

INDICATIONS POINT TO EARLY ELECTION ON SCHOOL BONDS

Bond Committee Is Expected to Make Report at the Next Meeting of General Council.

BUILD FOR THE FUTURE; URGE COUNCIL MEMBERS

Erection of One Large Building at Cost of $800,000 to House Four High Schools Favored.

Complete rehabilitation of the entire public school system of Atlanta will shortly be put squarely up to the people to decide at the polls.

On Friday the indications were that the sub-committee of the bond committee is certain to make a report on the proposed school building at the meeting of the general council on December 2.

Alderman James R. Nutting is chairman of the committee. When it was appointed by council it was with the understanding that the committee would make an exhaustive investigation into the needs of every department, particularly the schools, and make a report to council recommending just how much money will be needed to put the schools on a basis of efficiency and adequacy.

Call Early Election.

According to information gleaned from sources other than the committee members, the committee is going to recommend that council authorize the calling of a bond election in December or early in January. The committee will probably urge that council let the people vote on an issue of at least $1,500,000 for schools. This amount, it is argued, will regenerate the entire system and place it on a basis of efficiency for at least ten years. Far-sighted members of council declare that it would be a splendid little money at this time to spend to rescue the school system from the peril it faces through congestion in September, next year, and advocate the early calling of the election to meet the future demands of the system.

Mayor James G. Woodruff is anxiously awaiting the action of the committee on Friday that he favors the issuance of bonds to improve the school system, but he says he will not advocate them unless the issue will not hold the entire issue to within reasonable limits.

The plan of regeneration includes the re-establishment of the school system in the places destroyed by fire; increasing the facilities of the English avenue school; construction of a new school at Spring and Eighteenth streets; improvement of the general school, Grath and Highland, and some other structures.

Ivy School Dangerous.

If plans work out successfully it is likely that the Ivy school will be consolidated with the Calhoun street school, and a larger building erected for the merged institutions. The Ivy school is in poor condition, and is very dangerous, as the fire of last week proved.

Extreme plans for the high schools have been outlined. These plans provide for the erection of one high school plant in each of the four sections of the city. It is planned to get the city to buy a square of ground, if possible, for the one building which will combine the high schools for boys and girls in the English commercial and the Tech high.

It has been estimated that such a plant will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, but it is believed that in conformity with plans which will provide for facilities for years to come.

Mayor Woodruff offered a suggestion along similar lines some years ago and it was not until the present year that he did not have the money to spend on the building, and the plans were never carried out.

One of the crying needs of the high school is the lack of playground space. This can be provided for only by locating the high schools away from the commercial center of the city.

Council Favors Bonds.

Council members are leaning as to the necessity of bonds for school improvements. They understand that the city cannot build schools out of the current revenue, and are ready to submit the bond issue question to the people.

The people alone have the power to issue bonds, and the 35,000 mothers and fathers of children who are suffering from the present inadequate system will not hesitate when the question is put up to them.

Councilman Charles W. Smith, chairman of the tax committee, has a plan for providing for the interest on the bond issue. It is copied after the Indianapolis plan, by which property owners and the street car company pay all the interest on the bonds.

This plan will give the city between $100,000 and $200,000, annually spent on street paving, to be used for other purposes.

The plan provides that the city issue serial notes running over a period of ten years for street paving. If the people are given ten years to pay for street paving, the city will reap the benefit and Atlanta will soon become the best paved city in the United States.

This plan wipes out the argument that the city cannot afford a bond issue because the current revenue would provide the necessary interest and sinking fund.

Eleven Killed on Goeben.

Berlin, November 27.—(Via London.)—In her recent engagement with the Russian Black sea fleet, the Turkish cruiser Goeben lost eleven men killed. It is said that only one shot, and that above the water line, struck the Goeben.

VILLA'S MEN ENTER MEXICAN CAPITAL

Announced That Carranza Leader Who Holds Tampico Has Recognized Authority of the Convention.

El Paso, Texas, November 27.—A part of General Villa's forces have entered Mexico City, but Villa remains at Tula. A train, the first in many weeks, left Mexico City today for Tula. This was learned when rail and wire communications were opened between the national capital and the border. An official Villa report today said that General Caballero, the Carranza leader, whose troops hold Tampico, had recognized the convention party.

Order Being Maintained. Washington, November 27.—Administration officials today credited reports that General Villa's troops had joined Zapata in Mexico City. They had no definite advice.

The last dispatch to the state department, dated yesterday, reported that Villa's men and agents of General Villa controlled the city. All official dispatches say order is being maintained, the only looting mentioned being that of a ranch in the outskirts owned by an American in the same vicinity. The Spanish ambassador told Mr. Bryan today, several Spaniards had been reported killed.

In view of Carranza's arrival at Vera Cruz Secretary Bryan wired American Consul Silliman to remain in Mexico City. He said he had originally ordered Silliman to join Carranza when the latter was at Orizaba. American Consul Canada at Vera Cruz will handle all negotiations with Carranza. Enrique C. Lorente, Washington representative of Provisional President Guiterrez, received advice today confirming reports that General Luis Caballero at Tampico, governor of the state of Tamaulipas, had declared his adherence to the Aguas Calientes convention. Caballero is understood to control the situation in Tampico and a portion of the state. Preparations for their occupation of the port had been made. Lorente said.

To Reorganize Deputies.

El Paso, Texas, November 27.—General Carranza, commander in chief, said tonight that officials of the convention party planned to reorganize the Mexican chamber of deputies with the membership elected under the Madero administration. The object is to obtain formal recognition by the United States. It will be held, Ornelas said, that the seizure of the state by General Huerta prevented deputies elected under Madero from serving out their terms, which will not be considered to have expired. By this arrangement, it was said, the convention government would comprise constitutionally elected members and readjustment of affairs prior to the holding of another election would be possible.

BATTLESHIP AUDACIOUS RAISED, SAY TRAVELERS

New York, November 27.—Passengers arriving here today on the Lusitania say the dreadnaught Audacious, reported sunk off the Irish coast, has been raised and is in a Belfast dry dock. According to J. J. Spurgeon, this report is current in Liverpool and is accepted as true, although the same secrecy is maintained as to salvage operations as was the case regarding the sinking of the battleship and the rescue of her men by the Olympic.

The report is that the Audacious did not sink when left by the Olympic, but that other vessels drew her into shallow water, where the hole in her bottom was patched sufficiently to permit her being towed to Belfast.

GREATEST OF HONORS CONFERRED ON JOFFRE

Paris, November 28.—President Poincare has conferred on General Joffre, the Medaille Militaire, the highest honor that can be conferred on a French soldier. The presentation was made in the presence of Premier Viviani, Minister of War, Millerand, the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies and members of the general staff.

The Medaille Militaire was established in 1852 exclusively for non-commissioned officers and men of the army and navy. It is only awarded to a general or an admiral for valorous work after such officers already have attained the highest rank in the legion of honor. It is considered the greatest honor that can be conferred on a general or admiral.

ESCORTS AND MAIDS FOR BALL SELECTED

Mrs. W. L. Peel Will Act as Chaperon and Will Be Aided by Prominent Society Matrons.

Young society women in the race for queen of the Hog-and-Hominy carnival, to be held in Atlanta next Thursday, have selected their escorts and their maids of honor, and the latter have picked out the young men who will honor as 'gentlemen-in-waiting.' The list was announced Friday by E. H. Goodhart, chairman of the carnival queen committee of the Atlanta Ad Men's club, which is behind the carnival.

In the list are the names of some of the most prominent society leaders in Atlanta and other nearby towns. Several of the maids of honor are from Birmingham, Ala. Edwin Tomlinson, a young woman selected being a resident of New Orleans, and another a resident of Chattanooga.

Escorts Are Named. There are twenty young women in the race for queen. All of them are popular and prominent socially, and each is a recent debutante. The escorts they have selected are: Alene Pickler, Eugene Haynes; Mary Murphy; Harry Lyons; Wyckliff Warm; Dr. Hodges; Mary King, Hal Hart; Anne Patterson; Henry C. Burr; Marie Kirkpatrick; Elbert Johnson; Blanche Johnson; John Hart; Lawrence Hines; Harold Rogers; Adrienne Batten; Ralph Ragard; Mary Rice; Sanders Hickey.

The maids selected by the candidates and the escorts of the former are as follows: Marybel Hixon, Americus, Ga.; Edgar Tompkins; Nina Carpenter, Greenville, S. C.; Turner Carson; Marguerite Gage, Blainville, La.; Mrs. W. H. Kaiser, Mrs. H. L. DeGrove, Mrs. John W. Grant, Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, Mrs. Frank Inman, Mrs. Walter P. Andrews and Mrs. J. R. Gray, all prominent in society will occupy boxes at the ball.

Tickets for the ball are being sold at all of the leading stores, in the hotels or at the committee headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. With the invitation, which will admit a gentleman and ladies, goes a vote for the queen and a golf carnation button. Plans for the afternoon of December 10 have been completed. There will be several thousand persons in line and the big business houses will be represented by decorated floats and automobiles. It will be a day of general celebration in Atlanta, included Woodruff having instructed his police to permit the general public to go as far as it likes in the way of celebration.

PREACHER DROPS DEAD TALKING TO PRISONERS

Milledgeville, Ga., November 27.—(Special.)—W. H. Boss, a Holiness preacher and contractor of Macon, fell dead last night of heart failure, at the state prison farm, while preaching for the employees of that institution. This was the fourth in a series of sermons that day by Mr. Boss.

