

BREAKING POINT ALMOST REACHED IN MEXIC TANGLE

President Wilson Declares the Benton, Bauch and Vergara Tragedies Have Rendered the Situation Exceedingly Grave.

ARMED INTERVENTION DEPLORED BY PRESIDENT

But He Realizes Certain Eventualities May Force Drastic Course—United States to Move Decisively When Necessity Arises.

Washington, March 2.—President Wilson revealed to those who discussed Mexican affairs with him today that he fully realized the gravity of the situation resulting from the killing of William S. Benton, a British subject, the reported murder of Gustav Bauch and Clemente Vergara, American citizens, and General Carranza's denial of the right of the United States to look after the interests of foreigners generally in Mexico.

The president spoke deplorably of armed intervention, but at the same time pointedly referred to the size and power of a country like the United States as being sufficient warrant for a calm and patient course while compliance with the American demands was being sought.

Callers of the impression from the president that he was determined to try every peaceful means at his disposal to solve the Mexican problem, but that he realized certain eventualities might mean a drastic course. He spoke with a firmness that showed his determination not to be stampeded into a course of radical speeches in congress but with a hint that when the necessity arose the American government could be expected to move decisively and effectively.

Wilson Hints at Blood Cost.

Asked whether, in view of the new developments, a change of policy was intended by the United States immediately, the president pointed out that a change of the size and power of the United States could afford to wait just as long as it pleased, that nobody doubted its power and nobody doubted that General Huerta was eventually to retire.

The president made it clear that there need be no hesitation in forming the judgment that what the United States wished to accomplish in Mexico would be accomplished but that those people who were in haste to have things done were forgetting what they would have to do themselves, that they would have to contribute brothers and sons and sweethearts if they wanted something done right away. If they were willing to wait the president indicated such a step might not be necessary.

Attitude of Great Britain.

Upon Great Britain's attitude toward the Benton case depends largely the extent to which the United States will become involved. Should England show an inclination to let the Benton case await final adjudication at a time when a firm government is established in Mexico, the United States will not feel called upon to challenge General Carranza's specific refusal to supply the Washington administration with information about Benton's death.

Representations have been made to General Carranza, it is understood, through American Consul Shipley at Nogales and on their outcome depends whether or not the expedition will be planned to go to Chihuahua from Juarez yesterday to examine Benton's body will carry out its mission.

The Wilson administration, however, is taking it to be granted that arrangements authorized by General Villa for the departure of the commission to Chihuahua soon will be approved by Carranza for the details to be completed, said Secretary Bryan. It was his only comment.

Why Carranza Is Offended.

Administration officials realize that in not communicating first with Carranza they have offended his personal dignity. They are anxious to become friendly by consulting him now, impressing upon the constitutionalist chief, incidentally that the American government does not think formalities ought to stand in the way of obtaining proper protection for foreigners.

General Carranza's declaration that foreign governments should address him about the welfare of their subjects led to a visit to Secretary Bryan on Feb. 27 by Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, and Señor Riano, the Spanish ambassador. Both Spain and Great Britain have recognized the Huerta government and have been looking to the United States to act for them in northern Mexico. There is every indication that this course will be continued, and it is clearly established that Carranza's maneuver will not lead the British government into any recognition of other dealings with him.

Carranza's first specific refusal. Carranza once before has suggested that Spain instead of the United States should be the one to take the lead in the intervention.

MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA!

BLIZZARD LOOSENS ITS ARCTIC GRASP

Storm Off Boston and Passing to Sea—Great Damage Was Done in New York and Vicinity.

Washington, March 2.—The storm which gripped the entire east during the last twenty-four hours paralyzing traffic, demoralizing telegraph and telephone lines and causing tremendous losses to property and business generally, was reported tonight to be off Boston Mass. and rapidly passing out to sea. Moderate temperatures with abated winds were promised by the weather bureau for tomorrow.

Reports received at the bureau tonight from practically every point in the storm stricken zone indicated that, with the exception of light snows in New York, Pennsylvania, New England, West Virginia and western Maryland, conditions were gradually becoming normal.

Tomorrow's forecast for the eastern and middle western states was "clear weather and moderate temperatures." In New England, however, the reports indicated the temperatures would remain low with a gradual upward movement.

The 80-mile gale which swept New York tonight had dropped to 26 miles and was diminishing elsewhere along the coast.

NEW YORK AND VICINITY EMERGING FROM STORM

New York, March 2.—With temperatures rising and fair weather promised New York and vicinity tonight began to emerge from the storm which had been the most destructive in this section of the country since the memorable blizzard of 1888.

Reports from other cities showed the damage caused by wind, snow, rain and sleet to be widespread. From Cleveland on the west and Baltimore on the south to the Canadian and Nova Scotia borders the storm has been general. In New England further damage is expected from rivers and streams swollen by melting ice and snow.

Except by round-about routes and with the aid of a few wires running underground commercial New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and other states were cut off completely. After the expedition to Washington was placed under ground.

The fallen telegraph poles which interrupted wire service continued to delay trains for many hours. Trains are lost on many roads in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other states.

Somehow a New Jersey train with Vice President Marshall as a passenger was believed to be proceeding slowly toward Washington. The congressional limited that left New York yesterday was believed to be near Wilmington tonight.

Among the "lost" trains is one bearing about 100 excursionists returning to Tamaqua, Pa. It left Jersey City last night and the Central Railroad of New Jersey and was supposed to tonight to be near Somerville, N. J.

MANY AFFIDAVITS HELD BY DEFENSE

Will Probably Be Published Before End of Week. Burns Confers With Frank in Tower.

That the attorneys for the defense of Leo M. Frank will make a tremendous fight for a new trial upon a motion extraordinary before Judge Ben Hill of the criminal division of the superior court became evident on Monday when it became known authentically for the first time that the attorneys are in the possession of a mass of evidence which has not hitherto been made public.

This new evidence is for the most part in the form of new affidavits and repudiations of affidavits formerly made in favor of the prosecution.

Will Publish Evidence.

It was also stated authentically that much of this evidence will be made public before the end of the present week.

Armed with this new evidence it is anticipated that the attorneys for the defense will appear before Judge Hill as soon as the sentence has been pronounced, and file a motion extraordinary for a new trial.

Detective Burns Here.

Another circumstance which injected a great deal of interest into the case on Monday and which may also result in the disclosure of more new evidence was the fact that William J. Burns, the detective arrived in Atlanta and held a conference of almost two hours with the condemned man at the Tower.

After his two hours conference with Frank Burns at 3 o'clock had not returned at his decision in regard to taking up the case and had intended continuing his conference later in the afternoon. It was discovered that the train on which he intended leaving the city left at 4 o'clock instead of at 3 o'clock, and he was compelled to give up the idea of further conference and hasten to the Terminal station to catch his train.

Will Return Wednesday.

He went to Jackson Miss., on a business trip, and expects to be back in Atlanta on Wednesday to continue his conference with Frank and possibly with others connected with the case, and make up his mind as to whether he will take up a thorough investigation.

Detective Burns would not discuss his interview with Frank, inasmuch as the information which was divulged to him in the condemned man's cell was in confidence.

CURE DIVORCE EVIL BY DAILY KISSING, URGES MARSHALL

New York, March 2.—My cure for divorce is to kiss your wife every day as an act of good faith," said Vice President Marshall today, addressing the Young Men's Christian association in Brooklyn on "The New Puritan." He wondered he said why the old Puritan did not believe in kissing his wife on Sunday. "He did not, however, believe in kissing another man's wife on any day in the week," added Mr. Marshall.

Contrasting the old puritan and the new, Mr. Marshall said the latter lacked the austerity of the old. "To be happy in carrying his honeymoon through all the years of his married life," he said.

ATLANTA MERCHANTS GIVEN RIGHT TO BID

Must Have Equal Opportunity to Furnish Supplies for Fort McPherson.

Washington, March 2.—(Special)—Atlanta merchants must be given an opportunity to bid on contracts for supplies to be furnished Fort McPherson according to Major General J. B. Aleschire chief quartermaster United States army. He will immediately advise the commander of the department of the east and through him the purchasing agent at Atlanta to this effect.

Representative William Schley Howard called at the war department today to protest against the government purchasing supplies for Fort McPherson at greater cost than they could be secured in Atlanta. He said the government was paying 9 cents a barrel more for flour than flour could be bought in Atlanta and similar increases on lard and other articles.

Will Elect Recorder.

"We expect to elect the recorder to succeed Judge Boyles, and we expect to elect the three representatives from Fulton county and the senator from this district."

Not For Open Town.

