fire shooting four times at the doctor. The three bullets taking effect two of them entering his lungs and another his arm. The doctor was carried to his home where he died at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

It is claimed that Dr. Maddox picked a banana from the stem in Barry Brothers store last night. The elder Barry told his younger brother to charge it. Dr. Maddox reconstituted saying it was a small matter. This led to the argument. The Barrys formerly resided in Macon.

Last night before the rain fell J. R. Hawring of Austell Ga. and G. I. Irby of Macon Ga. were regretting the fact that they could not get a couple of cold bottles of beer.

A negro who was standing by on Market street overheard the men express their wish and in an accommodating manner volunteered to lead them to a place where they could get all they wished right off the ice.

At No. 124 Edgewood avenue there is an alley. Here the black stopped the procession and asked for some money with which to make the purchase.

Mr. Hawring pulled out some change and the negro stepped from the dark alley and threw guns into their faces.

Irby who is a young man escaped being robbed by flight. Hawring did not get an opportunity. In his trousers he had a new revolver. This was changed hands. Officers Dodd and Shumate investigated.

Passing Glimpse of Huerta

REIGN OF TERROR ENDING IN ITALY

Troops Quelling Revolutionary Movement Begun by Anarchists—Churches Sacked and Relics Secured.

Rome June 14.—With the occupation of the disaffected provinces by troops order rapidly is being restored and it is expected that within a day or two the entire district of Romagna comprising the province of Bologna Ferrara Ravenna and Forlì will have resumed normal conditions.

In the Lugo district however disturbances still are in progress owing to the non arrival of troops and at Ancona there are still signs of a content.

The general strike has come to an end and the strike of the railway men which included only a small number of employees has been called off. Workmen are returning to their tasks. Railroad telegraph and telephone lines are hurriedly being repaired. Ravenna and Rimini have again been connected by telegraph. The lines were cut five times and now are guarded by troops. The railway line between these two points has been restored by the use of military train with sharpshooters.

Blue Jackets Unarmed. Anarchists who were in command of the Italian bluejackets on their first landing at Tripoli has now under his direction the quelling of disorders at Ancona. A detachment of bluejackets from his division has reinforced the garrison there. Before landing, the admiral ordered his men that they were Italian sailors and never had endured insults either abroad or at home. When a mob attacked the station and bluejackets tried to prove their allegiance by fixed bayonets.

When the revolutionary movement began at Ancona a week ago an anarchist headed by Miatista organized a committee of thirteen members before which persons suspected of not favoring the revolutionary cause were interrogated and judged. The committee overrode their allegiance or evaded the questions.

Count Ugolini of Pesaro was seized and interrogated. The count pretended that he was the owner of the automobile and he was ordered to drive through the district accompanied by a member of the committee. He evaded the news of the advent of the republic.

Revolution Proclaimed. The anarchists published a special newspaper which they called the Brutus. The committee no longer has any type the following announcement. A revolution has broken out and is spreading through Romagna.

The Quirinii who had escaped in Ancona by the revolutionary masses but is threatened. The monarchy has been condemned and may fall today or tomorrow—certainly soon. Therefore we must advise immediately any hesitation or weakness today is cowardice treason and imbecility.

By means of this official organ reports were spread throughout the surrounding country that the revolution had been killed in Ancona. That a provisional government had been installed at Milan that Tuscany had risen and that the north had matured. Any hesitation or weakness today is cowardice treason and imbecility.

Churches Sacked. Characteristic of the destruction wrought by the revolutionists was that suffered by the little town of Alfonsine near Ravenna. There the station was reduced to ruins. The church was sacked and the contents of the sacristy and candlesticks were heaped up in the square and burned. The monastic club was treated in a similar manner. So great was the terror that the monks fled. The houses and stores were opened and the rioters invited to take what they wanted instead of pillaging them. This seemed only to add fuel to the fire and the rioters rushed to the city hall and applied the torch.

At the town of Fabriano the mob raided police headquarters and arms and helped locate the black under. The rioters then sacked the only gun shop but found only a few weapons.

TRY TO LYNCH NEGRO WHO INSULTED GIRL

Quick Arrival of Police Saves Black From Death on West North Avenue.

When Arthur Ross a big burly black of 38 West North avenue insulted Miss Bessie Jenkins of 40 Edgemont street late Sunday afternoon near the girl's home at the corner of Strong street and West North avenue, a mob of over two hundred white men quickly answered her screams and catching the black after a chase of several blocks threatened to lynch him. The arrival of the police who took the negro into custody thwarted their purpose.

A large number of negroes aided the white men in the chase of the negro and helped locate the black under a house where he had concealed himself to escape vengeance at the hands of his pursuers.

Miss Jenkins had just left her home for a short walk before sun down when she entered a court with an other black abruptly stopped her on the sidewalk near her home and threatened to lynch her. Call Officers Dodd and Shumate received a telephone call at police station that a negro was being lynched in this neighborhood and to a record run on their motorcycles, the negro owes his life.

On the Outcome of the Diplomatic Contest at Niagara Falls This Week Depends Fate of Mediation

SEARCHING FOR A MAN TO PLEASE ALL FACTIONS

United States Insists on a Constitutionalist, But Huerta Delegates Object—If Mediation Fails, It Is Said United States Will Probably Occupy Mexico City.

Niagara Falls Onto to June 14.—Although there were no offers today between the United States and the American and Mexican delegates it was said at things were making for a truce. A struggle is in progress between the United States and the Huerta government this week.

While mediation has passed safely over many obstacles the factor of which peace most depends the selection of a man in whose respectability to all factions has brought the only man in line on this mediation will succeed or fail.

Names have been suggested but this far none has been found suitable. The discussion of names will continue for several days.

The United States demands that a man to be selected ONLY SOLUTION SAYS WASHINGTON. The American government believes the only solution of the present situation is to place the executive power in the hands of a broad minded constitutionalist through a general election rather than to have the inevitable of a military conquest of Mexico City with the possibility of international complications through injuries to foreigners.

It became known today that the United States informed the mediator at the very outset that it contemplated favoring a constitutionalist for provisional president.

The American delegates have made it clear the Washington government itself has no preference for persons or parties. The Mexican delegates have argued for a neutral not identified with any faction but this the American delegates know will not pacify the constitutionalists who refuse to disband their big army in shelter of an individual not known to them. Huerta delegates have suggested names thus far.

