

SEATTLE CELEBRATES BIG CONVENTION VICTORY

TAMPICO HAS FALLEN; HUERTA'S LAST PORT IN HANDS OF REBELS

In Desperate Assault Forces of Carranza Capture the Port That Controls the Oil Fields—Huerta's Troops Flee by the Railroad.

CAPTURE OF TAMPICO GREATLY COMPLICATES MEXICAN SITUATION

United States Must Decide Whether Rebels Are to Be Allowed to Receive Arms Through Tampico—No Details of the Final Battle Received, But Casualties Are Reported Very Heavy.

Washington, May 13—Evacuation of Tampico by the Mexican federal garrison began at 12 50 p. m. today, according to a relayed wireless dispatch to the navy department from Rear Admiral Mayo. The federal troops were leaving by the railroad.

Rear Admiral Mayo, at Tampico, reported to the navy department tonight that at 2 p. m. today the Mexican federal gunboats Bravo and Zaragoza steamed out of the Panuco river and anchored near the foreign warships outside.

Admiral Mayo says it was reported that the casualties on both sides have been very heavy. DESPERATE RESISTANCE.

That the rebels encountered desperate resistance in their final attack, and that they were compelled to carry their fight to the town, was indicated by Admiral Mayo's report. He reported that at 1 o'clock today, when it was reported the rebels had occupied Tampico, there was heavy rifle firing in the plaza, and that big gun-firing continued.

Advices received by constitutionalists here said the rebels were evacuating Tampico, but details were lacking. The federal forces were retreating by way of the railroad leading to San Luis Potosi, and it was assumed that they hoped to reach Pachuca, the terminus of a railway line that leads indirectly to Mexico City. The railroad out of Tampico to Monterey is held by the constitutionalists.

FOREIGNERS GO TO WARSHIPS. Another message received by way of Ciudad Victoria said the families of foreigners living in Tampico had taken refuge on warships and merchant vessels in the harbor and that many Mexican residents had taken refuge behind the constitutionalist lines.

There are 6,000 unemployed men in Tampico. Some have been obliged to take up arms in the federal ranks, according to the message while many have made their way to the rebel lines. TAMPICOS MEANS COMPLICATIONS.

Vera Cruz, May 14—The fall of Tampico and what it may mean is the subject of general speculation here. It is learned that the constitutionalists delivered a determined attack on the port beginning at 4 o'clock this morning. The federal advance posts were driven in, and until noon desperate firing was continuous.

In what direction the federal forces are evacuating the town has not been learned, but it is believed that the constitutionalists have overrun the town around San Luis Potosi and Monterey, which would make federal escape in that direction possible only by a continuous running fight for many miles.

Few, if any foreigners remain in Tampico, according to the last reports received here. A general exodus began when the news spread that the rebels were preparing for a final assault. Many Tampico refugees passed through here, but few were allowed ashore, as the American authorities were not willing to increase the large colony already overcrowding the hotels. With the fall of Tampico hostilities on the gulf coast of Mexico come to an end, at least for a time.

HUERTA MEN RESPECT ARMISTICE. The federal forces are maintaining the armistice, so far as the Americans are concerned, according to a note from General Rubio Navarrete published here today. Nowhere else along the coast line except at Tampico are there more than scattered posts of federal or constitutionalist, and the logical movement of the victors from Tampico would be to join forces with those besieging San Luis Potosi and Monterey, the nearest federal forces, those on the Mexican railroad, are merely holding outposts against a possible American advance inland. The country between Tampico and Vera Cruz and inland to the Gulf of Mexico, the national railroad is barren and mountainous, and impossible for military operations. At Tampico Rear Admiral Mayo reported firing at 5 a. m., continuing all the morning. He reported that fed-

FORMAL STEPS FOR MEDIATION

U. S. Delegates Are Given Instructions—Pressure to Be Brought on Rebels to Accept Offices of Mediators

Washington, May 13—First formal steps in the program of mediation in the Mexican problem were taken here today, when Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, together with their secretaries, Dr. Percival Dodge, who will represent the United States, paid their respects to the three South American envoys who have undertaken by diplomacy to solve the Mexican question.

The representatives were presented by Counsellor Robert Lang to the secretary of state. It was a call of courtesy, but paved the way for informal conferences in advance of the first meeting at Niagara Falls Ont., next Monday.

Confidentially, word was received by the mediators direct from the foreign minister at Mexico City that the Huerta representatives would arrive at Havana tonight or tomorrow and leave immediately for Niagara Falls, via Key West.

An earlier dispatch from Consul Canard at Vera Cruz indicated that the Huerta delegates might delay several days at Havana.

Reports were current that strong pressure would be brought to bear on the constitutionalists from several quarters after the expected victory at Tampico, to get them to participate in the mediation. President Wilson, during the day, promised a delegation of the United States to Tampico, that as soon as the fighting ceased he would make strong representations to the authorities in control there to assure a safe passage for the delegates.

