Weather Prophecy PARTLY CLOUDY.

South Carolina and Florida—Partly cloudy Monday and Tuesday; light variable winds. Tennessee and Kentucky—Showers Monday and probably Tuesday.

the whole Zaragoza brigade, under General Aguirre Benavides was wiped out although I think General Benavides escaped.

The shock and surprise to the rebel troops who had expected to scare the federals and walk into Torreón with little fighting resulted in a temporary withdrawal three or four days of fighting up to the time I left failed to bring about any results.

An elaborate three days program for the reception of General Carranza on his arrival was abandoned in part today because of the presence here of so many wounded. It is believed here that General Carranza will not come to Chihuahua until he is satisfied General Villa will remain in the south as a meeting of the two revolutionary leaders is not looked on as opportune at this time.

General Villa's delay in taking Torreón. It is said he has received belief that should the Huerta forces drive him north something in the nature of a northern republic embracing the states bordering on the United States will be established. The plan of separating the north from the south has long been contemplated by some of the rebel leaders. They contend that the north and south in the last half century have developed along different lines both politically and industrially.

Unless decisive results are achieved soon financial affairs of the rebel territory will reach a crisis according to men in authority. Six million pesos in money are in circulation in the states of Chihuahua, Durango and parts of Zacatecas, and this money is steadily decreasing, in purchasing power with no prospective reserve backing while more money is being issued. Some of the rebel leaders claim they are unable to obtain help because they pay in rebel currency at this time.

General Carranza has not yet been able to work out a plan to take Torreón. The present value of a peso note is about 13 cents. Governor Chao's assurance to the state department that Luis Terrazas Jr. would not be executed if he was spared from Sanitary Prison twenty-two within the last eight days. He was spared from Sanitary Prison twenty-four hours on one occasion only through the efforts of representatives of a foreign government who pleaded all one night that the prisoner be given an extension of three days. Carranza's confidence in Huerta was shaken, and later, through another influence, the talk of execution was dropped temporarily.

HUERTA SHOWS CONCERN IN REGARD TO TORREON Mexico City, March 29.—With the exception of the somewhat contradictory information contained in press dispatches and a laconic assurance by General Velasco, federal commander in chief, that the war in Mexico is both official and unofficial Mexico were in ignorance today of the results of the efforts of the Huerta army at that point the occupation of which at this stage is regarded by the federal government as essential to the early success of either side.

All but one paper today, constructed from the reports of the Huerta army, declared conclusively the defeat of the rebels, but such unmodified confidence in a foreign government has no place here where General Blanquet, the war minister, has been staying since Villa's successful attack on Torreón.

President Huerta is showing concern but lack of telegraphic communication has prevented General Velasco from rendering any but the most meager reports, and the president and the cabinet are found an outlet for their energies by sending forward every available detachment of troops as reinforcements.

Public Very Apathetic. The attitude of the Mexican public in the capital is wholly apathetic so far as outwardly expressed. Theaters and other places of amusement and such interest as is shown in the developments about Torreón is only casual.

The government asserts that General Velasco has from 12,000 to 15,000 men and with the reinforcements and minor forces reported at various points in the state of Chihuahua he can claim Torreón from 15,000 to 18,000 federals. The fact that the other side is so great and that it includes the best organization in the army makes the struggle for possession of Torreón peculiarly important. Military men here think the most serious thing like to occur is the capture of the city of Torreón. But even should the federal forces capture the city, the morale of the army would be greatly affected by the blow from which it would be difficult for the director of the diplomatic representatives are inclined to regard the retention of Torreón as an important point in the view of Mexico's relations abroad especially with the United States, rather than from the military viewpoint.

Certain foreign representatives would prefer to see the government have the loss of Torreón would be followed by a declaration of the belligerency of the rebels.

Hope to Change Wilson. In spite of the declarations of the Mexican foreign minister, Senator Portillo y Rojas and John Lind that their conference at Vera Cruz had resulted in nothing tangible in the way of reopening negotiations that might lead to a peaceable solution, Senator Portillo appears to be optimistic regarding his country's international relations and his intimate friends assert that he is confident that he and President Wilson will reach an agreement.

son's representative will yet be able to work out the problem. President Huerta has given no intimation of his intentions, but there are many in the capital who still profess to believe that he will take the field against Carranza. Carranza is expected to be elected in the fall. By a few it is supposed that Carranza will be elected. Carranza's confidence in his own ability to win the election is not so great as it was when he was elected. Carranza's confidence in his own ability to win the election is not so great as it was when he was elected.