WAITING TO HEAR FROM GEN. CARRANZA. The American delegates are waiting for the Washington government through its close communication with the constitutionalists to learn who would be acceptable to them. The rival of constitutionalist here it generally agreed would facilitate the choice of a provisional president but the mediator has closed the door to them because they have not declared an armistice.

No opportunity has come for the American government to outline its alternative course of action should mediation fail. While the United States might resume its attitude of passive observation the constitutionalists pressed onward intimation to them from well informed quarters that American occupation of Mexico City might be the ultimate outcome.

WASHINGTON STILL HOPEFUL

Washington June 14.—Admitting that Mexican mediation at Niagara Falls is at its most critical stage having reached the point where the personal of the provisional government to succeed Huerta must be selected. Washington officials tonight nevertheless were hopeful of ultimate peace and still insisted that negotiations were progressing satisfactorily.

Administration leaders were appreciative however of the importance of the developments of the next few days will have on the situation confronting the nations involved in it throughout the day. President Wilson and Secretary Bryan were in frequent communication with the American commissioners Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann at Niagara Falls.

There is nothing to announce said Mr. Bryan tonight following interchanges with the American commissioners but mediation still progressed satisfactorily. We are not changing our view of the situation.

Communication from the American delegates at Niagara Falls was reported to relate to the character of the Mexican provisional government to be established pending a constitutional election.

Differ Widely on Names. Selection of the provisional president.

dent and his associates was considered at a joint session of the mediators and commissioners of both American republics yesterday.

Today the name of a candidate for the provisional presidency suggested by the Mexicans was reported to have been submitted to President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

While the mediators are struggling with the problem of succession to Huerta there were additional evidences of efforts to bring influence on behalf of the Huerta government to bear upon the Washington mediators.

According to persons in Washington in touch with the Huerta element the agents of the dictator are making every effort now to save General Huerta's face.

Kryptok Bifocals

Why we make Kryptok Bifocals and recommend them. First of all, because of their convenience. They give Near and Far Vision in one solid glass, doing away with two pairs of glasses. They can be more perfectly ground than any other bifocal known, no ugly seams or pieces to blister or come loose. We make them in Toric or Curved form, giving a larger field both for reading and distance. Each pair is made to order, conforming to the face in every detail. Your best friend would never know you have on bifocals. They are absolutely invisible while on the face. They are a joy, not a discomfort. Ask some of our patients how they are pleased.

2-CENT RATE LAWS WILL BE AFFECTED

By Decision of U. S. Supreme Court in Shreveport Case—Roads Certain to Have Question Considered.

Washington, June 14.—(Special).—The decision of the supreme court, handed down last Monday in the Texas-Shreveport rate cases, has been construed here as one of the most important ever rendered by that body since the interstate commerce commission was organized.

Under it the railroads are assured what they have been seeking since the expansion and growth of the powers of state railway commissions, the creation of one regulatory tribunal instead of forty-nine conflicting bosses.

The two-cent passenger rate laws of all the states are indirectly affected by this decision. The time may come, and that soon, when the interstate commerce commission may hold that a two-cent rate fare for a trip by rail entirely within one state, lays a burden upon interstate commerce, and force the roads to desist from this discrimination.

Case of the Southern.
Take the Southern railroad between Washington and New Orleans. An interstate passenger pays at the rate of three cents a mile for transportation over this road. Under the state laws of Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, the road is required to haul passengers on these interstate trains to points entirely within each state, for 2 cents a mile.

Leaving Atlanta, a passenger could travel to Decatur for 2 cents a mile. If he crosses the line into South Carolina, he must pay 3 cents for the entire distance. The same thing would be true if he bought a ticket in Atlanta for Montgomery or New Orleans, but he could travel to any point in West Point and only pay 2 cents.

A passenger leaving Washington for a point in southern Virginia, pays 2 cents a mile. If he crosses the river to Alexandria by boat and buys a ticket there, the road is forced to haul the same passenger at the 2-cent rate.

There is no indication yet that such a move is contemplated, but the question will undoubtedly be raised in time.

The supreme court, in the decision rendered by Associate Justice Hughes, says that the federal constitution lodged in congress exclusive control over interstate commerce. The object of this was to prevent local communities impeding and harassing the free movement of commerce between the states.

There is nothing new in that. It has been held since the days of John Marshall and Roger B. Taney. The high court on Monday simply applied the old legal principle to modern conditions.

The decision discussing the relative power of state and federal authorities, was not unexpected. It had been looked for in the Minnesota rate case decision.

Here is the difference between the Minnesota decision and the Texas rate decision. In the former case the court upheld the state statute since the federal authority had not acted. In the Texas case, the interstate commerce commission had taken jurisdiction and ordered the interstate railroads not to discriminate against Shreveport, La., and in favor of the industries and commerce of Texas.

History of Texas Case.
The decision by the interstate commerce commission in the Texas case was written by Commissioner Lane, now secretary of the interior in Wilson's cabinet. It held that the state railway commission of Texas, by its regulation of the vast stretches of road in that state, was attempting to build up Texas points at the expense of Shreveport, just across the line. Rates from Houston and Dallas toward Shreveport were much lower than those to points in other parts of the state. Rates for the same distance from Shreveport into Texas were also lower than rates for the same distance from Shreveport into Louisiana.

Of course, a rate in one direction is not a rate in the other. The reasonableness of a rate for a mile of the same distance in the opposite direction has an influence, but other factors must be taken into consideration.

The court held, however, that here was a case where regulation of rates entirely within the state laid a burden upon interstate commerce. The roads were caught in this predicament. To comply with the interstate commerce commission's order, they would have been forced to reduce interstate rates to the level of the rates prescribed by the state commission. To ignore the order would have meant discriminating against interstate commerce, they would have had to ignore the orders of the state commission and raise interstate rates.

Congress Not the State.
Discussing this question the supreme court said:
"Wherever the interstate and intrastate transportation of carriers is so related that the government of the one involves the control of the other, it is congress, and not the state, that is entitled to prescribe the final and dominant rule, for otherwise the exercise of its paramount power would be denied the exercise of its constitutional authority, and the state, and not the nation, would be supreme within the national field."