Secretary Bryan announced that the United States had no intention of holding Lobos Island, and that if the Mexicans would keep the navigation lights burning there, the American forces would depart content.

The mediators do not regard the Lobos Island incident as menacing the forthcoming negotiations. KILLING OF PARKS.

Secretary Garrison cabled General Funston, at Vera Cruz, to demand of General Maas, the Mexican commander, a full explanation of the death of Parks, who was strangled in Mexican lines several days ago. Protest against the reported execution of Parks and the alleged burning of his body has been also through diplomatic channels to President Huerta.

Secretary Garrison holds that as Parks was in uniform, he should have been treated as a prisoner of war. General Funston thinks Parks went to Vera Cruz.

These were the chief developments in the Mexican situation today. The constitutionalists were preparing for their departure and Counsellor Lansing spent much time with the American representatives familiarizing them with the general situation. Mr. Lansing afterwards said that the status of the American representatives would be unofficial as they would bear no diplomatic powers. All steps would be referred for final decision to the secretary of state and the president.

Suggestions will not be made direct to the Huerta government, but coming from the mediators, but the Americans might suggest means to the mediators in their unofficial capacity. The practical certainty that the constitutionalists would be in control of Tampico made it apparent today that the United States soon would be in a position to bring about a return to normalcy in the oil district.

Negotiations with the constitutionalists, to permit foreign employes to return to the wells, will be begun as soon as news of the occupation of the district is received. REBELS SHORT OF AMMUNITION.

Another phase of the situation which produced much discussion in executive quarters was the question of ammunition shipments destined for Tampico, when the constitutionalists are en route.

BALD SQUEALER GIVEN GRILLING

Jack Rose Roughly Handled by Becker's Attorney, But Left Witness Stand Bright-Eyed and Smiling.

New York May 13—"Bald Jack" Rose chief witness for the prosecution at the second trial of Charles Becker, charged with being the instigator of the plot that resulted in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, came from the stand at the conclusion today of five hours of relentless cross-examination bright-eyed and smiling the bald-headed informer quietly and unflinchingly answered every question asked him by Martin T. Manton, chief of Becker's counsel. Even when Manton shouted accusations of murder at Rose and tried to make him admit that he had made his living by committing petty larcenies and by selling opium to the slaves of the habit of New York's Chinatown, the former gambler remained unshaken.

Rose's expression never changed during all the grilling. The tone of his voice was neither raised nor lowered at any time. He reiterated his story of underworld intrigue and murder, with a calm and matter-of-fact air. He showed no fear, no emotion and no remorse except on one occasion. Then he said his conscience pricked him a few days after he had plotted to have Herman Rosenthal murdered.

Manton managed to get Rose to admit that there were major discrepancies between the testimony he offered at the first trial and that he gave on direct examination yesterday. Rose said his testimony yesterday was more complete in places than his former.

War of Gamblers. During the afternoon examination Manton put questions to Rose, which were designed to show that Rosenthal figured prominently in a gamblers' war and was hated.

Rose admitted that Sam Paul, a gambler, and Rosenthal, had a falling out soon after the latter's house was raided. Rose also said Rosenthal hired "Spanish Louie" to kill Sam Paul. "Louie" failed to do it. He told Rosenthal, according to Rose, that Paul had given him $50 and he wouldn't shoot a man who was so generous.

Then, Rose said, Rosenthal hired "Bloody Mike" to kill "Spanish Louie." He did.

The witness conceded that he had broken with Rosenthal after the latter had spread tales that Rose was a squealer, thereby putting Rose's life in danger.

The defense read more extracts from newspaper articles written under Rose's name. The witness admitted that many of the statements therein were his, including the declaration that he could kill almost anyone for $10,000.

In reply to questions, Rose came down to the time when he was removed from the Tombs prison, after he surrendered, to the West Side prison. There, he said, he was permitted to talk to Webber and Vallon and later with Sam Schepps, whenever he felt so disposed. He told of many conferences he had with the district attorney.

Schepps His Lobbyist. He described Schepps as his "lobbyist." A lobbyist is, in the language of the East Side, as Rose described it, "a pal and a friend willing to do almost anything for a dollar."

Manton read the jury a letter which Rose wrote Schepps while the latter was at Hot Springs, Ark. In this letter Rose said "Becker had thrown him down like a dog" and that the district attorney had promised immunity to him (Rose), Schepps, Webber and Vallon. He then asked Schepps, whom he addressed as "dear old pal," to return to New York and surrender.

Manton then picked up what appeared to be an affidavit from Jack Sullivan, known as "King of the Newsboys."

Looking at this paper, He asked Rose whether he said to Sullivan, while both of them were in the West Side prison, "the district attorney wants Becker and I am going to deliver him. Self-protection is the first law of nature and if the district attorney wants Becker he can have him."

"No," said Rose. "Well," continued Manton, "did Sullivan say to you, 'you had headed off, do you expect to get away with it?'"

