

WILLING TO HELP DETECTIVE BURNS, ASSERTS LANFORD

"Members of My Force Perfectly Willing to Submit to Quiz on Phagan Case," He Tells Constitution.

BURNS HAS LONG TALK WITH FRANK IN TOWER

The Well-Known Detective Hopes to Have Interview in a Few Days With Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey.

Within a few hours after it had been learned that Detective William J. Burns would seek to quiz every detective at police headquarters who worked on the Mary Phagan murder, Chief of Detectives Newport A. Lanford declared to a reporter for The Constitution that he would co-operate with Burns, if necessary.

Lanford stated that there would be no objection to Burns' proposed interrogation of men of the detective bureau who worked on the Phagan mystery. Instead, he averred, every resource of the police headquarters department will be tendered the noted sleuth.

"I will throw open to Burns all information available to my department," stated the chief. "If there is anything the Atlanta detective department has overlooked, we will gladly assist. We want to find it out. If there is any mystery remaining, it is our ambition to fathom it. If Burns needs us to help him do it, we are at his service."

Will Interview Detectives.

Burns will likely quiz a number of Chief Lanford's men, either today or tomorrow. He has made no definite plans, it is said, along this line, but is busy at present mapping out his plan of campaign.

Albert McKnight, the state witness whose sensational reputation was recently contained in an affidavit now possessed by the defense, made his first statement Monday afternoon, when he talked for the first time since his injuries, with Dr. Thomas Hancock, his attending physician. McKnight declares he was not trying to swing from a train when injured, but that he had been struck while walking along the tracks.

Furthermore, Dr. Hancock states, the negro declared he was not hurt at Roseland, near which place his body was found, but was struck near the McDaniel street viaduct crossing which is in the city. Dr. Hancock says the negro told him that he had not been away from Atlanta, as was suspected, but had remained in the city in the employ of a patent medicine salesman.

Dr. Hancock says that it is probable that the negro does not recollect the exact cause of the accident, as many persons who have been rendered unconscious by a blow frequently forget events preceding the injury.

Will Interview Lanford.

Burns will likely seek a conference with Chief Newport A. Lanford some time today—or perhaps, tomorrow. Among those he intends to interview will be John Black, headquarters principal figure in the investigation, and Detectives Pat Campbell and John Starnes.

Campbell and Starnes were named as prosecutors in the bill of indictment returned by the grand jury against Frank. Among others whom Burns expects to talk with at police headquarters are Detectives J. A. Chowning and W. L. Norris, the two stoutly accented by Nina Korbly of having coerced her into swearing in an affidavit to an untrue story against the convicted superintendent.

Will Interview Dorsey.

He is likewise going to interview Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey and private investigators attached to the solicitor's staff. He is planning to confer with every man in Atlanta who was connected in any manner with the Phagan investigation.

He held a lengthy talk with the prisoner in the Tower last night. During Monday afternoon he was closeted with Leonard Haas, counsel for the defense in the Haas offices, where he went thoroughly over the brief of evidence submitted by Franks' counsel at the application for a new trial before the supreme court.

Burns' plan to quiz the police headquarters detectives creates interesting speculation. Police officials have stated in the past, however, that the great detective, in event he concluded them, would receive their full co-operation.

It has been said by a member of the detective bureau that Chief Lanford has recently unearthed an amount of evidence that will be valuable to the prosecution in the case, and I have no hesitation in saying that, they are the most capable in America.

Confident of Success. I have no doubt but that my associates and I will be able to name the murderer of Mary Phagan," Burns told newspaper reporters Monday. "I am bringing my most expert assistants to work on the case, and I have no hesitation in saying that, they are the most capable in America. There is no mystery so mysterious that it cannot be solved. I am confident that we can clear up this case."

PUBLISHERS' MEET WILL CLOSE TODAY

Delegates Entertained at a Brilliant Banquet Last Night—Jason Rogers Urges Honesty in Advertising.

One of the most distinguished organizations that has ever visited Atlanta will close its sessions in Atlanta today when the Southern Publishers' association adjourns its two-day gathering at the Hotel Ansley this afternoon, after electing officers and selecting a city for the meeting of the publishers next year.

Two meetings, climaxed by a brilliant banquet last night at the Piedmont Driving club, brought to a close the first day's business.

Today two sessions will be held, one at 10 o'clock this morning in the parlors adjacent to the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Ansley, and the other this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the same place. The publishers of Dixie gathered last night at 7 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving club for their annual banquet. Major John Cohen, of The Atlanta Journal presided at toastmaster.

Addresses of Evening. The following made speeches: Clark Howell, Jason Rogers, of New York; Victor Hanson, of Birmingham; John Temple Graves, F. W. Himmans, of Jacksonville; William J. Burns, the detective of New York city; Joseph Mitchell Chappelle, of Boston, the well-known magazine editor; W. T. Anderson, of Mason; Marshall Ballard, of New Orleans; and L. N. Foster, of Nashville.

The keynote of the dinner at the Driving club was informality. The program of the evening was for the most part bantering in tone, and, saving one or two moments, savored of jollification and a throwing aside of business worries and publication problems.

Today's sessions will embrace the election of officers for the new year and the selection of the city where the next gathering of the publishers will be held. A case canvas last night disclosed the fact that Jacksonville led the race for securing the next convention of the newspaper men of the south by several votes.

One of the interesting events of the dinner at the Driving club was the interpolated remarks of Detective William J. Burns, here to probe the Frank mystery.

Detective Burns for the most part followed a recent lecture here in his speech, but deviated from his set speech when he declared that his work had called him here to investigate "a mystery in which the community was vitally interested."

"And," said the well known sleuth, "these mysteries, I find, usually prove to be no mysteries at all—simply untraced clues which lead to the real solution of the case."

Clever Repartee. The set speeches of last evening soon after the dinner had been served soon resolved themselves into clever retorts following shafts of wit hurled at the speakers by the toastmaster.

One of the speakers was carried away with the exception of the speech of Frank P. Glass, who was unable to attend the dinner. Mr. Glass was ably represented by Victor Hanson, of The Birmingham News.

Major E. D. Stahlman was also absent but Joseph Chappelle, of Boston, more than acceptably filled the niche left vacant.

One of the surprise events of the evening was the program presented by the committee in charge of the dinner. The program, a four page affair, was bound in a matrix form and gave a list of the evening's speakers as follows:

Those present at the dinner were: R. S. Carver, Robert W. Swift, B. C. Broyles, Dudley Glass, John E. Gallagher, J. T. Whelan, W. R. Schwartz, Robert J. Patterson, W. C. Dowd, F. C. R. Gray, J. T. Graves, H. H. Cables, R. W. Himmans, T. W. Loyless, Clark Howell, William J. Burns, W. L. Halstead and John Cohen.