"While these decisions sustaining the federal power in interstate commerce, adopted in the interest of the safety of persons and property, they illustrate the principle that congress has the exercise of its paramount power may prevent the common instrumentalities of interstate and intrastate commercial intercourse from being used in their intrastate operations to the injury of interstate commerce."

"The principle is applicable here. We find no reason to doubt that congress is entitled to keep the highways of interstate communication open to interstate traffic upon fair and equal terms. This is the principle which is embodied in the rates of a common carrier, under which one person or locality is not to be favored over another under substantially similar conditions of traffic, constitutes an evil is undeniable, and where this evil is the action of an interstate carrier in reasonably discriminating against interstate traffic over its line, the authority of congress to prevent it is equally clear."

It is also to be noted—the government has well said in its argument in support of the interstate rates—that the power to deal with the relation between the two kinds of rates, a relation, lies exclusively with congress.

Must Supply Correction.
"It is manifest that the state cannot fix the relation of the carrier's interstate and intrastate rates without directly interfering with the former, unless it simply follows the standard set by federal law."

"It is for congress to supply the needed correction where the congressionally established interstate and intrastate rates presents the evil to be corrected, and this it may do completely by reason of its control over interstate carrier in all matters having such a close and substantial relation to interstate commerce that it is necessary or appropriate to exercise the control for the effective government of that commerce."

"It is also clear that, in removing the injurious discriminations against interstate rates, congress will not reduce the latter below what it may deem to be a proper standard fair to the carrier and to the public. Otherwise it could prevent the injury to interstate commerce only by the sacrifice of interstate rates to intrastate rates. Congress is entitled to maintain its own standard as to these rates and to forbid any discriminatory action by interstate carriers which will obstruct the freedom of movement of interstate traffic over their lines in accordance with the terms it establishes."

"Having this power, congress could provide for its execution through the aid of subordinate bodies, and we conclude that the order of the commission now in question cannot be held invalid upon the ground that it exceeded the authority which congress could lawfully confer."

THREE ARRESTS MADE ON HOLD-UP CHARGES

Two Negro Men and One Negro Woman Are Identified by C. J. O'Farrell.

One negro woman and two negro men, as a result of the series of daring hold-ups which kept the Atlanta police busy throughout Saturday, are under arrest at police headquarters, charged with being highway robbers.

C. J. O'Farrell, of 72 Capitol avenue, who was attacked on East Mitchell street, near Lewis Candy company, by two negro men and a negro woman, while on his way home late Saturday night, gave a good description to the plainclothes men of his assailants, who fled when he yelled for help.

The descriptions fit three negroes who reside in the rear of 21 Piedmont avenue, who are police characters.

Sergeant George Bullard, of the plainclothes squad, raided this place late Sunday afternoon, and arrested the three negroes.

They were carried down to police headquarters where Lizzie Jones, a negro living at 26 Orange street, identified two negro men, Henry Johnson and James Bell, in the raid, and were positively identified by O'Farrell as the negroes who tried to rob him.

The police believe that the negroes will be identified by a number of other hold-up victims of Saturday's daring robberies.

In the raid on 21 Piedmont avenue, 24 pints of "blind liker" whiskey was found, and the additional charge of running a blind liquor will have to be faced by the negroes.

25 Diplomas Awarded Sunday School Pupils At Jewish Alliance

The Jewish Educational Alliance Sunday school held their first annual commencement exercises last night at the Alliance auditorium, and presented a class of twenty-five with diplomas.

About 400 people were present at the exercises, 250 of whom were children.

The program was opened by a prayer by Miss Esther Barnett, aged 10 years, whose solo was rendered by Oscar Gerson, and violin selection given by Miss Frieda Landers, accompanied by Miss Lena Spier.

Colonel M. G. Michael, of Athens, Ga., delivered the commencement address, which was a fine discourse. It was introduced by M. Lichtenstein. Colonel Michael is chairman of the Jewish Alliance Lecture bureau of the University of Georgia.

The diplomas were delivered by H. Joseph Hyman, superintendent of the Alliance Sunday school. A number of prizes were awarded to the best scholars in Hebrew.

HONOR PAID TO FLAG BY ELKS OF ATLANTA

Governor John M. Slaton Delivers Eloquent Address at Forsyth Theater.

In song and story and with impressive ceremonies the birth of the American flag was celebrated by the Elks of Atlanta at the Forsyth theater last night.

The theater was beautifully decorated in American colors. Special music was furnished by Mathieson's orchestra. The public attended the exercises, and participated by singing, "The Star Spangled Banner," "America" and "Auld Lang Syne."

The principal address of the evening was an oration by Governor John M. Slaton. The governor laid particular and eloquent emphasis upon the democracy of the American flag and the ideals it should stand for and associations it should bear in each man's mind. "The flags of other nations," he declared, "are flags of monarchs, kings and emperors, but the American flag is yours, the flag of the people. To each man the flag should be associated with home, and liberty, and fidelity, and courage, and all things that are dear to a true American."

The history of the American flag, from the days of the first flag with the famous pine tree designed by the pioneers of the Mayflower in 1620 to the flag of the thirteen stripes and stars of the thirteen states, was told by Ross, Philadelphia, and through all the changes of the national emblem down to the present form was told by E. E. Lockburn.

Flourish music was paid to the flag by W. P. Andrews.

The significance of the flag to the Order of EL was impressively told in the ceremony of the officers of the organization.

Vocal selections were rendered by Frank Wheat, Solon Drukenmiller and the Steinhilf Comedy Four.

Crime Wave Usually Follows Heat Wave, Asserts Dr. Proctor

"The Kind of Religion That Can Stand the Heat" was the subject of the sermon to which Rev. H. H. Proctor treated his people at the First Congregational church, colored, last night in the midst of the hot wave.

Here is a close relation," he said, "between the heat of the sun and the heat which affects the body affects the soul and vice versa. Heat tends to weaken the body and undermine the will. The crime wave usually follows the heat wave of the earth, the most lawless which have achieved the most live in the temperate zone. And yet the best man the world ever saw lived in a hot climate, and fought out his great career in the heat of the sun, the lowest habitable point on the globe. It is, therefore, clear that while heat affects the character it can not determine it. It is will power that determines character, and religion is the great power that strengthens the will.

