

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN BONDS FOR THE SCHOOLS

Councilman Smith Is Now Investigating Needs of the System in Order to Relieve Congested Conditions.

BOARD ASKS $450,000 FOR THE HIGH SCHOOLS

Alderman Jesse Armistead Advocates Expenditure of $1,000,000 for the Four High Schools.

Success of The Constitution's campaign in the interest of Atlanta's public school system is asserting itself through the interest which city officials and members of the board of education in the proposal of the board of education to issue $1,500,000 for new high schools and a more adequate system of grammar schools.

More interest is shown today in the school system than at any other time in past years. Members of council who have heretofore been apathetic are now meeting the issues by immediate action and not wait until September when hundreds of boys and girls will be demanding entrance into all the schools.

The board has prepared a tentative budget which provides for new buildings to cost $1,127,000. The board figures that $450,000 is needed for new buildings including new buildings for the English Commercial and one for the Tech high. The budget also includes $481,500 for new white grammar schools and $225,500 for negro grammar schools.

Conditions are worse at the English Commercial high school. The building is a flimsy structure pitched up in places where it could be patched but dangerous still, because it has been used just about for the school boards and desks will permit.

Dark and dreary rooms. The rooms are dark and dreary. It is impossible to keep the building at an even temperature. In some rooms the bulky heaters throw out soot heat, which does not penetrate the corridors. The corridors are cold and menacing because they are unheated and with doors from the penetrating air.

When the English Commercial school was crowded out of the girls high building the girls numbered only 42. When it moved into the Crew street building with the enrollment of 120, the school was crowded out of the building.

Various Forms Of Headache. "It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the cause which produces the affection," says Dr. W. Ray of Brockton, Ala. "Continuing, he says: 'Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease until they know the cause which gives rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the nature of the disease which produces it. A remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache will be of no avail unless it also relieves the pain which is the result of the disease. To answer this purpose, a remedy must be found which is a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One able to relieve one in three hours gives comfort in the most severe cases of headache, particularly in the headaches of women.'"

Letter from Sweetheart Found in Pocket of Gardie Hyden—Coroner Will Hold Inquest Today.

Gardie F. Hyden, of 35 Lucy street, apparently 20 years old, was found dead this morning at 12:15 o'clock. He was lying stretched across the sidewalk on the south side of Fair street, near Capitol avenue.

Hyden was wearing a black hat and a light-colored shirt. A bullet hole was pierced his right temple.

Bycycle officers Shamate and McKinney, a few minutes earlier, had made him promise to go home.

Officer McKinney stated that he and his partner saw Hyden with a black-haired youth loafing around on their "beat."

"I approached him," said the officer, "and he and his friend were talking about going to see some woman. I told them to go home, as the hour was growing late.

The bullet hole in the temple. "Shamate and I returned immediately. Under Hyden's body we found a .32-caliber pistol, which had been discharged on one time.

The letter was addressed to Gardie Hyden, 35 Lucy street, and postmarked "Cumming, Ga., November 13, 4 D. M."

Another Love Note. In the same pocket was found a tango dance leaflet. On one of its pages was written, "presented to my sweetheart, Gardie Hyden, at Grant Park by his sweetheart, Mary."

Chief Jett and Captain Poole expressed the opinion that Hyden had killed himself. A brother to Hyden later called up police headquarters, inquiring about his brother.

A coroner's inquest will be held today. No cause for the act is known.

One of the most interesting cases was that of W. T. Jones, wealthy Union county farmer, who was serving a life term on the charge of killing his wife by the use of poison several years ago.

George Nichols, a young white man of Cairo, Ill., who was serving a life term for the murder of Paul Williams, of Columbia, was paroled. Nichols was convicted of killing the boy on a circus train.

BOGGS AND DAUGHTER MURDERED AND BURNED

Slain Man Was Son of Former Chancellor of University of Georgia.

Miami, Fla., November 25.—Two persons were killed with an axe in a costly country residence near here early today, and the house then destroyed by fire with the evident intention of concealing the crime.

The dead are Adam A. Boggs, a widely known Florida lawyer, and Marjorie Boggs, his daughter. The attorney was 45 and the young woman 18 years.

The authorities are working on the theory that the crime was committed by burglars who were discovered in the house by the lawyer and his daughter.

The axe used in the crime was found late today hidden under shrubbery near the site of the burned residence.

Mr. Boggs was alone in the residence during the early part of last night. His daughter was attending a social function near by and Mrs. Boggs is visiting at Lake Placid, N. Y.

The slain attorney recently represented the vessel and fruit shippers of Florida in their efforts to obtain lower freight rates through the interstate commerce commission.