Arriving early from Macon, he first preached to the state prisoners, then to the women, and in the afternoon to the negro boys, inmates of the reformatory. No inquiry was held. His body was shipped to Macon.

AT CHI PHI BANQUET YOUNG ATLANTA BOY WINS HIGH HONORS

Philadelphia, November 27.—(Special.)—The annual congress of the Chi Phi fraternity is in session here, being attended by representatives from colleges and universities in all parts of the country, also by many distinguished guests by the order. The annual banquet took place tonight with more than two hundred at the tables. It was in every way a brilliant affair in which a young Atlantan played a prominent part. His ten minutes' talk made a tremendous hit.

Every year on this occasion one representative from the undergraduates in all of the colleges of the United States is selected to speak for them, the other speakers being distinguished graduates in prominent life.

At tonight's banquet there were only five speakers, the undergraduate representative being Clark Howell, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., and a member of the present senior class of the University of Georgia. The other four speakers were J. George Becht, S. C. D., LL. D., secretary Pennsylvania state board of education; Newcomb Carlton, president Western Union Telegraph company; Charles D. Helmsman, general counsel Pennaylvania lines west; Franklin R. Lane, secretary of the interior.

Two other Atlanta boys, both students of the University of Georgia, are attending the convention as representatives of Eta chapter at Athens—Edwin Broyles and Eugene R. Black, Jr.

Grave of Peter Early To Be Moved Tuesday; Was Governor of State

Athens, Ga., November 27.—(Special.)—The grave of Peter Early, governor of the state of Georgia, who died in 1817, will next Tuesday be removed from the private cemetery on the farm of Griffith Bros. in the upper corner of Greene county, to Greensboro, where a place has been prepared for the historic dust, when it will be taken care of, and a suitable monument in the erected over it.

This was finally decided last night by Judge George Hillyer, of Atlanta, who, for the descendants, has had in mind the removal of the grave for some months. It was planned first to move the grave to Athens, where the governor's sister was buried in the early part of the last century, and there the group of educational institutions of the state felt appropriate to the site for historic value to the state, but Greene county people pressed resolutions, grand juries took action and determined effort won for Greensboro over Athens.

Three more or less vacuous trunks and two of last season's ballroom gowns are right discouraging things to accept in lieu of the charm and presence of a renowned dancing artist, yet that is what the Terpsichorean club had to put up with last night at its first big dance affair, when Mrs. Gayle Forbush departed for points in the east.

Mrs. Forbush came to Atlanta several months ago with an ardent mission. It was to metropolitanize Atlanta's hotel life and to put some speed in the dinners that society ate downtown. Failing to ginger up the hotel dining rooms with music and dance and decoration, she moved on society, where she inaugurated a palace of dance, wherein she would import monthly all the latest creations from Manhattan and teach them to the dance fans of the 400.

It was in this temple of Terpsichore that she was to stage the official opening dance last night of the Terpsichorean club. The night was a fluttering sum to promote the affair in its entirety. On the eve of it all, Fred W. Curtis, president of the club, received a formal note advising him of Mrs. Forbush's departure and expressing her regrets that she had to leave unexpectedly, but saying that when she arrived in Battle Creek she would promptly return. The money advanced her for services.

Swore Out Proceedings. So, President Curtis, seeking to reimburse the coffers of the club, swore out proceedings. Continued on Last Page.

SUBMARINES SINK 2 BRITISH VESSELS

Lloyd Reports Daring Feat by Kaiser's Water Wolves Over 150 Miles From Their Nearest Base.

London, November 27.—It was reported by Lloyd's today that two British steamers were sunk off Havre yesterday by German submarines.

The steamers were the Malchite and the Primo. Their crews were rescued. Those from the Malchite were landed at Southampton and those from the Primo at Besamp, France, on the English channel.

Lloyd's report indicates that Germany's submarines have made one of their most daring feats. This is the first occasion when their activities have been reported in these waters. Apparently they made their way through the Straits of Dover to a point more than 150 miles from their nearest base.

The Malchite was a small steamer of 718 tons gross. She was built in Glasgow in 1907. The gross tonnage of the Primo was 1,366. The was laid down in Stockton in 1908.

1,000 BALES BURNED When Warehouse at Georgetown Catches Fire.

Etowah, Ala., November 27.—(Special.)—One thousand bales of cotton were destroyed by fire tonight at the Grange warehouse at Georgetown, Ga., just across the river. The fire broke out late in the afternoon and on account of the absence of fire fighting apparatus soon enveloped the entire building.

Late tonight the flames were still rising high in the sky. Unless there is rain the fire will burn for several days, as the cotton was tiered up clear to the roof. The fire was first seen to break through the roof of the warehouse by David Kalkin, while in the postoffice. When the door was opened the flames spread rapidly.

A bale of cotton ginned at a steam gin and harboring a spark for several weeks in blama for the fire, for the warehouse had not been opened for a week. The loss is expected to run in the neighborhood of $20,000, with about $27,000 insurance. The Farmers and Merchants' bank had 400 bales, while T. W. Oliver and S. H. Barrett were other heavy sufferers by the fire.

The warehouse was built thirty years ago and this was its first fire. It was operated by a stock company, which carried $1,000 insurance.

RUSS TRICK WINS FIGHT IN BALTIC

Belated Report Tells of Defeat of the Kaiser's Fleet by Russian Warships Disguised as Germans.

London, November 28.—(2:40 a. m.)—The Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent says that when full details of the Russian victory in Poland are available they will furnish a story that will astonish the world—a story telling of a blow to Germany's finest troops such as had not been dealt since the days of Napoleon.

The correspondent also makes an interesting disclosure concerning a success he says the Russian Baltic fleet, under command of Admiral von Essen, achieved early in September. His dispatch, in substance, is as follows:

"It appears that German warships had acquired the habit of cruising in the Baltic up to the limit which the Russian fleet had decided to hold. Admiral von Essen painted several of his cruisers and destroyers with the German colors and, under cover of foggy weather, joined the German fleet. The presence of the Russian warships was not suspected.

"The admiral opened fire, sinking one German cruiser and badly damaging another, while the Russian destroyers put in good work on the smaller German craft. Having delivered this blow, the Russian vessels sailed home untouched.

"The Germans naturally remained silent respecting the feat, and for various reasons the Russians also kept silent, but a number of the coveted St. George crosses were distributed among those who were responsible for the success of this venture."

In connection with the foregoing story, it is interesting to note a brief official statement sent out in London September 4 read:

"According to information derived from a trustworthy source, seven German destroyers and torpedo boats were sunk in the Baltic on September 4, and it is understood that others have been sunk in the vicinity of the Kiel canal."

BASES FIGHT FOR LIFE ON UNWRITTEN LAW

Case of A. W. Stokes, Who Killed Virgil Thomson, in Jury's Hands.

Macon, Ga., November 27.—(Special.)—A. W. Stokes, the Macon lawyer, private detective and former justice of the peace, who shot and killed Virgil Thomson, a carpenter, claiming that Thomson had wrecked his home, was placed on trial for his life in the Bibb superior court today, the case going to the jury about 10:30 o'clock tonight.

Stokes based his defense on the double plea of the "unwritten law" and self-defense, though more stress was laid on the former.

Stokes himself made a forcible statement declaring that his wife had confessed to him the night before the killing of her relations with Thomson and that she had warned him to keep away from her house, but that Thomson had had her that only death could keep him away.

Stokes also said he had been notified that either he or Thomson must die when they met.

The British admiral announced that the collector Edmund has been blown up by a mine off Grimsby, England. Her crew was saved.

Lloyd's reports that in addition to the British steamer Melachite, the sinking of the Havre had been announced previously, a German submarine has sent to the bottom off Havre the British steamer Primo.

The Rumanian parliament will meet tomorrow and the future course of action of this kingdom probably will be decided. It is said Rumania is prepared to cede to Bulgaria some of the territory which she obtained after the second Balkan war at the expense of her neighbor. This may mean that Bulgaria is about to make her stand with the allies and in return be permitted to straighten out her boundaries and take more of the country inhabited by her nationals.

FIGHTING IN PROGRESS IN NORTHWEST SERBIA

Meeting of Rumanian Parliament Today May Have Great Effect on Future Status in Balkans.

London, November 28.—(4:05 a. m.)—An official Austrian dispatch, sent by Reuter's Vienna correspondent, admits that Czernowitz, capital of the Austrian province of Bukovina, has been evacuated by Austrian troops.

Washington, November 27.—The curtain is still down on the battle front in Poland, between the Vistula and Warta rivers. How the week's battle between the Russians and the Germans is progressing is not known.

Unofficial reports repeat previous claims of a great Russian victory. Petrograd has not officially stamped them true. Berlin in its latest report simply says fighting in Poland has assumed the proportions of a continuous battle. It gives no geographical position of this fighting and may refer to the operations westward from Warsaw or to those in the vicinity of Czenstochowa and still farther south along the Galician frontier.

In this latter district and in Galicia, according to latest reports of the Russian commander-in-chief, the Muscovite forces have had numerous successes. Captures of men and munitions are recorded on the Czenstochowa-Cracow line, along the Sreniawska river in Poland; in Galicia on the Raha and Vistula rivers and before the town of Bochnia, which was stormed.