General Huerta has not yet abandoned the fight. The president and the cabinet are found an outlet for their energies by sending forward every available detachment of troops as reinforcements.

CARRANZA HAILED BY JUAREZ PEOPLE Continued From Page One. Carranza waited for his troop train to catch up. This done, the train was unobscured while the officers waited for new uniforms leggings and hats. The pilot train which preceded the main train, and into town in the morning and when it returned there was a great scramble for the outfits. The brown messengers, however, became clothing store and box cars and the abandoned houses were turned into dressing rooms.

Triumphal Arches. It was dusk when the cavalcade mounted once again, and conscious of the fact that the streets were illuminated and triumphal arches were being erected, Carranza and his party were not surprised to find themselves in the center of a triumphal procession.

At the moment General Carranza was in the center of the parade, and he was surrounded by a throng of admirers. He was in the center of the parade, and he was surrounded by a throng of admirers.

BEARDEN SISTERS, Who will appear at the First Methodist revival this evening of Atlanta. It reminds me of an old-time campmeeting. The words of the boy evangelist are so simple and direct and yet so full of meaning and religious philosophy. He is one of the wonders of the modern day evangelists and was the first to bring the message of the Gospel to the masses.

B. A. BANKS, B'nai B'rith delegate, Lauds Atlanta Spirit; Discusses Frank Case. R. A. Banks, a B'nai B'rith delegate from Norfolk, Va., and a director of the Atlanta Orphans home, talked on the merits of this city last night. I am amazed at your wonderful city, said Mr. Banks. I had heard much of Atlanta but the reality surpasses all my expectations. I realize now what the famed Atlanta spirit means. It has reared here upon these red hills of Georgia a charming and progressive city. At certain points of your Peachtree or Broad or Marietta streets I constantly get the impression of being in New York. Mr. Banks, although still under 30 years of age, is a prominent attorney of Norfolk who has already served a term in the Virginia legislature and has for years past conducted the Galaxy Magazine. He is a high reputation as a public speaker.

CONTINUE BATTLE FOR VANDERBILT

Bishop Hoss, of Nashville, Here for a Visit, Says the Church Has Suffered Great Injustice.

The Methodist church feels that it has suffered a great injustice and will make a strenuous fight to regain control of Vanderbilt, according to Bishop E. P. Hoss, of Nashville.

Bishop Hoss arrived in Atlanta late Saturday night on his way home from Baltimore, and spent Sunday with Dr. M. M. DuBoise, pastor of the First Methodist church, where Bishop Hoss preached Sunday morning.

Upon his return to Tennessee, Bishop Hoss will consult with the attorneys for the church with a view to appealing the case of the church to the United States supreme court.

Grounds Are Unknown. On what grounds this appeal will be made, or whether the church can find grounds, Bishop Hoss stated that he did not know, and he refused to discuss the case from a technical standpoint in any way.

"We feel," he said, "that neither side in the fact nor execution of the law in the decision of the court is correct. We are sure that the church has suffered a great injustice in the whole matter. If we can get an appeal to the supreme court of the United States we will certainly visit it. Otherwise, we shall submit with the best grace we can command."

Although Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, is one of the attorneys for the church, Bishop Hoss declared that he would not visit him in his trip to Georgia, and further stated that his stop-over in Georgia was for the sole purpose of visit to his friend, Dr. DuBoise. He regretted that he would not have time to consult Judge Harris now.

The remaining attorneys for the church whom he will consult upon his return to Tennessee are J. D. Madala, of Nashville; Fitzhugh & Briggs, of Memphis; and Judge O'Beir, of Frankfort, Ky.

Preaches in Morning. Taking his text from the First Epistle of John, 1:2, Bishop E. P. Hoss, of Nashville, preached at the First Methodist church Sunday morning upon the love of God as portrayed by his text.