Dr. Thomas Boggs, of Baltimore, and Lucian Boggs, of Jacksonville, Fla., are two other brothers. The dead attorney was a graduate of the University of Georgia.

SUES SLEUTH AGENCY FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

Macon, Ga., November 25.—(Special.) Ben Atwater, a young Macon man, has entered suit in the superior court against the Southern States Detective agency and J. W. Ford for damages of $10,000 for false arrest at the time he was falsely accused of the shooting of Cliff Cook, another young Macon man, to which crime a negro confessed after Atwater had been arrested and confined in jail.

It is charged in the petition for damages that the arrest of Atwater was a frame-up through which the detective agency hoped to obtain a reward offered by Cook's brother. It is claimed that J. W. Ford, a wealthy Macon money lender, is the financial backer of the detective agency.

Should Bonds Be Issued?

Mayor Woodward Members of

"Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ."

War is abroad. Winter at hand. Want is here. The blood of the man shot last week stains the locker-club door.

Police Board Be Recalled? Must Private Citizens Protect Atlanta?

Lack of thrift has its victims; the employer paying less than a living wage has his; but the saloon and law-breaking locker club produce more— Poverty-stricken, jobless men.

"We are God's fellow-workers."

Should Atlanta give work to the workless? Should our city issue bonds to do this? Surely. But stop— Should millions from a bond issue be entrusted to officials who promote drunkenness, crime and pauperism by licensing law-breaking saloons and locker-clubs?

"Every man shall bear his own burden."

A divided city can only fall. Atlanta will endure. Let us get together! IF MAYOR WOODWARD and his advisors actually believe an OFFICIAL OATH TO BE MEANINGLESS, and laws binding upon public officials only when public officials choose, LET US NOT THINK OF ISSUING BONDS.

TEN PER CENT of the registered voters can call an election to initiate legislation in Atlanta.

TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT of the registered voters can institute an election to recall any official, whether he be MAYOR, COUNCILMAN OR MEMBER OF A BOARD in the City of Atlanta.

An injunction can close today the law-breaking locker clubs and bars. WE WISH TO HELP AND NOT TO HINDER THE ADMINISTRATION OF MAYOR WOODWARD.

Mayor Gill, of Seattle, after a recall and defeat, learned the strength of decency inherent in every city.

Atlanta can do better. WE ASK ONLY OBEDIENCE TO LAW, A UNITED CITY. Let us care for God's poor.

AN OLD-TIME DAY.

Today is set in the exuberant winter accompaniment of that Old-Time Thanksgiving that used to warm the hearts of our fathers—and about which our old-timers are prone to talk in lamenting the imaginary change of our seasons.

If ever the autumn has led up to and included a typical Thanksgiving it is the autumn of 1914.

During the past week the thermometer has ranged between 14 and 23 degrees. The nights have been clear, the days crisp and the air fragrant with exhilarating ozone of a true winter day.

The man who quarrels with this kind of Thanksgiving needs route himself via the Hill of Dolefulness to the Valley of Pessimism.

He cannot have in his soul that which responds to the magic God brews in His mighty crucible of the elements.

And surely we of this country have ample reason to tender praise to God. When we look across the ocean and see the ghastly specter that stalks there, a mighty thankfulness ought to engulf our spirits.

There massed millions of men away in a murderous grapple. The rivers run with blood. Death knocks at each door—that of the prince and the peasant. A whole civilization is slowly battering itself into a pulp, and men, helpless, inconsequential atoms, go down as do blades of wheat before the reaper.

Tomorrow, comes a fearful reckoning, when Europe, exhausted, robbed of its best blood, must start and build again from the havoc of its ruins.

We sit in safety and peace on this side of the water. The blasts of hatred and prejudice may not disturb our households, wither our accumulations nor shatter our institutions.

Is not this compensation for the fact that the tide of prosperity does not rise as high as we might wish that it should? And is not the fact that everywhere there are signs of revival of prosperity, that the fundamentals of business are sound further cause for rejoicing?

America, the world's great Hope of Democracy, its storehouse of sanity, rears its untroubled and unthreatened head high above the cataclysm that howls over the nations of the old world.

That thought should ring inspiration in every American breast on this Old-Fashioned Thanksgiving Day.

THE LEAVEN WORKING!

The campaign in behalf of the rehabilitation of the school system of Atlanta is already bringing tangible results.

The leaven is working! Suggestions are coming from board members, from councilmen, from teachers and from citizens.

An issue that affects every child in the city, and that bears gravely on the city's destiny of tomorrow, is one in which the cooperation of every element is imperative.

The obligation of contributing his and her share toward solution is upon every man and woman, every father and mother, every taxpayer, every citizen!