Berlin's latest official report announced victories in Western Galicia and progress in the Carpathians for the Teuton allies.

A period of inactivity obtains along the entrenched lines in Belgium and France. Only here and there has there been fighting and this merely was cannonade and a few light infantry combats.

VICTORY IS CLAIMED BY MONTENEGRINS

Early fighting is in progress in northwestern Serbia but now is hampering operations. The Montenegrins claim to have defeated the Austrians with great losses near Vihograd on the Drina river.

The British admiral announced that the collector Edmund has been blown up by a mine off Grimsby, England. Her crew was saved.

Lloyd's reports that in addition to the British steamer Melachite, the sinking of the Havre had been announced previously, a German submarine has sent to the bottom off Havre the British steamer Primo.

This may mean that Bulgaria is about to make her stand with the allies and in return be permitted to straighten out her boundaries and take more of the country inhabited by her nationals.

In addition to a contingent of 21,000 men who already are in England, it is announced that Australia has raised a second contingent of 19,000 men.

CONTROL OF BALTIC CLAIMED BY GERMANY

Berlin Declares Russian Communication With World Is Completely Severed.

Berlin, November 27.—(By Wireless to London.)—The following information was given out to the press today: "Yesterday's bombardment of Zebrugga and Hoyzys, Belgium, by a British squadron destroyed the hotels. The inhabitants fled. German troops suffered no loss.

"The declaration in the Saon diet that peace would be concluded only after the attainment of security against further attacks was accepted enthusiastically by all parties, including the socialists.

"Russian shipping companies at Odessa have withdrawn their ships from the Black sea and the Sea of Azov because of the Turkish naval supremacy in those waters. A bombardment of Odessa is feared. The blockade of the harbor of Libau placed control of the Baltic in the hands of Germany, while the freezing of the harbor of Archangel (on the White sea) severs Russian communication with the outside world.

CAMPAIGN IN BELGIUM ENTERS NEW PHASE.

The campaign in France and Belgium, commonly regarded as the main conflict of the European war, seemed today to have entered, at least temporarily, upon a new phase. For the time being Germany has relinquished the offensive which she held so relentlessly during the earlier weeks of the war. Official statements from Berlin and Paris showed that the fighting, which has been diminishing steadily in several places, is now being confined to a few scattered skirmishes, involving only small numbers of troops. It remains to be seen whether this state of affairs was the prelude to another German onslaught, as opponents have been predicting, or whether it means that Germany had adopted new tactics which would thrust upon the allies the burden of the fighting in an effort to drive out the invaders.

"The French statement said that in the most spirited fighting has been in progress recently, there were only small engagements. The ground was taken by the Germans and retaken by the allies, but the magnitude of the war as a whole, is shown by the statement that the fighting involved more than one battalion, and the disputed ground extended over a number of miles.

"The German statement reports some progress in this region. At a few other points further west in France and in Belgium, there were small brushes.

"The situation in Russian Poland, the present object of the German attack, is dismissed in the German statement in one short sentence. It is merely said that there are no decisive engagements in the east yesterday.

REPORTS FROM FRONT VERY INCOMPLETE.

At few times since the European war began nearly four months ago have reports from the various fields of battle, scattered from the North Sea to the western fringe of Asia, been so incomplete and confusing as was the case today, the reports being drawn from official announcements, there was little change in the alignment of the opposing forces in any quarter.

"The importance of the fighting in the Russian Poland, at present the scene of the most important operations, has become no one of the most puzzling phases of the war.

"An official Austrian statement is to the effect that the Russian advance assumed the character of a continuous battle. In western Galicia it is said the Russian advance has been checked. Latest advices from Berlin state that the outcome has not yet been decided, either the decisive German victories are reported.

"Opposed to this are the unofficial statements in various quarters that Germany has been defeated decisively, and that Kitchener's announcement in parliament that Germany has suffered the greatest reversal of the war.

"The heat & work these claims have been made with the utmost confidence, yet the Russian official withhold any word of decisive developments.

Shots Cross Stern of United States Vessel When She Fails to Stop.

Panama, November 27.—The American steamship St. Helena, Captain Odland, which sailed from New York November 17 for San Francisco, arrived at Colon today and reported she had been fired on by the British cruiser Herwick.

Captain Odland said his ship was hailed, but apparently failed to heave to, and the British cruiser fired two shots across the stern of the American vessel. The incident occurred yesterday at a point ninety miles northwest of Colon.

An officer from the cruiser boarded the St. Helena and examined her papers and cargo. The vessel was permitted to proceed after a delay of three hours.

GERMAN EMPEROR MAKES FLYING VISIT TO KIEL

London, November 27.—The correspondent at The Hague of The Evening News transmits a rumor from well-informed sources that Emperor Wilhelm during the past week, paid a flying visit to Kiel, where he spent several days. It is reported that the emperor's correspondent continues, that this visit forebodes a renewed activity on the part of the German fleet, which will shortly be freed of the necessity of watching the Baltic, as the Russian ports soon will be icebound.

The emperor was noted all along the line during the day of November 26. Two infantry attacks directed against the heads of bridges which we had thrown down on the right bank of the Yser, to the south of Dixmude, were easily repulsed.

"There was no other engagement on the rest of the front in Belgium and as far as Oise, nor was there any action on the front in Champagne. Nevertheless Rheims was rather violently bombarded during the time that a number of journalists from neutral countries were making a visit to the city.

"In the Argonne some infantry attacks resulted in the loss and then the recapture of certain trenches. The number of journalists from neutral countries was never more than two. "Along the heights of the Meuse and in the Vosges there is nothing to report."

MONROE DOCTRINE INDORSED BY TAFT

Landing of Invading Troops in Canada Would Not Violate Doctrine, Declares the Former President.

Montclair, N. J., November 27.—William Howard Taft, in an address here tonight, indorsed the Monroe doctrine, discussed its relation to the European war and declared interference by the United States in Mexico and Central America has had nothing to do with the doctrine.

These are some of the salient features of his remarks. The landing of troops in Canada by enemies of Great Britain would not constitute a violation of the doctrine, but an effort to establish a new form of government in case of victory would.

There is little likelihood of the policy being pressed in Argentina, Brazil and Chile. These countries can protect themselves and they are so Canada.

Of the possibility of Great Britain's sending landing troops to Canada, Mr. Taft cited the stand of Secretary Howard taken when Spain declared war on Chile. He announced this country would not intervene as long as one country used force to maintain its dominion on the conquered people or resort to any other unjustly oppressive means.

"It seems clear," Mr. Taft said, "from the history which I have given of the Monroe doctrine that we are not to make for peace in the next one hundred years." "The possibility of Great Britain's sending landing troops to Canada, Mr. Taft cited the stand of Secretary Howard taken when Spain declared war on Chile. He announced this country would not intervene as long as one country used force to maintain its dominion on the conquered people or resort to any other unjustly oppressive means.

"Canada already is furnishing substantial aid to Great Britain. Therefore, we can justly object to Germany's taking counter measures and carrying the war into a country which is assisting our ally. All the more the Monroe doctrine would require of us would be to insist that when war was over, Germany was successful, she should not take over the territory of Canada. We could not object to her exacting an indemnity."

No Danger of Trouble. Mr. Taft sees little danger of the Monroe doctrine drawing this country into trouble with a European nation, at least one reason being that the struggle will leave them exhausted and, therefore, unlikely to begin any further military adventures. "We were to abandon the doctrine," he continued, "and thus in effect notify the European nations that we are no longer to be a menace to them. It is our remembrance or intervention was concerned they might take possession of Santo Domingo, of Haiti or of Central American republics, or South American republics that might be disturbed by revolution, and that might give rise to international causes for intervention. It would be but a short time before we would be forced into controversy that would be dangerous to the peace of this hemisphere, properly understood and limited."

The "A. B. C." powers, he continued, understand the Monroe doctrine and desire to exercise its guaranty over them. He added he thought it would be a good thing if these powers would join in upholding the doctrine, but to move in this direction might cause jealousy and suspicion among smaller south American countries.

STATE BANKS TO CONFER WITH RESERVE BOARD

Washington, November 27.—Representatives of state banks of the country are expected in Washington Wednesday to confer with the federal reserve board as to regulations governing their entrance into the federal reserve system. It is understood that while members of the board do not feel that the success of the system depends on the general participation of state banks, they are particularly anxious to strengthen the system.

SOUTH AMERICAN PLAN CONSIDERED BY BRYAN

The Government Expresses No Opinion on Proposal to Extend Neutral Waters.

Washington, November 27.—The United States government is not ready, according to an announcement today by Secretary Bryan, to express an opinion on the request of some American nations for co-operation by Washington in negotiations with European belligerents looking to the exclusion of their warships from the waters of this hemisphere. Mr. Bryan said, however, he would take the subject up with President Wilson on his return.

The Peruvian minister today communicated to Mr. Bryan in detail his government's proposal for the establishment of a neutral zone in the Atlantic and Pacific. It would extend the territorial waters of neutral countries from the present limit of three miles to a designated meridian within merchant shipping lanes. All nations would be free from molestation. Ambassador De Gama, of Brazil, took issue with Mr. Bryan on the general subject of concerted action on the part of the Latin-American republics to effect a restoration of trade between the two continents. He had been instructed to sound the American government as to its attitude toward various suggestions advanced, but Mr. Bryan informed him that the Washington government had not determined on any course. The Latin-American government has been anxious to know the attitude of the United States government toward suggestions of this kind before making formal suggestions.

