

to Marietta to be repaired. Robert L. Howell, a substantial citizen of Marietta, stepped into the garage and catching sight of Burns, recognized him by his picture.

"You're Detective Burns aren't you?" he is said to have asked.

BURNS SEEKS SAFETY.

There was a reply of some kind. The presence of the machine and its occupants had drawn a crowd to the front of the garage, which is near the business section of Marietta. At the reply heated words followed. Howell according to witnesses struck at the famous sleuth and his blow landed. Cries and shouts came from the crowd. In a twinkling, Burns darted from the garage, through the gathering of men and down the street toward the hotel. He reached the building in a few strides. It was about a block away. Leaping through the doorway, he sought refuge in a room.

The crowd—on, at least, most of it—followed Burns. Lehon in the meanwhile found safety within the shelter of the sheriff's office in the courthouse, only a block or so away, with a number of trusty deputies on hand.

Loud and boisterous cries of "Lynch him! Shoot him! Mob him!" arose from the gathering around the Whitlock hotel.

A number of more level-headed citizens, including Mayor E. T. Dobbus, Deputy Sheriff Hicks, Judge News, Morris and Mr. Brumby, went into the room to which Burns had fled. They assured him that they would protect him. Mayor Dobbus stepped upon the sidewalk and made a short talk to the mob, rebuking the men and asking them to disperse.

But the crowd seemed to grow more demonstrative. So Judge Morris stepped a compromise of some kind be Burns out and have him leave the county at once.

This met approval. There were still spears and howls of derision, however. Escorted by the mayor, sheriff, deputies and Judge Morris, Burns emerged from the hotel toward the automobile of Mr. Brumby, which had rolled up to the sidewalk and was chugging and ready for travel. Burns jumped in, the gear was thrown in and the machine started with a snort.

Its explosions were drowned by the cries and howls of the mob. As fast as possible the machine sped away from the scene. From the midst of the crowd a white, oval-shaped object flashed into the air. It whizzed and splashed against a tree some distance away. An oily liquid coursed over the bark where it had landed.

Another white object traveled through the air. It landed on the back of the machine. Other similar objects flew in the direction of the auto. Soon the air was full of them. The car's occupants ducked low. Judge Morris, however, was not so fortunate as the other occupants of the car. One egg struck him. He was the only one hit.

CROWD GOES TO COURTHOUSE

The mob then made its way to the courthouse, where Lehon hid. His time it was not so demonstrative there, however, as it had been in front of the hotel. Cries and jeers and cat-calls filled the air, but no manifestation of vicious intentions were evidenced.

As soon as it was learned that Lehon's get-away had been accomplished, the mob dispersed. It was a matter of minutes before the Cobb county, who had come into Marietta to vote at the county primary that was held Friday.

Sheriff Hicks told a reporter for The Constitution over long distance last night that no arrests had been made, and that none would be made. No action will be taken against Lehon.

BURNS' STATEMENT

He stated that he and Lehon had gone to Marietta on route to Cedartown where they were to meet a prospective witness in the Frank case (The case was pending in the Cobb county court) which broke down in Marietta. They were having it repaired in Brumby's garage when the altercation occurred between Burns and Howell.

"I saw no one else," Burns said over the phone. "It was only a mild affair. This man Howell struck at me and I walked on to the hotel to avoid trouble. A crowd of a few men followed me and created a kind of a demonstration in front of the building."

When the car drove up I walked out to it, and as I drove back to Atlanta was all caused by this attack of Howell. He seemed to be looking for trouble and when I saw what was impending I walked away to avoid it.

Burns said that he would remain in Atlanta until he had appeared before Judge Hill. Then he stated he will go to Oklahoma to testify before the courts there in the case in which he was indicted. He notified them last night that he would not be able to come until after Tuesday.

"I'll return however," he said, "immediately I have arranged for the money which will occupy no more than two days—possibly much less."

Marietta is the birthplace of Mary Phagan. Feeling has been at high pitch in the town since the murder. A body lies in the quiet little graveyard beneath a mound over which a monument will soon be erected.

No statement could be had from Howell last night. He could not be reached over long distance telephone. The automobile in which Burns and Lehon traveled to Marietta was returned to Atlanta last night by the chauffeur, who is connected with an Atlanta taxicab concern.

W. J. BURNS AND LEHON ARE CALLED

alleged to have made affidavits for Franks' counsel and which affidavits are contained in the defense motion for a new trial. One of these affidavits made by Mary Rich denies in whole an affidavit submitted by the defense in which she is purported to swear that she saw Lehon at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Mary Phagan's murder.

The Rich woman swears in the prosecution's affidavit that she had never made any such affidavit as was presented by Franks' lawyers. She says that Mrs. Lucille Frank, wife of the convicted man, in company with Rabbi David Marx, approached her with letters in her eyes pleading with her to help save Frank from the gallows.

This affidavit was not submitted Friday. It will be put before Judge Hill Monday morning, however, when the hearing will be reconvened after having been adjourned at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Testimony pertaining to actual incidents of immorality were introduced against Frank in affidavits by girl and women employees of the pencil factory. A number of girls were alleged by the defense to have made affidavits repudiating testimony of the trial deny the documents saying they have never made them and that they are forgotten.