We have, fortunately, time to correct conditions, which, if not remedied, will seriously impair our whole school system. And time is now the essence of the situation.

The problem goes squarely up to the new administration, which assumes office January 1.

It has until next September to work out the problem.

If full light on the subject will assure that end, The Constitution means the administration shall have the co-operation of every forward-looking citizen of this community.

THE CHURCH THE SUFFERER.

In a spirit of sweet reasonableness and not of interference, The Constitution deplores the controversy that is threatening to rend one of the foremost churches of Atlanta. Our concern is not to tender gratuitous counsel, but with the welfare and development and mission of the church itself, which no good citizen may see subjected to menace without grave misgivings.

The Constitution has before this protested against the spirit of ecclesiastical proscription. There is a slavery of the conscience, that is worse than a slavery of the body. It is possible to imprison the body and tyrannize over it, and still preserve the spirit and the conscience in all its freedom.

At intervals in the history of all denominations we find instances of explosive ministers whose antics unfortunately do not react on them as much as on the church itself. It is the organization that sustains the shock of super-enthusiastic partisanship or of too zealous fanaticism.

One of the blackest chapters in American history is that written in the witch-burning era of New England. Church proscription was back of that program, and the perpetrators claimed for themselves the sanction of Deity.

Fortunately, modern religion has opened its windows to the light and banished the specter of ecclesiastical intolerance. Unfortunately, there are occasional local revivals of the old witch-burning and baiting spirit. Unfortunately, too, the men whom it drives from the church are not confined to those nominated in the proscription.

In keen knowledge of what the church has done for the race, and for society and civilization, The Constitution regrets any development that exposes it to the peril of impaired influence. As at all other times in history, men today need the church; need an actual spiritual, sympathetic entity, not a harsh, inflexible, medieval creation of terror and tyranny.

The compass of conscience is the surest guide. The church is dangerously ill-advised that submerges that God-created instrument, substituting standards of ministerial construction—holding in one church and not applying in another—and laying the lash to those of its neighbors who do not subscribe.

"WE, U. S. & CO."

Even more striking than the action of Charles M. Schwab in predicting a new era of prosperity in the United States is the optimistic survey of national conditions by H. H. Merrick, in charge of the credit department for Armour & Co.

"GRIT"—"GUMPTION"—"BRAINS" to the fore! Down with the Calamity Howler and the Pessimist! Big business from now on is a fact and not a theory. Depression in some lines is more than counterbalanced by the boom in other lines.

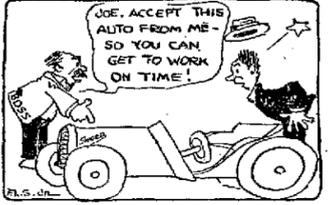

It is significant that the hopeful forecasts of men of the caliber of Merrick and Schwab are borne out by the commercial agencies, and by the general trend of business. Reports from such strategic centers as New York, Chicago and San Francisco are supported by reports from Atlanta and New Orleans to the effect that business is recovering from the prostration of the shock of war, and preparing to go ahead full speed.

KING COTTON'S RIGHT-HAND MAN

E. Lee Worsham, of Atlanta, Who Works Behind the Throne. (Thomas R. Ship, in Harper's Weekly.) Manufacturers and others throughout the United States were startled recently when it was discovered that the south, generally regarded as an agricultural section, had so increased its number of cotton mills as to use more cotton than all the factories of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and the other northern states put together.

Despite the great problems created by the European war, cotton is still king in the south. But little has been heard of the man behind the throne of King Cotton. This man who is doing so much for the south is a somewhat slender, unassuming southern gentleman, in the early half of his fourth decade—E. Lee Worsham, of Atlanta, who still, much to his dislike, is honored with the title of "Professor" because of a harmless slip in his early youth when in floundering about at the close of his college work in the Georgia State university he made the mistake of accepting an instructorship in biology for two years.

It was after some post-graduate work at Cornell university that Worsham was appointed Georgia's state entomologist in 1907, and while in this office, which he still holds, he saved the "kingdom" by successfully waging war against the hostile hordes which threatened the realm of King Cotton—the boll weevil and the wilt, or black root.

The average reader, who may not recognize his and the nation's financial interest in cotton, probably knows and cares little for the boll weevil or the wilt, and for the sake of the general reader, a question of dollars and cents, of universal interest, should be introduced.

The cotton crop of the thirteen cotton-growing states last year amounted to $500,000,000, according to the report of the department of agriculture. To give the dollar-and-cents reader a proper valuation of Mr. Worsham's successful achievement, it will suffice to say that the boll weevil alone can destroy 50 per cent of the crop, and has destroyed 50. Mr. Worsham has checked this loss. Substantial evidence of the high regard in which he is held in his home state is shown by the way Georgia legislators have cosponsored bills which give him a special commission for the great work he is doing for Georgia and the south.