"Many people have jumped at the conclusion that we were for a wide open town. This is not true. We are for a more liberal administration of the laws, for men of broader ideas and more intelligence than some who are now holding office. Some of the men we have in council and on our board would discredit a cross roads community. They are not men of ordinary intelligence. They never did a thing to build up Atlanta, and they never will."

At the rate things were going here in Atlanta it would have been only a question of time before the sale of newspapers, soda water and cigars would have been stopped in Atlanta on Sunday. We would have gone back to the days of the blue laws when a man could not kiss his wife on Sunday.

LEAGUE ELATED OVER PROSPECTS

Election of R. T. Pace and R. C. Clark Cause of Congratulation Among Members of New Organization.

Leading members of the Citizens' League of Atlanta were elated over the election of R. T. Pace and R. C. Clark as police commissioners. They stated that it is just this type of men that the league will stand for and support in elections.

Id one of the leading members of the league Monday.

We are not going to make a special fight on any individual. We are fighting for bigger things than men. And we are in the fight to stay.

"Right now we have a membership of nearly 4,000 and they are registered voters. Before the next election we will have enrolled 5,000 members, and will be in a position to elect a man or set of men we decide on. We intend to elect the right sort of men to council—men of principles who believe in live and let live in turn these men will elect the right type of men as police commissioners men who will do their duty as they see it irrespective of any little cliques or set of fanatics."

Will Elect Recorder.

"We expect to elect the recorder to succeed Judge Boyles, and we expect to elect the three representatives from Fulton county and the senator from this district."

"That looks like a pretty big job but we know our strength and we are not boasting."

Do you think the class of men we have at the head of the league would spend their time and then money if they were not in deadly earnest? Not for a moment. We have got plenty of money and we are going to spend it legitimately in advertising and in other ways just as the bulletin crowd has done."

Not For Open Town.

"Many people have jumped at the conclusion that we were for a wide open town. This is not true. We are for a more liberal administration of the laws, for men of broader ideas and more intelligence than some who are now holding office. Some of the men we have in council and on our board would discredit a cross roads community. They are not men of ordinary intelligence. They never did a thing to build up Atlanta, and they never will."

MAYOR ENDS TIE AND ELECTS PAGE TO POLICE BOARD

His Vote Breaks the Deadlock Between Marcellus Anderson and Nominee of Seventh Ward Delegation.

Mayor James G. Woodward triumphed over his opponents in council yesterday by piloting the elections of Robert T. Pace and Robert C. Clarke to the police board.

The defeat of Commissioner Anderson was the sweetest victory Mayor Woodward has tasted since he has been in office this term. With council deadlocked on the selection, Mayor Woodward broke the tie by casting his vote for Pace. And he let it be known how keenly he felt when he remarked:

His Name Withdraws.

With the decisive result of the mayor's line up stating them in the face, friends of Henry C. Heinz eighth ward candidate against Commissioner Clarke hurriedly decided not to sacrifice him and allowed Commissioner Clarke's name to go unopposed in nomination for the place.

The vote in the Pace Anderson contest was 14 against 14 and the line up with the mayor's vote counted as follows:

For Pace—Woodward, Kelley, McDonald, Amistead, Ragsdale, Knight, McCord, Ashley, Farlinger, Lee, Colcord, Dallas, Humphrey, Reynolds and Kingsborough—15.

For Anderson—Thomson, Maddox, Nutting, Owens, Wardlaw, Alverson, Shepard, Hall, Sisson, Boynton, Wood, White, Smith and Mason—14.

Absent—Candler and Harwell. The credit for the election of Pace was given the influence thrown him by the recently organized Citizens' League. Friends of Anderson charge the defeat to several members of council.

The charge that at least two members agreed to support Anderson and at the last minute flopped to the mayor's candidate.

Precedent at Issue.

In the election of Commissioner Pace a long standing precedent of councilmanic conduct was at issue. Heretofore, it has been the custom to allow ward delegations to control in the election of ward board members. Pace secured the instrument of the entire seventh ward delegation, and was entered as a compromise candidate against Anderson, whose election would have been distasteful to Mayor Woodward. Anderson had a

CITY MONEY SHEET PASSED BY COUNCIL AFTER HARD BATTLE OVER AMENDMENTS

Long Drawn Out Fight Comes to an End When Leaders of Insurgents and of Finance Sheet Agree on Changes Aggregating $16,440.

THIS ACTION ASSURES BEGINNING OF SPRING AND PEACHTREE WORK

In Sheet Passed Whitehall's Appropriation Is Increased to $11,000 and Cherokee Avenue Will Now Get $8,000—Inspectors D'Alvigny and Dozier Are Retained.

The dispute over the 1914 budget reached an end yesterday afternoon when council accepted the proposal of Finance Chairman W. C. Hux shrewdly and passed the approved sheet by the aldermanic board with changes which aggregate only $16,440.

Immediately after the aldermanic board concurred in the action of council approving the sheet, Mayor James G. Woodward attached his signature to the document. Then it went to Comptroller Goldsmith who will apportion the various funds so that the $200,000 or more appropriated for street and sewer work and general improvement may be immediately available.

Only Slight Opposition.

Aside from slight opposition from Alderman James W. Maddox of the fifth ward, there was no hitch in the plans of Finance Chairman Hux, and Alderman James R. Nutting leading the minority. Chairman Humphreys made it plain to the general council that the finance committee had gone the limit in agreeing to the minor demands, and that any further demands would not be considered for a moment.

When Alderman Maddox launched his opposition to the refusal of the finance committee to include $6,500 in the sheet for the fire engine house in the fifth and $500 for improvements for the Davis street school, Chairman Humphreys said:

The finance committee has agreed to amend the sheet and if there is going to be any opposition to the sheet and the amendments I won't offer the sheet.

Chairman Humphreys informed Alderman Maddox that the finance committee did not care one whit how the fifth ward funds were transferred.

The alderman was quickly informed by the minority leaders that there would be no trouble from that source, but to make sure he conferred with Councilman Candler, the councilman assured the alderman that the money would be transferred by resolution and with that agreement Maddox withdrew his opposition.

Amicable Adjustment of the Differences on Both Sides of the Sheet Was Made Possible Only Because There Was a Desire on Both Sides to Concede.

offered a proposition to the finance committee which contemplated changes to the extent of about $38,000.

Chairman Humphrey was authorized by the finance committee to turn it down, and on the suggestion of Alderman J. H. Kelley, of the second ward, a counter proposition was made.

Counter Offer Accepted. This counter proposition was accepted by the sheet's opponents.

This counter proposition was accepted by the sheet's opponents. It changed in the main part the Whitehall appropriation by increasing it to $12,000.

The Peachtree widening will suffer by having $1,000 taken from its appropriation, and the salary of an inspector in the smoke office was stricken out.

The projects in the fifth ward which are knocked out by the changes in the sheet are the Bellwood avenue widening, and the boulevard over the Cherokee avenue paving, for which the finance committee first gave $5,000.

The appropriation is now $8,000, which will be sufficient to carry the work into June or October, when it will be completed.

Inspectors D'Alvigny and Dozier were restored to their places in the construction department by the committee placing $2,400 in the sheet to pay their salaries.

The Peachtree widening will suffer by having $1,000 taken from its appropriation, and the salary of an inspector in the smoke office was stricken out.

the $1,200 to employ boiler and elevator inspector; take $2,460 from the appropriation to pay interest on bonds; making a total of $16,460.

These changes leave Peachtree with $1,900 the Springs street with the appropriation originally given by the finance committee.

Alderman Kelley's Motion. Just after the adoption of the finance sheet Alderman Kelley, chairman of the street committee, appealed to council to adjourn until next Monday.

He explained that in view of the fact that the purse strings of the city have been untied, the committees will be able to start working on some of the most important improvement projects.

Whitehall street property owners are pleased over the final adjustment of the sheet. They are going to appear before the street committee and urge that work be resumed immediately.

Captain R. M. Clayton, chief of construction, will prepare bids for material to be used by the city during the year.

Mayor Ends Tie and Elects Pace. Just after the adoption of the finance sheet Mayor-elect Pace, chairman of the street committee, appealed to council to adjourn until next Monday.

He explained that in view of the fact that the purse strings of the city have been untied, the committees will be able to start working on some of the most important improvement projects.

himself on the board, and nominated Pace. Chief Beavers' policies were injected into the campaigns of Pace and Commissioner Clarke.

Both Anderson and Heinz agreed to support the chief and his policies, but Clarke and Pace reserved the right to themselves of deciding their policies.

