LEMBERG IN DANGER FROM TEUTONIC DRIVE

Gen. Von Mackensen Wires Kaiser That Galician Capital Will Be Taken by July 1—Austro-Germans Hope to Beat Russians and Then Strike Crushing Blow at Italy.

London, June 15.—The Austro-German rush in Galicia is on again. Both Berlin and Vienna claim progress along virtually the entire southeastern front and Lemberg again appears to be in danger.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN PROGRESS

There are still many obstacles, however, in the way of victory to the Austro-German arms in this part of Galicia, for the Russians have strongly fortified positions many miles in front of Lemberg, and in addition, will have the advantage of natural defenses of the country roundabouts, including a chain of lakes and marshes.

FALL OF LEMBERG PREDICTED

London, June 16.—(1:45 a. m.)—General von Mackensen has telegraphed the German emperor that he hopes to take Lemberg before July 1, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam.

had captured the town of Mosowaka. Army headquarters today gave out the following: "Western theater. The French yesterday suffered a fresh defeat in spite of their heavy losses on June 13 they continued attempts to break through the line between Lievin and Arras, with great stubbornness. The French attack carried out with large forces in close formation, broke down everywhere with the heaviest losses under the fire of our troops. "Northwest of Moulin-Sous-Toutvent we have not yet succeeded in regaining portions of the trenches lost by us on June 8 in Champagne, north of Perrier, and Les Mesnil fighting continues, but the enemy is unable to gain the advantage. "Yesterday the open town of Karlsruhe was the theater of operations and not in any way fortified, of Cherzeton and Cserwonahora and the bridges there, as well as the bridges east of the place. The booty amounted to 865 Russian prisoners. "Attacks by the enemy against the point at which we broke through north of Bollmow failed. "Southern theater. "The enemy who was defeated on June 18 and 14 by the army of General Mackensen has been unable to regain a footing in the positions prepared by him. Northeast of Jaworow the enemy was driven back from the position at which he had stopped, the booty increasing. "The Russian forces south of the Przemysl-Lemberg railway have been forced to retreat. The troops of General von Der Marwitz yesterday took Miosiska. "The right wing of the army of General Linington stormed the heights east of Zeke. Our cavalry reached the district south of Mariampol."

the south of Arras, at the Touthent farm. All the German counter attacks were repulsed and we have maintained our gains. "To the north of Nouville we have taken the town of several German look-out posts. "The day has been marked in these two sectors by an artillery combat; our batteries have violently shelled the German trenches. "On the night of June 15 and 16 against the trenches which were captured at the point of the attack, a heavy bombardment was carried out by eight battalions. Prisoners released that the losses to the enemy were considerable. "On the rest of the front there is nothing to report. "The Germans for the bombardment by the Germans of French and English open towns the order was given to bombard this morning the capital of the Great Duchy of Luxembourg. In the morning 23 aeroplanes set out for Kaiserslautern.

Quickly Relieves Without Distress
The congestion of waste and refuse from the stomach, fermenting in the bowels, generates poisonous gases that occasion distress and invite serious illness. Health and comfort demand that this congestion be speedily relieved and the foul mass expelled.
The well-founded objection most people have to the violence of cathartic and purgative agents is overcome by using the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose at night brings relief next morning, without discomfort or inconvenience. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 452 Washington St. Monticello, Ill.

GERMAN ATTACKS ON U. S. OFFICIALS
Arrest of Stahl and Hardenberg Denounced—Charged American Officials Lied About the Lusitania.
Berlin, June 15.—(Via London)—The Vossische Zeitung comments as follows on the arrest of Heinz Hardenberg, said to be a member of the German aviation corps, in connection with the investigation into the Lusitania disaster by the federal grand jury in New York.
"It is decidedly a remarkable manner of conducting an investigation that persons who make statements varying from those of American port officials should be intimidated by arrest on suspicion of perjury."
The Tages Zeitung, speaking of the same case, remarks:
"And what of port officials who gave false testimony?"
The Tagliche Rundschau refers to the arrest of Gustav Stahl in the same case, and declares the Hardenberg incident is a "stunt" to shut the mouth of or render suspicious in advance those witnesses who testify to anything against England and against American officials who charged the Lusitania to leave port.
In any event, this interception of witnesses demands full attention.
The Kreuz Zeitung publishes in the position accorded to the leading article a communication of the sinking of the Lusitania and submarine warfare generally. It says no intention is shown to shut the mouth of the Lusitania, and insists the Lusitania was armed. "This may be considered as proof," it says, "that it is not even partially refuted by any general reference to the American official investigation."
The Coast to Coast
Count Roventlow, the naval expert, has a sarcastic article in this morning's Tages Zeitung in reference to Herr Hardenberg's arrest. He begins by quoting The Lokal Anzeiger's remarks concerning Roventlow's recommendation of a full investigation and the argument that nobody in Germany desires war with the United States. He then points out that similar in tone appeared in two other morning papers and says this seems to indicate that the Lusitania was an electrical ignition station.
"The impression which these articles must make on the German public," he says, "is not to the interests of Germany. It is to be feared that no one in Germany wants war, but that the impression is being calculated to give the impression that currents exist in Germany which make the situation more and more difficult and which plan the bringing about of war. American politicians will ask themselves, he says, what internal political reasons such rumors are set loose at the present time in Germany and concluding they will be drawn which in the interest of Germany had better not be drawn."