His text he declared, set forth two facts of our position as a result of God's love. "First, the dignity of our present position. Now we appear what we shall be but we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is."

Bishop Hoss characterized this verse as one of the greatest passages of the Bible, by way of emphasis of the greatness of His love, quoted other passages being "I love you" and "I shall be with you."

He pointed out that early in the ministry of Christ, He called His disciples "servants." Paul called himself Christ's "bondservant."

It was only until the night before that he had been called "friend." "Friends," said Bishop Hoss, "is a much overworked and misused word. I cannot conceive of the man one has been serving and who is called a friend as deserving of the title of friend. Friendship is the result of long association. Friendship is something that grows."

Next, he pointed out, came the third and highest relationship to God, which is that of a son. "I have been fortunate enough during my life to have had many friends. I mean friends to whom I can talk a little nonsense without fear of being rebuked. There is no one, is one of the greatest tests of friendship."

"WOMEN CRAZY OVER DRESS AND PLEASURE"

"They Are Lowering Standards of Morals and Religion," Says Rev. A. C. Shuler.

"Many homes in this great city are as morally dark as perdition itself. The women folks have gone crazy over styles of dress and varied forms of worldly pleasure."

"They are corrupting and lowering the standard of morals and religion, wrecking and ruining their health and bringing physical as well as spiritual destruction upon the human race. May God Almighty open the eyes of preachers and physicians, fathers and mothers, and redeem this generation from the bondage of hell."

Pastor A. C. Shuler, in his address Sunday night, to a large audience at the East Side tabernacle, started his hearers into rapt attention when he made the above statement.

"The Slaves of the Devil," said the pastor, "is a man who wants you to believe he's right; who tries to make you believe he's right, and who has no desire to lead some of his street-walking gang to the task of cleaning Grady monument."

"Some folks try to excuse themselves for slinking on the ground of besetting sin. They repent one day and go the next and commit the same sin. Don't say it's all right because your sin is a besetting sin, for the besetting sins are the damning sins. When I wanted to quit, I quit, and the sins I haven't wanted to quit, I haven't quit."

"I followed a preacher once who turned out about thirty of his active members who drank, danced, attended theaters and many things worse. If many of the church members of this city should violate the laws of Atlanta and the state of Georgia as they violate the laws of God, they would go to the changings, if they didn't have plenty of money, and then they would land there as soon as their money gave out."

"If the churches of the twentieth century expect to keep pure and clean, they have got to keep the back door out of their eyes. They keep the front, if they had to pastor some crowds in this city, as some preachers I know have to do, I would open the back door in God's name and ask them to go out, and if they didn't go, I would go, and the world would know why I went."

GAY DECORATIONS FOR THE CITY HALL FOR THE SHRINERS

According to plans proposed by Councilman S. L. Dallas, chairman of the building and grounds committee of the city, Atlanta's city hall will be among the most artistically decorated buildings in Atlanta during "Shrine Week" and on the occasion of every other big convention and gathering in Atlanta.

Chairman Dallas proposes having the electrical decorations permanently installed. The work will cost the city in the neighborhood of $1,500, but it will be installed in such a manner that whenever there is occasion the building can be decorated from roof to basement by the mere turn of a switch.

Councilman Dallas will meet with his committee and with Custodian Joe Shearer and the city electrician during the coming week, and the plans and designs submitted by a score of decorating houses will be carefully considered. Council has authorized the expenditure of $2,000 for putting the hall in shape for the Shriners, and Councilman Dallas has already started work by putting the painters at work on the interior of the building.

West End Christian Gets Attendance Banner—Fitzgerald Gets Convention. Macon, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Atlanta lost her fight for the honor of entertaining the 1915 state convention of the Christian Endeavor society, but was given a majority of state offices of the organization at the closing meeting of the state convention here today.

Jesus was greatly interested in the business men of His day, and the Christian teacher of today must be vitally interested in the business men of his day. There is a mutual dependence between business and the institutions of religion. Divinely joined, they must not be separated. Our entire population, white as well as colored, has shown deep interest in the attack made on the only colored bank in the community. This incident yields many fruitful lessons.