Alderman Jesse Armstrong, leader of the seventh ward delegation, took the floor in the interest of the candidacy of Pace, when Commissioner Wardlaw, a first ward representative, nominated Anderson against the seventh's choice.

Commissioner Dallas also spoke in behalf of Pace. Both protested against the interference of the first ward member.

Following the unanimous election of Commissioner Clarke over Heinz, reports were circulated in council to the effect that Commissioner Clarke had agreed unequivocally to support Chief Beavers and his policies, and that it was with that understanding that the Heinz nomination was not offered.

Close friends and supporters of Commissioner Clarke, however, reported that they saw that the commissioner pledged nothing to his opponents, and that he made it clear that he would support the police commissioner in the past.

Other elections to the police board were Dr. A. H. Baskin, first ward, elected to succeed Carlos Mason, whose term expires. Dr. Baskin is a former member of the board.

Commissioner Andy R. King was re-elected from the fifth ward. He is under the impression that he will be elected to the chief's position.

Commissioner King has not shown hostility to Mayor Woodward in the past. He is a liberal politician, and is a member of the police board.

There are twelve members of the board, including Mayor Woodward, who is favorable to another appointee. As the result of the exchange, members of the delegation could not agree on Anderson to succeed

GOLD WAVE RECORD FOR YEAR BROKEN

Mercury Dropped to 15 Degrees Early Monday Morning—Now Rising Towards Top of Tube Again.

Away out over the Atlantic ocean today the Storm King is laughing in his sleeve over the swiftness of tangled telegraph and telephone wires, disarranged train schedules, bursted water mains, irate housewives, happy coal miners and discouraged gardeners he left in his wake.

Today Atlanta will once more pick up the skin of slightly damaged spring weather and before night, so says the Weather Bureau, will be warm again in this vicinity and Wednesday will be exceedingly fair and beautifully balmy.

Monday will probably go down in the logbook of memory in the mind of the oldest inhabitant as one of the coldest March days ever seen "in these parts."

At peep-o'-day on Monday morning, official temperatures showed the mercury to be standing in the bulb at the 15-degree mark.

Evidence that the city and, in fact, the whole state, had passed through what could be conscientiously called a "cold wave" was furnished by the fact that all train schedules of all railroads in and out of Atlanta were nearly abandoned.

Applications began to pour into the office of the Associated Charities early in the morning for the opening of the closed on Sunday. Most of the appeals were for fuel.

Mr. Culloden, a prominent citizen of this place, died suddenly at his home this morning. About 2 o'clock he was feeling well, but at 3 o'clock he was taken ill and died at 4 o'clock.

ATLANTA WINDS OUT, SAYS N. Y. BANKER

Seems Practical Certainty That This City Has Been Agreed Upon for Regional Bank.

That the regional bank organization committee, headed by W. G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, has decided upon twelve cities in which to locate banks, with Atlanta as one of them, seems a practical certainty, although the committee has given out no formal statement.

Dispatches to The Constitution say that this information was given out by a member of the New York clearing house committee, following a conference with the regional bank organization committee as to the handling of commercial paper under the new system.

One of the most prominent of the New York financial papers is carrying the story, in addition to which The New York Times publishes a dispatch from Chicago, carrying the same information.

According to this report, the following cities have been agreed upon: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Denver, San Francisco, Kansas City or Omaha, Seattle or Portland.

It will be seen that all cities east of the Mississippi have been definitely agreed upon, if the report is correct.

Atlanta was one of the cities named. It is believed that Atlanta will be the first city to have a regional bank.

"SCIENCE PROVES TRUTH OF BIBLE"

Dr. Camden Coburn, Noted Archaeologist, Tells of Discoveries Made by Excavators in Holy Land.

The first day of the 1914 March Bible conference, of Atlanta, has gone into history. Today will see a continuation of what will probably be recorded in church and interdenominational catalogues as the record-breaking Bible conference of the decade.

The program for Tuesday follows: At the Tabernacle 9 a. m., Dr. F. N. Palmer will speak; at 10 a. m., Dr. Camden J. Coburn; at 11 a. m., Dr. G. Campbell Morgan; at 12 m., Rev. Mel Trotter; at 2 p. m., Dr. S. D. Gordon; at 3 p. m., Dr. George R. Stuart; at 4 p. m., Dr. William Souper; 7:30 p. m., song service; 8 p. m., Dr. G. Campbell Morgan.

Speaking of the conference and its first day's work, Dr. Sol Dickey, president of the world-noted Winona conference, held yearly at Winona Lake, Ind., said: "I have attended the Bible conference in the past, but I have never attended one so well planned and so well conducted as this one."

Dr. Coburn, who is a professor at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., but who has spent the major portion of the recent years in excavation work under the great Egyptian exploring party, made Bible history last night at the Bible conference when he presented his address on "The Bible and Archaeology."

WOMAN SHOTS HERSELF OUTSIDE CABIN OF REYES

Mme. Marie Cauffeu Quarrelled With Man Whom Huerta Imprisoned.

Nantes, France, March 2.—Mme. Marie Cauffeu, of Rodolfo Reyes, former minister of justice in the cabinet of President Huerta, of Mexico, attempted to commit suicide by shooting last Saturday night on board the French steamer La Navarre. All on board the vessel were aroused by the shots and the woman was found lying outside Reyes' cabin with two bullets in her breast. A quarrel between Reyes and the woman is supposed to have been the cause of her act.

When the steamer arrived today the condition of Mme. Cauffeu was pronounced very grave.

She is one among the members of the chamber of deputies arrested by President Huerta's orders of October 11 last, charged with being a conspirator. She was released from the penitentiary February 9 and sailed for Havana, reaching the Cuban port, he was not permitted to land and sailed on board the La Navarre for France February 15.

city. Seven hundred firemen were assigned to patrol the unprotected districts.

Several northern New Jersey cities were in darkness again tonight. Jersey City and Newark were without fire protection and men patrolled the city streets with lanterns, prepared to send in alarms by telephone.

In Newark schools and factories closed. Several thousand men and women were thrown out of work.

The first steamers to arrive since Sunday morning reached quarantine today. The Philadelphia, of the American Line, in twenty-eight hours late, loomed up as a glass ship, as she was covered from stem to stern with ice and snow. Captain A. H. Mills said the voyage was the roughest of the liner's 330 trips during sixteen years past.

The Minnetoka came in a day late and the Kaiser Franz Josef I, of the Cincinnati and several other vessels many hours overdue.

Macon Plumbers Busy on Broken Water Pipes

Macon, Ga., March 2.—(Special)—Today was a busy day for the plumbers in Macon, the temperature dropping down to 23 degrees early this morning and as a result local plumbers are extremely busy. They are suddenly broken water pipes. The cold was made all the more disagreeable by the fact that the wind was blowing from the north, which at times increased to fifty miles an hour.

The plumbers were busy with the coming of the present cold snap, many thinking that winter was not yet over. They are glad to have a new supply. However, they have changed their minds apparently, for all the cold dealers were reported to have many of them having a long waiting list. The weather man says the indications are for a cold snap of the same kind of weather, then he hopes for something better.

SHOEMAKER BUILDS STEVENSON MEMORIAL

Monteary, Cal., March 2.—When Robert Louis Stevenson visited this old Spanish town many years ago he was struck by the beauty of the place. He was remembered by George Bertoldo, the village cobbler. The two became chums. Stevenson died in 1894. Bertoldo prospered somewhat financially, blossoming into a shoe store proprietor. He was determined to build a monument to the man who was his friend. The rest of his estate he left to his two children.

The monument, which will be built in a little park, will be the work of the shoemaker.

FARM WORK IN LOWNEDES DELAYED BY WEATHER

Valdosta, Ga., March 2.—(Special)—The almost unprecedented rains during the past two weeks have put the farmers of this section badly behind with the work, and have paralyzed the lumber and coal stores, industries for the time. Every watercourse is out of its banks, while a vast proportion of the pine lands are under water, making it impracticable to do logging or other work. The fine weather during January and the first of February had encouraged the farmers, and they did an immense amount of work for so early in the season. The rains have now packed harder than they ever.

HONORING UNDERWOOD.

A graceful, just and politic attitude speaks in President Wilson's announcement that he will, on March 9, tender a dinner to Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, as a formal recognition of the Alabamian's splendid leadership in the house.

Woodrow Wilson is due the major portion of the credit for the phenomenal success of the party's program. His political enemies and partisan critics will not dispute that statement.

But it is debatable if even Wilson could have materialized his program with the smoothness and dispatch in evidence had it not been for Underwood.