Beyond admitting that the various suggestions were under consideration, Secretary Bryan refused to discuss the position of the Washington government. To one diplomat, however, he pointed out the desire of the United States to take no action which would meet with disfavor by belligerents and might result in the withdrawal of the government when time for the settlement of the war arrived. The Latin-American diplomats exchanged views on different proposals. The European diplomats said today they had no objection to the attitude of their respective governments. At the British and German embassies, it was understood that no formal communications had been made to the United States.

TURKS' EXPLANATION IS ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY

Washington, November 27.—The commander of the port of Smyrna lays all responsibility for the recent attack upon the cruiser Tennessee, while entering the harbor, "to the indifference of the helmsman of the launch," who, it is claimed, did not heed warning of the presence of mines.

The state department today issued a supplemental statement on the Tennessee incident, based upon a communication from the Turkish government to Ambassador Morgenthau in Constantinople. "The war minister's report," said the statement, "states that he ascertained from the commander of Smyrna that two blank shots of warning were first fired, and that the sentinel, after waiting two minutes, was obliged to fire the third shot in another direction from that of the launch, which latter shot was merely to prevent the helmsman from holding his course, which would lead directly on to the mines at the entrance of the harbor. It is regretted that the helmsman of the launch, who, it is claimed, did not heed warning of the presence of mines."

WILSON OPPOSED TO BOMB THROWING

Disapproval of Aerial Attacks on Unfortified Cities Expressed Unofficially to the Warring Countries.

Washington, November 27.—President Wilson has communicated unofficially to the diplomatic representatives of the United States in the belligerent countries of Europe his disapproval of attacks by bombs from air craft dropped on unfortified cities occupied by non-combatants.

The president was careful not to take the matter up officially and did not even make his communication through the state department, but personally addressed the American ambassadors abroad. He took this course, it became known today, nearly two months ago and the facts came to light through the publication of a report that the president had discussed the matter with European diplomats here. This, however, was denied by some of the prominent diplomats mentioned in connection with it, including the German ambassador. Just how the American diplomats abroad were to convey President Wilson's feeling in the matter to the foreign governments has not been disclosed, as white house officials in the absence of the president declined to discuss the subject. It is believed here, however, that the president called attention to the article in The Hague convention, of 1907, to which all the principal belligerent signatory, providing for notice of twenty-four hours before bombardment or attack in order that non-combatants may remove themselves from the danger zone. Whether there have been any unofficial responses from the belligerents was not known here today, but American diplomats were instructed by the president, it is understood, to handle the matter with such discretion and delicacy as would tend to end aerial attacks without notice and at the same time pressure the belligerents which the United States feels toward all the belligerents involved. It is not believed that the president mentioned any specific violation, but expressed his views on the general subject of aerial attacks. Through the unofficial character of the communication, it was intended by the president to bring about a better understanding with the belligerents on the subject involving the American government in the matter. It is supposed that the American diplomats used their good offices, consequently, in a personal way with the belligerent governments, but perhaps even mentioning the fact that they were doing so at the request of the president, as such methods of obtaining a desired end are not unusual in diplomacy.

ENGLAND NOT DISMAYED BY HER LOSSES AT SEA

"Can Afford to Lose Superdreadnaught Each Month," Declares Churchill.

London, November 27.—Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, told the house of commons today that despite the British navy's losses since the outbreak of the war there was no cause for nervousness over its present and future effectiveness.

"We can afford to lose a superdreadnaught every month for twelve months, without a single loss to the enemy, and be in as good a position of superiority as we were at the outbreak of the war," he said. The first British battle cruiser, the older armored cruiser, Mr. Churchill said Great Britain had lost six and Germany two. At the beginning of the war, Great Britain had thirty-six light modern cruisers to Germany's twenty-five. Great Britain had lost two and Germany had lost or injured a quarter of her gunner. Great Britain, since the commencement of the war, also had added as many light cruisers as Germany had lost. Mr. Churchill declared the maximum reinforcements Germany could receive to the end of 1915 was three capital ships, and that the British fleet would be increased by fifteen ships. The reason Great Britain could not produce results on a large scale with submarines, Mr. Churchill went on, was that so seldom had them been offered opportunity for attack. The losses in submarines sustained by the British and the Germans had been equal, he said.

British torpedo boat destroyers had shown the percentage had been only 1.8. "We have lost none; Germany has lost eight or ten," the speaker declared.

The economic pressure on Germany, Mr. Churchill said, continued to develop. Hundreds of ships of over 300 tons burden entered and left the port of the British mercantile marine in the first three months of the war, the first loss of the percentage had been only 1.8. The danger from mines was one, the limit of which could be discerned and which could further be restricted and controlled. The enemy had adopted methods which it was not thought would be successful in the navy. Mr. Churchill said there had been some danger of the escape from Germany to make specific reference to the naval expedition to Antwerp, claiming such discussion would be profitable until he was able to reveal all the facts.

REPORT OF BIG VICTORY DISCUSSED IN BERLIN

Great Stress Put on News of Capture of 100 Russ Cannon.

Military observers here express the opinion that the success of General Mackensen's army near Lodz, in Russian Poland, apart from the enormous number of Russian prisoners taken, has served to further improve the German-Austrian situation in the east. The most important event of the fighting, army officers point out, was the destruction by the Germans of 100 cannon which the Russians will be unable to replace without the greatest difficulty. While the approach of new Russian reinforcements has delayed a decision, the fact that these reinforcements will not be able to arrive simultaneously with reinforcements from Warsaw will give the Germans a chance, military men assert, to attack the oncoming forces before they can combine. The continual calling forth of new and large reinforcements shows, it is said, that the Russians are aware of the seriousness of their situation. Local military criticism believes that a decision will be made by the situation in favor of the Russian allies, may delay a decision for a long time.

Beautiful Dinner Dance At the Georgian Terrace

The dinner-dance at the Georgian Terrace last night was one of the most beautiful entertainments of the season, and two hundred and fifty people were assembled to enjoy it.

The rose dining room, which had artistic decorations made appropriate to the occasion, was the scene of the brilliant company. The Du Barry rose color of the hanging and furnishings was repeated in the wall lights, which were hung with smilax, and the main decoration was of American Beauty roses.

From the large central chandelier smilax was garlanded, and suspended by the smilax ropes was a great gilt basket of American Beauties. Against the massive white pillars at one end of the room were great bows of American Beauty ribbon showered with smilax, and smilax was etched on the white walls.

The palm dining room and hangings of smilax, and in the hallway between the two dining rooms there were baskets of American Beauties. The orchestra there was concealed behind a screen of palms in tall white urns.

Atlanta Woman Describes Experiences of the War

"When I was caught in Europe by the war there were solved for me many diplomatic riddles which had been put to me on previous long visits in cosmopolitan centers like Carlsbad, where representatives of every nation congregate."

The speaker was an Atlanta woman, Mrs. Louis Newell, just returned from a seven months' stay abroad, whose attitude toward European affairs and peoples is that of the woman of culture and appreciation, her opinions formed in the course of twelve long visits in Europe in about as many years.

It is just two years ago since a conversation with a Russian prince I have known for some time in the course of my travels abroad, when he enlightened me as to many things Russian, which I, like most Americans, had not realized. And these things all pertained to the wonderful strides forward that Russia has made, even since her war with the Japanese. She learned many lessons there, both in the arts of peace and war.

"Germany has so well advertised her own culture and achievements that we have almost taken for granted her superior claims. But when we shall investigate our own country we will be startled by what Russia has done, conspicuously in education, and in her military institution."

"My Russian friend closed our talk with a question. Do you like the German?" "I like most Americans," he asked, his only answer was, "You will know two years from now."

"This was only one of many epigrammatic remarks which I have heard since the nations involved which would convince me, were there no other proof, that the nations in which we are living are coming, although Germany alone had reached the point of preparedness at the outbreak of the war. The uniforms of her soldiers had already been covered with medals and orders, both of which their uniforms are made."

Experiences of Travel.
"My husband and I were caught by the threr in Carlsbad, and there given only a few hours' peremptory notice to leave. We made our way to Berne, in Switzerland, and reassured there by diplomatic authority that there was no danger in remaining. We stayed too long. Like all the American tourists in Switzerland, we were treated with the greatest consideration, but when we started on our way to the Hague, where our boat was to sail the trip which should have taken nine days, covered five days. And the delay was not only of great physical discomfort but of suffering in seeing others suffer. We were delayed by army trains carrying the wounded."

"Scarcely less pathetic to me than the hundreds of poor fellows being brought back wounded from the front were the other hundreds on their way to the front. Freshmen most of those we saw, and a splendid looking class of young fellows."

Belgium's Prophecy.
"We were long delayed at The Hague while we waited for our ship, and that hospitable city, like all Holland, was full of Belgian refugees."

Their stories of the treatment Belgians received from the invading army, we were convinced to believe, horrible as these stories were, because they came from the most highly representative element of the people, Belgians.

They held periodical sales of their own handiwork. Conspicuous in the show window of the store at 183 Peachtree street was a beautiful silk quilt, made by the girls and it is for sale at the low price of $1.00.