BURKE ASSAILED

Anonymous attacks were made upon C. W. Burke, the private investigator attached to the offices of Luther Z. Towser. Witnesses accused him of coercion, trickery, and criminal tactics. One girl, Marie Karst, who was a witness for the state in the trial, swears that she was inveigled into assisting Burke in his work of gathering evidence by threats of exposure of a girl hood scandal.

Miss Karst testifies in her affidavit that she had been employed by Burke's office by Burke and that he had sought to have her go secretly into the home of Monteen Stover, another girl witness, live with the Stover girl and seek to reverse the Stover girl's evidence. Miss Karst says she also investigated a number of girl and women witnesses who gave character testimony against Frank.

Mrs. Maggie Nash, who formerly was Maggie Griffin, a character witness at the trial, swears in an affidavit that she had frequently seen Frank accompany a certain woman who worked in the pencil factory into the ladies dressing room, where they would stay for a time ranging anywhere from fifteen to thirty minutes.

"I don't know of course," she swears, "what Frank and this woman were doing in there but I do know that they were in the room which was supposed to be used by only the girls as a dressing room and I don't know of any business that could have been carried on in that room. The key to the room was carried always by the woman who went with Frank into it."

A new phase of the suit is evidenced by two affidavits made by W. F. Tucker and his son, V. Tucker, who swear they heard screams at ten minutes after 1 o'clock on the day of the Phagan tragedy coming from the pencil factory building. They were standing in the seat somewhere there were standing there sweat at fourth and Hunt streets on a trip uptown.

They were startled by the screams, the father and son testified, and looked up. They came apparently from the rear of the building and were traced to the pencil factory building. They walked on, however, when V. Tucker said that he suspected it was only some of the girls in the factory playing.

Mr. Dorsey would point at the opening of the hearing, when counsel for the defense sought to introduce some of the evidence accumulated by Detective Burns which consisted of the detective's report on the condition of Mary Phagan's clothing and effects and on the letters alleged to have been written by Jim Conley to Anna Maud Carter, the negro who accuses Conley of having confessed.

Judge Hill refused to admit the evidence about the clothing, saying that Burns, whose testimony would have been presented in the form of an affidavit, was merely giving his personal opinion. Judge Hill stated that the question of the condition of Mary Phagan's garments and personal belongings was a matter of record, at which the matter was brought to a close.

FORGERY CHARGED

Miss Ruth Robertson, a girl character witness for the state from whom the defense purported to have an affidavit of repudiation which was submitted in their motion for a new trial has sworn to an affidavit for Solicitor Dorsey that she never made any such document, and that it was a forgery.

She also swears that Frank, on one occasion made an improper proposal to her, giving her $7 and asking her to make an appointment with her. She says she returned the money and did not make the engagement. She also testifies that there were three girls in Franks' office at the time the proposal was made.

An affidavit from the father of the Robertson girl, W. T. Robertson who is a farmer in Cobb county, tells of conversations with his daughter, in which she told him of Frank's alleged familiarity with Mary Phagan, and of the alleged general bad character he possessed in the pencil factory, of which he was superintendent.

A scalding attack was made upon the character of Mrs. J. B. Simmons, the Birmingham woman and former resident of Atlanta who had made an affidavit to the effect that she had heard screaming coming from the basement of the pencil factory about 4:30 o'clock one afternoon. Mary Phagan was killed.

Numerous witnesses—Atlanta citizens and detectives of Birmingham—testified that her character was disreputable and that she could not be believed on oath. Two affidavits by Atlanta men alleged that she had, at one time been a woman of the streets in Atlanta. Birmingham detectives testified that the house in which she lives in Birmingham is a tendoria resort.

PROMISED REWARD

Another sensation was created in the Simmons phase of the hearing when an affidavit from Mrs. Simmons herself was introduced by Dorsey. Mrs. Simmons swears that she was promised reward by C. W. Burke for making an affidavit for the defense which is used in their motion for a new trial.

She says that Burke strove to have her make a false statement against Solicitor Dorsey, and that he wrote a statement for her which she signed, but the contents of which she was not at all acquainted with. They were numerous falsehoods in it, she now says. Burke, she swears, brought her a basket of fruit, telling her that it would not do at the time but, later on he would send her something.

Another angle of the attack on C. W. Burke was based on testimony by Nellie Wood, the sister-in-law to the witness Annie Mae Pettis who accuses Burke of seeking to approach her under assumed identity, assisted by Jimmie Wrenn, an assistant investigator, who is said to have been working with Burke.

Coupled with the Nellie Wood affidavit was one made by Charley A. Tom, who told of frequently seeing Burke and Jimmie Wrenn conferring with Attorney Luther Z. Towser in the entrance to the Grant building on the seventh floor of which Towser's offices are located.

Mrs. Marie Edmonds who was formerly Miss Mae Kitchens testifies in an affidavit of a visit to Burke, which she says she was a representative of Luther Towser, and that he had been sent to interview her by Mr. Towser, the latter of whom had said she had an honest face.