The latter enjoyed, it is true, the advantage of years of training in parliamentary experience and his preparation of the first tariff bill strengthened his equipment substantially.

But when he took hold last March his task was a delicate and a variegated one, one hardly matched in intricacy by floor leaders of any congress for twenty years.

He had at his back an overwhelming majority, it is true.

But many of the members were crude and untrained.

Every man of them was clamorous for patronage.

Some fancied the democracy was invincible and that they could play ducks and drakes with the patience of the country and the contents of the pie-counter.

Underwood disabused their minds of this impression.

He knew the party to be merely on probation.

He knew the dangers of a partisan or patronage debauch.

He knew that if schisms came, or if pledges were unfulfilled, the party would be held responsible.

So he tamed the wild horses and kept them tamed. He did it without making enemies, for the man has a positive genius for conciliation. He got along with statesmen with whom even the optimists had expected to see him get "cross-wise."

He put through the legislative program on record time.

It is, therefore, naked justice that the president, who is not ungrateful, should pay him an unusual compliment.

It is significant that the leaders of all parties in Washington join Wilson in the tribute. That happens rather infrequently in a congress notable for bitter partisanship.

HE'D STIR UP THE ANIMALS. Gifford Pinchot has announced his candidacy for the United States senate from Pennsylvania, to succeed Boies Penrose. He will run, of course, on the "progressive" ticket.

We wish Mr. Pinchot luck and victory. He has ability and ideals, and these are needed in the senate, under whatever party label. He also has a "bar," and he will find he will have to tap it liberally before he gets through. For Penrose has not only a barrel of his own, but, unless rumors exaggerate, the remains of a smooth-working political machine in the Keystone State. It may be that it will degenerate into a battle of "bar's." Who can tell, since in these unregenerate days the most virtuous politics cannot be engineered without more or less filthy lucre?

Pinchot doesn't have to depend upon politics for a living. He has amply proven that he is in the public service for sheer love of service. Sometimes we wonder if he isn't a mite too enthusiastic, just a trifle too hopeful of accelerating the millennium. But as between these failings and the failings of the astute and standpat Mr. Penrose, we rather incline to the Pinchot brand. At any rate, the proletariat of Pennsylvania will be treated to a rare fracas, swift, hot, merciless. And as friction brings forth truth, maybe the public will learn a few things it still needs to learn about conditions in the state of the late if unlamented Quay.

SPEED UP!

Reports from Washington are to the effect that there is a temporary hitch in the legislative program as it touches trust and rural credit legislation.

It is to be hoped the kink will be ironed out with a minimum of delay.

The country and business especially have had a surfeit of congress.

Both deserve a rest. The quicker the house, the senate and the president reach an agreement and get matters in shape for the fall elections, then go home—

The better for all concerned, the country, business, the democratic party included.

THE BIBLE CONFERENCE.

It is likely that few people appreciate the importance and opportunities of the Atlanta Bible conference, now under full swing at the Baptist Tabernacle. Divines and Bible students of world-wide note are here to elucidate all intricate scriptural subjects and to instill fresh inspiration into folk of all denominations, for the complexion of the conference is essentially non-denominational, or rather inter-denominational.

Some of the notable figures participating in the conference are Dr. Campbell Morgan and Dr. William Souper, of London; Dr. Camden Coburn, of Meadville, Pa.; Dr. Sol Dickey, Dr. Frank Palmer, noted Winona Bible conference teacher; Dr. Russell Conwell, of Philadelphia; Dr. George Stuart and others. Each of these men is a brilliant specialist in his line, trained and authoritative. There is no admission charge to the sessions. But it is hoped that voluntary contributions and plans to be matured within a day or two may put the conference upon a basis of permanency.

Considering that few of these speakers come south save to the conference, and that visitors are in attendance from every southern state, the conference looms large in the secular as well as the religious calendar of Atlanta.

CRITICAL DIPLOMACY.

Not in many years has an American president been called upon to deal with an international situation so critical, baffling and complicated as that which confronts Woodrow Wilson in Mexico. Conditions were sufficiently difficult when only Huerta had to be considered. But now comes the inscrutable and unfortunate Benton incident, and the equivocal attitude of the two constitutionalist chieftains, Carranza and Villa. Thus the president is in the unique position of having to handle a tandem-team, the different members being Carranza, Huerta and the foreign powers, principally at this moment Great Britain, which has a grievance in the Benton case.

The United States was given a free hand in Mexico by the powers upon the explicit understanding that we would, so far as in our power lay, guarantee the lives and property of foreign residents. That was the price for non-intervention by Europe, and the preservation of the Monroe doctrine, and it was and is a perfectly legitimate price.

But the responsibilities of supervision steadily became more onerous and intricate. We must secure satisfaction for England, regarding the death of Benton, or allow England herself to take steps, which is, of course, out of the question. At the same time we must preserve our professed policy of hands off in Mexico, giving Carranza and Villa a free hand and keeping a watchful and hopeful eye on the slippery Huerta.

The president's task is an unenviable one. One day it looks as though we are being inexorably driven to intervention. The next the problem becomes less acute. The chief consolation is that Mr. Wilson has manifested a firmness of purpose and a fertility of resource which, together, promise hope of some safe way out of a truly bewildering dilemma.

Some talk of financing the progressive party. Well, T. R. still has that six cents.

Huerta is still raising paper armies and supplying them with toy cannon.

If the Colonel doesn't hurry home some of his ambitious friends will run away with his party.

Villa still hopes he will be able to explain all his explanations to the satisfaction of everybody.

Professor Taft has revived the ghost of the republican party, but no one is running.

Uncle Joe Cannon is still having the last word, with no one in particular.

Can't convince those Cleveland tax collectors that it is John D.'s intention to give it all back.

And Lent may help us to settle old scores with the meat trust.

The Chicago women "voted peacefully." Mere man was careful how he challenged them.

The weather bureau is modest. Doesn't raise a hurricane celebrating when it strikes it right.

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF HISTORIC SIRE

By W. C. Davis. Editor Constitution: Recently the Samuel Reid chapter, daughters of the American Revolution, was organized in Eatonton. This name was chosen in honor of Mrs. W. D. Grant and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, who had but a short time previously visited relatives and friends there.

Samuel Reid, a captain in the American revolution, was the great-grandfather of Mrs. Grant. His wife was Agnes Kay. The D. A. R. records in Washington, D. C., in two instances state that he married Margaret McKay, but this error grew out of the fact that he and Samuel Reid Sr. married Margaret McKay. The names of father and son were confused.

In another place the D. A. R. records record the name as Agnes. However, there can be no dispute as to her name, for in the family chart made by a professional genealogist for an Alabama woman, a lineal descendant of Elizabeth Reid, a sister of Captain Samuel Reid, according to this chart he was the son of Colonel Samuel Reid and Margaret McKay.

Whether the father was a colonel in the Colonial army prior to the revolution, or held some position during the revolution that entitled him to the rank of colonel, I do not know. He was, however, a conspicuous figure in the struggle of the 1730s and 1740s of the British vote, being a delegate to the Mecklenburg convention and a member of the committee of safety of Rowan county, North Carolina.

From this chart that Samuel Reid, Sr. (Colonel Samuel Reid), was the son of General Andrew Reid and Magdalene McDowell, the daughter of Captain Samuel McDowell.

The ancestral line we find two other Andrew Reids and a Major Reid, the latter being the great-great-grandfather of Captain Samuel Reid.

Tracing the ancestry of Magdalene McDowell we find that her great-grandfather, Thomas Warren, of the 1730s and 1740s, Ireland, was another great-great-grandfather of Captain Samuel Reid.

The several army officers above mentioned were either in the colonial or British armies. Reid was in the army of the 1730s and 1740s. Captain Samuel Reid scattered over Georgia and other southern states not a few have attained prominence and distinction. Many offered their lives upon the altar of their country in defense of the south during the war between the states.

The wealthy and aristocratic ante-bellum Reids of Eatonton, Griffin and West Point were his descendants. The Reids of Tallahassee county belong to the same family.

Among the descendants of Captain Samuel Reid who do not bear the name of Reid are Colonel Fleming Jordan, of Monticello, in Georgia; John W. Grant, one of Atlanta's most prominent financiers; Hon. Hewlett A. Hall, ex-attorney general of Georgia; Judge Gray Lewis and his brother, the late Judge Hal Lewis, of our superior and supreme courts; George A. Nance and Elizabeth Whitfield, lawyer and orator, now deceased; Mrs. Louise Hunt, the wife of Hon. B. W. Hunt, of Eatonton, one of the most gifted women in the state; Mrs. Emily Hill, wife of the late Joshua Hill, United States senator of Georgia; and Mrs. W. H. Knight, of Madison, and Mrs. W. H. Burwell, nee Jones Reid, wife of our present speaker of the house of representatives.