Great as has been his victory against the invading hordes, it has come as the result of a powerless, bloodless war. Mr. Worsham favors explosives only in the system of sub-soiling or vertical farming, to which, like all farmers of the modern school, he is a convert.

His campaign has been successfully waged through the development of a new cotton, through the crossing and re-crossing of varieties. He has thus developed a cotton that will mature before the arrival of the flying squadron of boll weevils, and which will not wilt, as has been the trouble with other early-maturing cottons.

But this is not a treatise on farming. Mr. Worsham's valuable discoveries for saving the cotton and other crops have been brought to the attention of every farmer in the south, through his articles in farm magazines, his lectures and other media. By the southern agriculturist he is already well known.

It is the purpose of this article to introduce to others an interesting personality, one of the foremost scientists of the day, a man who has done much for the south and added to the glory of his nation.

Worsham is a conservationist, and in recognition of his great work along the lines of conservation in helping save the cotton of the south and his untiring work with the National Game and Fish Commission, he was elected president of the congress. He was for years chairman of its executive committee.

Worsham has an engaging personality, a droll humor and is an entertaining talker on many subjects, though he is a "bug" on bugs. He is tall and thin, a soft-voiced southerner, with smooth, tanned face, light-brown hair and eyes, and a friendly smile.

Lee Worsham saw the point. One season he saw their entire crop ruined by the black root—all the hard work of a season gone for naught. The poetic mind, with a few fair ballads and lyrics, has given a scientific twist, and the south, the nation as a whole, has profited.

After his graduate work at Cornell university, Worsham entered the federal service in the department of agriculture at Washington, but was shortly called to accept the position of state entomologist in his native state of Georgia. Recently he was prominently considered for assistant secretary of agriculture, but he felt that he had a few more bugs down south to kill.

Worsham works unceasingly at his duties as state entomologist, and has been observing diseases and insects. His headquarters are at Atlanta, but he travels almost continually, forming cotton-breeders and farmers' clubs, lecturing at universities and to farmers, and answering the thousands of letters asking for advice in the farmers' continuous warfare against the pests that threaten their crops.

THE CHRISTIAN WHO NEVER GOES TO CHURCH.

This is the man who doesn't see the brevity of life. If he did, he'd know that in no time—a mere handful of years—he'll be standing before God; and this realization would drive him to a closer devotion to God. God would seem more real to him—more necessary. He would feel the need of going to church—to make his peace with the hand of years.

And each Sunday he would leave church as an athlete leaves his coach—resolved that when he next returned to its doors he would have a good report to make of himself. But the pastor, the Christian, is a wounded athlete. He has been wounded for lack of his church—coach's advice and interest and encouragement. He could "come back," but he is blind to the means. So he sits helplessly watching strength and ability carry off the trophies.

He's strapped himself to a chair.

His Glory Gone. (From The Washington Post.) Those "impossible" romances of Jules Verne will never be the boy of today what they were to his daddy.

GIRLS AT ENGLISH COMMERCIAL HIGH SCHOOL FORCED TO WEAR GLASSES, LIGHTING IS SO POOR

Mrs. A. J. Wise. More than two-thirds of the girls who attend the English Commercial High school are forced to wear eyeglasses because of the inadequate lighting of that building, according to Mrs. A. T. Wise, principal of the school.

The English Commercial is located in the old annex to the City street school. The building is in an alarming state of dilapidation. The only remedy for the condition is a new building for which the board has provided $100,000 in its budget for 1915.

When the English Commercial was taken away from the Girls' High school, there were only 142 students in the classes. At the present time the school is training 251 girls. The reason the school was forced to get individual quarters was because it was crowded out of the Girls' High school.

"The school has grown in proportion to every other school in the city," Mrs. Wise said, "and it is necessary for the city to provide additional quarters. The classes cannot be taught much longer in this building, if the city expects to get the best results."

"The school is doing good work. This fact is testified to by hundreds of business men who have taken our graduates into their places of business. The conditions will be dreadful. Last year we graduated forty girls, and fourteen out of the class had positions three weeks before they graduated."

Every available inch of space has been made use of by the school in an effort to give the children comfort. The typewriter room, where fifty-two girls are constantly at practice, is dark even when the sun is shining brightest.

