

FROM LEO M. FRANK.

Good Wishes from the Prisoner to Whom New Year Has Brought Hope.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In assuring you of my deep appreciation of the stand you have taken in my case, for the cause of justice, may I not extend to you my heartiest good wishes for a Happy New Year?

I feel that a more thorough understanding of the issues in this case among the people throughout the United States has been brought about to a great extent by the space you so kindly have given to it.

I am naturally gratified at the outcome of Mr. Marshall's presentation of our appeal to Justice Lamar, and am luxuriating in the atmosphere of my first victory.

With every good wish, in which Mrs. Frank and my parents join me, I am,

LEO M. FRANK.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 1, 1915.

The New York Times

Published: January 5, 1915

Copyright © The New York Times