The brothers and sisters of Captain Samuel Reid were Alexander (his executor), Andrew, George, Nancy and Elizabeth, the children of Samuel Reid, Sr., and Margaret McKay.

Alexander Reid was the grandfather of Alexander Reid, of Eatonton, the father of Butler and Oscar Reid and Mrs. Crittenden, of Shelman.

HOBSON'S BROTHER PAYS FIERCE TRIBUTE (From The Columbus Enquirer-Sun.) How beautiful it is for brothers to dwell together in unity and harmony.

Mr. S. A. Hobson, brother of Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, candidate for the United States senate in Alabama, pays the following tribute to his brother, according to newspaper accounts:

Despite the dastardly insinuations of certain lackadaisical I speak of the living truth when I say that since the death of Christ no man has lived more noble and of his greater purity of character.

And of the truth of this he calls heaven to witness in the following language: I enjoy the phenomena and sensations of this life, but I deliberately say: If this is not true, I trust my life may be blasted before these lines are printed, and before the ink has dried on the soul, and I weigh every word when I say, with all reverence, that if a single line, word, syllable or letter is untrue, may God Almighty damn my soul through eternity.

We have no desire to offer any criticism of Mr. Hobson for his exalted opinion of his brother. We do, however, sincerely and indeed a beautiful truth, and it is indeed a beautiful truth, that this brother is doing the captain's cause more harm than good. We do not pretend to say that he is, and it is a matter for them to settle between themselves.

MARCH.

When the windows rattle, and doors go bang! And everywhere, a whizzing-whang! Comes through the keyhole stiff as starch— You know he's here—the rowdy, March. —MRS. R. B. BLACKBURN.

THE TRIALS OF HISTORY

Of especial interest at the present time, with the Panama canal so nearly completed, is the ill-starred attempt to ditch the Isthmus begun by Ferdinand de Lesseps in 1831, his failure and subsequent trial and conviction.

TRIAL OF M. DE LESSEPS

In 1876 Le Lesseps, with the glory of having dug the Suez canal still unattained, became interested in the Panama situation. His friends had so far agitated the question favorably that in 1879 a congress assembled in the rooms of the Geographical Society at Paris, under the presidency of Admiral de La Ronniere de Noury, which voted in favor of digging a canal.

De Lesseps was chosen to head the project. He was seventy-four years old at the time. Politics, which De Lesseps always avoided, was his greatest enemy in this matter. Capital for the construction of the canal was liberally provided, not by rich Frenchmen, but by the middle classes. The French press grew more and more sanguine and people rushed with their money into what they supposed was going to be a very profitable enterprise.

Little by little, reluctantly acknowledging the task greater than he expected, M. de Lesseps kept asking for new support, and in some way or other kept getting it. He continued to color the Panama horizon a roseate hue, but it was sunset and not sunrise.

At the end of 1888 night fell upon the hopes of the dupes, while day broke upon their miseries. Panama was fatally malarial; the cost of excavating was greater than was supposed. Gross mismanagement marked every turn. Locomotives ordered from Belgium were of the wrong gauge and could not be used by the railroad tracks. Worse was the unparalleled corruption resorted to by the desperate directors to keep the facts from the public, endeavors which eventually failed.

Over one hundred members of the French national legislature were smothered, five ex-ministers being among those arrested. Enemies of the republic, seeking for a scandal that would ruin the government, forced the prosecution of the directors. Their attacks were so vigorously made that the government was obliged, in self-defense, to have judicial proceedings taken against De Lesseps, Charles de Lesseps and two co-workers, Fontane and Cottu.

Charles de Lesseps, in order to protect his aged father, tried to divert the storm upon his own head. He managed to draw attention to himself as the burden of the condemnation pronounced. One of the consequences of the prosecutions, of which he was the object, was to oblige him to spend three years, from 1893 to 1895, in England.

The French had spent in all about $260,000,000 and had not more than 2,000 French lives before they drew their fire from the dredges, left their steam shovels in the jungle and turned the task over to the United States. Out of the sum expended the contractors and others had reaped a rich reward at the expense of the people of France.

De Lesseps was fiercely attacked on all sides on account of the woeful exhibit that came with the breaking of light into the project. Tens of thousands of people who had trusted in him were turned De Lesseps, his son, Fontane, Cottu and his co-workers, indicted, in effect, for swindling and bribing legislators. De Lesseps was too feeble to be dragged from his retreat at La Chesnaye and very reference to the case was studiously kept from him.

When he became suspicious because the newspapers were not given to him to read, the family hit upon the plan of furnishing him every day with papers just a year old. So he probably never knew that he was accused of fraud, committed in February, 1882. His son Charles, who had a like share, was released from prison after serving a sentence of six months of his term, but the count was not put in prison. France heated about the diminishing the number of one of her most glorious names and found an excuse in the infirmities of a man 88 years old.

The last three years of De Lesseps' life presented a pitiable mental and physical wreck, his faculties gradually failing until the end came. He was confined to his room for over a year before he died, his death occurring on December 7, 1894. The famous Panama canal conspiracy trial lasted from January 1, 1892, to March 31 of the same year, and many others of the conspirators were given sentences of from two to five years.

Courtellemont's Story.

Here is the story of a boy hero told in a recent French journal. In 1876 there lived in the wheat country of Algeria, a family of French colonists. The father, formerly an officer in the French army, and the mother both fell sick and were taken to a hospital. The son, Gervais, a boy thirteen years old, remained alone. The culture of the field was stopped and the creditors sent the sheriff to take possession of the property.

He sent this barometer to an exceptionally honest antiquary at Paris, who remitted to him 7,000 francs therefor. This amount he used to obtain for his father and mother medical treatment which brought about their entire recovery, and they began life anew at Algiers.

This history is vouched for as absolutely true. Little Gervais is today known as Monsieur Courtellemont. He has been the first European openly to enter Mecca, the Mohammedan holy city, where he went accompanied by his wife. His services as an explorer have been recognized. Recently he was rewarded with the rosette of the Legion of Honor.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT HASON, THE FAMOUS PROSE POET. THE BUTTINSKIS.

"I heard a terrible uproar over at your place this morning," remarked the professor. "Did the house fall down, or was there an earthquake?"

"Neither one," replied the low-browed man. "An alecky neighbor got what was coming to him, and that was all. Ever since Bindershoot moved into the house next door I've been expecting trouble in one form or another, for he's a scion of the proud house of Buttinski, and is always going around making himself too numerous and extemporaneous. No matter what he sees you doing, he begins to tell you that you are doing it wrong, and he's perfectly willing to point out the right way. A man of that sort is bound to get into trouble early and often."

And the sad thing about it is that such a man never profits from experience. No sooner does he see his neighbor's head and the dark blue coloring bleached from around his eyes, than he goes hunting fresh adversity.

"It isn't more than a week since Bindershoot came over to our place looking for somebody to admonish and instruct. It happened he said a very few men ought to do it, and he began to split up some kindling, but usually do that chore myself, but I was away that day. The ax we use for the purpose was brought up in the family and is perfectly gentle and tractable with people who understand it, but a stranger who tries to use it has to be crossed."

"He took the ax from Aunt Julia and invited her to watch and see how the old masters used to split kindling. Then he stood a piece of board on end, against a log, and braced it there with his foot, and let drive with the ax. Aunt Julia told me afterwards that she never saw a man make such a ridiculous fuss as he did. He only spoiled one of the logs, and he ripped through the other though he had ruined a dozen. He hobbled home on one foot and wore his other foot in a valise for several days, and everybody in the neighborhood seemed delighted, for he has been pestering the whole community."

"This morning he came over just when I was milking our roan cow. He watched me a while and then said it was simply pitiful the way I milked. I put in three times the necessary motion, and he exhausted both myself and the cow. He made a special study of milking in the University of Edinburgh, he said, and he was perfectly willing to show me the scientific way."

"I rose from the milking stool as one man, and told him to go ahead and give a demonstration. Of course I knew there would be trouble, and had anybody else I'd have given him a warning, but that man needs a lesson about once a week, or he would be too widespread for anything. Our roan cow is perfectly gentle with people she knows, but she has no use for strangers who are too familiar, and she voices her indignation with her feet. Considering that she has never been properly trained, she is the best amateur kicker I know of. She has both speed and endurance, and can land a haymaker with either foot. I've always called her the roan hope, and if I had any money I'd be willing to back her against Carl Morrie."