"A Brave Newspaper"

(From The Des Moines (Iowa) Capital.) The Atlanta Constitution is always the bravest newspaper in the south. The Constitution is humiliated by the way the cotton question has been handled in the southern states and in the editorial entitled, "Taking the Begging Sign From the Nation's Doors," discusses the humiliating position in which the south has been placed. The editor, Hon. Clark Howell, says:

"From the moment the European war demoralized the cotton market, a howl for a change in the dividend rate. It did not take it long to assume the tone of a charity wall. No wonder the whole country believed that the south's 'and the nation's' cotton was an applicant for charity."

The Constitution regards the efforts by public subscription to help out the cotton farmer as a "charitable" well meant, but humiliating impulse, whose cost to the south, "would be difficult to estimate."

The Holland Letter

Probably the sense of gratification which will be felt in the business world of the United States on Thanksgiving day will be due to the promise and practical assurance of a revival of business activity, the first symptoms of which will be evident soon after the first of the new year.

That is one of the best of the signs that hint at returning business activity. Holders of stocks in some of the manufacturing corporations are confident that they will see a more pleasant Thanksgiving this year than was their lot in 1913. For these managers are already beginning to contemplate a renewal of dividend payments, some time in the winter or early spring, according to their next half-year begins or many of the large corporations found it expedient to suspend dividend payments beginning two years ago, and others, like the United States Steel corporation, have found it the part of wisdom to reduce the dividend rate.

That is one of the best of the signs that hint at returning business activity. Holders of stocks in some of the manufacturing corporations are confident that they will see a more pleasant Thanksgiving this year than was their lot in 1913. For these managers are already beginning to contemplate a renewal of dividend payments, some time in the winter or early spring, according to their next half-year begins or many of the large corporations found it expedient to suspend dividend payments beginning two years ago, and others, like the United States Steel corporation, have found it the part of wisdom to reduce the dividend rate.

It is difficult to obtain details which tell the story of this enormous international trade which has come to us as a consequence of the European war. But there do come to the public eye authentic reports telling of the daily orders which some of our manufacturing establishments are now receiving. They run all the way from $100,000 a day to $1,000,000 the next day, and so on, orders that are being now daily received by many of the manufacturing concerns.

Sometimes reports that seem to be wide apart reach New York, one telling of great activity in certain districts and another reporting continued business stagnation. That is necessarily true of the reports which come from New England. Some of them tell of unprecedented activity, requiring day and night operation of the factories and considerable enlargement of the plant through hiring of available buildings. On the other hand, the reports from New England are that general business does not show much sign of any improvement.

From the middle west have been received reports within a few days which suggest that people who dwell there may feel a sense of gratitude upon the Thanksgiving day. Many of the great manufacturers in the middle west maintain headquarters or agencies in this city. Some of these reports that they are now straining every nerve in order to secure the facilities which they need if they are to meet the demands made upon them for their commodities. This is understood to be especially true of Michigan.

Some of the great manufacturing establishments in that state are increasing their plants and taking on a great deal of new work of steady time and good pay. In Wisconsin, there has been observed a gratifying increase in manufacturing activity and the reports from one of the largest manufacturing establishments in that state indicate that its managers believe that the year 1915 will be identified as the year of recovery from business stagnation and the setting in of activity such as the country has never known.

In and around Cincinnati, according to reports received in this city, there begins to be observed large increase in manufacturing operations. Some of these are necessary in order to facilitate the operation of some of the factories in New England which are now occupied with earnest attempt to meet the heavy demands made upon them, principally by England, but to some extent by France.

Another factor which causes men of business experience to feel in this Thanksgiving season as they have not felt upon like occasions for several years is the tendency which has been observed for such demand for American stocks as will be likely to cause the market quotations of these

THANKSGIVING.

BY GEORGE FITZEL. Author of "At Good Old Swab."

This is the day upon which the average American eats himself into a comatose condition in the effort to express his thankfulness over what he has or hasn't gotten during the past year.

Thanksgiving was once a religious festival, now it is chiefly athletic. In the past one hundred years man has advanced wonderfully in the art of getting a hot-Nelson on a third platter of turkey and darning it without the aid of a pneumatic tamping outfit.

It is going to be easier this year to be thankful than it ever has been before. Greatfulness is going to be particularly rampant today, and only those Americans whose lives have been permanently impaired will have the nerve to scowl reproachfully at the past twelve months.

Some Americans have had very poor health during the past year, and have suffered from expensive and engrossing diseases, but they have not had to be operated upon for cancer balls in the thorax.

Other Americans are only working a few days a week. Yet when they consider how they might be working regularly digging trenches all night and dodging shells all day, they are almost naturally grateful.

Still other citizens have lost their property by fire recently, and in ordinary years would now be celebrating Thanksgiving with snorts of derision. But this year they can thank their stars that they were not burned.