"While you, Webber, Sullivan, Vallon and Schepps were at dinner at the prison one night, did you say: 'I'm finally allowed to go home, I'm the happiest man in the world, I'm so glad, I could dig open Rosenthal's grave, jump in it and laugh at him until I never get another dollar, I say that my children were illegitimate to criticize my morals and to knock me to everybody I know,' and then did 'Bridge' Webber say: 'Well that's stuff about your children is so. Why don't you have me killed?'"

Atlanta Lauded by Retiring Imperial Potentate; Convention Fixes New Precedents for Shrine

Editor Constitution: I have attended many conventions of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. From year to year these gatherings have been staged, often in cities much larger than Atlanta, cities with greater apparent claims to wealth and resources and metropolitanism.

And I want to make the statement advisedly, on the eve of our departure from your city, that never in my affiliation with the Shrine has any one of its conventions been handled with the ease, the hospitality, the grace and the vast popular response noticeable in Atlanta. Never have the circumstances of any Shrine gathering been so phenomenal in all respects as in Atlanta.

From the moment of my arrival here I caught the spirit of achievement that has sent your city's name to the four quarters of the continent. That was the beginning. From that time forward each movement brought a revelation. I do not believe the electrical and special color decorations have been surpassed in the history of the Shrine. I am sure the arrangements for the accommodation of Shriners have never been equalled. The hospitality we expected from the proverbially hospitable south has been tendered us here on a magnificent scale.

Shriners have been made to feel at home. There has been nothing mechanical or formal in our greeting. I speak for each one of the more than 40,000 Nobles who have thronged your streets, when I say that each one of your people with whom we came in contact, from your governor and your mayor on down to the veriest gamine, gave us the impression of glowing welcome, of joyous and reciprocal Americanism, of keen pleasure at our presence.

We expected that from the numerical and spectacular points of view our meeting this year would set new and marvelous records. These expectations have been fulfilled. It is only just to state that our expectations of Atlanta, its people, its energy, its receptivity to the highest form of carnival

WILLIAM W. IRWIN spirit, fixes new precedents in the history of the Shrine. Out of an abundance of experience and weighing my words carefully, I believe Atlanta is the most wonderful city, bar none, of her size in the world.

Wm. W. Irwin Imperial Potentate! May 13, 1914.

THREE ARE INJURED IN CRASH OF AUTOS

Police Say Accident Could Have Been Avoided, and They Are Now Making Investigation.

Five persons had a narrow escape from death last night about 10 30 o'clock at the corner of North Boulevard and Irwin street, when two automobiles, at high speed crashed into one another, turned turtle and landed on the sidewalk, fifteen feet away, with all the occupants pinned under.

Two women were hurt, and a negro girl lashed. T. E. Kerr, of 13 Spruce street, with his wife were speeding south on Boulevard when their car was struck and toppled over by an automobile speeding west on Irwin street. The machine was carrying three negroes.

Mrs. Kerr and her husband were pinned underneath the car. She was cut in several places on her face by the broken glass from the wind shield and lashed considerably. Her husband escaped without a scratch, although thrown several feet and pinned underneath the car.

A negro woman in the other car, Mamie Roberts, of 224 East Ellis street, received a crushed skull. She was lying underneath the automobile, and could not be removed until the heavy car was jacked up, and she was dragged out. She is in a serious condition at the Grady hospital.

The negro driver escaped injury, but a negro from Augusta, Ga., named Charlie Collins, in Atlanta as a barber for the Augusta Shriners, received slight injuries.

Mr. Kerr was dismissed from the hospital, except Mamie Roberts. The police declared that the accident could have been avoided. They did not place any blame last night, but are making an investigation of it.

YOUNG LADY INJURED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Condition So Serious Doctors Have Been Unable to Question Her.

Miss Cecilia Keating, age 20, of 224 South Pryor street, was carried to the Georgia Baptist hospital yesterday shortly before noon as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident.

So serious was her condition that the usual questions were not asked her, and very little was known of the nature of the accident by the hospital authorities, except that she had said she was injured in an automobile accident.

The mother of the girl knew nothing of her injury until telephoned at her home Wednesday afternoon by a newspaper reporter. She went immediately to the hospital to see her daughter.

A tropical sun was blazing down on the multi-colored multitudes ariling at Piedmont park yesterday morning. A grizzled member of Mohammed temple band, of Peoria, Ill., paused and mopped his brow.

"Reminds me of campaign days," continued the gentleman from Peoria. "Just about as hard," returned the gentleman from Mobile.

"I was the drummer boy of the Sixth Iowa infantry at Shiloh," continued the western gentleman. "And I, at Shiloh," said the man from Dixie, "was the drummer boy of the Twenty-first Alabama."

In this manner did J. H. Munroe, of Peoria, erstwhile drummer boy of Shiloh for the invading forces of the north, and L. E. Rayfield, of Mobile, sometime drummer boy of the confederates at Shiloh, meet as friends in Atlanta more than half a century after the memorable conflict when they were enemies.

But there was no enmity yesterday. The two comrades shook hands with the heartiness of lifelong friendship and were instantly bound together by the memories as those of us of the younger generation know of only as we have sat at the knees of our grandfathers and heard the tale.