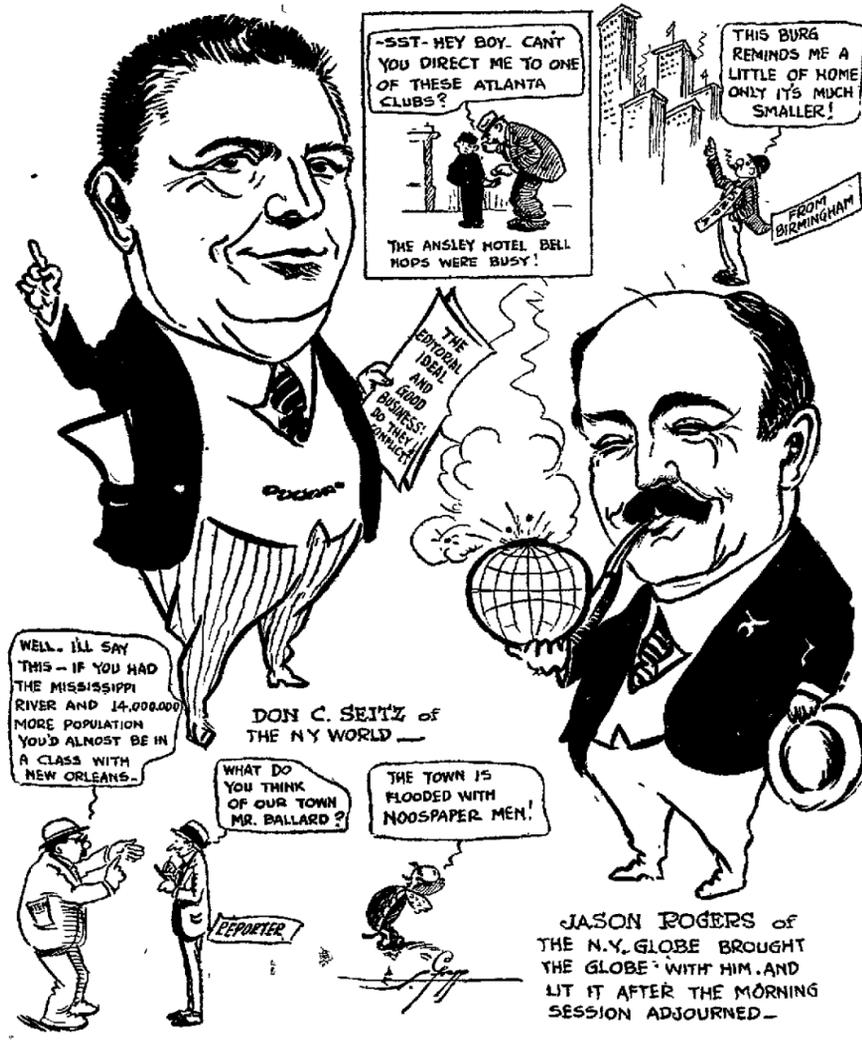

Monday's speech, he embraced addresses from the following: Don C. Seitz, manager of The New York World; Jason Rogers, publisher of The New York Globe; M. Thompson, of The New Orleans Item; W. T. Anderson, of The Atlanta Constitution; and several others.

The sessions of the convention today will be held morning and afternoon in the parlors adjacent to mezzanine floor, Hotel Ansley. About fifty delegates from sixteen southern states registered for the convention on Monday. The program of Monday was somewhat interfered with on account of the

Snake on Rampage Throws Big Shock Into "Black Way"

Now in the beginning, let this much be said: It honestly was a real, legitimate snake.

You should be apprised of this, for the sole fact that it was seen on Decatur street in the vicinity of a saloon might create doubt.

This 11-year-old Texas rattler with Mexican relatives by marriage was as large in circumference as the forearm of a plump chorus girl and about three times as long although the steepland across the street said it was longer.

It had been reposing peacefully in the window of a drug store at Woodmont avenue and Decatur street, assisting other snakes in advertising a patent medicine being put on sale by Dr. B. W. Nedman. Suddenly and without warning the rattler began to buzz.

Dr. Nedman sprang from the window, barely escaping the fangs of the snake as it struck. The reptile followed the doctor, the impact of its heavy body breaking a pane of glass in the show window in which he had been performing.

The snake crawled swiftly from the window and into the street striking out in the vicinity of a nearby saloon. Pedestrians were scattered in all directions. Police headquarters was notified and Policemen Evans and Palmer went to the scene.

Dr. Nedman attempted to catch the rattler. As his fingers wrapped around the snake's tail, it coiled in a flash and struck, burying its fangs in his left hand. Before attending to the wound, however, the physician, with the aid of pedestrians, recaptured the snake, imprisoning it for the night.

Dr. Nedman explained that every lady owning an automobile will join. Among the prominent local automobile owners who took an active work in the organization were John K. Ottley, Harvey Hill, William Mauldin, R. K. Rambo, St. Elmo Massengale and Wallace W. Daniel.

Monday's speech, he embraced addresses from the following: Don C. Seitz, manager of The New York World; Jason Rogers, publisher of The New York Globe; M. Thompson, of The New Orleans Item; W. T. Anderson, of The Atlanta Constitution; and several others.

JAMES SEAWRIGHT SUCCEEDS HARWELL

J. N. Renfro Offers No Opposition, Being Disqualified by His Membership on the Smoke Board.

James R. Seawright, of No. 192 South Forsyth street, was elected by council yesterday to a place on the aldermanic board as representative of the First ward.

Seawright went into office without opposition from J. N. Renfro, who announced himself a candidate with the endorsement of the First ward delegation.

At the eleventh hour Renfro found that he disqualified himself because he failed to resign as a member of the smoke and gas board. His friends asserted that he had been plighted the votes of fifteen members of the general council and would have been elected.

Made Vigorous Fight. He carried on one of the most vigorous campaigns made before Atlanta's general council and the members who pledged him their support were chagrined when they learned that Seawright's friends had consulted with City Attorney James L. Mason and were prepared to raise the point of ineligibility on the floor of council.

That Renfro was determined to make a fight on the floor of council was indicated by the announcement that Councilman Jesse Wood, of the Sixth ward, would offer his name and make a plea for election.

There were only twenty five members present when Mayor Woodward assumed control of council and proceeded with the election. Two of the absentees, Councilman Knight of the Second ward, and Councilman Shepard of the Third ward, were claimed as being favorable to Renfro's candidacy.

Immediately following the announcement of the election Mayor Woodward administered the oath of office, and Alderman Seawright took his seat and entered into the deliberations of council and the aldermanic board.

Succeeded Harwell. Alderman Seawright takes the seat of the late lamented Alderman J. H. Harwell, who died as the result of a fall in the council chamber while attending a meeting.

Gaston Calmette, Author of Newspaper Attacks on the Minister of Finance, Shot Down in Office by Mme. Caillaux.

"I HAVE DONE MY DUTY," CRIES STRICKEN WRITER ON WAY TO DEATH BED

Drawing Revolver From Muff, Woman Empties the Weapon at Journalist, Who Vainly Tries to Dodge Behind Desk.

Paris, March 16.—Gaston Calmette editor of The Figaro shot today by Mme. Henriette Caillaux wife of Joseph Caillaux, the French minister of finance, died tonight.

Mme. Caillaux went to the office of The Figaro to carry out an act of vengeance against M. Calmette who had been warring a campaign charged by great bitterness against the minister of finance. She fired at least three times M. Calmette being wounded in the chest in the side and the abdomen.

While the editor was being transported to the hospital he said repeatedly: "I have done my duty. I have done my duty."

Having committed the deed M. Caillaux submitted to arrest and while employed in The Figaro offices were taking the pistol from her hands she said:

"Since there is no justice in this country, I take upon myself an act of justice. Take me where you will. Mme. Caillaux immediately was removed to a police station where she underwent a preliminary examination of the substance of which was communicated to the press at her death.

"I am sorry," she said for what I was obliged to do. I had no intention of killing M. Calmette and I would be happy to know that he will recover. I desired only to teach him a lesson. At the moment of the attack M. Calmette was preparing to leave his office in the company of Paul Bourget, the author. He exercised himself to receive Mme. Caillaux.

In her statement to the police Mme. Caillaux explained that the campaign against her husband had become intolerable and she determined to stop it. She consulted a friendly lawyer who advised her that legal proceedings would be futile—that they were often worse in the case of an innocent than in the case of the guilty. She decided then to take the law into her hands. She bought a revolver and drove to The Figaro office and sent in her card.

M. Calmette was most polite and asked what he could do for her.

Drew Revolver From Muff. "It is needless for me to pretend that I was making a friendly call," she answered," said Mme. Caillaux. "The losing all control of myself at the thought of the humiliations inflicted on my husband by this man, I drew my revolver from my muff and fired all the cartridges M. Calmette was supplied at the first report and tried to take shelter behind a desk."

Mme. Caillaux was charged formally with attempted homicide and removed to St. Lazare prison. Later the charge was changed to homicide.

It was officially announced tonight that M. Caillaux had tendered his resignation from the ministry of finance but that Premier Doumergue withheld his decision until tomorrow.

Mme. Caillaux is the minister's third wife. She is 39 years old and her maiden name was Henriette Rainouard. She was the wife of Leo Claretie, brother of the late Jules Claretie, from whom she was divorced.

Attacks a Daily Feature.
The personal campaign of Gaston Calmette against Joseph Caillaux began on January 12, and since then the attacks against the finance minister have been a daily feature of the paper. The fact that the campaign was inaugurated on the eve of the opening of the last session of the present chamber of deputies created intense interest in the charges. Among these, M. Calmette asserted that M. Caillaux offered to pay $1,200,000 to M. Schneider, the legal representative of Marcel Ertel, who had entered claim against the government, on condition that 50 per cent of that amount should be turned over to the radical party's campaign fund for the coming elections.