Thus Thanksgiving has gathered in one mighty throb of gratitude the whole nation with the exception of the defeated candidate. In all the world there is nothing to match his peculiar and poignant woe, and even turkey will not eat it. The defeated candidate will always continue to be a death's head at our Thanksgiving dinners until the great holiday is moved forward into October.

stocked to increase as soon as there is any available means for making quotations. Perhaps there would be a still better feeling if the governors of the stock exchange in this city had thought it wise to open the doors, at least for restricted business. But there still remain some complications and possibly some dangers, which must be overcome or guarded against before it is safe to open the exchange.

In financial circles, there seems to be some apprehension that in case the war be prolonged there may inevitably be some repudiation of the national obligations of European nations. Nobody, for instance, thinks that Great Britain will be compelled to take action of that kind and the danger that France may default is not so great. But there national debt is slight, but it will surprise no one here if Austria renounced her national debt in such manner to amount to partial repudiation. No one doubts that Belgium, unless in the event of victory of the allies she receives a sufficient indemnity from Germany, will be compelled to say to those from whom she has borrowed, "We cannot pay our debt."

Fortunately, only in an indirect way would this method of liquidating national indebtedness affect the United States. We have not lent much money abroad, at least to states whose financial standing is in danger. There are still probably to be called upon to aid in the reconstruction financially of the nations that have suffered by war. From one viewpoint that may be an advantage, but from another the disadvantages may be great. However, this is only a conjecture. The fact remains that unexpectedly at the Thanksgiving season the prospects are excellent for an early revival of American domestic business and for the restoration of dividends which for a year or two have been passed by some of our large industries.

Thanksgiving Dinner Ready For Every Home in Atlanta; Provision Made for Needy

If interest and work count for anything all Atlanta today will sit down to a sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner. For weeks charity and church organizations have been searching out needy families and raising funds and supplies in order that not a single family may be without a Thanksgiving dinner.

These organizations began distributing baskets Wednesday afternoon and it was a common sight to see some ragged little tot worn old woman or ailing old man beaming with joy as he or she received a fat basket at the side doors of Atlanta's leading churches.

Efforts are redoubled also the efforts at raising money on the streets for Thanksgiving dinners were redoubled on Wednesday. An interesting corner during the busy shopping hours Wednesday afternoon in the retail district of Whitehall was at the (Clemmer Johnson DuBose store. The store donated the use of one of its big front display windows to the Home for the Friendless Little tots from the home played in the window and looked wistfully at the fresh looking Thanksgiving turkey outside those interested in their welfare took up collections from the passersby. Needless to say there will be a Thanksgiving dinner at the Home for the Friendless.

All arrangements have been made for good dinners at other charitable institutions. The prisoners at the Atlanta federal prison will have their usual Thanksgiving spread and the county convicts will find variety in their dinner today. As for the rest of the city judging from the sales of turkeys, cranberries and other gastronomic garnishments that go with a Thanksgiving dinner it will be a hard day on food supplies.

Tech-Clemson Game. Of course one of the big features of the day will be the Clemson Tech football game at Grant field this afternoon at 2 o'clock. In these late days what is a Thanksgiving day without a football game.

The festive spirit of the streets in the afternoon after the game will be enhanced by the fact that the city hall state capitol the courthouse and many business and manufacturing establishments will hold holiday. The movies will be open bright and early and the city hall will offer special features for the day. At the Atlanta theater there will be a special Thanksgiving matinee of The Trail of the Lonesome Pine besides the regular performance. At the Forsyth theater the week's bill of Keith vaudeville will be presented at matinee and night performances.

Many other Festivities. Besides these other festivities had their beginning Wednesday night in many dances and parties of all sorts this afternoon and tonight at the various clubs and in many homes there will be brilliant dances and parties. The pleasure of these occasions will be added to by the presence of many young people home from school for Thanksgiving and the presence of many visitors in the city.

Although it looks like a big day today the federal reserve bank along with the other banks will be closed Thursday according to Reserve Agent Wellborn. Joseph Slattery secretary to Mr. Wellborn, will probably go to his former home in Anneton for the day.

Lyon the pastor will preach Dr. Conner Ogden pastor of the Central Presbyterian church will also talk concerning the Nacoochee Institute. The public is cordially invited to attend. A union Baptist Thanksgiving service will be held in the Second Baptist church this morning at 11 o'clock. The public and all the Baptists of the city are invited.