NOT CONTAINED IN STATEMENT

She swears that Burke had her statement prepared by a stenographer of the National Pencil factory offices out of her presence and that Burke had misled her. She says she told Burke of an incident that occurred at the pencil plant when Frank had invaded the girls dressing room opening the door and gazing upon a group of girls only partly clad but which she states was not contained in the statement Burke prepared for the trial. Miss Carrie Smith, a telephone operator, has sworn to an affidavit which she says never repudiated her testimony in the trial, but which she still holds the character evidence which she gave at the trial.

She also tells of a visit by a man who posed under the name of Maddox, and who said he was writing a book on the Frank case offering her $20 if she would sign an affidavit which he had prepared. She refused the offer; she swears and later upon going to the offices of Towser in the Grant building saw this man whom she presumes was Burke, sitting in the place where she swears she saw him.

A charge of an attempt to lure him into repudiation of his testimony is made against Burke in an affidavit sworn to by R. T. Barrett, the state witness, who discovered the hair and blood spots on the lathing machine in the pencil plant. Barrett's affidavit is also a general surprise.

Not long after the trial on one Sunday morning Barrett swears Jimmie Wrenn met him near Marietta and together they entered into a conversation on the Frank case. As we separated he said Barrett, you are in a good position to make a lot of money if you go to New Orleans and change your statement in the Frank case.

WANTED ME TO TAKE TRIP

I asked him what he wanted me to do. He replied that he simply wanted me to go to New Orleans and change my testimony. I asked him who he was working for. He replied for a Mr. Burke. At the time I did not know Burke, a little later he came to my home early one morning and with me with me at the time he asked if I had told anybody about his offer. I told him no.

When he then asked me to let him know what he would do if I intended telling it—I told him I would leave town in time. In February of this year we met again at the postoffice. He asked if I would like to make $4 a day and my expense on a trip to New Orleans and return. He said he was working for a press agent who was writing a story on the Frank trial. He said that the press agent wanted to get a statement from every witness of the Frank case. I told him I would not under these conditions. He asked me to meet him at 3:30 o'clock at the Terminal station. I agreed, and we met. He had bought tickets to New Orleans for the both of us. I did not intend to leave so early, and we postponed the trip.

In the meantime I communicated with Mr. Stephens, assistant solicitor, and he advised me to see Mr. Dorsey before I left the city. I again saw Jimmie Wrenn and we walked down Whitehall street to Mitchell. I told him then that I could not make the trip. He then informed me that Mr. Kelly, the press agent, would be in town Monday, and we would go to him and talk it over.

The following Monday I again met Wrenn by appointment, and we went to the Kimball hotel to talk with Mr. Kelly. Wrenn and I went to a room in the Kimball and Wrenn introduced me to a Mr. Kelly, whom I afterward learned was C. W. Burke. This man told me he wanted to get my statement. I referred him to my court record. He dissented against this, saying he wanted all testimony direct from the witness.

SAID HE CAUGHT MURDERER. "While we were talking, Kelly—or Burke—told me that he was a 'Bartlett' the murderer of Pearl Bryant, in New Castle, Pa. He told me all about his plan to write a book on the case, and told me that if I followed his instructions I would be rewarded with enough money to buy a handsome house and lot.

But Burke tricked himself. He said that I was suspicious of him and said 'Bartlett' I believe you think we are trying to trick you into a room to put down a lie and send it to my house they would write back here and say Burke what in hell—then he stopped without finishing the sentence for he realized he had given himself away.

Then I started to leave the room. He pleaded with me to let him write the statement that he wanted from me, and let me go over the statement and check out whatever there was about it. I did not like. I told him to write what he pleased and check what he pleased, but I would have absolutely nothing to do with it. I left him.

The affidavit of Miss Marie Karst is perhaps the most sensational introduced. She accuses Burke of trickery and underhand methods. She is the girl who swears she was employed by Burke in the capacity of female detective and that she became associated with him because of a threat to expose a girlhood scandal.

AFFIDAVIT INVOLVES QUINN

She is now a student at a local business college. Previous to the Frank trial she was employed in the National Pencil factory. She was a character witness for the prosecution. She had been connected with the pencil plant for a considerable while before the trial of Frank. Her affidavit also involves Lemmie Quinn, a foreman in the factory, and a leading witness for the defense.

Quinn telephoned me a short time after the trial. The Karst girl swears and let me go over the statement and check out whatever there was about it. I did not like. I told him to write what he pleased and check what he pleased, but I would have absolutely nothing to do with it. I left him.

hold of that scrap in the pencil factory which I was mixed in, and said that if I would see Burke and give him a statement he would keep the scandal out of court.

He said that unless I did this, they would bring it up in court against me. I told him that he was foreman of the pencil factory and that he ought to have known whether I got drunk or not. He said he didn't know anything about it. The incident in question happened at the pencil factory when I was about fifteen years old. Another girl and I slipped a pint of whiskey out of the pocket of one of the workmen and we and two other girls drank some of it.

The other girls who drank with me were not more than fifteen—some were younger. I suspect the whiskey was stolen as a joke—pure and simple—and we drank it publicly. Everyone knew it. He was a joke and most of the people around the factory knew about it. There was no secret about it. One of the girls became under the influence of it. It was just a bit of fun.