Marcel Ertel was a French merchant of Brazil. Thirteen of his ships were seized by the Brazilian government in 1890, on the charge that the customs regulations had been evaded. Eventually Brazil paid to the French government an indemnity of $3,000,000. Ertel's claim to this was repeatedly rejected, but his heirs in 1899 formed a syndicate to prosecute the claim.

Charged He Tapped Banks.
M. Calmette also charged that M. Caillaux had "tapped" the Comptoir national d'escompte and other banks to the amount of $50,000.

Among other accusations it was charged that the minister had exerted pressure on the judges to postpone the trial of Henri Rochette, who was arrested in Paris in 1908 on the charge of swindling on an enormous scale, thus enabling him to flee to Mexico. M. Caillaux was also charged with authorizing the quotation of the Board of questionable foreign loans, whereby vast sums were lost by French investors.

Caillaux contented himself with issuing categorical denials. But on March 12, The Figaro printed a fac simile of a letter from M. Caillaux to an intimate friend, dated "The Senate July 16, 1911," at the time M. Caillaux was minister of finance in the Waldeck-Rousseau cabinet—in which he said he had been successful in crushing the income tax, although seemingly he was defending the tax.

This brought matters to a climax and it was understood that the finance minister intended to take proceedings against M. Calmette for publishing a private letter without authority, either from the sender or the receiver. Much mystery is attached to the letter a fac simile of which The Figaro printed on March 12. Mme. Caillaux affirms that the letter was addressed to her and that she learned that M. Calmette intended to publish several other letters of an even more intimate character. This The Figaro denies. Mme. Caillaux said yesterday to M. Caillaux on October 21, 1911, when he was premier, President Poincaré, then a senator, being one of her witnesses.

PUBLISHERS MEET WILL CLOSE TODAY

late arrival of some of the delegates and also on account of the fact that the delegates were late in assembling. The first address of the morning session was delivered by Jason Rogers, of The New York Globe, whose address, "Advertising and Newspaper Development," caused a ripple of excitement to pass among the delegates. The address was a strong appeal to the southern publishers to follow the lead set by some of the northern newspapers in the matter of cleaning up the advertising sections of the newspapers of today.

Truth and Honesty.
Truth and honesty in advertising is a subject that is now sweeping the newspaper world of this country," said Mr. Rogers.

Newspaper men everywhere are fast realizing it is bad business to lend the use of their columns to crooks and for the purpose of humbugging and deceiving readers with ads proclaiming "cure-alls and fraudulent bargain sales," said Mr. Rogers. It is of no use for a newspaper to build up a reputation for fair dealing, public service and high character, if it permits its columns to be used by unscrupulous advertisers. In the absence of any definite or hard code of ethics, publishers are adopting other rules that are perhaps unfair to many concerns marketing a perfectly reputable article on account of some apparent infringement in the copy, and permitting many outrageous things to be published because they are dressed up in party clothes, so to speak.

Any newspaper publisher can easily keep himself posted upon the merits of the various proprietorial articles appearing in the newspapers, and also get an accurate line on the legitimacy of various bargain sales advertised by local dealers, and by applying the same line of reason that he uses in the consideration of other details of his paper. He can thus protect his readers, and increase the value of the advertising he does print.

Let the publisher ask himself whether he would permit the use of the article in his own family or allow its members to patronize the bargain sale. Of course, a reasonable flexibility to provide for the differences in the various stations of life must be applied to make the test fair for all concerned.

On The New York Globe we will not accept any "sure ad." The advertiser may claim to retail certain common ailments not of too personal or objectionable a nature, but we will not accept nor publish any medical or medicinal ad which we consider would be objectionable to the class of people for whom we make the paper.

We carry a standing card at the head of the editorial column as follows:

"The Globe does not knowingly accept false or fraudulent advertising or advertising of an objectionable nature. Every advertisement in its columns is printed with full confidence."

W. C. JOHNSON, Manager Chattanooga News

G. P. BROWNE, Anderson Daily Mail

A. E. CLARKSON, Business Manager Houston Post

EDGAR M. FOSTER, Business manager Nashville Banner

In the character and reliability of the advertiser and the truth of the representations made. Readers of the Globe will confer a favor if they will promptly report any failure on the part of an advertiser to make good any representation contained in a Globe advertisement.

The response we have had from reader shows how seriously they accept The Globe's statement, and in the case of every complaint where the advertiser fails to give satisfaction, or to willingly refund the money as the amount and stood ready to assist the reader in getting full reparation. We will not accept financial advertising from any concern not well known to be reliable and, usually, only after careful investigation, not only for the purpose of protecting our readers, but because by publishing fake financial and promotion matter, we know we would lose much of the large volume of such business that we annually carry from reputable bankers and important financial concerns.

We do not claim that we of The Globe, practice a superior grade of business in advertising, but we do claim that we have found it to be good business policy to keep out the crooks. In nearly every case, two or three times a newspaper has cut off a few hundred or thousand dollars worth of questionable business, but soon got in its place several times as much of new unobjectionable advertising.

As we have already said, newspapers are rapidly catching on to the profitable side of the proposition and finding out that as they create greater confidence on the part of readers in the advertising they publish their publications become more profitable to advertisers and the volume of business carried gradually increases.

Don Seltz Speaks.
Don C. Seltz, of The New York World made a telling address, in which he discussed at length the "Editorial Ideals and Good Business, Do They Conflict?"

Mr. Seltz took a stand that without co-operation of the editorial and business end of the newspaper business, no newspaper could possibly hope to succeed. He particularly stressed co-operation between the editorial and business office in the matter of securing news.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While if Your Bladder Is Troubling You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys, and then efforts to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish. When your kidneys get this way, you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's uricous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach soars, tongue is coated, and when the weather is hot you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water seals and you are obliged to urinate and relieve three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for 4 or 5 days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is a safe, sure, for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent, water drink.

BERLIN FAITH HEALERS PROSECUTED BY CROWN

Berlin, March 16.—According to The National Zeitung, the crown prosecutor has begun the prosecution of several faith healers in connection with the death recently of two prominent actresses, Frau Nuschke Buitze and Frau Von Arnaud Perriere, of the Royal theater.

The two women suffered from chronic disease, and it is alleged, were induced to dismiss their attending physicians and submit to the faith cure with fatal results. Their death attracted general attention, owing to the prominence of the actresses.

MERCHANTS ASK DELAY IN TRUST LEGISLATION

New York, March 16.—Postponement by congress until its next regular session of all anti-trust legislation is asked in resolutions adopted today by the Merchants' Association of New York, representing 3,600 leading business establishments in this city.

The resolutions "deprecate haste in the enactment of legislation of such importance before the judgment of the country has been fully consulted and has come, in President Wilson's words, to a clear and all but universal agreement."

FOUR KINDS OF MONEY CIRCULATED IN MEXICO

Douglas, Ariz., March 16.—Four kinds of money are circulating in the Mexican territory now controlled by the constitutionalists. These are United States currency, the flat issue of the constitutional government, Sonora state and "ville money," or that issued by Chihuahua at the instance of the rebel military commander. United States money takes precedence in value, and at the same time absorbs the laws requiring acceptance of the rebel currency issues, have established sliding scales of prices. This was discovered when five storekeepers were arrested at Cananea by constitutionalists secret service men, who found that for American money they could buy goods for less than half the amount exacted when payment was offered in Mexican currency.

The uncertainty with which the rebel campaign against Torreon is regarded is reflected in the money market. Today constitutionalists sold for 32 to 28 cents American on the peso, Mexican federal currency commanded from 35 to 32 cents.

The commission held that existing rates were neither unreasonable nor discriminatory.

COTHRAN'S CLAIM GOES BACK TO THE COMMITTEE

Back to the claims committee went the claim of J. T. Cottrhan, a contractor who demands that the city pay him

$105 for extra work performed in building retaining walls in Ivy street. The claims committee was divided in its report to the general council. Aldermen Owens and Maddox voted to pay the claim, taking the position that the work compelled the contractor to spend money to do the work in a certain way not provided for in the contract. Chairman Wood and Councilmen Ashley and Mason signed an adverse report. The committee will meet again to take up the claim.