They will also put on sale today over 100 beautiful dolls, all of which have been dressed by these young ladies. These dolls will be sold at very reasonable prices, and every cent of the proceeds will go toward the relief of the Belgians in distress.

By patronizing this bazaar a splendid institution is helped, and the girls are encouraged to continue their efforts in the relief of those who so sorely need it.

Dinner-Dance at The Driving Club.

In honor of Miss Callie Hoke Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will entertain. The guests will be Miss Marion Goldsmith, Miss Mamie Ansley, Miss Ruth Wing, Mr. Sanders, Mr. Hugh Hente, Mr. Lewis Gregg, Mr. Lynn Werner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stearns.

GREAT HELP TO A SICK WOMAN

This Lady Says, "I Cannot Find Words to Express How Thankful I Am to Cardui."

Jonesville Va.—"I certainly appreciate what Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done for me," writes Mrs. Owen F. Wells, of this town. "Before I began to take Cardui I could hardly go about I had several womanly troubles, which caused me much suffering, and were very troublesome. But now I feel like a different person."

I had often read of Cardui, but had little faith in it. My husband urged me to try it, and now I cannot find words to express how thankful I am. Cardui is a wonderful medicine and I feel that it was a greater help than anything I could have taken."

I had scarcely no pain or suffering at childbirth, and I feel I owe it all to Cardui. I know that no woman would make a mistake in using Cardui at that most critical time. It will save them so much suffering."

It is my sincere desire that this statement may be seen and read by all sufferers who suffer as I did. I am telling all my friends and acquaintances of the great cure I have received."

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women give Cardui a trial. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, to tell of the great benefit that Cardui has been to them. Why shouldn't it help you, too? Try Cardui.

cession that either side is approximating a victory which would justify a final verdict. The resources of all of them have been by no means exhausted. American travelers returned from Germany report that that empire is able still to place many hundred thousand fresh men in the field, and that the spirit of the men already engaged is unbroken, despite their enormous losses. Less is known of Austria, though the current belief is that she can command fewer reserves of men and money than Germany.

The allies are situated similarly. In England an army of 1,000,000 men is in training, and the other day parliament authorized the raising of another army of equal size. This is not to reckon with the troops and supplies pouring into the field from Great Britain's dependencies. France has not yet sent her final reserves to the front, by any manner of means. And, in anticipation of a long war, she is said to be rigorously training young boys in their teens not out of school.

Of course, some smashing and unexpected turning of the tide on either side might bring the war to a cyclonic conclusion. But the news as yet gives no indication of such developments.

NO SNAP JUDGMENT.

One of the greatest calamities that could happen to this country would be for it to pitch a military or naval program of any sort upon a premature reading of the lessons of the war in Europe. There is danger that we may be faced by such a catastrophe.

Already the country, and, in a way, congress, are lined up into two different camps, one clamoring for an overshadowing army and navy and the other for something resembling the maintenance of the status quo. Either one of these attitudes is based upon the assumption that we have already been able to draw the final premise from Europe's affliction. We have not, emphatically. The deductions that seem conclusive today may be ridiculous tomorrow.

That is why The Constitution wants to see this country's military and naval policy make haste slowly in any fundamental changes, until it is possible to interpret a little more intelligently through the smoke of the battlefields of Europe. If we mold a policy prematurely we may either waste hundreds of millions, and commit ourselves futiley for decades, or we may fall far short of the menace of the hour.

This does not mean that preparation should mark time until the completion of the war, which may be one or three years removed. It does mean that whatever is done ought to be built upon earnest and judicial investigation, not upon militaristic hysteria or pacifist sentiment.

Evidences are already plentiful that congress will be bombarded by advocates of the two schools. For the sake of the present generation, and equally for the sake of posterity, let us hope that congress will refuse to be stampeded off its feet to any extreme. If ever the call was for sanity and calm judgment, it is now.

THE COTTON MOTOR SPINS.

W. P. G. Harding, of the federal reserve board, who has been instrumental in laying out the plans for the Wade $135,000,000 cotton loan fund, has issued an interview to the effect that already the effects of the loan are visible in a greater fluidity of cotton and its movement throughout the south.

To Mr. Harding's statement might be added a further one to the effect that liquidation of cotton, due to the stabilizing of the spot and future markets, is also having a decided influence in bringing cotton into sight and increasing sales and exports.

Since the reopening of the cotton exchanges in New York, New Orleans and Liverpool there has been a decided tendency on part of farmers to sell cotton to redeem their debts and set the wheels of business humming.

This development has undoubtedly been encouraged by a realization that cotton prices now have reached a trading basis, that the one-time well-nigh universal holding movement has served its purpose, and that the interests of every factor in the south are better subserved by putting cotton in motion.

Cotton is the motive power of business in the southern states. In other words, the currents of business flow no faster and no more steadily than does the annual movement of cotton. Dam up cotton, and business from top to bottom, from the smallest "cropper" farmer on up through the cotton ginner, the banker and the cross-roads merchant, pay the penalty.

The unit first and most to suffer is the unit upon which the whole structure rests—the farmer himself. If his cotton is stationary, that means his debts are unpaid, his credit in cold storage, his purchasing power held in abeyance and his ability to make plans for the coming year temporarily suspended.

Realization of this fact, together with further realization that a trading basis has been reached, is responsible for the increasingly brisk movement of cotton, in Georgia and elsewhere.

Christmas is approaching. Widespread purchases of every nature must be made. Plans for the new year must be considered. None of these contingencies can be met unless cotton moves. And, recognizing the situation, cotton is moving.

All of us would be better pleased, of course, if cotton were bringing 10 instead of 7 1/2 cents. But seeing that facts must be faced, and knowing that even under normal conditions a crop of 16,000,000 bales would bring far less than 10 cents, the farmers and business men of the south are reconciling themselves to conditions as they are, not as they might be.

The cotton motor is spinning. The feeling of optimism is in the air, the spur of the holidays is set to trade. Conditions swing rapidly to the normal in Dixie!

THE "SAME OLD BILL."

The spectacular William Sulzer, who was among those pulverized in the recent New York elections, has achieved in a political sense some of the attributes of the German kaiser. "I have made Roosevelt look like thirty cents," remarks the "Same Old Bill," commenting upon the results of the election in his state.

Not so, Bill. It is perfectly true that you may have been a contributing factor to the downfall of the contributing editor, but just how large a factor will ever be a matter for dispute. Our private guess is that Roosevelt was beaten in New York, not by Sulzer or his friends, but by Roosevelt himself.

If the Colonel had gone down to defeat in the Empire State but emerged triumphant elsewhere, there might be some ground for the gloating of the Great Impeached. But the Colonel was routed all along the line. The only creditable showing the bull moose made was in California, and that was to be attributed, we think, rather more to the personality of the redoubtable and spouting Hiram Johnson than to the magic of the bull moose creed.

The year 1914 was and still is a bad year for vagaries and nostrums, political and otherwise. The immensity of the European war has stunned folk into a new and a true perspective. They do not want quack panaceas. They want the real thing. They are seeing, too, that the democratic party is perfectly able to put into effect whatever of the bull moose offerings are worthy of enactment. The rest go into the political scrap heap, or must wait a new period of readjustment.

The boasting, therefore, of the iridescent Sulzer is somewhat ill-timed. As an experiment in personal popularity, and public confidence, we should like to see Bill and the Colonel strip politically, and run for the same office before the people. Our intuition is far wrong if victory did not light at Oyster Bay.

THE NEWS FROM POLAND.

Through the veil of reticence drawn by Petrograd, Berlin, London and Paris news of what seems to be a decisive victory for the Russians in Poland has drifted through. Just how decisive it is impossible now to say. Already all the principals in the great war have learned the lesson of caution, and discovered that it is well to verify reports before exulting prematurely.

It would be overgenerous to predict that even a crushing defeat for either of the two contenders in the eastern or western theaters of war would bring hostilities to a conclusion. If there is any one thing that has thus far been developed with certainty by the allies as well as the Germans, it is the realization that the war cannot stop short of complete triumph for one side or the other.

A peace founded on a half victory, or on motives of political expediency, would leave unsettled the great issue of the conflict, and that is whether militarism is or is not to rule in Europe. Thus far there has been no indi-

Handicaps Georgia Pottery Must Overcome Before It Is a Great Industry

By S. W. McCallie, State Geologist.

There are a number of conditions which work against the use of the Georgia kaolins in the manufacture of pottery. In the first place, a large percentage of American pottery superintendents are Englishmen who learned their trade in English potteries where English clays are almost universally used. These ceramic artisans, being the descendants of a long line of clay workers, are not always progressive, but are more or less prone to follow in the footsteps of their fathers. As a result of this inborn training, they are not much given to experimenting with our domestic clays, and, as a consequence, they almost invariably become prejudiced against them. If they are employed the use of the English clay with which they are familiar.

Another condition which has militated against the use of Georgia kaolins in the pottery industry are the prime importance of the condition in which the clays have been put on the market. Here, as in many new industries, the business has suffered from the lack of trained men familiar with the modern methods of mining and washing kaolin. In some cases, the clays have been put upon the market in a crude condition, unwashed; and in others the length of the washing troughs have often been too short or the mesh of the screens used have been too large, not always progressive, but are more or less prone to follow in the footsteps of their fathers. As a result of this inborn training, they are not much given to experimenting with our domestic clays, and, as a consequence, they almost invariably become prejudiced against them. If they are employed the use of the English clay with which they are familiar.