VOTERS NAME COUNTIES UNDER PROPOSED BILL
State Senator Carlton to Introduce Measure Based on South Carolina Law.
J. A. Carlton, of Moultrie, senator from the seventh district, who is registered at the Piedmont hotel, sees a modicum of hope for relief from the annual new county siege upon the general assembly in a bill which he will introduce in the senate of the coming session, by which, if passed, new counties may be automatically formed.
Judge R. L. Shipp, also of Moultrie, representative from Colquitt county, states Senator Carlton will very probably introduce a similar bill in the house.
The bill is to be based upon the idea contained in the South Carolina law, which permits the creation of a specified territory to constitute their territory into a new county automatically when they can qualify in population, wealth, distance from county sites and certain other particulars. The county is then formed upon permission from the governor and a two-thirds majority of the voters living in the territory. Affairs of his sector. He is a director of the new Moultrie packing plant, which, he says, is holding out a hand toward the encouragement of hog raising in that section.
Senator Steed, also registered at the Piedmont hotel, is returning from the meeting at Athens, at which he was trustee of the University of Georgia, of which he is member.
Senator Steed states that the peach crop of his section is the largest and best in quality of several years, and is bringing better prices.

Many Retail Grocers Begin Today Closing 1 O'Clock Wednesdays
President O. T. Camp, of the Atlanta Retail Grocers' association, announced Tuesday that the stores of many members of the organization would begin this afternoon closing at half holiday, at 1 o'clock on all Wednesday afternoons until September 1. He stated that about two-thirds of the retailers had agreed to the plan of closing to allow their hundreds of clerks a half holiday.
"The householders would do the clerks and the merchants a great service by doing their trading in the forenoon, and it would not inconvenience them in the least," said Camp. "Let them consider how hard the clerks work for them throughout the week and they will understand why they want the half holiday."
Mr. Camp said he was going to the baseball game this afternoon, and hoped to see other members of the association on hand with their clerks.

WAR COSTS BRITAIN $15,000,000 DAILY
Another Credit of $1,250,000,000 Voted by Commons—Premier Asquith Talks of the Reconstructed Ministry.
London, June 15.—The house of commons this afternoon voted another credit of £250,000,000 ($1,250,000,000), making with previous sums a total of £825,000,000 ($4,125,000,000) already allowed for war purposes.
Premier Asquith said in introducing the credit measure that from April 1 to June 12 the expenditure has been at the rate of £2,660,000 ($13,300,000) daily. He estimated that the daily expenditure during the currency of the new credit would be not less than £3,000,000 ($15,000,000) for the reason that the war extended its arms, and Great Britain's financial obligations to the allies would increase.
Asquith on Situation.
In a general survey of the situation the premier referred to the reconstruction of the government. He declared he would not have been justified in taking the course he did under the pressure of outside influence, or because of temporary embarrassment. The task was as unwelcome as could fall to the lot of any man.
Asquith said he was glad to see his late colleagues, Mr. Asquith claimed for himself and his new colleagues the credit of having done their duty in the political parties. He admitted the word coalition had not a pleasant sound to the ears of the British system of party government had been found wanting in dignity and success.
"The situation was without parallel in history," the premier said. "The demands which would remove the energies of the nation and upon the patience and foresight of the government and the confidence of the one in the other could not be measured by any precedent. But our national policy remains unchanged to pursue this war at any cost to a victorious issue."
United to Push War.
Mr. Asquith said he had decided, without doubt, that what was necessary was such a broadening of the party character. He continued:
"The whole world—our allies, our enemies and neutrals—that after nearly a year of war, with its fluctuations and vicissitudes, the British people are more resolved than ever with whole heart and one purpose, obliterated all distinction of party, to unite every personal and political as well as every moral and material, force in the prosecution of our case."
Americans Loan Suggested.
In the debate on the credit, Reginald McKenna made his maiden speech as chancellor of the exchequer. He urged the necessity of economy in the use of money.
Sir Frederick Bantury said he had heard the chancellor proposed to rehabilitate the American exchange by issuing a loan in the United States, a step of which he approved.
Godfrey Collins suggested a central body to govern the money market in this country, which then could be exchanged for government script and securities worth New York to pay of supplies received from the United States.

ROTARY CLUB WILL BOOST PLAZA PLAN
A move was put on foot by the Rotary club yesterday at the regular meeting in the Piedmont hotel, to prevail upon the legislature to pass a bill authorizing the city of Atlanta to issue a committee will be appointed, and activities begun as early as the legislature convenes in the fall. The annual meeting was well attended. It was the last of which Bert Adams, the president, will preside. The annual election of officers will be held at the next regular meeting.

SILENCE IS KEPT ON DARDANELLES
Premier Asquith Says No Questions Can Be Answered, But States the Straits Will Be Forced.
London, June 15.—There have been so many rumors recently that the allies had forced the Dardanelles that Sir James H. Dalziel asked Premier Asquith today in the house of commons if there was any truth in the reports. "None whatever," was the reply. The premier said it was not in the public interest to say anything now about the Dardanelles.
"The operations are of the highest importance," he added, "and they will be pushed to a successful conclusion."
London, June 15.—The following official announcement concerning the Dardanelles operations was given out here today:
"The situation on the Gallipoli peninsula has developed into trench warfare. After our success on the fourth instant the Turks have evinced a great respect for our offensive, and by day and night they have to submit to captures in trenches.
"On the night of the 11th-12th of June the operations of a British regular brigade made a simultaneous attack on the advanced Turkish trenches and after several days fighting which included the killing of many sappers, succeeded in maintaining themselves in spite of bombs, in the captured position."
"On the morning of the 13th, a counter attack was made by the Turks, who rushed forward with bombs, but coming under the fire of the naval machine gun squadrons were annihilated. Of the fifty attacking Turkish dead bodies were counted in front of our trenches.
"The situation is favorable to our forces, but is necessarily slow on account of the difficulties of the ground. The Turkish offensive has sensibly weakened."