Franchises were granted the Geo. A. The franchise for the Alabama extension was granted for an indeterminate period but the Butler street franchise was made a part of the Gilmer street franchise which is for a period of only thirty-nine years. Councilman Ashley raised the point that the city could not give the company a franchise to run freight line through any of the streets of the city but City Attorney Mason ruled that the general council had the right

THE COUNTRY'S HONOR SAFE.

The Associated Press reports that the Sims bill to repeal the tolls exemption to coastwise vessels engaged in Panama trade will come to a vote in the house next Saturday. The prophecy of this non-partisan news agency is that the movement to repeal will triumph, the only question in doubt being the size of the repealing majority. That statement applies to the house as well as to the senate, and it is expected the latter body will quickly dispose of the issue.

Congress cannot very well take any course other than that of repeal in view of the full but fair light Mr. Wilson and others have turned on the subject.

Mr. Wilson has told the people, and congress, that the only issue involved in the controversy is that of national honor.

Our honor, as regards our pledged word to effect no discrimination in canal tolls, will be redeemed if we repeal the exemption clause.

Our honor will be stultified, our solemn promise violated, if congress declines to repeal the exemption clause.

In connection with approaching action in the house, it is well to remember the money cost, to put it on a sordid basis, of exempting coastwise shipping.

Professor Emery R. Johnson, of the University of Pennsylvania, recently told an audience in New York city that to admit coastwise vessels to the canal tolls free would cost $20,000,000 for the first ten years of the canal's operation.

That $20,000,000 would have to come, in upkeep expenses, from other sources. These sources bearing the brunt would be divided between the traffic of other nations, our own foreign commerce, the United States treasury and the pockets of the American consumer. At the last analysis, it would be a gift or subsidy to coastwise shipping, already enjoying a complete monopoly against foreign competition.

President Wilson has solemnly told the people and their law-makers that future great chapters of history depend upon our course with regard to this matter.

If we stand by our solemn obligation, our honor is secure, we pave the way to world peace and to an era of international trade expansion and prosperity; otherwise, our honor is smeared, and there is no guarantee that commercial and diplomatic reprisals may not hamper our development.

No American congress has ever faced a graver issue.
 We have confidence that the congress now sitting will rise to the dignity and demands of the crisis.

ON KNOWING SOUTH AMERICA.

The addresses of the Right Rev. L. L. Kinsolving, Bishop of Brazil, delivered in Atlanta Sunday, furnished a basis of serious thought for American business men.

The main theme of the straightway and lucid discourses of Bishop Kinsolving was a justified plea for aid in establishing a mission school in Brazil. While he was in Atlanta, he gave thinking people sufficient reasons to believe as he does on this single point and tender him their financial support. But the broader scope of his sermons was pitched to a legitimate criticism of the ignorance of North America regarding South America. And if we lay aside religion and education entirely, it still holds that if we are ever to do business with the countries to the south of us we must know and understand them better.
 The bishop's descriptions touching Brazil alone were enlightening. When he said that that country was as large as the continental United States, plus two Texas, and that it had a varied population of 20,000,000 people, the information was startling enough in itself. But in the course of his keen analysis of the politics, education, commerce and industry of South America, he gave to the absorbed hearer a vivid panorama of a land of which we know little, a land of stupendous possibilities, and a land whose folk we inevitably must cultivate, if we do not expect to be at a disadvantage in pursuing our destiny abroad.

All we know of these nations to the south of us has come through consular reports, travel books and lectures, and the graphic utterances of such men as Senator Root and former President Roosevelt. It takes knowledge a long time to penetrate the mind of a great nation like our own, particularly, when, as Bishop Kinsolving emphasized, we profess to be so preoccupied with our home affairs.

The point to remember is that "home affairs" can no longer limit the horizons of the United States. Our angle must be cosmopolitan, not provincial. If it be true in a religious sense, according to John Wesley, that "the world is my parish," it is today no less true in a material sense that "the world is my market-place." And the United States cannot meet competition if it is ignorant of its market-place, and the rules of the game as it is played there.

THE SOUTHERN PUBLISHERS.

The twelfth annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association, now meeting in a two-day session in Atlanta, brings to this city many of the men most prominent and influential in the southern daily newspaper world. Among the notable guests of the association are Jason Rogers, publisher of The New York Globe, and Don C. Seitz, manager of The New York World.

While the personnel of the members present ranges from business office to editorial sanctum, including, of course, circulation and advertising departments, the major part of program addresses itself to the business features of newspaper operation, and how they may effectually be co-ordinated with what is professionally known as the "news end."

The average layman has little knowledge of the intricate details involved in the publication of the modern daily newspaper, nor of the manner in which the newspaper has itself evolved during the past fifteen years. After the civil war newspaper progress in the southern states was slower than in other parts of the country, journalism sharing with other southern institutions the impoverishing and paralyzing effect of that war and its aftermath. But for the past fifteen to twenty years, it is a safe assertion that the southern daily has made strides commensurate with its northern contemporaries, making allowance for difference in population and wealth per capita. Indeed, it is a certainty, that from point of view of modernity of equipment the southern daily is fully abreast of the northern daily.

The men behind this big southern news machine, stretching from Richmond to the Rio Grande, are a keen-minded, alert set. Each circulation field has, necessarily, its own peculiar problems, but the great issues underlying daily publication are practically the same everywhere. That is why the discussions and interchanges of the experts now gathered in Atlanta are freighted with significance to the general public. The Constitution cordially greets these men in charge of the south's news and publicity.

A NON-PARTISAN BILL.

The most significant features about the interstate trade commission bill, made public yesterday, are its non-partisan sponsorship and the elimination or softening of several drastic principles which laid the measure, as originally drawn, justly open to criticism. The bill was framed by a subcommittee of the house interstate commerce committee and is really a joint democratic-republican product. That fact ought to reassure the country, and facilitate the passage of the bill through house and senate.

The public has recognized for several years that some sort of federal supervision over interstate business outside of the railroads was inevitable. The powers now lodged in the bureau and commissioner of corporations are arbitrary and indefinite, liable to cause as much injurious uncertainty as to secure constructive good. These powers now will be absorbed in the new commission, to be appointed by the president and no one political party to have more than two of them.

The chief causes for uneasiness over the bill, as first drawn, were its opportunities for undue inquisition, the possibility that it might make public legitimate business secrets and the fear that it might cause disturbance by the desire to re-make the whole scheme of things over-night.

These contingencies have been fairly well covered in the measure now made public. There is to be, it appears, no wild-eyed baying of business. Legitimate trade secrets will be kept inviolate. If eggs are to be "unscrambled" the work will be done decently and in order.
 Best of all, whatever legislation is accomplished will bear a non-partisan brand. That fact is an effectual safeguard against destructive and partisan criticism in the future. The main thing now is for congress to push matters to a speedy conclusion, tone down the note of radicalism and go home. Give business a chance. Give the nation generally the opportunity to recover from two capital legislative operations, those involved in the currency and tariff laws.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
 The Famous Prose Poet.

The Halcyon Days.

"I see the city water, that we're all drinking," said the retired merchant, "has been analyzed, and the chemist says it's enough to kill a six-legged giraffe. It contains all the germs you ever read about. I think it would be a good thing for the public health if every taxpayer had his own well, as our fathers used to. When I think of the pure, sweet, cold water we used to get from our well, I feel as though I could drink eight firkins of it."

"To rather drink city water, and swallow a million spray-footed germs with every dipperful than monkey around a pump," replied the biologist, "is a very old idea. I think when you were old, that the institutions of our childhood were away ahead of anything existing now, but you can't fool me on this well water proposition. My father had a well in the back lot. It was about nine miles deep, and I'll admit that the water was cold and tasted good, but I have no doubt that if it were analyzed the chemist would find everything in it that you can find in our city water. In those days nobody ever analyzed water, and so we didn't have a scare thrown into us whenever we took a drink. If the chemists would leave our city water alone we'd enjoy it just as much as we used to enjoy the well water. But they won't do it, because they know that the hydrant and all the pipes will have a scare thrown into their laboratories, and run it through a sausage grinder, and then put their heads out of the window and yell that the stuff is full of anacondas and bald-faced crocodiles."