The program is as follows: Devotional by the Rev. W. L. Cutts pastor of the Inman Park Baptist church. Scripture reading by the Rev. W. T. Smith pastor of the Decatur Baptist church. Reading of the president's proclamation by the Rev. W. M. Sentell pastor of the Gordon Street Baptist church. The Thanksgiving Prayer led by the Rev. F. J. Klemming pastor of the Grant Baptist church. Sermon by Dr. Hahn recently of Springfield Mass. now of Greenville S. C. Benediction by Dr. John E. White pastor of the Second Baptist church. The music for the service will be rendered by the choir and special Thanksgiving services in all Atlanta's Episcopal churches at North avenue and at 30 o'clock the pastor Rev. W. W. Memmlinger will preside.

Thanksgiving for Poor. Wednesday afternoon thirty families of the city were gladdened at the bringing of as many baskets of Thanksgiving gifts as great as the Thanksgiving high school senior class. The faculty and the girls bring parcels or money to a room at the supervision of Miss Wade the principal the happy privilege then devolves upon the senior class to select the most needed articles and this is a systematically conducted pleasure too. For the school authorities in the city that the city hall with officials of local charities to find out in what quarters these school girls would bring the greatest benefit. The number of the adults and children in each home is the first consideration. The gifts are packed carefully arranged contents of the baskets was made up of celery soup pork and beans milk tea sugar oysters and other articles. The fifteen baskets which were the feature of the day were packed. The carefully arranged contents of the baskets was made up of celery soup pork and beans milk tea sugar oysters and other articles. At least five Thanksgiving turkeys as the result of their operations during Tuesday night when they managed to get into the turkey gobbler and hens from the back yards of three Atlanta residences according to reports received at police headquarters Wednesday morning.

Mr. C. A. Martin a city physician reported the loss of a 35 pound gobbler the pride of the coop which was fated to occupy the place of honor at the Martin Thanksgiving dinner today. The bird was stolen from the backyard of the residence 61 Hill street some time during Tuesday night. The third case stolen from the backyard reported stolen from 301 West North avenue and two gobblers and one hen from 165 North Jackson street.

REMITTANCE HELD UP IN THE FRANK CASE

Condemned Man Will Not Be Resentenced Before Next Tuesday.

A plea to Justice Lamar, of the U. S. supreme court, to so far modify his refusal to issue a writ of error in the Frank case so that the application for the writ might be referred to the entire supreme court bench was made by Harry Alexander counsel for the convicted man, in Washington yesterday afternoon.

No action in this respect has been taken by the justice, however. His decision is expected to be made known today. So instant are they upon the case reviewed by the complete United States bench that Atlanta representatives of Frank's counsel have succeeded in having the state supreme court delay the remittitur in the case so that the date of the doomed man's resentencing will be delayed as long as possible.

The remittitur although due yesterday will not be handed down to the superior court until Monday. It is expected, therefore that Frank will be brought before Judge John T. Pendle for the purpose of being sentenced to the hanging date on Tuesday morning.

Although no definite steps have been taken it is said that Frank's attorney is already preparing for a fight before the supreme court board through which channels their plea to rescue their client from the gallows will be carried to Governor Joseph S. Stanton.

Washington November 25.—Whether Justice Lamar of the United States supreme court, would modify his refusal to issue a writ of error for the supreme court to review the conviction of Lee M. Frank for the murder of Dr. George L. Hays, at Atlanta, Ga., known here tonight as Henry Alexander, Frank's attorney asked the justice today to modify his refusal tonight. The justice's reply was that success his request had not. Alexander said he had asked Justice Lamar to issue a writ of error in the case.

MAJOR G. W. MARTIN RETURNS TO ATLANTA. Major G. W. Martin, U. S. A. and family who returned about a month ago from Europe are stopping at the Wincoff hotel. Major Martin declared last night that he wished to Decatur report that he was still in Germany. The Martins went abroad in June. Major Martin was formerly stationed at Fort McPherson.

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN BONDS FOR SCHOOLS. Continued From Page One. Impossible to admit even one class. There is not enough room in the building for even a library of 200 books. Long before the classes were settled in the order of work in the school every seat in the school was taken and rather than turn away girls Mrs. Wise made up an additional class.

Students Are Efficient. The girls have been made of efficient because they have been trained in loyal effort and painstaking in their work. The girls are not only efficient in the facilities provided them the teachers have the work otherwise they would doubt if they could do the work under the strain and maintain an efficient standard.

Business Institutions Throughout the youth have testified in letters to Mrs. Wise as to the efficiency of the graduates. But if the school is allowed to merely exist without getting the encouragement due it or the improvements which the students and faculty are entitled to it will degenerate just like other institutions degenerate when officials become apathetic and blind to conditions.

Is It "Just a Cold?" Don't say it's just a cold. It may turn into rheumatism or dropsy or gout or other serious sickness that comes from weak kidney action. Congestion makes the kidneys over work to filter the blood. Cold often leads to kidney trouble. First break the cold then use Doan's Kidney Pills to avert the kidney dangers. For backache they are especially well recommended.