"The kind of religion that can stand the heat is the common sense type which adapts the body to the temperature. Use water liberally inside and out. Take nature's hint, and eat less meat at this season. Stay out of doors a great deal. Keep busy, and keep your mind off that heat. Make up your mind that the heat is your friend, preparing the earth to bring forth food and clothing for man. Cultivate in this season the best side of the Christian life, and read, meditate and pray a great deal. Refuse to give way to anger and do not worry. Exercise self-control and keep calm."

WILKE MAKES ADDRESS TO LOCAL SOCIALISTS

Max Wilke, of August, Ga., state secretary of the socialist party of Georgia, addressed the members Sunday afternoon at the labor temple on Trinity avenue.

Mr. Wilke declared that the present social conditions across out of the earth's enlightenment of the people in economics. He said that originally captives taken in wars were killed and kept food for the family, but man later came to see that by putting his captives to work in the field, even more food could be had and the captives' usefulness would not end in the pot.

AUGUSTA V ATLANTA
A few days ago The Constitution drew attention to the manner in which the enterprise of Tifton, in the matter of use of her municipal credit, put the city of Atlanta to shame.

Augusta voted recently on a $750,000 bond issue for the completion of the city levee to control the flood waters of the Savannah river and the city hospital.

So impressed was one citizen of Augusta with his civic duty in the premises that he had himself, sick and disabled taken to the polls on a stretcher that he might vote for bonds.

We talk, justly about the 'Atlanta spirit'. The 'Augusta spirit' seems either to run it a close second, if it does not get just a little bit better.

We commend the 'Augusta spirit' to Atlanta. We also commend to the true friends of this city the wisdom of forthwith organizing for a campaign before the legislature that shall amend the constitution so that a city's credit can be used by three fourths of the votes cast instead of as at present three fourths of the votes registered.

Within a few weeks the legislature will be in session. Atlanta would have the support of many cities in a movement to submit a constitutional amendment vitalizing the change suggested.

So, the story runs he returned a 'tactical, but uncommittal, reply.' Just what the nature of that reply was we confess to a curiosity. It must have been a work of art, for the Colonel can be vociferously reticent when he wishes.

So far as Schumann Heink is concerned, it is of tolerably clear record that she has not taken advantage of the rarified atmosphere in which she dwells to perpetrate the moral idiosyncrasies popular a decade ago.

SIGNAL TRIUMPH WON BY WILSON

In Securing Repeal of Tolls Exemption—Opposed by Jingoos Who Sought to Raid U. S. Treasury.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 14. (Special)—President Wilson achieved a signal triumph in securing the repeal by congress of the Panama canal toll subsidy.

It was a moral victory. It was a complete vindication of the president's position. It was a notice to the world that the United States solemnly regards its treaty obligations. The effect of a great nation living up to its contracts, solemnly entered into, and refusing to indulge in sharp practices or narrow constructive to escape the responsibility of its acts, is an example to men and to nations.

Mistaken Policy.

President Wilson appeared before congress on March 5 last, and urged that a "mistaken economic policy" be changed; that an act which was "in plain contravention of the treaty with Great Britain" be repealed.

The speech was not over 300 words long. Its delivery required not more than three minutes. But it set great machinery in motion, interests affecting our trade and commerce were involved. The coastwise shipping monopoly saw a valuable privilege about to be swept from its grasp.

Appeal to Congress.

For the repeal of the Panama canal toll exemption, President Wilson waited. Not another word has he uttered on the subject. There was no resort to the big stick. Moral suasion was tried and found to be effective.

In taking this position, which drew in the face of the national platform of his party on which he was elected, the president showed his historic attitude of political leadership and the success of his party at the polls next November. But the arguments of political expediency failed to deter him when he reached the conclusion, after full and mature consideration, that his party had been mistaken in granting further favors to the coastwise shipping monopoly, and that he had been mistaken in upholding that course.

Hard Act Performed.

He performed the hardest act known to the moral law—frank admission of an error and an earnest attempt to right the wrong. He has given an example of honest dealing which should serve as an example to all his countrymen.

There were those who prated of party infidelity, there were those who, under the guise of living up to a party pledge, would have had the demagogue's historic attitude and grant a subsidy which is violative of all democratic principles.

Others indulged in mere protest and went over what they termed a base surrender to Great Britain. Their Americanism consisted in taking from the public treasury money which belonged to all the people and giving it in favor of the jingoos, who are already favored under their country's laws.

To exempt American coastwise ships from the payment of tolls for the use of the canal, was just as much a subsidy as to take their money with one hand and bestow it with the other to a favored class.

Using the argument that the public would benefit from lower freight rates if our coastwise ships were allowed to go through the canal free, demagogues urged that the repeal of the protective tariff. The old doctrine of protection is based on the fact that if we make the manufacturers prosper, they will permit their employees to share in that prosperity. It doesn't always work out that way, but that is the theory.

A knowledge of the method by which transcontinental freight rates are fixed, shows the fallacy of expecting much reduction in rates from permitting ships to earn larger dividends. But that is another story.

Jingoos All Oppose Wilson.

It is only the absolute truth to say that the ablest, the sanest and most patriotic men in both the senate and house stood with the president. Narrow partisanship was forgotten by the members of the republican side.

Senator "not of New York, admittedly the ablest man in the public life of his party, and one of the greatest intellects of his time, earnestly supported the repeal. Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, who measures up to the highest standards of statesmanship, stood by the president. Senator Burton of Ohio, a profound student of a man of irreproachable character and sterling Americanism, was unreservedly in favor of abiding by our treaty obligations.

"We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we are right or wrong," said the president. In the interest of peace and national tranquility a method has been provided for the settlement of the settlement of just such controversies between nations. The late lamented Senator Bacon of Georgia, was one of the first to call attention to the fact that we were pledged to submit this dispute to arbitration, if we insisted upon the right to exempt the ships of our own citizens. But without waiting the result of such a judicial determination, congress repealed the offensive act.

Campaign of the Jingoos.

In a forceful editorial Friday morning on the happy outcome of the controversy, the New York World said: "It has been a campaign that appealed to the deepest and most reprehensible instincts of jingoism. It has been a campaign both of fraud and falsehood. It has been a campaign to cloak under the American flag a raid on the United States treasury, and to a truly patriotic citizen, that is about the meanest and most contemptible of all forms of treason.