"Then the pump was always getting out of order. In those days the pumpmaker had a bigger graft than the lightning rod agent. He used to come to our place about twice a week to give our pump an overhauling, and his charges kept father poor, and we all had to go to church barefoot because of him. And when the pump was in good shape, the well itself was out of order. Every now and then the water would begin to taste as though a bay horse had fallen into the well, and then father would have to tie himself to the end of a rope, while some nice kind neighbor let him down with a windlass, and when he came up he was covered with green slime and he would stand at the edge of the well and say things for hours at a stretch."

"Oh, the old-fashioned well was a great institution. When our pump gave out entirely father got a couple of oaken buckets, and you read about in the poem, and eighteen or twenty miles, and then the day after, and after that the water had to be hauled up, hand over hand, by means of the rope. I wish you could have heard my father apostrophizing things when he stood out there on a coil day, when the rope had a coating of ice on it, hauling a bucket of water up from some point in Asia Minor. I have heard some silver-tongued orators in my day, but father could talk rings around the best of them."

"I often wonder what the grand old man would think if he could return to earth and see people getting water from faucets, and hear them wishing they had an old-fashioned well."

St. Patrick Was a Gentleman.

Oh, St. Patrick was a gentleman,
 Who came of decent people;
 He built a church in Dublin town,
 And on it put a steeple.
 His father was a Gallagher,
 His mother was a McGee,
 His aunt was an O'Shaughnessy,
 His uncle an O'Grady.

So, success attend St. Patrick's fist,
 For he's a Saint so clever;
 O, he gave the snakes and toads a twist,
 And bothered them forever!
 The Wicklow Hills are very high,
 And so's the Hill of Howth, sir;
 But there's a hill much bigger still,
 Much higher nor them both, sir.
 'Twas on the top of this high hill
 St. Patrick preached his sermon,
 That drove the fogs into the bog,
 And banished all the varmint.

So, success attend St. Patrick's fist, etc.
 There's not a mile in Ireland's isle
 As to the back of Munster,
 But there he put his dear foot,
 And murdered them in clusters.
 The toads went pop, the frogs went boop,
 Slap-dash into the water;
 The snakes coiled suicide,
 To save themselves from slaughter.

So, success attend St. Patrick's fist, etc.
 Nine hundred thousand reptiles blue
 He charmed with sweet discourses,
 And dined on them at Killybeg
 In soups and second courses.
 Where blind worms crawling in the grass
 Disgusted all the nation,
 He gave them a rise, which opened their eyes
 To a sense of their situation.

So, success attend St. Patrick's fist, etc.
 No wonder that those Irish lads
 Should be so gay and frisky,
 For sure St. Pat he taught them that,
 As well as making whisky;
 No wonder that the Saint himself
 Should understand distilling,
 Since his mother kept a Shebeen shop
 In the town of Enniskillen.

So, success attend St. Patrick's fist, etc.
 O was I but so fortunate
 As to be back of Munster,
 'T is I'd be bound that from that ground
 I nevermore would once stir,
 For there St. Patrick planted turf,
 And plenty of the praties,
 With pigs galore, ma gra, ma store,
 And cabbage—and ladies!
 Then my blessing on St. Patrick's fist,
 For he's the darling Saint, O!
 O, he gave the snakes and toads a twist;
 He's a beauty without a peer.
 —HENRY BENNETT.

How Small! How Great!

His own soul is each man's universe;
 What is, is what he knows and feels.
 All else to him is nothingness.
 Some soul's contract about earth's patry things,
 Like chigger-skins round molecules of dust,
 But some expand in ever-broadening waves
 Through constellations bright with God's eternal truths.
 And reach to heaven's boundary line.

The Great Trials of History

TRIAL OF THE MURDERERS OF THYNE.

The curiosity of visitors to Westminster Abbey is often excited by a certain tomb, which, as the tablet above it records, contains the body of Thomas Thynne, of Longleaze, who was barbarously murdered on the 12th of February, 1822.

Thomas Thynne—"son of ten thousand," as he was nicknamed in reference to what, at that time, was considered an immense income, was at the time of his death about thirty-four years old. In spite of his own wealth he seems to have desired to make an advantageous marriage, and through the aid of a "marriage broker," he sued for the hand of a well-known beauty. Another suitor for the girl, or rather for the estates she would inherit, was a soldier of fortune, Count Carl John Konigsmarck. This dashing young man was regarded not unkindly by the girl, who at the unusual age of sixteen was thrice married and thrice widowed, but Lady Northumberland, who carried through the match with Thynne, despite the fact that he was distasteful to her granddaughter.

Attached to Konigsmarck's person was a certain Captain Vratz, a bold, daring and absolutely unscrupulous soldier of fortune, who had accompanied him in the wars and obeyed him with doglike fidelity. This swashbuckler was all too willing to take the count's quarrel with Thynne on his shoulders, and later explained the latter by saying that after sending Thynne a challenge by post from Holland, and failing to get satisfaction that way, he determined to make a "reconnoiter" of it in the street.

It must be remembered that in those times a thoroughfare as near the court as Pall Mall was filthy in appearance as well as dark and dangerous. In the afternoon of February 12 Thynne went to call upon lady Northumberland, the grandmother and guardian of his wife. Word that he had gone to pay the visit was brought at once to Vratz, who met his confederates at the Black Bull Inn in Holborn. The three of them, Vratz, Stern and Boraski, set off to the foot of St. Alban's street, where waiting for the coach of Thynne returning, a footman with a lighted flambeau preceded it to show the way. What followed seems to have been but the work of a minute. Vratz held up the driver with a pistol pointed at him; then Boraski pushed his musketoon in at the carriage window and discharged its contents full into Thynne's breast, and the three scoundrels decamped at once, clattering away up the Haymarket.

Word was issued for the arrest of the assassins and Vratz was captured in a Swedish-doctor's house in Leicester Fields. Boraski and Stern were also arrested. Officers from London arrested the count just as he was leaving from his boat at Gravesend. After his arrest he was taken to prison and blurted out: "I got it all myself, but one good action in the wars or a logging upon a counterpane will wash away all my sins."
 Sir Francis Pemberton, chief justice of the king's bench, presided at the trial of the four prisoners, which began at 9 in the morning. The nationality of the prisoners made necessary a jury "de medietate lingue" (half English and half foreign). Two of them were Swedes, one a German and the fourth a Pole. Even the interpreters could not understand all the languages, and the judge would not pause for every answer to be translated. The count, being charged as an accessory, asked to have his trial postponed until the principals should have been convicted. Pemberton refused this on the ground that he had no power to separate the trials, though he had discretion. The real reason was shielded, however, by the count was not aware of it at the time.
 The case against the three principals was proved without any difficulty. In fact, they acknowledged the crime, but the trial against the count failed, much to the popular displeasure, and the shame of this had acquittal rests on Pemberton, who in summing up skillfully smoothed over the most damaging points of the case and put in here and there a plausible explanation.
 Ultimately, at about 6 o'clock the jury retired, and after half an hour's absence returned with a verdict of "guilty" against the three wretched tools of the count and "not guilty" against the chief conspirator himself.
 "God bless the king and the honorable bench!" exclaimed the shameless and brazen count.
 The judges did not consent to remain to witness the sentence of death against the convicted prisoners, a sentence which they underwent at the precise spot where the dastardly crime was committed on the 10th of March. Carl John continued his adventurous life abroad following his acquittal.

TALK IT OVER.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

When Doctors disagree, they Talk It Over. The more closely Civilization gets to a body of people, the more they become enthusiasts over Co-operation—or, in everyday words—Talking It Over.
 If things get to "running off the track" with you, get all the disturbing elements together. Then Talk It Over.
 To first Talk It Over is like "counting ten" before getting mad. Meditation kills anger—cool's Passion. It's a pretty good plan to remember to Talk It Over, before grabbing things by the nape of the Neck and disturbing everything in general and oneself in particular.
 Inasmuch as there is quite a considerable number of everyone in each of us, the best person on earth to Talk It Over with should be our own self.
 New viewpoints come about through contact with other Viewpoints. And when you realize how important your Viewpoint is, you will understand, in turn, what a bearing upon big results, the simple method of Talking It Over has.
 Talk It Over. Every time you fail to do so, you add weight to that which you must carry. And in this connection, remember that he who carries the lightest equipment travels farthest.