QUINN FRIGHTENED ME

But when Lemmie brought it up in connection with Burke it had the effect of frightening me because I did not want my name to be involved with scandal and I feared it would exaggerate Lemmie Quinn's end of his talk by insisting that I go to see C. W. Burke or let him come to see me. He then went to the telephone in a seditious tone to which we had walked and called up Burke.

Burke came right over and we had soft drinks at a little table. Burke asked me to go to work for him in the office of Rosser Brandon Slaton & Phillips on the seventh floor of the Grant building. I didn't go, however. Afterward Burke met me on the street and asked me to go to work for him. I consented. I was not a stenographer. I told him to work during the afternoons and that he would pay me $2 a day.

Burke wanted me to go around and see the girls who had sworn for the state in the trial of Frank as character witnesses and his principal object was to see if they would change their testimony. He told me that what I had sworn on the stand did not amount to anything as I was not cross-examined and that for this reason my statement did not even go into the record.

I began working for Burke and went to see a number of the girls who were among them. Helen Ferguson told Carrie Smith that they told me that they would not change their evidence because what they said was the truth. I did not tell them I was employed by Burke. I merely felt them out.

One day Burke wanted me to go to

DENVER AND ATLANTA TO BOOST EACH OTHER

Systematic Campaign Planned by Hotel Men's Association and Convention Bureau.

Plans were set on foot Friday afternoon for a systematic campaign of Atlanta advertisement in Denver Colorado with a view to bringing travelers tourists and conventions from the west to this city.

The plan consists of a reciprocal arrangement between the Atlanta Hotel Men's association and the Denver Convention association in the adoption of a resolution. It is believed that by this plan both Atlanta and Denver will greatly benefit. Especially is it expected that Denver will benefit in 1915 when the people of the south go west to the Panama Exposition and Atlanta in the following year by the advertisement the city will receive on account of the large number of tourists and conventions in the west during 1915 which may be expected to come south the following year.

Mr. Burham was jammed full of Denver talk and had with him a number of pictures of the western metropolis showing it to be a regular city.

Mr. Burham left Friday night for Jacksonville where he will present the same proposition made at Atlanta. He has made reservations at the Piedmont for Shriener week.

DEPUTY WARDEN HOBSON PRAISED BY GRAND JURY

Report Recommends That Many Roads in County Be Graded and Paved.

Several paragraphs in the report of the Fulton county grand jury, returned to Judge Bell Friday afternoon are devoted to praise of Deputy Warden Hobson of the Adamsville camp. The jury especially complimented the deputy for abolishing the old system of chaining the convicts to their beds at night and in one paragraph comments that since the convicts were put on their good behavior only three men have been whipped in three months.

The report also upholds Warden Hobson for discharging three paid wagon drivers and replacing them with convicts.

The report recommends that Warden Hobson's plan be put into effect in all the camps. It will save the county about $5000 a month the report says.

Warden Girardeau was handed a bouquet for his humane treatment of prisoners.

Charging that the corridors of the jail are dirty and some of the cells littered with paper and excelsior the grand jury took a rap at the jail officials. They recommended frequent applications of the scrub brush.

The grand jury found many of the dirt roads in the county to be in bad condition and recommended that they be graded.

Tax dodgers were blamed for the lack of school funds. The report declares that the county school funds available for county schools the institutions are efficiently conducted.

The jury recommended that all bridges crossing county roads be erected with concrete.

Judge Bell complimented the jury for the careful investigation it made and the efficient service of each member and then ordered the body discharged.

ROOSEVELT OUTWALKS BRAZILIAN COMPANIONS

New York May 1.—Anthony Fiala, the explorer who was in charge of one of the Roosevelt expeditions in Brazil arrived in New York today from Rio Janeiro. He vividly described the experience of the expedition before the grand jury and after he separated from Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit on February 1 Fiala did not know until today how ever that he had been so commended. He said he had not expected to hear from Mr. Roosevelt before the grand jury.

Telling of his 400 mile journey across country with Roosevelt Fiala said the rainy season had been so bad sometimes we would travel for two days at a time without finding a dry spot in the country.

At Mato Grosso we went hunting in one party which went for tucuz cats we met Colonel Roosevelt and a Brazilian chief of police a Brazil is colored and several natives. They pushed the party through the swamps filled with crocodiles and snakes in pursuit of a tiger.

The tiger was shot by Fiala. He could not get the tiger's skin. The price set for the tiger's skin was $1000. The Brazilians had cut and were lying on their backs and were recuperating. The tiger cat got away.

Fiala said that the Brazilians regarded Roosevelt as a hero. He highly liked one considered the former president his own personal friend.

WHITSELL IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Valdosta, Ga. May 1.—(Special)—I. Whitsett, a work manager of the Katoe store on this city, was brought here under arrest from Monticello, Va. today on a charge of bigamy.

Whitsett left here two weeks ago and recently his father came to Valdosta in an effort to get his son's alleged financial difficulties. The father it appears unwittingly let it be known that he was in the northern city, not knowing that he had married here some weeks ago to Miss Reva Bailey who was employed as a sales lady in the store of which he was manager. His first bigamy was at once sworn out by a brother of the Valdosta wife. Sheriff Corbett located Whitsett in Georgia and Deputy Sheriff Hodges was sent to bring him back to Valdosta. The elder Whitsett had been sending money regularly to the northern wife who had to leave this he had made it again. Whitsett probably be tried in the state court which meets this month.