OPERATORS'S SMILE AS THEY READ IT
From One End of United States to Other—Joke That Really Is No Joke.
The following joke, which is by no means all a joke, appeared in a recent issue of the Telegraph and Telephone Age, published in New York City. "An operator in Nashville, Tenn., instead of spending his good money in purchasing a transmitting device, bought a bottle of what is known as Vitalitas, and according to a newspaper report after he took a dose of it he found that the operators on his wire break in to inquire what he has done to increase his speed."
The operator in question is Mr. Elam Converse, of 1513 Shelby Avenue, Nashville, with the Postal Telegraph Company of that city. The article which inspired the quip in the Telegraph and Telephone Age was the following interview with Mr. Converse, which was published in several papers.
"All the operators want to know what I have done to increase my speed on the instrument, I sure make them bustle now Vitalitas, is my answer. I am in my third bottle and it has done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I make this statement for my friends whom I want to help."
Vitalitas is attracting world-wide attention. It is Nature's greatest tonic and corrective and is bringing new health to people in all walks of life who suffer with indigestion, nervous debility, rheumatism and other ailments. See the display and sample Vitalitas at Jacobs' Pharmacy, or write there for information.—(adv.)

Carthers president, has just reinsured its entire outstanding liabilities with the North British and Mercantile Insurance company, of London and Edinburgh. Policyholders have been made absolutely safe, the underwriting company having $10,000,000 of assets in this country alone.

There is in the British Museum a Babylonian clay tablet dating back to B. C. 2300-2150, and is therefore approximately contemporaneous with Abraham, who, at that time, was residing in Chaldea.

The tablet in question states: "Ikbi-Istar bought a lot adjoining the 'beer house' (Bit Sikari) owned by two brothers Sin-abu-su and Nur-ili-su."

This Bit Sakari "beer house" is perhaps the first recorded mention of the modern cafe other than places where wine only was sold.

ENLARGING OF SEWERS PLANNED BY COMMITTEE

The two recent heavy and almost unprecedented rainstorms caused the sewer committee of council to have a very interesting, if not embarrassing, session yesterday afternoon. Citizens from different sections of the city were on hand to tell of overflows that came near causing serious damage. There came out the old story of how Atlanta's sewer system, in taking care of both sewer and storm water, was insufficient to hold any unusual rainfall. The most serious complaint came from residents on Lake avenue, in Inman Park. Several ladies were present, who stated that their homes had been threatened with ruin. The committee had but one answer to all the complaints, and that was, "We have no money to build larger sewers and a bond issue is the only remedy." The committee decided to recommend building a larger sewer on Alabama street between Whitehall and Broad streets. The old sewer, built many years ago, is now so small it is contemplated to build the new sewer before Alabama street is re-paved. A sewer is to be built on Elm street between Jones avenue and Simpson street. The Plum street sewer is to be enlarged.

ANDREWS WANTS FLAG UNFURLED AT EACH SCHOOL

As an incentive to patriotism, Colonel Walter P. Andrews, Fulton representative of the general assembly, will introduce in the next house a bill requiring that the United States flag be flown during the school term from the building or grounds of every school in Georgia, which in any way uses state funds. His idea of instilling into the children of Georgia a strong spirit of patriotism was expressed by him in his address Monday night at the Elks Flag memorial exercises at Macon, when Colonel Andrews declared that children from their earliest school training should be educated to respect and revere the Stars and Stripes and should have taught to them the true and broadest interpretation of the real meaning of patriotism.

BOARD IS OFFERED BUILDING TO MERGE HIGH SCHOOL WORK

A proposition has been made to the school board committee, that has under consideration a plan to merge the girls' and boys' high schools, by T. J. Day for the construction of a building in the center of the city which will take care of 500 or more pupils next September. Mr. Day has submitted his plan to the mayor, who has communicated it to the committee. The proposition is to erect a building on South Pryor street on the site of the old Beckwith home and lease it to the city for a long term of years. If the plan is accepted the building can be used for the English Commercial High school and the business department of the Boys' High school. It would be the first step towards co-education which is being urged by many city officials. The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the board of education.

NO GUNS CARRIED BY THE LUSITANIA

Declaration Made at Opening of British Inquiry Into Sinking of Liner—Not Fitted Out as Transport.

London, June 15.—The Lusitania was not armed and she never was fitted out as a transport, said Sir Edward Carson, attorney general in the war cabinet, in addressing the court of inquiry this morning at the opening of the board of trade inquiry into the loss of the Cunard liner which was sunk off the Irish coast May 7 by a German submarine with a loss of over 1,100 lives.

Barrister Marsey president of the court is assisted by Admiral Sir Frederick Boscawen and Lieutenant Commander Hearns at the defense and by Captain Davies and Captain Speeding of the Mercantile Marine Attorney General Carson and Frederick E. Smith represented the board of trade while the Cunard company and the passengers of the Lusitania, including the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, all were represented by counsel.

A large number of spectators crowded the court.

Final Inquiry Invited.

Sir Edward Carson, who opened for the board of trade, said he courted the fullest inquiry. He was able to give complete denial to Germany's contention that the Lusitania was armed and was serving as an auxiliary to the British naval forces.

In their note to Germany the speaker said the United States already have officially denied this and the evidence he proposed will confirm and fully prove the remarks of the American government that the Lusitania was not armed and that she never had been fitted out as a transport.

Without warning a German submarine torpedoed the Lusitania and it is believed a third projectile also was fired. Such an act was not only contrary to international law but it is contrary to the dictates of civilization and humanity. To think passengers in this manner was a deliberate attempt at murder.

Question of Speed.