These militant conditions acting against the use of the Georgia kaolins in the pottery industry are being met, in a measure, remedied by all of our large producers. They have not only at much expense erected and put in operation modern clay refining plants, but also employ as managers, trained men familiar with the modern methods of mining and refining. The plants which have adapted these up-to-date methods are constantly extending their market and increasing their output with a corresponding increase in the profits from their sales.

Freight Rates.

A third condition which works against the Georgia clay industry is the unequalization of freight rates between domestic and foreign clays. That is to say, the freight rates by rail in this country are very much lower than those in foreign countries. A concrete example of the injustice in freight rates is as follows: The freight rate on a ton of English clay in car-load lots from New Orleans to Chicago is $2; whereas, the freight rate on a ton of clay from Chicago, although a shorter haul by more than 300 miles, is $4.20. There would be some justification in this discrepancy in freight rates, provided the Georgia clays brought a higher market price than the English clay, but the opposite condition prevails. It is true there is a protective duty of $1.25 per ton on all china clays imported into this country; nevertheless, as long as foreign clay producers are permitted to sell their wares at a lower price than such a great freight rate reduction, the domestic clay producer is not only not protected by the federal government, but at the same time it, through the interstate commerce commission, permits the common carrier to set a price for the domestic product in the form of increased freight rates which far overbalances the protective tariff.

In addition to the above causes affecting the use of Georgia kaolins in the pottery industry, there is another, namely, the prevalent habit of buying foreign made wares in preference to our domestic products. "Made in England," "made in Germany" or "made in France" stamped on wares seems to lend a peculiar enchantment which often overcomes the patriotism and causes us to purchase foreign wares in preference to the home-made goods. This, at first glance, would seem to have but little effect upon our domestic clay industry; yet, if this thing is taken into consideration, it is not only a direct affect, not only the sale of our domestic wares, but also stimulate greatly our clay industry. Along this line our department stores and merchants can lend a helping hand by buying and selling stock of domestic wares made of domestic clay. I am advised by some of our leading clay producers if such a plan was adopted by the larger dealers in crockery in our chief towns and cities throughout the state it would materially increase the demand for Georgia clays, namely, the demand for that our next annual Georgia Pottery dinner be served throughout the state in dishes made by pottories who use Georgia clays.

In this connection, I wish to add a word in regard to the market for the pottery industry in Georgia. As to the feasibility of establishing factories of this class, the following points are to be considered: (1) Suitability and availability of raw materials; (2) skilled labor; (3) cheap and suitable fuel; (4) market and transportation facilities.

The quality of the clays for white wares is conclusively proven by the large number of samples of china made from these clays for export to the United States and Europe at the state capitol. The abundance of these clays and the inexpensive cost of mining cannot be questioned. The recent investigations of the state geological survey seem to indicate that Georgia has a large quantity of feldspar and quartz suitable for the pottery industry.

Skilled Labor.

The lack of skilled labor is a temporary disadvantage in building up a pottery business, but, if the clay refining business, which can readily be given by the importation of trained potters. Owing to the disorganized condition of foreign labor, due to the effect of the European war, this seems to be quite an opportune time to secure foreign labor in the pottery industry.

Fuel, in the form of coal, might be obtained from the Georgia, Alabama or the Tennessee mines. The cost of coal may possibly be greater than in Ohio, where gas is largely used as a fuel, but suitable coal can be had at very low rates.

Transportation would be excellent at Macon, Augusta, Columbus and Atlanta, where the raw material is accessible. Taking all these conditions into consideration, it is the opinion of the Georgia Pottery special inducements to parties wishing to go into the pottery industry. Such factories located in Georgia would have material advantages in supplying our southern market with the best of the pottery industry. The bidders for the western as well as for the eastern trade.

THE HALFBACK.
BY GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "AT GOOD OLD SWISS."

A halfback is a college student who is suffering from speckled ankles, water on the knee, a chipped hip, tangled ribs, a loose ear, and a condition in German.

These diseases are not contagious, and yet a halfback catches them. No one runs after trouble so simply as a halfback, or over takes it more easily.

The halfback plays behind the line on his own football team and under the line of the other team. His duties are numerous in the extreme, he has to grab a foolishly-shaped football from the quarterback and carry it over and under and through eleven men who are determined to upset him and sit on his neck.

If the opposition, a halfback could carry this ball a mile at a time. As it is, he is proud and happy when he carries it five yards before his features are imbedded in the frozen ground. There are many occupations which require more unadulterated with thoughtful ness, but none which require more nerve and less discretion than that of trying to tunnel through 300-pound guards and a center, all with destructive dispositions.

When the halfback is not being used as a park bench by the other team he is serving as a narrow. Nothing amuses a football player more than to grasp a flying halfback by the ankles and thus cause him to tear up several yards of field with his regular Greedian features. It takes a very durable set of features to last an industrious halfback through a football season.

When a halfback is not doing these things which require some large amount of tangle his foot in his ribs, thus oppressing him up and diverting his attention from a personal friend who is carrying the ball. It is also his duty when the other side is attacking to stand before a thundering giant and twine himself around his legs. Catching automobiles by the hind wheel is good practice for this sort of work.

It will thus be seen that the halfback leads a busy life. He often goes to the backshop for repairs, but his rule he finishes school with his class and all of his limbs, and thereafter he displays a confidence in tackling trouble and a thorough-going opposition, which makes him known as a man who doesn't mind hard knocks. We need more halfbacks in politics—reform in these days being as vigorous and jarring an occupation as football.

THE GIRL WITH THE "MY FRIENDS TELL ME" HABIT.

This is the girl who has never done a stroke of work in her life. "My friends tell me to study painting," she informs us as she shows us a wash tray or a picture frame which she has amused herself by decorating. And instantly we know what class to put her in—in that class of folk who go right through life content to get no where. Did you ever know of a real worker who went into something because "his friends told him" he ought to? A real worker would be ashamed to admit that he hadn't ambition enough to persuade himself to take the plunge and work for his bread and to be propped up on all sides by imploring friends who possessed the ambition which he himself lacked. What a ridiculous picture! Yet the girl with the "my friends tell me" habit thinks she is impressing us—thinks she is convincing us that she possesses unusual latent powers, and that she might be a celebrity if she chose.

She's a child parading in grown-up clothes.

A NEW CHRISTMAS TREE HOLDER.
(From the Popular Mechanics Magazine.)
A Christmas tree holder which keeps the tree green and prevents the leaves from falling off is described. It consists of a japanned pan which has a cone-shaped fitting in the middle of it into which the tree is set. Three metal braces, which may be folded down when not in use, extend from the rim of the pan and are screwed to the trunk of the tree. The tree is in place, water is poured into the container, preventing the tree from drying out, and to a degree making it less inflammable.

PASSING ON THE CALAMITY HOWLER.
(From The Mertzton Star.)
The calamity howlers will soon be out of a job. With the mills and factories that have long been idle resuming work, with diminished orders for most of all kinds being placed with the packing houses, with the country being ransacked for good horses and with immense orders being placed for goods of all kinds, it will soon be a hard matter to find anything in our financial condition about which to have a grouch.

The Holland Letter

One statement which was made incidentally by Charles M. Schwab in his recent brief comments upon the business situation was, probably, more quickly caught and steadily held the eyes of managers of large corporations than anything else contained in this communication. This was his reply to the question, "How are you going to finance your contemplated improvements and the extensions of your plants?" Mr. Schwab's reply was made in an offhand manner. He said that these charges were to be paid for out of earnings.

When Mr. Schwab was for some days upon the witness stand in the hearing before the referee who was appointed to take testimony in the proceedings brought by the department of justice at Washington for the dissolution of the United States Steel corporation, he seemed at times to be somewhat lacking, certainly in physical, if not in mental vigor. Some of those who are associated with him in business were frank to tell Mr. Schwab and his friends that his burdens and heavy responsibilities, and had not in any way favored himself, with the result that he did at times seem to be a little fagged. Whatever Mr. Schwab's physical condition may have been at the time, he seemed to be in excellent health, in splendid spirits and animated by his conviction that the United States is about entering upon an era of domestic prosperity which although it may not reach the proportions that otherwise would be certain because of the impairment of property, wealth and commerce occasioned by the European war, nevertheless is to be substantial and satisfactory.

Germ of His Conviction.

The fact that Mr. Schwab was able to say that whatever improvement and expansions may be necessary for the corporation of which he is the chief executive officer, but that it contains the germ of his conviction that business in the United States in a short time is to be of magnitude and of the kind to make profitable returns possible.

There are some large corporations which have since the time of the promotion of the so-called "big business" been careful to keep on hand a considerable portion of earnings upon which some income may be earned. That has been the policy of the United States Steel Corporation. It has utilized earnings and surplus in such manner as steadily to gain an income. So also the Standard Oil company has been for years a large lender of funds, thereby increasing the profits of its consignees. The National Biscuit company has maintained for years large deposits in various banks upon which reasonable returns in the form of interest are secured. The United States Steel corporation was able to pay out of earnings, and aside from the bonded debt which represented its organization it has been free from debt. The Guggenheims make every dollar of earnings gain something in the way of interest.

Apparently Mr. Schwab either counts on earnings now in hand or upon prospective earnings for meeting the heavy expenses which the enlargement of his business will entail or else upon very profitable returns upon the investments which he would make in interests in the United States may with confidence expect increases, and there can be no great increase in manufacturing industry without being sooner or later reflected in all departments of domestic business.