The Story of Wagner's Opera, Lohengrin.

Elsa (Rappold) has been accused by her guardian Frederick Count of Brabant (Goritz) of murdering her brother Duke Godfrey. She asserts her innocence. It is agreed that her cause shall be decided by a combat between Frederick and some champion of Elsa's cause. An unknown knight (Berger) undertakes her defense. Elsa promising to wed him and never to inquire into his name or origin if he is successful. Frederick is defeated and deprived of his title and estate.

Still he and his wife Ortrud (Ober) plot against the knight urging Elsa to inquire (against her promise) into his identity.

After the marriage ceremony while Elsa is questioning the knight Frederick intrudes and is slain.

The next morning before the king the unknown knight tells that he is Lohengrin son of King Perceval. He is the cup known as the Holy Grail but now that he is known he cannot remain. He swan that day the boat in which he came appears. Lohengrin removes a chain from his neck and in its stead appears Godfrey who had been changed by the sorceress Ortrud into a swan—and so Lohengrin returns to the intense grief of the bride and all.

Cavalleria Rusticana (Mascagni)

Turiddu (Crustallo) before his enlistment in the army had wooed the coquette Lola (Brestla). On his return from military service he finds Lola the bride of Alfio (Gully). His love and vanity wounded he turns to Santuzza (Gadski) but afterwards meeting Lola he deceives Santuzza, while Lola is faithful to Alfio. Alfio hears this from Santuzza and challenges Turiddu to a duel who unwillingly accepts and is slain.

Pagliacci (Leoncavallo)

Traveling minstrels have just come to the little village of Calabria. Tomio (Scotti) the clown of the troupe is attentive to Nedda (Allen) the wife of the manager of the troupe Canio (Caruso). Nedda repulses him he vows revenge. Silvio (Reschiglian) appears, to whom Nedda vows her love and agrees to fly with him. Tomio and Canio surprise them embracing. But Silvio escapes from the enraged Canio. Nedda refuses to disclose who he is.

The second act—all is ready for the play. Silvio comes in with the crowd. During the progress of the little drama a story strikingly similar to that has just taken place. Nedda as Columbine in the play refuses to disclose who her lover is to Panchello (Canio). He stabs her to death. Silvio rushes forward and he, too, is stabbed by Canio.

MR. KAHN'S ADDRESS

It is doubtful if in the history of grand opera in America its mission has been given a broader or more intelligent interpretation than in the address of Otto H. Kahn, published in yesterday's Constitution. Mr. Kahn foremost among American financiers with world interests is chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera company. More than any other man Atlanta is indebted to him for its five consecutive seasons of grand opera. In his speech at the Capital City club dinner to him and his associate directors he explained his attitude toward grand opera in Atlanta with a felicity of phrase and a subtlety of analysis that was most impressive.

Two years ago Mr. Kahn had said in an interview with The Constitution that there after the season appearances of the Metropolitan Opera Company in America would be confined to New York and Atlanta. The reasons he then gave he elaborated in his more recent utterance. He defines grand opera as the finest and most illuminating of the arts. He believes that its faculty for sowing idealism for incalculating a love of beauty for broadening intellectual horizons and kindling exalted aspirations is one of the most distinct material assets any community can achieve. His philosophy does not concede that grand opera is a luxury or a fashionable fad. He lifts it to the higher realm of food for the development of mind and spirit an antidote to the vulgarity the restlessness and the sordidness of life under our high pressure civilization.

These convictions have influenced his conspicuous activities in encouraging grand opera in New York. They have followed his participation in the movement which gave grand opera to Chicago through the Chicago Opera company of which he is the vice president. They explain the bringing of the Metropolitan grand opera to Atlanta—that at the gateway to the great south it might plant elevating influences similar to those already operating in the metropolises of the nation and in the metropolises of the middle west.

His expert judgment regarding Atlanta has been amply vindicated. Through the enterprise that his co-operation has made possible, Atlanta has become the radiating center in the south for those ennobling cultural influences flowing from the highest of all arts.

The most enduring service is that which is stripped of the selfish personal equation and based upon the public welfare. That is the sort of service Otto Kahn is rendering, whether in New York in Chicago or in Atlanta.

His ambition is not for personal profit or glory. He is beyond the need of either. His aim is to implant a love for the most exalted ideals of art to incalculating an understanding of grand opera the crystallization of art from which flows inspiration to nobler thought, higher citizenship.

In advancing that aim he is unconsciously building a monument to himself for patriotic service, a monument for conspicuous service in the general good, the more notable in that it is not tinged by thought of self, but actuated purely by desire for the advancement of the public ideals.

MR. WARFIELD'S VISIT.

An underlying significance of grand opera week to Atlanta lies in the type and stature of Americans it attracts to the city. Among the notable visitors of the week is S. Davies Warfield, of Baltimore, chairman of the board of directors of the Seaboard

Air Line and financier and builder of national prominence. When such men as Warfield and Kahn, and their associates, lay aside affairs of great import to spend a week in any city for purposes other than those of strict business, the implied tribute is unmistakable.