Sir Edward remarked that the question of speed would be important. The Lusitania was going 18 knots using only 13 out of her 25 boilers in consequence of the decreased traffic thus saving a quarter of her total consumption and a proportionate amount in labor.

Certain specific information was sent by the British admiralty by wireless to the Lusitania, but these instructions are not to be taken into consideration as part of the evidence to be taken in private.

As a rule the first question to be decided in an investigation of this kind is how the accident occurred. In this case it is known that there was no accident arising from any of the premises of the ship. The real question is whether the instructions and information conveyed by the admiralty, and whether or not everything was done that could be done after the ship was torpedoed.

Captain Turner Examined.

Captain Turner, of the Lusitania, examined by the attorney general, said the ship was not armed either for offense or defense and carried no military stores. He said the ship was fitted out as a passenger liner and the number of her boilers in operation.

The captain estimated that ten seconds after the Lusitania was struck it was impossible to stand on deck. He said the three officers on the bridge and the list of the ship her headway, which carried her two or three miles after being struck, and the shortness of time.

The captain testified he had given orders to look out for submarines and to proceed at full speed if any were sighted. He said the boats had been swung out the morning of the day preceding the torpedoing. Two lookouts were placed in the crew's nest, two at the bows and two officers on the list.

When asked whether the passengers were giving help as far as they were able, he said they were.

Interfering, I should say. He added however, that the passengers showed a desire to assist in every way possible.

Speaking of the public hearing, the captain said they were not an efficient as the old fashioned seafarers who were in the work of rescue. He said he did not see Mr. Vanderbilt.

When the public hearing was suspended while the court took evidence in camera regarding the instructions of the admiralty.

APPEAL TO WILSON BY SECURITY LEAGUE

President Urged to Call Attention of Congress to the Pressing Need for Action With Regard to National Defense.

New York, June 15.—A resolution introduced by Mayor Currier of Boston, to urge President Wilson to call the attention of congress to the pressing need of prompt and efficient action with regard to the national defense was unanimously adopted today by the delegates to the Peace and Preparedness conference of the National Security League. The Massachusetts delegates at first proposed that a special session be demanded to consider what they termed the unpatriotic state of the country, but such a motion was deemed inadvisable and was abandoned.

Defensive Forces Inadequate.

The preamble to the resolution read in part as follows:

Events of the past year have demonstrated the fact that we are not how greatly it may be deplored may suddenly and unexpectedly occur, thus rendering the existence of treaties of peace and unity and they have shown that nations unprepared to pay the price of their own safety. The reports of our military and naval experts have made it clear that the defensive forces of this country are inadequate to afford proper protection of our coasts, to enable our government to maintain its authority in the face of international law, and to exert in the adjustment of international questions the influence which the republic is entitled to.

The resolution itself urged that the president be urged to call the early attention of congress to the pressing need of prompt and efficient action.

The resolution was adopted at a luncheon which more than a thousand persons attended. The speaker was Mayor Currier. Other speakers were Von L. Meyer, former secretary of the navy; Luke P. Wright, former secretary of the navy; and Frederick R. Coudert.

WARRANTS FOR ARREST OF ALABAMA OFFICIAL

The alleged shortage occurred in the fertilizer tax fund of the department. Cheney has not finished his inspection of the books. # MIDDIES NOT COERCED, SAYS ADMIRAL FULLAM

Annapolis Chief Explains Advice to Witnesses in "Gouging" Scandal.

Annapolis, Md., June 15.—Read Admiral William F. Fullam, superintendent of the Naval academy, today explained before the court of inquiry investigating the examinations scandal that the advice which he had given prospective midshipmen witnesses while he was in the witness chair.

Admiral Fullam said: "I consider myself in some sense a defendant in view of what the press of the country has had to say in criticism of the system at the academy."

When Midshipman A. C. Rogers joined the seven original defendants, Admiral Fullam, after testimony had been given that a paper in Rogers' handwriting had been found on which answers appeared to questions in the last Spanish examination, he asked the counsel of the other defendants Admiral Fullam said he sent for Rogers because he felt that he was wronging himself and jeopardizing his interests by placing himself in the same category with the seven midshipmen recommended for dismissal.

Didn't Try to Influence Testimony.

In no case did I try to influence the midshipmen's testimony on their actions in this court, said the superintendent. After others had been drawn into the proceedings the superintendent said, counsel came to him and asked that the seven under arrest should be given the same status. He told counsel he considered the status in the same category with the seven midshipmen recommended for confinement aboard the prison ship.

Asked by Congressman Carlisle of counsel for the midshipmen about his interview with secretary of the Navy Daniels in Washington last Saturday, Admiral Fullam said he reviewed the whole matter with the secretary who expressed a desire for a full and free investigation of the whole thing by a court in order that there should be no complaint that there had not been a thorough inquiry.

Believes the Middles Guilty.

Admiral Fullam said he considered it for the best interests of the academy and of the navy that he should reiterate to the secretary his previous views as to the guilt of the seven midshipmen. Unless the court discovers evidence of which I cannot conceive and which I never heard the admiral said, I think it hardly possible to establish the innocence of these men.

Admiral Fullam said that he would resign and go to sea in a collier? asked Congressman Carlisle.

Not at all, was the reply. My reason for mentioning that subject at all was simply this. That after all I had said to the midshipmen of my views on gouging I had apparently not succeeded in pounding into them the seriousness of it. I told the four class presidents that I considered it such a reflection on this school that if it could not be established here I would find it no honor or satisfaction to remain, as superintendent.

Evidence was given at the morning session tending to show that there was a material difference in the value of information given to midshipmen in class rooms by instructors in various sections pursuing the same course of studies in the modern languages department.