What Will Make Prosperity.

Aside from Mr. Schwab's intimation that he will not be compelled to finance with outside aid such increases as his manufacturing business may require, the most important feature of his communication seems to be, in the opinion of those qualified to judge, his reason for predicting with confidence a great revival of American domestic business in all departments. He recognizes the fact that the United States is a favorable kind upon our financial situation which was created by the sudden and enormous demand made by the belligerent and neutral nations for commodities produced in the United States. He changes in our international trade in our favor. Mr. Schwab admits, was of immediate and controlling influence in securing a return to normal financial conditions so far as the foreign export market is concerned. But after all this is a one-sided or partial view to take of the new situation as it had been suddenly developed and with equal suddenness has opened up opportunities in the United States. In Mr. Schwab's opinion, he is the parent of the American business revival. Increased foreign trade on immediate account of the war as of no more than incidental although of great importance. He appears to look upon this trade as emergency business, and he is not sure that a condition whose continuance no one with confidence can predict.

The World's Markets.

But there is another condition which, in Mr. Schwab's view, is regarded as of great importance, and since this communication has been made public it has frequently been spoken of in many of the valuable considerations publicly made by many leading American business men. The European war will, in his opinion, inevitably cause a prostration of industry almost complete in Belgium, very great in France, of magnitude in Great Britain and in the countries of central and eastern Germany. This prostration in industry, together with the time needed to recover from the demoralization of war, will leave many markets throughout the world which will be open to American goods. England, Germany, and to some extent France, will almost under compulsion seek the American markets for these commodities. That means the establishment of a trade which, having once been gained, should be maintained in the future. A large part of the export trade which is represented by commodities purchased here for the purpose of carrying on the European war. It is upon the expansion of our trade intercourse with neutral nations that Schwab relies for the business maintained for years of American business activity in all departments. Mr. Schwab is not a man who changes his mind without reason, or what he believes to be good reason. A year ago, and even in the early part of the year, he has thought were excellent reasons for believing that American business life would be more or less stagnant for several years. The sudden and world-reaching shift in the center of financial and commercial gravity which was caused by the outbreak of the European war, coupled with what he believed to be a change in the attitude of the American people toward business life, now justifies him in altering his view, so that instead of being somewhat pessimistic he now sees himself to be an enthusiastic optimist.

Condemned Man Asserts That His Sympathy Is With the Twelve Men Who Composed the Jury.

Leo M. Frank, following his second reverse at the hands of a justice of the supreme court of the United States, has issued a card to the public in which he calls attention to several phases of his trial, conviction and subsequent appeals to the supreme court of the state.

He stresses the fact that the supreme court has never reviewed the question of his guilt or innocence, that the evidence on which he was convicted was considered solely by the jury which convicted him.

Of the jury he declares they were on trial for their lives as much as he—that their very lives hung in the balance, so dangerous was the crowd which surrounded the jail.

The card follows:

To the Public: Again I have met with another reverse. I am not a lawyer, and am not conversant with the legal matters, and so I cannot comment on this latest legal phase of my case. What appears to me to be the issue, the issue arising far above matters of practice and legal wrangling, is this: I am innocent of the crime of which I am charged, and I have never been convicted of any crime. I have never been convicted of any crime, and I have never been convicted of any crime. I have never been convicted of any crime, and I have never been convicted of any crime.

I declare, without fear of contradiction, that it was not shown that the negro perjurer, Jim Conley, who has been arrested several times for disorderly conduct, had neither the motive to commit the crime, or the opportunity to commit it. Conley lied and lied again, under oath, innumerable times, and he was discovered at the trial on the stand. A recent publication, speaking of my case states: "Conley has never discovered a direct means of determining when a liar under oath, not a liar under oath, like B. that as far as Conley is concerned, this is the meat of the proposition."

Conley Was Drunk.

On that tragic April 26, 1913, I was occupied with my usual duties, attending to my business and doing my work. I had a right to be there and I was surrounded by my immediate office force. Conley, filled with drink and with a flask of whisky in his pocket, admits that he was hiding in a dark place away from the vision of the passer-by, and in close proximity to the stairway leading from the second floor to the first floor, and was accessible to all who wished to see me. Conley was lurking in a dark place and sleeping off the effects of a drink. My statements have stood the acid test of truth and the test of time. Conley's conduct has been the subject of another innumerable times. Who would you expect to commit a crime under these circumstances? In which of these two, mine or Conley's, would you look for devils to be begotten? Why do the two wretched wretches, and counter alone in a big building? That which is humanly possible happens only in a reasonable natural way.

Conley's Opportunity.

Do you believe that Conley could not have committed this crime? Do you believe that he did not have every better opportunity than anyone else? If it is possible that the drink-filled, vicious Conley could have committed this crime, isn't it most probable and plausible that he did do it? He certainly had every opportunity, and I am sure that he would have done it if he had had time without number—and under such a that, the man like Conley, who has no respect for his oath or God, certainly has no respect for any living creature—human or animal.

I have no knowledge of this transaction. I have made my statement and will stand as a witness for the truth, for I am innocent. I cannot believe that this community can be hoodwinked by a perjurer who has been convicted of perjury himself. How can you take his word? Isn't it apparent that he is a liar and a perjurer? His testimony on the stand, his vicious and shady character, his self-incriminating expressions, his own damn him and prove my innocence!

LEO M. FRANK.

Hopkins Elected President Of North Carolina Society

Lindsey Hopkins, one of the most popular and successful business men of the city, was yesterday afternoon elected president of the North Carolina society, at its annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building.

By amendment to the resolutions governing the society it was decided to have three vice presidents in the future instead of only one as in the past. The vice presidents were elected as follows:

George L. Morton, W. J. Lowenstein and John Y. Smith.

Dr. E. G. Ballinger was re-elected treasurer, and T. B. Higdon was re-elected secretary.

LINDSEY HOPKINS

The meeting was well attended by North Carolinians who are prominent in the life of Atlanta. The organization now numbers a membership of about 250. A campaign will be started at once to enlarge the membership to include all North Carolinians in the city. The principle of membership is without fees, and far more desirous of affiliating with the body may do so by communicating with Lindsey Hopkins.

It was decided at Friday's meeting to hold the annual banquet in the near future at a date which will be fixed by the executive committee of the society, as soon as this date has been fixed. Walter P. Andrews will head a committee which will go to Raleigh, N. C., to extend a personal invitation to Attorney General Thomas W. Bickett to be the guest of honor and to make an address at the banquet.

At the close of the meeting, President Hopkins appointed the executive committee as follows: Walter P. Andrews, Shepard Bryan, Walter P. Andrews, P. C. McBurnie, Jack Lewis and Frank Hawkins.

The retiring officers of the organization are: Dr. W. R. Hendrix, president, and Lindsey Hopkins, vice president.

DYING POLICE OFFICER IDENTIFIES ASSAILANT

Louis Jones Held for Shooting County Policeman Peek at Negro Barbecue.

Louis Jones, negro, (giving his address as 45 Cunningham street, is under arrest at police barracks as a suspect in the shooting of County Policeman L. F. Peek, Thanksgiving day, at a negro barbecue, when the officer attempted to learn what negro in the crowd had fired off a pistol.

Peek is at the point of death at the Grady hospital, having regained consciousness only one time, when Jones was brought before him.

Jones called the Grady hospital about daybreak Friday morning, and asked them to send the ambulance to McDaniel and Glenn streets, telling them that he had been shot. He was carried to the hospital, having a bullet in his leg.

County Policemen Carroll and Whitfield were called to the hospital to investigate the negro, as Peek had said Thursday that he was sure he had also shot the negro who wounded him.

During the morning Peek regained consciousness, and identified Jones, although Jones declares that he went to a negro dance Thursday.

Matt Lamer, another negro, later told the police that he had carried Jones to the barbecue in his buggy.

CRAWFORD COUNTY ELECTION RETURNS RECEIVED FRIDAY

The long-delayed election returns from Crawford county have been received by Secretary of State Phil Cook, but do not in any wise alter the results of the state election. The only close vote was that upon the constitutional amendment extending the term of county officers to four years, upon which the ballot without the Crawford returns stood 1,073 Crawford cast 20 ballots for and 31 ballots against the amendment, so that the final vote on this amendment carries it by 1,050 votes. The ordinary of Crawford county informed the secretary of state that he was under the impression that he had sent in the returns, but that he had later found them filed away with other papers.

LITTLE COTTON IN SEED SAYS J. H. JOHNSON

He Strongly Denies the Statement of a Local Cotton Factor.

J. H. Johnson, of the J. H. Johnson company, general merchants and cotton buyers, of Woodstock, Ga., has written a letter to the editor of the Atlanta Constitution in which he emphatically denies the statement of a local cotton factor that "much of the season's large crop is still in the seed, and a lower percentage of cotton has been ginned at this time of the year than for some years previous."

He says: "I do not agree with this statement. Owing to the fine weather we have had all this fall, the cotton crop of 1914 is being picked out and ginned at a rapid pace. The government figures show more cotton ginned to November 13 than ever before, which we can account for by the favorable weather. There is practically no cotton in the seed."

"MOVIES" ARE OPENED TO CORN CLUB BOYS

An interesting development in the entertainment of the Corn Show boys next week is the extension of the courtesies of several moving picture theaters free of charge by their managements.