MAPS ARE ALL WRONG, SAYS COL. ROOSEVELT

Bridgetown, Barbados, May 13.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today repudiated Sir Clements Markham's criticism of his discovery of an unknown river in Brazil by saying that the British geographer had unconsciously paid the greatest tribute to what he had done. He declared the best existing maps are utterly wrong in regard to all this part of South America. Mountains given on the maps are, according to the colonel, mostly imaginary. The lower part of the river he had explored, said the colonel, had long been known to rubber gatherers under the name of the Arpanan, and the upper part as the Castano, but it had not been mapped.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

The house democratic caucus has voted overwhelmingly to limit legislative action to the so-called "anti-trust" bills and the appropriation measures, with the hope of concluding the congressional session by July 10.

So far as relatively early adjournment is concerned, the entire country, irrespective of party, will approve the course of the caucus.

The one suggestion of disappointment to the country and hint of menace to the democracy lie in the somewhat vague outlines of intentions with regard to legislation concerning business.

The impression had gradually gotten abroad that the party leaders, beginning with the administration, intended undertaking no radical measures that might embarrass business or increase the uncertainty that is now militating against its complete recuperation.

There had been reason to believe that the rumored compromise of a trade commission to investigate and report at the next session contained all the elements of solving a delicate problem with credit to the party and safety to the country.

Already two capital operations on business, in the form of currency and tariff revisions, have been effected.

Business has not yet fully recovered from the effects of these operations; it has not yet become quite adjusted to the new conditions.

Now, if we are to plunge into an era of inquisition of commerce and of prying right and left, the penalties are as sure to come home to party and country as night follows day.

The democratic party has ever fallen on ill-fortune from "pushing its luck too far." It will be the sincere hope of every good democrat, every patriot for that matter, that disastrous history will not repeat itself.

The Constitution does not advocate evasion or repudiation of platform pledges. But there is a time for all things. And today is not the time for tinkering with the laws that closely touch business.

Frankly, we are disappointed that the caucus did not decide upon the policy of speeding the appropriations bills with the view of having congress QUIT as soon as it repeals the free tolls granted in the Panama canal act.

If the party in congress joins itself to the idols of business-baiting and disturbance, with whatever good intentions, the democratic party may—

Loss the senate and even the house next fall. That possibility should give pause to the more thoughtful party leaders.

A PACT AGAINST GUNMEN.

The New York Mail correctly says that the ordinance to impose a $10 tax on owners of revolvers, now pending in New York city, may be worse than useless. The men entitled to carry revolvers, such as custodians of treasure, will be penalized. The men the law is aimed at, such as thugs and gunmen, will not mind the $10 tax. They will add that to the "overhead expense" of their "business." The Mail declares the only relief lies in co-operating with New Jersey to prevent the sale of firearms and their importation into New York city.

Gauged by the experience of the different states and cities, an agreement between New Jersey and New York will effect no especial improvement in the New York situation. Gunmen everywhere, the "pistol-toter" as he is known in the south, calls for more rigorous treatment.

Even should New Jersey agree to restrict or penalize the sale of weapons, the federal constitution and the mails and express are still on the job. There is nothing on earth to prevent the actual or potential criminal from sending to faraway sources for deadly weapons. And there is no way to detect the importation or carrying of these weapons.

The only hopeful solution, as The Constitution pointed out several weeks ago, is an interstate pact against the gunman. First, the various states must agree to sell weapons only as a drug store sells poison—on prescription, and then under the strictest surveillance. When that is done, it will help to secure some sort of amendment to the federal constitution, circumscribing the right to bear arms, save in extreme and stipulated cases.

As it is, the state and federal constitutional declarations on the subject of arms are based on antiquated conditions, when the country was more or less wilderness or when anarchy and semi-chaos was to be expected in various parts of the country. Those conditions have passed, and the laws made to meet them should be modified.

The gunman and the pistol-toter are national scourges, confined to no state or condition of civilization. National measures are needed to aid the states in combatting them, just as national measures are needed in combatting the boll weevil, yellow fever and other menaces. The quicker we realize this fundamental fact, the better for law and order in this country; the more quickly the reputation of the country will be redeemed.

OBSTACLES TO MEDIATION.

It is going to be no easy task for the South American mediators to arrange a basis for a provisional government in Mexico.

That fact stands out in the obdurate attitude of the constitutionalists who, if they are quoted correctly, refuse to act with any commission upon which Huerta has representation.

The compromise plan as drafted by the envoys, contemplates the retirement of Huerta and the creation of a commission, upon which Huerta would have two representatives, the constitutionalists two, and the mediators one.

To this plan the constitutionalists object that Huerta is not to be trusted, and that there is no guarantee that he will not unduly influence his representatives on the commission.

The criticism is a plausible one, but Huerta might well retort that the constitutionalists have not invariably given evidence of good faith. So far as their negotiations with the United States are concerned, they have been shifty and vacillating, arbitrary and feckle by turns.