DAILY GRIST from the STATES' POLITICAL GRIND

SCHOOL BOOK BILL WILL

That the McCrory school book bill will figure largely not only in the coming session of the Legislature, but also in county politics about the state and maybe in state politics, is becoming apparent from day to day.

Already several candidates about the state have announced for school commissioners of their respective counties upon a platform of "school books printed by the state at cost."

However all this may be, State Superintendent M. L. Brittain does not seem to be greatly worried over any opposition that may appear against him upon this score. Superintendent Brittain's stand upon this question is already well known.

On Monday he would make no comment, though upon the situation or upon his standing for re-election.

COCHRAN RETURNS HOME AFTER SPEECH IN BAINBRIDGE

Ralph O. Cochran, of Atlanta, candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Hoke Smith, returned to Atlanta Sunday after making a political speech in Bainbridge. He was asked about his outlook in southwest Georgia.

"Great!" he said. "I couldn't hope for more encouragement."

THREE-CORNERED RACE PROBABLE FOR CONGRESS IN THIRD DISTRICT

Dublin, Ga., March 16.—(Special.)—Following close upon the heels of the county primary which will be held in Laurens on Tuesday, March 17 next, interest will center in the matter of getting in the county district, and there are prospects at this time for three candidates. Congressman D. M. Hughes, who represents the district at this time, is to be a candidate for re-election, and will make his formal announcement at the proper time. Judge Walter M. Clements, of Eastman, has been an announced candidate for several months and is already making an active campaign for the office. It is understood that Hon. George B. Davis, solicitor of the city courts of Dublin, is strongly considering the matter of getting into the race.

One of the most interesting developments of the race so far is the action of Judge K. J. Hawkins, judge of the superior court of the Dublin circuit, who has been considering the matter of getting in the race, and was assured of some very strong support over the district. He has announced definitely that he will not be a candidate to oppose Mr. Hughes, but will be a candidate, at the proper time, to succeed himself as judge of the Dublin circuit.

JUDGE REVILL BEING URGED TO RUN FOR COURT OF APPEALS

Newnan, Ga., March 16.—(Special.)—The presence of Judge Henry H. Revill, of Greenville, in attendance on superior court here this week, revived a rumor that he would oppose Hon. N. R. Broyles for the seat on the appellate court bench now occupied by Judge L. S. Roan.

Judge Revill stated today he had been strongly urged from various sections of the state to enter the race for one of the appellate court judgeships, and that if he should decide to yield to these solicitations he would single out Judge Broyles as his opponent in the contest.

Judge Revill is one of the best lawyers in the Georgia circuit, and is popular personally as he is prominent professionally. For the past seven years he has presided as judge of the city court of Greenville.

In conjunction with his law practice and judicial duties, Judge Revill has, for a number of years past, edited The Meriwether Vindicator.

CANES.

By GEORGE FITCH,
 Author of "At Good Old Slivnah."

The cane is a necessity of old age and a luxury of youth.
 Old men and a great many young men find it impossible to walk without a cane. But not for the same reason. It is the duty of the man to support an old man. But it is the duty of a stylish young man to support a cane.
 If a feeble old man were to go forth without a cane, he would fall down and injure himself grievously. On the other hand, if a proper young man were to leave his home and abandon his cane, he would feel as guilty as if he had left a helpless child to its fate.
 Old men grasp the cane firmly by the handle and rest the other end upon the walk. But if a young man were to do this he would make himself the subject of a great deal of comment. Except when propping himself up while standing in conversation, the young man does not abuse his cane by jamming it into the hard concrete walk. He handles it tenderly and guards the ferrule from injury. Mud on the end of a young man's cane is as disgraceful as mud on his collar.
 The green and awkward young man is greatly afflicted by his cane. He sticks it into cracks in the walk, forgets it in public places and has to hold it between his legs when he puts on his gloves. It takes several years to learn to wear a young man's cane correctly. And the worst of it is the fact that when a man really needs a cane he has to unlearn all that he has learned about it in his gay and carefree youth.

"The green and awkward young man has to hold it between his legs while he puts on his gloves."

 The cane is very useful to the old man. But it also serves a purpose for the young man. While a young man is managing a cane, he has no chance to carry his hands in his pockets. If the cane could only improve so that it would keep his hands out of other pockets, too, it would be made a compulsory decoration by a grateful nation.

LUCK!

There was only a thin partition between the bar parlor and the taproom of the suburban hotel, so that I could not help hearing what was perhaps a confidence about a certain Bill's terrible condition the previous afternoon. "Well, to cut a long story short," and the voice, which was husky, probably with emotion, and to set 'em on a doozy and leave 'em there, "I was 'at fell asleep, and 'is 'at dropped on to 't foot-par, an'—would you believe it?—when 'e woke up there was elevenpence in it!"

LID LIABLE TO BLOW OFF

Milledgeville, Ga., March 16.—(Special.)—The half hasn't been written of how warm, how hot—boiling hot—the political pot is likely to grow down in the "bloody tenth" district, in the fight for the seat in congress to be relinquished by Congressman Hardwick. The old tenth is no man's quiet political hearth—never has been and there are no hovering symptoms at the present writing that it ever will be.

On the contrary, there appears to be brewing a stormy contest—that will furnish food for discussion for the whole state.
 Judge Carl Vinson, of Baldwin, was the first full-fledged candidate. He already has his campaign map out and will make his opening speech in Sparta on March 23. Judge Vinson will visit every part of the district in an automobile that he has provided for this purpose.

It now seems as if Colonel Bob Hardean, of Jefferson county, will be in the race for the judgeship to succeed Judge Rawlings, who will retire. Colonel Hardean was first booked in the race for congress.

Augusta will likely furnish two candidates—Hon. Joseph Reynolds and Judge Oswald Eon. That each of these are figuring on announcing is strongly indicated by the inquiries they are making over the district.

As a more coming prospect, mention the Dr. W. P. Fisher in the race. This well-known physician is a strong, vigorous speaker, and is well posted on all public questions and has many friends.
 The latest entry comes from Washington county—Colonel Willis Evans—who already has a large following in the district, for he was once a candidate.

Efficient Housekeeping

By HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL,
 Domestic Science Lecturer.

How can a family of five—two children, a baby, a man and his wife—live on ten dollars a week? The first answer that comes to mind is, "They can't," but ten dollars a week is exactly the sum that eighty per cent of city dwellers have.

Out of this income ten dollars a month must be constantly expended. The rest must be saved for the remainder must clothe the family, supply the provisions, and provide for the special needs of the baby. There was a time in this country when ten dollars a week was enough with which to care for a family. A book bearing the title, "Ten Dollars a Week Enough," was written to prove it and to show how easily a good manager could apportion such an income to the best advantage, but that time is in the past. Today it is only by constant denial, most careful planning and constant studying of what can be done without, that families of laboring men can barely exist on this sum.

"How is it done?" one repeats and the answer is by economy of little things. Nothing is wasted, nothing is squandered that is not necessary and all is used to best advantage. The poor man's wife does much actual pricing at grocery and meat stores; if she could buy in quantities she would effect a considerable saving, but this is impossible without going into the country, where the really desirable is purchased, but it is in the actual cooking that the greatest economy is necessary. It is here, too, that the results must show.

For instance, all vegetables are scraped, not peeled, the thick parings take away a fourth of the food; besides, the most nutritious and richest part of the vegetable is close to the skin. All potatoes, carrots, turnips and leeks can be scraped if one takes the time and the valuable phosphates are next the skins.
 Within there is the matter of soups. Day when there is meat for dinner the liquid in which it is cooked, and the bones, are carefully saved. No waste is made a huge soup, but the broth, rich enough to take the place of the meat which must be absent, for soup and meat are not the same matter when five are to be fed three meals on an appropriation of sixty cents.
 Barley is generally used in broths, beans are excellent, but no longer cheap as lentils. Besides the cereal there must be potatoes, a can of tomatoes, and a can of condensed milk. When soup is in the order of the day the Bible injunction, gather up the fragments that nothing be lost, is not only a good motto, but a daily saying of little things, and not spasmodic effort to be practiced the last of the week or just before the month's payday.