"It is highly significant that every notorious demagogue and blatherer in the United States senate was violently in opposition to the president on the canal-toll issue.

"It is equally significant that every notorious and blatherer newspaper was violently in opposition to the president on this issue.

Of course there were a few representative members of congress and some decent and respectable newspapers who honestly differed with the president, but these were in the minority. The victory was one of honesty.

The victory was one of honesty.

MINOLA M'KNIGHT

MYSTERIOUSLY CUT

Witness in the Frank Case Refuses to Tell How She Was Injured.

Minola McKnight, wife of Albert McKnight, both of whom were witnesses in the Frank trial, was severely cut across the face last night by a party whose name the woman refused to disclose.

Minola resides in the back of 383 Washington street, which is the home of Louis Pickard. Call officers from police station were summoned to her residence last night and found a physician attending her. A 5-inch cut was across her face.

The McKnight woman was the cook in the Frank home. According to the story told by her husband, she said that Frank was very nervous on the night of the murder and said he had had some trouble with a girl at the factory. Later the defense claimed that she had been coerced into making an affidavit for the state by detectives, and that the story of McKnight was absolutely without foundation. Minola also stated that she never told her husband any such story and that it was a fabrication on his part.

But having made his appeal to the congressmen except A. F. Lever, in the Seventh district, have opposition in the Seventh district, have opposition in the Seventh district.

SECEDING UNION MEN ARE USING DYNAMITE

Rebels Are Making It Hot for Butte Officials of Western Federation.

Butte, Mont., June 14.—Rioting by seceding members of the local union of the Western Federation of Miners continued all last night and today, but with the announcement tonight that Governor S. W. Stewart would arrive before morning to investigate the situation, some semblance of order was restored.

After dynamiting and looting the safe of the local union last midnight, many of the 2,000 revolutionists against extra assessments and the card system of the union continued to parade the streets. Dynamite was exploded near the home of F. K. Sullivan, an officer of the miner's union, and seceders vowed a new union would be formed under the leadership of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Although several hundred miners returned to work today, many disorderly persons kept up riotous tactics. In the afternoon a crowd took two prisoners from the city jail and later seized a fire truck. A false alarm of fire had been turned in and firemen were run the fire apparatus through the crowd.

The insurgent miners scrambled on the truck and threw the fire fighters off. When the miners found that they could not operate the vehicle they returned it to the firemen with a warning not to run it through a crowd again.

Delegations were sent to fire stations with a demand that the fire department make sure there was a fire before answering any alarm. The crowd also broke several windows and did $2,000 damage to one fire station. Threats were made to lynch deputy Sheriff Owen Cribben and Martin Harkins, but the officers were guarded by the police, who arrested two men. The policemen with drawn revolvers backed down an alley with their prisoners beside the deputies. They got safely to the jail, but the crowd became so menacing that Chief of Police Joseph Murray ordered the prisoners released. The rioters carried the two men away on their shoulders.

A delegation visited the three newspaper offices and demanded further mention be made derogatory to the Industrial Workers of the World and that the words "union busters" should not appear in any story of the situation.

The remainder of the day was spent in parading the streets until members of the newly appointed executive committee of the insurgent union constituting themselves a law and order committee informed the marchers that no more disorder would be tolerated. The committee finally dispersed the miners.

All saloons ordered closed yesterday remained with doors locked for the first Sunday in many years.

Acting Mayor Frank Curran, who was thrown out of a window and injured while trying to pacify the mob that wrecked the federation's headquarters yesterday is resting easy in a hospital tonight.

SERVICES IN MEMORY OF MRS. H. C. WHITE

Chicago, June 14.—Delegates to the general Federation of Women's clubs rested today, except for a memorial service in honor of members who died during the last two years. Among those so remembered were Mrs. C. White of Georgia, and Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, of New York.

The delegates face three more days of work, concluding Wednesday night. Tomorrow the nominating committee will meet. Mrs. Percy V. Pennacker of Austin, Texas, will receive the traditional second term as president, but for lesser offices, some contests are expected. The election will be held Tuesday.

Subjects which remain to be discussed include home economic, public health, industrial and social conditions, civics, conservation and the internal affairs of the federation.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL FOR THE WATER LINES

Washington, June 14.—As a sequel to the house merchant marine committee's extended investigation of shipping combinations, Representative Alexander, of Missouri, tomorrow will introduce a bill to bring water transportation in both foreign and domestic commerce under comprehensive government supervision. The bill would preserve to shippers advantages arising from permitting carriers in any given trade to co-operate through some form of rate and traffic arrangement and at the same time prevent present abuses.

The bill proposes that the interstate commerce commission be increased to eleven members and be authorized to pass judgment on all agreements as to rates and service which, when approved, are to be exempted from anti-trust laws. It would authorize the commission to supervise all traffic or rate associations to which any water, interstate common carrier, or party, it outlines discriminatory practices which are branded unlawful.

Water carriers reducing their rates below a fair basis to injure a competitor would not be permitted to increase those rates except on showing that conditions aside from the elimination of competition.

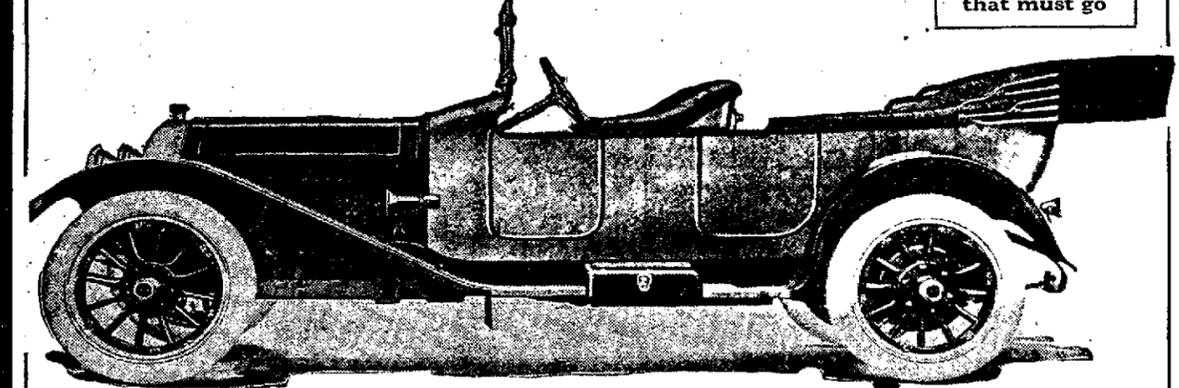

Broad powers are given the interstate commerce commission to determine maximum and reasonable charges. For any railroad to discriminate between a rail and water route as compared with an all-rail route, would be declared unlawful, and railroads would be prohibited from acquiring any interest, directly or indirectly, in any canal in the United States, or in any common carrier of forwarding company on any such canal, unless the acquisition was approved by the commission.