LESS MONEY BEING SPENT FOR HEAVY GROCERIES. Milledgeville, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Farmers and the general public trading at Milledgeville has bought $40,000 worth of heavy groceries, less than usual up to this date. What is true of corn is largely true of oats, and is especially true of feed oats, practically ten cents less of feed oats having been sold here.

Councilman Ashley is a technical engineer, and is well versed in the subject of motive power. Councilman Ashley will make a report to the purchasing agent and the advisory committee on the nature of the various machines from the standpoint of efficiency and economy.

Raleigh, N. C., March 29.—(Special.) Threatened by a crowd of students of the University of North Carolina, in the lobby of the postoffice at Chapel Hill at noon today, S. R. Winters, correspondent of The News and Observer at that place, was struck by one of them because of the publication of an account of gambling by students at the state university in Sunday morning's paper.

A party of eleven, including students and citizens of Chapel Hill, were on Saturday bound over to court on the charge of playing "craps," and the report gave their names. This caused the attack on him, the evidence being that only the intervention of students and a hurried call for the police kept the crowd from beating up Winters.

The faculty of the university and the authorities of Chapel Hill are on a campaign to break up gambling at the university and in the town. The chief of police of Chapel Hill, in a statement tonight, says that with what evidence in hand, he will be able to round up the ring leaders in gambling in the university.

CHOOSING YOUR PARENTS

An inhabitant of Pensacola, Fla., has just died at the age of 111 years. He attributed his longevity to regular habits.

Once and so often the public is treated to some remarkable instance of unusual length of days, varying from the nineties to the century mark and beyond.

Regularity of habits as cited in the Pensacola instance is a first class thing. It conveys vitality and it makes your neighbors and your family happy.

One element the average person forgets and it is illustrated in the Pensacola case is the wisdom of according to Oliver Wendell Holmes carefully choosing one's parents.

The moral of course is that if your own parent has been careless with regard to the physical and mental inheritance he passed on to you it is incumbent upon you to be more scrupulous with the birth right you pass on to your own child.

We can live with as rigid regularity as we please. But if the vitality passed on to us by our parents is faulty we run small chance of adding to the illustrious record of centenarians.

PAGE VINDICATED.

President Wilson has approved the speech which got Ambassador Walter Page into trouble. It will be remembered that some of the Anglo-phobists who have terribly sensitive feelings nowadays took offense because of what they believed was trucking to Great Britain.

It is to be hoped the incident will end right here. Walter Page is not the kind of man to practice indiscretion. His speech was entirely impromptu and the press covered it fragmentarily.

that the next address the ambassador delivered, he read from a carefully prepared typewritten manuscript. By and large, the whole incident is a tempest in a tea-cup.

SNOWING PROSPERITY.

The federal department of agriculture last week issued a statement to the effect that the nation faced a prospect of bumper crops by reason of the succession of snow storms that have blanketed practically every part of the country.

Conditions on an approximate scale have been reproduced throughout the nation. The providential and fortunate feature is that the snow appears to have fallen at such season as not to injure fruit, while benefiting every other product.

Science gives snow precedence as the best form of natural fertilizer available. The longer the white mantle lingers and the slower it is in melting the better the prospect of results from the dollars and cents standpoint.

Measured by these standards it has this winter been literally snowing prosperity, or at least a reliable forecast of prosperity in America.

These underlying conditions make more pertinent The Constitution's contention that all interest business, political economic and industrial should co-operate this year in assuring a season of prosperity without parallel in the country's history.

To that end, congress should be chary about more radical legislation. The interstate commerce commission should decide, and not play with, the decision as to whether railroad rates are or are not to remain stationary.

When nature arranges all the stage settings for prosperity it is the least human agencies can do to adjust themselves to this benevolent program.

OTTO KAHN ON ART.

Otto H. Kahn chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, was the central figure in an unusual and significant scene at an assembly of the girls high schools of that city recently.

Mr. Kahn who is also chairman of the board of the Century opera house, which gives the people grand opera at popular prices had presented to the high school girls of the city 2,000 tickets to representative performances.

Mr. Kahn advised the girls that the cultivation of a love for the artistic was a sure guarantee for happiness and development. He is right not only with regard to individuals but equally with regard to cities.