Those gentlemen offering their shows to the boys, during the week in Atlanta, are: Arthur S. Bryan, manager of the Grand opera house; Evans Brothers, proprietors of the Vaudeville, 74 Whitehall street; R. H. DeBroy, manager of the Montgomery, 87 Peachtree street; and G. Holman, manager of the Strand, Peachtree street. The boys will be provided with buttons of identification by the chamber of commerce.

Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber, wishes to make a public expression of the thanks of the chamber for these courtesies.

Until Friday morning homes for 529 boys had been offered by the citizens of the city and suburbs. Accommodations for about seventy-five more are needed.

The following is the list of those talking boys since the last publication:

Bayne Gibson, at Hotel Wincock, 2 boys; Amos Johnston, 22, 261 Jackson street; Charles E. Stevens, 21, 777 E. P. Fletcher, Jr., 411 Flat Shoals avenue; 2; Delmar Harrison, 45, Belmont street; Fred Saunders, 6 Scott street; Kirkwood, 2; Herbert Sudan, 4, DeSoto avenue; Capital View, Lawrence, 2; Edward and Hawthorne avenue, College Park, 2; Mrs. C. F. Turner, 2500 Peachtree street; J. B. Lockart, 68 Catherine street; Mrs. W. M. Cole, 45 Peachtree street; Mrs. Fred J. Cole, 45 Peachtree street; Mrs. Woods White, 22 Orchard street.

HOWELL STATION PUPILS RETURN TO SCHOOL SOON

It was announced Friday at the office of the board of education that the pupils of the Howell Station school, which burned down several weeks ago, could be moved Monday to the Longley avenue, formerly a residence. The temporary quarters of the school were also a former residence, proving only two rooms, proved entirely inadequate. It is thought that the house on Longley avenue would prove satisfactory for a while at least.

The pupils of the Glenn Street school will also make a change in quarters Monday, transferring to No. 7 Bluff street, a former residence. The change is made on account of objection to the present building.

GREAT WAR DEPOSED BY MORMON LEADER

Something Lacking in Religion These Nations Profess, Declares Joseph F. Smith.

Before an audience which filled Taft hall Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, last night expounded the doctrines of the Mormon propaganda.

It is with great concern and grief, President Smith said, that I note the conditions prevailing today in the most highly civilized countries of the continents.

Mormons Can Supply Lack. "I believe that it is because there is something seriously lacking in man's nature that he is unable to do right."

"I am firm to believe and hold to say that if there is a peaceful body or race on earth today it is because of the teachings of the Church of Mormon."

Temporal Salvation. "As we believe in spiritual salvation, we also believe in temporal salvation."

Wherever communities of Latter Day Saints exist in Utah, there local opinion exists to the effect that a man with a full stomach can worship his Creator with greater fervor than a person in an arm of our church.

President Smith has been touring the south conferring with the 120 elders in the southern states concerning the condition of the church here.

PAYMENTS SUSPENDED ON BONDS BY TURKEY

Amsterdam, November 27.—(Via London.)—A dispatch from Constantinople says that it has been officially announced that by the minister of finance that the interest on the loan of 1902 will be paid only to such bondholders as present themselves at the central office of the ministry of finance there.

The Constantinople announcement refers to a loan of 150,000,000 francs ($31,800,000) issued at 4 per cent in 1902. Interest is payable semi-annually, the next payment being due on December 14. The action of the Turkish finance minister means that interest payments probably will be suspended on the bulk of these bonds, which are held abroad, as their owners would find it impracticable or, in view of the war, almost impossible to go to Constantinople to make collections.

HOLY WAR PROCLAIMED BY SULTAN OF TURKEY

proceedings against the dancing artist, and had her three trunks attached to the Anley hotel. Two of them were empty. The third contained the aforementioned gowns of last year's vogue. The small array of linen had been overlooked by the laundryman.

Headed by the notification she mailed President Curtis from the train at Lawrenceville, other creditors, including the Anley, were informed that Mrs. Forbush would settle all claims upon reaching her destination in the east.

Although the dance of the Terpsichorean club was not enhanced by the captivating performances of the versatile Mrs. Forbush and her handsome and dashing dancing partner, Morgan Wheeler, lately of New York, the fete was a brilliant one. (See society column.)

Henceforth the Terpsichorean club, it was announced last night, will make Mrs. Forbush's dance palace on Peachtree street their official home. It is a beautiful spot on classic Peachtree for years. Mrs. Forbush left it furnished with all the costly elaborateness that typified her other dance deals in Atlanta.

Society says that the fumble with Mrs. Forbush was that she tried to put on too much speed. Coming to the city, she found that it was dance mad, but not mad enough to plunge headlong into fetes and affairs—as well as other arrangements—that would stunt the bankroll of a millionaire.

First, she inaugurated the supper et d'ansette in the Anley ballroom. The place was tastefully constructed in the form of a huge trellis garden, and was named the "trellis room." With the clever eye of an artist, Mrs. Forbush had done herself proudly in building the trellis room, and society came the first night and praised and admired as well as dancing to the accompaniment.

Society patronized her liberally, but not liberally enough to balance up the weekly expense sheets. With all its brass and learning, this new society could not keep up with the weekly expense of Mrs. Forbush. Thanksgiving day she departed for the east.

Kaiser Hopes to See Germany and France United in Friendship

Paris, November 27.—Emperor William is described in a letter, received by one of the editors of Patrie from a certain captain "M" undergoing treatment at a hospital in the German fortress of Metz, as having visited the French wounded, saying: "I give my imperial homage, gentlemen, to your valor and notwithstanding the cruel circumstances of the present, I do not despair of seeing one day Germany and France united by ties of sincere friendship."

PEACE TALK FRIVOLOUS, SAYS COLOGNE PAPER

Berlin, November 27.—(Via The Hague and London.)—The Cologne Gazette, commenting today on a newspaper dispatch dealing with the renewed peace talk, writes: "It is premature to talk about peace, and it strikes us as frivolous. No German diplomat and no German soldier thinks of concluding a illusory peace with the powers which have beaten and contemptibly hope to continue beating."

ENGLAND'S WAR LOAN IS OVERSUBSCRIBED

Lloyd-George Tells of Britain's Inability to Collect $5,000,000,000 Debt From U. S.

London, November 27.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George announced in the house of commons today that the war loan of $50,000,000 ($1,750,000,000) had been greatly oversubscribed.

The chancellor gave no figures. He said, however, that a feature of the loan was the enormous number of individuals, totaling nearly 100,000, who had made application for small sums. These, the chancellor declared, would receive the first allotments.

In the course of a statement concerning financial conditions in the country the chancellor stated that the financial deadlock which followed the outbreak of war was due to inability to collect outstanding debts abroad.

Reference to Cotton Trade. "We had not merely our own business to run," the chancellor of the exchequer continued, "but we were an essential part of the world's cotton trade, and we had to provide for other countries."

That showed, Mr. Lloyd-George said, how complicated the system was. The paper issued in London had become a part of the currency of the world.

To Preserve British Honor. By this step, the speaker said, the unimpeachable character of the British gold of exchange had been maintained.

One hundred and twenty million pounds sterling ($300,000,000) of bills, issued between 1910 and 1914, had been discounted by the Bank of England and that showed, he said, that out of a total of 200,000,000 pounds sterling, 80,000,000 sterling of bills out at the beginning of the war a greater part was discounted in the ordinary course of business.

The total amount of bills which had arrived at maturity and for which the Bank of England had made provision was $20,000,000. It was estimated that at the end of the war there would be about $20,000,000 of bills which would call "cold-storage" through their belonging to belligerent countries, or for other reasons.

There had not been a penny lost to the great accepting houses and the total loss upon the whole of these transactions had been estimated to be not equal to the cost of a single week of carrying on the war and, in addition, British gold had been maintained.

The chancellor laid emphasis upon the success of the measures taken to deal with the stock exchange. He said the government had made it a condition that the exchange would not be open without the sanction of the treasury.

He claimed the British money market was in better shape than any other money market in the world. The treasury had just floated the largest loan ever raised in the history of the world, and the success of this measure, Mr. Lloyd-George said, he took as justification of the government's action.

He pointed out that before the loan of $50,000,000 he had already raised $20,000,000 ($400,000,000) for the same purpose, so that practically he had asked for $70,000,000 ($1,400,000,000) from the market.

In spite of the absence of the machinery of the stock exchange, which was a serious danger, the entire loan had been oversubscribed. There were nearly 100,000 applications and the government felt it was its duty to give the first allotments to the small applicants, who, with the financial houses, had enabled the government to raise this sum of money without any of the expedients to which Germany had to resort to raise a smaller loan at a higher rate of interest.

BOGGS WAS KILLED ABOUT HOUR BEFORE DISCOVERY OF FIRE

Miami, Fla., November 27.—Investigation by the coroner's jury today has developed no new facts or clues which might lead to establishing the identity of the murderer of Adam A. Boggs, a well-known lawyer of this city, and his daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Boggs, who were found early Wednesday in the ashes of their country home near here. A watch which had been worn by Mr. Boggs was found in the ruins of his home today. It had stopped at 2:05. Neighbors discovered the home in flames about five minutes before three o'clock this morning. The front door lock was found in the ruins, the authorities said, and it showed that the door had not been locked when the house burned.