"Well, Bindershoot sat down and got busy, and he had just turned his head around to call my attention to his easy and graceful way of doing the trick, when the roan cut loose. She did wonderful execution. The necessary motion, and he exhausted both myself and the cow. He made a special study of milking in the University of Edinburgh, he said, and he was perfectly willing to show me the scientific way."

HERCULES.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Sivaah."

Hercules lived in Greece before the calendar was invented and held all the strength records of his day. He was a poor boy, but his father was Juniper, who ran the universe at that time according to mythology, and this gave the youngster a considerable pull. He was extremely well developed for his age, and while still in his cradle strangled a couple of large snakes which had been sent to destroy him by a jealous goddess.

Hercules grew rapidly, and before he could walk he was the strongest young man in the neighborhood. He now became extremely handy, being a willing worker and got several good jobs exterminating lions before he could talk plainly. Later he was carefully educated, but owing to the fact that when out of temper he would carelessly break the back of his instructor and throw him a quarter of a mile away, he was not popular with the scholars.

When Hercules became a young man he was very beautiful and was greatly admired. He had little time for society, however, as he was working in those days was full of strange and terrible creatures corresponding to the Octopus, the Tammany Tiger, the Paris Apaches, the Immovable Standpatters, the man-eating race horses, the Carrion dramatists and the uninvestigated city government.

Hercules was sent out to overcome all these evils, and he labored for many years, and great peril, wrestling with wild bulls, chopping nine-headed serpents, taming 500 horse-power oxen by twisting their necks, renovating the Augean stables, corresponding to the New York city government and cleaning up the world generally. When he had finished his grand work, he returned to his residence, which so irritated the gang that they sent him a poisoned garment corresponding to a framed up scandal of these days, and he expired great agony.

Hercules became a god after he died and loafed around Olympus in great comfort and luxury. He deserved his rest after performing his twelve great tasks, but it is lucky for Herk that he isn't hanging around today looking for work. Some might challenge him to give the elephant and the mouse in double harness, and the land would have been strewn with the bones of more bears to my eyes than all the hunger and all the wounds.

Efficient Housekeeping

By HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL, Domestic Science Lecturer. FOR MOCHA LOVERS.

Many custards, puddings and ices are delightful when flavored with coffee and you may be sure that any person who enjoys the beverage will approve of the flavor in desserts.

To secure the coffee for this purpose, grind for three tablepoons a heavy, strong coffee. Place it in a covered pan and add a cup and a half of boiling water cover and simmer ten minutes. Strain and it is ready for use.

The following recipe will give the proportion of coffee to use and should suggest other ways of utilizing the flavor. Blend a half a cup of butter with two-thirds of a cup of light brown sugar, add the meats from a dozen American walnuts, these should be chopped fine. Beat the whites of three eggs separately and then mix them together with a half a cup of the coffee liquor. Add to the butter and sugar, beat briskly, stir in three cups of flour containing three tablepoons of baking powder. Bake in a shallow loaf pan.

When cold, frost with the following cream: melt a tablepoon of butter with a cup of coffee and two cups of powdered sugar. Simmer until it reaches the thread degree. Stop for one moment and spread over the loaf.

Cafe Custard. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until light. Add a half a cup of coffee, a half a cup of sugar, a teaspoon of salt and a teaspoon of vanilla. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until the eggs are set. Whip with a dower beater until cool and add a cup of cream whipped stiff. Small cakes may be served with this.

Coffee Jelly. Add two cups of the strong coffee liquid to four tablepoons of gelatin dissolved in a cup of water. Sweeten to taste. Pour this into sherbet or champagne glasses, but fill them only half full. Stand in a cool place to harden and heap whipped, sweetened cream on top of each when serving.

Coffee-Orange Ice. One quart of heavy coffee, two cups of sugar. Boil together ten minutes. Cool and set on ice, or shave it fine and put a little in each glass with a teaspoon of orange juice and a little whipped cream. If convenient, the coffee and sugar may be frozen in ice. The orange juice is made by squeezing the juice into a bowl containing sugar and letting it stand several hours.

Coffee Custard Pie. Make a rich custard with eggs alone, but reserve the whites. Flavor with a cup of strong coffee. Bake the pastry shell and add the filling. Return the whites until slightly browned. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, and sweeten with powdered sugar. Heap this meringue on the pie and color it in a medium hot oven.

Aeroplane Safety in Water Flights.

(From "Teaching in the Air" by Augustus Post in the American Review of Reviews for January.)

The aeroplane made its first flights over water in 1910, and it began to feel the weight of its wings and now returns to its element. It was over the Potomac that Langley flew both his models and his man-carrying machine, the Aerial Experiment Association, which Dr. Glenn Curtiss directed, flew on its first trials with the Red Wing over the frozen waters of Lake Keuka. William Kissam Vanderbilt began over an Austrian lake and Bleriot to the north, Delagrange and Archdeacon flew the gliders of the world, from their birthplace in San Diego harbor to the Mediterranean, our own inland lakes, and the harbors of India and Japan, appears the flying boat, the latest and most remarkable development of aviation.

Aviation has gone back to the water, for the same reason that made it start there to reduce to a minimum the element of danger. The aeroplane was never meant to kill people; it was the product of extremely clear-headed men who went up in their machines with every intention of living as long as possible. An inventor has the best of reasons for refusing to die, especially if he is occupied with an invention that he sees is as yet only a trifle undeveloped possibilities. But before those possibilities had been more than indicated, a race of fate devils had sprung up to press them to their limits. The daredevils are dead, most of them; a few seeing the fatal moment last approaching, drew out in time and retired at all events, that period of aviation is over for good.

The aeroplane is once more in the hands of the inventor, safest and sanest of them who is trying the world over to turn out a machine for the true sportsman, one who risks no more than the others, and who takes to know the supreme joy of "living dangerously." We will have sensational feats, but for a nobler purpose. Bleriot said recently that it was his ambition to produce a vehicle that the father of the family might use for a holiday excursion—practically with the family on board. So he sends M. Pegoud into the air to demonstrate by a series of startling tests just how much the present construction of the machine will stand. In effect, M. Pegoud flies upside down that the father of a family may get right side up.

But from the moment when Glenn Curtiss produced a machine that flew from and alighted on the surface of the water, the element of danger withdrew from the foreground, drew out in time and retired at all events, that period of aviation is over for good.

The Torment of Cold.

(Sidney Lanier.) I thank Heaven that I know what it is to be cold; to be cold from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, and from the back of the neck to the heart, and from the tips of the ears to the tips of the toes, because, knowing this, I have a new revelation of the possibility of suffering, and I am able to find a paradise in a common wood fire.

Knowing this, I declare to you there is not a more pathetic sight in the world than a poor man who is thoroughly cold from toe to neck. It is the refinement of torture.

It does not gnaw like hunger, which presently becomes a sort of insanity and relieves itself, it is a drowsy, unblest, icy torment. It is a more than the army would endure. Endurance of cold means more tears to my eyes than all the hunger and all the wounds.

DRIVEN TO WIFE MURDER BY PSYCHIC EPILEPSY.

That's the Story Told by the Experts in Effort to Save Ellis' Life.

Chicago, March 2.—The defense of psychic epilepsy, otherwise known as "transitory insanity," was brought forward today to save Charles Ellis from death for killing his wife here last October. The former Cincinnati merchant injured himself more seriously than was generally supposed, it was argued, about a year ago.

Seemed to Be Epileptic.

Ellis appeared to me to be an epileptic, it seemed to me that he had just emerged from a fit, said Dr. Mackler.

Doctor, asked Prosecutor Malato, "if I were to point to you at an attack of psychic epilepsy, would I know anything about it?"

Possibly, and then again, "would you know anything about a crime committed by a man at the time a different set of surroundings may bring reaction?"

Ellis in serious condition.

OVER THE CORPSE OF HIS BROTHER HE KEEPS VIGIL.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 2.—When Charles Strubberud, a former merchant of Canton, S. D., was found dead in an apartment today with his brother, Christian, keeping vigil beside the body, Christian was arrested and held pending an investigation of his story that Charles had opened his neck arteries with a paring knife.

Three notes which Christian admitted having written were found. They constituted a brief serial on death, the first reading: "Will he die of kidney trouble?"

When will he die? and the third, "In what year?" Christian asserted that these questions were written at a spiritualistic seance.

A fourth note, signed by Charles, was found. It read: "We have been using our own money. I do not know what I am suspected of, but I have done nothing."