The city that comes to appreciate grand opera or any other form of art comes finally as he says, to ignore that which is cheap in recreation or amusement and to demand that which is elevating and expanding.

From this angle the value that accrues to Atlanta from her grand opera seasons must be measured in the dimensions of the future, and cannot be estimated in money or in temporary advantage.

We have with us this spring the annual killers of time and the fruit crop. Mr. Brvan needn't worry. While he is lecturing on 'Peace' they are christening battleships to preserve it.

Mrs. Pankhurst congratulates the British government on the trouble in Ulster. John Lind would make good as president of a correspondence school for diplomatic discretion.

"Just From Georgia"

Why the Editor Feels Relieved. 'The president had a hard time filling the ambassadorships' says the editor of The Whitest Courier.

A peace loving Billville brother, after studying the Mexican question, sends us the following: 'When Spring firm holt upon us takes I am for fightin' battles.'

The tickets in appearance resembled theater tickets. On the coupons were the date and the words, 'Sec. O. K.' The body of the tickets read: 'This ticket for Otto H. Kahn, the man who gladdened thousands of public school pupils with tickets to high class opera, admits him to the lasting gratitude of representatives of the school who New York, and in issued to him in an appreciation convention in his honor in the Washington Irving school March 28, 1914.'

The world don't notice the feller who is waitin' till his dreams come true it only pays attention to the one that hits hard looks for a livin'.

The False Senon. Here is another Georgia opinion of the weather situation. The way the weather's rearin' in that state. And the beauty of a lunar eclipse in the opinion of the Tar Heels is that it never interferes with the moonshine.

The Beauty of It. George Bailey hands this one to the North Carolina brethren. The North Carolina papers say the eclipse of the moon was clearly visible in that state.

Love of Art an Asset, Otto Kahn Tells Girls

(From The New York Times.) Otto H. Kahn, chairman of the board of directors of the Century opera house, told the Washington Irving High school girls yesterday morning that his two initials "O. H." did not stand for "Opera House," as some people supposed.

Mr. Kahn was receiving an "appreciation" from the high school girls in return for 2,000 opera tickets which he gave to the different high schools of the city. In reality it was a sort of "appreciation" concert given at the Washington Irving school.

In return for his gift of 2,000 tickets, Mr. Kahn received during the exercises 20,000 tickets. The returns gift might be described as a shower of letters, for the tickets were thrown to him, making a carpet of red white and blue at his feet.

The tickets in appearance resembled theater tickets. On the coupons were the date and the words, 'Sec. O. K.' The body of the tickets read: 'This ticket for Otto H. Kahn, the man who gladdened thousands of public school pupils with tickets to high class opera, admits him to the lasting gratitude of representatives of the school who New York, and in issued to him in an appreciation convention in his honor in the Washington Irving school March 28, 1914.'

The exercises began as they do regularly in the school with the reading of a telegram and the salute to the flag. Mr. Kahn had a central place on the platform between two of the officers of the Pupils association.

Mr. Kahn then spoke of the necessity for the higher forms of amusement. I believe, he said that the reason we have so many cheap novels and objectionable plays is that we have neglected to give families of moderate means the opportunity to hear the best music and the best drama.

It was then that the army of 1,500 girls all wearing white middie blouses passed in front of Mr. Kahn back of whom had been placed a big American flag and showered him with a hail of appreciation.

ATLANTA WILL BE MADE "SMOKELESS CITY" BY GEORGIA WATER POWER

Atlanta has often been described as a railroad city. It is now being described as a water power city. Its strategic position as a water power center is to be one of the main advantages that will make it a smokeless city of 600,000 inhabitants within the next decade.

The great waterfalls in this region are at the escarpments where the rivers pass from the crystalline rocks of the older to the younger formations. The Piedmont escarpment that formed the ancient coastline of the Atlantic coast runs through Columbia, Augusta, Milledgeville, Macon and Columbus these cities being the heads of navigation on important streams.

Government Engineer Will Make Trip This Morning by Way of Athens.

D. C. Scales, government engineer in charge of maintenance of the national highway between Atlanta and Columbia, S. C., announced last night that two routes from Atlanta to Augusta had been decided upon for the highway.

Much enthusiasm is existent in counties along both routes and their representatives have been fervent in putting forth their plea for the highway.