Mr. Warfield's presence here like that of other distinguished visitors, is a testimonial to the enterprise and initiative of Atlanta. They enhance the city's prestige. They place the stamp of personal approval and patronage upon civic courage and civic devotion to the finer things in life.

Mr. Warfield may with accuracy, be called a model type of the new southerner thinking in large terms of the future, alert, aggressive, appreciative. Since his influence has dominated the Seaboard there has been visible in every branch of that important property the vital influence of his powerful and constructive personality. He has already proved up on his original announcement that he intended making the Seaboard an essentially southern institution in its management and essentially modern in its equipment and its preparation for the south's destiny. When his program for the development of this great property is completely unfolded it will be found to be of incalculable importance to the whole south.

Mr. Warfield's presence in Atlanta this week—and that of the many other prominent business men who are here from all sections of the south—is illustrative of what has come to be a striking feature of grand opera week in Atlanta.

Every year the number of visitors grows larger and it is notable that with each season more prominent men and more charming women from every part of the south are coming to Atlanta to take advantage of an occasion that has become one of unique interest throughout the south. More than ever is this notable this season. There is probably not a city in the south which has not been represented in Atlanta this week and the best part of it is every visitor goes back home impressed with the glory and the greatness of Atlanta. This one asset alone is of incalculable benefit to Atlanta.

LET THE RULES ALONE.

While the action of Hon. W. J. Harris, chairman of the state democratic executive committee in sounding the views of the various committeemen with reference to an extra session of the committee, may not be amiss it is to be hoped that his diagnosis will be unfavorable to an extra session or to any tinkering with the rules already adopted by the committee.

No set of rules formulated by any human agency can be expected to meet all emergencies or vicissitudes and the present rules are in keeping with party precedent in Georgia.

Those candidates who have already announced for office have opened their campaign under these rules, and any changes would be certain to serve as a pretext, if not as a just basis for criticism and complaint.

A MUNICIPAL HEALTH PLAN.

The first requirement of a great municipality is an adequate municipal hospital.

Such an institution is the inevitable corollary to an A-1 sewage and sanitary system.

Atlanta is perfecting an excellent sanitary system and a garbage disposal system.

Her municipal hospital is the weakest link in her health chain.

There are not enough beds, not enough laboratory facilities, not enough facilities of any sort competently to take care of the Atlantians who have a right to demand the hospital's services.

To the man of means this situation is a negligible problem.

He can go himself or send his sick relatives to one of the splendid private sanitariums with which Atlanta abounds.

But the man in moderate circumstances either wholly lacks this resource or must employ it at a sacrifice of indebtedness that frequently holds his nose to the grindstone for many years.

The best representatives of all civic elements have united in behalf of Greater Grady.

"UTTERLY"

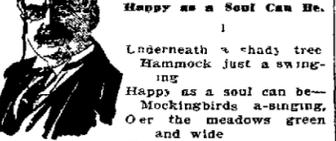

The Colonel has regained civilization. He has cabled from Manaus in Brazil of a wonderful quest through the jungles in the course of which birds, beasts, and reptiles fell before his trusty rifle.

The Colonel's cable is a thoroughly characteristic one. Never is he able to repress his enthusiasms, nor to strip his sentiments of the ever exuberant hyperbole.

He twice makes use of the word "utterly" in the length of fifty words, in describing the river made famous by being discovered by the Roosevelt party.

Utterly defines the Colonel. He never embarks on any enterprise in a half-hearted manner. It is "utterly" or nothing. His friends will pulse with relief, his enemies give an anticipatory shudder. Armed with the same old vigor and zest, the Colonel is again on the job, ready for a fight or a frolic.

Happy as a Soul Can Be.
 Underneath a shady tree
 Hammock just a swinging
 Happy as a soul can be—
 Mockingbirds a-singing,
 Or the meadows green
 And wide
 Fair and flowery visions
 Drifting on a dreamy tide
 To silvery bells a-ringing.

II
 Fleecy clouds that flock the blue
 By no temptations driven
 Peace unto the soul of you
 Sweetly strangely given
 You forget the earthly care
 Of the Valleys of Despair
 With your eyes up to heaven
 Love's face smiles from Heaven

 Sweet to dream a life away
 In a hammock swinging,
 Every life on earth today
 To a dream is clinging
 Bless the visions that appear
 Peace and rest are drawing near
 Angels every low note hear
 When your soul is singing

DISTRACTING NOISES

A "Business" Feet
 A real business poet works for The Dornier Star and his verse gladdens the heart of the business office. He sings:
 When the frost is on the counter
 And the snow is on the shelves
 See the fellow in the store
 Who is getting shorn and
 Your stock is getting shorn
 And the groceries are stale
 And bills enough are coming
 To make a banker pale
 Oh then see the fellow in the store
 Who is getting shorn and
 Your stock is getting shorn
 And the groceries are stale
 And bills enough are coming
 To make a banker pale
 Oh then see the fellow in the store
 Who is getting shorn and
 Your stock is getting shorn
 And the groceries are stale