MRS. WILLIAMS' LONG SICKNESS.

Yields To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, fem. le weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

NEW YORK VERY DULL
DUE TO STORM

New York Market Nearly at a Standstill—Closed Steady, April Showing Advance.

New York, March 2.—The usual cable advices were received today, but otherwise the New York cotton market was practically motionless on account of storm conditions, and trading was nearly at a standstill.

WHY LOW GRADE COTTON IS IN BETTER DEMAND

New York, March 2.—Hubbard Bros. & Co. in their weekly review of cotton says: "A spirit of apathy has pervaded the cotton market of the local district since the week ending with the 10th of February."

"Several years ago the so-called 'cotton famine' was the cause of a marked change. Such a long period of business naturally increases the desire for a fixed basis and a fixed price."

"The cause of the present apathy is quickly recovered under the slow but steady demand for the more desirable grades of cotton."

"The effect of natural causes creating a low grade crop may be altered by legislation—just as if the supply of strict middling can be increased by the action of the government."

"The returns they could obtain from the Continental Spinners' association, which has been organized for the purpose of securing a fixed price for cotton."

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE

Frank Manush Reports; Storm Delays Ell Dent; Several Due Tuesday

BY THE GIANTS

Frank Manush, star utility man of the Crackers last season, and one of the best third basemen that ever played in the Southern League when he was playing regularly and not handicapped by a bad ankle, reported to Manager Bill Smith Monday morning.

Manush, right fielder of last season's team, already here.

Ell Dent, the Crackers' big right-hander, was expected during the day, but the storm that has been raging along the coast prevented his leaving his home in Maryland, as storm warnings issued by the weather bureau, made it unsafe for vessels to sail.

Dent is routed by boat from his home in Oakley, Md., and thence by train to Atlanta. He will be delayed only until the storm abates, when he will start south at once.

Several Due Today. Several of the players are due today, if they arrive as per their schedules.

Ed and Jim Walsh, the semi-professional pitcher and catcher, respectively, J. J. the former a catcher and the latter an infielder, will arrive today if they are permitted.

Captain Harry Welch, leading batter of the Southern League last season, is also scheduled to arrive this afternoon, but he is expected to be here some time ago, when he set the latest date of his arrival as March 3.

Three other players, third-sacker from Decatur, in the Three I League, may get in here today, but as railroad travel in the west is uncertain during winter months, it is probable that they will be Wednesday before he reports.

Tommy Long has written that he will arrive in Atlanta today, but that he is enjoying the present cold snap hunting, and believes that he will get in good out of that as anything else.

Just when the rest of the players will get here all depends on the weather. They are likely to blow in at any time.

"How long is this weather going to keep up," said Manager Smith Monday.

Marist and Tech High Play Important Game in City Prep League

The pennant race in the local prep basketball league, which is at present rightly sewed between Marist college and Tech high school, will be somewhat cleared up by the game to be played this afternoon between Marist and Tech high.

Tech high, while being out of the pennant hunt, is not to be counted out of the game. They are now playing the game of ball which their team has been playing all season, and will give Marist a hard fight.

Marist is also playing great ball, and will have the advantage of playing on their own court. Lowry, who has been out of the last few games, is expected to get back in the game today, and as he is considered one of the best players in the city, his return will be wonderfully strengthened by his re-entrance.

Marist will be played on the Marist court, and will commence at 3 o'clock. The admission will be 25 cents.

Here is the probable line-up: Marist: Position. TBOH HIGH: Position.

MILLIONAIRE TO BACK PITTSBURG FEDERALS

Chicago, March 2.—President Gilmore of the Federal league, announced tonight that a "Pittsburg millionaire" had decided to back the club.

Stories that Henry C. Frick, of Pittsburg, had contemplated taking an active part in the National league have been current since that time. Gilmore, however, would not say Mr. Frick was the man.

An announcement was made after a conversation over the long-distance telephone between Gilmore and W. A. Ketter of Pittsburg in which the latter is said to have promised that the deal would be closed on Thursday in New York.

The telephone conversation led President Gilmore to declare that any attempt by organizers to sign players to the Federal league would be the beginning of a war that would threaten the foundations of the organized profession. This statement was made in answer to questions concerning the reported defection of Pitcher Elmer Dye to the Federal league.

Mr. Frick had agreed to join the Cleveland team despite his contract with the Federals. Tom Seaton, the pitcher last year with Philadelphia, would join the Chicago club, it was reported, and that the Brooklyn club was to get Seaton, but the allotment on Saturday gave him to Thicker's club.

MURPHY IN CONFERENCE WITH CHARLES P. TAFT

Cincinnati, March 2.—Charles W. Murphy, of Chicago, held a two-hour conference today with Charles P. Taft, who recently purchased a controlling interest in the Chicago National league club from Mr. Murphy. Murphy had under discussion with neither Mr. Taft nor Mr. Murphy would announce anything.

The telephone number of selling my stock in the Cubs was done by wire and this is the first time since then that I have sold my stock, said Mr. Murphy. "There is absolutely nothing of news value to give out."

TRAINING GAMES Browns 6, Cubs 3.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2.—With their first training game with the Louisville Americans defeated the Chicago Nationals here, 6 to 3. The Cubs got the victory when first base until the seventh inning.

Score: Chicago, 6; Cubs, 3. Batters: Chicago, P. J. O'Rourke, R. H. E. St. Louis, 1; Cubs, 3. Batters: St. Louis, P. J. O'Rourke, R. H. E. St. Louis, 1; Cubs, 3.

NEW WORLD RECORDS AT THE INDOOR MEET

Halpin and Meyers Make the Marks—Five Championship Records in All.

New York, March 2.—Five new championship records, two of which established new world's indoor marks, were made tonight at the indoor national championships of the Amateur Athletic Union, held at Madison Square Garden.

Two other championship records were equalled.

Thomas J. Halpin, of the Boston Athletic association, and Alvan T. Meyers, of the Irish-American Athletic club, set the two new world's records.

Halpin won the 600-yard run in the new time of 1:13. Meyers in the 300-yard run established a record of 32 1-5.

The other events in which new championship figures were hung were the 2-mile walk, won by Richard F. Remer, Irish-American Athletic club, in 14:21 4-5; the 1,000-yard run, won by Abel R. Kiviat, Irish-American Athletic club, in 2:15 3-5, and the 2-mile run, won by Harry J. Smith, Bronx Church House, New York, in 9:18.

Platt Adams, of New York, was a triple winner, winning the standing high jump, standing broad jump and pole vault for distance.

Weather permitting, Manager Smith, Halpin and Manush will be at the park working out this afternoon. If not today, the first good day that prevails.

Several Blows Down. The wind storm of Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, did considerable damage to the local park.

The first thing that was hit was the big sign alongside of the scoreboard in center field. The old sign with its bottle of whisky was sobered considerably when the wind and rain fell upon it and his bottle smashed to pieces.

The "bull" had his left front hoof blown away. Why the wind should pick out his left front hoof has not been fathomed.

About two hundred feet of the fence on the right side of the field was crumpled like so much kindling. All of this will have to be repaired.

Our suggestion for the right field fence, the signs, the bull and the scoreboard is concrete. If the wind persists to present blizzard will probably take a notion to blow.

Manager Smith has not ascertained whether the water has been frozen or not, but as he has turned off, he believes that it is safe. "B-r-r-r," it was the cold this afternoon to go out and find out," said Bill.

Directors Callaway, Nunnally and Ryan spent a very gloomy day at baseball headquarters in the Third National Bank building. They waited for players to report and to welcome them.

How long is this weather going to keep up," said Manager Smith Monday.

A Cracker a Day for Fans

23. GIL PRICE.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—This is the twenty-third of a series of daily articles that will be carried in The Constitution. The man who will try for positions on the 1914 Crackers. The names of the candidates will be printed in this form.

Gilbert Eugene Price, the Crackers' brilliant southpaw, will be back with the Crackers during the coming campaign and ready and willing to twirl the game of his life.

"I have been on the water wagon for the past three months and I don't intend to fall off this season," Price has written Manager Smith in a recent letter.

That was Price's one and only drawback last season, and with the southpaw in good shape this season, this will be his last of the minors.

Manager Smith's opinion of Price as a pitcher is strong. "I think Gil Price has got as much stuff as any left-hander I have ever seen work," he said. "He is in the class of the best fielding pitcher and one of the best fellows in the world. If he takes good care of himself during this season, he'll go to the big show and win. He's a better pitcher than either Coveleski or Cavel, and both of them went up last fall."