While on the surface these obstacles to mediation appear stubborn, it must not be forgotten that both parties—the Huertistas and the constitutionalists—are, like the contestants in a damage suit, likely at the start to put forward claims for much more than they expect to get. Later, as each side "feels out" the disposition of the other, and as the mediators come in with the good offices of diplomacy, it is not too much to hope that an amicable settlement will in the end be reached.

Certainly, the route of mediation offers a much more desirable solution than the occupation of Mexico by the United States, or long-drawn-out civil war and anarchy in that country.

A GOOD HATER.

Whatever else may be said in criticism of Francisco Villa, no one can complain that he lacks the vigor of his hatreds. His reply to the overtures of Huerta looking to a union against possible American invasion fairly blisters the paper on which it is written. "Assassin of democracy" and "murderer" are some of the milder terms Villa applies to Huerta. Throughout his reply runs a vitriolic bitterness that seems to settle forever the possibility of a merger of efforts, so far as Villa is concerned. He does not hesitate to hint that he may find it advisable to oppose the Americans. But he says plainly that if he does so it will be on his own hook and not in co-operation with Huerta.

Villa announced some time ago that shooting was too good for the man who now calls himself president of Mexico. He announced his intention to employ kemp the minute he penetrated Mexico City. His past record is indication that he is fully capable of keeping his pledge. Villa's grudge against Huerta is of long standing. It grows out of Huerta's personal humiliation of him for several years.

The incident sheds a sidelight on Latin-American character. It is also a tolerable guarantee that, whatever else happens, Huerta's day is done.

Talk about war cries, how about "The Colonel to the front—page!"

Even Old Man Grouch toasts Atlanta—"The city of rainbows, in a storm of cheers."

"Dixie" by a chorus of bands, and all the home-tunes from the Shriner states!

Huerta is in deep, but he hopes to keep afloat with gallon jugs for life preservers.

Between the devil and the deep sea, Huerta thinks he is a wise man who makes friends with the former.

 But thank the Lord above

That when the Good Times

 They find the latching ready, and all our

II.
 Good Times are with us—we want the world

 The fields they promise harvest, the daisy's

 And the hallicia feeling is a-comin' over

III.
 Good Times are with us: We've got to double-

 hallicia, but lick!
 The clinkin' of the dollars, the jinglin' of

 And now to make the Good Times the Everlasting times!

A Real Trouble-Shooter.
 A county correspondent of a Billville paper writes from Atlanta:
 "Biggest crowds I ever saw, but so far I have not succeeded in getting hit by a automobile, or even moderately hurt by a street car, so I will not be able to get cash enough in damages to pay for my trip. Major Vesmes was run down and over on Saturday, but it was only his wooden leg that was hurt, so he'll get mighty little outen that. Of course, I don't aim to get bad hurt, but only enough to get reasonable damages, which don't seem likely at this here writin'. Howsoever, I live in hopes that the Lord will provide!"

 When Tribulation greets me
 I dance the wich away!

She halts me on the highway,
 But sly fiddles play,
 I point her to the skyway
 And dance the wich away!

Where the shadows stay
 She tries to blight the way,
 But ever, when the sunbeams
 I dance the wich away.

Tom has a deep-seated conviction that every man should take a bath at least once a year, whether he needs it or not."

The Welcome Word.
 When do Good Times come?
 They don't do you load

 When dey come in view,
 Ef you'll say "Good mawnin'"
 Dey'll tell you "Howdy-do!"

Thanks to Providence.
 We get this from the sweet singer who does the poetry for The Adams Enterprise:

"I'm glad to see the Shriner celebration, but Providence interfered with my plans. On Wednesday last I was all stove up with the rheumatism-chills and the heavy lumbago, and on Thursday I was attacked by a severe rattling cough, and a general loosening of the joints, but notwithstanding these afflictions, I tried to put my thoughts in shape, when a yard of plastering tore loose and hit me square on the head, knocking all the poetry out of me."

Back to Business.
 Evidently the Brettonville Bard is back from his vacation, for he sings:

"Earth-brothers, give me your hand,
 Star-brothers, reach me yours,
 One in the fall on this infinite strand
 And by the inviolate shores,
 So, breast to breast, let us sweep
 Onward to heavens brought down
 Out of our dreams of the height and the deep
 To the toll and tumult of Town."

Word From Brer Williams.
 I never yet has climbed high but what I got down by the same old way
 A place for fall easy!

The River Guard.
 A southwest Georgia singer writes of the fish brigade down that way:

"Oh, he wants to go
 To Mexico,
 But the fish—the fish are bitin' so
 That he mighty hard to say goodby,
 With beef and bacon still sky-high,
 An' the fish still free for the world to fry!"

"And so, while the fighters form in ranks,
 He makes his way to the river banks
 And it's fish by day, and fish by night
 For the Ananias medals bright.
 So, fight them Mexicans all you wish—
 It's a harder fight for to land the fish!"