Read What Large Users of Daily Newspaper Space Over the Country Say of "Go-Fans" and of the Value of Morning Newspaper Advertising

H. A. PORTER,
Advertising Manager Pepsin Syrup Co., Monticello, Ill.

"The statistics presented in your little story in verse are mighty interesting, and in several instances especially pertinent. My opinion on the value of the morning newspaper in Atlanta for advertising purposes is perhaps best evidenced by the fact that for a number of years I have been more or less active in connection with the spending of real money for advertising space in its columns, and after all is said, that is really the crucial test of the value of an opinion."

W. F. FAIRBROTHER,
Manager Advertising Dept. Standard Paint Co., New York.

"I consider your booklet one of the cleverest things of its kind which has ever been drawn to my attention."

M. M. GILLAM,
Gillam's Service—Advertising and Business Building, New York.

"That 'Go-Fans' device certainly sows the seeds of doubt as to what the evening papers—poor things—are coming to. You have it in the slickest manifestation of an effort to influence by suggestion that I ever encountered in the newspaper field. * * * I like all of these novel and unexpected things. They show that gray matter is in motion—and that always means a step up and on."

FOLEY & CO.,
Proprietary Medicines, Chicago.

"We feel like crowding grateful thanks on you for the little booklet just received, which we have all read with interest and appreciation of its unique character, its convincing logic and its valuable information."

R. S. CHEEK,
Secretary Cheek-Neal Coffee Co., Nashville, Tenn.

"I consider your 'Go-Fans' a fine advertisement for morning papers, and must say it has given me some pointers and arguments in their favor that I have not had before."

J. F. MURRAY,
General Manager Advertisers' Cut Service, New York.

"Your book of sketches is certainly well put together. 'Ain't It The Truth' expresses our opinion in four words."

H. L. STAPLES,
General Advertising and Outdoor Publicity, Richmond, Va.

"Your 'Go-Fans' is a very cleverly prepared booklet and one which should be of substantial benefit to The Constitution."

ROBT. B. JOHNSTON,
Experienced Advertising Man, and Recently with J. C. McMichael, Atlanta.

"Heartily congratulations on your 'Go-Fan' booklet. It is the nicest thing of its kind I have seen in a good long while. Every page is a 'knock-out' for morning papers in general and The Constitution in particular."

JOSEPH E. BAUER,
Advertising, New York.

"It's a 'brick'—and perhaps better than all superlatives that I might string into a compliment, is the fact that I'd like to know the address of the author. May I have it?"

R. S. ABBOTT,
Manager Atlanta Branch Ford Motor Co.

"Your book has been thoroughly 'digested.' It is the first real 'wire proposition' that I have seen from any of our Atlanta newspapers, and I am sure that it will be quite a boost to you."

FRED HOUSER,
Secretary Atlanta Convention Bureau.

"I read your book with a great deal of pleasure and want to congratulate you. It is great."

ILIFF M. SIMPSON,
President Simpson, Showalter & Barker, Advertising, Pittsburg.

"The presentation in your booklet is a very effective chalk-talk of conditions that may not only apply to Atlanta, but also to a great many other cities and towns throughout the country. The moral of the primer is very effectively and convincingly handled."

"We assure you of the fact that the writer will always have a doubt in his mind in regard to Atlanta being anything but a morning town, and that it will take a great deal of convincing argument to overcome the work that a few minutes' perusal of your book accomplished."

He Is Wondering Why There Are Any Evening Papers Published At All

HENRY WEBB,
Newspaper and Magazine Advertising, Dayton, Ohio.

"I read your booklet with a great deal of interest, and after reading it I am wondering why there are any evening papers published at all. You certainly give several forceful reasons why the morning field at this psychological time is the 'one best bet' for advertisers, and it will make many advertisers sit up and take notice."

"To be frank with you, I have been a partisan of the evening field, but you have partially won me over to your views. * * * These views are expressed in all sincerity."

Morning Papers Gave Twice Returns Of Those Given By Evening Papers

D. D. LYNCH,
Advertising Manager L. L. May & Co., St. Paul, Minn., one of the Largest Seed Houses in the United States.

"Your little brooch is tersely written and artfully sketched. * * * During my thirty-five years' active work as advertising manager for some of the largest houses on the American continent, I have always given the morning daily a preference over the evening paper. There is no question but what the morning daily is the organ of the well-to-do and comfortably fixed buying middle class, while the evening paper is taken by the laboring class, as a general rule. I have tried the morning daily and the evening paper, with the same copy to each, checked up the results given, and I have always found that the morning daily gave nearly twice the returns of those given by the evening paper; and, sometimes, more than twice the results. "As late as this year, in the use of the big dailies all over the United States (The Constitution included) and the Dominion of Canada for May's northern grown seeds, the morning dailies outstripped the evening papers in actual results."

WM. FISHER,
First Vice Pres. C. F. Blanke Tea & Coffee Co., St. Louis, Mo.

"Your book of sketches and poems highly appreciated by the writer; also by our Mr. C. F. Blanke. He expresses his appreciation of the fact that it is the best thing he has ever seen gotten up on such a celebrated matter, which is now being practiced by nearly all the people."

SEIG. MARGON,
Member Advertising Agency of Thos. E. Basham Co., Louisville, Ky.

"I have read with a great deal of interest what you have to say in your illustrated 'Outburst.' It appears to me you have taken a punch at the evening papers. * * * I want to say it is a great stunt."

Business Manager Florida Citrus Exchange, Tampa, Fla.