Price was born in Leesville, Ohio, August 23, 1889, and will be 25 years of age in August. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and stands 5 feet 11 inches tall. His winter home is in Canton, Ohio.

Price is acquainted with the Crackers' last year, winning twenty-one games and losing but nine. He pitched thirty months in the National league during the season and being injured during this spring he is certain to get right off to a better start.

Staten's Boxers Ready; Three 10-Round Bouts

Tonight's Card. Young Jackson v. Gus Sharkey. Jack Monahan v. Battling Jones. Billy Hooper, v. Dixie Kid.

This is the card that Harry Staten has arranged for the fight fans of Atlanta, at his place in the Steiner-Smyer building, where the bouts will be fought, starting promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Three ten-round bouts are on the bill, and three bouts of slugging from beginning to end between six willing scrappers, none of whom are champs, but just earnest, hard-working scrappers. The first bout is between Young Jackson and Battling Jones, and the second is between Jack Monahan and Billy Hooper. The third is between Billy Hooper and Dixie Kid.

ONE-ARMED COACH FOR BOYS' HIGH

W. F. White, who has been signed by the Georgia Athletic league as an umpire for their coming baseball season, has been secured by the baseball management of the Boys' High school as a coach for their varsity team this year.

White, besides umpiring in this league last year, has been coach of the baseball team of the Second District Agricultural college, at Tifton, Ga., and, therefore, understands the duties of a coach well.

Manager Johnston and Captain Spurlock are to be congratulated upon securing this coach for the Boys' High school team of 1914.

Hoppe Defeats Yamada.

Chicago, March 2.—Willie Hoppe tonight defeated Koji Yamada 500 to 174 in the first match of the five-man 182 billiard tournament. The match came to a close in the 11th inning, Hoppe having a high run of 155 and Yamada's best inning was 91. Hoppe averaged 50 and his opponent 20.

Yamada will play Tuesday afternoon.

Fromme Joins Giants.

Marlin, Texas, March 2.—Pitcher Fromme joined the New York National league training squad here today. Except for Benoit and Cooper, the players on the world's tour are the only well-known Nationals not yet here.

Delmont Beats White.

Memphis, Tenn., March 2.—Gene Delmont of Memphis was given the decision over Jack White, of Chicago, at the end of an eight-round bout here tonight. The men are lightweights.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

The industrial and statistical bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce just now is furnishing much news of interest to real estate men.

W. L. Leahy, secretary of the industrial and statistical bureau, states that he is in negotiation with a concern which will erect a 210,000 sq. ft. branch plant in Atlanta for the manufacture of typewriter ribbons and carbons. E. C. Hirschfeld, general manager of the concern, will be in Atlanta on Monday conference with S. H. Nichols, local manager, upon the matter.

Real Estate Sales. The Dillon-Morris company has purchased from H. A. Etheridge ten building lots on Bedford place, between Seventh and Eighth streets, for a consideration of $25,000. They will improve these lots with residences. They have just completed similar improvements on a tier of lots which they purchased from the same owner.

Classy Show at the Forsyth; Hackett Clever in Crook Play

It's a classy show at the Forsyth this week, with Ethel Green first, "Dance Reveries," second, and a number of acts making the pace hot for third. In fact, if the critic was limited to writing about one act—and that Miss Green—he would be able to fill a column easily, and then be sorry that there wasn't some kind of rubber type to give him more space.

California Limited

All-Steel Pullmans

You partake of Fred Harvey dining-car meals. The name of Harvey is enough

The Sierras outclass the Alps. Europe has nothing to compare with Yosemite. The shores of the Pacific rival the Mediterranean Riviera. And Catalina is another Capri. Go this season. Go Santa Fe, and stop off to see that titanic chasm, the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

The California Limited is an all-steel Pullman train, exclusively for first-class travel. Runs daily between Chicago, Kansas City, Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland and San Francisco, with Pullman for Grand Canyon. Fred Harvey dining-car meals are served.

The Santa Fe de-Luxe, between Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles, runs once a week in winter; America's finest train—"extra fast, extra fine, extra rare."

The only railroad under one management through to California; double-tracked half way; safety block-signals "all the way."

Remember the Panama Expositions at San Francisco and San Diego in 1915

EVE FOUND IN CLOSET AND PUT UNDER ARREST

Officers Called to Peachtree Inn to Investigate Disturbance.

Mrs. Etta Williams was placed under arrest at the Peachtree Inn last night, being found by the officers hiding in the closet of a room in Eve-like attire. At the same time R. H. Jarrell was taken into custody and both were sent to police station, where Jarrell put up $140 and a valuable watch as bond for their appearance today in police court.

An Ancient Affair.

(From The Kansas City Star.)
The trial marriage idea is nothing new. A. V. Napier says he knows lots of women to whom marriage has been a trial for the last twenty years.

"Jimmy Valentine."

(At the Lyric.)
It was quite natural for those folks who saw the English actor, Warner's "Alas, Jimmy Valentine" to expect nothing more than a melodrama or a very ordinary stock interpretation. Paul Armstrong's punchy play, and it was also quite natural that those same folks who saw Norman Hackett's production should leave the Lyric last night with a good taste in their mouths.

Tobacco Habit Easily Conquered

A well-known New Yorker of wide experience has written a book telling how the tobacco or snuff habit may be easily and completely banished in three days with delightful benefit.

ATLANTA IS CHARMED BY "SUPER DANSANT"

Society Avails Itself of Invitation Extended by the Piedmont Hotel.

"Metropolitan Atlanta" has arrived. The Piedmont "super dansant," featuring two really clever society dancers, Mr. Guy Murray and Miss Kathryn Wheaton, the latter, by the way, a former Savannah, proved it Monday night.

Military Maids.

(At the Columbia.)
There is pep and ginger in every minute of the military Maids' performance at the Columbia theater offering in burlesque, this week. One of the largest crowds of people have attended the Maids' Trueheart Musical Comedy company and applauded every number.

"Failures of Justice" Denounced by Citizens

Shreveport, La., March 2.—Denouncing the verdict returned in the district court here in several recent trials for murder as "failures of justice," resolutions were passed by the citizens of this city last night.

"Everywoman."

(At the Atlanta.)

Grand Jury to Probe Atlanta Locker Clubs

At the first session of the March term, grand jury sworn in on Monday a probe into the alleged violations of the state prohibition law in local locker clubs will start.

Chases Snatch Thief Who Stole Mesh Bag

In broad daylight a bold negro snatch thief rudely bumped into Mrs. E. F. Hammond on West Peachtree street, near Pine street, Monday afternoon about 4:35 o'clock.

Hill Succeeds Gray.

St. Paul, Minn., March 2.—Louis W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railroad, will become president of the road to succeed Carl R. Gray, resigned.

Rheumatism in Georgia!

A Blood Disease and Can Easily be Cured by Using A Remarkable Remedy

Jasper Well Lighted.

Council has installed eight Edison arc lights and lighting the tower. Each light is 1,500 candle power, main street looks like a white way sure enough. The lights burn 34 per cent air and 6 per cent gasoline and are beautiful.

Cedar Bluff Hotel Burns.

Lynch, Ga., March 2.—(Special.)—The Cedar Bluff hotel, at Cedar Bluff, Ala., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Saturday morning, March 2, 1914.

Alleged Bandit Very Sick.

Lynch, Ga., March 2.—(Special.)—Unless the condition of Frank Matthews grows better he will not be tried for the murder of a woman at a party, which meets Monday, for the alleged complicity in the Lynch bank robbery.

Mount Airy Home Burns.

Mount Airy, Ga., March 2.—(Special.)—The home of Bridger, on the farm of Mount Airy, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The fire started in the kitchen and spread to the main floor, and there was no insurance on either the building or contents.

NEGRO SLAYER GIVEN THREE-YEAR SENTENCE

Case of Black Who Shot White Man Brought Here on Change of Venue.

Lon Eddie, a negro, on trial all of Monday, before Judge Ben Hill, of the criminal division of the superior court, was sentenced late Monday afternoon by the court to three years in the penitentiary, following the jury's verdict of manslaughter, brought in after an hour's deliberation.

Convicted Man Sneers at Verdict of Murder

New York, March 2.—There was a sneer on the face of Oratio Shillitoni, a gangster, tonight as he listened to the verdict of murder in the first degree by a jury which tried him for slaying Probationary Policeman William Heaney, in Mulberry street, on the night of March 3, 1913.

Psychic Phase in London.

(From The Gentlewoman.)
It seems as if, at the present time, Londoners of the upper classes are going through what, for want of a better expression, I should call a "psychic phase."