Writes and Flashlights.
 Flashlight photography, according to a London newspaper, has recently been made use of in the serving of writs upon "gentlemen" who are shifty in their denial of such service. The story is told of a man about town who has been serving a writ upon a tailor's account for some time. The other day, as he was coming out of a west end restaurant, he was stopped by a man who pressed the papers into his reluctant hand, at the same time signaling the photographer to take a snapshot of the performance, which will be used as evidence if the debtor tries to repudiate service.

PROSPERITY TO FLOW FROM THE LAND BANKS

Editor Constitution: Regarding the land bank as proposed in several of the different bills and allowing them to be organized on a capitalization of $10,000 as a minimum: The bills allow each corporation to loan fifteen times its capital stock on farm lands, not over 50 per cent of the land's value, and issue bonds against the mortgages, selling the bonds, the bank to receive from the borrower 1 per cent interest more than the bonds carry.

These little banks to be allowed to receive deposits on demand up to 50 per cent of their capital.

Every experienced business man knows the overhead charges on any small business, manufacturing, banking or transportation company is larger in proportion to its income than that of big corporation.

A commercial bank of small capitalization, but with large deposits, through its deposit account, may appear to escape the economic result. The law is universal, but the use of other people's money on deposit works out comparable to larger capitalization.

Now in case of a $10,000 land bank, the minimum allowed, there would be 50 per cent of deposits to use, hence, with all gains spread, the small bank could have but $5,000 earning at use, according to the law.

That is, in the instance of a corporation that the little bank could not market its bonds to advantage; the indorsement and output of a $10,000 bank on a maximum of 50 per cent of the land's value, not make the bond holder any practicable degree safer than the loan made direct on the land.

The stockholder's liability is in accord with the principle of liability. Habitual assessment of a sum equal to holdings, double liability.

In other words this kind of a business ought to be done by a big corporation, capitalization in order to sell the bonds on a par with municipal and other coupon obligations.

Also it has shown that cheap money on land banks has been obtained by relieving the mortgage from taxation. There must not be double taxation, either in theory, as exists with us, or in effect, as in Georgia, where the land bank money is borrowed on land at the lowest rate of interest.

Regarding overhead charges on a $10,000 land bank I estimate the actual cost of an office will cost an amount of $300.00

The salary of a cashier to act as a bookkeeper also 1,200.00

Office assistant 1,000.00

Books and stationery 150.00

Postage 50.00

President (only paid for part time) 600.00

Total 3,300.00

Probably assessment to pay pro rata of examinations and expenses of loans 100.00

Land banks 100.00

Total $3,500.00

Law Interest.

A $10,000 land bank could loan but fifteen times its capital, viz. $150,000, and charge but 1 per cent on this above its bond rate, hence its income from this source could be but $1,500 a year. It would have to average over $1,000 a year. The earning power of the deposit account limited to $5,000 is negligible, at outside above 25 per cent interest, it would only average $1,250.

My belief is that the gross income would be about $1,225 per annum against an expense account of $2,000 that I estimate, but the net income of $225 would be cut in half by the bank would still be struggling against insolvency. The land bank would pay the making interest on its bonds on the very day they fell due, many American solvent farmers are annually behind in meeting their obligations, and this would use some of the bank's funds temporarily.

As a business venture, organize a $10,000 land bank on a 2 per cent basis of commission on loans and guarantee the loans.

The matter resolves itself, in my mind, over the formation of land banks reaching all over a state for business, and with large capitalization. Then I believe the business could be administered for less than 1 per cent.

Among the heterogeneous factors that aid or retard agricultural success, none are of greater moment than low rates of interest charged to the farmer.

At present we have no machinery working toward his advancement. While the commercial banks are collecting land loans, the agriculturist is entitled, by his service to the country, to have instituted banks lending money on long time and at low rates of interest, and to be benefited of his special calling and vocation.

Banks that take pride in serving agriculture as do commercial banks in serving commerce, should accomplish this through the United States congress, by now endeavoring to pass a useful, practicable land bank bill.

Being a new departure in American banking, the obstacles to be overcome are many and difficult.

The writer believes that the successful establishment of land banks in the United States, whereby the land holders and the farmers, will work inseparable benefit.

Such banks to be confined to safe loans without a shade of charity or government favoritism. Then they should be organized only the class they are planned to benefit, but people of all vocations will share in the overflow of success that shall come to agriculture.

Since I Kissed You Good-bye.

I.
 It seems like years since I kissed you good-bye.

And yet it was only today,
 My heart cries out, and its voice is a sigh,
 And the roses are lost to the May,
 The sunshine has passed from the portals of life.

And the hours pass wearily by,
 The call of my heart is aye for my wife,
 The echo is ever a sigh.

II.
 All day long I'm sighing for you—
 Twilight bringeth no stars to the blue,
 Dreaming, dreaming, dreaming of you—
 Lying for the sake of the dream comes
 Sighing for the light of your beautiful eyes—
 That make life brighter than summer skies.