One of our city's teachers has put the question of living on ten dollars a week squarely before her eighth grade pupils and is demanding that they solve it by a series of house hunting and marketing expeditions. They are expected to apportion their imaginary incomes to cover the needs of a family of five and to put their results in writing. Because four-fifths of our people are doing this very thing and doing it cheerfully and well these school girls know the task is not impossible and are studying the question earnestly. A glance at the results of a few weeks later will be interesting to us and, perhaps, beneficial.

Big Apple Convention Planned by Cornelia

A delegation from the chamber of commerce of Cornelia, Ga., visited President C. J. Haden, of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, in Atlanta yesterday and enlisted the co-operation of the state body in a big convention to demonstrate the possibilities of north Georgia apples and to be held in Cornelia March 28.

William Eberhardt headed the delegation from Cornelia, and was accompanied by J. W. Peyton, J. L. Roper, secretary of the local chamber, and Senator J. T. Lanier, of the thirty-first state senatorial district. Each member of the delegation, who is personally interested in the apple industry, emphasized that the approaching convention was to be of state-wide importance, to match the state-wide scope of the apple industry.

Georgia Apples Win.
They pointed out that three years ago apples from Rabun county in north Georgia won a first prize at the National Apple show in Spokane, Wash., and that since then Georgia apples have been a feature at New York city shows of national importance.

"While we believe Cornelia to be the natural apple capital of the Appalachians," said the chairman, "we think that the Blue Ridge Georgia apple will produce the most profitable quantities from the commercial point of view. There is not one county in mountainous Georgia which is adapted by peculiar climatological conditions to excel in apple culture. Habersham alone, with its record of rainfall, is destined to be one of the banner apple counties of the United States.

"We are going to have men of national as well as state importance at our convention on March 28 for the purpose of focussing attention on this now neglected source of profit. When one considers that an acre of apples will return a net profit twice as large as an acre of cotton, with less expenditure of labor, the possibilities of the industry are seen at a glance."

Some of the big men who will be present and make speeches at the Cornelia convention are President C. J. Haden, of the state chamber of commerce; Henry R. Howarth, president of the National Apple association; R. C. Berckmans, of Augusta, former president of the State Horticultural society; Dr. L. G. Hardeman, orchardist and legislator; R. H. Black, manager of the Yonah Fruit company; Louis B. Magid, of the Appalachian orchards; J. L. Staight, Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture; E. Leo Worsham, state entomologist, and J. D. Price, state commissioner of agriculture.

Many other guests from the country and the state are expected. They will give an automobile tour for the purpose of demonstrating the possibilities of the apple industry in the immediate vicinity of Cornelia and within easy reach of that point.

Incidentally they will be enticed by the prospect of doing almost entirely for the first time in the future raising an abundant crop of the fruit for the market. They are expected to send their good money out of the state.

INCREASE EXPECTED IN FERTILIZER PRICE

At first blush it would be a difficult matter to find any connection between a storm at sea and the price of fertilizers, but the two facts happen to be very intimately connected just now; so much so that severe ocean storms have caused the price of fertilizers to increase 50 cents per ton in Alabama already.

There has been no increase in price as yet in Georgia, but the indications are that the fertilizer market is likely to go up here any time from the same cause.

As it comes about is that severe ocean storms have interfered with the arrival in port of a number of vessels which were on their way to this country bringing large quantities of potash, which is a material ingredient of commercial fertilizers. The cargo, one carried by the steamship Charles Sigme and consisting of 4,000 tons, in the Chesapeake on Monday, March 15, and the other by the steamship Locksley, carrying 1,000 tons, and which was on her way to this port, was held up at the Azores. This potash was needed to meet the demands of manufacturers of fertilizer, and it has been buying their stocks from hand-to-mouth.

As a result of the failure of these cargoes to reach port, muriate of potash has gone up from $8 to $9 a ton, while the price of fertilizer has advanced 50 cents per ton. As these products figure prominently in the manufacture of commercial fertilizers, it is not surprising how conditions of this kind can materially affect the price.

Manufacturers and mixers, however, had some stocks on hand and for that reason no advance has yet occurred in the state, but it is liable to do so as soon as the short stocks are exhausted.

PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR CORPORATIONS

The Public Service Companies Make Good Reports to the Railroad Commission.

The gross earnings of the public service corporations of Atlanta, just filed with the state railroad commission, indicates that they have had a very prosperous year.

The gross earnings of the Georgia Power and Power company for 1913 were $4,785,890.32. The company's gross earnings for 1912 were $4,667,266.40. The gain was $118,623.92.

The gross earnings of the Atlanta Gas Light company for 1913 were $853,102.10. The gross earnings for 1912 were $825,849.22. The gain was $27,252.88.

Federal Grand Jury Meets.

The United States grand jury, Frank Hawkins, foreman, organized Monday, March 9, and adjourned after four days' session, March 13, at 10 o'clock. During the short recess of the body the district attorney's office has been busy preparing new accusations for consideration by the grand jury.

The additional papers have to do almost entirely with violations of the internal revenue laws. It is probable, though, that some of the cases will be called upon to investigate and consider a peonage case having rather unusual features.

Swift & Company's sales of fresh beef in Atlanta for the week ending Saturday, March 14, averaged 10.99 cents per pound.—(Adv.)

Crackers Down Colonels In First Exhibition Game; Free Transportation Helps

LOUISVILLE PITCHEL KIN TO AN ATLANTA WOMAN. Jake Northrop the Louisville twirler, who twirled the last four innings of the game against the Crackers Monday afternoon is related to an Atlanta woman.

By Dick Jenson. Although they were outwit two to one the Crackers defeated the Louisville Colonels in the first exhibition game of the season here yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 3.

The Colonels got nine bingles but the main reason they were scattered through the wilderness of Pitcher Loudermilk some timely bunts and one pinch-hit.

Osborn Hit Hard. Osborn the hard hitting outfielder of the Colonels had a perfect day with the bat clouting four vicious singles in four trips to the plate.

On the Cracker side there was very little hitting done. The game was a scrappy one with the only clean blow came in the second inning and this counted two tallies.

In the second McConnell got tickled on the lumpy home with one of Loudermilk's four hits and got the free transportation. Welchone fanned at wild pitch and four runs were filed in on a home run by Loudermilk.

Playing jam up ball all the way Boys High not only won out over Donald Fraser yesterday afternoon but also won the city prep basketball championship for the season of 1914.

BANTAM ELIMINATION BOUTS AT ORPHEUM

Grant Meets Eggers—Winner to Battle Kid Williams at a Later Date.

Promoter Lou Castro has leased the Orpheum theater for a series of boxing bouts and will bring to Atlanta the best boys in all divisions for the amusement of local fight fans.

These boys have agreed to weigh 116 pounds at 8 o'clock the night of the battle and have posted forfeits of $100 guaranteed; that they make this weight, this money to be forfeited in the event they do not.

This ought to be a wonderful scrap, made more so by reason of the fact that Promoter Castro has already secured Kid Williams the Baltimore sensation to meet the winner. He has accepted Williams terms and all that remains to be done to assure the appearance of the boys here is the signing of articles of agreement.

Kid Herman the New Orleans bantam may also appear here with one of these boys.

JACKETS MUST ELECT FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

McDonald Leaves the School. "Monk" Fielder Will Probably Get the Place.

Alf McDonald, halfback on the Tech football team and captain of the 1913 eleven has left school and will not be back to play on the 1914 team.

This will necessitate the election of a new leader. Monk Fielder will probably get the place as he received the most votes in the election last fall.

McDonald's leave will create genuine uneasiness among the football supporters of Tech and the Jackets will lose one of their most valuable players.

Women Require Facts—They Form Their Own Opinions

WOMEN read advertisements for actual conditions of shops and merchandise in which she is interested.

The shops keep in the closest communication with the fashion centers, either directly or through the large importers, and they know ahead of time what the styles are to be.