Among the sterling aids is a splendid external remedy known as "Mother's Friend." It is what is called an emollient. It is applied to the abdominal muscles, gently rubbed in by your own hand, guided by your own mind. It makes the muscles pliant, they expand quite naturally and the effect upon the nerves is such that they adjust themselves to the process of expansion so that pain from this source is almost eliminated. Women who use "Mother's Friend" refer to the absence of morning sickness, they are relieved of a great many minor distresses, all appetitions disappear and those peculiar nervous "didgets" no longer disturb the nights. Do you know what it is?

It's caffeine—a poisonous and powerful nerve irritant—about 2 1/2 grains to the cup of coffee.

'Coffee and tea are poisonous drugs. The caffeine they contain is of the same nature as uric acid. They impair digestion and produce various disorders of the nerves.'

'A large percentage of cases of headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and indigestion can be traced directly to coffee.'

THE NAVAL ACADEMY SCANDAL.

Whether or not it is the absence of the honor system at the United States naval academy at Annapolis, there is something lacking in the conduct of an institution that will permit of cheating in examinations, such as that for which seven midshipmen are now on trial before a court of inquiry, with the probability that they will be dismissed.
Likewise, certain instructors and members of the faculty are involved in the scandal growing out of the supplying to students of advance information concerning the questions to be asked in examinations—information which, it is reported, was purchased.

Scandals of this sort are not simply a question of personal delinquency; there is in them a reflection upon the country itself.
If there is one man more than another who is expected to uphold our traditions of national honor, it is our army or navy officer.
He must not only be above suspicion himself, but must display a more than ordinarily keen sense of discrimination between right and wrong, for he may often have delicate situations involving the country to deal with. He must be dependable from the beginning, if he is to be depended upon in circumstances that are critical.

The department has, very properly, shown a disposition to go clear to the bottom of the offense and to take action accordingly.
Along with the midshipmen it is likely several of the teachers will have to go, where they have been involved even in slight degree only. But the good of the service is peremptory; compromise in such cases is dangerous.

We are inclined to agree with those naval officers who see the probable origin of the trouble in the fact that the honor system, such as is found in most higher institutions of learning, has been abandoned at Annapolis. This system, generally speaking, puts each student upon his honor with regard to fairness in recitation and examination in such manner as to bring down upon him the condemnation of the entire student body in case of cheating. The students themselves make out the case against the delinquent, and present it to the faculty with request for such punishment, usually dismissal, as they may deem unquestioned guilt should warrant.

It may be argued against this system that the man of honor will be honorable without it; that it supplants, in some measure, true honor with fear of the disdain of the student body. On the other hand, it is to be remembered that students at Annapolis as well as West Point are still of impressionable age, and it would be difficult to find a stronger inculcating force among them than the student code of honor. It is a force which well meets just such instances as this, and it leaves an impression that isn't forgotten throughout life.

A TRIBUTE TO LABOR.

For the first time in the history of the country a direct tribute is to be paid to labor by the stamping of a representative figure upon a coin issued from the United States mint. There will be issued from the San Francisco mint shortly, it is announced, twenty-five thousand gold dollars commemorative of the Panama exposition held in that city, and the obverse side of this coin will bear the image of the face of a laborer, while on the reverse side will be two dolphins typifying the two oceans.

It is intended that the coin shall be a tribute to labor in a double sense, first in the building of the nation and then in the construction of the Panama canal, which linked the Atlantic with the Pacific. The recognition is peculiarly appropriate. We have professed always a profound admiration for brawn and muscle, intelligently applied, but we have raised few monuments and laid few cornerstones in its honor. It is the substantial underlying foundation of our national prosperity. We pay tribute to agriculture as the original source of our national wealth, but without the laborer where would be the farmer?

It is very well to commemorate heroism and statesmanship upon our coins and treasury notes, but an occasional worthy departure from this established rule will be held appropriate. Nor could better selection for the exception have been made. It will be the greater honor and of more significance in that it is an exception and one which the treasury department has done well in making.

"MADE IN GERMANY."

Perhaps unconsciously in most cases, though there are times when experience may have had something to do with it, many people in this country have become possessed with the idea that the inscription, "Made in Germany," stamped upon an article offered for sale is a guarantee of its excellence or its wearing quality. We see it on socks, for example, and it appeals to us; whether it is because the article is made at a distance or because there is a sub-conscious feeling that it will wear just a little longer than something else offered in competition with it, we buy it with the conviction that we have got something good.

There may be displayed close beside that German sock something equally good or better made in the United States; but we pass it over many times because of the impression that has been made upon us, in some mysterious manner, that the foreign made article possesses superiority of quality.
Nor has the war had much to do with it, except to deplete the market of articles marked "Made in Germany." The impression that has been made in the mind of the purchaser, the consumer, is still there, and if the "Made-in-Germany" article is before him, he will usually select it.

We have done a lot of talking about the psychology of advertising, and have attempted something in that respect; but in the effective application of it the Germans have beaten us to it. They have turned the trick by sheer persistence of the phrase that everybody knows, and which, through familiarity, has become a byword. That is all the mystery there is about it.

Up to the present time American manufacturers have done nothing whatever to counteract the effect of the well-planned and result-getting German campaign. And yet we wonder why we don't get any further with our foreign commerce. We talk about products of equal or better quality than those made abroad, and prices that will put them in competition with the foreign-made article, and still we don't get anywhere.

The inevitable conclusion is that we are lacking in method, in the quality of our salesmanship. The Germans have found the essentials of good salesmanship and are applying them. In fact, the Germans cite jealousy of their commercial ability as one reason why England is making war upon them!