Engineer Scales will leave Atlanta this morning and traverse the route by way of Athens to Augusta, returning to Atlanta by the Covington route.

Mr. Scales will give the commissioners an estimate of the maintenance cost of the route for the next year.

After several arrests were made the crowd was dispersed. No one was seriously injured.

TOLLS EXEMPTION REPEAL IS URGED

"Moral Law Is for Nations as Well as for Individuals," Says Dr. John E. White, Pastor of Second Baptist.

In a sermon last night in the Second Baptist church, Dr. John E. White made pointed reference to the controversy now going on at Washington over the tolls exemption question. The subject of the sermon was "The Great Detective," from the text "Be sure your sins will find you out."

"The moral law is for nations as well as for individuals," Dr. White said. "The obligation to obey it is as great for one as the other, because the inevitable penalty for its violation no more exempts a nation than it does an individual."

Front by History.

"American statesmen have said that our republic was fortunate because it was the latest of the great nations of the earth, and therefore we had history to show us the miserable blindness of other peoples who mortgaged their life to disaster by national sins. So far the moral law as applied to national policies has been kept well in view in this country. The American conscience was religious in its origins in Massachusetts and Virginia, and has been quick to respond to the appeal of simple righteousness. "The movement to square economic policies with the moral law has been going on apace. Great Britain and industrial nations have been reminding us forcibly that they must be good—that is, they must be subject to the American moral conscience of square dealing and right doing in business. It has been a great contest, and a great victory for our moral civilization has been won."

"But what is this we see going on at Washington now? Another contest and a great testing of national character. The question now is whether we are a truth-loving, square-dealing, high-minded people, after all, when we have the power to wriggle defiantly out of an honestly-made contract with another nation."

"The Only Question. "Whether American ships should be favored by congress in their commerce, it is not the preacher's business to speak with some authority on this question—and the only question on an honorable action has been raised—whether this country should violate its solemn treaty to make the Panama canal open to the ships of all nations on equal terms."

"A congressman has the right to do what his conscience, not mine, may dictate. By that law of tolerance we must stand. But there are consciences and consciences. Almost every wrong course has been justified by somebody's conscience."

"The Only Question. "Whether American ships should be favored by congress in their commerce, it is not the preacher's business to speak with some authority on this question—and the only question on an honorable action has been raised—whether this country should violate its solemn treaty to make the Panama canal open to the ships of all nations on equal terms."

"There is an eternal judgment. There is a law of retribution. A Christian statesman should need no prophet to tell him that a congressman who said, 'The decalogue is an irrelevant dream. It costs nothing to ignore it in my opinion, and his seat in the senate—just to say that.'" is closely divided on the issue. At present, unless some members of the committee should announce a change of view, the majority in favor of the repeal might have a majority of one in the committee. There are other bills pertaining to the issue before the canal committee, and no one will predict how long the fight will continue on the subject under consideration.

CLOSING STRUGGLE OVER CANAL TOLLS

Senator Chilton has a bill which, instead of directly repealing tolls exemption, would put it up to the president to determine whether to repeal the tolls. Then there is Senator Lewis' bill empowering the president to suspend tolls, and another measure introduced by Senator Reed which would repeal the toll exemption and grant to foreign ships the right to compete with American coastwise shipping, a bill designed to give the president authority to suspend tolls on American coastwise shipping monopoly that may exist.

Other legislation before congress just now is in practical eclipse, save appropriations for the Panama canal. The senate subcommittee continues at work on the toll exemption bill, and the interstate commerce committee which still has to act on the proposition for a new law to regulate the canal, is engaged on all other business, so that nothing is scheduled in the committee for this week.

The house judiciary committee has had a long session by cases involving charges against Representative McDermott of Illinois, and Judges Speer, of Georgia, and Wright, of the District of Columbia.

The committee may act on the McDermott case tomorrow, and report from the subcommittee which proposes the repeal of the toll exemption to the National Association of Manufacturers.

The house has a number of appropriation bills ready to consider, including the naval appropriation, which has the right of way.