III.
 Only for you is my heart ever sighing,
 Others have all passed out of my life,
 Only for you is my life's joy crying,
 The call of my heart is aye for my wife,
 Dreaming, dreaming, dreaming of you—
 Lying for the sake of the dream comes
 Sighing for the light of your beautiful face.
 My dearest—wife of love so true,
 Sighing for the light of your beautiful face.

DAILY GRIST From the STATES' POLITICAL GRIND

HUTCHENS' MAKES FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT FOR SENATE
 Hon. G. R. Hutchens, of Rome, has made formal announcement of his candidacy for the United States senate to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Senator A. O. Bacon.

After a preliminary statement concerning the fundamental principles of our form of government, he makes the following declaration of principles.

"I oppose any and all political combinations by ringsters formed to thwart the will of the people, and advocate fair and open methods, free from fraud and deception.

"I propose at all times to uphold the constitution and laws of the country, not losing sight of the sovereignty of the state and the relative rights of state and federal government.

"I favor the enlargement of the parcel post service to the fullest practical extent, favor the same liberal policy toward the free rural mail delivery, to the better use for the carriers and for third and fourth-class postmasters.

"I favor a law offering long time loans secured by liens upon farm lands to bona fide farmers the loan and interest to be payable in installments, not to draw more than five to twenty years, not to draw more than 10 per cent interest. This would enable the poor to secure money, not make it to be made direct from the national government.

"I favor a liberal policy by the government toward the drainage of our swamp lands, and the improvement of our inland waterways.

"I favor a strict enforcement of our immigration laws, and a wise revision thereof, so as to be commensurate with the requirements of undesirable immigrants. California's recent law furnishes us with a concrete illustration.

"I also desire to say that I have always doubted the wisdom of our federal judges holding office for life, a term of six or eight years would be better.

"I favor a fair and just division of the proceeds of sale of public lands owned by the United States, among the states entitled thereto to be apportioned among the states in proportion to the number of miles and relative values of lines in each state. This would be a fair and equitable method of distribution under the supervision of the local authorities.

"I favor a 1 cent postage rate, where it is now 2 cents, on all first-class mail matter, the surplus to be appointed and used for the benefit of the states in proportion to the number of miles and relative values of lines in each state. This would be a fair and equitable method of distribution under the supervision of the local authorities.

"I favor the ownership by the national government of all telegraph and telephone lines, the surplus to be appointed and governed by a board of managers appointed by the governor of the state, and the net income to be apportioned among the states in proportion to the number of miles and relative values of lines in each state. This would be a fair and equitable method of distribution under the supervision of the local authorities.

"As to making nominations for all state-wide offices, I favor the plan recently adopted by the state democratic committee, which preserves the rights and integrity of the small cities of the state, and prevents the event the cities from controlling the whole state."

FRIENDS THINK WISE WILL HAVE OPPOSITION IN SIXTH DISTRICT

Fayetteville, Ga., May 13.—(Special)—Reports received from all parts of the sixth district are very encouraging to the friends of Hon. Walter J. Wise, who is a candidate to succeed Congressman Bartlett. In addition to the strength that is being evidenced by Mr. Wise's candidacy, the impression is also deepening that Congressman Bartlett will, according to his statements during his last race, not be a candidate to succeed himself in which event Mr. Wise would probably have no opposition.

It will be recalled that in the race two years ago the vote between Congressman Bartlett and Mr. Wise was very close, only a few hundred votes separating the two, and the friends of the latter now declare that his recognized ability and splendid record in public office as solicitor of the first circuit and member of the legislature have crystallized sentiment all over the district in favor of his candidacy.

WARY CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST PENDING IN ELEVENTH DISTRICT

Valdosta, Ga., May 13.—(Special)—Congressman J. R. Walker, of the eleventh district, who spent last week at his home here, left for Washington on Sunday.

Interest in the congressional race is increasing rapidly and is being discussed more in this section than the gubernatorial or senatorial contests. Hon. J. A. Henderson, who is opposing Congressman Walker, has already begun an active campaign, which he says he expects to keep up until the day of the primary.

Mr. Henderson has made two visits to Valdosta within the past ten days and was in the city on Friday.

Congressman Walker stated to his friends here that he would not return to Georgia until after congress adjourns on July 10, after which he will return to the district and probably visit all of the counties. He expresses the fullest confidence of his reelection, and his friends in various sections of the district have assured him that his interests will be looked after while he is busy in Washington. Mr. Henderson is equally confident of his election, and this means that there will be some "warm" politics in the eleventh district this summer.

CONGRESSMAN BELL CONFIDENT

That HE WILL BE RE-ELECTED
 Gainesville, Ga., May 13.—(Special)—Hon. Thomas M. Bell, congressman from the ninth district, is in Gainesville attending a session of the United States court, the bill establishing this court being introduced by him last year.

Mr. Bell expresses his confidence in being elected to succeed himself in the coming fall election. He will be in the city two weeks in all probability and will see many of his friends in regard to his race while here. Mr. Bell will make the present race on his record.