Once Upon a Time.
 (From The Chicago Post)
 The cost of living was quite low
 Once upon a time
 We used to save a little dough
 Once upon a time
 We can recall it didn't take
 A dollar bill to buy a steak
 We didn't spend all we could make
 Once upon a time
 The women all dressed sensibly
 Once upon a time
 They were dressed as they could be
 Once upon a time
 They didn't wear the low necked gown
 When walking on the street down town
 And skirts so tight they couldn't sit down
 Once upon a time
 The people danced with ease and grace
 Once upon a time
 They didn't quarrel and the place
 Was never a madhouse
 Once upon a time
 They danced in manner meant to please
 Not on their elbows and their knees
 They turned no handspins in the breeze
 Once upon a time
 Hysteria was not a fad
 Once upon a time
 The folks were not in a passion
 Once upon a time
 They were quite strong on sand
 And it is very plain to see
 Things are not what they used to be
 Once upon a time

Easter at Nazareth.
 (Chorus: Scollard in Lippincott's)
 Little town of Nazareth
 On the hillside Galilee
 Oh your name is like a psalm
 Rising over dole and death
 I can see your domes and towers
 Dazzle through the noon
 And your drowsy poppy flowers
 In the breezes sway and swoon
 I can see your olive quiver
 With their opalescent sheen
 Like the ripples of a river
 Gliding grassy banks between
 I can see your graceful daughters
 Pose their slim necked drinking jars
 With their hair like twilight waters
 And their eyes like Syrian stars
 I can see your narrow byways
 Where the fell go sandals bow—
 All your dim bazaars and highways
 Every path that once he trod
 And I know that waking sleeping
 Until time has ceased to be
 You will hold fast in your keeping
 His beloved memory
 Little town of Nazareth
 On the hillside Galilee
 Oh your name is like a psalm
 Rising over dole and death

The Navy—It's Gone Dry

 The drunken pig is up

 The juice is in the cup
 The nation of the rum no more—
 They know not where they're at
 It's tough to toady the country
 In a Bryan drink like that

Time to Call a Halt, Says Confederate Veteran

Editor Constitution: I am an old veteran and know something of the horrors of war—I cannot resist the inclination to commend you for your timely and vigorous editorial in today's Constitution under the title of The Blood Hunters. I am also glad that you have published Mr. Corrigan's communication as it was high time somebody who had the courage of their convictions was calling a halt on the efforts of certain individuals who, for purely selfish purposes would gladly see this country in a war with Mexico. A good many people in this section regard Mr. Hearst and those under and working for him as very dangerous citizens. Yours very truly,

A Diminutive Dinosaur.

(From The Indianapolis News)
 There a eon being assembled in the United States National museum the bones of a very small three horned dinosaur which when completely assembled will measure about six feet in length and stand only about three feet high. Its head is inches long. When its bones are compared with those of the larger members of this family of reptiles it will be seen that this specimen is less than one fourth of their size. In the national museum are several skulls of large horned dinosaurs which measure from six to eight feet and in one case nine feet.

The group to which this new member belongs is called the Ceratopsians from the horns and the horns are on the forehead and one on the end of the nose. Unlike the others this species has small and not prominent horns over the eyes while the nasal horn is an outgrowth of the nasal bone and not an additional growth as is the case with the others. Another peculiarity is that this horn is split lengthwise in such a manner that one side has the appearance of having slipped by the other.

Its jaws are like those of a turtle there being no front teeth but a sharp curved beak. Further back in the jaws however are five sculptured cutting teeth which show the animal to have been voracious. Like the other members of this group it has a deep collar known as a frill but in this species it has an open space on either side of the neck. The frill was connected with the skull by a complete and connected projection of the neck. This particular specimen was found with the foot and tail articulated which makes it especially interesting as being the first complete and connected specimen ever obtained. The foot has four toes the first with two bones the second with three the fourth with five while only a trace of the fifth toe remains tending to show the loss of that member through disuse. In the case with the horse parts of the other feet are also in this collection as well as nearly all the bones of one individual. In the whole specimen there are few holes and parts which will have to be restored. Considering that the first specimens of this family were discovered some forty years ago it is curious that this small individual is the most complete one that has been found.

Fossils were found in the blackfoot reservation in northwestern Montana. The partial skeletons of five individuals were uncovered at the same time and form a most valuable addition to science.

JOHN I. BOFFILLIET IN CITY

His plans still uncertain.
 Hon. John I. Boffilliet, clerk of the house of representatives and a member of the senate, spent Friday in the city en route to Washington. Mr. Boffilliet has been in Marion for some time looking over the situation there. He has been in the management of Thomas S. Elder, chairman of the senate and he has also been spoken of as a candidate for congress.

He stated Friday that he had had a number of letters from all parts of the state inquiring if it were true he was to manage W. J. Harris' campaign but had not consented to himself.

In regard to his running for office, he seems to depend on what Mr. W. J. Harris decides not to run. It is more than probable that Mr. Boffilliet will appear in the race for some time.

SCIENCE OF JOSEPH M. BROWN

There is nothing in the science of Joseph M. Brown, who is a member of the senate, that is more than a matter of fact. He is a man of science, and his science is the science of the man of power. DAILY GRIST From the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

RANDOLPH ANDERSON CONFIDENT
TALKS OPTIMISTICALLY OF RACE
 J. Randolph Anderson, president of the senate and candidate for governor, spent Friday in Atlanta. Mr. Anderson spoke with great confidence of the gubernatorial contest and said he was receiving the most flattering assurances of support from all parts of the state.