To get to the bottom of the situation,
what we need first is a faith in our own products. Every German is an absolute believer in what is "Made in Germany." If Americans had absolute confidence in homemade goods, that confidence would prove the most substantial foundation for the extension of our trade abroad. It rests with the American manufacturer first to get the confidence of his home people, through undoubted quality and fair price, and he will then have a solid basis upon which to build.

It stands to reason that if our own people are influenced by the "Made in Germany" stamp in favor of the foreign article, the same impression has been created elsewhere, and it is going to be more difficult to influence the foreign buyer in favor of the American product.

We've got to counteract first the far-reaching and effective influence of that "Made in Germany" declaration, and the counteracting process is going to have to begin at home; if we hope to spread forcefully and with achievement the doctrine of the price and quality of American-made goods.

THE WORD OF HOPE.

Simple songs of cheer—songs with heart and hope in them, are popular in London now and have taken the place of more pretentious music. A London exchange says,
"the people have lost the road to Laughtertown," and the following lyric from The British Weekly is perhaps an expression of the common feeling:

Oh, show me the road to Laughtertown,
Where I have lost the way!
I wandered out of the path one day,
When my heart was broken, my hair turned gray.
And I can't remember how to play!
I've quite forgotten how to be gay.
It's all through signing and weeping,
They say.

Only a question of time when we'll have a sufficient number of submarines to protect our battleships.

It's the music that's appealing, Dreams and visions to impart,
Touching sources of all feeling,
Waking echoes in the heart.

It is song which seems unending,
Filling life with sweet unrest,
Bluest skies above him bending
And the blossoms at his breast,
Life to dreams of lost love clinging
As the music drifts along;
Mister Mockingbird is singing,— Heaven and earth dream in the song:
A Strong-hearted Government.
"Since the government broke up my business," said the Georgia moonshiner, "the children haven't had shoes to wear to Sunday meeting; I should think that the sight of a poor man's seventeen children goin' barefoot on the Lord's day would be enough to melt even a strong-hearted government to tears!"

When the Fire's in the Weather.
How kin you reach de hilltop a-feelin' good an' prime W'en Satan's settin' fire ter de worl' befo'
its time?
W'en de rivers steam an' de hills,— Lightnin'-weather all de while,—
An' you weakens in de hot race fo' you ever

How kin you in each season, read yo' titles

An' fix yo' wings fer flyin' w'en you ain't got

A Jolly Tribute.
A new tribute to "The Dixie Watermelon," by Phil H. Armstrong, in The Florida Times-Union:
"The Dixie watermelon—let us halloo Glory
to it.
Jes see it in the corner makin' goo-goo eyes at me.
It seems to say, 'I dare you bust me open wide.
Then poke your face up to your ears in the cool sweet meat inside.
Oh, the Dixie watermelon—how it drips and drips and drips.
It's sweeter than the honey from your sweet-heart's rosy lips.
Oh, fetch along the carvin' knife an' let us have a slice.
Of the Dixie watermelon sugar-sweet an' cold as ice."

The Real Joy.
Colonel George Bailey in The Houston
Post:
"There's no real satisfaction in giving your enemy hell," says Billy Sunday. None whatever; the real joy comes when you can see him catch it himself."

In Mexico.
Judge Lewis sings of the Mexican situation as follows:
"The starving babies cry for bread,
In Mexico.
The morning finds them stark and dead,
In Mexico.
Yet it would be unkind and mean
If the U. S. should intervene
And chase the bandits from the scene,
In Mexico."

Word From Br'er Williams.
I ain't worried 'bout de lan' whar de

De lan' whar de
dearly bread ter de table takes all my time an' attention.

As They See Him.
"The heathen of The Houston Post" is the way the London Times refers to the best paragraph writer in the country.

All in Sight.
De weak saints on de rocky way
Hear harmonious a-bummin'.
Lawsd, give us what we wants today
An' still keep more a-comin'.

Knows His Business.
"You may have to play many parts in life, my son, but you don't have to play the devil," says a Georgia philosopher. "He's equal to performing that task himself, without a flaw in the work."

The Holling World.
Oh, world, roll on to glory
Neath the blue-star-spangled dome,
Tell the angels all our story;
May be, then, they'll ask us Home.

Word by the Wayside.
Love lights the way and Wisdom walks in its light, and Joy is with us whenever the heart's door is open.

Knows What Not to Climb.
(From The Washington Post.)
We don't know whether old Doc Cook is in earnest about climbing Mount Everest, but he did show good judgment in dodging Hill
No. 60.

Too Shrewd for That.
(From The Pittsburg Gazette-Times.)
A German editor is sure Uncle Sam intends to "swallow the Mexicans." He, the old gentleman, is too shrewd for that. He knows they wouldn't agree with him. They can't even agree with each other.

The Holland Letter

Soon after the first of June reports were in circulation that one of the great
of the state-chartered banks was strongly disposed to join the federal reserve bank system. Within a week after the reports were first heard, the directors of the Broadway Trust company voted unanimously to apply for admission to the federal reserve system.
As this institution is one of the larger ones it might be assumed that it is leading the way so that other state-chartered institutions here and elsewhere will speedily make application for membership to the federal reserve system. An inference of that kind, however, cannot fairly be drawn from the action of the Broadway Trust company. There are several reasons why it would be to the special advantage of this institution to be a member of the federal reserve system. It is somewhat peculiarly located and a very rapidly-organized trust company. It now represents one of the latest of those combinations which have made it possible to establish so many large banks, and it took over a number of smaller institutions, one or two of which were located in Brooklyn.