DENT HURLS FIRST CRACKER SHUT-OUT

Dent Blanks the Billies; Sensational Fielding Marks Work of Rival Infielders

By Dick Jemison. Big Elliott Dent was entirely too good for the Montgomery Billies Wednesday afternoon and the Cracker pitcher will take the score of 6 to 0.

Incidentally, it was absolutely the best game of baseball played at Ponce de Leon park this season, with more features crowded into nine innings than has been seen on the field here since last year.

Coach Joe Bean, of the Red and Black organization, has also been practicing his bunch hard for the two final games, and they will be in trim when the umpire shouts play ball.

The Billies presented a patching lineup, with Kirby at first, K. at second, and second and Baker going to the outfield.

With one gone, Elbel beat out a blow to Knapp, Kircher, on a pretty swing, sent him to the ground.

Welchone beat out a hit to first to start the eighth. Long sent Kirby to the ground, Elbel beat out a hit to first, Welchone counting.

PRISON SYSTEMS ARE DENOUNCED

Memphis, Tenn., May 13.—Prison systems in the United States and Canada were described and their needs of reform pointed out tonight before the National Conference of Charities and Correction, and, while different methods of administration were advanced, all of the speakers agreed that outdoor employment, "sunshine and fresh air," less restrictions and kind treatment were the best agents in the work of reforming the criminal.

"Modern penology, in order to aid social progress, must sentence its un-kempt, immoral and diseased citizens to an indefinite term of sunshine, fresh air and honest work, with such system as will make them an asset, rather than a liability, when returned to society," declared W. H. Whittaker, superintendent of the District of Columbia workhouse at Occoquan, Va.

Average Jail a Disgrace.

Mr. Whittaker scored the average jail as a "disgrace to civilization and cesspools for the breeding of disease and crime." He urged that courts could accomplish more beneficial results in a great per cent of cases by a friendly word of encouragement to the minor offender than to sentence him to prison.

"Many of the cases that come to the police and criminal courts for minor offenses," he asserted, "require only supervision, change of surroundings and a new home. Institutional treatment should be the last remedy."

Urging the importance of preventive, rather than corrective measures, Mr. Whittaker declared that 95 per cent of the subjects in penal institutions and reformatories have never been correctly formed in their mental and physical make-up.

Washington, May 13.—The senate foreign relations committee today declared that in future there should be no chances of a misunderstanding over treaties to which the United States is a party.

It is understood the misunderstanding over the Hay-Pauncefote and the canal tolls clauses led to the committee's actions. A report will be made with the resolutions attached, but its ratification by the senate is far from certain.

500 NEGRO STUDENTS HERE FOR CONVENTION

First Session Will Be Held Tonight at Clark University.

Five hundred negro students from all parts of the south are expected to arrive in Atlanta this morning to attend the negro Christian students' convention, which convenes tonight at Clark University, in south Atlanta. Dr. John R. Mott, who will preside over the conference, arrived in the city Wednesday night, and will at once arrange the details of the program of speakers for the convention during the next five days. Dr. W. D. Weatherford and Professor A. M. Trawick, of Nashville, have also arrived.

Among the speakers for the convention who will arrive in Atlanta Thursday are Booker T. Washington, of Tuskegee, Ala.; Bishop E. Scott, of Liberia, Africa; Bishop J. C. Hartzell, of South Africa; Bishop W. R. Lambuth, founder of the African mission of the Methodist Episcopal church South; Bishop W. P. Thirkield, of New Orleans; Charles D. Hurry, executive secretary of students' department, Y. M. C. A.; Dr. Ebert Smith, of the Presbyterian mission board, Nashville, and a number of others.

The opening session Thursday night will be a devotional service, conducted by Dr. Mott. Three sessions a day will be held from Friday through next Monday, all meetings being at Clark University, on the Federal prison car line, except a big mass meeting next Sunday afternoon at the Auditorium. The public will be invited to the Auditorium meeting and an interesting program arranged.

Among the Atlantans who will speak before the conference of negro students will be Rev. C. E. Wilcox, Rev. Richard O. Finn, Rev. John E. White, President John Hope of Morehouse college, Rev. F. James Bryant, Professor F. O'Connell and others. One of the most interesting features of the convention is the unanimity and co-operation with which ministers and members of all denominations are working together for the advancement of the student movement and the missionary cause.

where, 100 years ago, allied Europe shattered the armies of the Great Napoleon. Its colossal dome is supported by twelve gigantic warriors forty feet in height resting on their swords as guardians of the Personal Liberty of the German people. All human progress rests upon Personal Liberty—without its blessing neither nations nor individuals can develop. To Americans the Constitution of the United States forever guarantees Personal Liberty. Upon the tenets of the United States Constitution Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, 57 years ago founded their institution. To-day their great bottled beer is sold in every state of the nation, and wherever civilized man journeys Budweiser is demanded. Its Quality, Purity, Mildness and exclusive Sazer Hop Flavor have made it the natural choice of Americans. Budweiser sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.