"I have received copy of your book of sketches and poems. It is mirthful, witty, sarcastic, sad, and the truth, and presents an entirely new line of reasoning as to why the morning paper is the superior medium."

W. W. ORR,
Secretary-Treasurer George Muse Clothing Co., Atlanta.

"Your booklet strikes me as being very attractive, and a forcible way of presenting your argument for the morning newspaper."

ST. ELMO MASSENGALE,
President Massengale Advertising Agency, Atlanta.

"Your booklet is thoroughly unique, attractive and up-to-the-minute, and I heartily congratulate you."

G. A. LEWIS,
President the Lewis Agency, Washington, D. C.

"I must say that you have applied a prevalent habit to a very good account in behalf of morning newspaper advertising."

JAMES O'SHAUGHNESSY,
O'Shaughnessy Adv. Co., Chicago.

"Your book of sketches and poems is the first good argument I have seen in favor of the morning paper as against the evening paper in recent times. I congratulate you on producing such an effective piece of advertising."

CHARLES M. STEELE,
Vice Pres. The Carl M. Green Co., Advertising Agents, Detroit.

"Please accept my thanks for the book of sketches and poems. This is a very clever piece of work, and I certainly appreciate having it."

H. W. ANDERSON,
Advertising Manager Maier & Berkele, Atlanta.

"There is a great deal of creative force in your book. In analyzing my own case, I find that I have spent every evening but one during the past week attending theater parties, dances, banquets, etc. It is mighty good dope."

JOSEPH A. SCHLESINGER,
Advertising Manager for Harry L. Schlesinger, Atlanta.

"I certainly wish to compliment you and Mr. Wagstaff upon the way your booklet is gotten up and the general tone of it. It is an excellent business viewpoint also."

JOSEPH A. SCHLESINGER,
Advertising Manager for Harry L. Schlesinger, Atlanta.

"I certainly wish to compliment you and Mr. Wagstaff upon the way your booklet is gotten up and the general tone of it. It is an excellent business viewpoint also."

VICTOR H. YOUNG,
New York, One of the Best Known Men in the Advertising Profession, and One of Its Best Space Buyers.

"I have not had time to read your new booklet very carefully, but from what I have seen of it so far, it seems to be the most unique thing of its kind that I have ever seen. It certainly should prove to be a winner."

H. B. STORM,
Assistant Advertising Manager United Drug Co., Boston.

"Your little booklet is very clever indeed, and I think the argument well taken as to the value of the morning paper."

JOSEPH L. MARENTETTE,
Atlanta Manager Consolidated Film and Supply Company.

"We must admit that after thoroughly digesting the very reasonable arguments set forth in the 'Go-Fans' we are disposed to change our former opinion and express ourselves as fully convinced as to the logic of your discussion; and when on top of this we obtain the most unexpected results with the Lucille Love series, there is no further doubt in our mind as to the efficiency of your publication."

B. R. MONTGOMERY,
Montgomery Advertising Co., Jacksonville, Fla.

"Have read your little booklet with a great deal of interest, and although I have been in the newspaper business for twenty years, have not seen any strong arguments like yours presented before in behalf of the morning paper; the busy business man could read it quickly and it still fills him full of thought—the illustrations brought the subject home in a very forcible manner."

T. C. SHEEHAN,
Vice President Durham Duplex Razor Co., Jersey City.

"I read your little book with a great deal of interest. I went from page to page wondering what it was all about. Finally, when I got to the resume, I was satisfied that you had made it a ten-strike."

J. S. OLIVER,
Advertising Manager Evansville Brewing Association.

"You certainly are taking advantage of your very best 'talking point' in the most novel manner. For a long while I have been under the impression that evening publications had the edge on the morning papers when it came to a selection between the two. Your 'Go-Fans' argument puts the matter in an entirely new light to me and your claims are certainly logical enough. "My impression is that the average person who will read this booklet will exclaim the same as I did, 'That's right, but I never thought of it.'"

HENRY W. LAIRD,
Practical Newspaper Man, now in Charge of Publicity Department of the Southern States Life Insurance Co.

"The 'Go-Fans' is a great piece of advertising literature. I am charmed with it. As a result of reading its pages I have an entirely new impression of the value of the morning paper. It has been my opinion, and others have held the same, that the afternoon paper is read in the bosom of the family, while the lights are shaded, the father in slippers and the mother plying her needle. "But there is, as you point out, a new order of things. No longer does the pater indulge his comfort-loving ideas and sit around. Instead, as 'Go-Fans' indicate, he squeezes into the pump and the dance shoe, and hies away to the tango and the trot. Or, it is the movie and the vaudeville, the cool park or the auto. "And I can see how the afternoon paper suffers neglect, and is superseded by the later morning sheet, which the wife and mother gets time to look over after breakfast."

FRANK J. FAHEY,
Treasurer Gillette Safety Razor, Boston, Mass.

"As an exposé of the present attitude of at least two-thirds of the inhabitants of this grand old U. S. A., your advertising booklet is undoubtedly true to life. Also it presents, very neatly, your argument as to the advantage, from an advertising standpoint, of using the morning rather than the evening papers."

C. C. PORTER,
Vice President Taylor-Critchfield Co., Advertising, Chicago.

"I think the subtle idea conveyed in your booklet, that with the people tango mad, the morning paper is the logical one, is certainly very clever."

E. E. BULLIS,
Lord & Thomas, Advertising, Chicago.

"I have read every word of your booklet. It is certainly a novel, and I believe, forceful way of presenting the claims of a morning publication. If I am not greatly mistaken this unique piece of advertising literature will have considerable more effect than the hackneyed presentation of the morning paper against the evening paper."

GEORGE H. ELY,
Treasurer Charles H. Fuller Co., Advertising, Chicago.

"Your booklet just received and is very interesting. There is a whole lot of truth in it. Everybody picks it up that comes into my office, and they all think you have hit the nail on the head."

W. J. MORTON, JR.,
A Most Successful New York Advertiser, Who Has Directed the Campaign of Kops Bros. for Nemo Corsets.

"I think your booklet is a little different from anything I have ever seen before, since I was originally created. It certainly will draw attention to the 'Bible of Georgia.'"

CHARLES VAN GUNTEN,
Director of Advertising for Ed. Pinard.

