

The Defense Center of the Trial of Leo M. Frank

From a photograph and crayon sketch by Louis Gregg. Near the center is Leo Frank, the defendant, with glasses. At his back is his wife, and to his left, near the judge's stand, is his mother—all three eagerly facing the jury. Luther Rosser, to the left, looks over the bended head of his associate attorney for the defense, Reuben Arnold, who is taking notes. The lifelikeness of the scene is caught in the attitude of the man with his hand to his ear in the foreground.