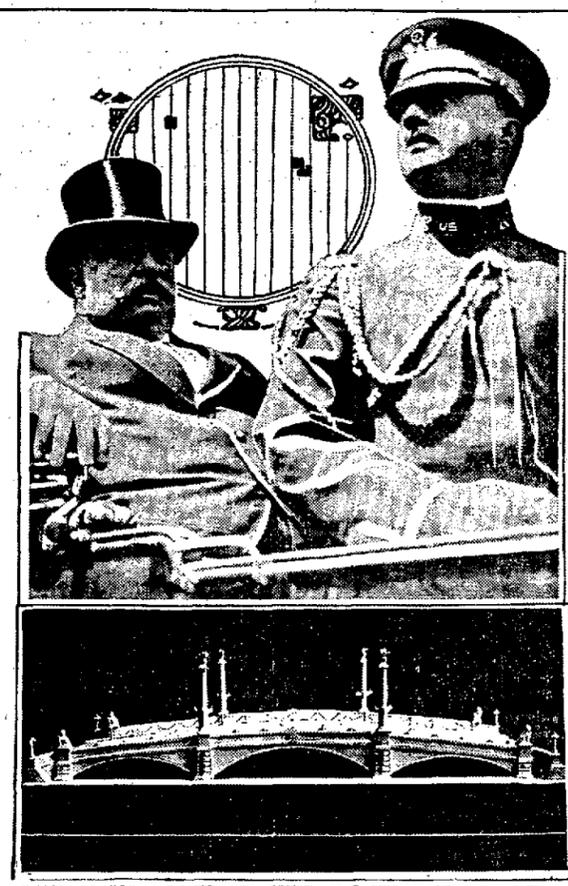

If the repeal bill, by any chance, should not be disposed of by Tuesday night, it might go over until Thursday, as Wednesday is a parliamentary day held to be sacred to "bills on the wing."

The repeal fight has broken up plans of various committees for taking up important pending bills. The committee, particularly, is anxious to get action on the proposed investigation of corruption in wheat and cotton exchanges in New York, New Orleans, Chicago and the north-west.

Augusta's Memorial to Archie Butt

LATE MAJOR ARCHIBALD BUTT, TITANIC VICTIM, WITH EX-PRESIDENT TAFT. 2. BUTT MEMORIAL BRIDGE, AUGUSTA, GA.

Dedication of the $50,000 concrete memorial bridge for automobile traffic between Augusta and Somerville, Ga., which has been erected as a tribute to the late Major Archibald Butt, military aid of former President William H. Taft and who was a Titanic victim, will take place April 14. Distinguished guests from civil and military life from various parts of the United States will be present on that occasion. Funds for the building of the memorial structure were raised partly through subscriptions of Temple-Noyes Lodge, No. 32, E. A. M., of Washington, of which the late Major Butt was a member; through an appropriation made by the city of Augusta and through public solicitations of subscriptions by a committee of Georgia society women, of which Mrs. Thomas Barrett of Augusta, a chairman. Major Butt was a native of Georgia. The memorial structure is national as well as local in character. The bridge will bear the coat of arms of the state of Georgia, of the Butt family, of Temple-Noyes Lodge and of the city of Augusta. The structure will have four limestone columns on each of which will be large electric globes surmounted by bronze eagles with extended wings. In the center of the span will be a fine archway. The bridge will also bear a bronze tablet with an inscription of dedication, which has been written by former President Taft in memory of his aid and highly-esteemed friend. The bridge, which is 200 feet in length and has a width of 15 feet, was designed by W. H. Dacey, a New York architect. The architectural decorator is the W. Leland company, of New York; and Nisbet Wingfield, of Augusta, Ga., is the engineer in charge of construction of the span.

MAYOR WILL URGE COUNCIL TO HELP

compiled figures showing that in twenty-one months the new $100,000 Grady annex, with only fifteen pay wards, cost a revenue of $25,000 to the city. He is also prepared to show that with an annex of thirty wards the revenue will be about $100,000, which will be more than sufficient to create a sinking fund and an amount sufficient to discharge the interest on the bonds.

Action by Council. Upon the action of council at its meeting today will depend in a large measure just what steps will be taken by the central committee. It is planned by a number of members to have the women's clubs and the business and trade organizations and other bodies of men and women join in the campaign of education. The educational campaign will be for the purpose of bringing to the attention of the people the necessity of improving the hospital, also for the purpose of demonstrating that by issuing bonds the taxpayers will not be burdened.