"I consider your book of 'Go-Fans' exceedingly clever. You make a very strong case for the morning paper, and I think your points are well taken."

H. M. KAHLER,
Manager The Proctor & Collier Co., Advertising Agents, New York.

"It is a relief to get something a little out of the deadly routine of soliciting letters which clog the mails every morning, and your pungent verses are a welcome bit of variety."

VICTOR H. YOUNG,
New York, One of the Best Known Men in the Advertising Profession, and One of Its Best Space Buyers.

"I have not had time to read your new booklet very carefully, but from what I have seen of it so far, it seems to be the most unique thing of its kind that I have ever seen. It certainly should prove to be a winner."

H. B. STORM,
Assistant Advertising Manager United Drug Co., Boston.

"Your little booklet is very clever indeed, and I think the argument well taken as to the value of the morning paper."

J. A. DAIR,
Advertising Manager The Mobile Register.

"I thank you very much for sending me the book of sketches and poems, and I assure you that it is not only interesting, but it is intelligently compiled and materially beneficial to any advertising solicitor in the morning field, and advertisers likewise, for it illustrated very decidedly the vast difference between the morning and evening mediums to the credit of the former to a marked degree."

C. W. BROOKS,
Southern Advertising Manager Orange-Judd Co.

"I have read with much interest your little booklet dedicated to the 'Go-Fans.' This certainly is something entirely new in the way of ideas, and I believe it presents in a very forcible way the arguments of the morning newspaper. In fact, it has impressed it on my mind more clearly than it ever has been impressed before. I want to congratulate you on same."

E. H. GOODHART,
President Ad Men's Club of Atlanta.

"I have just received your booklet and I certainly enjoyed its pages of catchy and witty matter. * * * It is truly timely and right up to the last tick of the clock."

WALTER S. KIDDER,
Vice President Hayner Distilling Co., Dayton, O.

"This is to acknowledge receipt of book of sketches. It is a very cleverly conceived and executed idea, with more truth than poetry embodied in it. * * * Not only is it clever from a standpoint of a true portrayal of existing conditions, but it is very convincing from an advertising standpoint."

J. N. KENYON,
Kendon Man'g' Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

"Your book of sketches and poems received and read. My opinion is that it gives a fellow something to think about."

Thought All Atlantans Joy-Abstaining; "Go-Fans" Upset All These Traditions

JOSEPH H. PHINNEY,
Director of Advertising for W. B. Corsets, and one of the Best Known Men in the Advertising World.

"A careful perusal of your book of 'pomes' entirely reverses my opinion of the home-staying character of the good Atlantans, whom I had heretofore pictured in my mind as a class of quiet, home-loving, joy-abstaining, amusement-decrying and thrifty citizens; but, alas, your little book entirely upsets all these traditions, and it appears therefrom that the contrary is the condition. * * * Seriously, I think if the condition mentioned is prevalent, your argument in favor of advertising in the morning edition of The Constitution is an uncontrollable argument in its favor, and I am glad that your subtle persistency, kind personality, and our long-time friendship, was sufficient to induce me to partake of all these good things provided by The Atlanta Constitution and obtain for W. B. Corsets its wonderful influence during the early morning hours in which its readers were endeavoring to recuperate from the previous night's distraction."

H. W. FAIRFAX,
Advertising, New York.

"I thought your booklet so clever and unique that I took it home to show it to several friends. I had a hard time keeping it. Kindly mail me a few copies."

Advertising Manager The Southern Ruralist, Atlanta.

"Where Are You Going This Evening?" is, according to my humble opinion, undoubtedly the cleverest piece of newspaper advertising that has ever been sent out to advertise a newspaper. I have read over the little booklet several times, and each time I have been thankful that I happen to be a farmer, instead of the advertising manager of an evening paper."

S. O. KEALEY,
Treasurer and Business Manager Erie (Pa.) Dispatch.

"The idea is very clever, indeed, and it seems to present the facts just as they are."

LEO. FEIST,
Publisher, New York.

"Very many thanks for the book of sketches and poems. Think it clever from every viewpoint."

F. J. PAXON,
Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Atlanta.

HAYNES M'FADDEN,
Atlanta, Ga.

"One of the best arguments for the morning paper I ever saw."

DAN HALL,
In Charge of Southern Sales Dept. for American Tobacco Co.

F. A. HUGHES,
Secretary Lyndon & Hanford Co., Advertising, Rochester, N. Y.

L. B. WHITFIELD,
President and Manager Aja-Ga Syrup, Montgomery, Ala., one of the largest advertisers in the South.

"Your booklet is certainly a nice advertisement for the morning paper. I think you are right, that the morning paper is read more closely than the evening paper, especially since tangoing is here to stay and the cabaret fad is all the go."

WALTER S. KIDDER,
Vice President Hayner Distilling Co., Dayton, O.

"This is to acknowledge receipt of book of sketches. It is a very cleverly conceived and executed idea, with more truth than poetry embodied in it. * * * Not only is it clever from a standpoint of a true portrayal of existing conditions, but it is very convincing from an advertising standpoint."

W. C. JOHNSON,
Sec. and Gen. Man. National Toilet Co., Paris, Tenn.

"We want to congratulate you on the make-up and facts set forth in your little booklet. There is a great deal more truth than poetry in the statements."

A. B. SKELDING,

D. M. HENDERSON,
Nolley Advertising Agency, Baltimore.

"Thank you for your book of sketches—one of the finest pieces of newspaper advertising that has ever come to our desk."

A Complete Answer to Claim That Everybody Is "Evening Stay-at-Homes"

MILT H. SAUL,
Advertising Manager Georgia Railway and Power Co.

"For the past fifteen years I have been in the attitude of watchful waiting for the morning newspaper's answer to the evening newspaper's challenge in regard to home readers. It was, therefore, a great relief to receive recently your booklet describing the afternoon and evening diversions of the American populace, for I consider this a complete answer to the time-worn assertion that everybody stays at home in the afternoon and evening to read the paper."

"I believe the wide circulation of this highly interesting document would overcome the advantage now enjoyed by afternoon papers over their morning contemporaries, which advantage has grown out of nothing more than a bold statement repeated so often that the publishers believe it themselves, while the morning paper publishers allowed it to go unchallenged during all these years."