It has sometimes been said that if the contention of the attorney general, Mr. Gregory, which he made in his recent arguments before the supreme court at Washington in the International Harvester case be sound, then the Broadway Trust company and other banks have been organized in defiance of the principle the attorney general advocated.
He claimed in his argument that there was no objection to the size of any corporation provided its growth was from inside, so to speak, not obtained through the purchase and combination of other organizations. But with the exception of the National City bank there is no great banking institution which has not increased strength and resources through purchase of other banks and the absorption of them.

Grew in a Night.
The Broadway Trust company grew in a night almost. Furthermore, its offices are established not in the financial district, but beyond the outskirts of that district, for they in fact face the city hall of New York city. The institution is in affiliation—not in connection—with one of the great national banks, for to a considerable extent the same interest controls both. The institution since its organization has been identified with one of the great mercantile houses of the country, which has gained large resources and an income of millions by the establishment throughout the country and in other parts of the world of retail shops in which articles costing not more than 10 cents are sold for 25 cents. It may be said that the special advantage of an institution thus affiliated with a very large mercantile house and one, too, whose business reaches all over the United States to become associated with the federal reserve system. Any banker can see how such membership might be of peculiar advantage to an institution of this kind.
In fact, the president of the institution, Federick G. Lee, has spoken with enthusiasm of the advantages not only for his own institution but for other state-chartered institutions, which the federal reserve system offers.

Mr. Lee is likely to find his name at the head of the list of great state banks which became members of the federal reserve system. Anything that he may say is heard or read by other bankers with respect, for he
has gained high reputation in his comparatively brief service as president of a large bank. President Lee has been a member of the public and, it may be, not many of the state bankers fully realize of how great value the rediscount privilege which is one of the chief features of the federal reserve system. There are some bankers from other parts of the country who are officers of state-chartered institutions who agree with President Lee, and reports have recently come to this city from California that some of the largest of the state banks there are likely to be speedily to be numbered in the federal reserve membership.

Lewis E. Pierson.
With Mr. Lee is associated as a member of the same banking family Lewis E. Pierson, who, although only 45 years of age, has gained before he retired, some three years ago, from his presidency of the federal reserve system. Anything that he may say is heard or read by other bankers with respect, for he
has gained high reputation in his comparatively brief service as president of a large
bank. President Lee has been a member of the public and, it may be, not many of the

chartered institutions who agree with President Lee, and reports have recently come to

He retained, however, his interest and influence in the bank and also in the Broadway Trust company. He is chairman of the assumed chairman of his bank, and he is finance committee of the trust company would not have made application for membership to the federal reserve system had not Mr. Pierson strongly advised action of that kind.

What Would Be the Effect.
This decision, however, seems not to have immediately influenced any of the other state-chartered institutions. It now seems likely that a long time will have elapsed before state-chartered institutions come in any considerable numbers into federal reserve membership. It is worthy of note, however, that the advantages are recognized.

It is more likely that the other state institutions will wait until they can form a good judgment respecting the effect upon the trust company of its membership in the federal reserve system. Nevertheless, it is an opinion commonly held here that ultimately, possibly after the federal reserve system has been modified or perfected, a majority of the state institutions in all the states will be in membership with this system. HOLLAND.

RIPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.
THE SUMMER TASK.
The days grow hot, and we must swat, with energy unceasing; yea, we must rise and soak the files, to keep them from increasing.
If we pass by a single fly, it soon will rear
a million, and they will raise, in summer, four hundred thousand billion.
And they'll produce, while running loose,
such swarms of filthy critters, such hosts of flies, they'll hide the skies—so let us, not be quick-ing,
Go forth and swat in humble coil, and in the lordly palace swat left and right, keep up the fight, until you break a gallus.
Strike stalwart blows, and crush the foe,
and later you will rue it, and I'll sit here throughout the year, and tell you how to do it.
I have the keys to lay to chase you down, while you the files are potting, I'll praise your zeal with gladsome spell, but I'm too fat for swatting. I'll urge you on from golden dawn until night's shades are falling, but I'll award no ivy cup at the Glendale festival of flowers and fruits for wisdom, my acts are mostly stalling.

EXPERT SAYS EMORY UNIVERSITY
SITE ONE OF BEST IN COUNTRY

That the proposed site of Emory university which has landscape possibilities for making one of the most pleasing university sites in the country was the enthusiastic belief of Professor Henry Hornbostel, the widely known architect recently obtained to construct the plans for Emory, after he made a survey of the tract of land in Druid Hills yesterday in company with Bishop Candier and others.

Only a tentative scheme has thus far been mapped out for the university group of buildings by Professor Hornbostel and he does not expect to arrange his ideas into a concrete conception until after much study of the location and consultations with the trustees and faculty.

"The proposed site of the university," said Professor Hornbostel, "furnishes one of the most charming positions to place a group of collegiate buildings in the country. The two rivers which converge within what shall be called the campus will furnish a distinctly parklike setting. The nearby railroad may be so employed in the scheme that it will be far from a disadvantage to have a large quantity of material necessary. I am specially pleased that the granite and other structural material is so close at hand for selection.

Professor Hornbostel will address the Emory trustees tonight at a luncheon Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, when he will discuss "University Plans." Dr. Hornbostel, who is dean of the School of Applied Science, Carnegie Technical Institute, Pittsburgh, has made a specialty of the architecture of university buildings for years. He drew up the plans for the institute as well as the plans for the Northwestern university, Chicago, and the University of California, all of which are widely known for their beauty of architectural design.

HELLAS.
The world's great age begins anew,
The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
Her winter weeds outworn;
Heaven smiles, and faiths and empires gleam
Like wrecks of a dissolving dream.

A brighter Hellas rears its mountains
From waves serene and far;
A new Peloponnesus bows its mountains Against the morning star;
Where fatter Tempe blooms, there sleep
Young Cyclopes at a sunnier deep.