They do their buying accordingly, and then hasten to tell their patrons, through The Constitution, what they have to offer.

Every woman who is a regular reader of newspaper advertisements knows that taffeta will be popular this spring and that the new skirts are draped in the back.

Those items are just examples of what a woman unconsciously picks up through newspaper advertisement reading.

When she goes to buy her spring clothes, all such bits of information will make her task surprisingly easy.

Every new home established this spring by a newly married couple should first subscribe for The Constitution and form the habit of buying from its advertisers. This is an efficient plan of household economy.

GOING TO BUILD?

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS THE EATING. My BUNGALOWS sell as fast as I can build them. I have more REQUISITE than you want. They are DIFFERENT. I have developed my medium priced BUNGALOWS to a state of PERFECTION, unequalled anywhere. It is hard to distinguish them from the highest priced kind. Ask ANYBODY who has seen them. Ask any who OCCUPIES one (they are ALL sold). They are developed along ARTISTIC lines and are appreciated so much by the small householder, that demands are greater than the supply. I give you the advantage of money as travel all over the west, especially southern CALIFORNIA, also FIFTEEN years of PROFITABLE experience in real estate and building in Atlanta. I have made money for me and for my clients for 20 years. See my five room bungalows from $1,200 to $1,600. P. B. Hopkins Building Contract.

Gets Skin Nice And Clear

Puts Life into Muscles—Gives Just the Slight Exhilaration Needed for Health

Nature has supplied us with wonderful materials for the restoration of health. It is from our own forests that Georgia people have the best medicines in the world. S. S., the famous vegetable blood purifier, has been a marvel for more than forty years. And its action in overcoming all skin troubles and blood blemishes or eruptions is easily explained. The skin is but a network of fine blood vessels. And it is perfectly natural that an unhealthy influence in the blood makes its first appearance in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to seek from the blood this fine network of blood vessels in the skin those elements which it requires for regeneration. Thus pimples, boils, eczema, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. This is why skin troubles vanish so readily and why they do not return. And in ridding the blood of impurities, S. S. imparts a fine exhilaration to the entire system and you feel fine. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 9 Swift Bldg., Atlanta. You will find S. S. for sale at all drug stores. Get a bottle today and banish all skin afflictions. Beware of imitations or substitutes.

DEAF EAR TURNED TO WILSON'S PLEA

Independent Democrats of Tennessee Decline to Listen to Suggestion and Indorse Hooper's Candidacy.

Nashville, Tenn., March 16.—Declining to listen to the suggestions of President Woodrow Wilson for harmony in the democratic party in Tennessee, and indorsing the administration of Governor Ben W. Hooper, republican, the independent democratic state executive committee adjourned this afternoon after calling two state conventions both to meet on April 22. The first convention is to meet at noon April 22 to nominate a candidate for judge of the supreme court. The second will meet at 3 p. m. the same day to take such action as they may deem advisable in regard to nominating candidates for governor and railroad commissioner. It was stated by speakers that the idea in holding two conventions was to have the nomination for supreme judge made apart from a turbulent political convention.

Wilson Is Criticized. In touching on the harmony suggestion of President Wilson, the majority of the speakers characterized the action of the president as ill advised, and declared that they did not know the conditions existing in Tennessee. The resolutions adopted said in part, relative to the plea of President Wilson: "We indorse the administration of President Wilson, but we regret that he listened to the importunities of certain representatives of the national government with reference to purely local and state affairs. The independent democrats of Tennessee have steadfastly refused to sacrifice state issues for national politics or national issues for state politics. We indorse the administration of President Wilson in this state both for the nomination and for election, and we indorse the independent democrats in the cities who throughout his administration have stood loyally by him throughout his administration. These facts should be prominently noted in the platform of the president's information to the effect that the national democratic party administration is endangered by the independent democratic movement in Tennessee."

Hooper Is Indorsed. Other matters carried in the resolutions were: "We indorse the administration of Governor Hooper. He has given inde-

Beautiful Opening Held By J. M. High Co. Monday

In throwing open the doors of the J. M. High company yesterday, the directors of the department and its staff welcomed to the Festival of Spring Fashions, in a store dressed appropriately for the occasion as a fit setting for the full blossoming of the new fashions and set an event on the calendar that stirred the interest of every woman. The mailed invitations to come see the millinery had been sent out the day before, and the crowds of Sunday had been spread with news of this important spring event and had carried far out into the state and beyond, and a certain degree than ever before the call to visit this great Atlanta store was felt.

And to find out the interest manifested a Constitution report, which was the subject of a talk by Mr. Bellah, the buyer and manager of the department, was a beautiful thing to see in one of those periods which produce inexhaustible new ideas for the designer and the manufacturer. The store was filled with the latest styles of the past two years, and the new styles of the present were being introduced by the designer and the manufacturer. The store was filled with the latest styles of the past two years, and the new styles of the present were being introduced by the designer and the manufacturer.

Offer Beautiful Picture. The suits, the dresses and the millinery surrounded by settings of pictures and smalls certainly offered a picture no passerby could avoid. The store was filled with the latest styles of the past two years, and the new styles of the present were being introduced by the designer and the manufacturer. As for trimmings the leading feature will be their height and ribbons. The knowledge of the real designer is the touch of the real milliner. The millinery section is in full blossom.

with hundreds of the smartest hats all ready for Easter. Leaving this department and its staff and palm settings the reporter wandered west into the great Fashion Style rooms where the prestige of this big store has been gained through the past year and built on a close study and knowledge of the development of fashions both abroad and in New York.

It is the policy of specializing in Paris sources through to the final corner of the store. The store is filled with the latest styles of the past two years, and the new styles of the present were being introduced by the designer and the manufacturer.

GENERAL BARRY TO HEAR ABOUT DISCRIMINATION

Quartermaster General Will Take Up the Matter With Him Personally.

By John Corrigan, Jr. Washington, March 16.—(Special.)—Major General J. B. Alesha, quartermaster general of the army on leave from New York, told Representative William C. Clegg today that he would take up personally with Major General Thomas H. Barry the discrimination that has been practiced against the colored people in the awarding of bids for army supplies. Hereafter an equal opportunity will be given the Atlanta merchants to bid Major General Alesha said he did not see how under any possible construction of general orders discrimination could have been practiced. He talked with Major General Barry, commanding the department of the east, in expecting to correct the trouble.

I feel satisfied that Atlanta merchants will be in a better position hereafter to get the information and representative Howard after the interview. If our merchants can get down roads at McPherson at the lowest price they will get the contracts. Wood also called on Major General Wood to continue on and was treated courteously. He expects that some agreement will be made by the seventeenth infantry. The latter has not been sent to the front for some time.

Atlanta is going to get enough troops to mobilize in connection with the celebration of the semi-centennial of the battle of Atlanta. The Coast artillery has to be mobilized for the purpose of the department. The only problem will be in sparing the troops.

Hair Grew 4 Inches in A Few Weeks

A St. Louis lady increased the length of her hair four or five inches in a few weeks with this simple home recipe.

A well known St. Louis lady after using a simple recipe on her hair writes: "I have had a very good result. My hair has grown four or five inches in a few weeks. The recipe she uses is as follows: and any lady or gentleman can mix it at home. It is a half pint of water, add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the tips of the fingers. It not only promotes the growth of the hair but it cures dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It also cures itching and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients are all sold at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home.—(adv.)"

TERRE HAUTE TROLLEYS GUARDED BY POLICEMEN

Terre Haute, Ind., March 16.—Street cars notwithstanding the strike of traction employees were running as usual today with two policemen on each car. Few persons, however, attempted to ride with the police officers of trouble and the police department was confident of being able to control the situation. The warning sent here late yesterday by Governor Ralston that eighteen companies of militia would be sent to Terre Haute should conditions worsen, had a tendency to preserve order.

The interest of labor unions today in the appearance before the federal court in Indianapolis today of several officials who have been active in the organization of the street car men's union when the matter of any violation of the injunction recently granted the traction company to prevent the calling of a strike was to be fixed. Also an effort will be made today to fix the responsibility for the calling of a strike on Saturday night which resulted in riot when many cars were wrecked and several persons injured.