Loafers in Ad Men's Ranks Are Scored by George Simms

The Ad Men held a luncheon at the Wincoff yesterday. At that meeting President St. Elmo Massengale promised them something. George "Advertising" Simms, manager of the Hog and Hominy carnival, delivered the goods.

When Mr. Simms took the floor at the fall end of the meeting he unlimbered his Krupps upon the loafers of the Ad Men's club and he left neither hide nor hair. The burden of his attack was that while the Hog and Hominy organization is having an all-fired dike of a time raising enough money to finance the big event, only about eight or ten members of the Ad Men's club, which stands sponsor for the carnival, are really working. The rest he averred declared and asserted to be beyond all peradventure the laziest set of loafers that ever laid down on the job.

Mr. Simms urged that every member of the club call at his offices in the Chamber of Commerce building and get ten carnival buttons each to sell. He would have it understood moreover that he is in dead earnest about this matter and is to be considered in no wise kidding.

Reception Committees. Following the meeting L. D. Hicks, general chairman of the Hog and Hominy carnival committee announced the names of those Atlanta business men who were to be in charge of the reception committees at the big public ball to be held in the Auditorium on the evening of December 3. The committees were:

Jack Lewis chairman, R. S. Wessell, T. H. Daniel, Walter Adams, Beaumont Davison, Fred Paxton, Lee Jordan, LeRoy Dunson, Henry Grady, Fred Patterson, Robert Madox, Simms, James, Brooks, Morgan, V. H. Krogshager, H. C. Hastings, T. H. Holloman, Ben Lee, Crew, St. Elmo Massengale, E. L. Foreman, Lucien York, Ivan F. Allen, H. A. Maier, Colwell, W. C. Wardlaw, Kendall, Winger, J. Davis, W. B. Carlton, Julius DeGire.

MAYOR NOT WORRIED OVER PLAN OF OWENS

Doesn't Believe Council Will Pass Resolution to Abolish the Police Board. Mayor Woodward said Wednesday afternoon that he is not concerned over the move to take from him the appointment of the police committee. He does not think it likely that council will adopt a resolution providing for a charter amendment to abolish the police board. The mayor regards it unlikely for either resolution to be passed because of the narrow margin which separates advocates of commission government from the anti commission government men.

Alderman John S. Owens one of the signers of the resolution which censures the mayor for not going over the head of Chief Beavers in the appointment of three superintendents to the force says that while he is not positive that such resolutions as outlined above will be introduced he is in sympathy with both measures and from discussions with other members he expects that such resolutions will be introduced at the meeting on December 2.

The charter provides for the appointment of a committee of council. This would mean that if council all adopts the resolution the 1915 police committee may be composed of a chairman and two members. The mayor's sympathy with the mayor's notices and of course the chairman would have a voice and vote on the board of police commissioners.

Alderman Owens says that council has the power to vest itself with authority to appoint any committee of council. This would mean that if council all adopts the resolution the 1915 police committee may be composed of a chairman and two members. The mayor's sympathy with the mayor's notices and of course the chairman would have a voice and vote on the board of police commissioners.

Every Fellow Tells a Story. "Will I ever get over this?" Is It "Just a Cold?" Don't say it's just a cold. That's our work. So it's your grocer's, your butcher's. But you control the quality and price of our wares through your chosen public officers. Ours is defined as a "public" service. It might be half-hearted—BUT IT ISN'T YOU KNOW THAT! It is public service done by a private business. Therefore it must yield far return. IT CAN'T, WITHOUT YOUR GOOD WILL. IT CAN'T WIN AND KEEP THAT UNLESS IT IS GOOD SERVICE. But go further. There are other incentives. Not the least is the satisfaction of your well. We're human and conscientious. JUST LIKE YOU! Another is the fear of punishment. Human again!

WHAT'S THE PUNISHMENT WE FEAR? We do business with your permission, called a franchise. If we have to be renewed some day IF IT ISN'T, OUR INVESTMENT BECOMES JUNK. We have to ask you for extensions IF THEY'RE REFUSED OUR BUSINESS DRIPS UP. We have to obey your city laws. THEY CAN BE MADE TOO DRASTIC TO WORK UNDER.

We've got in another form your permission to do business. That's the state charter. ITS REVOCATION WOULD PARALYZE US.

Beyond all these is a compulsion to give good service. Your railroad corporation supervises our work, our methods, our rules, our fares and rates, our capital, our earnings.

CAN WE SUCCEED WITHOUT YOUR GOOD WILL? No more than you can breathe without air.