A loftier Argo cleaves the main,
Fraught with a later prize;
Another Orpheus sings again,
And loves, and weeps, and dies;
A new Ulysses leaves once more Calypsso for his native shore.

THE PATRIOT'S DREAM

(Translated by Wallace Rice, in The New York Times.)
(This sonnet, by the late Edmondo de Amicis, is learned by every Italian school child. It expresses the fervor of Italian patriotism, now newly awakened.)
Ever when thought of death takes fire in me My burning eyes envision clear this dream:
A mighty plain with blooming hills;
supreme.
Encircling these, the Piedmont range I see;
The roof of heaven above strikes finally.
'Twinkling with steel, with banners bright that gleam
Along the winds, that angry mountain stream
My country's war-host rolls, splendid and free!

GLACIERS.
By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slivak."

A glacier is a large collection of tourist ice.
Glaciers do not cross the ocean, but stick to the land. They are found in mountains along with mountain goats, edelweiss, slides, avalanches, chutes and other phenomena. The glacier, however, is larger than any of these.
It is even larger than the rich traveler who acts as if he was renting the country with his room at the hotel—and it is almost as large as the said rich traveler's bill when he leaves. The hotel proprietor gets his turn to be impressive.

The glacier originates in the upper regions of eternal snow. This snow had no chance to melt and as more snow keeps falling all the time it finally gets so thick that
ice. When a valley has been filled with ice the whole mass begins to slide majestically down hill. When it reaches the torrid zone where the tourist pays his hotel bill the lower end of the glacier melts off and forms a river while more snow crowds in behind the upper end and makes more glacier.

Some glaciers are a mile wide and many miles long. They are also a thousand feet thick. Most glaciers are in a very poor state of preservation and have crevasses. A crevasse is a narrow crack about ten feet wide and a few hundred feet deep. When the tourist steps into a crevasse he usually stays there until the glacier carries him down to its terminus and delivers him into the final state of preservation about forty-nine years of age.

The most remarkable thing about the glacier is its motion. A glacier does not make as much noise as a 19-year-old boy running his father's automobile, but it gets the upper end and makes more noise. Forward movement, which nothing can stop—not even a federal judge with an injunction. Still it is not hard to dodge a glacier. A moderately active man can keep out of its way. The

A relentless forward movement which nothing can stop—not even a federal judge with an injunction.
Most arctic glaciers move about an inch an hour. The amount it must be to live in Switzerland and to come down week after week to wave goodbye to a personal friend who is taking a trip on a glacier.
Millions of years ago most of the world was covered with glaciers and the only day as far as New York city. These happy days have gone, however, and the New Yorker who wants ice has to tip the ice man for carrying 100 pounds of it up four flights between his thumb and forefinger.

the most perfect infant in the "better baby" contest.
Unceasing prayer, both before and after birth, is responsible for the "perfection" of Joseph Lester Sturdevant, according to his father, Mr. Sturdevant says that neither he nor his wife take any credit to themselves for the winning ability of their sturdy little youngster.
"I do not believe in getting better babies by luck," he said, as his 100 per cent bundle of perfection clasped the silver loving cup to his baby's breast.
"Let me attribute my success to the blessing of God and prayer. If parents would pray faithfully, all babies would be perfect, even as is ours."

Nearly 150 babies entered the contest, the first ever held in Glendale, but Mr. Sturdevant's "prayer baby" won the contest hands down.

HIS OWN WEATHER PROPHECY.
(From The Wall Street Journal.)
Near one of the New Jersey suburban towns is a particularly fine truck garden, through which runs a system of water pipes, elevated on standards. The pipes are perforated at regular intervals, and when, in the sultry June and July days, the neighboring gardens are parching under the sun, the owner of the aerial irrigation plant simply turns on the water and watches his vegetables flourish as the green bay tree.

According to the story current in the neighborhood, the farmer's artificial showers are "all velvet," the water costing him nothing. When the water company was seeking rights-of-way through the garden plot of the vicinity, the owner of the garden was approached for permission to lay pipes through his land.
"Certainly," he acquiesced. "Cost? Oh, I won't charge you anything. Just fix it up so you can get water from your pipes, and we'll call it square."

So the sprinklers were installed and the owner of the truck garden can now predict a shower with unerring accuracy.

ANOTHER BABY PROBLEM.

(From The New York Sun.)
The number of births in London is said to have decreased by 500 a day. The British empire and only 42 Moslems were slain seems to a worthy successor of the original

Quotations Show Importance of America as Temporary Center of World Finance.

New York, June 15.—The prominence and importance of this country as a temporary center of world finance was again demonstrated today.

Demand sterling declined to 47 3/8 on checks on Paris, and to 45 3/4 on the English pound and French franc in this country.

On the bourse today an English pound shows a depreciation of 2 per cent and francs are at a discount of almost 4 per cent.

Amsterdam was the only foreign market to manifest any degree of stability in fact owing to the purchase of bills on Holland by local bankers.

There is an increasing realization that rates of exchange between New York and all leading European cities must inevitably suffer further depreciation.

RATES OF EXCHANGE DROP TO LOW MARKS

Quotations Show Importance of America as Temporary Center of World Finance.

New York, June 15.—The prominence and importance of this country as a temporary center of world finance was again demonstrated today.

Demand sterling declined to 47 3/8 on checks on Paris, and to 45 3/4 on the English pound and French franc in this country.

On the bourse today an English pound shows a depreciation of 2 per cent and francs are at a discount of almost 4 per cent.

Amsterdam was the only foreign market to manifest any degree of stability in fact owing to the purchase of bills on Holland by local bankers.

There is an increasing realization that rates of exchange between New York and all leading European cities must inevitably suffer further depreciation.