Mayor Woodward offered another splendid suggestion yesterday when he urged that the committee enlist the aid of the teachers of the public schools and the school children themselves in the Grady hospital improvement.

JURORS MAKE A PLEA FOR THE FOUR GUNMEN

Gov. Glynn Urged to Delay Execution Until After Second Trial of Becker.

New York, March 29.—Ten of the twelve trial jurors who found the four gunners guilty of the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, have signed a petition asking Governor Glynn to stay the execution of death, set for next month, until after the second trial on Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant, whose conviction was set aside by the state court of appeals.

Counsel for the gunmen today announced that this petition and other documentary matter would be presented to the governor tomorrow. Of the two jurors who did not sign the petition, one was out of town when his signature was sought and the other declined to make known his attitude.

In view of the new trial that has been granted to Becker, the petition sets forth the interests of justice and requires that the execution of judgment of death pronounced upon these defendants upon our verdict be stayed until there is final determination of the guilt or innocence of Charles Becker, or of other disposition of the case.

Clarence Krings, of counsel for the gunmen, presented the petition, together with a statement making reference to the opinions of the court of appeals in the Becker case and various petitions, among them one by the gunmen, George Frank, Charles "Lucky" Louie, Rosenberg, Harry Herowitz ("Gyp the Blood") and "Whitey" Lewis, as co-defendants.

The four gunmen request, first, that the judgment of death be commuted to "such an act of imprisonment as to the governor may seem just and proper, and second, that the execution of the judgment be stayed until after the final determination of the indictment against Becker.

Affidavits by various attorneys and other documents intended to show that the four are innocent, and that the execution of the judgment be stayed until after the final determination of the indictment against Becker, were filed with the governor on Tuesday.

SHEPPARD BROTHERS ASK CHANGE OF VENUE

Covington, Ga., March 29.—(Special.) The case of Charles and Ralph Sheppard, of Covington, the two white youths charged with the assault with intent to murder a policeman here, was called before Judge Charles Reid, in the Newton superior court.

The defending lawyers introduced a motion for a change of venue on the grounds that feeling was so strong in Newton county against the boys that they were in danger of mob violence.

The attorneys produced an affidavit by the father, W. B. Sheppard, declaring that lynching was most probable while the boys remained in the Covington jail.

On the other hand, Solicitor G. M. Napier produced ten affidavits by prominent Covington citizens to the effect that the boys were in no danger of the mob, and Judge Reid overruled the motion for change of venue.

The defense objected to the judge's action, and filed a bill of exceptions to carry the question of a change to the supreme court.

The court placed the bond of Ralph Sheppard, who cut the policeman dangerously with a knife, at $5,000, and that of Charles, whom the officer was attempting to arrest at the time of the cutting, at $5,000. The bonds have not yet been raised, and the boys are still in jail.

ANDREWS HOME TODAY FROM MISSION ABROAD

Walter Andrews will arrive in Atlanta, from Washington, this morning. Mr. Andrews has been on one of the most important missions yet sent to foreign countries in the interest of the Panama-Pacific exposition.

WALTER P. ANDREWS.

The four took Colonel Andrews and his party on a visit of the Mediterranean countries, during which time he visited Italy, Spain, Greece, Turkey and the African nations. The reports of the trip were very favorable. As a result of the visit of Mr. Andrews and his commission the governments of Greece, France, Turkey and Bulgaria have already signified their intention of building pavilions at the Panama exposition. Romania, Serbia, Portugal and Spain, which had heretofore decided against having representation at the great exposition, re-opened hearings in the matter when Mr. Andrews' commission visited those countries and will undoubtedly, according to Washington advices quoting Mr. Andrews, send representatives to the fair and erect suitable structures on the exposition grounds.

Colonel Andrews and his wife will bring to Atlanta today hundreds of autographed photographs of European cabinet ministers, the collector having been made on the tour.

Colonel Andrews, on his return here, may make some announcement about his stand in the coming mayoralty campaign. It has been hinted that he may make the race for mayor on a liberal platform.
