

DECISION ON FRANK IS EXPECTED TODAY

Atlanta Hears Prison Commission
Will Make a Report Favorable to the Prisoner.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 8.—The Prison Commission will make its report to Governor Slaton on the Leo Frank case some time tomorrow, according to an announcement made this afternoon. It was currently reported at the Capitol that the commission had decided to recommend commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment.

Should the commission make its report in the morning, counsel for the convicted man will appear immediately before Governor Slaton and request him to give them a hearing at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. They will then present an appeal in Frank's behalf with possibly new petitions and new data.

Governor Slaton will inform Solicitor Dorsey of the commission's finding, and give him an opportunity to protest against the appeal for commutation. The Solicitor has asked the Governor to permit him to present "certain facts and matters." It is understood that these "certain facts and matters" will relate to the letter written by the late Judge Roan in Frank's behalf and also statements credited to two of the prison Commissioners.