Everywhere I have been I have met with the heartiest of receptions and I feel gratified at the way things look at this stage of the game.
 As nearly as possible I shall cover the state but owing to the limited time at my disposal I will not be able to visit every county. I shall have to do most of my active campaigning between now and the meeting of the general assembly.

Southwestern Georgia was wild for it that you can be sure. Put on of it most great things in this state. I am assured of the support of the county.

At the present time I have met with the heartiest of receptions and I feel gratified at the way things look at this stage of the game.
 W. J. Harris will announce his intention to run for governor in the near future.

There seems to be a good deal of doubt in the minds of the people whether W. J. Harris will be elected in the event Judge Harris is elected. It is a matter of doubt if Judge Harris would formally enter in the race. Harris decided to run Judge Harris is at last definitely in the fight. Harris is apparently undecided. Although the situation is a little more complicated.

And then there are other possibilities. W. J. Harris is to be re-elected and there are several strong candidates in the race.

MEN AND RELIGION BULLETIN NO. 112

"Restoration of Sanity"

"Now his elder son was in the field, and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing

"And he called one of the servants and asked, what these things meant

"And he said unto him, 'Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fattest calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.'

"And he was angry, and would not go in; therefore, came his father out and entreated him—

"It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad, for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again, and was lost, and is found"

—Luke 15 25-28, 32

In the angry elder son, Christ pictured the so called religious man of that day.

In our day, the sin of the elder brother, the church member, is greater: he may be outwardly glad at the prodigal's return, but the fact remains—

You, O elder brother, member of the church of God, you have a part of the boy's wasted substance, spent in riotous living.

You get a part of the price of every drink sold in the near beer saloons and clubs of Atlanta and Georgia.

Some get more than others.

FOR EXAMPLE, THE MEMBER OF THE CLUB WHO NEVER BUYS A DRINK WITHIN ITS WALLS GETS MOST OF ALL IN A MONETARY WAY FROM ITS LAWLESS TRADE; HE PAYS ONLY HIS DUES; HE DOESN'T BUY POISON FOR HIMSELF, BUT HE GETS THE BENEFIT OF THOSE THINGS WHICH ARE PURCHASED BY THE PROFITS DERIVED FROM THE POISONS SOLD BY THE BAR TO OTHERS.

But, since members of the church of God, for business reasons, have licensed known violators of the law of Georgia to traffic in those things which destroy the souls of men and women and wreck their homes, we all get our share of this liquor money from the locker clubs and saloons and yet have the face to stand and sing "O Weary Prodigal Come" and "Welcome, Wanderer, Welcome" to the poor fools who have been plucked by our leave.

Is it right? Which is the greater shame—

To have it said, "Atlantans, Georgians, are queer; they believe a man should keep his oath of office; you cannot buy liquor there; they believe in saving people before they get into the gutter?"

OR TO HAVE IT SAID, "IN ATLANTA, GOVERNOR, JUDGES, MAYOR AND COUNCIL, SHERIFF AND POLICE, ALL IN GEORGIA RESPECT NEITHER LAWS NOR OATHS; THE LEGISLATURE ENACTS LAWS TO PREVENT MEN FROM PREYING UPON THEIR FELLOW MAN, BUT LEADING CITIZENS AND PUBLIC OFFICIALS UNITE IN IGNORING THEM AND MAKING A MOCK OF LAW?"

Which would indicate the saner condition of government?

For men are seeking and they are going to have a saner government.

In the Interest of Fair Play

The undersigned, being the immediate neighbors of Mr. L. O. Wright, indignantly resent certain rumors that are being circulated by W. M. Mayo or his deputies. They have persisted in saying that Mr. Wright was going to withdraw from the race for Sheriff, and that he was running in the interest of Sheriff Mangum, notwithstanding Mr. Wright's denial, and the denial of his deputies, his friends, and everyone connected with his campaign.

Now we brand as false all these rumors, and charge Captain Mayo or his deputies with circulating these rumors when they know them to be false. We do not believe the people of this county will support any man, or set of men, for the responsible office of Sheriff, who are guilty of such deliberate misrepresentation. WE KNOW THAT MR. WRIGHT IS A HIGH-TONED GENTLEMAN, WORTHY OF ANY MAN'S BALLOT, AND IS RUNNING HIS RACE STRICTLY ON A HIGH PLANE, AND IN THE INTEREST OF NO OTHER CANDIDATE. THEREFORE, WE CHALLENGE CAPTAIN MAYO AND HIS DEPUTIES TO PROVE ANYTHING TO THE CONTRARY.

We therefore appeal to the fair minded people of this county to put their stamp of disapproval on such methods by voting for L. O. Wright for Sheriff on May 5th.

AT THE THEATERS

"Ann Boyd." (At the Lyric) Marguerite Chaffee's performance in the Lyric this evening was one of the most beautiful women on the American stage her attractiveness has been superadded only by her beauty which she displayed here beyond peradventure first in an emotional and then in a light comedy role. There is a particular credit due when one so beautiful makes the red and brown and blue tricks of grotesque paint and character a perfect complexion and with lips some and adroitly transforming a studied entrancing countenance to the ugliness of this week.

Junior Keith Vaudeville.
